Commissioner of Education

DEAR SIR: I have the honor to transmit herewith and recommend for publication the Van Rensselaer Bowier Manuscripts which have been translated by, or under the direction of, Mr van Laer, Archivist of the State Library, who has edited the entire work.

These manuscripts are of great importance in connection with the early history of the Dutch colonies in New York State and especially of Albany and vicinity. Their publication in translation should be of interest not only to historical students generally but also to every native New Yorker who has any curiosity concerning the historic origins of the State.

Very respectfully

EDWIN H. ANDERSON

Director

COMMISSIONER'S ROOM

These documents constitute very satisfactory primary evidence of many of the doings of the Dutch authorities; of Kiliaen van Rensselaer, the patroon, and of the settlers of the Hudson river valley, particularly that part in the neighborhood of Albany, in the thirty years following the beginning of the year 1629. Their particular value is not in the fact that they tell us what the history writers think the first settlers of our State did, but in the fact that the chief actor, the man who dealt with the first settlers, tells us about the everyday matters which the bookmakers have not thought of sufficient public interest to search out and print. The original documents were found in Holland. There is no lack of both external and internal evidence of authenticity and the fact that they have been translated and arranged by, or under the personal direction of, Mr Arnold J. F. van Laer, the Archivist of the State Library, leaves no room for doubt of their accuracy as here presented. The State of New York can well afford to publish such a collection of interesting historical documents. A happy incident connected therewith appears in the fact that the committee of the Board of Regents who arranged with the owners of these papers for their publication was composed of two direct descendants of early settlers of the régime concerned, viz, Dr Albert Vander Veer and Mr Robert C. Pruyn, now much respected residents of the city of Albany. Publication at a time when elaborate preparations are being made for celebrating the three hundredth anniversary of the discovery of the Hudson river is both opportune and timely.

VAN RENSSELAER BOWIER MANUSCRIPTS

TRANSLATED AND EDITED BY

A. J. F. van Laer, Archivist

INTRODUCTION

The present work contains translations of a collection of manuscripts which on examination will prove one of the most valuable sources of information for the history of early Dutch settlement in the state of New York. The collection comprises a great variety of papers, including journals of voyages, deeds, leases, contracts, accounts and inventories of cattle; but the most important item is a volume containing copies of letters, memorials and instructions written between the years 1630 and 1643 by Kiliaen van Rensselaer, the founder of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, to his colonists, to officials of the West India Company, to his copartners and to the States General. Nearly all the papers relate primarily to the establishment and the early development of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, but incidentally they touch on many matters relating to settlement in other parts of the province of New Netherland as well.

History of the manuscripts. The papers have been handed down in the Holland branch of the van Rensselaer family and are at present owned by Jonkheer H. J. J. van Rensselaer Bowier and Jonkheer M. W. M. M. van Rensselaer Bowier, the surviving sons of the late Vice Admiral van Rensselaer Bowier, who inherited the papers from his mother, Sara van Rensselaer, the last of the name in Holland.

The first person to use the papers for historical purposes was Mr Nicolaas de Roever, late archivist of the city of Amsterdam, to whose prolific pen and keen interest in matters pertaining to 17th century Dutch history so many valuable articles are due. Mr de Roever learned of the existence of the papers in 1888 and in 1890 published in Oud Holland, a periodical devoted to the history of Dutch art, literature and industry of which he was the editor, a few of the most important documents, as appendixes to two articles on Kiliaen van Rensselaer en zijne kolonie Rensselaerswijck, which in narrative form give a summary of the contents of the papers up to 1641. Other articles were to follow, but owing to Mr de Roever's death were not written. The articles appear to have attracted attention in this country about 1896. They contained much that was either new or at variance with long accepted notions as to events in the early days of the colony and hence aroused curiosity as to the extent of the collection and the nature of the material which remained unpublished. In 1902, Miss Ruth Putnam made a special trip to Holland to investigate the matter, and on her return gave an account of her experiences in the November number of the Bibliographer. It proved that the papers, shortly after the death of Mr de Roever in 1893, had been returned to the family and in 1895 were loaned by an elder brother of the present owners, since deceased, to a friend by the name of J. F. Pieters, who took the papers to America and there, assuming the name of Pieters van Wely, attempted to dispose of them at private sales. Mr Pieters however did not succeed and finally, leaving the papers in the hands of Mr George Waddington of New York, returned to Holland, where he shortly after died. Efforts were made by the van Rensselaer Bowier family to recover the papers from his widow but not sufficiently pressed to disclose where the papers had been left and for some years nothing more was heard of them. In January 1903, the present editor learned from the late Mr John V. L. Pruyn that manuscripts of doubtful origin, relating to the colony of Rensselaerswyck and going by the name of van Wely papers had been left in the hands of his friend Mr Waddington. Concluding that these must be the missing van Rensselaer Bowier papers to which Miss Putnam had just called attention, he secured through Mr Pruyn permission to examine the papers at the State Library and, by comparison with the documents published by Mr de Roever, removed all doubt as to their identity. The fact was reported to Mr Waddington and his permission obtained to communicate with Mrs van Rensselaer Bowier, the widow of the late admiral. It so happened that just then Mrs Bowier and her youngest son were on their way to make a brief visit to this country. They were expected to stay a few days with Mrs Alan H. Strong, of New Brunswick, N. J., and news of the whereabouts of the papers was sent to them there. The owners immediately reprieved the papers but, finding that no one intended to contest their claims, abandoned further legal action and entered into the following amicable agreement with the Regents of the University of the State of New York:

AN AGREEMENT entered into July 29, 1903 between John De Witt Peltz of Albany, N. Y., representing Hugo Jan Jacob Van Rensselaer-Bowier and Marten Wilhelmus Marius Magdalus Van Rensselaer-Bowier, and the Board of Regents of the University of the State of New York, concerning the custody, use and disposition of certain documents and papers obtained by Mr Arnold J. F. van Laer from one Waddington of New York City which have been the subject of litigation in the Supreme Court in Albany county.

First. It is agreed that the documents above referred to shall be translated and published as a bulletin by the Regents of the University, together with so much of the original as the library committee may deem desirable, together with Mrs Strong's translation of the unfinished DeRoever printed articles relating to these documents with a preface by Mrs Strong, but such translation and preface shall be subject to the revision and approval of the library committee of the Regents before publication.

Second. Mrs Strong shall be permitted to copyright her translation and preface before publication by the State, if it can be done under the laws of the State and rules of the Board of Regents.

Third. Mrs Strong and the Messrs Van Rensselaer-Bowier shall each receive free of charge 25 copies of the completed work, being 50 copies in all.

Fourth. The original documents shall be left in the custody of the Regents until February 1, 1904, for the purpose of the translation and publication above referred to and for no other purpose, and shall then be returned to John De Witt Peltz, Esq., as representative of the owners.

Fifth. This agreement shall not be valid until it receives the written approval of Mrs Strong.

JNO DEWITT PELTZ
ROBERT C. PRUYN } Committee of ALBERT VANDER VEER } the Regents

I hereby approve the above agreement.

SUSAN DE LANCEY VAN RENSSELAER STRONG

No. 13, 15, 17, four documents in 18, 23, 25-29, 36, 38, 50-52 and 54 of the above list were accompanied by recent transcripts apparently made for Mr Nicolaas de Roever.

Judging from a statement by Miss Putnam, that "not even a stray sheet relating to the American colony of Rensselaerwyck" was found among the papers which she examined at Amsterdam, it is probable that the above listed papers include all the documents used by Mr de Roever with the exception of four, namely: the Protest to the West India Company, April 27, 1634, and the Examination of Bastiaen Jansz Krol, June 30, 1634, both printed in Oud Holland; the Certificate of purchase, August 13, 1630, now in the hands of the Hon. John Boyd Thacher; and the Journal of a trip to the Senecas, in 1634, which is apparently the same as the document secured by Gen. James Grant Wilson at Amsterdam in 1895, and printed by him under the erroneous title of "Arent van Curler and his Journal of 1634-35."

Translations. Of the papers received from Mr Waddington transcripts were at once made and the originals, in accordance with the agreement, returned to Mr Peltz as representative of the owners on February 1, 1904. The work of translation was thereupon begun and the present volume is the result. It contains in chronologic order complete translations of the papers received and, by way of introduction, translations of Mr de Roever's articles, furnished by Mrs Strong, whose connection with the work is explained in a separate preface. It is fair to say these latter translations and those of the documents given by Mr de Roever as appendixes, which were also furnished by Mrs Strong and are printed in their proper chronologic place, have been carefully revised by the editor, who has introduced such changes as he deemed necessary and must therefore be held solely responsible for whatever errors are found in them. A few discrepancies between the translations of these appendixes and the text as printed in Oud Holland are due to the fact that this text does not always exactly follow the original but words have been omitted or misread and headings have been changed to conform to a general style of editing. In all such cases the translation has been made to agree with the original.

The original plan was to print the entire body of manuscripts both in Dutch and English but a more careful examination of the nature and condition of the papers soon made it evident that no such elaborate treatment was required or even desirable. One reason for this is that the prolixity of the patroon and the repetition of the same matters in letters to different individuals, make one feel the need for condensation rather than for duplication of the material; another reason is that the very repetitions afford in themselves opportunity for verification of the statements made; and yet a third, that the copies in the Letter Book, which contain many errors and frequently continue for pages without punctuation, make difficult reading which would benefit none but the most expert in the Dutch language and therefore not warrant the great expense of printing involved. These statements however do not apply to the documents concerning the organization and internal management of the West India Company nor to the charter of Freedoms and Exemptions; these are printed at the beginning of the present work and, on account of the importance of each article, the difficulty of interpretation always connected with law, and the fact that other translations differing materially from the present have been printed before, it has seemed desirable to give the Dutch text as well as the translation. As shown in the footnotes to these documents, neither the charter of the West India Company nor its amplifications nor the Agreement between the directors and chief participants are found among the Van Rensselaer Bowier manuscripts. They have been included because a knowledge of their contents is essential to the correct understanding of certain allusions in the patroon's writings and because no satisfactory translations were available elsewhere.

In regard to the preparation of this work it may be said that correctness of interpretation has been the chief aim of the translation and that occasional awkwardness of construction must be ascribed to the impossibility of making smooth and idiomatic English out of the unusually involved and clumsy passages which occur in the original. Phrases that were in any way obscure or that seemed particularly important have been cited in footnotes. Names of persons have been given as in the original, including apparent designations of trade or place of origin, in order that the reader might have the benefit of the entire form as it occurs. From this rule depart the names in Mr de Roever's articles, which are printed in Oud Holland with a comma between the patronymic and the preposition van, as RUTGER HENDRIKSZ, van Soest, and which for this reason have been given in the present work by translating van into from, as Rutger Hendriksz, from Soest. Italics have been used throughout to indicate that the spelling of a word follows the original, the only exception to this rule being the word commis, which is written also as commies, commijs, commys and comys, but for which it seemed desirable to adopt a standard form. This term commis, when used in the sense of agent, whether in the colony, at the fort or elsewhere, but not when used in the sense of supercargo of a vessel, has been retained only after considerable hesitation and because no satisfactory English term seemed available. O'Callaghan, Brodhead and other writers have translated it as commissary, which is not bad when understood in the sense of a person having charge of stores or provisions, except for the fact that it creates confusion because the same word has been used by these writers and by the early English colonial governors in their official instructions to render the Dutch term commissaris, applying to the magistrates of the local court at Albany. The term commis has distinctly a commercial flavor and the fact that the commisen in the colony of Rensselaerswyck and at Fort Orange had also, and necessarily, a certain measure of administrative power does not alter the circumstance that they were primarily trading agents. The term factor comes perhaps nearest to it, but is objectionable because it literally corresponds to the Dutch term factor which is not used in connection with the colonial establishments in New Netherland. Wishing to avoid the confusion of the term commissary, and not thinking it advisable to introduce the word factor, the best solution seemed to be to retain the word commis. Strictly speaking, the word commis need not have been italicized any more than schout, schepens and other Dutch terms which occur in the text but, inasmuch as the term commis was a new feature in English rendering of New Netherland terminology, it seemed best to make this exception and give the reader the benefit of knowing in each case which was the particular word used in the original.

Historical value. The value of the Van Rensselaer Bowier manuscripts as an historical source lies in the authenticity of the information conveyed no less than in the circumstance that for part of the period covered they are, with the exception of a few land patents, some extracts from the records of the States General and the meager accounts in de Laet, Wassenaer and de Vries, the only available material for the history, not only of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, but of settlement in other parts of New Netherland as well. The papers consist for the greater part of the writings of the man who for the first 16 years of the life of the colony managed its affairs from his home at Amsterdam and contain therefore first-hand information as to the plan and motive of the successive steps taken in building up the settlement which has played such a conspicuous part in the development of the province. The letters of Kiliaen van Rensselaer antedate by four years the earliest business accounts and by 13 years the earliest administrative records that have been preserved among papers of the Van Rensselaer family in this country, cited by previous writers and in the present work as the Rensselaerswyck manuscripts, and from the nature of the case contain much about conditions in the colony that was hitherto either unknown or imperfectly understood. It is true that the papers inform us about the patroon's intentions as to what should be done, rather than about what actually took place, but on the whole a very satisfactory insight into the gradual development of the colony is afforded. Nothing is more interesting than to trace the growth of the settlement from feeble beginnings to a large and flourishing estate; to watch the increase of population, the multiplication of trades, the extension of duties and powers of administrative officers and the final organization of a system of local government which is unique in the history of the province. With respect to all these matters the present papers furnish information which is completely at variance with the statements about the establishment of the colony made by O'Callaghan and the numerous other writers whose accounts may be traced back to his. In reading these accounts one receives the impression that with the exception of the district of Papscanee practically all the land included in the later manor of Rensselaerswyck, situated on both sides of the river and covering a tract 24 miles long by 48 miles wide, was bought as early as 1630; that the same year no less than 20 settlers came over; that immediately a fully organized court with Jacob Albertsz Planck as schout was established and that, also in 1630, Arent van Curler took up his duties of commissary-general or superintendent of the colony. The papers printed in this volume show that nothing of the sort took place. Nearly all the land of the colony, till the purchase of Papscanee in 1637, was on the west side of the river; and instead of all being bought in 1630, a part was not bought till May 1631. Instead of 20 settlers, but ten sailed for the colony in 1630, and no schout or magistrates were appointed till 1632, it being moreover doubtful whether the first schout, Rutger Hendricksz van Soest, ever took the oath and held court. As to Jacob Albertsz Planck, he did not become schout of the colony till 1634, and Arent van Curler, then 18 years of age, was sent out as his assistant in 1637. The truth of the matter is that the contentions between Kiliaen van Rensselaer and the West India Company regarding the right to the fur trade and the various difficulties laid in the way of transportation of cattle and implements by members of the board of directors who were opposed to the policy of agricultural colonization so impeded the progress of settlement that, in 1634, the patroon was quite ready to abandon the entire enterprise if the Company would pay him the price asked. The uncertainty which existed regarding the prospects of the colony is strikingly illustrated by the entire absence of letters for the year 1633; at the end of 1634 matters seem to have been adjusted and from that time the affairs of the colony moved steadily forward. By 1636 three farms had been established and the patroon made arrangements to send a large number of colonists by a ship equipped at the joint expense of himself and Gerard de Forest. This increase in the population soon made it necessary to make more ample provision for the administration of the colony. Planck held the office of schout as well as that of com-mis, thus combining the chief judicial and executive office with the business management of the colony. In neither capacity was he particularly successful and in 1639 the patroon decided to make a change. Not finding it easy to induce "people of capacity," as he calls them, to accept his propositions, he for the time being entrusted judicial and business matters to the joint care of three ge-committeerden, or commissioners, namely, Arent van Curler, Pieter Cornelisz van Munnickendam and Cornelis Teunisz van Breuckelen, who exercised their functions till the arrival of Adriaen van der Donck in 1641. Van der Donck acted in the capacity of schout till 1646, when he was succeeded by Nicolaes Coorn, who in turn was replaced in 1648 by Brant van Slichtenhorst, the first director of the colony. Among the Rensselaerswyck manuscripts has been preserved a complete record of the court presided over by van Slichtenhorst till April 10, 1652, when Director General Stuyvesant established in Fort Orange a court of justice for the village of Beverwyck, independent of that in Rensselaerswyck; for the study of the powers and duties of the officers that preceded van Slichtenhorst, we must fall back on the instructions contained in the present papers, which on that account have especial value.

It may here be said in passing that the court of the colony, while it existed till 1665, when Gov. Nicolls consolidated the courts of Albany and Rensselaerswyck, had apparently rarely if ever occasion to try cases after 1652, when the principal settlement of the colony was erected into a village with separate jurisdiction, and that at a later date, when the Dutch patroonship had been changed to an English manor, the practice of referring cases to the court at Albany had become so firmly established that the lords of the manor never seem to have cared to exercise their right to hold court leet and court baron, granted them by the Dongan patent of 1685. The question whether this right was actually exercised or not is of peculiar interest because it was one of the most distinct survivals of the feudal privileges for which the first patroon at all times fought so tenaciously.

The letters of Kiliaen van Rensselaer break off abruptly in 1643. As already intimated above the patroon lived till 1646, and it is likely therefore that another letter book, containing accounts of transactions between these two dates was at one time in existence. That no such book is available is especially regrettable because the year 1643 marks an interesting period in the history of the colony when owing to the fur trading privileges granted by the second charter of Freedoms and Exemptions many people flocked to the colony and the patroon was obliged to issue the most vigorous instructions to maintain his rights. Such a book would therefore not only have shown us the effect of these instructions but doubtless also have given us more definite information than we now possess about the closing years of the administration of Adriaen van der Donck and have thrown light on the relative importance of the settlement on the east side of the river where the patroon intended that all mechanics should dwell and the first church should be erected.

New Netherland history. Among matters found in the papers that are of interest outside of the local affairs of the colony may be mentioned the fact that Pavonia was bought by the Company as early as 1634, and not as is generally believed in 1637; the new light thrown on Peter Minuit whose contract for the sale of cattle, entirely in his own handwriting and in good Dutch though with distinctly German spelling, is found in the Letter Book; side lights on the administration of Wouter van Twiller and Willem Kieft, to whom the patroon addresses a number of letters; the fact that Hendrick de Forest, the supposed founder of the town of Harlem, did not, as stated by Riker, arrive in the fall of 1636, but in the spring of 1637; the confirmation of the tradition concerning the origin of the name of Storm van der Zee, the eldest son of Albert Andriesz Bradt; and the fact that Bastiaen Jansz Krol was director general of New Netherland from March 1632 to April 1633, between the administrations of Peter Minuit and Wouter van Twiller.

Kiliaen van Rensselaer. To many people the biographical interest which attaches to the writings of Kiliaen van Rensselaer will seem one of the most valuable features of the collection. These writings indeed reveal in a striking way the personality of the man who figures prominently in the history of colonization as the founder of the only successful patroonship that ever existed in New Netherland, but of whom beyond the fact that he managed this patroonship and that he was a merchant and director of the West India Company hitherto practically nothing was known. The letters show the patroon in his relations to people of every degree, to men in important official positions and to his subordinates in the colony, to his copartners and to his various young relatives who owed their position to his influence; they therefore afford abundant opportunity for displaying his qualities of heart as well as his views regarding the questions of policy of government of the province and the immediate management of the colony. Not the least interesting for a view of the patroon's characteristics and the spirit in which he ruled the colony will be found the letters of 1640 and 1641, in which he explains to his copartners his idea of the patroonship and tenaciously resists all infringements of the rights conferred on him by the charter of Freedoms and Exemptions of which he appears to have been one of the principal framers. The question has been raised occasionally whether the first patroon ever came to this country. The present letters show beyond the possibility of doubt that Kiliaen van Rensselaer did not visit his colony in person between 1630 and 1643, and the records preserved among the Rensselaerswyck manuscripts make it equally certain that he did not do so between the last named date and his death in 1646. It would have been appropriate to add a portrait to this voluminous collection of writings of the first patroon, but unfortunately none is known to exist, that which is occasionally represented as his likeness being clearly of about a century later than the time of the patroon.

List of settlers. In view of the incompleteness of the list of settlers of the colony of Rensselaerswyck furnished by Mr de Roe-ver, who had access to the Van Rensselaer Bowier manuscripts only, and the many errors in the similar list published by O'Callaghan, whose researches were confined to the Rensselaerswyck manuscripts, it has seemed worth while to prepare from the two sources named an entirely new list, which should adequately illustrate the growth of the colony and furnish a reliable means of identification of the persons mentioned in the present papers. This list will be found at the end of the volume. It covers the period of settlement up to 1658, when the papers in the volume strictly relating to Rens-selaerswyck cease. The list gives in brief form as far as they could be ascertained the principal data as to name, date of arrival, occupation and place of origin of each individual settler and throws much new light on the large proportion of elements other than Dutch that entered into the population of the colony.

Map of Rensselaerswyck. Frequent references in the patroon's writings to streams and tracts of land in the colony which are no longer known by their former names, made it seem useful to add to the present work a photographic reproduction of an early map of Rensselaerswyck on which these topographical features can be located. The original is among the Rensselaerswyck manuscripts. It is a manuscript map on parchment, 22½ by 70 inches in size, and represents the land along the Hudson River from Barren Island, just south of Coeymans, to the mouth of the Mohawk. Lithographic copies of the map have been published in Moulton's History of New York, O'Callaghan's History of New Netherland and in Munsell's Annals of Albany. The map is without date or maker's name. On the strength of an entry of the payment by Kiliaen van Rensselaer of six rixdollars to "Gillis van Schendel, for one map on parchment and four ditto on paper, of the islands and other tillable lands situated in my colony," occurring under date of February 8, 1630, in a copy of an account among the Rensselaerswyck manuscripts, the map is commonly ascribed to Gillis van Schendel and to the year 1630, but as an inscription on the map refers to the purchase of land from Beeren Island to Smacks Island, which took place in 1631, it is evident that the entry of the payment must either have been placed under the wrong date or else refer to another map. Statements by Kiliaen van Rensselaer in a letter to Johannes de Laet, June 27, 1632, in a memorandum to Wouter van Twiller, July 20, 1632, and in a letter of same date to Dirck Cornelisz Duyster indicate that the map was probably executed in Holland, shortly after July 20, 1632, from rough drafts and surveys of different parts of the colony furnished at various times by Philips Jansz van Haerlem, Crijn Fredericksz and Albert Dieteerinck. Of these men very little is known. Philips Jansz van Haerlem is mentioned by David Pietersz de Vries, in his Korte Historiae, p. 142, as a young man whom he engaged in June 1635 to pilot his vessel from Sandy Hook to New Amsterdam and who formerly had been in his service in the East Indies. Crijn Fredericksz is mentioned in Nicolaes van Wassenaer, Historisch Verhael, vol. 3, part 12, p. 37b, under date of November 1626, as an engineer who staked out the fort at New Amsterdam. Albert Dieterinck appears to have been commis at Fort Orange.

A few features of the map call for special mention. The scale to which the map purports to be drawn is  $16\frac{7}{8}$  inches to the Dutch mile, or  $3\frac{5}{8}$  inches to the English mile. This makes the distance from Beeren Island to Moenemin's Castle, which on the original map is equal to  $67\frac{1}{2}$  inches, exactly 4 Dutch miles, or the extent of territory allowed on one side of a navigable river by the fifth article of the charter of Freedoms and Exemptions. As a matter of fact, however, the distance between these two points is not 4 Dutch miles, or 18.44 English miles, but about  $22\frac{1}{2}$  miles, so that the actual scale of the map is only 3 inches to the mile. The central and lower portions of the river are fairly accurately drawn, but the upper part is wrong. Especially puzzling is the wide creek designated as Renselaers Kill, which would seem to represent the Mohawk River but does not occupy the right position. Perhaps the most plausible explanation of this error is that the compiler, at about that point, joined two separate maps and, from his unfamiliarity with the topography of the locality, failed to connect the south branch of the Mohawk, indicated on the one map at the falls, with the outlet marked on the other map, and then, from some statement regarding the direction of the river, continued this outlet straight into the country. It will be noticed that of most creeks only the mouths are indicated and that of others, which are traced for some distance into the country, the direction bears as a rule no relation to the configuration of the ground, which was probably sketched in from some high point after the survey of the shore line and the islands had been completed. Up to 1636, but three farms existed in the colony. The castles faintly shown near the names of Godijns Burg, Renselaers Burg, De Laets Burg, etc. represent therefore no actual settlements, but merely indicate the places where the patroon intended that farms should be established. At the time the map was drawn, the land bought for the colony of Rensselaerswyck was almost entirely limited to that on the west side of the river; all that was owned on the east side was a small tract opposite Fort Orange. Curiously enough, the name Rensselaerswyck has been so placed as to cover exactly this territory belonging to the colony.

The names Bijlaers Dael, Weelijs Dael, Twillers Dael and Pafraets Dael, given to the respective districts on both sides of the river, above and below Fort Orange, commemorate the names of Kiliaen van Rensselaer's first wife, Hillegonda van Bijlaer; of his second wife, Anna van Wely; of his only sister Maria, wife of Rijckaert van Twiller and mother of Wouter van Twiller; and of his mother, Maria Pafraet.

For permission to reproduce the map, the editor is indebted to Mr William Bayard Van Rensselaer.

In closing, the editor wishes to state that while in the present work it has frequently been necessary to call attention to errors in the work of Dr E. B. O'Callaghan, it has by no means been his intention to detract from the great merits of the pioneer work which this gentleman accomplished. In spite of many inaccuracies, O'Callaghan's History contains to this day the only full account of the colony of Rensselaerswyck based on original sources and all who use it must needs be under obligation for the very material help afforded. The time has come however for a revision of many of the statements made and it is hoped that the present volume will aid in inducing some competent investigator to study the whole subject afresh and produce a work that will more nearly answer the requirements of the present time.

The special thanks of the editor are due to his assistant, Mr Peter Nelson, for most efficient aid given throughout the prosecution of the work. Mr Nelson has read the entire manuscript and suggested many changes which have helped to smooth out awkward constructions, clear up doubtful passages and otherwise make the translation more readable.

PREFACE TO TRANSLATIONS FURNISHED BY MRS ALAN H. STRONG

In the summer of 1890 I visited Amsterdam as the guest of my kinsfolk, the family of the late Vice Admiral Jonkheer van Rensselaer Bowier. The admiral had died a few months before, but his widow, born Jonkvrouwe van Beresteyn, of the ancient family of Bois-le-Duc, Brabant, with her three sons, made me most welcome. At their house, no. 91 Helmerstraat, I met the archivist of Amsterdam, the late Mr N. de Roever, editor of the magazine Oud Holland. To him Admiral van Rensselaer Bowier had entrusted the task of editing the important manuscripts inherited by the admiral through his mother, Sara van Rensselaer, last of her name in Holland, from her ancestor, the famous first patroon.

In many interesting interviews, Mr de Roever outlined his idea of bringing these papers to public notice and a plan was formed whereby I was to have his writings on the subject translated into English and published in America. I was to study both modern and old Dutch and secure competent assistance. In pursuance of this idea, I made some individual researches and took many photographs which were to illustrate the combined work. The sudden and lamented death of Mr de Roever put an end to these plans. We were in correspondence to the last. The van Rensselaer Bowier family desired me to fulfil my promise to him and it was my intention to proceed with the publication of these papers, whatever might be the expense and trouble. But through the treachery of a false friend, the documents were purloined in Amsterdam and disappeared for over eight years, being vainly searched for until they finally appeared in America, where they had been pledged for a small sum by their abstractor, who died soon after without reclaiming them. These original documents have been recovered by their owners, and the publication, to which Mr de Roever so fondly looked forward, is now in the hands of the University of the State of New York. By arrangement with the Regents I have been allowed to fulfil my promise to my departed friend, by rendering his unfinished work into English to the best of my ability.

For assistance in my studies and for valuable information, I have to thank the kind offices of Domine P. J. van Melle, of Nijkerk, Holland; Professor A. Raap, of Hope College, Michigan; and Miss Helen W. Ludlow, of Hampton Institute, Virginia. I venture to give the genealogically curious the following facts relating to the Holland branch of the van Rensselaers and the line through which the much talked about documents came to their present owners.

Richard van Rensselaer, the fifth son of the patroon and his fourth by Anna van Wely, became burgomaster and treasurer of Vianen after his return from America, where he had played an important part after the death of his brother Jeremias, the director. He married Anna van Beaumont and died at Vianen in 1695. He had six sons and one daughter. They were Kiliaen, Anthonie, Jan, Richard, Eleanor Herberdine, François and Jeremias. The daughter married Dominus Wilhelmus Pekstok. Kiliaen, the eldest son, married Sara Maria Backholt, and had five sons and five daughters, of whom only one son and one daughter married. The son, Johan Baptist van Rensselaer, married Anna Cornelia de Bruyne and left no issue. The daughter, Anna Maria van Rensselaer, married Isaak Dusart.

Richard van Rensselaer's second son, Anthonie, married Bertha Pekstok. They had three sons and three daughters: Richard, Catherine, Anna Elizabeth, Cornelis, William and Anthonie. All died young or unmarried except William van Rensselaer, who married Cornelia Judith Cramer. They were the parents of three sons and three daughters: Anthonie, Jan Jacob (died in infancy), Magdalena, Jan Jacob, Hendrick Willem, Richard and Bertha. Jan Jacob van Rensselaer married Susanna Catherina Beeldsnyder and left one daughter, Johanna Jacoba Sara van Rensselaer, who married Jonkheer Jan Bowier. She left ten children, of whom the eldest, Vice Admiral Marten Wilhelmus van Rensselaer Bowier, was granted by royal letters patent his mother's name in conjunction with his paternal cognomen, with permission to transmit the same with the arms of both families to his lawful heirs as van Rensselaer Bowier.

The van Rensselaer Bowier family is therefore fully entitled to the name of the Holland van Rensselaers at the present day.

The youngest son of Richard van Rensselaer, of Vianen, was Jeremias, who married Elizabeth de Swaart at Nijkerk, January 18, 1728. She was the daughter of Nelle Maria van Rensselaer (who was daughter of the young patroon, Johannes van Rensselaer, and Elisabeth van Twiller) and Johan de Swaart of Amsterdam. Jeremias and his wife, Elizabeth, lived at Amsterdam and had one son, Richard, who married Geertruy Buytenhuys. They had four sons: Jeremias, Cornelius, Johan and Richard. Three died unmarried; the eldest, Jeremias, married Judith Henrietta Duval. He died in Nijkerk April 11, 1819. His three sons all died young; his wife survived him. In his will Jeremias van Rensselaer stated that except his wife he left no heirs save the family in America. It was true that he was the last male of his name since his second cousin, Jan Jacob van Rensselaer, had died not long before, but he ignored the fact that Jan Jacob had left a daughter, Sara van Rensselaer, then unmarried, who was a much nearer relative than the kinsfolk across the seas and who had inherited through the direct male line of five generations much of family interest and value from the elder line of Anthonie, Richard's second son, whereas Jeremias came from the youngest son of Richard.

So that if the question were worth disputing, there was still a van Rensselaer left in Holland, albeit only a woman. From the alliance of the van Rensselaer and Bowier families sprang a worthy representative in the person of the vice admiral, who was aide-de-camp to the late king of Holland and enjoyed the personal friendship of that monarch and of his son, William, Prince of Orange, the elder brother of Queen Wilhelmina. Other members of the Bowier family who have the blood but not the name of van Rensselaer, have married into the van Beusekom, van Heemstra and Sanders families, residing in Utrecht, Amsterdam, Nijmegen and Hilversum.

The Bowier family was founded in Holland by Ralph Bowyer, of the family of the Duke of Northumberland. He came to the Low Countries with the Earl of Leicester's expedition in the days of Queen Elizabeth. He acquitted himself bravely, married a Dutch lady, and his descendants, in 1815, became enrolled among the nobility of Holland.

Vice Admiral and Madame van Rensselaer Bowier have had five children, of whom Johannes Jacobus Christian Gysbertus van Rensselaer Bowier died as midshipman, first class, of the royal navy; Cornar van Renselaer Bowier died in 1895 and Maria Clemente died young. The two surviving sons, Hugo Jan Jacob van Rensselaer Bowier and Marten Wilhelmus Marius Magdalus van Rensselaer Bowier, are the present owners of the documents described by Mr de Roever in the following articles.

BY

NICOLAAS DE ROEVER

Late archivist of the city of Amsterdam

TRANSLATED BY MRS ALAN H. STRONG

Toward few men of note of our glorious past have our biographers been so unjust as toward the merchant of Amsterdam whose name stands at the head of this article. Surely this is to be attributed to the fact that, thus far, so little attention has been paid to the history of commerce. And it is just in this field that an important place should be assigned to Kiliaen van Rensselaer, because he, being engaged in the West India trade, had not only the courage to found a colony on the American plains and in the woods along the North River and to use his capital for its welfare, but, more especially, because he possessed energy enough to push the work once begun, notwithstanding many disappointments.

The honor which we Hollanders, through ignorance, have denied him has, however, been given him in abundant measure by the descendants of those who were the earliest settlers of those regions. The memory of this citizen of Amsterdam is honored and revered across the ocean. American historians have already made public much that is worth knowing in regard to his colony, but they had not the means of throwing light upon his personality and upon the spirit in which he ruled his settlement. This is not unnatural; it could appear only from his own papers, which were not deposited in any American archives because van Rensselaer remained a merchant at Amsterdam all his life and directed his New Netherland possessions while living at the thriving Y. Had this not been the case he would have had no need for employing agents, nor for giving them instructions, nor for writing letters, and in return they would have had no need to send reports and missives to the motherland for the information of the patroon. The archives which remained in his office on the Keizersgracht relating to the administration of Rensselaerswyck must by degrees have become important. These papers might perhaps have shared the fate of many private archives and at some time been torn up, had not first a long lawsuit with some of those who were entitled to a share in the territory, and later some no less stubborn disputes with members of the family kept the possessors awake to their importance. When the eighteenth century dawned, however, all this was past and peace restored.

The Dutch van Rensselaers continued to be great merchants and wealthy citizens, but across the sea the American relatives, to whom now the colony exclusively belonged, rose to the dignity of great nobles, who lived like princes on their domains. Their sons were received with open arms in the republic, as often as they — partly to maintain the old bonds of blood-relationship — journeyed eastward across the waves. The old papers formed thus a natural point of common interest. So they continued to be preserved in part, although it could not be unknown to any of their possessors that they had lost their practical value.

A hundred years later, however, they had already been consigned to a small chest in the garret. The Dutch van Rensselaers were extinct in the male line. One of the daughters gave her hand to a nobleman of an English house whose forefathers had settled in Holland in the middle of the seventeenth century and served with honor in the army of the republic. The tradition of the great deserts of Kiliaen lived on in the Bowier family, and Jonkheer M. W. Bowier, later vice admiral and commandant of the navy yard at Amsterdam, assured the name of van Rensselaer new life by uniting it to his own.

The remaining fragments of the family archives came now into his possession. He preserved them with reverent care for he understood their importance, although he remained a stranger to their contents.

It was through a visit to him in the spring of 1888 that I became acquainted with the little chest. He eagerly embraced my proposal to arrange and analyze these papers and willingly granted me the privilege of publishing such of them as I deemed fit. It grieves me that the estimable man has not lived to see my plans accomplished, of which this article is a beginning.<sup>2</sup>

and continued till 1643; the documents in the suit before the court of Holland, which was prosecuted after the death of Kiliaen between the guardians of the young patroon and some interested parties; some journals, reports and printed documents, and a number of papers of a personal nature, which would be indeed valuable as data for an accurate genealogy, but which are unimportant for our purpose. The Letter Book and documents in the lawsuit contain matters concerning the enterprising Amsterdam merchant and his colony remarkable enough to be here mentioned. I can only give a few in full. The opportunity to publish many of the letters, instructions and memoranda copied in the Letter Book will come later.

About three quarters of an hour southwest from Putten looms up on the heath of the Veluwe the Renselaersberg, where in olden times the freemen of the "Mark" assembled to settle their common affairs and where also the bishop, on his visitation, was paid the tax out of the church property. Near this, about a quarter of an hour from the manorial castle of Hell, lay the estate from which the family, which held land there until far on in the seventeenth century, derived its name. They belonged undoubtedly to the landed gentry and seem to be of one stock with other families which, like them, bear the cross molin in their coats of arms.<sup>5</sup>

The family spread in the neighborhood of the original estate, so that we find in Nijkerk orphanage trustees of this name who may have been nearly related to our merchant of Amsterdam.

The father of Kiliaen, Hendrick van Rensselaer Kiliaensz,<sup>6</sup> was captain of a company of foot soldiers and died June 6, 1602, at Ostend. In after years, Kiliaen caused a monument to be erected on his grave and that of his brother Johan, born at Nijkerk, who also was a captain and who died at Deventer, February 7, 1601, after having fought in Friesland. On this monument, which was in the last named city, Kiliaen caused to be carved the eight quarterings of the arms of the brothers.<sup>7</sup>

From the marriage of Hendrik with Maria Pasraat<sup>8</sup> were born two children, Kiliaen van Rensselaar and Maria, who gave her hand to Ryckaert, or Richard van Twiller.

It was probably while Hendrik van Rensselaar lay there in garrison that Kiliaen came into the world at Hasselt in or about the year 1580. The death of his father, a few years later, was perhaps the reason that his guardian caused him to be educated as a merchant. No better opportunity presented itself than to bind him out as an apprentice, after the custom of those days, with a relative, who lived in the Nes near the Kleine Vleeschhal. This relative, Wolfert van Bijler Wijnandsz, was a jeweler who had formerly lived in London and had now established himself, with a capital of nearly a hundred thousand guilders, in Amsterdam, where through the settlement of an entire colony of South Netherland diamond polishers, the trade in gems had greatly developed. In those days the diamond trade was nearly always combined with the trade in this vault since 1815. A staircase leading to the gallery has been built directly over it. Through the courtesy of Rev. P. J. van Melle, in August 1890, I was allowed to have a photographic reproduction made of the entire slab with its interesting armorial quarterings. They are in a state of excellent preservation. The staircase, while hiding the grave so that it is nearly forgotten, has saved it from the fate of many similar memorials in old churches where the tread of feet for many generations has nearly obliterated the carving.

The brothers were twins. Their names and rank with date and place of death are given in Dutch with a long Latin epitaph. There are two coats of arms at each corner, making eight lines of descent, with the names of the families, viz: Renselaer, Luxoel, Wenckom, Schoute, Indyck, Graef, Hell, Bylaer. At the top are two large coats of arms, with elaborate quarterings of these and other related families, and at the bottom the coat of arms finally adopted as his own and always used by the patroon. The crest is the well known burning basket and in all appears the cross of the Rensselaers. The Dutch and Latin mottoes of Niemand Zonder and Omnibus Effulgiore do not appear.

The Dutch inscriptions on the stone run thus:

Den 6 Januar. 1602 starf binnen Oestende den erntvesten en manhaften Hopman Hendrick Van Renselaer en alhier begraven.

D. OP. Max. S.

*Johannes et Henricus A Renselaer fratres germaniuter Que viveret turmae pedestris ductor ac magnis multisque in Rempub-ac Patriam meritis clarus ille Daventriae hic Ostendae in statione sua ad ultimum vitae spiritus fortiter persistens oppetiit posteris aeviterna gloria cognatis et affinibus magno sui desiderio relicto. These words follow: Tot Memorie heeft Kiliaen Van Renselaer dit Werc doen maken (Kiliaen Van Renselaer has caused this work to be done for a memorial). S. DE L. v. R. S.

pearls, articles of luxury and rarities of every description. The Dutch jewelers found a ready market for their valuable wares at the imperial court and the smaller German courts.

And so we find Kiliaen, in March 1608, taking care of the business of van Bijler at Prague. When he writes to him about it, he takes the opportunity to impart some political news concerning the strained condition of affairs at that time at the court of the zealous Romanist, Rudolph II, the lover of pomp and art, whose dominion over his hereditary estates was disputed by his brother Matthias with such success that, but a few months later, the Austrian and Hungarian crowns slipped away from him, while he could retain the possession of Bohemia only by granting religious freedom. As a contemporaneous report from a well informed observer, the following has its value:

“Matters here at the court are going backward and are much worse than two months ago, for His Majesty is much disturbed and melancholy because of this Hungarian and Austrian business and no one dares to speak to him concerning it, fearing disfavor; wherefore he receives little consolation. His Majesty has taken 30,000 ducats in specie out of his treasury and has sent Monsr de Telly with them 10 leagues from Vienna to enlist 1500 horse and 3000 foot soldiers, who have been discharged at that place, and he is enlisting more men everywhere; also here in Prague he has secured 500 horse for his guard and protection, saying that he wishes to show that he is the Roman emperor; and His Majesty once almost determined to go to Presburg in person but is now opposed to this. Also the Hungarians, the Austrians, the Silesians and the Moravians have made a covenant and league together to the effect that peace with the Turks shall be observed, that the archduke Matthias shall be accepted as absolute governor and that religious peace shall be maintained; they have sent their envoys to England, Denmark, the Netherlands and other places to state that, in their opinion, these proceedings have not the least tendency to belittle His Majesty's person or reputation. They have also 24,000 men in the field, for Archduke Matthias has opened the arsenals and put the arms in the hands of the Hungarians and has written to the Bohemians that, if they manifest enmity to him, he will pursue them with fire and sword. What will come of all this, God knows; apparently civil war will follow, if matters be not speedily adjusted. God give His Majesty wisdom and understanding to direct this for the best. The Imperial Diet at Ratisbon refuses to grant any contribution, and the pope, the king of Spain and the other Catholic princes dissuade His Majesty from consenting thereto, which otherwise were the best."

A commercial house of no less importance was owned by Johan van Wely, a son of one of the sisters of Wolfert van Bijler.<sup>9</sup> He also, as well as his brother Willem, or Wilhelmo, who thoroughly understood diamond cutting and had earlier been engaged in it himself, were held in high regard at the imperial court, where they often tarried, as well as by Prince Maurice. Kiliaen was also related to them.

Whether uncle van Bijler gradually retired from business, continuing to keep his eye on the silk-cloth business of his wife, Anna Willekens, and making his nephew van Rensselaer his successor, it is difficult to say; it is certain that we find Kiliaen doing business a few years later under the firm name Kiliaen van Rensselaer & Co. His partner was Jacques l'Hermite, the younger, son of the later admiral, who married, in 1613, Theodora van Wely. The firms combined under the name of Jan van Wely & Co. February 28. 1614, to deal in jewels. Jan van Welij contributed one half of the capital, 192,000 guilders, of which van Rensselaer had an eighth share.

There is a curious clause in the contract whereby the trade in spices and India goods was excluded, "though the appearance of gain be great," if not undertaken with every one's approval. This shows once more to what degree the large commercial houses were engaged in the India trade. The contract stipulated that at the death of Jan van Wely the remaining members of the firm should continue the partnership entered into for six years. His murder, therefore, caused no change in the business, but it seems that at the expiration of that time, van Rensselaer at least began again on his own account.

A man of, for that time, such substantial fortune, partner in a great commercial house, might well permit himself the luxury of entering the married state. On the 23d of July, 1616, we see him appear before the Commissioners of Matrimony to ask for the registration of the banns of marriage with Hillegond van Bijler Jansdr., then residing at Utrecht, niece of the childless Wolfert, who had promised her in advance a legacy amounting to 12,000 guilders.

<sup>9</sup> Wolfert van Bijler was first married to Clara Vroeylicx, of Ghent. In 1591 he married Catharina Bolles, the wealthy widow of Fabiaen de Vliet, in London, and in 1594 he married again at Amsterdam, Anna Willekens, widow of Thomas Hawkins, a linen draper. Their daughter Eleonora married Johan van Welij in 1597. N. DE R.

In the same year the young husband purchased a couple of lots on the east side of the recently dug Keizersgracht, between Harten and Wolven streets, on which he built a house. To occupy this house, on which he hung out the sign of "the Crossed Hart," he left his dwelling on the Oudesijds Voorburgwal.

Their happy married life lasted for nearly 10 years. Two sons, Hendrik, who seems to have died in childhood, and Jehan van Rensselaer, baptized September 4, 1625, in the Oude Kerk, were the fruits of this union and survived the mother, who died and was buried in the Oude Kerk, January 1, 1627.<sup>10</sup>

We have just observed how even jewelers, in the first years of the opening East India trade, sought to profit thereby. The practical spirit of the Dutch merchant could not fail to point out to him the way to the riches of the West Indies and Africa. During the truce,<sup>11</sup> our merchants had sailed unmolested to the West Indian parts and received no letters of marque to take prizes from the enemy. Before the war began again, people realized that the West India trade might bring great prosperity to the country and that more power might be developed against the Spaniard to his greater damage, if thenceforth the merchant should no longer steer westward singly with his armed ship or in company with others, but if, after the manner of the large and prosperous East India Company, a company for carrying on commerce with the West Indies, Africa and Australia could be organized, which might, like the sister company, act as the war-waging power in those parts and be supported by the treasury, ships and troops of the state.

After long years of preparation the charter was granted, June 3, 1621, and the subscription list was opened. It is known that subscriptions did not come in very rapidly at first on account of the exclusion of the salt trade from the charter. When, however, this difficulty was removed, the full amount was soon subscribed.

The Chamber of Amsterdam, "because thence came the most money,"<sup>12</sup> had the largest number of directors, who were to administer four ninths of the entire capital of the Company. There were 20, each of whom had to contribute at least 6000 guilders. Next to the board of directors, there was a body of chief participants, each of whom had the same amount invested in the Company. They took no part in the daily management, yet, as the representatives of the stockholders, no resolutions of any importance could be taken without them. The annual report and accounts were also submitted to them. In due time the stockholders were granted a permanent representation in the board of directors by the stipulation that the first two vacancies should be supplied from the ranks of the chief participants.<sup>13</sup>

The first chief participant who was thus received into the Chamber was Kiliaen van Rensselaer.<sup>14</sup> From this it appears at once that he was included, at the first subscription, among those who, comprehending the vital importance of the matter, had subscribed at least 6000 guilders. That his fellow stockholders were satisfied that they could entrust their interests to no better person, their confidence in him evinced; furthermore, he was generally known and reported as an unusually clear-headed man, an able and practical merchant, who did not limit himself to his own branch of trade.

Unfortunately we are only able to judge of his position in the important matters considered in the meetings from a single document of his own authorship, written a few years after the organization of Rensselaerswyck. This memorial was presented by him to the directors November 25, 1633. I shall give it hereafter as an appendix.<sup>15</sup> It is noteworthy as a document for the history of the Company, both because from it we learn what interests were to be subdued before the Company decided to establish a colony in New Netherland and because we find in it the reason for the partial monopoly of the fur trade and the organization of colonies under patroons.

From it we learn to know van Rensselaer as the man who proposed to curtail the fur trade, in order that the Company might continue to draw profit from it, which they would lose in case the supply of skins should become too great and the animals should be killed off too fast by the hunting of the savages; also as the man who, in connection therewith, made the plan to colonize New Netherland, not by hunters but by farmers, and in this manner to make of it, as it were, a station for ships from the West Indies.

This reference is erroneous; the provision that the first two vacancies should be supplied from the ranks of the chief participants is found in art. 6 of the Agreement between the directors and chief participants, June 21, 1623, printed on p. 126-35.

and Brazil, where supplies of grain, cattle and provisions might be obtained instead of returning for them to the mother country. The Company would thereby be relieved of the great expenses connected with a direct transportation of such indispensable articles to these distant countries, which cost was not met by the profits of the fur trade. He predicted that they would be obliged to abandon New Netherland if this course were not adopted. However logically this plan may have been conceived, there were many even among the directors who drew great profits just from the freighting of the outgoing ships laden with all kinds of commodities for which there was demand in the West Indies and Brazil; and who, esteeming their personal gains higher than the welfare of the Company, pitted themselves against the plans of van Rensselaer. When, however, he succeeded in gaining the favor of the majority and in causing a number of farmers to emigrate to the island Manhattas, the minority found pleasure in being able to point out the fact that matters in the new farming colony did not proceed as desired. They tried to make van Rensselaer suffer for this and at the same time to force the abandonment of the Company's system already adopted. They succeeded so far in this that van Rensselaer and his fellow commissioners having special care of the affairs of New Netherland were obliged to take upon themselves the colonization without expense to the Company, which they said they were not disinclined to do, provided the Company would grant them Freedoms.<sup>16</sup>

Without allowing their own profit to have the strongest influence, they wished to extend the chance for gain to each individual stockholder. The greater the number of colonies started, the better. This was to the interest of the Company. The minority, not intending to allow the future patroons to pluck the fruits which the colonies promised, haggled over the Freedoms drafted by the latter and even desired that the fur trade should be monopolized by the Company, which had not been the case heretofore. The majority, however, did not consent to this and adopted propositions more favorable to the patroons. The amount of opposition which van Rensselaer was obliged to endure from this minority is summed up in the memorial in detail. The fall of Zwanendal and the failure of other colonies are therein explained.

<sup>16</sup> On March 28, 1628, the Freedoms and Exemptions were first established. They were, however, so limited that those who had felt inclined now declared themselves indisposed to organize colonies on that basis and urged other measures. After much consultation more favorable conditions were given, on June 7, 1629. See Appendix A [p. 235-50 of this volume]. N. DE R.

The above facts are enough to teach us to respect the merchant who so justly apprehended the needs of the Company.

It was in the midst of the strife of these opinions, about a year after the death of his wife, that, on the 14th of December 1627, in the Nieuwe Kerk, he married Anna van Wely, daughter of his former partner, Jan van Wely, and related to himself as well as to his former wife. We know that the court jeweler of Prince Maurice was very rich. Anna, who had three brothers, undoubtedly bore quite a fortune with her to the altar, which, though she wedded with marriage settlements, served to enlarge the business capital of her husband, as did also the inheritance which Kiliaen, as well as both his wives, received from uncle van Bijler.

In the meantime our jeweler seems to have conceived the idea of bringing into cultivation the waste lands of his native country. While, on the one hand, in the United Provinces people were gaining fertile fields by diking in and draining pools and lakes of every description, there were others who expected far more profit from the reclamation of the heaths. In 1619, Dom Emanuel, prince of Portugal, endeavored to obtain a patent from the States of Holland for the reclamation of the heaths and woodlands of Gooiland.<sup>16a</sup> After that had been refused him, advocate Ingels and his partners had better success and began in 1625 the laying out of 's Gravenland.

Whether Rensselaer also came under the influence of the spirit of the age, it is certain that in 1620 he began the cultivation of some heath lands in the Gooi, which he continued after he had become the owner, June 16, 1628, of the estate Crailo, near Huizen,<sup>17</sup> to which he added a large stretch of mostly unreclaimed land. So, at any rate, we are informed by Jan Jeremias van Rensselaer, known as a poet in the second half of the last century, in his Kraillo Hofdicht (1770).

To the original success which rewarded his reclamation of the sandy, by no means tractable, soil of the Gooi, may be attributed the fact that he could discern no difficulty in beginning on a very large scale an agricultural undertaking on the almost virgin fields and plains of New Netherland, when, as we have already observed, the Company decided according to the second article of their charter "to promote the peopling of those fruitful and unsettled parts," to allow the colonizing to be done by private enterprise, retaining only that of the island Manhattas purchased in 1626 from the natives.

In the resolution for the organization of colonies by private individuals, it was stipulated<sup>18</sup> that those who had declared themselves disposed thereto, might send two persons thither to examine the country. On January 13, 1629, the directors, Samuel Godijn, Kiliaen van Rensselaer and Samuel Blommaert, had already requested that it be noted that, as they intended to plant colonies, they would send Gilles Housset, sailor, and Jacob Jansen, cooper, to New Netherland, in order to report what they should find. The following directors presented themselves successively as patroons: Michiel Pauw van Achttienhoven, over the region bordering on the river Sickenames (June 7); Godijn, the region bordering on the west side of the South River (June 29); Pauw again, the island Fernando Moronho (October 15); Albert Coenraetsz Burgh, the island of St Vincent (October 22); Burgh again, the region on the east side of the bay of the South River, over against Godijn (November 1, 1629); Blommaert, the region on the Fresh River, which he immediately christened Blommaerts River (November 16); Kiliaen van Rensselaer, the region on the North River above and below Fort Orange on both sides of the river, including the islands therein, and downwards as far as was resolved by the Assembly (November 19); Pauw again, a region on the North River westwards including Machackmachoors land and the Hamelshoofden on the east side (January 10, 1630);<sup>19</sup> Blommaert again, one of the islands, St. Martin or Barbados (April 17); Godijn again, the island Tortugo (August 28, 1630); van Rensselaer again, the island du Sable, 43° or 44° north (November 7). All these persons sat as commissioners for New Netherland affairs.

In the Chamber of Zeeland, six persons declared themselves as patroons: Johan de Moor, for Tabago and the territory of the Amazon; Abraham van de Perre, for Berbice; Claude Provost for Cajana; Jan van Rien for Quaro, and Jan van der Goes for Essequebo.

We must now inquire what conditions the Company had granted that caused the aforesaid persons to decide to undertake the colonizing of these partly inhabited, partly wild, lands.

The patroons agreed each to send 50 persons, above the age of 15, to their respective dominions within four years after their application as patroons. The concession would lapse in case this condition were not fulfilled. The patroons of the colonies on the North River recognized the staple-right of the Company on the island Manhattas and the monopoly of the fur trade in those regions where the Company had commisen.<sup>20</sup> They declared that they would abstain from the weaving of woolen, linen and cotton goods.

They were also under obligation to purchase of the natives those lands which belonged to them and were within the bounds of the colony, as the Company itself, and to collect funds for the support of a minister and schoolmaster, and finally they were to conform to a general scheme of government to be framed by the Nineteen.

Over against these obligations, truly not severe, stood far-reaching rights of deep significance.

Of the whole dominion assigned to them, which they might extend, if they chose, to four leagues along the coast or along one side of a river and two leagues along both sides of such a river, and as far inland as the situation would allow, and which they might exchange for another if it proved little adapted for colonizing and farming, the patroons would be sole proprietors, as also of whatever the land might prove to contain, such as mines, marble quarries, precious stones and metals. Over this dominion, which they should hold as a perpetual fief from the Company, they should have jurisdiction in optima forma, including power of capital punishment, save for appeal to the director and councilors in New Netherland in matters above 50 guilders, and should also have the right of appointing magistrates. Further they should possess all manorial privileges, the rights of hunting, fowling and fishing, and the right of the wind. The colony first settled on a river or on an island should have control; while later colonies could appoint councilors to manage affairs relating to the common welfare.

The colonists, and the wares which they might desire to bring over, would be carried going and coming by the ships of the Company at a moderate tariff. Cattle and farm implements would be conveyed without any charges. In case there were no ships ready, the patroons might use their own vessels, provided they took on board an officer of the Company, bearing the title of "assistant."

<sup>20</sup> Elsewhere this trade was free, but the Company taxed each skin, whether of beaver, otter or mink at the rate of one guilder. The importation of beaver and otter skins amounted in 1624 to 4700; in 1625 to 5758; in 1626 to 8130; and in 1627, when the average value had dropped from six guilders to 1.60 guilders, to 7890. N. DE R.

They might trade along the entire American coast from Florida to Newfoundland if, on returning with their cargo, they recognized the staple-right of the Company by the payment of five per cent on the goods which were to be shipped to Holland. The cod fishery was excepted. They might ship the entire catch directly to neutral lands under the supervision of a supercargo of the Company. Of prizes taken from the enemy they were to enjoy two thirds and the Company the rest. The colonists were not required to pay any import duties whatever to the Company for the first ten years. The Company was not to deprive the patroons of any of their settlers and was even to seize and deliver up those who had run away. The Company also promised protection against civil and foreign enemies; for which purpose it would strengthen the fort at the Manhattas; while it would also provide the patroons with as many negroes as possible, without, however, being bound thereto.

To the supreme government in New Netherland, consisting of director and council, the colonies along each river and on the islands might [each] send an agent to care for the common interests. This board must further be kept informed by a detailed annual report of the condition of each colony.

This constitution for the patroonship regulated the affairs in New Netherland largely in the spirit of the middle ages, which in the fatherland still spoke in the feudal system. The patroons were mighty vassals who were represented before the lieutenant of the feudal lords by their ambassadors, the agents, and granted their own fief in mesne tenure to the colonists. It does not surprise us at all, therefore, that so many desired to establish themselves in the New World as potentates of such importance. It would appear, however, to have been by no means an easy task.

The minority of which I have just spoken had, on the ratification of the Freedoms, succeeded in gaining, besides the restriction of the fur trade, still another clause by means of which it was possible for others than the patroons, though on a much smaller scale, to become owners of land in the new colony.

In distinction from the colonists or colonizers, such immigrants were called freemen or free merchants. Whoever desired to embark for New Netherland in this capacity could obtain there from the director and council what land they chose and as much as they could cultivate, provided they remained at a distance of eight leagues from the colonies of the patroons. They were also allowed to engage in fishing and to establish salt works, and would enjoy the protection of the Company.

That must have encouraged all those who felt themselves inclined to the state of colonists and were without means and without any credit with their more wealthy friends. Every one who could simply pay his passage and was able to supply himself with the most necessary articles was promised, by the prospect of land-holding in the New World, a certain prosperity which he could not expect to attain in his native land.

Not a few offered themselves to go as freemen far across the sea. The patroons, however, had apparently some trouble in enlisting the required number of colonists, so that the failure of the projected colonies may in part be attributed to this fact.

That van Rensselaer knew how to meet these difficulties is due undoubtedly to his earnest perseverance and energy, perhaps also to the more liberal conditions of his grant, but surely also to the more favorable circumstances which gave him an advantage over the other patroons.

Owner of extensive lands in the sandy Gooi and, moreover, of family estates in the not much more fruitful Veluwe,<sup>20a</sup> where numbers of relatives were landowners and struggled to subsist on meager means, his agents needed to employ but little persuasion to induce some Gooiers and Veluwiers to migrate to more fruitful regions where the battle with the soil for subsistence would be less severe. We should also not lose sight of the fact that he might depend on the indirect support of his nephew Wouter van Twiller,<sup>21</sup> who had been appointed director of New Netherland in 1632, and with whom he engaged in friendly correspondence at a time when, in the fatherland, the directors opposed the patroons in every way.

The report of the agents sent out had not been unfavorable. They had selected for van Rensselaer an extensive domain on both sides of the North River in the vicinity of Fort Orange, which extended 24 miles in length, 40 miles in breadth and covered a surface of 700,000 bunders.<sup>22</sup> Since 1625, no colonists lived in or near the fort. The location was chosen with care with regard to the fort, because in case of danger it would be a sure point of defense and retreat and its garrison would be very likely to inspire the natives with awe and fear, sufficient to restrain them from attacking the colonists, certain as they might be of being pursued by the soldiers who were well armed, though few in number. In this manner van Rensselaer employed the troops of the Company more or less as coadjutors to his colonizing plans. Moreover, he would derive profit from provisioning the garrison of over 25 men. He estimated their annual support at 100 guilders per capita. Furthermore, the fort would become an easily reached market place for the colonists, where they could maintain communication with the outer world. He, therefore, ever exerted himself to maintain friendly relations with the commander of the garrison and the authorities within the walls. Little could he suspect that just from this source, through altered relations, all manner of unpleasantnesses and difficulties would arise.

<sup>22</sup> The statement is apparently taken from O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:124; the miles are English miles and Mr de Roever has erroneously used bunder, equivalent to two acres, as translation of acre. Elsewhere, when miles are referred to by Mr de Roever, Dutch miles are meant and the word has been translated leagues. O'Callaghan's statement, while fairly describing the extent of the colony under the patent of Nov. 4, 1685, does not agree with the facts in 1632. As explained in a footnote on p. 167, the land embraced by the first two purchases of Aug. 13, 1630, and May 1631 was almost entirely on the west side of the river.

His first act must now be to obtain possession of the land for his colony from the Mahikans, the original owners, who had never been willing to sell their territory, not even the ground of Fort Orange. After they had been involved, through the instrumentality of the commis Daniel van Kriekenbeek, in a bloody war with their neighbors, the Maquas, and were defeated in 1629, they were found ready to dispose of their possessions.

Two officers of the West India Company in Fort Orange, Bastiaen Jansz Crol and Dirk Cornelisz Duyster, specially empowered thereto by writing of January 12, 1630, purchased the following April<sup>23</sup> a large tract of land on the west side of the river. We learn from this writing how this was to be done. They were to make payment to the chiefs in the presence of the whole nation, in merchandise which they should purchase for his account from the Company, and the deed should be acknowledged by the chiefs at the Manhattans in the presence of the director and council. Van Rensselaer gave his preference for flat timberless land, of which they should purchase as much as they could obtain as far as five leagues on both sides of the fort.<sup>24</sup>

Housset increased this territory, in August, by tracts of land on the right bank, located above and below Fort Orange, and also by land on the east side of the river. It was also extended by deeds of purchase of May 1631 and April 13, 1637.

The good understanding between the patroons of the Amsterdam

<sup>23</sup> M. de Roever here follows O'Callaghan, who erroneously refers to the purchase of 1631 as occurring in April 1630. The date of the certificate is May 1631, which is given by Mr de Roever as that of a distinct purchase. Cf. note on p. 182.

Chamber left nothing to be desired; Burgh, Godijn, Blommaert and van Rensselaer, before signifying to the directors their willingness to start colonies, made an agreement to work the projected colonies on joint account, each under the direction of one of them.<sup>25</sup> They could, in consequence, soon register such of their colonies as they had made preparations to establish.<sup>26</sup> Three persons should each have a one fifth share in each colony, while the fourth should receive the remaining two fifths, take the responsibility for its management and exercise the rights of patroon.<sup>27</sup> The patroons were to act in concert, with this understanding, that the managing patroon had the disposal of all sums amounting to less than 2000 guilders, while a majority of votes was required for sums up to 4000 guilders, with unanimity regarding expenditures above the latter figures.

On account of the disputes between the directors and the patroons, the colony under the management of Blommaert "was not started but remained at a standstill" while those under Godijn and Burgh, "after the work had been begun," were "finally sold to the West India Company."<sup>28</sup>

Only the colony which was managed by van Rensselaer continued to exist under the patroons. His share in this, as we have said, amounted to two fifths. He successively purchased from the heirs of Godijn, among whom were Jacob and Hendrik Trip, the latter's share, so that he soon became the owner of three fifths. The two other shares remained, partly in the hands of Blommaert and partly in the hands of others, Adam Bessels, Johannes de Laet and Tous-saint Muyssaert, the last two being in the place of Burgh, so that ultimately each of them owned one tenth.

It goes without saying that each colony depended upon its manager, who must, in the first place, comply with the stipulations of the Company. In accordance with one of these, 12 or 13 colonists must be transported to Rensselaerswyck before the 19th of November, 1630. There seems to have been some difficulty in securing even this number, and when they were found and had ratified the notarial contract by signature and mark, and some times even the copy in the Letter Book of the patroon, and had received their advance, it often happened that even then some would desert when the lighter was about to depart.

<sup>27</sup> In the beginning they seem to have had another division, to which a contract, dated Oct. 1, 1630, refers. N. DE R.

An agricultural colony without cattle was an impossibility. It required careful planning to provide the cheapest way of transporting animals in order to enable the colonists to engage in farming. "If I can get no animals, I shall not succeed in bringing over 50 persons," exclaimed van Rensselaer in one of his letters.<sup>29</sup> He had thus to be constantly on the lookout to obtain them wherever he could. The transportation of cattle proved extremely expensive and little effective, since, not to mention the loss on shipboard, many died in their new home. The Company, though bound by the Freedoms to allow the carrying of cattle, did not make this easy for the patroons and only provided stalls for the cattle on deck. We willingly believe that they needed the entire hold for their own cargoes.

Van Rensselaer now, with true merchant shrewdness, made use of a defect in the conditions under which the colonists of the Company had settled on the island of Manhattans. He caused Rutger Hendriksz, from Soest,<sup>30</sup> one of his colonists, to rent one of the eight farms at that place; took upon himself the payment of the Company's equity; ordered the land, which had not yet been cultivated, to be farmed; and assumed the payment of the sum in lieu of which the farmer, after the lapse of six years, would have become owner of the four horses and the cattle (4 cows, 2 heifers, 6 sheep and 6 hogs, which had been provided by the Company for each farm), with the result that the Company could not prevent him from transporting these animals to his colony. At the same time he made a contract with Wolfert Gerritsz, from Amersfoort, a colonist at the Manhattans, who was temporarily in the fatherland, binding him to settle during a few months of each year at Rensselaerswyck, in order to plant and sow, and at the same time, whenever young cattle were offered for sale in New Netherland, to buy them on his account. Together with Wolfert and Rutger emigrated Brant Peelen, from Nijkerk, Roelof Jansz, from Maasterland,<sup>31</sup> the latter like Rutger, as farmer on one of the projected farmsteads, a number of farm hands and a shepherd for the 13 sheep, which were entrusted to their care during the voyage.

Since, as it appears, more cattle were transported by the Company than they needed on their eight farms, he agreed with Michiel Pauw that each should take half of them. Thus again he obtained eight horses and seven cows. He brought about all this in January 1630.

Now he must think about establishing farmsteads. Under the direction of Wolfert and the supervision of Bastiaen Crol, commis at Fort Orange, the first farm was to be laid out; and with the assistance of the laborers of the Company, who were put at his disposal by the director Pieter Minuijt for compensation, houses, barns, hay-barracks, sheep-cotes and also a boat were to be built and bricks and tiles baked.

In a short time two were ready, viz, Rensselaersburg and Lactsburg. It seemed that the affairs of the patroon and his colony were well launched. The good understanding between him and the local authorities in New Netherland who naturally followed the orders of their superiors, the directors in the fatherland, conduced strongly to this end.

In January 1631, he sent Marinus Adriaensz, from Veer, with some assistants as tobacco planters, and in July of the same year Laurens Laurensz, from Kopenhagen, was sent, with another Northman, to run the sawmill and grist-mill; also a number of laborers and eight or ten calves.

Now let us see what terms he offered to his colonists. That he did not value each individual equally goes without saying. The persons whom he appointed as managers of the farmsteads or farmers received during two or three years before the farm could be considered to be in good working order, 150 to 180 guilders. The patroon defrayed the expense connected with the farm and provided cattle, wagons and implements, besides farm hands who received from 40 to 90 guilders and a boy whose hire amounted to from 25 to 40 guilders, and these, during the time of their contract,

J. Voogt, Geometra, 't Amsterdam by Ioannes van Keulen [1710]). If, as may be presumed, Masterland is the same as Maesterland, it is interesting to note that Roelof Jansz as well as his wife, the well known Anneke Jans — whose mother, Trijn Jonas, appears in a fragment of an account of New Amsterdam, 1639, among the Rensselaerswyck Mss, as Trijn Jonas van Masterlan[d] — were probably not Dutch, but Swedes.

usually three to four years, received an annual raise of from 10 to 20 guilders and board, which was paid by the patroon. In the beginning they were to do everything needed as well as they could with the help of the workmen of the Company. When the farm was once in full swing, then other regulations came in force. The clear gains, after deducting the wages of the farm hands, were divided biennially between the patroon and the tenant. The former remained owner of the cattle but their increase was again divided. With the animals thus obtained, the patroon could start a new farm, while he could purchase the tenant's half of the cattle according to the Company's tariff and the crops according to market price at the Manhattans. The mechanics who emigrated as colonists received about as much as the masters of the farms but were to be lodged by them and their board was charged to the patroon. Whenever they were employed by others, the patroon was to receive one half of their earnings. Some of the colonists were to pay their own passage; the less important as a rule, not. Small advantages in the shape of advance money and presents were enjoyed by all. It is interesting to note that the terms became gradually more favorable to the colonists. I mention here only the contracts of the first years.

Between 1630 and 1632 he transported to Rensselaerswyck on these terms, in the first year 10 and in the two succeeding years 12 persons, not counting children. About one third came from the Gcoi and the Veluwe. A few were secured on the Manhattans, where might always be found people whose contracts had expired or who had not succeeded, and some negroes naturally belonged to the number.<sup>32</sup>

The relations between the directors of the Amsterdam Chamber and the patroons, however, gradually became less favorable for the latter. I have already spoken of the minority who were opposed to the colonization. They alleged that the patroons' aim was to monopolize the fur trade and thus to injure the Company. The falsehood of this charge is clearly shown by the nature of the colony of van Rensselaer, and furthermore by the contracts made with the colonists, which prohibited the fur trade. He writes on July 20, 1632, to Duyster, "I have forbidden my people the fur trade; although, according to the fifteenth article of the Freedoms, I have as much right as others, yet I have done this in order to avoid dispute with the Company."<sup>33</sup> Notwithstanding the honest intentions of Kiliaen, the minority increased. It appears that they found their spokesman in Marcus de Vogelaer, and that among others his side was supported by the directors Cornelis Bicker, Guiliam Bartolotti, Hendrik Broen, Hendrik Hamel, Marcus van Valckenburgh, Simon van der Does and Abraham Oyens. On account of the biennial retirement of one third of the directors of the Amsterdam Chamber, a temporary change took place in the management.<sup>34</sup> The minority suddenly grew to a majority and meant to make their influence tell.

At the Manhattans, the Company's young colony, matters were not going as well as might be wished. This the opponents of the colonization ascertained, but the Company had already gone too far to abandon the colony.

Colonial progress was crippled by the bad relations among the local authorities. They neglected the Company's interests in mutual disputes.<sup>35</sup> The factions each found their sympathizers at Amsterdam. The director Pieter Minuyt, who had gradually gained the patroons' friendship,<sup>36</sup> was now worsted by the intriguing secretary, Johan van Remunde, supported by de Vogelaer, who had become commissioner for New Netherland affairs, and his party. The secretary had reported so many grievances, both true and false, in his letters, that the directors seemed to judge it advisable to hear him and, at the same time, a number of their officers, who under the circumstances may well have apprehended that their summons was the precursor of the discharge awaiting them in the fatherland. This happened about the middle of 1631. The party of van Rensselaer had still influence enough to bring about the promotion as director in the place of Minuyt, of the commis at Fort Orange, Bastiaen Crol, whom we have learned to know as the patroon's agent.

In the meantime, while months passed in hearing and rehearing the recalled officers, Kiliaen was contending with difficulties of every kind in Rensselaerswyck. One of his two new farmsteads was burned; Marinus, the tobacco planter, seemed none too well fitted for his task; his colonists had needed so much grain for their own use that one farm lacked winter seed, and besides, his account with the Company for goods delivered had become very heavy. But he could surmount all these hindrances, since, from the reports rendered, he perceived that the fields promised abundant harvests and, although he had been obliged to abandon the idea of building a sawmill, his grist-mill would be the only one in all New Netherland. If his cattle were to furnish dairy products sufficient for his own use and that of the garrison at the fort, there would not be many animals left for slaughter, but this difficulty would be [more than] met by the natives who would gladly barter for dairy products such large quantities of venison that his colonists [after supplying their own wants] would have enough to smoke and salt it and make of it an article of merchandise at the Manhattans.

The patroon's endurance was, however, to be still more severely tested. Remunde had won his suit before the directors. He returned to the new fatherland in his old dignity. Crol, who seems also to have given cause for dissatisfaction, although, as we shall see, he had served the interests of the Company, as he understood them, in opposition to those of van Rensselaer, was recalled and Wouter van Twiller, chiefly because advocated by Burgh, Reael and de la Myne, was appointed in his stead. Though this appointment could not but be agreeable to the patroon, his uncle, he must have been less pleased that Dirk Cornelisz Duyster, commis at Fort Orange, was to make room for an instrument in the hands of his adversaries, Hans Jorisz Hunthum, a man who had traded with the natives at that place in former years, and who, by a shameful cruelty committed on one of the chiefs, had made himself much hated by the Maquas.<sup>37</sup>

The disputes were not checked by this appointment; but other combatants appeared in the lists, which were now opened anew at the Manhattans, to the injury of the Company's affairs.

On his side the patroon again availed himself of favorable circumstances. Pieter Minuyt, who had grievances enough against the Company, agreed in July 1632 to sell him a number of his cattle; the rest were to remain on his farm, of which van Twiller took possession. Pieter Bijlvelt, one of the recalled councilors, did the same. They both wrote the agreements in the Letter Book of van Rensselaer with their own hands. The purchase of the whole inventory of the farm of Bijlvelt soon followed and van Twiller agreed to make over a few more animals to the patroon. At the same time, he gained a skilful colonist in the person of Gerrit Theusz de Reus, who had previously managed a farm on the Manhattans, and transferred all his cattle, for which the patroon assumed the payment due the Company. When, however, the news of this agreement reached the then director, Crol, he did not consider himself justified in letting the cattle go without the consent of his principals. The opponents of Kiliaen, also, could not perceive the desirability of the zealous patroon's measures. Many were jealous of him, so that only after two years, when these evil days were past, did he, by means of a notice served on the directors, succeed in moving them to recognize his right.<sup>38</sup>

From the standpoint of the directors, who must have seen with reluctance the subtraction of cattle from their colony, their long refusal was certainly intelligible, but as a retaliatory measure from the patroon's side, his course might be defended.

With this addition to his herd, strengthened also by the importation of some calves, the patroon might have been able to start three new farms in his colony: Weelysburg and Blommaertsburg, which were to be occupied by Brandt Peelen and Gerrit de Reus, and Godynsburg. Now it seems that they were first begun in 1634, when he was again contemplating the starting of a new farm in the immediate neighborhood of Fort Orange.

The affairs of the other patroons, in which van Rensselaer participated, were in a still less desirable condition. New supplies of provisions and merchandise were necessary but the Chamber of Amsterdam would not consent to this. And the patroon of Rensselaerswyck also met with a refusal (July 20, 1632) when he petitioned the directors to permit him to employ for compensation, during their free time, the Company's carpenters, smiths and other mechanics, for the establishment of a couple of new farms.

Neither could they be prevailed upon to fulfil the Freedoms which guaranteed privileges for the proper transportation of cattle and goods; indeed they even went so far as to prohibit the purchase by him of goods belonging to the Company which were stored in New Netherland, and also forbade their colonists to barter necessities of life for dairy products and grain.

Thus almost cut off from the outer world by the management of his opponents, our patroon was almost immediately obliged to teach his colony to stand on its own legs. The only persons whom he could trust to keep a watchful eye on Rensselaerswyck were his nephew van Twiller and the schout Coenraed Notelman, also a relative, who consented to do this in so far as it could be made to agree with duty and conscience.

Yet a new misfortune befell the patroon in the loss of a large part of his herd, which were killed by the natives. The Company also suffered a loss by the burning of their yacht de Bever.<sup>39</sup> The appointment of Hunthum, which was the cause of both these occurrences, was now first clearly proved to have been a mistake.<sup>40</sup>

One of the measures taken at this time (July 1632) by Kiliaen, to confirm his authority, was to give his colony, which contained as yet but few souls, a judicial system by the appointment of schout and schepens.

The highest and most responsible of the public offices, that of schout, he had reserved for Rutger Hendriksz, who, as outward sign of his dignity, was to adorn himself with a plumed hat and silver-plated rapier on a baldric. In his instructions, however, we seek in vain for an explanation of the principles by which he was to administer justice. The patroon only orders in general terms that the corrections shall be administered "according to the customs of this land and especially according to the laws of this province of Holland." It is remarkable that every person could be corrected "who should neglect the profit of the patroon." In view of the fact that it is doubtful whether our worthy villager from ancient Hameland<sup>41</sup> and our little peasants, who were to demand and render justice and some of whom could not even read, were versed in the Roman-Dutch law, then in force, or in the practice in criminal cases, and that the patroon furnished them with no other sources for their instruction and information than a few copies of the Freedoms and Exemptions, we may assume that the tribunal according to old Germanic custom administered justice according to reason and the five senses. In the judicial sphere of activity, fortunately, they probably were less occupied than with their daily labors in the interests of the patroon for which he gave the schout detailed instructions. From these orders it appears directly that Rutger was charged more especially with the execution of the orders of van Rensselaer as regards the management of the colony. This was necessary because Wolfert Gerritsz had signified his intention to request dismissal from the patroon.

<sup>40</sup> Hunthum did not long survive these events. In April 1634, he came to blows with Cornelis van Vorst, director of the colony Pavonia, who stabbed him to death (Deposition, Feb. 25, 1636, before Notary C. Hoogenboom). N. DE R.

<sup>41</sup> Hameland; an ancient county with uncertain boundaries. According to A. J. van der Aa, Aardrijkskundig Woordenboek, it extended along both banks of the river Yssel, so as to cover parts of the present provinces of Gelderland and Overijssel. In calling Rutger Hendriksz from Soest a villager from ancient Hameland, Mr de Roever has reference to Eemland, in the province of Utrecht, which by some is held to have formed part of Hameland.

Roelof Jansz, Gerrit de Reus, Marijn Adriaensz, Brant Peelen and Laurens Laurensz, surnamed de Noorman, served as schepens and councilors.<sup>42</sup> Brant Peelen was at the same time to take charge of the Sunday services, reading and explaining one of the texts from the Bible according to the huispostille Schulteti. One of them would keep the Resolution Book. For the rest, their duties were not described. Their distinction consisted of a black hat with a silver band. They were to be sworn in by the schout, who would himself take the oath of office before Director van Twiller.

As regards the oath of the schepens, that of Amsterdam was literally followed.<sup>43</sup> It was therefore not the patroon's object to introduce a new law, specially adapted to his agricultural colony. Law appears to have been the least active factor in the early development of Rensselaerswyck.

At any rate, the colonists did more; the schout raised on his farm Rensselaersburg on Castle or West Island, in 1631, 12 morgens of winter wheat and four morgens of winter rye. The patroon reckoned that in three years he would be able to raise more than 100 lasts. Of the 600 or 800 morgens of arable land in the colony, which lay along the river, and which were as good quality as the land in the Betuwe<sup>44</sup> or in the Beemster,<sup>45</sup> each promised in the future a harvest of three quarters to one last. The fattening of cattle, however, would be of still more importance; "our greatest profit will come from the cattle, for which there are fine and sufficient pastures, for clearing of land proceeds but slowly from agriculture," writes the patroon to Jan de Laet,<sup>46</sup> and he shows the necessity of exercising patience and of not ceasing to put money into the business.

"But," adds the optimistic patroon, "here I am getting too far ahead."<sup>47</sup> And so he was. Through all the opposition, his expectations were disappointed, and it did certainly take twice as many years before that part of the harvest which could be gathered into barns and sold approached 100 lasts.<sup>48</sup>

The year 1633, which under the existing unfavorable circumstances could yield little of importance to the patroon and his colony, saw the continuation of party strife in the Amsterdam Chamber. Three of the friends of van Twiller left their seats when their terms expired. They were Burgh, Reael and de la Myne. Their influence, however, remained and made itself felt, when the party which opposed the colonization felt itself strong enough to undermine the most important articles of the Freedoms and Exemptions. They aimed at the fifteenth article, which allowed the patroons the coast trade in New Netherland and the fur trade, with the above named restrictions, and also at the twenty-fifth, by which the Company took the colonies under their care.<sup>49</sup> They could not, however, persuade the majority of the desirability of these measures, which would undoubtedly have resulted in the ruin of the colonies. The Freedoms, at any rate, remained untouched.<sup>50</sup> Neither had they success in their attempt to recall the director, van Twiller, who had been brought into disrepute by the secretary, van Remundt. The protection of his uncle and of his three friends as well as the good will of Frederik de Vries<sup>51</sup> and of Daniel van Liebergen prevented Isaak de Raziere from succeeding van Twiller. This case shows that the ex-directors had still considerable influence, for of the persons here mentioned de la Myne and van Liebergen are the only ones who were in office at that time.

The carrying of freight in the meantime continued to be a disputed point. In order to promote barter with the natives, the pa-

In 1638, he and David Pietersz de Vries entered into an agreement about establishing a colony on Staten Island; they sailed on the ship de Liefde and April 19, 1639, appeared together before Cornelis van Tienhoven, at New Amsterdam. troons wished to find storage for large quantities of merchandise in the Company's ships, which the Memorial informs us were of no great carrying capacity. Perhaps the directors thought this would mean too much reduction of the space available for the Company's goods; perhaps they wished to compel the patroons to provide themselves with what they needed from the warehouses at the Manhattans; possibly they feared that the fur trade would escape them if they enabled the patroons to barter on a large scale; it is certain that they would only allow goods to the value of a few hundred guilders to be taken in. Now the patroons were permitted by the eleventh article of the Freedoms to send ships or yachts thither themselves, but in this they evidently saw no profit, for as yet they could not freight a whole vessel. They felt, therefore, too well, that every reference to the authority given them in this eleventh article corresponded with a refusal to comply with their wishes. And the general opinion of the assembled directors was here on the side of de Vogelaer, but they also did not wish to be deaf to the representations of van Rensselaer and decided to submit the point in question to the judgment of their High Mightinesses.

Whether in the beginning there was little prospect that the demands of the patroons would be granted, and whether van Rensselaer foresaw great expense and difficulty in the suits which, according to the Memorial, he intended to bring against the Company, certain it is that in July 1634 he had one of the directors sound the feeling of the Amsterdam Chamber with respect to an amicable arrangement. Had there ever been any prospect of realizing this, the patroon would have been willing to turn the whole colony over to the Company. The affair was managed with the needful caution and supported by a secret Account of the jurisdictions, management and condition<sup>52</sup> of the colony, dated July 20. In a confidential letter to his coparticipant, Johan de Laet,<sup>53</sup> he mentions the sum for which he would be willing to resign all his rights. Although the account book no longer exists, I dare say that the patroon did ask not a little too much when he demanded 6000 pounds Flemish. Two years later, when matters were in much better shape and he had gone to much more expense, he was willing to leave a one tenth share<sup>54</sup> to Burgh, when he could have gotten it himself, for 1000 guilders. The colony could not yet have been worth much more than one quarter of the price which he asked the Company. He acknowledges, indeed, that he expected to indemnify himself in this way for his losses in the exploitation of Zwanendal.<sup>55</sup> During these negotiations two other patroons appeared with their proposals to transfer the colonies Zwanendal and Pavonia to the Company. We already know that Zwanendal was not succeeding very well. It could therefore cost the allied patroons but few tears to bid it farewell. The Company wished to assure itself of the monopoly of the fur trade and could therefore afford to sacrifice something in order to buy out the patroon and his partners at that place. But that reason did not apply to Rensselaerswyck. Whether it must be ascribed to this or whether the patroon withdrew his proposition after the temporary mood of dejection had passed away and he had changed his mind, I can not decide; however it was, nothing came of the sale. It appears that van Rensselaer in the following year would not even think of it again and did not regret it.<sup>56</sup> Protected as they now were from losses in Zwanendal, the allied authorities determined to devote themselves with new courage to the colonization of Rensselaerswyck.

The simultaneous attempts which the Amsterdam patroons of the existing colonies made to dispose of their undertakings indicate a more favorable disposition among the directors. One can not blame them, because having experienced their dependence on the prevailing humor in the council, they did not desire to risk encountering a new tide of opposition in a few years but preferred to make use of a favorable current.

This began with the change in the government of the Chamber which put the party of de Vogelaer again in the minority. Burgh, Reael, Frederik de Vries, Eduard Man, Schuylenburgh and Bart-rinck resumed their old seats.

It seemed that the supporters of the colonization reckoned themselves strong enough to alter the course in which affairs were being steered by de Vogelaer.<sup>57</sup> The plan was formed already in April "to strike stoutly at the management of Vogelaer." He seems to have seen the approach of danger and to have understood that any opposition would be useless. He resigned his office of commissioner of New Netherland affairs, apparently very unexpectedly, about May.<sup>58</sup>

We should be unjust to the directors if we thought that they were now going to manage matters in any manner partial to the interests of the patroons of Rensselaerswyck. They did not enter upon the purchase of the colony. Some points of difference still remained. What was the outcome of the intention of Kiliaen to demand legal indemnity from the Company, we do not learn. I am personally not disinclined to believe that the patroon mentioned this indemnity only in order to exert some pressure on the directors, who were considering whether or not to deliver over to him his cattle which had been held back at the Manhattans, in order that later his proposals for the transfer of his colony might more readily find acceptance, as the directors would thereby avoid expensive lawsuits.

But there was now no more question of intentional obstruction. This was already shown in April 1634 when he sent by the ship de Eendracht a number of sacks and eight large chests, filled with all manner of goods, weapons, farm implements, clothing, seeds, provisions and other necessities, on which vessel at the same time embarked his newly recruited colonists, viz, Jacob Planck, from Edam, who was to discharge the duties of schout, commis, precentor and distiller of brandy, and for whose use a large brandy kettle was sent along; Abraham Planck, his son; Lubbert Gijsbertsz, who wished to settle in the new colony as wagon maker and who took along his wife and children; Cornelis Theunisz, who would find work enough as carpenter and mason at Rensselaerswyck; and a few workmen.

In one of the chests was stored away also the first "red flag with the arms of the colony, to float on the breeze on proper occasions."

II

We have seen that the patroons got into a dispute with the directors of the West India Company over the rights guaranteed by the Freedoms and Exemptions, of which the Company wished to deprive them<sup>1</sup> by the passage of new articles and regulations, and that both parties, apparently unable to agree, left the decision to the States General, which appointed a committee to investigate the matter.

As the successors of the original owners, the patroons considered themselves almost sovereigns. They thought they need not obey any rules of the Company; that the internal fur trade, as well as that on the coast, was theirs by right; that they need not tolerate in their territory any commis to collect the duty on furs purchased; that, so long as they did not avail themselves of the right to fit out their own ships, the officers of the West India Company in New Netherland were at least bound to inform them when there was room for their goods in its returning ships; that the Company unlawfully required an oath of the colonists whereby they renounced the privileges granted them by the patroons; and, finally, that the Company was bound to make good the loss which the patroons had suffered from the Company's failure to fulfil the obligations of protection and so forth which it had assumed.

Not all these grievances were brought forward by van Rensselaer. The fur trade, which was the great stumbling block to a good understanding between the two parties in the Chamber of the Nineteen, he had expressly forbidden, at least to his own colonists. The promotion of farming was almost the exclusive consideration for him and his colony, and for this the continued supply of colonists, cattle and all kinds of goods for use and trade in the colony was a vital necessity.

For him and his cause everything depended on the opportunities for transportation. About this he had to try to come to an understanding with the directors.

Meanwhile the committee met, heard the parties, and adjourned, probably shortly after June 24, 1634,<sup>2</sup> after having postponed the decision of the matter submitted to their judgment, of which nothing further is heard.<sup>3</sup>

It is clear that without the action of the committee a settlement had been reached between the two parties which is placed in prospect by Kiliaen in a letter to de Lact as early as July 21.<sup>4</sup> The more favorable sentiment toward the patroons existing in the Assembly of the Nineteen undoubtedly influenced this action. But perhaps no less a consideration was the advisability of keeping friends with the patroons and preserving peace at home, since for lack of money the Company could not at once prosecute with energy the settlement of the American colony and, by reason of the competition of English traders, ran the risk of diplomatic difficulties with its neighbor over seas, whose pretensions to New Netherland were yet fresh in memory. These traders, with an ex-Amsterdam merchant Jacob Eelkens<sup>5</sup> at their head, had just chosen for the place of their operations the shores near Fort Orange, with which he was formerly well acquainted. In some way an agreement was brought about and, although we do not know on what terms, the result may be traced in the transfer soon after of Zwanendal and Pavonia<sup>6</sup> to the Company, and in the decision of Kiliaen two years later to fit out a ship himself, after his remonstrance had been favorably voted upon by the directors.<sup>7</sup>

In New Netherland Director van Twiller kept an eye on his uncle's interests. If there were cattle for sale, he bought them for Rensselaerswyck, and so did the director of Pavonia for that colony. Kiliaen and Michiel Pauw, who seem to have been the only interested parties, understood that it was to their mutual advantage not to thwart each other in these purchases. Differences which had already arisen were laid aside and they pledged themselves on April 13, 1634, to buy and honestly divide between themselves "all the animals, horses and cows, old or young, that from now on and during six years may be offered for sale in New Netherland either by the Company or by individuals, whether inhabitants or strangers."<sup>8</sup>

We have already seen repeatedly how it was the first and only endeavor of van Rensselaer to make his settlement a farming colony and it appears to me that such was the chief aim of both the other patroons. Kiliaen says this in a letter to his schout, Jacob Albertsz Planck, dated August 24, 1635:<sup>9</sup> "We are trying to populate the land and in time to spread the teaching of the Holy Gospel by many people, while they,<sup>10</sup> on the contrary, employing only a few people, look solely for the profits of the fur trade." As regards the patroon of Rensselaerswyck, we may decidedly contradict O'Callaghan's assertion in his History of New Netherland<sup>11</sup> that they, "losing sight, for the most part, of their first duties as planters, diverted their energies and means in competing with the Company for a share of the Indian trade." On the contrary, if, as he asserts, "the charter tended, in no small degree, to retard the settlement of the province," it was only because the directors, in spite of the Freedoms and Exemptions and to avoid losing the profits of their own trade, opposed the colonization by throwing obstacles in the way of the transportation of people, cattle and goods.

That the patroons were out for their own profit is no cause for reproach. This has ever been the mighty impulse of all colonization. But they sought it in another and more honest way than by supplanting the Company in the fur trade. The right of the patroons to this trade seems to me quite beyond dispute and they were there as business men to stand by their rights as soon as there was promise of profit. We shall presently see that the fur trade had to be thrown open finally in order to attract colonists to the Company's own settlements.

Whether the director's appearance in the promotion of the patroon's interests aroused suspicion or other considerations of a personal nature entered into the game and were instigated by Secretary van Remunde, or whether van Twiller really gave cause for complaint in his management of the Company's affairs, can no longer be determined. In no wise, however, can I accept the sentence that American writers have passed upon him. The evidence brought against him may be cited as proof of the grievances but its authority may be doubted, since one often meets statements that diametrically conflict. That he and his people, but especially the latter, were no model men, lies in the nature of the case. It was surely difficult to rule over a handful of fortune hunters who had not crossed the ocean with any noble aim of opening a wild land to cultivation and who, under hard conditions of existence, must lead a rude life and who sought rude pleasures. In such circumstances, gentleness would have been weakness, least of all to be forgiven in the governor of so small a settlement. He was not unskillful in the management of the Company's affairs and kept a firm hand wherever he judged it needful and it was not his fault if few of his measures resulted favorably. O'Callaghan accuses him of seeking his own gain at the expense of the Company and says that, when he left, his farm was the only one in good order. The reason of this was that the colonists at the Manhattans left as soon as their time was up. They had the right to sell a part of their cattle and found the only buyers in van Twiller and the patroons. It was natural that the Company's farms should be ruined by this. That he did not further the affairs of the patroons at the expense of his employers is proved by his keeping back the cattle and the implements belonging to Bijlveld and de Reux, which had been transferred to his uncle,<sup>12</sup> and by the confiscation of the latter's grain in behalf of the Company, of which van Rensselaer complained in 1636 in a letter to Planck, dated October 3d.

However this may be, evil tongues were at once busy in vilifying him to the directors, as they had done before with Minuyt, who, angry with the Company, had taken upon himself the establishment of the Swedish trading company in North America. A letter from van Rensselaer to his nephew, dated April 23, 1634,<sup>13</sup> is of value for a knowledge of the divisions prevailing in the Amsterdam Chamber and from it we can form an opinion of the patroon's character and his excellent mental qualities and gain an idea, though one-sided, of the intrigues of Secretary van Remunde. Although his enemies had at first little success with their endeavors to oust van Twiller, three years later, whether justly or unjustly, they compassed his downfall.

Cooperation between the leaders in New Netherland alone could have insured the success of the great enterprise, but that was wanting. Precious time slipped away in trivial squabbles. A continual change of governors and chief officials was the result. They were always recalled after a few years, when they had barely been able to contrive means for the development of the extraordinarily rich resources of the new colony, thereby causing the settlement to assume the character of a trading post for immediate profits rather than a seriously planned colony. That the directors could only regard the matter in this light proves their shortsightedness. In Rensselaerswyck a better example was offered them.

It seems as if the patroons, when their friendly director was attacked, found a needed counterpoise in declarations prejudicial to one of the Company's officers, the commandant of Fort Orange, Hans Joriss Hunthum. They attributed to him the loss incurred by Rensselaerswyck in the slaughter of the cattle by the Indians, a loss they wished to recover from the Company. Probably on the ground of these declarations it was asserted that Hunthum was allied with Eelkens.

The depositions made in England state the matter quite differently.<sup>14</sup> Hunthum was not to experience the evil consequences which might result from these suspicions. At the time when these attempts for his removal were made in Amsterdam, the man had already been dead<sup>15</sup> for several months, and we have no need to concern ourselves further as to how the matter might have turned out. One of these declarations, however, is so remarkable in many respects, besides completing the documents containing the correspondence between the two governments, that I have printed it here among the appendixes.

Meanwhile in Rensselaerswyck Jacob Planck assumed the plumed hat and the silvered rapier of the former schout. His instructions, dated April 25, 1634, ordered him to choose three schepens, thus setting aside the former incumbents,<sup>16</sup> and to seek his knowledge from an Ars notariatus, a Damhouder Praktycq criminecl, and a Manier van procederen. With perhaps more prospect of success, he was to exert himself in the advancement of farming and the increase of the number of farms and cattle. He was bidden to consult Director van Twiller about these matters and always to preserve good relations with Conract Notelman, also a relative of the patroon, who had charge of one of the Company's farms at the Manhattans, hired by van Rensselaer on account of the cattle.<sup>17</sup>

The patroon proposed that the council of New Netherland should place a guard of two or three men from Fort Orange at his mill, which was somewhat remotely situated and in whose safety the Company had no less concern than himself. He also asked the council to consider whether they would let five or six men from the garrison work through the day on a farm he intended establishing near the fort, "while they could keep careful watch at night." Considering there might be risk of some lack of efficiency after a day of field or manual labor, the council seems not to have assented to his proposal.

More than a year and a half was to pass before the patroon heard that his new officer and all the goods sent over in the ship de Eendracht had arrived at the appointed place.<sup>18</sup> A regular communication—a ferry, as van Rensselaer called it when he urged its establishment—did not exist, neither does navigation seem to have been active. In the absence of news, Kiliaen writes:<sup>19</sup> "the work here is quite unsettled. The directors are very much alarmed, many complain bitterly." Rumors of evil spread, that "all had perished, people as well as cattle," that the vessel, called the "sugar-bark" probably because it had served to carry sugar to the fatherland, had been leased by van Twiller to the English; and it seems that some proposed to introduce economies by leaving fewer people in New Netherland, which course according to the opinion of Kiliaen would only result in misfortune for the whole undertaking.

The Company as yet apparently drew no profits from New Netherland. Even the furs did not yield enough. It seems to have been suspected also that the officials engaged in smuggling and did not account to the Company for the real receipts of that valuable article. This was plainly the reason why van Rensselaer proposed to farm out the fur trade.<sup>20</sup>

The uncertainty regarding the condition of the colony worried the directors and led the patroon to decide, for a time, to cease sending over colonists and goods. It was as if courage revived when news at last came from the far West. The situation was not as bad as they had feared. I think it likely that van Rensselaer, under the pressure of painful uncertainty, decided to come forward and act himself, and when empowered by the Company, he resolved to fit out a ship to maintain the connection with his colony and transport goods, marketable in the New World. It seems that we must not regard this matter as either very great or very profitable.<sup>21</sup> I consider Kiliaen too wide-awake a man, if he had thought it was so, to go, as he did, into partnership for the vessel's freighting with the Leyden merchant and cloth dyer, Gerard de Forest, brother of Jesse de Forest, who is considered the founder of New Amsterdam.<sup>22</sup> The contract, executed before the notary, J. van de Ven, on August 8, 1636, required each partner with his associates to share half and half in the purchase of the ship Rensselaerswijck and of a cargo worth from 6000 to 7000 guilders, in provisioning the ship for 12 persons and in their wages. On the other hand, Kiliaen was to pay all the transit charges of colonists destined for his colony, but de Forest shared in the patroon's acknowledged right to the coast trade between Florida and Newfoundland, in the lumber and salt trade and in the letters of marque which he (Kiliaen) had received from the Prince of Orange. Should there be no opportunity to convey the colonists from the Manhattans to Rensselaerswyck, the ship was to go up there directly after its arrival. A warehouse was to be hired at the Manhattans for the storage of goods.

The venture amounted to much more than was agreed upon and was almost 15,500 guilders. The settlement of the account of Gerard de Forest and his associates seems to have been attended with much difficulty. The Letter Book of Kiliaen contains many letters to Gerard himself and members of his family, which, in every shade between entreaty and threats, press for the payment of the share put by them into the ship's venture. For more than a year Kiliaen was disappointed every time that he reckoned upon settlement. Under skipper Jan Tjepkes Schelling, the boat sailed out of the Y on September 25, 1636, and put to sea from the Texel October 8, with no less than 38 colonists on board, including six women. The prosperous voyage, so eagerly desired, did not ensue.

<sup>21</sup> It is interesting to hear the words of Kiliaen himself about the profits of this trade. "Since I have paid cash for these (goods) without including any expenses for packing, boat and lighter-freight, ocean freight, interest, risk, and insurance, damage, etc. (an increase which) with your commission (of 5%) amounts to nearly 50%, therefore (you) must sell all such goods as can bear it, somewhat higher than 50%. But I do not wish my own people to be charged more than 60% since they must gain it by their hard labor. But from other people, for whom I need not care, you may take as much as is the market rate and you can get." (Letter to Planck, Oct. 3, 1636 [printed on p. 323-30 of this volume].) N. DE R.

In quoting this section, Mr de Rocver abridges the text; that the various charges amount to 50% of the first cost is not definitely stated by the patroon, though implied.

The ship met with bad weather, according to the still existing Journal,<sup>23</sup> and after tossing to and fro for five weeks had to run in to Plymouth and there take refuge. There they must needs stay on land and, as ill luck would have it, one of the passengers, the blacksmith's helper, became intoxicated in a tavern, and gave a death blow to his master. The ship was moored, the rudder taken away, and although the criminal was given up, it was the 9th of January before the Rensselaerswyck could again set sail. The journey was pursued in fairly good weather until they anchored at the Manhattans on the 4th of March and remained there because the river was still closed. The cargo was discharged and Hendrik de Forest, the trader and mate,<sup>24</sup> remained in the hired warehouse to carry on trade, while the ship went up the river to the colony on the 26th and dropped anchor on the 7th of April opposite Fort Orange.<sup>25</sup> There they delivered the smith's coal, the millstones for the erection of a grist-mill near the sawmill, and other goods not mentioned. While the Rensselaerswijck lay at anchor, a yacht laden with grain went down to the Manhattans and another with animals arrived. On May 31, the journey was continued past the Manhattans to Smith's Island and then back again to the former place in order, on August 14, to begin the return voyage. They waited at Plymouth for other Dutch ships and arrived safely at the Texel, November 7, 1637.

The detention of more than seven weeks at Plymouth and the small profits of the voyage, added to the difficulties with his Leyden partner and the proved disloyalty of the skipper and of the supercargo Dirk Corsen Stam, decided Kiliaen to sell the ship.<sup>26</sup>

The patroon must now look around for other chances of sending over his colonists and the goods designed for his colony. So the ships with which Director Kieft crossed carried along colonists and goods for Kiliaen. Pieter Minuyt, who was going in his ship to Virginia as commander of a Swedish company, and had put in at the Texel on account of storms, out of old friendship for him took <sup>24</sup> According to the Journal, he died on July 26 and was buried the following day at the Manhattans, where the ship then was. Geertruy Bornstra, his widow, claimed his property from his sister Rachel, then living at the Manhattans, who had married Dr Lamontagne. According to his own declaration, made before Notary Coren, before his departure in 1636, he had been selected by the patroons in 1631 to fill the place of Gilles Housset in Zwanendal, but on account of the sad circumstances at said place the patroons gave up this plan. N. DE R.

<sup>25</sup> It seems that the colonists were all landed at the Manhattans. Arent Steffeniers married there on the 22d of March the widow of the murdered blacksmith. And on the 8th two children who had been born at sea were baptized there. N. DE R.

in a lighter-load of goods, among which were gunpowder, firelocks, wooden utensils, tar and pitch to be delivered at the Manhattans,<sup>27</sup> and also took six passengers on board. In the following year, a vessel fitted out by the Company, het Wapen van Noorwegen, in which the colony of Rensselaerswyck had a half interest, carried over a number of colonists and a large quantity of goods, including 18 young mares, thousands of bricks, ironwork, clothing material, spices, cheese, soap, oil and a box filled with earth in which were planted young grape vines, etc., all of which were confided to the care of Cornelis Melijn, the supercargo.<sup>28</sup>

We may therefore regard Kiliën as the introducer of the grape into the New World.<sup>29</sup>

The directors seem to have continued favorably disposed toward the patroon. However good the news from the colony may have been, the patroon had just cause to complain of his schout and commis. Planck appeared to lack clearness of insight. He seems not to have quickly perceived where his master's interests lay in every chance that offered. The patroon had no thought of bad faith, although he considered Planck not incapable of enriching himself at his expense through the fur trade. The patroon was also not too well satisfied with the way justice was administered; for this Planck appeared no more fitted than for the position of administrator of the colony.

Differences between the directors and the patroon concerning the fur trade still continued.

In the colonies, where, as in Rensselaerswyck, the Company had no commis, the geconquesteerde goederen, i. e. products of the soil, might be bartered for beaver and other skins, provided that a certain export duty be paid at the Manhattans. The meaning of the Freedoms and Exemptions is clear. Only those who took upon themselves the trouble and expense of establishing agricultural colonies might partly indemnify themselves by trading in furs. That the Company wished to reserve this trade exclusively by placing a commis in the colony and that this action aroused the just indignation of van Rensselaer, we have already seen. It seems that he, in connection with the fitting out of the ship Rensselaerswijck, claimed the right from the Company to trade all, even imported goods, for peltries, considering that there had been a tacit concession of his claims when the Company in the contract with Pauw concerning the transfer of Pavonia had thrown open the fur trade of that quarter to the colonists. When the parties could not agree about this, the decision was left to their High Mightinesses. Kiliaen desired the director and council in New Netherland, pending a decision of the matter, to at least grant his schout a temporary fur trading privilege, in order to recoup for the frequent forced deliveries that he had made out of the storehouses of his colony to the Company's officials on account, for the feeding of the population and provisioning of the returning ships.

I have spoken of the Company's efforts to draw a profit from New Netherland by retaining the exclusive control of the fur trade. This seems to have been possible only through sending few people there. The expense of transportation and support of the colonists had apparently become so heavy that the directors shrank from sending more people and making New Netherland a source of still greater loss to the Company's already unprofitable balance.

No more free colonists offered themselves. They could only be tempted by the free extension of this important trade.<sup>30</sup> It was as much in the interest of New Netherland as in that of his own colony that van Rensselaer brought this point to the official notice of the Company. In 1636 this was evidently still discussed<sup>31</sup> but without much chance of a favorable decision for the proponent. The directors were quite preoccupied by the difficulties which the fiscal, Lubbert van Dincklage, had brought upon them by his strife with Director van Twiller, with the preacher Bogardus, who in turn was incensed against the latter, and indeed with the whole council and with all officials in New Netherland. We can not digress here to discuss this question which the directors found very perplexing. It seems that they did not blame van Twiller for it but they had other grievances against him. The director was a poor correspondent, though we do not believe with van Rensselaer that he was too timid<sup>32</sup> to write. The directors were not kept informed of matters, so that it became necessary to recall him and send out a new director. The opponents of van Twiller stirred up the fire kindled against him. As early as September 1636, it was planned to put the director of Curaçao, van Walbeeck, in his place, but almost a year passed before van Twiller was succeeded by

Willem Kieft, who started for his post the last of September 1637 with two ships fitted out by the Company. In the meantime Schout Planck was very busy in distributing the small army of new colonists among his farms and laying out a couple of new ones to be intrusted to the care of Symon Walichss and Cornelis Maesen and named Besselsburch and Trippenburch after the copartners in the colony, besides building two mills, a sawmill and a grist-mill. By the erection of the first, Kiliaen expected to have merchantable lumber that would be bought by the Company and the English, at least all that he did not need for his own use, and boards which might please the natives, because they would be suitable for building huts and fitting them with hinged doors and windows. The patroon also promised himself no less profit from the grist-mill since he could barter his grain with the Company for peltries or sell it to the English, and collect seawan by grinding the maize which the Indians would bring to the mill.

The increasing necessity prompted the patroon, as we saw, to send over people and goods by whatever opportunity offered. Eight colonists crossed with Kieft, among whom were two blacksmiths<sup>33</sup> and a couple of locksmiths. Van Rensselaer had indeed wished to send more people, but the Company in the beginning was willing to fit out only one ship and when the chartering of the second was determined upon he had no longer any chance to get other colonists. But in the same year six others followed in the ship of Pieter Minuyt, among whom was the patroon's cousin, Arent van Curler,<sup>34</sup> a youth of 18 years of age, who was going to Rensselaerswyck as assistant or clerk to Planck, in order that the patroon might in future be kept better informed of his affairs.

The latest colonists were to be especially employed in tobacco raising<sup>35</sup> but could in other ways meet their expenses by their own trades.

Better times were dawning for the Company. Brazil was subdued and entered upon an era of orderly government under Johan Maurits. The directors decided to increase their capital by one third.<sup>36</sup> In the prospect of larger resources, it was determined "to take up the matter of New Netherland with all diligence." The question of granting new freedoms was discussed but it was decided to await the report of the new director.

According to Mr G. Beernink, of Nijkerk, Arent van Curler was baptized Feb. 6, 1620, and was the son of Hendrik; Joachim being an uncle of Arent and father of Jacobus, mentioned on p. 216.

From time to time the directors received tidings which should have made it clear to them that the English encroached more and more on the land of the Maquas, on the Fresh River and elsewhere. This could only be prevented by doing more for colonization and declaring trade free without reserve. But this they seemed unable to decide upon and in consequence the patroon wrote on May 6, 1638, to his nephew van Twiller: "The Company must open their eyes, as I maintain, or they will lose the best part of that fine region." Neither were the Swedish attempts to get a firm footing in North America to be concealed. The course of affairs could not fail to attract the attention of the States General. The frontiers of the colony were continually threatened by the danger of foreign intruders, and in the settled regions the population was decreasing rather than increasing. As soon as the six years' contract with the Company expired, many colonists returned to the fatherland after selling their cattle<sup>37</sup> or were engaged for the colony of Rensselaerswyck, where living was evidently more profitable.

The States General saw the internal strength of the settlement diminish, whereas they had hoped and expected, for the sake of the fatherland, to have a firmly established government there.

Their High Mightinesses felt that there must be a change but they could not themselves push the matter. They gave the directors a hearing and urged the Assembly of the Nineteen to devise new ways of combating the ever increasing evil. This resulted in the discussion of a plan to offer new inducements to those willing to settle in New Netherland.

De Lact, one of the partners of Kiliaen in Rensselaerswyck, proposed a plan that gained the approbation of the Amsterdam Chamber but their High Mightinesses by no means approved of it. A new plan was offered by others<sup>38</sup> and was, like the first, referred by their High Mightinesses to a special committee for consideration, is to be found. It appears therefore that shortly after taking this resolve and before its execution, they were already considering a greater increase, up to one half of the capital. This at any rate was authorized in June 1639. N. DE R.

<sup>37</sup> I have already said that van Twiller, as also the patroon, bought in a part of the cattle and was blamed for it; very unjustly, as I think, unless it can be proved that the departure of the colonists was owing to him. The Company's restrictions were much more likely the cause of it. N. DE R.

<sup>38</sup> O'Callaghan claims that this was the project given in the Holland Documents [Doc. rel. to Col. Hist. N. Y.], 1:96. In my opinion that can not be the second plan, which is I think the one printed in his History of New Netherland, 1:201-3, although it is there incorrectly described as a proclamation. Above, it will be seen that nothing ever came of the plan to give free trade to New Netherland.

September 2, 1638. The new conditions granted the principle of free trade in New Netherland with the reservation of the Company's legitimate dues. The judgment of van Rensselaer in this matter may surely be quoted because his contemporaries seem to have shown their estimate of it when they appointed him as one of the impartial persons to whom was referred the question of free trade in Brazil. His letters show that he expected no relief for New Netherland from such a measure; indeed, he wrote to one of the members of the committee, Jhr. Gerrit van Arnhem, that he did not approve of the plan and insisted now more than ever upon the maintenance of his rights.<sup>39</sup>

The Assembly of the Nineteen did not consider it with favor either. It was feared that the opening of New Netherland to trade instead of promoting colonization, would give rise to the establishment of trading posts<sup>40</sup> and it seems that their High Mightinesses, for the same reason, dared not risk free trade. Nothing therefore came of it. A concession was made to the free traders by giving the colonists, in 1639, the fur trade privilege discussed before in May 1638.<sup>41</sup>

So far had matters progressed when, in the fall of 1639, in spite of the secrecy with which matters were managed in the Amsterdam Chamber, Kiliaen, whose directorship in the West India Company had expired several years before, found out that they were discussing new Freedoms and Exemptions with the evident intention—quite to his mind—of urging rich men to found new patroonships. These Freedoms were, however, not so liberal as the first of 1628–29. The preamble stated that the privileges would apply to those patroons who had already planted colonies as well as to those about to do so. This was enough to make Kiliaen feel that his rights would be curtailed if the plan were accepted. Therefore, apparently in order expressly to call the attention of the directors to this point, he presented a protest to the Assembly on October 27, 1639, whereby he sought assurance regarding it.<sup>42</sup> But he did not stop there. The friendly Jhr. van Arnhem was called upon;

In my opinion the project mentioned in Holl. Doc. [Doc. rel. to Col. Hist. N. Y.], 1:96, refers to a later plan to improve the situation of New Netherland.

Concerning this also I refer to the following pages. N. DE R.

<sup>39</sup> Van Rensselaer felt that the best plan of colonization was by the admission of patroons. They could put capital in the business but stay at home, and the less favored by fortune, whom they sent over, could make capital fruitful. So the rich and the poor would help one another. N. DE R.

<sup>40</sup> The view given here of the difficulties of those days, formed as I think on incontestable grounds, differs wholly from that conveyed by O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:197. N. DE R.

Musch, the secretary, was persuaded to forestall the possible approbation of their High Mightinesses by presenting a petition to them, praying that the patroon might at least be heard about this project and, in case of its adoption, that he might receive a certificate de non praejudicando.<sup>43</sup> I think it not impossible that a second proposal granting the patroons still greater rights than those of 1629 was introduced into the Assembly by persons planning to found new colonies. I do not know what became of these proposals. In his letter to Jonker van Arnhem, Kiliaen says that they were unfavorably received by the States General.

It is certain that a revival in American colonial affairs followed the revocation of the fur trade monopoly. Just at this time Count van Solms proposed to found a colony and Cornelis Melijn was empowered to do likewise, departing soon after for Staten Island, as patroon.

O'Callaghan's statement seems to me quite incomprehensible and unfounded, that in the year 1638 "the trade as well as the cultivation of the soil was thrown open to every person, whether denizen or foreigner, who chose to embark in it." For when I read in the subjects for discussion named in the call for the meeting of February 21, 1643, the following clause given by the compiler of the Holland Documents himself,<sup>44</sup> "It being found . . . that the plan"—mark this word—"of opening the trade . . . produces no true effect," then I do not doubt that these projects came to naught. O'Callaghan confuses the fur trading privileges given the colonists with a free trade such as the Company granted Brazil. In New Netherland all went on pretty much as of old. The population increased, but through a ruinous desire to get rich they bartered weapons in return for the much desired furs from the natives, who after a few years made use of these arms to slaughter the white inhabitants.

In many respects the situation at Rensselaerswyck was not according to the patroon's wishes. Disobedience to his appointed authorities was of frequent occurrence; the contraband trade of the colonists robbed him of half his profits. The colonists might trade with the patroon's commis, but not with natives or outsiders, although Kiliaen was inclined to overlook this a little in those who zealously applied themselves to farming and cattle-raising.<sup>45</sup>

It was scandalous that the supercargo of the ship Rensselaerswijck had tempted the colonists to engage in this forbidden trade, thus evading the payment of duties to the Company. He had indeed by a full confession, arising from repentance, enabled his master to get redress from the disobedient colonists, but this gave rise to all kinds of difficulties for the schout and schepens, since an evil spirit had entered into the colony of enriching themselves at the patroon's cost and in spite of the contracts made with him.

We have seen the conditions upon which the farmers came to Rensselaerswyck. As a rule they were people of no means who must take an advance from the patroon in order to fit themselves out as best they could and they saw their debt also increased by the expenses of the journey. The patroon was therefore the creditor of most of them when they landed in his colony, and since they could obtain all kinds of necessities<sup>46</sup> in exchange for farm products only from the patroon through his commis they soon got deeper in debt when there was a scant harvest. This might perhaps come right by degrees, but surely not by a measure which displeased him greatly, namely that without informing him the farmers had raised the wages of farm laborers. By this means, the receipts would be diminished and the hoped-for time deferred when the partners should enter upon the enjoyment of the profits, whilst again and again assessments, of only a few hundred guilders it is true, must be raised for the shortage caused by the administration.

On his side the patroon gave all sorts of instructions. One thing which he had continually in mind was the care of the spiritual welfare of his colonists. Although people assembled regularly every Sunday for prayer and song, he wished that the colony might find means to pay for a minister, but the 300 guilders which Planck had for that purpose did not appear sufficient to the patroon to induce a servant of the Gospel to change his post for the colony; indeed, the proposed church, having a granary on the second floor, would not, he thought, offer a sufficiently tempting opportunity to a hesitating minister. At this time there was little inclination for emigration. The plague had made fearful ravages and had not yet vanished. Every working force could be employed at home. In the years from 1638 to 1640 the patroon could find only a few inclined to join his agricultural colony.

The death rate was also very great in Amsterdam and could not fail to cause van Rensselaer serious consideration. He had many children; how would they fare if he should perish, as so many had? So he wished to make disposition in regard to Rensselaerswyck, which he was at liberty to do according to article 7 of the conceded Freedoms. He therefore applied, in November 1639, to the Nine-teen, for this permission. It seems that the patroon, who as we have said had a three fifths interest in the enterprise, had taken this step without the knowledge of his partners; in no wise to mislead them, for who, better than he, could know that as directors it would come immediately to the notice of Blommaert and de Laet? Van Rensselaer was too noble and honorable a man to do anything but what he thought to be right. But it seems that de Laet, and soon the other partners also, took quite a different view of their mutual relations. Kiliaen was certainly the administrator and owner of more than half of the colony, but they had also had rights, and rights equal to the patroon's. What else was he planning than to place himself, at their expense, in possession of the whole colony? They began to suspect him, to confer together and to devise measures distasteful to the patroon; and when he pressed for settlement, this, to his great surprise, was refused by de Laet, unless the patroon would declare how he understood the patroonship. Although he said that he intended to defraud none of his partners, but only, in what concerned himself, to insist on the rights and prerogatives granted to the patroon by the sixth article of the Freedoms, that did not help him. De Laet remained unwilling to pay<sup>47</sup> the sum already owing, which had been advanced by the patroon, and he as well as the other partners would not even meet with the patroon for the discussion of necessary measures.

From the letters which van Rensselaer wrote as well to de Laet as to Muyssart in the years 1640 and 1641, we may learn what the partners wanted.<sup>48</sup>

It seems that they considered themselves owners of a part of the colony equivalent to their share, while the patroon asserted that they were coowners of the whole. They insisted therefore not only upon the division of the colony into the five lordships, of which it consisted,<sup>49</sup> but desired also to enter upon the enjoyment of manorial rights and to exercise the same over such portions as <sup>47</sup> Toussaint Muyssart seems to have paid. He had need to keep friends with the patroon since he supplied duffel, blankets and similar articles. N. DE R.

should be allotted to them. The patroon pointed out that this conflicted with the sixth article of the Freedoms, which recognized only one patroon entrusted with jurisdiction and also with the conditions by which the four patroons had bound themselves and with the facts, proved by the administration, the appointment of officials and engaging of colonists, all of which measures were executed by the patroon without the interposition of his partners; and finally, by the deeds of the territories, which stood exclusively in his name. But he also proved that from a practical point of view the division would not be advantageous. How could one divide the grist-mill, the sawmill, the brewery? What would become of the shoemaker, the blacksmith or the carpenter? Now each one of them could find work because the colony was undivided. And how vexatious it would be when the farm laborers, who so willingly changed from farm to farm, should go over from one independent part of the colony to another? The patroon argued, and we believe rightly, that it would cause the downfall of the colony. To keep control in one hand was needful. What use was it for him to bring up every matter of common interest for discussion, when he, as owner of three fifths, could always outvote the others?<sup>50</sup>

It would be most unjust that he who continually and quite alone had been diligent in the matter and brought it to good results with great promise in the near future, should now, without ground for questioning his management or his accounts, be removed from the government by his partners, of whom Mr de Laet had never given himself the trouble even to break a lance for the colony in the Assembly of the Nineteen.

He was not disinclined to concession. For instance, he was willing to assign some farms to the partners, if his overlordship, his higher and lower jurisdiction and his manorial rights were submitted to and recognized. He was even willing to grant them permission to nominate persons to office provided that the commissions were given by the patroon. The jurisdiction was indivisible. The Freedoms granted to the patroons in 1628-29 spoke of no separation. If the partners wished to have exclusive possession of a farm or even of one of the territories, the relations between them and the patroon must be those of vassal and lord. If they would agree to this, he would cede them the possession of one fifth of the intermediate and one tenth of the lower jurisdictions.

Such a bond did not attract the partners, especially de Laet, who made himself their spokesman. They desired free rule, freedom of jurisdiction, and rebelled at the idea of resigning the slightest fraction of freedom for "nonfreedom," as they perversely viewed it, under the patroon.

Although they had now won over the patroon to the idea of an actual division into lordships, they held on to the scheme of coadministration and cojurisdiction with the lord paramount, not allowing themselves, for the present at least, to be convinced of its practical impossibility by the appeal of Kiliaen.

In the meantime, van Rensselaer had gained the Company's consent to make disposition by his last will and testament as he pleased of the property he held in fief, and on January 29, 1641, he sought the approval of the States General, which was granted to him by letters patent of February 5 following.<sup>51</sup>

From the wording of the grant thus obtained by him, it is most evident that the patroon believed a settlement with his partners possible on the basis of recognition of his feudal rights. We read indeed, in a quotation from the actual words of his request, that he wished to dispose of this "for the benefit of his children, friends, relatives and also strangers, as he may please and see fit." Under the words "strangers" he may be supposed to have really provided for the interests of his partners.

The partners debated for some months whether they should go to law but appear to have abandoned this plan. We hear no more of the matter during the patroon's lifetime. They became good friends again and went on with the work of annually dispatching a good-sized consignment of merchandise to the colony. They paid their assessments but not until after they had expressly reserved their rights by the protest of July 1, 1641.

So these difficulties were taken out of the way of van Rensselaer.<sup>51a</sup>

<sup>51a</sup> Here ends the second article by Mr de Roever on the colony of Rensselaerswyck. Mr de Roever intended to continue the account, but first pressing duties in connection with the transfer of the city archives, then the death of his wife and finally his own sudden death on March 11, 1893, prevented him from completing his task.

Charter granted by the High and Mighty Lords the States General to the West India Company, dated the 3d of June 1621.

The States General of the United Netherlands to all who shall see these presents or hear them read, greeting. Be it known, that we, noticing that the prosperity of this country and the welfare of its inhabitants consist principally in navigation and trade, which from time immemorial has been carried on by this country with good fortune and great blessing with all countries and kingdoms; and desiring that the aforesaid inhabitants not only be maintained in their former navigation, commerce and trade, but also that their commerce may be increased as much as possible, especially in conformity with the treaties, alliances, conventions and covenants concerning commerce and navigation formerly made with other princes, republics and nations, which we intend shall be punctually kept and observed in all their parts; and finding by experience that without the common help, aid and means of a general company, no profitable business can be carried on, protected and maintained in the parts hereafter designated on account of the great risk from pirates, extortions and the like, which are incurred on such long and distant voyages; we, therefore, many other and different pregnant reasons and considerations also us thereunto moving, after mature deliberation of Council, and for very pressing causes, have resolved that the navigation, trade and commerce in the West

XLII. We have moreover ordained that in case of war all the prizes which may be taken from enemies and pirates within the aforesaid limits by the Company or those who have been sent to its assistance; also the goods which shall be seized by virtue of our proclamations — after deducting all necessary expenses and the damage which the Company may have suffered in taking each prize, together with the dues of His Excellency as admiral in chief agreeable to our resolution to that effect adopted on the first of April, sixteen hundred and two, and the tenth part for the officers, sailors and soldiers who have taken the prize — shall remain at the disposal of the directors of the aforesaid Company; provided that the account of them shall be kept separate and distinct from the account of trade and commerce, that the net proceeds of the said prizes shall be employed in fitting out ships, paying the troops, fortifications, garri-

All of which privileges, freedoms and exemptions, together with the assistance above mentioned, in all their points and articles, we have granted, allowed, promised and pledged to the aforesaid Company, and do hereby grant, allow and pledge with full knowledge of the matter, promising to allow them to enjoy the same quietly and peaceably. We likewise order that the same shall be kept and observed by all magistrates, officers and subjects of these United Netherlands and that they shall not do anything contrary to the same directly or indirectly, either within or without the said United Netherlands, upon pain of being punished therefor both in person and property as disturbers of the common welfare of this country and transgressors of our ordinance. ## Amplification of the Charter of the West India Company

June 10, 1622Translation

Amplification of the charter: wherein the salt trade to Punto del Rey is forbidden except to the Company; also the time of subscription extended, &c. Dated June 10, 1622.

The States General of the United Netherlands, to all those who shall see these presents or hear them read, greeting. Be it known, that whereas heretofore a certain amplification of the charter granted to the West India Company, for the further promotion and benefit of the same, has been published by us and brought to public notice everywhere by means of placards, reading word for word as follows:

The States General of the United Netherlands to all who shall see these presents or hear them read, greeting. Whereas we have after mature deliberation of council, for the benefit of these provinces and the welfare of the good inhabitants thereof, caused a company to be formed here in these Netherlands for commerce and trade to the West-Indies, Africa and other places mentioned in our former proclamation of the ninth of June, in the year sixteen hundred and twenty-one, with a prohibition that none of the natives or inhabitants of this country for the term of twenty-four years from the first of July next following should sail or trade within the said limits, except only those who under the charter granted to the aforesaid Company are permitted to carry on the salt trade to Punto del Rey under the regulations therefor adopted or to be adopted by us: whereas upon reconsidering that matter, we find that it is useful and necessary for the service of this country and for promoting the aforesaid chartered Company to vest the aforesaid salt trade to Punto del Rey also in the said Company: Therefore we (our former proclamation of the ninth of June remaining in full force) have also interdicted and forbidden, and by these presents do interdict and forbid, the natives and inhabitants by desen, dat geene Ingheboornen ofte Inghesetenen deser Landen, binnen den tijt vande voorsz vier-en-twintich Jaren, uyt dese Nederlanden, nochte de voorsz Ingeboornen ofte Ingesetenen, oock uyt eenige andere Rijcken ofte Landen, directelick ofte indirectelick en sullen vermogen te varen op de voorsz Sout-vaert van Punto del Rey, anders als uyt den Name ende van wegen dese Compagnie, willende ende ordonnerende, dat alle andere Ingeboornen ende Ingesetenen, die ter contrarie hen vervorderen sullen te doen, ofte bevonden sullen kunnen werden gedaen te hebben, verbeuren sullen Schip ende Goederen, die datelijck aen getast, ende ten behoeve vande voornoemde Compagnie verbeurt ghehouden sullen werden. Ende indien soodanige Schepen ende Goederen soudén mogen werden daer naer verkocht, ofte in andere Landen ofte Havenen gebracht, Hebben wy geordonneert ende ghestatueert, ordonneren ende statueren by desen, dat de Reeders ende Participanten van dien, in dese Landen woonende, ofte hier ghegoet wesende, voor de waerde van dien sullen wesen convenibel, ende gheexecuteert mogen werden. Wy hebben mede goet gevonden den tijdt om in dese Compagnie te mogen komen, te prolongeren, gelijk wy doen by desen voor den Ingesetenen deser Landen, tot den lesten Julij toekomende, nieuwen stijl incluys: Ende voor den Uytheemschen tot den laetsten Septembris, mede nieuwen stijle daer aen volgende, ende oock inclusive. Ende en sal naer dien tijdt niemant meer tot eenige teeckeninge ofte inlatinge inde Compagnie werden gheadmitteert, ten eynde alle de geene die inde voorsz Compagnie noch sullen willen komen, binnen den selven tijdt als noch, onder eenige vande Directeurs daer toe gestelt, mogen teyckenen ofte doen teyckenen voor sulcken somme van penningen als haer goet duncken sal inde selve te herideren: Willende mede dat de eerste ses Weecken gheexpireert zijnde, uyt de bequaemste, ervarenste, ende meest ingeleyt-hebbende Participanten, datelijck gheëligheert, gemaect ende gestelt sullen werden de Bewinthebberen vande voornoemde Compagnie, in conformiteyt vanden Octroye, ende dat de selve als dan promptelijck sullen procederen tot d'equipagie, om de gheoctroyeerde Navigatie ende Handelingē datelijck by der handt te nemen, ende in 't werck te stellen. Ende want wy willen dat alle 't gunt voorsz is, vast ende bondich blijve, ende also onderhouden werde in Recht ende daer buyten, Hebben wy versocht de Staten ende Stadthouders der respective Provincien van Gelderlant ende Zutphen, Holland ende West-Vrieslant, Zeelandt, Utrecht, Vrieslant, Over-Yssel, ende van Groeningen ende Ommelanden: Midtsgaders der selver Gecommitteerde Raden, ofte Gedeputeerde Staten, gelijk oock den of this country, during the term of the aforesaid twenty-four years, to sail out of these Netherlands, as also out of any other kingdom or country, directly or indirectly, in the said salt trade to Punto del Rey, except in the name and on behalf of this Company; willing and ordaining that all other natives and inhabitants who shall venture to do, or shall be found to have done anything to the contrary hereof, shall forfeit ship and goods which shall be immediately seized and confiscated for the benefit of the aforesaid Company. And if such ship and goods should thereafter be sold or brought into other countries or ports, we have ordained and decreed, and do hereby ordain and decree, that the owners and participants thereof, living in this country or owning property here, shall be liable for the value thereof and that execution may issue against them. We have also deemed fit, as we hereby deem fit, to extend the time of entering this Company for the inhabitants of this country till the last of July next, new style, inclusive, and for foreigners till the last of September, also new style, next-ensuing, and also inclusive. And after that date no one shall be admitted or allowed to make any subscription to this Company, so that all those who still wish to be admitted to this Company may within the time aforesaid subscribe or cause subscription to be made before some of the directors thereto appointed for such sums of money as they shall see fit to invest in the same. We further desire that immediately after the expiration of the first six weeks, from the most able and experienced participants who have made the largest investments shall be elected and appointed the directors of the aforesaid Company, in accordance with the charter, and that the same shall thereupon promptly proceed to the equipment of vessels in order to begin at once the granted navigation and trade.

And desiring that what is above written shall be observed and maintained, in law and without, we have requested the States and Stadtholders of the respective provinces of Gelderland and Zutphen, Holland and West-Friesland, Zealand, Utrecht, Friesland, Over-Yssel, and of Groningen and Ommelanden, together with the Deputy Councils or States of the same, and the Chancellor, Presi-

Ende op dat niemant hier van eenige ignorantie en pretendere, Versoecken ende ontbieden Wy alle Overheyden, Magistraten, Officiers ende Justicieren binnen dese Vereenichde Nederlanden, die het eenichsints aengaen mach, dat sy desen alomme doen verkondigen, uytroepen ende publiceren, daer men ghewoon is uytroepinge ende publicatie te doen: Want wy 't selve voor den dienst vande Landen ende de goede Ingesetenen van dien bevonden hebben te behooren. SOO IST, day wy ons in alles genegen vindende, omme de voorschreve West-Indische Compagnie gunstelijck te favoriseren, nae rijpe deliberatie, met volle kennisse van saecke gheaccordeert hebben, ende accorderen mits desen, dat de bovengenoemde Ampliatie ten fine voorsz met onsen grooten Zegel gheconfirmeert ende bevesticht werde. And in order that no one may pretend ignorance hereof, we request and summon all authorities, magistrates and officers of justice within these United Netherlands, whom it may in any wise concern, to have this amplification proclaimed, promulgated and made public wherever it is customary to have such proclamation and promulgation made; for we deem this fit for the service of this country and its good inhabitants. And whereas the aforesaid Company through some of their deputies have later remonstrated and clearly shown that the majority and the largest of the subscriptions were thereupon made and that without this amplification no sufficient capital could have been brought together, inasmuch as the majority of the participants largely counted on this as essential for assured profit, and therefore request us that, for their satisfaction and further security, and also to prevent all disputes and contraband trading, we do them the favor to grant them this amplification confirmed and ratified under our great seal; Therefore, being in every way willing to favor the aforesaid West India Company, we have after mature deliberation and with full knowledge of circumstances granted, and hereby do grant, that the aforesaid amplification, for the purpose aforesaid, be confirmed and ratified under our great seal. Thus done in our meeting under our great seal, paraph and signature of our secretary, at the Hague, on the sixteenth of February 1623. Was paraphed, I. Magnus,<sup>vt</sup>. ## Amplification of the charter of the West India Company

February 13, 1623Translation

Amplification of the charter, dated the thirteenth of February sixteen hundred twenty-three.

The States General of the United Netherlands, to all who shall see these presents or hear them read, greeting. Be it known, that we, having heard in our meeting on the twenty-fourth of March, in the year sixteen hundred and twenty-two last past, that which on behalf of the Lords the States of Holland and West Friesland was laid before us by certain extraordinary deputies, namely, that for the better promoting the West India Company it was necessary that the salt trade to Puncto del Rey, situated within the limits of the said Company's charter and formerly excepted from it, should be included in the aforesaid charter, and that all other salt trades, situated without the limits of that charter, should be left free and out of it; also that the chief participants of the aforesaid Company might have the nomination of a triple number, out of which the directors should be chosen; further, that the cities in which there are no Chambers, contributing out of their funds in one name one hundred thousand guilders or more, upon nomination as aforesaid, might be entitled to appoint one director for each hundred thousand guilders, in whatever Chamber they should think proper to invest their money; and that they desired that we would amplify the aforesaid charter to the above mentioned West India Company with the aforesaid provisions that the Company might be completed; and this being by us at that time well and maturely deliberated upon: we declared and consented that the aforesaid salt trade at Puncto del Rey should be included, as we did include it, in the aforesaid charter of the West India Company under the orders and interdictions therein contained. And with respect to the other two provisions, we further declared krachte van 't dertiende Article van 't voornoemde Octroy, dien van Hollandt ende West-Vrieslandt, gelijk oock alle andere Provincien vry staet de nominatie vande Bewinthebbers, in voegen als vooren te laten doen, ten meesten dienste ende voorderinge vande Compagnie, Midtsgaders oock geaccordeert ende geconsenteert hebben, dat de Steden daer geen Kameren en zijn, inne leggende uyt heure Gemeenten hondert duysent gulden ofte meer, op behoorlicke nominatie vande Hooft-Participanten, ende over elcke hondert duysent gulden, sullen mogen stellen een Bewinthebber, in sulcken Kamer, daer sy goet vinden sullen heure Penningen te brengen. Van 't welcke wy als nu versocht wesende by de Bewint-hebbers vande West-Indische Compagnie, behoorlicke Brieven te doen depescheren, geparapheert, geteykent ende gesegelt met onsen grooten Zegele naer behooren, hebben wy in achtervolch van onse Resolutie, op den voornoemden vier-en-twintichsten Martij genomen, dese onse Brieven van alle 't gunt voorsz is doen depescheren. the West India Company

Translation

Agreement made between the directors and the chief participants of the West India Company, with the approval of the High and Mighty Lords the States General. Dated June 21, 1623.

The States General of the United Netherlands, to all to whom these presents shall come, greeting. Be it known, that whereas, in a memorial directed to us by certain deputies of the chief participants of the chartered West India Company, Chamber of Amsterdam, setting forth that they presented themselves several times before the Assembly of the directors and also held a number of meetings with the committee appointed by them to the end that in due time proper rules and regulations might be adopted and established to the satisfaction of the good participants and that the business might the better and with the more profit be set in motion as soon as possible and subsequently be brought into proper operation, our approbation was requested of several articles presented to us for that purpose, either in the way of an amplification of their charter or else by framing an order for the aforesaid particular Chamber of Amsterdam or in such manner as we should find advisable; and whereas, before adopting any resolution thereupon, we thought fit, to send a copy of the articles to the respective Chambers of the West India Company, that they might carefully examine them, confer with the chief participants and send to us deputies from themselves, as well as from the chief participants, fully empowered and authorized, ende gheauthoriseert, om daer over, ende wat noch voorts tot bevordering van soo een noodige saecke soude mogen dienen, in onderlinge conferentie te komen, ende soo doenelijck, finalijcken t' accorderen op onse approbatie. Ende dat die Gedeputeerden vande respective Kameren, Directeurs ende Hooft-Participanten in competenten getale daer op alhier zijn gekomen, ende volgens ten overstaen, inductionen ende tusschen-spreecken van onse Gecommitteerden, nae verscheydene ghehoudene conferentien, communicatien ende deliberatien, eyntelijck als Bewinthebbers, Directeurs ende Hooft-Participanten sonder prejudicie vande Provincien ende respective Steden, tot vordering van de West-Indische saecke, verdragen ende onderlinge gheaccordeert hebben dese naevolgende Articulen.

Ten eersten, Dat geene veranderinge, extention nochte interpretatie van het Octroy ofte dependentien van dien sullen werden versocht by de Bewinthebbers noch by de Hooft-Participanten ofte yemant anders, dan nae voorgaende convocatie, communicatien ende approbatie van het meerendeel der Bewinthebbers ende Hooft-Participanten, die inde vergaderinge sullen present zijn.

Ten tweeden, Dat in alle vergaderingen daer Bewinthebbers ende Hooft-Participanten t'samen, ofte daer de Hooft-Participanten alleen ende apart sonder de Bewinthebbers sullen besoigneren, alle nominatien, deputationen ende electien met eenen name t'effens sullen gheschieden met beslooten Briefkens den presiderenden in handen te geven, ofte op andere secrete manieren.

Ten derden, Dat de Compagnie geene Penningen op Interesse oft deposito sal mogen lichten, dan met advijs ende consent van 't meerendeel der Bewinthebbers ende Hooft-Participanten, Doch sullen de respective Kameren in voorvallende noot, voor een reyse alleen mogen lichten elck een twintichste deel van 't ingheleyde Capitaal in hare Kamer, sonder dat by de selve Kameren meerder lichtinge sal werden gedaen, voor ende al eer de eerste gelichte Penningen sullen zijn afgelost.

Ten vierden, Dat alle Reeckeningen by het vijfthiende Article van 't Octroy gementioneert, sullen gedaen werden nae stijle van Negotie, aen de Gecommitteerde by de Hooft-Participanten te nomineren, ende onder Eede t'admitteren, binnen den tijdt in 't voorsz vijfthiende Article begrepen, welcke Gecommitteerde daer af alleene in 't gros aen de andere Hooft-Participanten rapport sullen doen, Doch sullen de selve Gecommitteerden by Eede verbonden zijn niet t'ontdecken, maer alles secreet te houden, dat de Bewinthebbers secreet moeten houden: Sullen mede 't verboth by het een-en-for this purpose and whatever might serve to promote so necessary a business, to meet in mutual conference and if possible to come to final agreement, subject to our approval; and whereas these deputies of the respective Chambers, directors and chief participants, thereupon came here in proper number and, in the presence and on the suggestion and persuasion of our delegates, after the holding of several conferences, communications and deliberations, finally, as managers, directors and chief participants, without prejudice to the provinces and respective cities, for promoting the West India business mutually agreed upon the following articles:

V. That the said committee shall have and exercise, on behalf of the chief participants, the rights given and granted by Article twenty-seven to the agents; and moreover, for this purpose, to examine the books, invoices and other documents at their pleasure, and inspect the merchandise, and the letters concerning the business.

VI. That the first two vacant places among the directors at Amsterdam, the first two of Zealand, and the first in the Chamber of the Mase shall successively be supplied and filled by the chief participants of the respective Chambers, absolutely by plurality of votes; [these elected] are to be bound by the same oath and to have the same powers as the other directors, and shall be obliged to communicate to the chief participants what concerns them, to preserve their rights in the said meetings of the directors according to circumstances and to call them together, and they shall be specially responsible to and [their election] revocable by the aforesaid chief participants; the rest of the directors of the respective Chambers shall continue to be elected according to the charter, or in such manner as is already ordained, or may hereafter be ordained in the respective provinces; and that provisionally two of the chief participants of each of the respective Chambers of Amsterdam and Zealand and one of the Chamber of the Mase, shall be deputed aside from the committee mentioned in the foregoing articles, to take care of their aforesaid rights in the meantime, until one or two places shall be vacant.

VII. When the Nineteen shall meet together, the chief participants of the Chamber of Amsterdam shall be permitted to choose one of the two directors or provisional deputies aforesaid, that he may be one of the eight directors in the said meeting for the Chamber of Amsterdam. In like manner the chief participants of Zealand shall be permitted to choose one of the aforesaid two directors or provisional deputies, by them absolutely appointed, to be one of four directors representing their Chamber in the Assembly of the Nineteen. And in addition the aforesaid chief participants, as well those of the Chamber of Amsterdam as those of Zealand, shall each noch mogen eligeren elcks eene uyt de be-eedichde Gecommitteerde, Artijckel vier ende vijf vermelt, om die voorschreve Gedeputeerden elcks inden sijnen t'assisteren inde voorschreve Vergaderinge vande Negenthiene, sonder dat nochtans de selve Geassocieerden stemme apart sullen hebben. Ende ten eynde de andere Kameran mede kennisse van saecken opte selve vergaderinghe verhandelt mogen hebben, sal die geassocieerde vande Kamer van Amsterdam, den Hooft-Participanten van 't Noorder-quartier ende van Stadt ende Landen: Ende die gheassocieerde vande Kamer van Zeelandt, die vande Mase adviseren van 't ghebesoigneerde inde voorschreve Vergaderinge, voor soo veele 't selve communicabel sal zijn.

Ten achtsten, Dat naer desen niemant tot Bewinthebber sal mogen gheëligeert werden, die in dienst vande Compagnie van Oost-Indien is: Sullen oock Vader ende Soon, Item, Broeders van heelen ende halven Bedden, geen Bewinthebberen in eene Kamer te gelijcke mogen wesen; Ende sullen de Bewint-hebberen geen provisie ghenieten, ten zy dat sy ten dienste vande Compagnie behoorelijk vaceren.

Ten negenden, Alsoo het noodich is om een yeder te voldoen, dat den tijdt om in dese Compagnie te teecken en te herideren noch gheprolongeert werde, tot contentement soo vande Ingesetenen als Uytlandsche, dat daerom voor d'Ingesetenen tot ultima Augusti, ende voor d'Uytlandische tot ultima Octobris toekomende, beyde Stylo novo incluys, de voorschreve inteyckeninge geprolongeert, ende bekend gemaect worde deur affixie van Billetten, sonder dat naer dien dach yemants anders sal mogen ingenomen ofte inghelaten worden, maer dat een yeder Kamer gehouden sal zijn den eersten dach naer ultimo Octobris sijne Capitalen te sluyten, ende acht dagen daer naer Copyen aen malkanderen over seynden: Welverstaende dat de aen-ghevangene equipagie, haeren voortganck sal hebben tot dienste vande Compagnie, ende dat de geene die haere Pennigen voor andere hebben gefurneert, ende noch sullen furneren daer van Interesse sullen genieten tot discretie vande Negenthiene.

Ten thienden, Ende aengaende de generale reeckeninge, Artijckel sestien, ende het veranderen van het derdendeel der Bewinthebberen Artijckel veerthien in't Octroy ghementioneert, om eene goede ordre ende generalen voet in alle Kameran daer in te houden, is noodich gevonden dat de selve generale reeckeninge geschiede (ses Jaeren nae date van 't geven van 't Octroy, beginnende den derden Junij ses-thien-hondert een-en-twintich, Stylo novo,) naer coustume van Coopmanschap in 't openbaer, mede ten overstaen vande voorschreve Gecommitteerde vande Hooft-Participanten vande respective Kameran, be permitted to choose one of the sworn committee, mentioned in articles four and five, to assist the aforesaid deputies, each assisting the one from his Chamber, in the aforesaid Assembly of the Nineteen; nevertheless, these associates shall not have a separate Vote. And that the other Chambers also may know of the business transacted by the said Assembly, the associate member from the Chamber of Amsterdam shall inform the chief participants of the Noorder-quartier and Stadt ende Landen and the associate member from the Chamber of Zealand those of the Mase of the business of the aforesaid Assembly, as far as it shall be communicable.

VIII. That hereafter no person may be chosen a director who is in the service of the East India Company; in like manner, father and son, or brothers of the whole or half blood, may not be directors at the same time in one Chamber. And the directors shall receive no commissions unless they properly attend to the business of the Company.

IX. Whereas, in order to satisfy every one, it is necessary that the time for subscribing and contributing to this Company shall be extended further, for the satisfaction of our own inhabitants as well as of foreigners, therefore, be the aforesaid subscriptions extended for inhabitants to the last of August, and for foreigners to the last of October next, both new style, and the fact made known by posting of notices; after that date, no person may be received or admitted, but every Chamber must close its subscription lists the first day after the last of October, and eight days thereafter send a copy to each of the others; provided, that the equipment already begun shall continue for the use of the Company, and that those who have furnished money in advance of others, or shall yet furnish it, shall receive interest thereon at the discretion of the Nineteen.

X. And as to the general accounting, mentioned in article sixteen of the charter, and the changing of a third part of the directors in article fourteen, to maintain good order and a general basis in all the Chambers, it is deemed necessary that the said general accounting be made (six years from the date of granting the charter, beginning the third of June 1621, new style) according to mercantile custom in public, in the presence of the aforesaid committee of the chief participants of the respective Chambers, and so on regu-ende soo voorts successivelick, elcke ses Jaren te doen diergelijcke generale reeckeninge: Doch sal by de Vergaderinge vande Negen-thiene, op 't vervolch vande reeckeningen naerder ordre beraemt werden, ten eynde d'afgaende Bewinthebberen, met gesuyverde reeckeninge, ist doenelijck, mogen scheyden: Ende sal de veranderinge van't derdendeel der Bewinthebberen, eerst geschieden ses Jaren na den negenden Junij deses Jaers sestien-hondert drie-en-twintich, ende soo voorts successivelijck elcke twee Jaeren conform het Octroy.

Ten elfsten, Dat niemant het Hooft-Participants recht sal mogen genieten, dan die vanden beginne heeft in-ghelecht, oft andersints twee Jaren opte Boecken bekend is, voor sijn eygen reeckeninge in dese Compagnie te herideren, soo veel een Bewinthebber inde respective Kameren ghehouden is te doen, volgens den Octroy, behalven dat Kinderen, ende alle andere Erfgenamen, die op eenen name de respective volle sommen voor hun eygen Erven, datelijck nae de erffnisse ghequalificeert sullen zijn.

Ende ten twaelfsten, Indien eenige saecken voor vallen daer uyt Processen soudén mogen verrijsen, tot ondiens te vande Compagnie, sullen de Bewinthebberen in alle manieren arbeyden, de selve in 't minnelijck neer te leggen (soo doenelijck) indien niet, de saecken communiceren met de Hooft-Participanten, om met gemeen advijs daer in gedaen te worden soo als tot meesten dienst vande Compagnie bevonden sal worden te behooren.

SOO IST, dat wy de voorschreve Articulen gheexamineert ende overwogen hebbende, ende tot d'eenicheyt ende goede correspondentie tusschen die Bewint-hebberen ende Hooft-Participanten, mitsgaders tot bevorderinge vande West-Indische Compagnie ghenegen wesende, hebben met advijs vanden Heere Prince van Orangien, goet gevonden de selve t'aggreëren, ende t'approberen, aggreëren ende approberen midts desen, verstaende dat de selve by de Bewint-hebberen, Participanten, ende yeder een daer aen ghelegen zijnde, nevens d'Articulen van 't Octroy punctuelijck sullen werden naerghekomen ende achtervolcht, ghelijck of sy den Octroy waren geinsereert, Alsoo wy bevinden 't selve tot dienste vande West-Indische Compagnie alsoo te behooren. Ghegheven onder onsen grooten Zegel, Paraphure, ende de Signature van onsen Griffier, in 's Graven-Hage, den een-en-twintichsten Junij seshien-hondert drie-ende-twintich. Was gheparapheert, N. van. Bouckhorst,<sup>vt</sup>. Onder stondt, Ter Ordonnantie vande Hooch-ghemelte Heeren Staten Generael. Gheteekent, C. Aerssen. Hebbende een uythangenden Zegel in rooden Wassche, aen een witte zijde koorde.

larly every six years a like general accounting; but as to other accounts, further action shall be taken by the Assembly of the Nineteen, to the end that the directors who retire may leave no unsettled accounts if it be practicable. And the first change of a third part of the directors shall take place six years after the ninth<sup>4</sup> of June this year 1623, and so on regularly every two years agreeable to the charter.

XI.<sup>5</sup> That no one shall be permitted to enjoy the rights of chief participants but those who subscribed at the beginning, or else have been entered on the books for two years as owning in their own name in this Company as much as a director in the respective Chambers must own according to the charter; except, that children and all other heirs, who inherit in one name the respective full sums for themselves, shall be qualified immediately after inheriting.

And, XII, if anything should happen from which lawsuits might arise to the disadvantage of the Company, the directors shall do all in their power to settle the matter amicably (if possible); if not, they shall communicate it to the chief participants, that they may act therein with mutual advice, in such manner as shall be found most to the advantage of the Company.

Therefore having examined and considered the foregoing articles and being desirous of promoting unity and concord between the directors and chief participants as well as the advancement of the West-India Company, we have, with the advice of the Prince of Orange, thought fit to agree to and approve of, and do hereby agree to and approve the same and demand that they with the articles of the charter shall be strictly followed and observed by the directors, participants and every person concerned therein, in the same manner as if they were inserted in the charter; for we find this to be for the best interests of the West-India Company.

With the exception of capitalization and spelling it agrees with the text published under date of March 1630 in Wassenaer, Historisch Verhael, v. 4, pt 18, f.94-98b, which is based on that printed the same year for the West India Company. Asher gives but one pamphlet of 1630 (no. 331), but his title differs slightly from that given by Moulton, History of New York, pt 2, p. 389, and from the facsimile title page in Fiske, Dutch and Quaker Colonies, illus. ed. 1:117, themselves different, which suggests that there were various issues in 1630. In 1875, a reprint of the 1630 pamphlet in the possession of the New York Historical Society was published by Geo. H. Moore, librarian of the society.

Charter of Freedoms and Exemptions<sup>6a</sup>

Translation

Freedoms and Exemptions for the patroons, masters or private persons who will plant any colonies in, and send cattle to New Netherland, drawn up for the benefit of the General West India Company in New Netherland and for the profit of the patroons, masters and private persons.

I. Such participants of the said Company as may be inclined to plant any colonies in New Netherland shall be permitted to send, in the ships of this Company going thither, three or four persons to inspect the situation of the country, provided that they, with the officers and ship's company, swear to the Articles,<sup>7</sup> so far as they relate to them, pay for board and passage, going and coming, six stivers a day (such as desire to mess in the cabin to pay 12 stivers) and agree to give assistance like others, in cases offensive and defensive. And if any ships be taken from the enemy, they shall receive pro rata their portions with the ship's company, each according to his quality, that is to say, the colonists messing outside the cabin shall be rated with the sailors and those messing in the cabin with those of the Company's servants messing at table who receive the lowest wages.

II. However, in this matter, those persons shall have the preference who shall first have declared their intentions and applied to the Company.

III. All such shall be acknowledged patroons of New Netherland as shall agree to plant there a colony of 50 souls, upwards of 15 years old, within the space of four years after they have given notice to any Chamber of the Company here or to the commander or council there,<sup>8</sup> one fourth part within one year and the remainder within three years after the sending of the first, making together four years, to the full number of 50 persons, to be shipped hence, on pain, in case of wilful neglect, of being deprived of the privileges obtained. But they are warned that the Company reserves to itself the island of the Manhattes.

IV. From the very hour they make known the situation of the places where they propose to settle colonies, they shall have the preference over all others to the free ownership of such lands as they shall have chosen: but in case the location should afterwards not please them or they should find themselves deceived in the selection of the land, they may, after memorializing the commander and council there, choose another place.

V. The patroons, by their agents, may, at the place where they wish to settle their colonies, [fix] their limits [so that the colony shall] extend four leagues along the coast or one side of a navigable river, or two leagues along both sides of a river, and as far inland as the situation of the occupants will permit; with the understanding that the Company retains for itself the ownership of the lands lying and remaining between the limits of the colonies, to dispose thereof when and at such time as it shall think proper, but no one else shall be allowed to come within seven or eight leagues of them without their consent unless the situation of the land thereabout be such that the commander and council for good reasons shall order otherwise; always observing that the first occupants are not to be prejudiced in the right they have obtained,

They shall forever own and possess and hold from the Company as a perpetual fief of inheritance, all the land lying within the aforesaid limits, together with the fruits, plants, minerals, rivers and springs thereof, and the high, middle and low jurisdiction, rights of fishing, fowling and grinding, to the exclusion of all others, said fief to be renewed in case of demise by doing homage to the Company and paying 20 guilders per colony within a year and six weeks, either to the Chambers here or to the commander there, each to the Chamber whence the colony was originally sent out; however no fishing or fowling shall be carried on by any one but the patroons and such as they shall permit. And in case any one should in time prosper so much as to found one or more cities, he shall have authority to appoint officers and magistrates there and to use such titles in his colony as he sees fit according to the quality of the persons.

VII. There shall likewise be granted to all patroons who shall desire the same, Venia Testandi, or liberty to dispose of the aforesaid fiefs by will.

VIII. The patroons may also to their profit use all lands, rivers and woods lying contiguous to them, until such time as they are taken possession of by this Company, other patroons, or private persons.

IX. Those who shall send over these colonies, shall furnish them with proper instructions in order that they may be ruled and governed conformably to the rule of government, both as to administration and justice, made, or to be made by the Assembly of the Nineteen, which [instructions] they must first lay before the directors of the respective Chambers.

The patroons and colonists shall be privileged to send all their people and effects thither, in ships belonging to the Company, provided they take the oath and pay the Company for bringing over the people according to the first article, and for freight of the goods five per cent cash of the cost of the goods here; without including herein, however, cattle and agricultural implements, which the Company is to carry over free, if there is room in its ships, provided that the patroons, at their own expense, fit up places for the cattle and furnish everything necessary for their support.

XI. In case it should not suit the Company to send any ships, or there should be no room in the ships sailing thither, then the said patroons, after having communicated their intentions and obtained consent from the Company in writing, may send their own ships or yachts thither, provided that, going and coming, they depart not from their ordinary course, give security to the Company for the same and take on board an assistant<sup>8a</sup> at the expense of the patroons as to his board and of the Company as to his monthly wages, on pain, if doing contrary hereto, of forfeiting all right and title they have obtained to the colony.

XII. Inasmuch as it is the intention of the Company to people the island of the Manhattes first, this island shall provisionally also be the staple port for all products and wares that are found on the North River and lands thereabouts, before they are allowed to be sent elsewhere, excepting such as are, from their nature, unnecessary there and such as can not without great loss to their owners be brought there; in this case the owners thereof must give timely notice in writing of the difficulty attending the same to the Company here, or the commander and council there, that such measures may be taken as the situation of affairs shall be found to require.

And if it should so happen that they could not return, whether from contrary currents or otherwise, the said goods may be brought nowhere but to this country, in order that they may be unladen and inventoried with the knowledge of the directors at the place where they may arrive and the aforesaid duty of five per cent paid to the Company here, on pain, if they do otherwise, of forfeiture of their goods obtained, or the true value thereof.

XIV. In case the ships of the patroons, in going or coming or in sailing along the coast from Florida to Terra Neuf and no further, within [the limits of] our charter should conquer any prizes from the enemy, they must bring them, or cause them to be brought, to the Chamber of the place from which they sailed in order that their honors may have the benefit thereof; the Company shall keep the one third part thereof and the remaining two thirds shall belong to them in consideration of the expense and risk at which they have been, all according to the orders of the Company.

It shall also be permitted the aforesaid patroons, all along the coast of New Netherland and places circumjacent, to trade their goods, products of that country, for all sorts of merchandise that may be had there, except beavers, otters, minks and all sorts of peltry, which trade alone the Company reserves to itself. But permission for even this trade is granted at places where the Company has no agent, on the condition that such traders must bring all the peltry they may be able to secure to the island of the Manhattes, if it is in any way practicable, and there deliver them to the director, to be by him sent hither with the ships and goods; or, if they should come here without having done so, then to unload them with due notice to the Company and proper inventory, that they

And if any colonist runs away to another patroon, or, contrary to his contract, leaves his service, we promise to do everything in our power to deliver the same into the hands of his patroon or commis that he may be prosecuted there according to the customs of this country, as occasion may require.

Instructions from Kiliaen van Rensselaer for Bastiaen Ianssen Crol, commis at Fort Orange, who if he sees fit may call to his assistance Dirck Cornelissz, his onder-commis, and such other persons as he shall think best and advisable.

First, Crol shall try to buy the lands hereafter named for the said Rensselaer, from the Mahijcans, Maquaas or such other nations as have any claim to them, giving them no occasion for discontent, but treating them with all courtesy and discretion.

And what he shall give to the said nations in consideration of the aforesaid purchase, he shall take (according to the order of the Company) from its merchandise, charging the same by measure or weight to the said Rensselaer. The limits he shall extend as far as possible, as high above Fort Orange and as far inland as they will in any way cede, equally below Fort Orange, even if it were five or more leagues above and as many below the same fort, and as far inland as possible,<sup>29</sup> specially in places where there is flat and good land and the least underbrush and trees. He shall also inspect the same as carefully as possible in order to write to me all the particulars thereof, to wit, how many islands from the uppermost to the lowest part there are in the said river, how long and wide they are and what kind of soil they have, to wit, each island separately, also how far the same are apart from each other and from the mainland, about how deep the water is and what further may be of interest.

Also, how much flat and arable land there is along the river, that is the width and the length of each piece, also what follows toward the inland in the way of woods and mountains, stating what kinds of wood, soil, stone, minerals and the like there are; all of which land he can measure by pacing.

In case he can not purchase the said lands from one or two nations, that he purchase the same from all who pretend any right to them. Having bought the islands, that he convene not only the respective chiefs but all the people, in order to make the payment in the presence of them all, and that he takes then the chief of each nation to the island of the Manhates to confirm the purchase before the director and council, and that he have the same recorded among the resolutions and send me a copy.

In view of the limitation of four leagues in the fifth article of the Freedoms and Exemptions as to land to be purchased on one side of a navigable river and the actual purchase in 1630 and 1631 of exactly four leagues on the west side of the river, it is likely that the second interpretation is correct, though the actual wording is in favor of the first interpretation.

Herewith a wood-measure rule, 1  $\frac{1}{2}$  feet long, the foot containing 11 inches, 13 feet making one Amsterdam rod and 600 [square] rods one morgen of land.

These instructions the said Crol shall communicate to Director Pieter Minuit, with the request to show me such favors as the service of the Company permits and no others, notifying him that I have engaged Wolffert Gerritssz, farmer, to direct provisionally all my affairs concerning the farms and purchase of cattle, [asking him also to] show [said Gerritssz] every favor as to what he may need for me for that purpose, also to cause to be made what he may want in the way of hardware or other things and to charge the same to my account, and if he needs any carpenters, for the erection of my houses, barracks, barns, sheepfold or other buildings, to accommodate him therewith if they are not more needed for the Company, otherwise, as Cornelis Lambertssz Steenbacker needs carpenters and smiths for making his tile and brickyard, the same men could at my expense work some days or weeks for me, and if I should need a sloop or boat, master Reyn Harmanssen could make the same at my expense.

The said Crol shall also take due notice of everything that is done for me near Fort Orange, taking good care that the house be built near the creek on the west side of the river, on the north side of the creek, on the bluff, so that there shall be no danger of being flooded by high water, and that at first the said house be made plain and simple, large and tight, and if tiles could be made ready, that the house be covered therewith.

That the land close to Fort Orange as well as near the said creek be tilled first, thereafter that on the south side of the house, and that the islands be kept for hay and as pasture for the cattle, sheep, hogs, etc.

If it is a good acorn year there, that Wulffert Gerritssen or his foreman have a good quantity bought up for me to be kept for the winter as feed for the hogs.

Also to look out that my men work faithfully and diligently, and that they do not cheat me or sell any of my goods, and yearly to report to me the number of horses, cows, sheep and hogs I have, how old they are and how many have died or been born each year.

Also to credit the account of the provisions which my men may buy from the Company with the milk, butter, meat and bacon which they should deliver in return, the prices being reciprocally made as reasonable as possible.

Further, to advise me by all favorable opportunities of everything that, from lack of knowledge of circumstances, I can not provide for.

In witness that I have requested this of him with promise of proper compensation for his trouble, I have signed this with my own hand. Done as above.

Instructions to Wolfert Gerritsz<sup>30</sup>

Instructions from Kiliaen van Rensselaer to Wulfert Gerritssen van Amersfoort<sup>31</sup>, this 16th of January 1630, in Amsterdam

Wulfert Gerritssz aforesaid is engaged by Rensselaer, his service to begin on his arrival in that country. He is bound for four summers, but Renssel<sup>r</sup>. may end the contract after one or two summers.

The annual term of service of Wulfert is agreed upon to be from April to November, when all the winter seed is in the ground; and if it is very necessary he must stay through the winter and he shall receive 20 guilders for each month of service<sup>32</sup> being at his own expense as to board.

I have further engaged for four years beginning in that country, Rutger Henrickssz van Soest, 32 years old, who shall receive 120 guilders a year; have paid the same in advance f50 and f5 by way of present.

Brant Peelen van Nijckerck on the above conditions for four years; at 110 guilders a year; paid the same in advance f15 and by way of present f10; is 40 years old.

Pieter Hendrickssen van Soest, as boy, shepherd or plowboy;<sup>33</sup> also four years at 15 guilders a year and paid him in advance 15 guilders.

As soon as they with God's help arrive in New Netherland, Wulffert Gerritssz and the aforesaid persons shall go before the commander and council and make promise there that not one of them

will trade in any peltries or skins, on forfeiture of their wages. On the way over they shall take care of 12 ewes and one ram which I have bought and send thither, that the same may arrive safely.

Further, as the farm of Evert focken, deceased, which (he having died) has been granted to Rutger Henrickssen van Soest, is not all of it fit for cultivation, as it has only just been begun, Wulfert shall go with Rutger before the commander and council and state that they will take care that the plowed land of the said farm, according to the conditions of the lords directors communicated to the council, shall be cultivated in order that the Company may draw its interest therefrom and, as they according to the same order of the directors have the right to transport the cattle with the wagons, plows and all other things which the Company has on the said farm to other places, that they intend to move the same near Fort Orange, and as they, like the other farmers, must pay within six years 600 guilders in money with the [increase of the] cattle and other animals, for the four horses, four cows, two heifers, six sheep, six hogs, wagons and plows, that Kiliaen van Rensselaer agrees to pay the said amount and cattle to the Company.

And as Evert fockes has died, if the widow should some day in any wise be able to enlarge the said farm, Wolffert Gerritssz shall try to come to an understanding with her on the best possible terms and concede her one or two cows in order to make progress in that way. As to the plowed land, which amounts to little, she can have that cultivated by others.

And inasmuch as Rensselaer has agreed to plant a colony, and is thereby bound to support 50 people in that country, he must necessarily have many animals or will otherwise not be able to maintain his colony. Wolffert Gerritssz shall therefore try to obtain as many animals as possible from this one and that one, paying first of all attention to the two horses of the stave splitters, which belong to them and which he can obtain by giving them a small profit, as they are no longer going to split staves.

Secondly, as I have entered into an agreement with confrater Paauw concerning the remaining animals in that country, after the eight farms shall each have been provided with four horses, four cows, two heifers, six sheep and six hogs, which are to be sold there by order of the directors, Wulfert shall address the director respecting this matter that his honor may act therein according to the letter signed by confrater Paauw and myself and written to the director and sent by Bastiaen Janssz Crol. We find by estimate that there are about 28 animals in all, of which 15 would be for me and 13 for Mr Michiel Paauw, as is specified in the letter.

Among these would be for me:

- 1 stallion of two winters
- 1 stallion of one winter
- 1 bull
- 3 bulls of one winter
- 3 mares of two winters
- 2 mares of one winter
- 1<sup>33a</sup> cows of three winters

Total 15 animals

Further, Wulfert Gerritssz shall try to obtain as many sheep as he can at reasonable price, to send those up too; also, as many hogs as he can conveniently feed, herd or fatten, to sell in that country, or otherwise to cure or pickle for the purpose of sending them hither.

To Bastiaen Janssz crol I have given an extract from the Resolution book of the Company, wherein I have declared myself as patroon of the North River, above and below the fort, which land Bastiaen Janssz croll shall try to purchase for me according to the instructions given him.

What further may be necessary for the accomplishment of this task Wiffert Gerritssz shall do according to circumstances and write me all the particulars thereof, and try to have the house built at the place of which I have written to Crol; other matters I leave to their discretion and wish them good luck on their voyage.

A transcript from a notarial copy of the original is in Holland Documents, 1:181-84, of which O'Callaghan's translation is in Doc. rel. to Col. Hist. N. Y., 1:44. The present translation is based on O'Callaghan's but follows the text of the copy in the Letter Book in spelling of proper names and in the close.

As explained at length in a footnote to the certificate of May 1631, on p. 181 the present certificate, contrary to the statements made by historical writers, relates to the first purchase for Kiliaen van Rensselaer of land from the Indians in the vicinity of Fort Orange.

A translation of the main body of Dutch Patents, GG, p. 4-6, is in Doc. rel. to Col. Hist. N. Y., 14:1-2. <sup>41</sup> Statements by Kiliaen van Rensselaer regarding the purchases of land from the Indians in his letter to de Laet, June 27, 1632 (see p. 197) and in the "Account of the jurisdictions," July 20, 1634 (see p. 307) show that historical writers have erred in their description of the territory covered by this first purchase of Aug. 13, 1630. Their error is directly traceable to a misconception on the part of Jan Baptist van Rensselaer as to the location of the tracts referred to as Petanock and Negagonse, which, in his letter of June 10/20, 1678 (O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:125), he places on the east side of the river, whereas the "Account of the jurisdictions" distinctly states that they were on the west side, Petanock being defined as a tract south and north of the "mill creek," by which is meant the Normans Kill, also including West or Castle Island, and Negagonse as a tract extending up to Moenemin's Castle, presumably from the north end of Castle Island or a point just south of Fort Orange. From these statements, which are confirmed by the certificates of March 1633, by Gerrit Willemsz Oosterum and Peter Minuit, mentioned by Jan Baptist van Rensselaer, it is evident that the purchase of Aug. 13, 1630, embraced: 1, the land on the west side of the river from Fort Orange to the Mohawk; 2, a small tract on the east side of the river, on both sides of the present Mill Creek, from opposite Castle Island to a point opposite Fort Orange; 3, the land on the west side of the river from a point south of the Normans Kill to the north point of Castle Island, or possibly to Fort Orange.

As to the precise location of this point south of the Normans Kill we have no information; from the patroon's statement in his letter to de Laet, after the purchase of land from Beeren Island to Smacks Island, that they had "all the shore along the river on the west side, from beeren Island to Momnennis Castle," we may infer however that the purchase of Aug. 13, 1630, included all the land on the west side of the river from Smacks Island to the Mohawk, a distance, according to the certificate, of about three Dutch miles or leagues. In May 1631, land from Beeren Island to Smacks Island was added, making the total distance along the west shore, according to the parchment map of Rensselaerswyck reproduced in this volume, exactly four Dutch miles or leagues, the extent of territory on one side of a navigable river allowed by the fifth article of the Freedoms and Exemptions. On April 23, 1637, additional land was bought on the east side from Papscanee Creek south to a point opposite Smacks Island. At later dates purchases were made of various islands, of land near the Poesten Kill, at Catskill, Bethlehem and Claverack, but no deed from the Indians is recorded or among the Rensselaerswyck Mss., nor is any cited in the "Case of the Colony of Rensselaerswyck," delivered on April 27, 1678, to the council of the Duke of York in support of the petition for letters patent to the colony, that covers the land on the east side of the river from a point opposite Fort Orange north.

It is curious to note that historical writers, in placing the tract "from Petanock, the acknowledged to have received in their hands and possession before the execution hereof, by virtue and title of sale, they hereby convey, cede and make over to and for the behoof of the Hon. Kiliaen van Rensselaer, absent, for whom we, ex officio and with due stipulation, accept the same, namely, the respective parcels of land hereinbefore specified, with the timber, appurtenances and dependencies thereof, together with all the interests, rights and jurisdiction to them the grantors conjointly or severally belonging, constituting and substituting the said Hon. Rensselaer in their stead, place and right and in the real and actual possession thereof, and at the same time giving him, or those who may hereafter acquire his honor's interest, full, absolute and irrevocable power, authority and special command to hold, in quiet possession, cultivation, occupation and use, tanquam actor et procurator in rem suam ac propriam, the said land acquired by the aforesaid Hon. Rensselaer; also, to dispose of, do with and alienate it, as his honor or others should or might do with his other and own lands and domains acquired by good and lawful title, without the grantors retaining therein, reserving or holding in the least any part, right, interest or authority whether of property, command or jurisdiction, but on the contrary, hereby, desisting from, yielding, giving up and renouncing the same forever, for the behoof aforesaid; further promising not only forever to hold fast and irrevocable, to observe and to fulfil this, their conveyance, and whatever may by virtue thereof be done, but also to protect against eviction from the aforesaid land, Obligans et Renuncians A bona fide. In testimony whereof, this is confirmed by our usual signatures, with the ordinary pendant seal. Done at the aforesaid island Manahatas and Fort Amsterdam, on the day and year aforesaid. mill creek, north to Negagonse" on the east side of the river, have apparently realized that the purchase of Aug. 13, 1630, did not cover the distance from Smacks Island to Fort Orange, unless the words de Reviere op zuyden ende noorden, van dito fort aff were taken to mean "up the river, south and north of the said fort." Any one familiar with the wording of the Dutch patents will recall however that such phrases as zuyden ende noorden, or zuyd oosten ende noord westen, occur in almost every patent and have reference either to the mere direction of the compass, south and north, or southeast and northwest, or else to two parallel courses, up one side of the land described and down the other.

If, as it would seem, no deed from the Indians to the Van Rensselaers, for land on the east side of the river from opposite Fort Orange north, was procured up to 1678, when efforts were made to secure a patent for the colony from the Duke of York, it is interesting to reflect how the evident mistake about the location of the tracts called Petanock and Negagonse may have helped to include the land on the east side, north of the present city of Rensselaer, in the patent of Nov. 4, 1685.

There was written besides: This conveyance written with mine own hand is, in consequence of the secretary's absence, executed in my presence on the thirteenth of August, XVI<sup>c</sup> and thirty, as above. And was signed, Lenaert Cole, deputy secretary;<sup>42</sup> the seal of New Netherland in red wax depending from a double strip of parchment.

TRANSLATED BY MRS ALAN H. STRONG

Worthy, wise, prudent, honorable Gulien van Rensel:

Since, up to this date, I have been assisted and favored by your honor, I can not refrain from advising your honor what I think of the Company's affairs and the situation here at the present day. As to the building of a certain new ship which is now almost ready, it proves a success but damage may be done to it by the strong ice drift we are having; however, we hope to protect it sufficiently. As to the farms on the manathans, much land is daily being plowed everywhere by the farmers. I have strong hopes now that the honorable directors after their long waiting may at last be relieved from great expenses, since we shall be able to deliver a number of lasts of rye and wheat, raised from the land here, thus meeting heavy charges. This present year we shall be in need of much seed as we are clearing, harrowing and plowing much land. I can also not help advising your honor of the disputes which exist in this small settlement of not more than 200 or 300 people.

Now, the director and Jan Romonde are very much embittered against one another. Here all is left to drift as it will; they let trade slip away and do not exert themselves to increase it either by sloops or otherwise, but are very diligent in bringing exorbitant suits and charges against one another and in neglecting the interests and business of the directors. The minister, Jonas Michielsz, is very energetic here stirring up the fire between them; he ought to be a mediator in God's church and community but he seems to me to be the contrary. The honorable directors hear nothing but idle complaints from their subjects; one says this, the other that, so that in place of the Company's servants looking after the trading, some one else in the meanwhile goes off with the skins.

The English on the sloepsbay<sup>43a</sup> will in the meantime drive us out of the trade since we go to work so slowly and are so slack in our business. The sloops lie idle and are not sent out to trade, but were an injurious suit to be brought, people would be quick enough about it; the trade, which is of the utmost importance to the Company and ought to bring profit, they allow to go to ruin. While we here in this country are pursuing each other with suits and infamous invectives, the people send the otters and beavers under such cover as may be, stored away in their chests, from which the honorable lords will not be able to draw much profit. Well, I am no more than a man, and am grieved that I must behold such things as people here so vexing each other. As to your honor's land at Fort Orange, it has been ploughed by your honor's farmer Wolpert Gerrits and I do my best, since your honor has also done his best to make a man of me, for which I am most highly grateful to your honor. I would also recommend to your honor my cousin dirck Joosten, who is now coming home as mate with Jan Brouwer, since he is a good, upright young man. As to the specification of the animals, that will appear more fully from the director's letter, but I shall carefully look after your honor's affairs here that they may bring profit to your honor. By this dirck joosten, I send your honor a fine bearskin, which your honor can use in traveling and boating or as your honor sees fit. Done, the 16th of September 1630, in New Netherland at the Manathans, Fort Amsterdam.

Your honor's willing servant,

October 1, 1630

WITH A NOTE BY KILIAEN VAN RENSSELAER OF MARCH 2, 1639

In the name of the Lord, Amen. Whereas we, the underwritten, are inclined to plant some colonies in New Netherland as elsewhere within the limits of the charter of the West India Company according to the Freedoms and Exemptions granted by the Assembly of the XIX of the said Company to all participants, and for this purpose have already had several colonies registered.

First, along the bay of the South River with the land on the west side thereof, which has been bought for us from the natives by Gillis Housset.

Secondly, on the east side of the South Bay from the mouth of the bay to the narrows of the said South River.

Thirdly, on the Fresh River lying between the North River and the river of Ciccanames.

Fourthly, along the North River above and below Fort Orange, on both sides of the said river.

Fifthly, the island S<sup>t</sup>. Marttijn or Barbados among the Caribbees.

And whereas we have finally obtained consent to send some people to the islands of Tortuga and Majaguane, both lying to the north of the island Hispaniola, and also to furnish the French there with provisions and other necessities, everything conformable to the respective registrations and consents, as appears from the resolution book of the West India Company, Chamber of Amsterdam. Therefore, regarding all these colonies, commercial enterprises and everything connected therewith, we have mutually and reciprocally contracted and agreed with one another, for ourselves, our heirs, successors and assigns, as we do contract and agree by these presents (notwithstanding any previous agreements or promises which may be to the contrary and which we hereby expressly abrogate and declare void) that henceforth and in the future, all the aforesaid colonies, enterprises and freedoms and what in any wise depends thereon, shall be for the advantage, profit or loss of all four of us, hereafter named, each for one just fourth part, according to which the ownership, losses and profits, purchases and sales, expenses, expenditures, cargoes, returns, cattle, agriculture, fisheries and what in anywise depends thereon, or proceeds therefrom, shall be reckoned, with this express stipulation and restriction that no one of us four shall be allowed to enter into partnership or form a company with any one else for similar purposes, or undertake anything for himself, without having first communicated and fully disclosed the same to these his partners, who if they think fit may share therein with him, each for one fourth part.

It is further stipulated that the entire direction of the work (both now and in the future) shall be in the hands of all four of us, hereafter named (but that in case of a tie the presiding officer shall have a double vote), and that all affairs of importance which concern this company in any manner must first be passed by resolution and then entered in a general resolution book, and to prevent as much as possible all disputes, it is agreed that all resolutions passed by a plurality of votes shall have the same effect as those voted unanimously. Samuel Godijn shall preside first for the term of three months from the date hereof, thereafter Albertus Coenraedus for the same length of time, thereafter Samuel Blommaert as above and finally Kiliaen van Rensselaer for the same period, so that every year each one of us four shall preside for three months.

Each one of us four shall have liberty in case of indisposition or otherwise to substitute another person in his place, on condition that he cede to the same all his powers in this company, none excepted, and if he fails to nominate any one during his lifetime, his place shall be filled successively by his nearest heirs (sons being preferred to daughters and brothers to sisters).

All books, letters, papers and other things of the kind shall be owned in common and be kept in a neutral place at the expense of the company.

All superscriptions of letters and contracts shall be made out in our four names in the order above named, but in case of death or substitution the last comer shall have the last place, and if in course of time a distinctive name be given to the company, then this name instead of the names of the directors, is to be used.

It is also agreed that a common bookkeeper and such other servants shall be engaged at the expense of the company as shall later be thought fit.

No one of this company shall be allowed to withdraw his money or to presume to reap for himself alone the benefit of his share in the returns or other goods, but everything must be done in the name of the company, no one having the right to take anything for himself. To this end we shall settle what each one may take under his care, of which he shall be commissioner<sup>45</sup> for such time as shall be voted; also that the treasurer shall pay nothing that is not provided by resolution or signed by order of two partners and in their absence by the presiding officer.

For the purposes of this company it is agreed to form a capital of twenty thousand guilders, that is for each director's portion or fourth share, five thousand guilders, which money must be paid into the hands of the treasurer at such time as shall hereafter be decided, and in case any one of us fail to furnish his quota aforementioned he shall be obliged to pay to the company one month after the said date interest at the rate of one penny in sixteen, and if the said delay should be longer than half a year, the person in default shall on pain of execution on his share be notified to make prompt payment, and if within three months from that date said payment is not made, the company shall have liberty without any action at law to sell his share publicly at his charge, and to levy the money thus due, both capital and interest, by execution on his person and estate, movable as well as immovable, in the manner aforesaid, and the remaining directors shall have the right to put another director in his place, which may also be done temporarily or permanently if such place become vacant in any other way. If hereafter any one else should be inclined to participate in this company and the same be thought advisable, it must be on the basis of a share in the whole, the direction remaining as before exercised by four votes except that the directors shall then draw from the common treasury for their trouble a commission of one per cent on goods going out and of two per cent on goods coming in, as far as trade is concerned, but of the yearly revenues, increase of cattle, land and orchard fruits or crops, minerals, pearl fisheries and such things which appertain to the colonies, they shall receive five per cent, that is to say of the net proceeds and not of the gross proceeds. When it is unanimously resolved to distribute the proceeds, the same shall be divided among all the participants proportionately, according to the amount of each man's investment, but the said participants shall have no right to constrain the directors to make such distribution. Whereas the fiefs of the respective colonies aforementioned must in case of death be renewed by the Chartered West India Company in the name of a single person in order to pay the

Company its stipulated fee after the said person's death, we have agreed, without prejudice to our ownership, right and interest in the said colonies, that Samuel Godijn for himself, his heirs, successors and assigns, shall bear the title of patroon of the colony on the west side of the bay of the South River and give to the same and to the places within its jurisdiction such names as he shall see fit.

Albert Coenraets Burgh shall on the above conditions bear the title of patroon of the colony on the east side of the aforesaid bay of the South River.

In the same way Samuel Blomart of the Fresh River, the island of St. Martijn or Barbados or of such other island as in case of refusal of any of these he shall select with common consent, which privilege the others in such case shall have also.

And Kiliaen van Rensselaer of the colony on the North River lying above and below Fort Orange on both sides of the said river.

Thus done and approved, after previous reading of the decisions, and in testimony of the truth four copies of like tenor have been made hereof, signed by each of us with his own hand, without guile or deceit, in Amsterdam the 1st of October 1630; and was signed with the several hands, S. Godijn, S. blōmaert, K V Rensselaer. Underneath was further written as follows: Whereas Mr Albertus Conradj had before this ceded me his half and his wife now in his honor's absence neglects matters entirely, I have signed for one fourth, but with this understanding that if his honor on his return home thinks that he sees anything to his detriment herein, I submit myself to the decision of the aforementioned three gentlemen; and was signed, J. de Laet.

I, Joost vande Ven, imperial notary public admitted by the Court of Holland, residing within the city of Amsterdam, declare hereby that this copy written on the five preceding and this the sixth page of paper, is the true and complete copy of its original, and in witness hereof I have confirmed this with my notarial signature, in Amsterdam this 19th of April 1634.

<sup>46</sup>Inasmuch as three of the above mentioned four colonies have come to an end, to wit, the colony on the west side of the bay of the South River whereof Samuel Godijn was the patroon; also, the colony on the east side of the aforesaid bay of which albertus Coenradus or Jehan deLaet was the patroon, both of which colonies have been sold and turned over to the West India Company; third, the colony on the Fresh River and the island of St. Martijn of which Samuel blommaert was to be the patroon but which was not begun at all; there remains at present of the said four colonies only that on the North River lying above and below Fort Orange now named Rensselaerswyck, of which Kiliaen van Rensselaer and his heirs are patroons, holding, with the purchased tenth share of the heirs of Samuel Godijn deceased, five tenth shares or the exact half, Samuel blommaert and adam bessels each one tenth share, Jehan de laet and <sup>47</sup>Mussaert in place of Albertus Coenradj each one tenth share and Jacob and hendrick Trip together one tenth share. November 7, 1630

Extract from the resolution book at Amsterdam

The 7th of November 1630, in Amsterdam

Kiliaen van Rensselaer, for himself and his copartners, notifies the Chamber that according to the Freedoms granted by the Assembly of the XIX to all the participants he declares himself from now on as patroon of the island of du Sable, lying at 43 or 44 degrees north of the line and about the meridian of Cape Breton, intending to send a colony thither on the conditions of the aforesaid Freedoms.

This Chamber has nothing against this registration provided that according to the last resolution the same be approved by the XIX.

Agreement between Kiliaen van Rensselaer and Marinus
Adriaensz van der Veere<sup>51</sup>

January 12, 1631

Agreement entered into with Maryn adriaensen van der Veere, on the 12th of January 1631

On conditions and terms hereafter specified, Kiliaen van Rensselaer, as patroon of his colony situated about Fort Orange on the North River of New Netherland, on one side, and Maryn Ariaensen vander Veere, for himself and his men, on the other side, have agreed, stipulated and contracted regarding the sowing, growing and cultivating of tobacco in the aforesaid region at the places to be indicated to the said Martijn by the aforesaid patroon or his agents and especially on the farm on the north side of the fort (if the same has not been occupied before his arrival as the first comer has the preference) which he began to clear before his departure, making it as large again or even larger by extending it from but not toward the fort. All this for the term of three consecutive years, commencing at the arrival of the said Marijn and his men in New Netherland on the farm aforesaid.

First, Maryn must equip and provide himself with everything at his own expense and charge, and also here or in that country engage four persons to assist him in the planting and curing of the tobacco, it being well understood that he, Marijn, or his men, if they have any time to spare, must employ the same for such other work, nothing excepted, as the patroon or his agents shall indicate, and that he shall receive therefor according to the time spent and for his share such wages as his men have stipulated.<sup>52</sup>

The patroon shall receive the just half of all the tobacco which Maryn and his men shall cultivate, the remaining half to be for Maryn. The patroon's half may not be charged or encumbered under any pretext of promises, claims, wages or other charges which Maryn must liquidate or settle, but his men must demand and recover from Maryn or his share whatever has been credited to them by him.

The patroon shall be holden to compensate Marijn Ariaenssen for one half of the wages and advance money which he shall promise to the aforesaid four persons, provided that he may not engage any one without the consent and approbation of the patroon and that the latter shall not be bound to give Marijn any compensation for his labor as Marinus during the term of this agreement is not to pay the patroon any rent for the land or any tithes. As to the board of the four persons for which the patroon is obliged to compensate maryn, it is agreed that the patroon shall pay his half to Maryn at a reasonable figure corresponding and in proportion to the price which he shall demand for the wheat, butter, milk and other things with which he shall furnish Maryn, in order that neither the one nor the other have any ground for complaint respecting the matter.

Concerning the passage forth and back, the patroon shall do his best to obtain permission from the Company that Marijn and his wife and child be taken over for their board without wages, on condition that he perform all sorts of ship duties, and if this can not be arranged Maryn shall pay the expenses himself.

But as far as the four men or any of them are concerned, if they can not obtain free passage for their labor and ship duties, the patroon must pay one half thereof and marijn the other half.

Marinis Adriaenssen must buy four good firelocks, further axes, adzes, shovels and spades which his men need for their work; of which the patroon shall pay half the cost and Maryn see to it that they are well kept and taken care of, the same to be divided half and half at the end of the three years.

All the tobacco which Marijn and his men shall produce, he must send hither and deliver into the hands of the patroon or deliver to his agent to be sent hither by him; Maryn is to pay no more in the way of freight and expenses for his half than the patroon shall pay for the other half, and on its arrival here the patroon shall sell the same for the common benefit and pay to Marijn aforesaid or to his order the just half of the net proceeds over and above the expenses and advanced money. But if Maryn Adriacnsen should be able to sell any tobacco in that country at a good price, he must render proper account thereof and pay the patroon or his agents promptly the just half of the proceeds. If it is at all convenient the patroon shall have built for the said Maryn a dwelling of four crossbeams, 36 feet long and 14 feet wide, also a small boat<sup>53</sup> which being once made must be kept in repair by Maryn and on his departure be delivered by him as he received it, wear and tear through hard use excepted.

Marinus Adriacnsen and his men must yearly make a trip down to the Manhatas and return thence without having any right to claim compensation therefor, but if they are oftener employed on such service they must be paid accordingly.

In case he, Marijn, his wife, his children or any of his men happen to find any mines, minerals, pearl fisheries or the like they shall disclose the same to no one but their patroon or his agents, who shall make them a handsome present therefor according to the importance of the matter. They shall further all submit themselves to the sovereignty of the High Mighty Lords the States General of these United Netherlands, to the supreme power and direction of the Chartered West India Company in general and of the aforesaid Rensselaer in particular, and to the ordinances and regulations to be passed there by them respectively in matters of justice and police, and be obliged to take the oath of obedience and fidelity, especially to refrain from trading, negotiating or carrying on business there against the order and intention of the Company and their aforesaid patroon, whether in skins, seawan or other goods found there, and not to accept the same by way of present or otherwise, nor to take merchandise from here with them, for themselves or for others, directly or indirectly, in any manner whatsoever, on pain of confiscation and penalties fixed by the Company or still to be fixed, and furthermore of banishment from the colony as a perjurer and a refractory character,<sup>54</sup> for which he, Maryn, must answer and stand responsible both for himself and for the aforesaid four men or others whom he may have under his orders. They are further not allowed to terminate this contract before the expiration of the said term of three years (unless their patroon give them permission to do so) and contract with any one else or sow any one else's fields, on pain of forfeiture for the benefit of the aforementioned Rensselaer as patroon, of the whole amount of his share in the sowed, cultivated, sold and unsold tobacco and also to give up at once the lands, houses and tools, leaving everything to be disposed of as aforesaid even if he alone should have paid for some of them.

And in case any one or more of the said four men should leave or drop out, he must fill his place as quickly as possible with another able man. He must also by every ship and yacht sailing hither send proper reports and accurate accounts of everything in all sincerity without concealment or disposal of anything at private sales.

In witness of the truth of the above agreement, this is signed by the patroon and Maryn Adriaenssen with their own hands, in the presence of the undersigned witnesses, in Amsterdam, this twelfth of January in the year sixteen hundred and thirty one.

and ending as stated in the said contract. The aforesaid Iaspar ferlyn shall receive 11 guilders a month, to be paid annually and shall receive cash before his departure, as an advance, 40 guilders and in addition 10 stivers a day for wages from the 12th of January last to the time of his going on board. The aforesaid jaspar ferlyn promises in addition to willing and diligent service, honestly and faithfully and on forfeiture of all the wages to be earned by him, not to trade or acquire in other ways, any beavers, otters, or other prohibited furs, nor to allow that the same be dealt in with his knowledge by anybody but those who act on behalf of the Chartered West India Company, also on forfeiture as above, not to leave or return before his term of service has expired without express consent of the aforesaid his patroon or master, which conditions, this day underwritten, have been approved by the aforementioned Rensselaer and signed by him, jaspar ferlyn, with his own hand at Amsterdam, this 17th of February 1631. Was signed in the several hands, jaspar ferlyn, marinus Adriaens.

We, the director and council of New Netherland, residing on the island Manahatas and at Fort Amsterdam, under the jurisdiction of their High Mightinesses the Lords States General of the United Netherlands and of the Chartered West India Company, Chamber of Amsterdam, testify and declare hereby, that this day, date underwritten, before us appeared Pieter Minuit, director, Bastiaen Jansz crol, commis, and Dirck cornelisz duyster, onder-cominis at Fort for themselves and for Maes Cornelis' Maessen, Stijntie Cornelis Maessen and Tobias Cornelisz Maessen, their minor brothers and sisters, all living in the colony of Rensselaerswyck and children of the late Cornelis Maessen and Catelijntie Martensz, who died in this country and formerly lived at Bueren Malssen in gelderland, execute a power of attorney to Gerrit Cornelissz, living at Tricht, in Gelderland, to receive an inheritance left by their uncle, Hendrick Maessen, who died at Cuijlenborch.

On the same day, Jan Verbeeck, formerly councilor of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, and Cornelis Theunisz Bos, formerly magistrate of Fort Orange and the village of Beverwyck, make a joint affidavit that Cornelis Maessen and his wife died about 14 years ago and were both buried on the same day, leaving the aforesaid five children over whom the said Cornelis Theunisz Bos and Theunis Dircksz [van Vechten], inhabitant of the colony, have thus far been guardians. Cornelis Theunisz Bos further states that he came to this country in 1636, in the ship Rensselaerswijck, in the service of the said Cornelis Maessen and that he served him for six years; also that the said Hendrick Cornelisz Maessen was born on the said ship (see p. 369 of this work) and that the other children were born in the colony. Deeds, powers of attorney, etc., 1660-65, p. 15-17, 22-23, among the Rensselaerswyck Mss.

Entries for supplies furnished to Cornelis Maesen in August 1634 (Account Book, 1634-38, f.2) show that Cornelis Maesen was in the colony at that time. He evidently returned to Holland at the expiration of his contract, married, and then came back to this country in 1636. His second son, Marten Cornelisz, has by Pearson and other writers been confused with Swarte Marten, or Black Marten, who from the mark he makes is readily identified with Marten Cornelisz van Ysselsteyn, one of the proprietors of land at Schenectady in 1663 and later one of the settlers of Claverack. This Marten Cornelisz van Ysselsteyn states in an affidavit of Oct. 28, 1660 (Notarial Papers, 1:36, Albany County clerk's office) that in his youth he had lived for many years at Houten, in the bishopric of Utrecht.

Cornelis Teunisz Bos, mentioned in this note, is the same person as Cornelis Teunisz van Westbroeck. The first reference to him is found in Account Book, 1634-38, among the Rensselaerswyck Mss under date of April 8, 1637, almost immediately after the arrival of the ship Rensselaerswyck. Apparently he did not come to this country in 1631, as stated by O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:434.

<sup>58</sup> The 18th of April 1631, according to the date at the end of the document. Owing to the absence of a date at the end of the record of the certificate in Dutch Patents, GG, p.9-11, and to the occurrence, in connection with the purchase, of the date of May 1630, in Jan Baptist van Rensselaer's letter of June 10/20, 1678 (O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:125) and that of April 8, 1630, on the map of Rensselaerswyck reproduced in this volume, historical writers have assigned 1630 as the year of purchase of land from Beeren Island to Smacks Island and hence mentioned it as the first purchase of land in the vicinity of Fort Orange. That this is an error and that 1631 must be considered as the correct date, or in other words that the purchase was made subsequently to that of Aug. 13, 1630, described on p. 166-69, may appear from statements in the letter to de Laet, June 27, 1632, and further from the following facts:

1 That the original parchment certificate as well as the contemporaneous copy in the patroon's Letter Book have at the end, first written out in full and then in figures, the date 1631.

2 That the certificate is recorded in Dutch Patents, GG, p.9-11, between a patent of Nov. 22, 1630 and one of June 3, 1631.

3 That in the "Account of the jurisdictions, management and condition of the territories named Rensselaerswyck," July 20, 1634, printed on p. 306-12 of this volume, the first two purchases are referred to as dated Aug. 13, 1630 and May 1631.

4 That in a copy of the memorial entitled "The Case of the Colony of Rensselaerswyck" delivered April 27, 1678, by J. B. van Rensselaer to the council of the Duke of York, in support of the petition of the heirs of Kiliaen van Rensselaer for letters patent of the colony, among the Rensselaerswyck Mss, the purchase of land from Beeren Island to Smacks Island is referred to as dated in May 1631.

5 That the preamble of the certificate of Aug. 6, 1630 (Doc. rel. to the Col. Hist. N. Y. 14:1-2 and Wilson, Memorial History of the City of New York, 1:163) states that Bastiaen Jansz Krol, in reply to a question put by Wolfert Gerritsz said that "there was this year [1630] no chance or means of acquiring any land," and does not refer to any purchase of land previous to the agreement of July 27, 1630, mentioned in the certificate.

6 That the inscription on the map of Rensselaerswyck relating to the purchase of land from Beeren Island to Smacks Island contains the words heeft Killiaen van Rensselaer noch doen koopen — Kiliaen van Rensselaer caused further to be purchased — indicating that the purchase was made subsequently to that of Aug. 13, 1630, which interpretation is borne out by the fact that the inscription occurs on the map to the right of that relating to the purchase of July 28 [Aug. 13], 1630 and not, as in O'Callaghan's reproduction, to the left.

Agreement between Kiliaen van Rensselaer and Andries

2 July 1631 capacity as patroon of his colony situated above and below Fort Orange on the North River of New Netherland, has agreed and contracted with the aforesaid persons for the term of three years, commencing on their arrival in that country, with the condition that the contract is binding on them for the said term of three years but that the said Rensselaer may terminate it whenever it pleases him. First regarding the transportation of the said persons, Rens- selaer having obtained from the Chartered West India Company, Chamber of Amsterdam, the privilege of transporting seafaring men for their board without wages on condition that they do proper ship duty, Laurens Laurensz, Barent Theunisz and all seafaring men ac-must pay out of his wages six stivers a day for board. As to the return voyage, the said Rensselaer promises to exert himself likewise, without being further responsible in the matter, to have them come hither at the least expense, whether their term of service has expired or whether he chooses to order them to come home. Arriving there with God's help, they shall betake themselves at the first opportunity and at their own expense to Fort Orange, to settle either on the mill creek<sup>69</sup> or opposite the fort on the east side of the North River, where there is also a good waterfall<sup>70</sup> and build their houses in the lightest fashion on the one or the other of the said places, and on no other without consent; further to erect a suitable sawmill, which can saw wood of 40 feet or at least 33 feet long, towards

They promise, all four<sup>71</sup> of them, to erect the said mill within the space of three months and when it is finished, they may hew the largest, finest and best oak trees standing in the entire colony of the said Rensselaer and for seven leagues next adjoining and bring the same to the place where the sawmill stands in order to saw therefrom suitable ship planking, gunwale timber or such other timber as he, Rensselaer, shall direct or they in the absence of directions shall deem fit. The mill being made, the logs cut, brought to the mill and sawed, one half thereof shall belong to the said Rensselaer and the other half to the four of them, the same to be shipped hither with the most convenient speed at the joint expense of both parties, provided that Rensselaer shall not charge the men more for freight and other expenses than he will have to pay himself; and of the proceeds of the said timber here in this country over and above expenses, one half shall go to him, Rensselaer, and the other half shall be paid to the aforesaid persons or those having their right and title, but first and above all, deduction must be made of the sums advanced by him, promised or paid for them personally, in return for which he, Rensselaer, promises to provide such board for the said four persons as is customary in that country or else, in lieu thereof, to pay 100 guilders a year for each of the four persons, amounting together to 400 guilders a year, so that Rensselaer shall provide their board as above and they shall faithfully and diligently do their work to the satisfaction of the said Rensselaer or his agents and each side receive one half of the profits after deduction of all expenses as above.

Rensselaer also agrees to pay in hand to each of them the sum of 20 guilders to be deducted from the board or 100 guilders a year which he must pay to each of them and to Andries kristensen the sum of 40 guilders, besides the advances for hardware, millstone and what is further required for the building of the said saw and grist-mill, on condition that the amount be hereafter again deducted and retained as above.

And inasmuch as they are also to make a grist-mill in connection with the said sawmill, they shall also be entitled to one half of what is earned therewith (deducting the expenses of grinding).

If Rensselaer or his agents, after the mill is built, should have any wood brought to be sawed, they must do this at 20 stivers for 100 feet in length by one foot in breadth, and for wider, shorter or longer boards accordingly, on condition that Rensselaer shall receive one half thereof as above.

Regarding the boards, beams or planks which they may have in stock and which Rensselaer may need for his other work, he shall be allowed to take these by paying them one half of the price ordinarily paid by the skippers in Norway. -

If these people sow, mow or plant any land, or catch any game or fish, one half [of the product] shall go to them and the other half go to Rensselaer, or be deducted from the 100 guilders for board.

During the period of this agreement, each one shall be responsible for the other, as Rensselaer is dealing with them jointly but not willing to deal or to keep accounts with each in particular.

In case any one of them should happen to find or to discover any mines, minerals, pearl fisheries or anything of the kind, he shall disclose the same to no one but the patroon or his agent, who shall make them a handsome present for the same according to the importance of the matter. They shall further under the sovereignty of the High Mighty Lords the States General, all submit themselves to the authority of the directors of the Chartered West India Company in general and of the aforesaid Rensselaer as their patroon in particular, and observe all the ordinances and regulations to be passed there by them respectively in matters of police and justice, and be obliged to take the oath of obedience and fidelity, especially to refrain from trading, negotiating or carrying on business there against the order and intention of the Company and their aforesaid patroon, whether in skins, seawan or other goods found there, and not to accept the same by way of present or otherwise, nor to take merchandise from here with them for themselves or for others, directly or indirectly, in any manner whatsoever, on pain of confiscation and penalties fixed by the Company or still to be fixed, and furthermore of banishment from the colony as perjurers and refractory characters for which they all together in common and each one in particu-

Contract between Kiliaen van Rensselaer and Gerrit Theusz de Reux<sup>81</sup>

Contract made and entered into by Kiliaen van Rensselaer, as patroon of his colony (named Rensselaerswyck, situated on the river Mauritius or North River of New Netherland, above and below Fort Orange and on both sides of the said river), with Gerrit Teeusen de reux, as farmer of a farm to be established on the Fort Orange side near the fourth creek now called Blommaerts kil,<sup>82</sup> situated above or<sup>83</sup> to the north of Fort Orange, this 15th of June in the year 1632 in Amsterdam

29 years old<sup>84</sup> First the aforesaid Gerrit de Reux shall bind himself by oath and on forfeiture of his stipulated wages and the goods which he may have in that country that neither he nor his men shall trade in prohibited furs, especially of otters or beavers, or obtain the same by way of present or other means without express consent from the West India Company and his aforesaid patroon.

The patroon shall furnish Gerrit de Reux aforesaid, out of the animals which he has in that country if they are still alive and to be had:

four horses, if it is possible the same which Gerrit aforesaid used before also three cows as above also two heifer calves as above

also four sows as above

The aforesaid de Reux shall further do his best with the assistance of the smiths and the carpenters of the Company that the aforesaid house may at the very first opportunity be erected, roofed and surrounded by wooden palisades. Also that he may be provided with wagon and plow by the wheelwright.

<sup>82</sup> Blommaerts kil appears on the map of Rensselaerswyck reproduced in this work as the fourth creek north of Fort Orange, at a distance of about 1½ miles from the fort. This distance seems to identify Blommaerts kil with the present Patroons Creek, which at a later date is referred to as the fifth creek.

And what he thinks can not be obtained in that country, he shall buy here at the expense of the patroon, taking care on the voyage over that the purchased goods shall be well kept. On the ship he shall with his men look after the calves which the patroon shall send thither by the ship on which he is to sail.

Further, the aforesaid Gerrit shall be bound to engage here a good farm servant and a boy at the expense of the patroon, and on his arrival there still another servant shall be added if possible. The patroon shall pay the wages and board of the servants and boy till the first of May 1634 and shall pay him, Gerrit de Reux, 180 guilders a year, from the time of his arrival in that country till the first of January 1634. All the crops and increase of live stock, likewise milk and butter and all other profits till the first of January 1634 shall therefore be for the behoof of the patroon.

After the first of January 1634, Gerrit de Reux shall obtain out of the aforesaid stock four horses, four cows, two heifers and so many sheep and hogs as he can raise and this on the following conditions, for four years, without leaving the service in the meantime on forfeiture as above; and from that time on, he shall no longer receive wages. The wages and board of the laborers, boy and the house servants from the first of May 1634, and also all other expenses whatever they may be called, as well as the damage and loss of live stock, wear and tear of wagons and plows, in short anything and everything, from the first of January 1634 on, shall be paid out of the common fruits, products, milk, butter, cheese and increase of stock; and of the surplus one half shall be for the aforesaid patroon and the other half for the aforenamed Gerrit de Reux, it being understood that the increase of the stock shall be reserved for the patroon on condition that he may compensate the said Gerrit for the same at the rate fixed heretofore by the West India Company. Every two years an inventory of the stock shall be taken and for one half of what shall be found above the four horses, four cows and two heifers, Gerrit de Reux shall as above receive compensation, the patroon having however the privilege of taking the said increase for himself or not, and if there be less than the above number, the aforesaid de Reux must try to raise so many that he reaches that number and shall not be entitled to any profit till the said number is again complete.

The aforesaid de Reux shall raise as many sheep and hogs as possible, and of what he sells thereof one half the proceeds shall go to the patroon and the other half to himself.

Of the winter wheat which is to be sown in the fall of 1633, one half shall be for the benefit of the aforesaid Gerrit de Reux on condition that the last year he deliver to the patroon, first of all, as much grain as he received the first year.

As to the butter, cheese, grain and other products which he may have on hand the first of January 1634, the same shall be appraised and accounted for to the patroon out of the common expenses.

Concerning the passage over, the patroon shall urge as much as possible that Gerrit aforesaid may receive the wages of a boatswain, but if this can not be arranged they must both see what they can do about the passage.

But the patroon shall pay the board of the servants during the passage.

Gerrit de Reux aforesaid shall also cause the yearly manure to be distributed over the land in the most advantageous manner, without wasting it.

The patroon shall provide the aforesaid de Reux with two good firelocks, on condition that each pay half.

Thus done and passed in the city of Amsterdam, and for all that is aforewritten, the said de Reux pledges and binds all his personal possessions, movable and immovable, present and future, none excepted, subjecting the same to the execution of all the honorable courts and judges; in witness whereof it is signed by him on the 15th of June 1632, new style.

June 27, 1632

Mr Johan de lacdt, at Leyden

In Amsterdam, 27 June 1632

Your honor will doubtless have heard how our ship den walvis,<sup>87</sup> which together with the yacht Teencoorntgen<sup>88</sup> sailed from the Texel on the 24th of May, was on the 26th ditto for nearly two hours tossed about on the banks before Dunkirk, not without great danger of losing the ship and the goods, as most of the people had already left the ship and jumped into the shallops. Nevertheless it pleased Almighty God to rescue the said ship from the said banks, but as it was very leaky and much damaged, they stopped on the 28th at Portsmouth near the Isle of Wight<sup>89</sup> to have her repaired there, the yacht Teencoorngen being still with her. Meanwhile, Guilliamme lefant, being dissatisfied with the command of David pietersen,<sup>90</sup> or according to my opinion rather because he was afraid, left the ship and returned over land, to the disgust of the confraters, so that henrij de foreest<sup>91</sup> will probably be useful to supply the place left vacant by Guilliamme. Said Guilliamme made out that the leak was very large and irreparable, but from the letter of David pietersen to confrater Godyn, dated the 11th of June from Portsmouth, we understand that the same was nearly repaired and that he expected to go to sea at the first opportunity to complete his intended voyage in God's name, drawing on confrater Godyn for 60 pounds sterling on account of his expenses there. It would be a pity if we missed the whale-fishing again, as Director Minuijt, who has come here, assures us that there are quantities of whales in the South River and that the savages of those quarters wear on their heads mostly small feathers<sup>92</sup> made of whalebone. So much for matters with which the Company of Ten is concerned.

Coming now to our private colony on the North River near Fort Orange, I should have liked best if your honor had called some time at my house so that I could have shown you the situation and condition of the same. Director Minuijt has given me a map of the additional land lately purchased, situated between beeren Island and Smax Island. There are about 200<sup>93</sup> of cleared land (or which has been seeded before by the savages) at the water's edge along the river, but stretching toward the woods and inland two days' journey, so that we have at present bought and obtained from the Mahicans by legal conveyance all the shore along the river, on the west side, from beeren Island to Momnenis Castle, being about six hours' walk,<sup>94</sup> the account of the cost of which is still in the hands of the Company. As to the east side, we have the lands situated opposite Fort Orange and Castle Island, from paep

Sickencees kil northward past the falls of de lacts kil thus named by me, which creek runs far inland and in which rock crystal is found, according to Director Minuit, to which we must pay more attention in the future.

On the east side I ordered three farms with a grist-mill and a sawmill to be established. I am advised not to put up the sawmill. The grist-mill, according to the last letters, was almost ready and stands on de lacts kil. One of the three farms, named de lactsburch, had been established there, of which roclof Jansen van Masterlandt is farmer. He had prepared about five morgens of land to be seeded with winter wheat, but for want of seed, seems to have seeded these last March with summer wheat and a goodly number of morgens more which he would seed later as far as the seed reached. Said Roclof Jansen had four horses and 11 sheep, and the cows and hogs which I bought of Gerrit de reux were also to be given him, so that he has a complete farm and a suitable house. The island which lies a little further northward on the east side, I have named de lacts Island so that I have commemorated your honor's name on the east side. The name of confrater Godyn I have commemorated as follows: the islands of pacp Sickencee on the east side towards the south, I have named Godyns Islands; the mill<sup>95</sup> on the west side at the end of Castle Island, where the first sawmill was erected, I have named Godyns kil. This creek runs very deep inland, has quantities of fish, principally bullheads and lampreys, and near by is found much beautiful, arable and meadow land on which in time may be established another farm, which shall then be named Godynsburch.

The fourth creek above Fort Orange on the west side is called Blommaerts kil, where on the arrival of this ship shall be established a farm according to the contract made with gerrit de reux, who with two men and two boys sails thither, with horses and tools and all sorts of supplies needed for himself as well as for the other farms. This farm shall be named Blommaertsburch.

The five small islands lying a little further northward on the west side have been named Blommaerts Islands.

As for my own name, I have not forgotten that either, having named the colony situated on both sides of the river, Renselaers weyck and Beeren Island, where our colony begins, Renselaers Island. Castle Island I have named the West Island and that for the reason . . .<sup>96</sup> on which island lies the farm named Renselaersburg, on which Rutger hendriksen van Soest is farmer and which has a comfortable dwelling house and barn. Said rutger hendriksen had before the departure of the vessels seeded 12 morgens with winter wheat and four morgens with winter rye, which looked as fine as any on the best land in this country. As he has enough horses, he will apparently seed at least eight or 10 morgens more with summer seed and as I hope to obtain some more animals which are left on the director's farm and shall also get my nephew wouter van Twiller, who now goes thither as director of the Company, to buy still others, I confidently expect to obtain enough animals to establish another farm on the said West Island, as it is 136 Rhineland morgens in extent. The said farm shall be called weelysburgh, for my wife. Pach Sickenees kill, now named Renselaers kil, on the east side opposite the mill creek or Godyns kill, I suppose that by this time we have bought already with the exception of the woods in the rear, that is the land along the river only, which contains about 600, 700 or 800 morgens of flat and clear land, mostly clay and brown soil, on each morgen of which in good years might be raised one last or at least  $\frac{3}{4}$  last of wheat. However, our principal profit will come from the cattle, for which there is plenty of fine pasture and hay for nothing but the labor (though it is true that the trade yields quick returns but also quickly causes loss)<sup>97</sup> while on the contrary the clearing of the land proceeds with slowness but a certainty of which I have no doubt at all if the Lord preserves us from surprisals.

Now at first we must have a little patience and necessarily spend money to obtain possession. After the first harvest, which is at hand, I hope that our people will no longer have lack of wheat, milk, butter or cheese; they can catch plenty of fish with little trouble and in the course of time they will also have plenty of meat as they have already oxen in the field, of which they can slaughter one at killing time. I intend now by this ship to send six or eight more heifer calves. If we had cattle we should have money and if we had horses we should have wheat. I take good care to avail myself of all opportunities to acquire cattle, which makes many jealous of me, but they have to stand it, as every one is free to do what is best for himself. The contract which I have made with gerrit de reux runs till the first of January 1634 on a yearly salary; but after that, all expenses and wages of laborers must be deducted, and of the remaining grain, milk, butter and increase of animals, one half shall belong to us and the other half to Gerrit de reux. I hope to deal with the other farmers on the same basis, as if we had a fixed yearly income; but as during the first years things are not in order, they want to receive monthly wages, as is reasonable. As increase shall count only such animals as are in excess of the original number and before they then get their share, they must give to the patroon the opportunity of purchase at a fixed rate if he so desires. Their share of the wheat I think it for the present not advisable to buy from them at a definite rate, as that can always be done.

As to the profits on which we may count, we have various strings to our bow. The Company will have to keep at Fort Orange yearly some 25 men, from whom, by providing them with everything, we may draw some 2500 guilders a year and therewith pay the laborers' wages. As soon as there is a supply of grain on hand, I intend to erect a brewery to provide all New Netherland with beer, for which purpose there is already a brew kettle there, and when there is more grain, I intend also to erect a brandy distillery, as there are several brandy kettles and wood can be had for the labor.

I also intend to grind meal with a view of selling the same to the Brownists toward the north or to the English toward the south. At the worst, if we had over 100 lasts of grain, which at 100 gold guilders a last would produce 1400<sup>98</sup> guilders, one could for 4000 or 5000 guilders hire a ship to fetch the same and in going load it full of animals, as I have now found out that one can send over animals, feeding them meal without hay. The animals we could keep there so cheaply that the hides would pay the expense and the meat and fat we would have for nothing. I have also given order to raise many hogs, which during the day can run in the woods and during the night stay home, and provided care is taken to put some meal in their drinking water they may be fat before the winter comes. Here I run somewhat ahead, but before three years have elapsed I hope that we shall yearly, as surplus for ourselves and the farmers, grow over one hundred lasts of grain, which will increase from year to year if it please the Lord.

<sup>98</sup> Should be 14,000; the gold guilder equalling 1.40 guilders.

I shall try to have a map made of our colony, which being done, I shall send each of the confraters participants a copy. Further, as I have already advanced various sums of money and must daily advance more, we have thought it advisable that each  $\frac{1}{5}$  share should contribute 200 guilders and I therefore request that your honor be good enough to send me the said 200 guilders for your  $\frac{1}{5}$  part by the first opportunity in order that I may not count interest as I have done before. Wherewith ending, honorable, wise, prudent and discreet sir, I commend you to the gracious protection of Almighty God and greet you heartily.

In witness that it has thus been resolved to contribute 200 guilders for each fifth part, we the undersigned participants have also signed this on the 27th of June 1632 at Amsterdam.

Cornelis Jacobsz van martensdyck
Cornelis theunisz van meerkerck
Marcus mensen van Culenburgh , farm boy

Charging the same to take good care of the calves which are sent over with them, also to provide the same well with food and water and to keep them clean. To that end I send along:

2 pipes of spent malt or draff one hogshead and 2 barrels<sup>4</sup> of rye meal three barrels ground linseed cakes
12 sacks of hay for refreshment<sup>5</sup>

I send along also for the use of the farms a ship's chest in which are:

12 grass scythes
19 Hainault scythes<sup>6</sup> for grain

your honor proper power of attorney to administer to the same the usual oath of fidelity. I should be pleased if this matter were disposed of as soon as possible, and if the opportunity does not present itself for your honor to see him or have him come to see you soon, you will please give a power of attorney to the then commis of Fort Orange to administer the oath to the said Rutger with the proper formalities, if possible on the farm which he now occupies, and thereafter to offer him the rapier and the hat.

Also, four black hats<sup>9</sup> with silver bands, to be presented in my name to the following persons, whom I have designated as schepens and councilors of Rensselaerswyck according to the accompanying power of attorney:

Roelof Janssen van Masterland
gerrit theussen de Reus
maryn adriaensz vand. vere
Brandt Pelen vander nykerck
Laurens laurensz van coppenhagen

For which purpose I send by you a formal power of attorney made out to the aforesaid officer Rutger hendriksz to be handed to him with the copy of the accompanying schepen oath, whereupon he shall summon the aforesaid persons to his place of residence, have the aforesaid power of attorney and schepen oath read to them, and after suitable remarks and with becoming respect, as in the presence of God, administer the said oath and thereafter present each one of them with one of the aforesaid hats.

And whereas Wolffert Gerritsz has requested to be released from his engagement, although I had expected that he would have moved his residence up above, or at least have stayed there for some months the better to look after my affairs, you will grant him his request; and as I have been informed that he has not troubled himself much about my affairs and has also been but seldom up the river, you will make such arrangements with him as the circumstances require and see whether you can not buy some animals from him for me, as I understand that he has a good quantity of them left, the price of which and the charges for his trouble you may add together.

Meanwhile, you will please take charge and superintend my men as much as possible and request somebody at Fort Orange to keep an eye on them during your absence and, in case they should be in need of some one to write or to read their instructions, to take charge of that also, or do what in your opinion shall be advisable and of service to me.

Concerning Officer Notelman, who was to deliver to me all the animals and farm implements which belonged to Gerrit de Reus after compensating the Company for them according to the contracts of the farmers, I understand that he has been prevented by frost from bringing them up above before the winter, but he promised me that he would do so at the first opportunity in the spring, of which I doubt not. However, if he has not at all or only in part carried out his promise, you will cause him to do so, as I need the animals as well as the implements very much for my men and farms, and would suffer great damage and delay in case he acted contrary to his agreement. Of the horses and cows which he has kept over winter, he has enjoyed the dairy products and the labor, having so overworked the horses that they have all thrown their colts prematurely. Nevertheless, you will in all justness settle the matter with him and as, so far as I know, I am still several animals short of the complement of the two farms of Evert focken and of Gerrit de Reus, for which I must pay the Company, you will take care that I obtain the rest. You must know that the two old stallions which Rocloff Jansz has and also the horses of the stave splitters are not included therein, but must be paid for separately and, as I have not received any hogs and Officer Notelman has a good quantity of them to spare, you might take the same over from him or from some one else for the Company and according to the contract cause the same to be delivered to me.

I understand that Claes cornelisz rademaecker<sup>12</sup> is quite willing to give up some horses and cattle; if you can obtain any from him or any one else, you will not fail to buy the same for my account, as I am fully determined to take over all animals that are for sale, whether old or young, at a reasonable price or at the rate of those sold before; and as many young animals as are to be had on the farms of Minuit and Bylvelt of which I shall apparently obtain a goodly number, you will please send all of those up the river at the first opportunity; and as it is apparent that several farm hands when their time has expired will come home, you will select from them the best and as many as you shall judge necessary for my farms and animals; and if there are any suitable blacks, provide me with them if you think that they will render me good service. On the contrary, if there are any persons in my employ whom your honor considers unserviceable to me and who do not properly acquit themselves of their duties, whether master or servant or whoever it may be, you will ipso facto deport and discharge the same, and if they return home, they will in all such cases do so at their own expense.

Herewith I send also two barrels in which are  $9\frac{1}{2}$  schepels of buckwheat for seed, to be divided among my farmers.

Also half a barrel, in which 2 schepels, and one firkin<sup>13</sup> of rape seed, also to be divided among my farmers, and to be seeded in such places as they find suitable thereto, taking good care to preserve the crop, so that in the future they may sow the same again and advise me if it succeeds well.

In case you are of opinion that I could run the brickyard with profit, you will please see to that, as the clay of which the bricks and tiles are burned must be taken from my land.

If the savages should be inclined to sell the small islands above Fort Orange, as well as that opposite the fort and those of Pacp-sickenè (which are also situated on the east side somewhat farther south than Castle, now called West Island), I should be pleased to buy the same, as my colony would then be complete<sup>14</sup> and no one else own land therein.

You will also please notice whether any silkworms are found there and whether it would be advisable to do anything with them, as mulberry trees occur in my colony and such worms are likely to be found there.

Herewith goes a copy of the instructions to Rutger hendriksz van Soest, together with the contract made with Gerrit Thecussz de Reus, of which your honor will please send a copy to Fort Orange in order to hear the decision of the other farmers respect-

The horses and cows which I and other farmers must furnish to the Company from the respective farms, according to the conditions, I am satisfied to retain and accept at the price formerly paid and as fixed by the Company. I request your honor not to be too saving in this matter, that I may get the same, specially those of wolffert gerritssen, who, as I understand, is willing to deliver his at the first opportunity in order to have his other animals free.

Instructions to Rutger Hendricksz van Soest, schout, and the council of the colony of Rensselaerswyck<sup>15</sup>

July 20, 1632

Instructions for Rutger Hendricxssen van Soest, officer, and for his associated council<sup>16</sup> in Rensselaerswyck, sent him by Kiliaen van Rensselaer, patroon of the said colony, according to which, so far as they apply, he and the other inhabitants of the said place must faithfully and honestly govern, comport, conduct and acquit themselves.

1 First, Rutger Hendricxsz aforesaid, after taking the oath of fidelity and as officer aforesaid, shall present himself before and call on the commis of Fort Orange and offer him every favor, assistance and the usual tokens of friendship, in order that they may mutually aid one another not only with word and deed, but in time of danger with life and limb against the common enemy; and he shall further entertain constantly friendly relations, each respecting the other.

2 On all occasions when a council meeting is held (which must take place at the officer's house), they shall not neglect to invoke the name of the Lord, and every Sunday and on the usual holidays they shall come together to read aloud some chapters from the Holy Scriptures, for which purpose a Bible is herewith sent to them, as well as a huyspostille Schulteti<sup>17</sup> in which every Sunday throughout the year has its special lesson and exposition of God's Holy Word, to which reading Brandt Peelen vander Niekerck is hereby authorized.

3 Third, the officer shall select one of the schepens or some one else whom he may judge fit to record the resolutions of the council.

<sup>15</sup> V. R. B. Mss, Letter Book, f. 17. Extract of these instructions in V. R. B. Mss 36; see p. 701.

4 If any one of the schepens should misbehave himself, so that the officer have cause to enter a complaint against him, the delinquent shall during the deliberation on his affairs absent himself from the council.

5 In order that the officer and the schepens may know the better the Freedoms of the patroons and colonies, I send herewith five printed copies, one to be given to each of the schepens, and a sixth for the officer, and those who can not read shall immediately have the same read to them by others, that they may in no wise exceed their rights.

6 And although the fifteenth article of the said Freedoms concedes to the patroons, at places where the Company has no commis, the trade in beaver, otter, mink and similar peltries, and my colony extends several leagues above and below as well as opposite Fort Orange, which as well as the example of other patroons might easily induce my people to engage in such trade of peltries, it is nevertheless my express wish and desire that without my further order no one, be he free or servant in my employ, or living in my colony, shall presume to barter any peltries with the savages or seek to obtain them as a present, on forfeiture of their earnings and all their other effects according to the conditions and express stipulations of their contract; and in order that no one should in any way pretend ignorance thereof, the aforesaid officer shall summon before him all the inhabitants of Rensselaerswyck, together with all those who are in my service, whether old or young, man or woman, master or servant, no one excepted, in order to notify them of this my intention. But in case any savages should offer any one of them two or three skins for food or drink, he must deliver the same immediately upon receipt to the officer aforesaid, who at least once every month or six weeks shall turn the said skins over to the commis at Fort Orange, and take proper receipt therefor.

7 The seawan, pearls, minerals, crystals or similar things which any one of them may find or obtain he must deliver into the hands of the officer, who shall keep the same in safety and at the first opportunity have report thereof made to the patroon in order that he may take proper measures in regard to the same.

8 Forbidding all inhabitants of Rensselaerswyck, in case they discover in the said colony or outside any gold, silver, copper or other mines or any marble quarries, or pearl fisheries and whatever else might be of importance, to reveal the same to any one but the officer, who if the same are situated outside of the colony, but not otherwise, shall report the same to the commis at Fort Orange in the name of his patroon as the first finder and immediately advise his patroon thereof, who shall thereafter regulate the matter and according to circumstances offer a substantial reward to the first finder.

9 The officer is hereby warned that rock crystal is found in de Lacts kil opposite Fort Orange, above and inland from the dwelling of Rocloff Janssz, and that care should be taken to see whether the mountain from which the same drops into the creek can not be found.

10 The officer shall with the advice of the council take measures to have the following farms put into working order at the earliest possible moment, to have the houses erected and the farms provided with people and animals.

The first farm shall be that on which the officer lives now, called Rensselaers burgh, and of which he, the officer, shall remain farmer.

The second, that across the river, where Roclof Janssz dwells, called de Lacts burgh, on which the said Rocloff shall remain farmer.

The third shall be established on Castle Island, now called West Island, the house to be erected where it shall be most convenient and as near as possible to every other farm, on which farm, which shall be named Welys burgh, Brandt Pelen vander Niekerck shall be farmer, who shall have half of the said island for his use.

The fourth shall be established on the fourth creek lying north of Fort Orange and south of the islands which lie in the river. On this farm, which shall be called Blommaerts burgh, gerrit theuss de reus shall be farmer.

And in order that the two houses which have not yet been commenced may be the sooner finished, the officer shall request of the commis at Fort Orange the assistance of the carpenters, smiths and other workmen, at the expense of his patroon. Meanwhile, Roclof Janssz, Laures laressz, Barent theuniss and all others who are at all capable of working on the aforesaid houses, shall assist each other diligently and faithfully, so that the aforesaid houses may be erected and finished. But even if they can not get any assistance from the men of the Company, they shall all without exception help one another faithfully, as people having but one and the same master.

To the director, Wouter van Twiller, I have handed a copy of the conditions made with Gerrit Theeuwiss de reus concerning the farm above Fort Orange, and am willing to let all my other farmers enjoy the same conditions also. However, as the farms of the officer and of Roeloff Janssz are already in working order, the conditions respecting the same must go into effect on the first of January next, but for the farm to be established for Brandt Peelen, they shall go into effect only on the first of January 1634, like those of Gerrit de reus; acceptance whereof, so far as he is concerned, each one must without fail send me by the first ship.

Nor must they neglect to send me by the ship de walvisch<sup>18</sup>, which towards winter will come to fish in the South River and will leave in the spring, information of everything, to wit, what kind and how many animals each farm has, how many of them have died and what the increase has been, what grain there is in sacks, in the granary and on the field, what the profit or loss of each farm has been, how much land is attached to each farm and further everything that is necessary, so that the patroon may know from year to year exactly what his profit has been and which farmers have exerted themselves most.

If any farm hands or even farmers or any one else should misbehave themselves, especially those who through quarreling or fighting, through laziness or drinking, neglect the profit of their patroon, they must be corrected and punished according to the customs of these lands and especially according to the laws of this province of Holland, without regard to person.

Concerning the milk, butter, cheese and further all kinds of grain and root crops which every one has in store, they shall try to sell these to the best advantage for the patroon, either to Christians or savages, and if they have so much grain on hand that it can not be used there, they shall send it over to this country in the ships of the Company with proper invoice, after having inquired of the director how much room for that purpose there is in the ships. And if they think it advisable to erect a brandy distillery or a brewery, they shall ask the director for the large brewing kettle and brandy kettle which is at the Manhattes and sell the brandy and beer either at Fort Orange or at the Manhattes or elsewhere.

As to the young cows, as soon as they are of suitable age they shall be covered by the bull in order to increase the stock, and the bull calves shall from the first be castrated and kept in order to fatten them, but the young horses shall not be covered before the third or fourth year.

Further, a goodly number of hogs shall be kept on each farm, which can be trained to run in the woods in the daytime and to come home at night, and if they must be tended by a swineherd during the day it is not necessary that each farm have a boy for that purpose, as one person could easily watch all the hogs together, and if the houses are too widely separated, the hogs might be taken for the night now to one farm and then to the other.

The people shall supply and furnish one another all such tools and victuals as one is provided with and the other not, in such way however that each one must keep account of what he gives out and receives. As I do not doubt that this next slaughter time some of my young steers will be fit to kill, you must sell the same either at the Manhatas or at Fort Orange to my best advantage and do the same year after year, and each year try to increase the amount.

In case you should have more milk or butter than can be consumed there in the country, you must take care to preserve the butter with salt so as to be fit for shipment. But to my mind it would be more profitable to make cheese than to churn the milk into butter.

If the commis at Fort Orange, contrary to expectation, should act in an unneighborly manner, you will carefully examine the printed Freedoms and do whatever be found there to my advantage, making use of the sixth article, by which fishing, shooting of birds and grinding of meal within my colony are reserved to the patroon or to the person having his permission and by which all the lands above as well as below and opposite Fort Orange are under my jurisdiction. As during the winter large quantities of venison are brought to the fort by the savages, with which they readily part in return for milk, butter, etc., care must be taken to buy up and salt the same for use either pickled or smoked, not only for your own needs but also as food and provision for the Manhatas and other quarters, and if they have enough, to send it here. You must also know that opposite the fort toward the south, there are large quantities of geese and turkeys, so that I am inclined to think that my colony will soon be in a flourishing state, specially if you on your part show no lack of diligence, industry and work.

If any one who is not in my service should wish to do some farming in my colony, specially on the lands bought by me, you must not permit but must prevent the same, as you are hereby advised that all the lands lying on the west side of the river, from beyren Island to Moeneminnes Castle, have been bought by me and paid for, even including the place where Fort Orange stands, but if those of the fort offer you the helping hand, you shall in return accommodate them as much as possible, in order that one hand washing the other they may both become clean.<sup>19</sup>

Laus Deo, this day, 20 July 1632, in Amsterdam*Conrad notelman*

Mon cousin: I find myself with your favor of the 15th of January last past, with the account of the f30 given to you here and the f21 received from Rutgert hendriksz, which is therefore settled. I have further given to your wife f75, as she states in her letter I suppose, which you must make good there. I have also given her the 2 RD<sup>21</sup> of Gerrit de Reus and the 3 RD of the Noormannen. The f36 of hendrick gysbertsz van Vianen were received and given to my brother in law to hand to your wife, but this she did not know yet when she wrote her letter.

The f3 of minne bouwessz are still lacking . . . .<sup>22</sup> on account of the great changes which have taken place here, and if I had not exerted my influence they would have recalled you together with others whom they are ordering home, as my nephew Woutter van Twiller, who now goes there as director general, will no doubt tell you. He has also done his best to keep you there, so that you will now have to pay close attention to your duties and perform them to the best services of the Company or they will the next time easily find occasion to remand you. However, I have no doubt but you will properly acquit yourself of them.

I have asked my aforesaid nephew to look a little after the affairs of my colony, which you will please do also and faithfully advise me of all that happens there.

I have released Wolffert Gerritsz, on your advice and at his request, and also given my nephew orders to talk over with you the things of which you write. I see that of my eight calves six arrived, of which two died later in that country, so that there are still four left, which no doubt you have sent up the river with my other animals in good time in the spring. I hear some complaints that you have worked my horses a little too hard so that they have all thrown their colts prematurely. I hope that this is not true, but that on the contrary they brought forth the colts last May. I wish, now that the farm of minuit has been granted to my nephew wouter van Twiller, that you might get that of Bylvelt, and also that I might get the surplus young stock of both, as otherwise I do not know wherewith to support without loss the 50 persons whom I must have there within four years. The hogs which must still be delivered to me by the Company, I have requested my nephew to take of you on proper payment. I am glad to hear that Rutger hendriksen has acquitted himself so well and has a fine farm with a good farmhouse and 16 morgens winter wheat in the field and apparently will have sown also a good quantity of summer wheat.

<sup>21</sup> RD stands for rijksdaalder, or rix-dollar, a silver coin of the value of 2.50 guilders.

I have made him officer over my colony named Rensselaerswyck, and presented him with a plated rapier and baldric as well as a hat with plume.

I have thought fit to establish another farm above Fort Orange, of which Gerrit theeuw de reus shall be farmer. I have promised to return to him the animals which came from him and I have no doubt that he will find them there on his arrival. Also a fourth farm on Castle Island, next to Rutgers, of which Brandt peelen will be farmer. I hope that I shall have animals enough for the afore-said farms, which with that of Rocloff Janssz will then be four in number, and if I can get more animals, I should by the next ship like to fit out two more farms and send the people for them over at the same time. I beg you to look well after these matters, especially when you go up there to note how everything proceeds and who acquits himself best, just as you have done lately, for which I thank you very kindly. In turn I shall on all occasions look after your interests.

For the rest I refer to the verbal report of my nephew Wouter van Twiller, to whom I have recommended you most highly. I doubt not but he will be more favorably inclined toward you than his predecessor has been. But you have occupied yourself a little too much with the personal question against the director, notwithstanding I had warned you so strongly against that. In all well ordered governments one must respect his chief and work not for faction but for the common good, for where the head is against the members and the members against the head everything must be lost.

Wherewith ending, mon cousin, I commend you to the gracious protection of Almighty God and with hearty salutations from myself, my wife, her mother, sister and brothers and all the friends, remain,

Your willing servant and Cousin, K. V. R.

N. B. I should like nothing better than to hear by your next letter that you are on goods terms with my nephew, the director, and if you hear anything to his disparagement, you will properly defend and warn him. The letter of your wife, I have sent by him; it is in the chest<sup>23</sup> in which are my farm implements, such as Hainault and grass scythes. Vale.

Laus Deo, this day, 20 July 1632, in Amsterdam

Honorable, discreet S<sup>r</sup> Dirck Cornclissz duyster: This will serve [to let you know] that I have duly received your writing of the 1st of November last past, from which I learn the situation of my farms and your opinion of wolffert gerritsen, whom I have released at his request. You thank me that I have procured you the office of commis, which I did with great pleasure, conscientiously believing that you merited it. I only wish that my successors had done so likewise, but as new lords usually make new laws, I have heard a rumor that they have appointed some one else above you and also that they summon home albert diteringh and Bastiaen Janssz crol. Therefore, if you should make difficulty about accepting again the office of onder-commis, no one of the old servants would remain there, which might easily cause great changes and the complete destruction and ruin of the flourishing trade which now increases so much, and at the same time completely spoil my young and tender colony which has already cost me so much, and place the people in great peril, which I hope Almighty God will graciously prevent. I should be pleased if you could resolve to stay there, as I do not know at all the commis<sup>25</sup> who is to be there, and as I hear that he is quite prejudiced against the colonies, so that instead of showing friendship, he will seek to offend me. If he do so, I shall oppose him, and who knows how it will go ten months from now, when again six directors must retire. I have already brought some order in my colony called Rensselaerswyck, namely I have appointed Rutger hendriksen as officer and schout and also chosen five schepens to guard my rights there, and I have sent to each a printed copy of the Freedoms with full instructions according to which they must regulate themselves. If the commis refuse me favors that he could easily grant without prejudice to the Company, I must look out for myself, as all the land from beeren Island to Moenemins Castle belongs to me by lawful purchase and conveyance, even the land on which Fort Orange stands, and nobody may without my consent fish, fowl or shoot game, or even do any farming on my land, according to the sixth article. However, if he is disposed to act in a proper and neighborly manner, I seek only peace and pleasant relations, but if he is not willing, I shall not trouble myself much about him. I have prohibited my people from trading in peltries notwithstanding I have as good a right as others,<sup>26</sup> according to the fifteenth article of the Freedoms. I have done this to avoid dispute with the Company and therefore hope that as hitherto they will not act otherwise than fairly towards me, unless the commis who is now going there should be partial, as I fear he will be, and as I have been told he has already sufficiently intimated here in this country. The Company might better have entrusted the trade to you, or at least could have sent another and less notorious<sup>27</sup> person than this. I am very anxious [to know] whether he will prove the man [to do the things] for which some have forced him in fairly against the breast of many of the directors. They have made my nephew Wouter van Twiller director general, who also goes over now. I have most highly recommended you to him. He is quite content with you; would that he were equally satisfied with the other, but time will show. If you can not resolve to stay at Fort Orange, you might try to exchange places with Jacobus van Corler, that he might be appointed at the fort and you as commis at the North.<sup>28</sup> If you decide to stay, I recommend you to do your best, and inasmuch as Rutger hendrixsz and my other men are not very ready with the pen, be pleased to help them a little and I trust you enough for them to let you read my letters and instructions. Wherewith ending, I commend you to the gracious protection of Almighty God and greet you heartily.

Your affectionate friend

Kindly do me the favor to have albert dieterinck or some one else some day pace off the farm lands from Moenemins Castle to

The [map of the] other [land] which Mr crijn<sup>31</sup> measured, I have duly received. Honorable, prudent, very discreet Sir: I find myself with your favor of the <sup>33</sup> January, in which you thank me that I helped to promote you to the directorship,<sup>34</sup> which I did with pleasure. However, though new lords make new laws, I am astonished at the great changes which they are making, inasmuch as they summon you and albert ditering home and send a new commis to Fort Orange, appointing Dirck cornelissz again as onder-commis, and if the same refuse to accept this, as I half fear he will, not one of the old servants will be there, with the result that the trade which has now been placed upon such a good footing by you might again be completely ruined, unless something worse happen, which God forbid. I thank you for the purchase of the land and other courtesies done to me, as well as for the communications sent to me, and although they now send my nephew Woutter there as director, believe me freely that he has not tried in the least to oust you from your office, as the directors have offered it to him without his asking for it and without my speaking to any one about it for him, going on the general principle that they wanted to call all the people home (which thus far they have not been able to do however) and send altogether a new set of people, a few excepted. Whether they act prudently and wisely in this, I leave for others who are cleverer than myself to judge. The result will show it; and whether they are not recalling more efficient and faithful people than some of the new ones they send out; the Lord only knows. At all events, many of them are sorry to send any one who is favorable to the patroons, even without harm to the Company. But they can not yet do everything they would like. I commend to you once more the best interests of my colony, which has already cost me a great deal. Where-with ending, I commend you to God's gracious protection and send hearty greetings.

Your very favorably disposed friend

I should be pleased if albert Dieterinck or some one else would some day pace off those of my farm lands which Mrcrijn<sup>35</sup> has not measured, to wit: opposite Fort Orange; also near the mill creek;<sup>36</sup> further above the pine wood<sup>37</sup> to the falls, from there to Moene-mins Castle, the length and the width.

Laus Deo, this day, 20 July 1632, in Amsterdam

Honorable, discreet Woffert Gerritsz:

Your letter of the 9th of January last I duly received, from which I learned the condition of my farms, as also that I should send some farm hands, to which end I have engaged Gerrit thecussz de reus, who goes thither with some servants. I did not send more, as I thought that for the present this would be enough. I had hoped that you would have settled in my colony but, as I am told, your wife was not much inclined thereto, which I imagine to be the reason that you seek to be released, and as I should be sorry to keep anybody in my service against his will and to his discomfort, I have ordered by nephew Wouter van Twiller, who now goes thither as director general, to settle your past accounts in all fairness and at the same time to negotiate with you about the animals that remain in your possession, as I still need quite a number for the completion of my projected farms and Officer notelman has advised me that you will let me have some. I should have been pleased if you had sent me the account of the various kinds of grain which were grown in 1631 and whether they amounted to enough to furnish food for all my people and animals, as I can not learn what was grown in 1631; I hope that this year will be better.

It shows bad management that Rocloff Janssen could not get any winter seed; I hope that he has sown the more summer seed. If my people had a good supply of grain, I should think it not a bad plan if I established a brewery and brandy distillery in my district, in regard to which I shall be pleased to receive your advice at the first opportunity, as also how many farms there could be in my colony giving every farmer 20 or 30 morgens arable land besides pasture and meadow land. For the rest I refer to the verbal communications of my nephew, the director, commending you meanwhile to the gracious protection of Almighty God and saluting you heartily.

Your very willing friend

I have recommended you to my nephew, who I have no doubt will show you every favor so far as the service of the Company and his commission will allow.

also 6 heifer calves which will now go across with Reux by this ship; cost f81:13

The purchased hogs with the increase of young pigs, you will please also distribute over the five farms and, as I have now a fair quantity of animals, the farmers can give the hogs the surplus buttermilk to drink and have those that can not be sold in the country killed toward winter when they are fat, and salted and cured, and if due attention is given thereto I imagine that it can be made a source of great profit, as they can get most of their food from the woods.

Inventory of goods and animals sold by Peter Minuit to Wouter van Twiller and Kiliaen van Rensselaer<sup>47</sup>

July 20, 1632

Gerret Jansen van oldenborch, foreman on my farm, or some one else in his absence, shall let Wauter van twiller, director of New Netherland, have these following animals and tools, sold and ceded to him of the animals which I had in stock in January 1632 according to inventory of the council signed by bastiaen Jansen Croll, with this understanding that if any one of them have died they shall be charged to the said van Twiller, in return for which he shall have the benefit of the colts and calves thrown since:

four old mares, with colt at the time four old cows, also with calf two heifers, then one year old six sheep
six hogs

These sheep and hogs Minuit did not receive from the Company; van twiller must claim them therefore of the Company or deduct from the horses and cows which he must hereafter furnish to the same.

a goodly number of chickens and pigeons a half-worn wagon an old ditto
two plows with their belongings about 15 morgens of winter seeding; also seed ordered and directed sown as follows:
three morgens of oats
one morgen of peas
a well seeded and planted garden.

<sup>46</sup> die in Swaenendael overgeschoten is. This phrase may mean either that Theunis willems was engaged in excess of the men required in Swanendael or that he survived the massacre, the news of the destruction of the colony having reached Holland May 24, 1632. From the account of the destruction of Swanendael in de Vries, Korte Historiæ, p. 101, it would seem that all the colonists were killed.

For which aforesaid items the said van twiller shall pay as follows: to the West India Company for the rent remaining unpaid the sum of 500 guilders; to the aforesaid Peter Minuit the sum of one hundred and fifty guilders;<sup>48</sup> to the aforesaid Company two horses, two cows, three sheep, three hogs; in return for which aforesaid items he shall be credited with the first 100 guilders which Minuit has paid on the lease and shall have the food supplies for men and animals till next harvest, left there by Minuit, who was not obliged to supply them longer than till the first of May 1632, the said minuit to pay the wages of the farm hands till the first of May 1632. He, twiller, shall also have the benefit of the increase before May 1632, that is to say, what it amounts to over and above the loss through death of the old animals; also the improvement of the garden and newly cultivated lands as well as the larger part of the winter seeding and all the supply of summer seed; also the improvement of the horses during the years as also that they are mares.

The said gerret Jansen van oldenborch shall deliver to the aforesaid Wauter van twiller for account of killiaen van Renselaer these following animals sold to him, upon condition that the loss of those which shall have died after the 14th of January 1632 shall be borne by the said Renselaer, who in return shall enjoy the growth and increase since the aforesaid 14th of January 1632, provided he supplies them with food till July 1632:

Secretary Remundt told me that he would leave this afternoon; he is now summoned to leave here this morning as the wind is easterly; you will therefore have to insist that those who are at the Texel sign your honor's contract. At the same time I shall insist here, even after your honor's departure, unless the commissioners at the Texel shall have signed it, of which you must advise me. Herewith goes the contract of sale of the animals, tools and other things of farm No. 1, entered into with the former director Minuit, attested by his signature, by which you can see what belongs to the farm and what the surplus is which he has sold to me. The f150 I shall pay him for your honor; place this to my credit and with it purchase for me some more animals in New Netherland. I presume that wolphert and others will be quite willing to sell, as so many of the people leave.

N. B. He has told me that he recommended to your honor for your own use the young stallion sold to me; if your honor should like that horse or anything else that is included in my purchase, you are free to take it. If you keep the stallion, you may give me in return for it as well as for the f150 as many of your young colts and calves as you think proper.

N. B. Contract made with Pietter bijlevelt<sup>59</sup> I send also the contract concerning the surplus animals bought of Pieter Bylevelt; and as to the animals and tools belonging to his farm, I have bought most of them from him also. But on account of the hasty departure of the secretary, I can not send your honor the document inasmuch as he, bylevelt, will not be here till an hour from now to close the matter finally. In the meantime, consider them as sold. I send herewith the inventory of all his animals and implements; the terms are that he pay the first f100 to the Company to which he must sell; that for the second f100 he surrender [his claim to] 90 schepels of rye and wheat which are due to him;<sup>60</sup> the remaining f400 the purchaser must pay to the Company, also deliver to the Company two horses and two cows. He must supply them with fodder till the next harvest, also pay the wages of the men till May 1632, which he says andries hudde has agreed to do in return for the milk and butter of the cattle. He cedes further a wagon and plows as well as the winter grain and the supply left there for sum*mer grain, provided I pay him in hand f150. I have offered him f100 and a small diamond, so that it is pretty nearly settled. I shall still send you the deed if I have time.*<sup>61</sup> Your honor must take out of his animals first those which he has sold to me; the other terms I am content to leave to nootelman, provided he gives me for the f150 which I must give in addition young or other animals. There are six milch cows; I have bought one, so that he can probably spare two cows and some calves. The two old mares will also have colts of which he can probably spare one also. The hogs and sheep the Company has furnished.<sup>62</sup> These animals nootelman can use on the farm of Gerrit de Reus, which he now occupies.

N. B. If nootelman has driven my horses so hard that they have lost their colts, he must furnish me others in their stead there. He has 15 morgens of winter seed, so that he is already supplied and this he has cultivated with my horses. And as to the right which the Company might claim to the seeding of the farm of Byleveldt, to that N. B. bylevelt says that the directors have ejected him therefrom and that it is not his fault that the farm must lie idle, as he has not been able to leave it to anybody and as he offered it to Secretary Remundt who would not accept it, so that he has obtained permission to sell the cattle. There would also be little objection to paying the Company for its right as aside from the summer seed there are [but] seven morgens on the farm that have been seeded, of which the Company must have every sixth sheaf and counting this for the four years which his lease lasts, the Company would in all have a right to 4/6<sup>63</sup> [of the crop] so that there would remain still 2/6 over and above the right of the Company even if the land remained idle. Meanwhile the land will fallow and recover and before the four years are past the calves will be cows and the colts, horses. Other farms could be treated in the same way, and if the secretary were [not] provided with a farm, he must have the preference as I promised him, and you may undertake to deal with others in a similar manner and leave to nootelman the animals of bylevelt as said above. You can see by this what advantage you have in taking over the farm and animals of Minuijt on which offhand over 100 pounds Flemish is made and in case nootelman is supplied, as wulfert gerritsen had offered to sell him four cows and two horses, keep the animals and farm of bylevelt for me and do with the grain as stated above, to wit, deliver to the Company the  $\frac{4}{6}$  for the remaining four years and take his men or other suitable people whose time is up and at the first opportunity during the winter cause a house to be erected in Rensselaerswyck, either near Roelof jansen or at the mill creek,<sup>64</sup> with a view to sending the people and animals and tools up the river as soon as the water is open. In the meantime they might stay the winter over on the farm of bylvelt which will already be sown with winter seed, which is well, and cost only the wages of the men, the animals being with young also. This would then be my fifth farm, which I commend to your utmost care as by so doing the number of my men will increase and gradually come to the 50 souls.

The same scheme<sup>65</sup> could be used with regard to the wheelwright,<sup>66</sup> whom I hear the directors summon home and who has many animals. And even if the secretary should wish this farm, his profit shall largely consist in that he leaves me the old horses and cows, for which I would then have to pay him, and the young colts and calves he can easily have taken care of. They will be fit to use in two years and I would consent to have them brought to and taken care of at Rensselaerswyck under contract; meanwhile the exhausted land will recover and thereafter with the same labor produce the double crop. The right of the Company can be paid for the remaining years of the lease all at one time out of the seeded land, to wit,  $\frac{3}{6}$  [of the crop], leaving still  $\frac{3}{6}$  for his supply of seed, which he will cause to be sown in the fall either by the wheelwright or by others of his condition. This is my proposition.

N. B. Before this was finished, Bylvelt came, whose animals and tools and other property I have bought, everything conformable to the contract made with him which I send enclosed herein, and after thinking it over properly, I think it advisable not to leave these to notelman but to keep them for myself and establish a fifth farm with them as stated above. Bylvelt says that his foreman is active and intelligent and well suited for the management of a farm; you may therefore engage him or some one else with a laborer and a boy or, if need be, a black, and meanwhile cause a house to be erected at Rensselaerswyck to be occupied in the spring. You must notify the officer, Rutger hendriksen, hereof so that he and my other men take this in hand. As to nootelman, let him deal with wolphert, who has offered him four cows and two horses, and to my mind his office will give him enough to do. However, accommodate him, as well as the secretary, as much as possible. It were better for the Company as well as for the farmers if they let the exhausted land lie fallow for a while and only seeded one half; they would get better crops than now and that with half the labor and half the number of animals. This by way of advice and all at your discretion and for my best interests, laying especial stress on the fact that if I can not get animals, I shall not be able to send over 50 persons and that then certain partial people would soon call for action. I have always understood from Minuyt that in that country at the Manchates there is an English runaway boy named Rutger Moris, who is a drummer and understands tobacco planting, and on the chance that Maryn can learn something from him, you might send the boy some day to Fort Orange; he has planted and cured at least 80 lb for minuijt, which proceeded from 300 plants, and as my eye is mainly fixed on tobacco planting by which I can support many people, and as every morgen of land needs not less than five or six men to do well and will produce some 6000 lb, I would get the start of all the English in Virginia and the French on Cristoffel,<sup>67</sup> by reason of the extreme duties and returns to be paid to the king and the officers. There are, according to what I hear, about 4000 people in Virginia who live mostly by tobacco.

Minuijt has also told me that he has sown tobacco seed in the fall and covered the same during the winter with horse manure against the frost and snow and has kept the same over and transplanted it in the spring, of which excellent tobacco came, and as you well know N. B. Omit not to advise Maryn of this or to mention it to him by word of mouth, as I have a high opinion thereof and in that way could support hundreds of people; then the farms would do well.

that all winter seeds or crops are better than the summer crops, this would be a new invention which in my opinion would surpass all the others. He found it out accidentally the first time and thereafter thought it a good plan.

If Maryn should in any wise have trouble with his tobacco, do not neglect to send him the English boy to show him the way of preparing and curing it and tell him the experience of Minuijt of sowing the tobacco in the fall toward winter so that it can come up and then covering it with some manure or other warm stuff, such as hay or straw, whereby it will be protected and in the spring come up earlier and better than otherwise, which is a good scheme in cold countries.

And herewith ending, I commend you to the gracious protection of Almighty God, who grant you a speedy voyage and good success and proper respect in the execution of your office, for which we must constantly pray and invoke Him. I recommend to your honor above all things to keep the fear of the Lord before your eyes; by performing the service of your masters in accordance therewith, you will without doubt obtain His blessing. Gentlemen: I have no doubt but your honors still remember the request which I have made several times before to the honorable gentlemen individually and I hereby earnestly pray your honors to let me serve your honors properly and satisfactorily, as your suppliant for a considerable number of years has filled the office of commis of the honorable directors of the West India Company, had the management of the furs and merchandise, rendered proper accounts of the same and also kept the account of the men, both the salaried employees and the free colonists, etc.

Your suppliant prays therefore as above that the honorable patroons will be pleased to employ him as commis of the fur trade, of which your suppliant by each ship that arrives will send to the aforesaid honorable gentlemen strict accounts together with the bartered skins; for such commission as the honorable patroons may be pleased to give me on the skins so bartered; also of the trade in merchandise promising to render accounts and vouchers to the satisfaction of the aforesaid gentlemen, for which the honorable gentlemen will please to grant the suppliant one stiver on every guilder as commission on the goods sold, the same as the commissioners of New Netherland have paid their agents; also for the management of the sales of the provisions with what belongs thereto, and for this also one stiver on every guilder as above; also to keep the account of the men, both free colonists and salaried persons, for whatever the honorable gentlemen may please to allow the suppliant for that. Etc.

Memorial presented by Kiliaen van Rensselaer to the Assembly of the Nineteen of the West India Company<sup>69</sup>

November 25, 1633

TRANSLATED BY MRS ALAN H. STRONG

Presented to the Assembly of the XIX of the Chartered West India Company, the 25th of November 1633, in Amsterdam

Noble, Honorable, Wise, Prudent and Very Discreet Gentlemen:

Kiliaen van Rensselaer, in the capacity of patroon of his respective colonies situated within the jurisdiction of New Netherland, shows with all due reverence how he, the remonstrant, formerly director of said Company and commissioner of the aforesaid regions, found the affairs of New Netherland in the beginning of his administration, namely, that sundry colonists, as early as 1623, had been conveyed thither with instructions to dwell there as free persons and to carry on trade, principally in the furs abounding in that country. And considering that if this trade should be free to all without restriction, the fur-bearing animals would be too much hunted and the furs would be sold here below their value, to both the damage and the loss of the Company, which had as yet no other source of income from those regions to meet the expenses connected therewith, he therefore so influenced his fellow commissioners that they deemed it advisable to curtail this trade somewhat for a time; in the meanwhile planning how the Company, according to the charter, might settle the said regions at the least expense and with the greatest benefit to the country, considering that the same is a salubrious and fertile land, situated from about 38° to 48° north latitude, being provided with an extraordinarily fine climate and many beautiful, deep rivers, embracing within its limits more land and coast, sea and river than all the seventeen provinces of the Netherlands, from all of which, in time, much good may result to the Company; being, moreover, an excellent rendezvous for all ships, which can arrive there in 14 days from the West Indies, and being also well adapted for raising all kinds of grain and animals which could thence be sent here or at least within other limits of the charter, as Cape Verde, Guinea and Brazil. Following this, it was found good, with the advice of the Assembly of the Nineteen, to send a large number of farmers, animals, horses, cows, sheep and other necessaries, in order thus to relieve the Company of the heavy expense of transporting all sorts of provisions needed by the people in that land. This intention was diametrically opposed to the views of those who had no other aim than to send their ships from here to trade in the aforesaid places, notwithstanding that it was clearly pointed out to them that such trading could bring no profit to the Company but rather decided damage and continual loss, since the amount of furs coming thence — seeing that the trading places are so distant from each other — could bear no heavy outlay; besides, that other nations of adjoining regions, when our ships should be away from there, would immediately seize and occupy these and keep us out, as they now do in Virginia, Canada, New England and elsewhere.

Now when the aforesaid farmers and animals had been sent thither and when, as is generally the case with new undertakings, everything did not succeed at first as might be wished, certainly not nearly so well but that the contrary minded could find occasion for fault-finding, the Company proceeded after this fashion: on the one hand, since there were now farmers and animals, they decided that little or no provisions ought to be sent, not considering that it takes time to clear the land before it can be plowed or cultivated and that in the beginning several horses and cows perished which they would not replace, whereby the people were forced to take the merchandise and trade it for provisions, thus damaging the Company to an incredible number of thousands; on the other hand, instead of an ordinary freighter<sup>70</sup> of large hold which would need to sail only once a year, they have sent usually two, three and more small vessels, so overloaded with skippers, officers, provisions and ammunition that the three together could not take in half as much for the country as the larger alone [while the latter would not have] cost [much more] than each of the small vessels in view of the fact that usually many people sail back and forth who could man the large ship but would overload the small ones, which error has cost the Company no less than the other.

By these means and many others, too long to be here related, the condition of New Netherland continuously deteriorating, all the blame was laid mainly to the account of those who favored the colonization, and especially to the commissioners for that region, who to clear themselves asserted that they were willing to undertake the colonization at their own expense and without cost to the Company, if the Company would only favor the matter a little and render some assistance, and that they would make no objection and would be satisfied if all participants should be thereunto invited and public freedoms and exemptions framed concerning it. This proposition, though as just as anything in the world can be, nevertheless met with great difficulty before it could be brought about. The contrary minded, seeing that they could no longer prevent it directly, began indirectly under pretext of economy to curtail these freedoms, finding no other way than to exclude the fur trade, which had formerly been granted to others who had been sent there and were supported by the Company, asserting that this colonization had no other intent than to lay the expenses to the Company's charge and to take the trade in furs away from it, which was pure calumny, as the following will clearly show, since several of the Colonies were registered before the Freedoms were extended to include the fur trade. And now when the contrary minded could no longer prevent action, some of the Freedoms and Exemptions were finally passed by the Assembly of the Nineteen, March 10, 1628, with the exclusion of the fur trade however, which was the only objection of the opponents and amounts to little, as will later appear. That the Freedoms were too much limited and the patroons too much restricted caused great discontent among the chief participants, and on February 1, 1629, this grievance was publicly stated (not by him, the remonstrant, who was director elected by the chief participants, but by Mr Charles Looten and others), and request made that a committee be appointed to amend the Freedoms which had been granted, who, being nominated the third of the same month, took the matter up and drafted several articles, which, however, through his refusal [to serve on the committee] because he was himself in favor of the colonization, were never communicated to him, the remonstrant; and in order to give no one any cause for reproach, although at liberty to do so, he would accept no appointment, either from the directors or from the chief participants, to investigate this matter and also refused to be present at such investigations even when the Assembly of the Nineteen by resolution of October 25, 1628, thereto invited him and opened the door, but charged his associate<sup>71</sup> with the direction thereof without communicating with him, which he is obliged to add here, since the chief participants have been made to believe, in order to vilify him, that he, the remonstrant, is the greatest cause thereof (although the very opposite is manifest and, even if it were true, it would be no disgrace to him but praiseworthy). Hereupon it happened that the delegates of the chief participants setting out the 21st of February following and presenting themselves in person in competent numbers before the Assembly of the Nineteen, requested that the Assembly would make an agreement with them, since they intended to organize colonies and were not satisfied with the former Freedoms. (Alas, how have these men now changed!) And doing all they could, they were unable to bring the matter to a conclusion in the Assembly, since the contrary minded (with whom they are now on such good terms as the following will prove) opposed them, yet they accomplished this much that the Assembly of the Nineteen saw fit on the 26th of the same month to pass a resolution making the propositions of the chief participants a subject for discussion at the next meeting and to this end ordering the points of difference to be set forth and sent to the Chambers; whereupon it followed that the leading Chamber of Amsterdam issued a call for a meeting on April 18, 1629, article 2 of which reads as follows: "To reconsider all the former articles, freedoms and exemptions granted the respective colonies in several former meetings and the matters connected therewith, and to deliberate whether the same might be amplified by the accompanying articles requested by several influential participants and amended as the occasion requires." To consider which articles, a committee was appointed the 29th of May following, who after many long debates finally decided the matter and presented the amendments to the Assembly, who read them several times, voted upon them and finally approved them in full, June 7, 1629, as they stand recorded in the Resolution Book and were afterwards issued in public print; and these have never been revoked or retracted.

Hereupon several registrations were immediately made, and the work was undertaken with great courage by many. However, it did not last long for the opponents rested not but watched all transactions sharply, finding a pretext in that the late Mr Samuel Godijn, some time before, viz in December 1628, sent two persons thither with the consent of the Chamber of Amsterdam and knowledge of the chief participants, according to the report of February 1, 1629, provided with merchandise, to buy and pay for the places indicated to them, with further consent that he might exchange his remaining merchandise for furs, but must consult with the Company in regard to this matter, since at the time of sending his people the Freedoms had not been extended to the fur trade, all done in conformity with the letter of December 1628,<sup>71a</sup> addressed to the director of New Netherland. These persons on returning home reported with joy that, to the great satisfaction of the inhabitants, though in spite of the opponents, they had purchased, paid for and obtained title to the land; that, furthermore, they had exchanged the remaining merchandise for furs and sent these with bill of lading and with knowledge of the director to their patroon. The returns of the sale of these furs, amounting to about f5,600 (from which must be deducted the merchandise given in exchange, the interest, the insurance, the expenses, the freight and the duty to the Company), were so magnified by the contrary minded, who had their supporters as well among the directors as among the chief participants, that [it seemed that] two individuals with but a small quantity of merchandise had purchased a large quantity of land and had besides obtained immense returns, from which these opponents took occasion to proclaim that the patroons were not contemplating colonization at all, but only the securing to themselves of the fur trade and depriving the Company of the same, which would be total ruin to the Company as regards [profit from] these regions, not knowing or else intentionally ignoring that the expenses of the late Mr Godijn would first come in when he should be obliged to send with his own ships at his own expense so many people, animals, provisions and other necessaries, that these f5,600 would not even enter into consideration; yet by their calumnies they brought it about that they found many sympathizers who gave credence to the same. Thus they injured Mr Godijn exceedingly, withholding from him to this day the aforesaid f5,600. (which he must yet seek to obtain by suit), furthermore constraining him to dismiss the people whom he had undertaken to convey thither and surrender them to the Company, also to part with his merchandise and provisions which he had brought together with difficulty and put the same in the hands of the Company. They did not stop even here but sought to make the remonstrant also odious (although he, as above stated, had acted so impartially in the matter), asserting that he and the other patroons had taken possession of the best places and that those who followed would come too late, though the contrary is true since not a hundredth part of the land has as yet been trodden by Christian foot, and daily and even by the latest letters new places, far excelling the first, are revealed, where there is room enough for directors, chief and lesser participants and all the inhabitants of these lands. By these means, however, in addition to the former slanders of the late Godijn, they brought it about that several chief participants, yes, even some of those who had so fervently supported the affair, now became prejudiced and opposed to it, siding with the contrary minded, who, being now strengthened, sought means to insult the remonstrant publicly at the meeting of the chief participants, inso-much that five or six of them came together two hours before the meeting in order to devise some way of accomplishing their ends in the meeting, which they would also have carried through had not the remonstrant been warned of it and been on his guard, refuting with sound arguments their slanders which, with your permission, they spit out (of which they may well be ashamed), charging that he and the other commissioners of New Netherland, who were patroons, had damaged the land by some hundred thousands for the sake of their own designs (of which damage not they, but the contrary minded are the cause, as has already been mentioned). They proceeded with such bitter injuries against others who had also registered colonies, that they thereby intimidated several, who were obliged to abandon the work already begun because others who shared therein declined to go on. And thus was undermined the necessary, laudable and good work which had been undertaken with such exertion and had taken so many years and had been discussed at so many meetings of the Nineteen and examined by all the Chambers, in and before its beginning, by so little an occasion as the return of the f5,600, concerning which of a truth it may be said, that instead of shearing the sheep when they had wool, they were skinned at birth when they had no wool, and all this under the pretext that the patroons had no other design than to deprive the Company of the fur trade and charge the expenses to them, as has been heretofore mentioned.

In order now to prove what a shameful slander this is, and on the contrary to show the diligence in the matter of colonizing the aforesaid region of the late Godijn aforesaid in his own colony, in which the remonstrant shared and was included, and also what the remonstrant himself has accomplished in his colony and what expenditures they together have made in face of the opposition they received, the following brief statement is given. In December 1630 they equipped a ship of about 150 lasts, named de Walvis, ballasting it with all kinds of materials, such as lime, brick and tiles, also putting on board four large horses, twelve cows with calf, also several boats for whaling, all kinds of ammunition, provisions and merchandise, and over 80 persons, costing all together, including the yacht de Salm, of which mention will hereafter be made, over 50,000 guilders, which indeed, is ten times more than the f5,600 which in the beginning they received for their returns, upon which all their calumnies were founded. With this ship and people, they, the remonstrants, took possession of, settled and peopled the fertile and well wooded island of Tortuga, located on the northwestern side of Hispanola, placing thereon over 25 able-bodied men, well fitted out, besides the people<sup>72</sup> of the Frenchman Francoys Roulant, and several negroes, supplied with provisions, arms, ammunition and other necessities, besides proper instructions, all in accordance with the consent of the Chamber of Amsterdam, of date August 28, 1630, which was given for one voyage only. And although the remonstrants would afterwards in accordance with their request of March 15, 1632, very gladly have assisted and continued the work or consented that the Company should do so itself, they could by resolution of the 25th of the same month obtain no other action than that the said [second] voyage was refused them notwithstanding the Company did not undertake it, and so this beautiful island fell into the hands of the English, losing all that had been expended on it, scattering half the people and causing the rest to perish, for which damage they will seek redress at the proper time.

With this aforesaid ship de Walvis, they also in 1631 took possession of the bay of the South River in New Netherland, occupying the place of their colony with 28 persons engaged in whaling and farming, and made suitable fortifications, so that in July of the same year their cows calved and their lands were seeded and covered with a fine crop, until finally by the error of their commis all the people and the animals were lamentably killed, whereby they suffered incalculable damage, which damage the remonstrants attempted to repair in the year 1632 with the former ship den Walvis and besought the Company to lend a helping hand, who neither by word nor deed would render any assistance but forbade them by resolution of April 26, 1632, to take with them more than 300 guilders worth of merchandise, for which they obtained about 200 beaver and otter skins, while they would have obtained much more from nations who had never traded with the Company if they had had more merchandise, from which the Company would have realized the duty of one guilder per skin, which [profits] both now lose. And the most intolerable of all is, that after the remonstrants had given these 205 skins upon their arrival into the hands of the Chamber of Amsterdam that it might levy its duty on the same, this Chamber threw them among and mingled them with its own skins and also sold them with its own goods, contrary to the will of the remonstrants, just as if all the goods of the patroons were free booty or confiscated (who is so perfect, that he can bear all this wrong!), and still they must hear that they intend nothing else than at small expense to deprive the Company of the furs.

Furthermore, he, the remonstrant, in December 1630 [sent] the yacht de Salm, accompanied by the aforesaid ship den Walvis, to his granted colony, the island du Sable, in order that this yacht, being supplied with people, provisions and all necessities, might take possession of said island and settle it, since it was uninhabited and abandoned by the French, which yacht, to his misfortune, was captured and brought into Dunkirk.

What the remonstrant has further done towards the promotion of the population of his colony called Rensselaerswyck, on the North River of New Netherland, may be seen from his declaration of December 2, 1630, submitted to the Chamber of Amsterdam, and so continuing from year to year, until in July 1632 he was provided with people and animals enough to start five farms, which would have been done had not the Company by resolution of July 20, 1632, refused him carpenters, smiths and other mechanics, when these were not working for the Company, although he was willing to pay their expenses to the Company; this is quite too partial a policy, not only hindering him in his good undertaking, but doing so to the damage of the Company which would otherwise have had the benefit of the wages, while they on the contrary, according to the last letter written him from there, do employ his carpenters and others of his people in their service.

The Company has never attempted to make room in their ships, according to the tenth article of the Freedoms, for the transportation of animals and such like, only allowing him to place a few calves on the upper deck, and they were all thrown overboard in the encounter with the Turks. The Company also prevented him from conveying his animals from the Manhattans to his colony, and most of them died from rough treatment and the like, which loss he also means to recover from the Company. It has likewise happened lately that the director of New Netherland has held his people idle for a long time at the Manhattans and would not let them travel farther up the river unless they took an unlawful oath, given him by the Chamber of Amsterdam, although these persons had already here taken the usual oath and had besides given bond and security to the satisfaction of the Assembly.

The Company by the above resolution of July 20, 1632, also refused to give him any merchandise in that country to purchase the rest of his territory, notwithstanding his reasonable request, and by the same resolution declined to furnish his people with any provisions or victuals in exchange for grain, butter, cheese and the like with which they would pay, although their people would have suffered from hunger if his farmers had not supplied them with wheat and rye, ground in his mill (as the Company has none at that place); and what is worst of all and most to be regretted, instead of the servants of the Company being on good terms with the patroons and their servants, they on the contrary have appointed as commis at Fort Orange, situated in his colony, against the wishes of the remonstrant, a person who has publicly slandered the Company, has helped those sailing into that region from other kingdoms to buy the smuggled furs and is disliked by the savages, who complain that years ago he treated them cruelly, so that they will not deal with him but on the contrary try to affront him, to the Company's injury, as by way of revenge they have already burned the yacht de Bever which was anchored there, and according to rumor (as the remonstrant is informed by letter) they seem to have killed all the remonstrant's animals, horses, cows, sheep and hogs, apparently also on account of the hatred they bear towards him [the commis]. This person is also highly antagonistic to the remonstrant, since he has been told what reports of him the remonstrant made during his administration, although he and others to whom the administration was committed reported nothing but the truth. What trouble the remonstrant has to expect from this can be easily understood, for either his colony will be ruined by the savages in order to affront the commis at Fort Orange or, if this does not happen through the savages, then the commis himself will do his best towards it. So the case stands thus, that probably the whole trade of Fort Orange will be lost to the Company and the remonstrant's colony will be destroyed without hope of redress, against which the necessary precautions should be taken.

All this strife is caused solely by the opponents of the colonization and of the patroons who, when the latter as a result of the change had retired from the administration, obtained full power to carry out all their plans (upsetting the existing order of things and calling home all the officials, who having no other occupation will spy out the land, this one on behalf of France and that one on behalf of England, as has already happened and as will happen again); it was even decided by resolution of March 25, 1632, with the advice of lawyers and counselors, despite the opposition of the patroons, to deprive them of the Freedoms and Exemptions which had been granted and given to them with so much difficulty by the Assembly of the Nineteen.

Now the main cause of all these differences is nothing but the trade in furs or peltries found in that country and the question by whom it shall be conducted. The contrary minded maintain that it will be most profitable for the Company to have only the directors of the Company trade in furs, excluding all patroons, colonists and others. The patroons, on the other hand, maintain that this trade can be carried on, not [only] without loss to the Company, [but] in all cases, with less expense and more profit to the Company, by their servants than by those of the Company, and that they can make a profit and pay duty to the Company where the Company must suffer loss. As to the first alternative, instead of this course being the most profitable for the Company, it is really true that it will bring not profit but loss, considering that out of all New Netherland only 60,000 or 70,000 guilders at the most can be obtained in returns, which by their methods will not be increased but diminished, as will be further shown. In order to get these 60,000 or 70,000 guilders, it is necessary that at least once a year a well equipped vessel be sent thither, supplied with merchandise for trading, especially if the colonies were gone, since then the provisions for the employees in that country must be sent along from here. Hereto must be added that in case the vessel should perish, not only would all the trade for that year be lost but their people in that country would be in great danger of famine, and besides, that to suspend business even for one year would diminish the fur trade and perhaps divert it entirely. Moreover the fur trade in New Netherland is carried on, not in one place (as on the river of Canada), but what is much more costly, in many places, and these not only many convenient but also many inconvenient places far distant from each other, as the bay of the South River, 30 leagues from the Manhatans, not up the river, but from bay to bay over the open sea. The Sankekans, a trading post on the South River, is in addition to the aforesaid 30 leagues, 35 leagues farther up the river, making 65 leagues from the aforesaid Manhatans. Up the North River to Fort Orange is quite 40 leagues. To the north, up to the Sloeps-baye<sup>72a</sup> is also fully 40 leagues, so that the distance for a single trip would be about 175 leagues going and as much returning, making 350 leagues for an entire journey. Besides this, the furs are not all to be found at these places but are scattered about among many rivers and brooks, which must be sailed up and down, sometimes 10 or 20 leagues, and the savages are at enmity with each other almost everywhere and do not allow each other to pass to and fro. Moreover, since it sometimes freezes three or four months continuously in that country, the rivers are closed, not only by storm and wind but also by ice, and all the trading posts are cut off from the Manhattans, the place of rendezvous. All this being true and perhaps unknown to many, it follows of necessity that these places must be provided with forts, and also with sloops to fetch and carry goods to and fro from the places of rendezvous, or else that yachts or sloops touch at these places and do the trading. It must also be taken into consideration that, the best season of the year being the winter time when most fur-bearing animals are caught, these yachts and sloops would have to leave their trading posts and go to the place of rendezvous, so that instead of the aforesaid distance of 350 leagues, going and coming, at least 700 leagues would have to be covered in two journeys. And then there is the sailing back and forth to furnish each other with supplies and information of everything, in addition to the risk of perishing by water and, if they be not strongly enough manned, of being attacked on land by the savages (as they have attempted more than once). All this being well considered, it will be found, no matter how economically it may be managed, that the ship which must go with merchandise from the fatherland and return — not counting the interest, risk and ill usage — the garrison and fort at the Manhatans, the garrison and fort at Fort Orange, the yachts and sloops for the trade on the South River and the northern regions, besides the sloops plying between, counting all the expenses of building, mounting, equipping, keeping up, manning and victualing, will cost so much that the aforesaid 60,000 or 70,000 guilders, which are the utmost to be expected thence, will come far short by many thousands; besides they must also expect and withstand general uprisings of the savages; all of which the remonstrant offers to prove and establish and has often maintained for many years. But they would grant him no hearing and even accused him of doing it all for his own benefit in order to take away the trade from the Company, although he, as stated in the beginning, was the sole cause of this trade being restricted which formerly stood free and open. He argues that the nature of those regions being well examined, the case stands thus, that nothing can be accomplished there by poor people, who are like a dying plant or leaking roof, also that the rich and well-to-do will not go there themselves, but that a good work can be accomplished by the two, just as the blind can carry the crippled and the crippled can show the way to the blind, so the rich may stay at home and send their money thither and the poor may go and perform their work with the money of the rich. To this end freedoms and exemptions were needed in order to raise up patroons who should send out many laborers, as it appeared that the remonstrant and his associates have done, and many others would have followed their example had they not been treated so indiscreetly and been forced to suffer loss, with loss also to the Company.

But to return to the subject, in order to dispose of the objections of the contrary minded who may say that much more than 60,000 or 70,000 guilders could be gotten there annually, especially if the colonists who so defraud them were gone and if attention were devoted entirely to the benefit of the trade, it should be stated that the remonstrant gives much the highest figure, and that during the ten years that the Company has traded there, taking one year with another, there has never been nearly so much as this received, but ordinarily only 50,000 or 60,000 guilders. But instead of this being the fault of the colonists, the contrary appears; for instance during the two years when the late Mr Godijn and his people were trading in Swanendael, the Company received from the South River through their servants a no less quantity of skins than in former or later years, but he obtained his furs in addition to these by bartering with other tribes. This caused so much jealousy that the Company ordered their director to send a commis there, which was done [with the result that the Company's servants], trading close by the people of Godijn, deprived him in one year of over 500 skins in Swanendael alone, for which the Company is justly bound to pay, since they had never obtained more than 20 to 30 skins a year in that region before this colony was started. It is maintained with insufferable impertinence that the Company has excluded all but themselves, not only from the fur trade, but even from the whale fishery, etc., just as if their High Mightinesses, having granted the Company the Guinea trade to the exclusion of all others, had not shut out themselves, but were alone allowed to send merchandise and to trade for gold through one or two commisen, while the Company was obliged to pay for all the other expenses of forts and fitting out of ships. It is evident that many wish the patroons to found colonies to their own loss, and then to have [the Company] send a commis or “assistant,” who under their sheltering wings and protection may buy in the furs at small cost and deprive the patroons of them, notwithstanding the fact that all the game and the free right of hunting within their territory has been granted to the patroons by the 23d<sup>73</sup> article of the Freedoms.

It is further to be considered that the Company, to protect them against attacks of the savages, must keep their forts, yachts, and sloops manned by many idle people, who must cost much more than the people of the patroons, since they send not idlers but laborers who in some degree must earn their bread and need but one commis and “assistant” to do all the business for which the Company needs at least 25 persons; besides, the servants of the Company, serving for hire, are only seeking to make a good deal of money and then get away; they will not trouble themselves to make perilous journeys inland, because their pay goes on just the same. The patroons’ people, on the contrary, having families of women and children, who after some time will become established there, try to make terms with the savages and, pushing far inland for their own profit, discover much more than do those who only lie in garrison. So that it is far more profitable for the Company to have no expenses, turn over the trade to the patroons and draw a clear profit than to deprive the patroons of their privileges and on the other hand encumber themselves with the maintenance of forts, sloops, yachts and people, the which expenses, as before stated, amount to so much that they suffer loss where they otherwise might draw a clear profit. Besides this loss, which must be borne, the colonies also will be ruined if they are shut off from the fur trade. The farms which now afford them sustenance will at the same time fail and all provisions must then be sent over from here as before at ten times the expense. To go on doing this, added to the loss, would be double folly, while on the other hand [everything would go well] if the trade were granted to the patroons, who have money and means to send everything at their own expense, which right of trade, as stated above, was formerly with good intentions (though too soon for the time) fully granted to the poor people, who having no means had to be supplied by the Company with everything. Is it not better that the Company should draw a clear profit than make themselves trouble and loss?

Are not the contrary minded well aware that their course will never increase the trade because the savages, who are now stronger than ourselves, will not allow others who are hostile and live farther away and have many furs to pass through their territory, and that this would be quite different if we had stronger colonies? Yes, that the Maquaas, who will not allow the French savages who now trade on the river of Canada and who live nearer to us than to them [the French] to pass through to come to us, might through persuasion or fear sooner be moved to do so and that from these savages more furs could be obtained than are bartered now in all New Netherland? This is only one of many things, but should be well considered as it can be accomplished in no other way than by establishing colonies. Do not the contrary minded comprehend that if they had not so unbearably treated the first patroons but had given them a helping hand, so that in place of such great loss they might have made a little profit, great numbers would have followed them? Do not these people know that they alone are the cause of the loss of the island Tortuga and other places, and also that various islands in the West Indies, the east side of the South River, the Fresh River, the Sankikans on the South River, and also the Sackenames, for all of which colonies were registered, were not settled because the founders, on account of these harsh proceedings, gave up and let the work go which would otherwise have had such great results? And is it not also certain that they alone are the cause that from the beginning the Company has lost so much in those regions and is still daily losing and causing others to lose, where on both sides they might have made large gains and have fared well, because they continually go against the stream, doing what they should leave undone, fearing what they should wish for, blaming whom they should praise, envying whom they should pity, hindering whom they should help, and who by these proceedings have nothing else to expect, than to lose what they still have?

All of this the remonstrant has kept secret until now, but having been solicited by resolution of the 19th inst. to make a statement of these grievances, he could not in good faith neglect to put the same in writing, in the shape of a complaint. Addressing himself first to the deputies from their High Mightinesses, he prays them in all submission so to arrange this matter that the government of this country be not deprived of such a spacious, beautiful and well situated territory for which other nations are so earnestly longing, having already settled near its boundaries on the east and west as well as on the north, which surely will happen if the course which has been taken for some years back be persisted in, but that, on the contrary, it may flourish under the authority of their High Mightinesses and the direction of the Company and that to this end the populating for which their High Mightinesses made such special provisions by the 2d article of the charter of the West India Company may be duly promoted, those who labor zealously therein supported and continued, the conceded Freedoms and Exemptions with amplification of the same not only maintained but even in spite of all passion and chicanery enlarged and extended in so far as it can be done without loss to the Company in order that persons who have been disheartened may be again inspired to resume the work with courage, the patroons receive indemnification for all losses which they have suffered, what they have obtained by right enjoyed by them in rest and peace and, above all things, the spread of the Christian reformed religion promoted in those regions.

Addressing himself then to the directors of the respective Chambers, the remonstrant urges them to so manage the affairs of New Netherland that the Company, instead of continual loss, may receive a vast annual income; to examine the course pursued for some years and to charge the instigators of the same to draw up a complete statement showing in what way the Company can make a profit instead of proceeding blindly and passionately as heretofore.

Further he prays the deputies of the Chamber of Amsterdam that they will be pleased to use their influence in their Chamber that no passionate persons be appointed as commissioners for that work, but only reasonable men who are in sympathy with the work and understand their business, and to recall the commis of Fort Orange, who is not only antagonistic to the remonstrant but of no service to the Company.

And finally he prays the lords directors and representatives<sup>74</sup> of the chief participants, in particular those of the Chamber of Amsterdam, to be pleased to defend him in the assembly of the chief participants against all calumnies and injuries which have been or may be spread against the remonstrant and his associates, notwithstanding their innocence.

To all of which the remonstrant awaits the favorable resolution of the very honorable assembly.

This day, the fourth day of the month of March in the year sixteen hundred and thirty-four, before me, Simen Ruttens, notary public admitted by the Court of Holland, residing in Amsterdam, and before the hereafter named witnesses, appeared and presented themselves Mr Kiliaen Van Rensselaer, as patroon of his colony situated on the North River of New Netherland called Rensselaerswyck, of the one part, and Jacob Allerssz Planck of this aforesaid city, of the other part, both of which parties, known to me, the notary, declared that they had contracted and entirely agreed about the following things and conditions. First, the aforesaid Jacob Planck acknowledges that he has bound and hereby does bind himself to the aforesaid Mr Rensselaer, to go and sail at the first opportunity to his aforesaid colony in New Netherland and Three years <sup>76</sup> to remain there for the period of three consecutive years, which shall begin and commence on the date of his arrival in that country; the aforesaid three years to be a fixed term and the said Jacob Planck not to have the right to quit or leave except with the express will and consent of his aforesaid lord and patroon. And in case he should act contrary thereto, he shall compensate and pay his aforesaid patroon for all hindrance and damage which he may suffer thereby, pledging and mortgaging therefor all the goods, wares and effects which he shall have acquired in that country or brought with him, none excepted, submitting the same as well as his person to the constraint and real and immediate execution of all judges and courts.

Secondly, that the aforesaid Jacob Planck shall hold in the aforesaid colony the position of officer<sup>77</sup> and schout, as his aforesaid lord and patroon has already given and granted him the said office, according to the instructions heretofore made or still to be made by the aforesaid patroon, to which reference shall always be had. The aforesaid Jacob Planck has thereupon accepted and promised, as he hereby does accept and promise, to conduct and exert himself well and faithfully in the said office (which he gratefully accepted) as becomes an upright and faithful officer and Officer and schout<sup>77a</sup> schout and as he ought to do, and moreover, as soon as he arrives in that country, he must present himself to the director general of New Netherland, in order to take before him, for the behoof of his aforesaid lord and patroon, the proper oath<sup>77a</sup>

The oath of fidelity conformable to the instructions and authorization given by the said patroon to the said director general, for which three years of service he, Planck, shall be entitled to the third part of the finer<sup>77a</sup> received by the officer and which from Fines time to time may be levied, and in addition shall receive from the hands of the aforesaid director general a present of the A rapier with baldric silver-plated<sup>77a</sup> rapier with baldric and the hat with plume, which are in the latter's custody for the aforesaid patroon.<sup>78</sup>

Thirdly, the aforesaid Planck has agreed, as it shall also be his duty, to exercise proper supervision over all<sup>77a</sup> the men, farms, Supervision over the farms, men, and everything else in the colony and at the Manhatans animals and everything else that may have to be done in that colony or at the Manhates in the name of the aforesaid patroon; also to keep an exact record and account<sup>77a</sup> of everything and to make report thereof by every opportunity, and in everything to seek the best advantage<sup>77a</sup> of the patroon as far as it is possible and feasible. Also on Sundays and other suitable days to perform Read the duty of reader and to offer up the public prayers, for which he shall receive the twentieth penny, or one stiver out of every guilder, of the net proceeds or profit which the patroon shall receive yearly of all and everything, nothing excepted, of which he shall send me proper account,<sup>78a</sup> it being understood that this includes the sale or furnishing of the clothes and other necessities which may be sold for the patroon to the farmers, also the increase of the animals, provided that the old number must be maintained; therefore, as soon as he, Planck, gets there, he shall take proper account of everything and specify the same by inventory. Excluded from this, however, shall be the profit which the patroon as well as he shall derive from the following conditions.

The statement is not clear as to whether the objects were left in van Twiller's charge by Rutger Hendricksz on his return to Holland or had remained in van Twiller's custody from the time they were sent.

Fourthly, the aforesaid Jacob Planck has consented to transport Jacob Planck to go himself with his son and one servant<sup>78a</sup> thither and return and live by the first ship that goes to New Netherland in that country with his son and servant and in which he is able to secure passage, and at his own expense this at his own expense and charge of going and coming; also, to support himself there and provide himself with everything, nothing excepted, but the patroon shall do his best to obtain some work for him on the ship so that he may cross over for his board, and if he does not succeed therein, the patroon shall give him, for the f30 to Planck three of them the sum of 30 guilders. Having with toward his ex- God's help arrived in that country, said Planck shall penses exert himself as much as possible and at the first opportunity move to the aforesaid colony and in the middle of the east side of Castle now West Island, on the river side, cause a suitable dwelling to be erected at his own expense, but the at the expense of J. Planck who will receive patroon shall contribute<sup>78a</sup> 100 guilders to it f100 if the building upon condition that the building shall be is worth f200 valued at 200 guilders at least.

The aforesaid patroon or his farmers must pay proper wages Farmers or patroon to the servant of the aforesaid Planck when he must pay servant shall be employed in their service. Also to provide if they employ him the grain, meal, bread, butter, milk or cheese which he and his men may need for their proper support (if they are supplied themselves), paying for the same as follows: for the Wheat and rye at f 2 a wheat and the rye an average of two guilders a schepel; butter at 6 st a schepel, for the butter six stivers a pound, a lb 2 st a schepel for for the buttermilk one half stiver a mengel grinding and for the cheese accordingly and for the grinding of meal two stivers a schepel.

Further, of all kinds of grain, wheat, rye, barley, oats and others, which are grown in the aforesaid colony, after the men and animals have been provided for, the farmers, without any fixed remuneration by the patroon, must turn over and deliver to Iacob Planck, on proper receipt, the share which the patroon has in the said grain, of which grain he, Planck, at his own expense and risk and full charge, may distill brandy, anisette or other spirits, or brew

To distil brandy and anisette and to brew beer at his expense beer to be sold to the men of the Company or to the savages, or do otherwise therewith as he shall think fit. Said Planck ought not to pay anything for the said grain, nor shall he have the right to charge the patroon anything for the purchase, or for charges of himself or his men, or for any expenses incurred in connection with the same; and of the entire proceeds, without any deduction from the aforesaid grain, or from the amount realized or received for the same in the end, whether in money, merchandise or other returns (but Freight charges and duties to be deducted freight charges, insurance and duties to the Company to be deducted therefrom) one half shall go to the patroon and the other half to him; and if he has

Bread, 2/3 to the patroon and 1/3 to planck above conditions.

But he, Iacob Planck, shall not have the right to engage in any private business for himself, on forfeiture as above. As to the share of the grain to which the farmers are entitled or which he shall buy at the Manhatens or elsewhere from the savages, the patroon shall pay four guilders a 'mudde for rye, wheat or corn, and shall also pay one half of what it costs above that amount, provided that the proceeds shall be divided as above, one half to the patroon and one half to him, Planck.

Other expenses to be incurred in connection with the grain or otherwise and which are not specified here, shall be borne half and half, except so far as the grain shall be baked into bread, which expense Planck shall bear entirely; on the contrary the draff and all other by-products and profits derived from the manure of cattle or hogs, shall be shared half and half.

All that Planck himself, or for his men, shall consume in the way of the aforesaid brandy, spirits, beer, bread or other things, he shall pay for; the brandy at 20 stivers the Amsterdam kan and other goods accordingly.

Further, the aforesaid Iacob Planck has promised as he does N. B. Not to trade in furs hereby, not to trade in furs either for himself or for others, directly or indirectly, contrary to the granted Freedoms on pain of the punishment and correction provided therefor by the West India Company, but to regulate himself in all matters according to the aforesaid Freedoms.

The patroon shall buy two good muskets, one of which shall be paid for by him and the other by the said Planck and the ownership shall be half and half.

And on these conditions and in this manner, the aforesaid Iacob Planck has bound himself to the aforesaid patroon Rensselaer, promising to observe and fulfil faithfully all that is stated above with its implications and consequences, without anything contrary thereto being done either by himself or any one else, directly or indirectly, within or without the law, in any manner, under bond and submission of his person and goods, present and future, in that country, as is stated above. In good faith, with the consent of me, the aforesaid notary, this has been duly authenticated, one or more copies in debita forma to be delivered to each of the parties. Thus done in the aforesaid city of Amsterdam, at my, the notary's, house and office, in the presence of Anthony Martenssz and Jan Stoffelssz as witnesses hereunto invited, who together with the aforesaid contracting parties have signed the original.

Mss., he is frequently referred to as Broer Cornelis. O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:434, erroneously includes Cornelis Teunissen van Breuckelen among the settlers who sailed in 1631, and on p. 439 gives Cornelis Anthonissen van Slyck, alias Broer Cornelis, the first patentee of Katskill, 1646, among the settlers of 1641. The identity of the two men is clearly established by the fact that in the account books appears but one Cornelis Teunisz van Breuckelen and that this man's account, running through different ledgers from Aug. 12, 1634, to May 1, 1661, contains among other items charges for rent at 500 guilders a year from Aug. 28, 1652, to Aug. 28, 1658, which are stipulated by the lease printed on p. 752-53, which is signed Cornelis Anthonisen van Schlick. On May 1, 1661, Cornelis Teunisz van Breuckelen was indebted to the colony to the amount of 4337 guilders, 10 stivers, and the same sum is charged against him in a list of debtors of 1674. The name van Slyck appears in the account books but twice, in 1664 and 1666, in connection with an account for beer. An entry in Proceedings of the Commissioners or Magistrates, 1676-80, in the Albany County clerk's office, under date of Jan. 2, 1677, ordering the constables of Albany to take charge of the estate of Broer Cornelis, shows that Cornelis Anthonisz van Schlick, from Breuckelen, died in 1676.

Was signed: Jacob Dirckssen vogell, Cornelis thonissen. Contract between Kiliaen van Rensselaer and Lubbert Gijsbertsz

April 15, 1634

On the terms hereafter specified, Lubbert Ghijsbertsz, 33 years old, from Blaricum in the Goeylant,<sup>86</sup> has freely and advisedly entered the service of Kiliaen van Rensselaer, patroon of Rensselaerswyck, to betake himself with his wife and three children at his own expense to the aforesaid colony by the ship that is now being made ready by the West India Company (to sail to New Netherland with God's help), provided that his aforesaid patroon shall pay and satisfy the Company and be reimbursed as hereafter described, which said service shall last the period of three consecutive years from the time of his arrival in the aforesaid colony, without right on his part to quit the said service before the expiration of the said period on forfeiture of all his estate and property and under bond of his person and what is further required by law, during which time he shall make his residence in the aforesaid colony as a free man, unless the patroon decide with his advice and consent to transfer him to the Manhatas or elsewhere, and shall have liberty to choose his place of residence with the advice and consent of the aforesaid patroon or his agents where he can most conveniently perform his work, namely his trade as a wagon maker or wheelwright, for which he shall take all the necessary tools with him from here at his own expense. He shall not be allowed to work for any one else so long as the patroon or his agents have work to give him, either for himself or for others, everything at the prices for which the former and present wheelwrights have made and furnished the same, but if it happen that they have no work to give him, either wagon making or farming, he shall be allowed to work for other people. The aforesaid patroon guarantees that within the period of three years aforesaid he will order him to make or buy from him at least 12 wagons, good and substantial for their money, for the sum of 30 guilders apiece; the aforesaid patroon shall further cause to be furnished to him out of his earnings and at proper prices grain, butter or cheese produced in his colony, if there is a sufficient supply, provided that proper proportion be kept with respect to the work for which the patroon shall wish to employ him aside from wagon making, whether carpentering, farming or anything else.

The aforesaid patroon gives him permission to live with one of his farmers, but at his own expense as to board, as before stated, and on condition that he prepare and put in order his shop and sleeping rooms in or next to the said dwelling in such a way that the farmer shall not be inconvenienced by them; or otherwise, he shall be allowed to sow two or three morgens with hemp, linseed, colza or other seed, also at his own expense and profit, and not pay the patroon more thereof than the just tenth of the full crop and this as long as he serves as wheelwright and no longer. The aforesaid patroon shall also pay him in advance the sum of 50 guilders for his equipment and in order to provide himself with the proper tools, besides a large firelock of which the patroon will bear the expense and which he, Lubbert, will be allowed to use and at the end of his service return to the patroon, in the same way as he shall be obliged to make good in money or labor all that the patroon shall advance to him before, in or during the voyage, as well as in that country, or shall pay in his stead to the West India Company or others, in such a way however that the patroon shall not be liable otherwise than as before stated. The aforesaid Lubbert shall have no right to trade in any otter, beaver or other skins, on pain of forfeiture and punishment therefor provided by the West India Company. The aforesaid patroon promises, however, that as soon as he shall erect the fourth farm in the aforesaid colony, he will make him, the said Lubbert Gysbertssz, farmer thereon on the same terms as the other farmers, more especially the terms of the contract made with Gerrit de Reux. But [in counting] the farms [those] about which the patroon is negotiating with Wulffert Gerritsen with a view to [his] moving from the Manhatans up the river shall not be included. The aforesaid Lubbert Gysbertssz shall, however, at the same time exercise his trade as wheelwright for the accommodation of himself and others, and as to what he shall earn thereby, like the grain, one half shall go to the patroon and the other to himself.

The aforesaid Lubbert Ghijsbertssz shall be obliged to respect and obey the said patroon or those whom he may appoint, as faithful subjects are bound to obey their lords and magistrates, with regard to the instructions and regulations already made in the said colony of Rensselaerswyck or to be made hereafter.

All this in good faith; for greater security this has been signed by the aforementioned patroon and Lubbert Ghijsbertssz on the fifteenth of April in the year sixteen hundred and thirty-four. Was signed in the several hands, Kiliaen van Rensselaer, Lubbert Ghysbertssz. Lower was written: in my presence as witness, and was signed, J: vande Ven, notary public.

Contract between Kiliaen van Rensselaer and Hendrick Conduit van Coningsbergen<sup>87</sup>

Contract made and entered into by Kiliaen van Rensselaer as patroon of his colony called Rensselaerswyck, with Hendrick Conduit van Conings-bergen, 32 years old, as farmer on a farm to be established on the west side of a river to the north of the mill creek<sup>88</sup> on the slope of the clay hill,<sup>89</sup> being about the middle of Castle, now called West Island, which farm shall be called Godyns-Burgh, this 15th of April 1634, in Amsterdam.

First, the aforementioned hendrick Conduit shall promise under oath and on forfeiture of his stipulated wages and his property there, not to trade in furs, specially otter and beaver skins, nor to acquire the same by way of present or in any other way, without the express consent of his aforesaid patroon.

The aforementioned patroon shall provide him, Hendrick Conduit, with the following animals, if he can procure them, as soon as he shall take the third farm in hand, counting that of Rutgert Hendrickssen called Rensselaers-burgh, as the first, that of Gerrit de Reux, who is now on de laets-burgh, as the second and that of Hendrick Conduit, called Godyns burgh, as said above, as the third, it being understood that the farms about which the patroon is negotiating with Wolffert Gerritssen with a view to [his] moving up above from the Manhatas, are not included [in this number].

And from the time of his arrival in the said colony till his, the third, farm shall be erected, he must help other farmers or do such other work as the patroon or his agent shall direct, on condition that he shall receive 150 guilders a year in addition to his board, but as soon as the buildings are under cover and the farm is ready to commence work, he shall receive 180 guilders a year till the shares begin, and as a start be furnished with three or four horses, as many cows and in addition sheep and hogs according to circumstances. He shall further have for his assistance, if they can be obtained, two men and a boy, for whom are proposed Cornelis theunissz van Breuckelen, carpenter and mason, who must do farm work when he is not otherwise employed, also one of the men whom Gerrit de Reus has brought into the country, or one of the men of Roe-loff janssen, if the same will stay, or otherwise a negro, or the servant of Officer Jacob Albertssz Planck, and this at the expense of the patroon for the period of one year from the time that he shall begin to draw the 180 guilders, which payment of 180 guilders shall not continue for longer than one year; from which time on and for the period of four consecutive years, not leaving on pain of forfeiture and under bonds as above, the aforesaid Hendrick Conduit shall receive no wages, but the wages and board of the men and the boy and the house servants, as well as all other expenses of whatever nature, the damage and loss of animals, wear and tear of wagons, plows, in fine, all and everything, shall be paid during the aforesaid four years, half and half, and be deducted from the common fruit, crops, milk, butter, cheese and increase of stock, and the balance and gain shall be evenly divided between the patroon and Henrick Conduit. With this understanding, that the patroon may take at his option the animals apportioned to henrick Conduit at the rates heretofore fixed by the West India Company, and the grain at such prices as those of the Manahatas are obliged to furnish grain to the Company for. And every two years, an inventory shall be taken of the stock and what shall be found in addition to the number delivered to him, is included in the aforesaid condition. But, if the number shall have decreased, the said henrick Conduit must try to raise again so much stock that he attain the former number and shall not be allowed to derive any profit till the original number is restored. The said Hendrick Conduit shall raise as many sheep and hogs as possible, and those which he sells or the amount which he receives for them, shall in the same way be divided half and half.

At the time that the aforesaid partnership begins, an exact list and inventory shall be made of the grain in the field, or in the houses or barracks, also of the live stock, furniture and household goods, butter and cheese, grain, meat, bacon, wagon and plow, and further of everything else that shall be on hand and belong to the patroon in particular, which shall again be done at the end of four years, when the patroon must get back as much as he has supplied, or the value thereof according to the valuation placed upon them as above.

As to the passage across, the patroon shall if possible seek to obtain permission for the said Hendrick Conduit to earn boatswain's wages, but if this can not be done, the patroon must pay for board and henrick Conduit shall receive no monthly wages. But the transportation of the servants, the patroon charges himself with, while Henrick Conduit must take care of the calves which he may send and the farm implements which he will send over by this ship.

Henrick Conduit shall distribute the manure of the animals over the land to the best advantage and if necessary mix it with sods<sup>90</sup> and so increase the heap.

The patroon shall provide Henrick Conduit with a good firelock, costing f11:10, which sum Henrick Conduit shall pay the patroon at the end of his term and keep the firelock.

If (contrary to our hope) there be no prospect of obtaining animals to establish the aforementioned farms, hendrick Conduit shall not be obliged to serve longer than one year for the aforesaid 150 guilders a year, but the patroon shall try to get him employed on fair terms on the farm of Bijlevelt at the Manāhatas, provided he advise the patroon in time.

All that is stated above, the aforesaid Hendrick Conduit by true and manly words promises faithfully to fulfil and accomplish, thereto binding his person and goods, movable and immovable, present and future, submitting all of them and the choice of them to the control of all laws, courts and justices, in good faith, without guile or deceit, in witness whereof the contracting parties have signed this with their own hands, this 15th of April of the year 1654, in Amsterdam, and was signed in the several hands, Kiliaen Van Rensselaer, Hendrick Conduit. Lower was written: In my presence as witness, and was signed, J: vande Ven, notary public.

TRANSLATED BY MRS ALAN H. STRONG

This day, 23 April 1634, in Amsterdam

Mon Cousin: Passing over the letter which your honor wrote to me from the island St Martin (since the ships Gelderlant and Nieu Nederlant have both been taken by the Dunkirkers), I find myself in receipt of several letters from your honor, of date March 18, 1633, sent to me by the ship de Goede Hoope, of May 9, by de Walvis, and of July 17, 20 and 22, by de Soutbergh, and now finally within the last two days, that of September 14, in the care of Marrten Gerritsz by way of New England, which although in many things too late, yet nevertheless came well apropos before the departure of this ship d'Eendracht, for which the last lighter with goods and people leaves tomorrow evening, bound for the Texel, just as the news of the killing of my animals came at the last moment before the departure of the ship den Soutbergh from there.

I am not ungrateful but understand and appreciate the great friendship which your honor has shown me, while attending to your official duties and according to the 25th article of the granted Freedoms of New Netherland, which Freedoms after much difficulty have been approved anew by the Chamber of Amsterdam and the Assembly of the XIX and are declared legal and rightly acquired, the remaining differences being submitted to their High Mightinesses, all conformably to three distinct resolutions under Letters A, B, C, sent by my officer Jacob Planck, in whose hands your honor can see the same and from whom you can receive copies thereof. These same Freedoms therefore, as they are there given, are indisputable, and according to the 15th article freely allow the patroons, not only in their colonies, but also wherever along the coast of New Netherland and the circumjacent region the Company has no commisen, to trade their products of the soil in exchange for all sorts of merchandise, even beavers, otters and the like; the point of sending merchandise thither only being disputed, which must be decided subsequently by their High Mightinesses. I therefore send with the Company's knowledge a brandy kettle for distilling brandy from my surplus grain, which is to be sold there in the country according to the aforesaid article.

The indemnity demanded by your honor for the loss I have incurred will come in well for part of my expenses. I shall endeavor again most earnestly to deserve it from you, as I have already done, for believe me freely, had your honor not had me here they would have summoned you home with an affront, which the Lord God this time has graciously forbidden. Such a shameful pot has been on the fire for you that I in all my life never would have believed that one could find men base enough to plan it, and, what is worse, the same business has not only taken hold among the directors, but been scattered far and wide, even in the full board, so that it was publicly proposed to look around for another director without first duly examining your case, for which reason I went at Vogelaer in such a way on the crowded Dam that he will not soon forget it. Upon the counsel and advice of Mr Coenraets, I have had a sworn statement made which I send your honor herewith enclosed under No. 1, from which you may see what has happened here. Yes; even more shameful than is stated therein, among other things, that your honor, being drunk, had run out on the street after the minister with a naked sword; that your honor had given another person a suit of clothes<sup>6</sup> for the reason that, etc. This last Gras<sup>7</sup> told me was true.<sup>8</sup>

I have to several directors individually, to the commissioners separately, and likewise in the full Assembly, several times affirmed your innocence and said that, if they would carefully examine, they would find that they ought to praise you for the very thing for which they blame you, that you had long served the Company, that they ought to know you better, that you have outserved all your masters, who were in power before you began, and that at present none of the former were in office except Messrs Coenraets, Reael and La Myne (who are all three on your side, especially La Myne who defends you bravely; to which three, and also others whom you most trust, you must not neglect to write discreetly, as being your old masters, requesting them to take your honor under their protection against all injuries and slanders which are injuriously spread and accepted to your great prejudice). But what is the case: the crown which the secretary<sup>8a</sup> had placed on the head of Minuict, rests now on yours; the enemies of Minuict are now yours. This crafty knave has stirred up the present minister against you, as he did the former against Minuict (who I think will receive from Domine Badius, to whom he has written, another letter than he expects. But the man has been misled; it is not his fault.) Therefore forget all the foregoing and keep up kindly relations. Domine Roclof Pieterssen has shown your honor in this matter much friendship, also through his nephew, the secretary de Vries,<sup>9</sup> who is one of the commissioners though he seldom attends. Do not neglect either to write to both of them. Likewise to Liebergen, with whom I some time ago had a confidential word. I have told the officer Dincklagen, who comes in the place of Notelman, all about this. I think that your honor may trust him, because he was first recommended by Mr Foeyt, who is a friend of the colonies. Then first try him well, and since he has studied, he can serve you with advice, since such people can see deeper into a matter than those who have not studied. The secretary has furthermore also incited against you all the directors and chief participants who are opposed to the colonies. (I do not hear Van de Linge slander so much as he did); but<sup>10</sup> spouts fire and flame, the more so because your brother Hendrick in the Nieuwe kercke, when he would not move up a little, pushed him with force (which he should not have done); however, I had him up and showed him his fault, whereupon he toned down a good deal. All these quarrels, added to the dissatisfied people who returned, so overwhelmed you that no contradiction sufficed. Mr Paauw, who has much influence with Coenraets, was also very sorely out of patience with you because of the severe proceedings against Cornelis van Vorst, which he in the beginning also showed. But I won him over and made satisfaction (even to my own loss as will hereafter appear) so that we are now entirely reconciled to each other and you will find henceforth a friend instead of an enemy. If you find it advisable, write him a short letter, for I see that one can not accomplish as much by well doing as by having friends in the game.

Vogelaer declares to me that he is your friend, as are also his followers. But I know better than that. They are too much smitten with the secretary. I told him in the presence of all the commissioners that for many years I was prejudiced against Minuict by the same poison, and that after awhile he would find it out also. If your honor could win over the minister<sup>11</sup> — I think that he has credit with Vogelaer and his people — and make him understand that the secretary had acted with falseness, the ship might be brought on another tack. It should be noted in this connection that the wife of Remunden told the wife of Jeronimus that her son being on the island St Martyn with Willem van Wouze and asking to come on board, your honor being drunk said “let the dogs swim aboard.” Vogelaer has told me (and apparently it comes from the secretary) that when your honor went with the minister to the preaching at St Marttyn, it would have been better if you had stayed away; wishing to have it understood that you had drunk too much. Of these two things he has knowledge, the third may enlighten him still more, namely, that he said in conversation with Dirck Cornelisz Duyster that he had made an agreement with you and that each side promised the other not to write anything about it, but that there were some, notice this, who had advised him not to trust you (who I suppose must have been Remunde). This is now clearly found to be a false calumny, as your honor has never mentioned a single word of it to either the directors or to any of your friends, but he<sup>12</sup> has done so to Dr. Badius (although indirectly, without mentioning your name but with sufficient application) and to this Remunde would appear to have brought him according to a letter from Remunde to his wife. By this he thought he would set the crown of thorns on your honor’s head. It was read at the meeting of the directors but I do not know whether it was written from New Netherland or from England, apparently from the former, and he took it with him and sent it from England or perhaps by the Soulberch. Of that I am not sure.

This false secretary, who has slandered many men behind their backs, was by a righteous punishment arrested at Rotterdam for a theft of which he was not guilty, and was then charged with the manslaughter; whereby he would have lost his head had the accusers of the theft not bravely interfered for him and his correspondents here, burdening their own consciences, held back the attestations come from there (saying that they were given out of partizanship); and besides that, he greatly abused the Prince of Orange. He has now been sufficiently warned. From what I hear he must pay f300 to the friends of the deceased, and that will free him. Among other defenses for this manslaughter, he took occasion to accuse your honor of being the cause of it by not having been willing to settle the differences. He gave this out in public statement to your prejudice in the full assembly of the directors before his arrest. Whether he will now behave himself better, remains to be seen and hoped.

As to Hunthum, I can not yet find out how he behaves. I would have liked that your honor had written me the reason why the Maquaas killed my cattle and, in order that there may be a case against him if he misbehaves, I have ordered my officer Jacob Planck to get from you the attestation of the abusive words which he has spoken against me and mine and, when he comes out of the fort, to bring him before the court of Rensselaerswyck for such punishment as the laws of the land provide. The abuse can only make him infamous, and he is enough so already, but the court can make him retract his statements and can force the words down his throat.

I had earnestly wished that Dirck Cornelissen might have gone over again; they were not willing to allow this. Vogelaer is too much against him; Coenraets is most of the time at the Hague; De Vries seldom attends the meetings and Lybergen is so-and-so. The last meeting of the directors was much in your honor's favor. Those whose terms have expired are: Bicker, Bartelotty, deceased, Broen, Hamel, Valckenburgh, Verdoes, Oyens. Their successors: Coenradus, Rael, Secretary de Vries, Euart Man, Schuylenburgh, Bartrinck. The disparity is too great, and as some can now do no more harm among the directors, they are trying to bring it to pass by means of the chief participants. They have secretly tried to make Isaac de Rasiere,<sup>13</sup> who married the niece of Ray, director in your place, as I have only lately found out. Mr Coenraets was invited to the wedding and diligently courted but, with his wonted discretion, he did not allow himself to be used for such a shameful proceeding, giving me sufficiently to understand that I must watch and secure proof thereof, which has also been done.

It is a wonder surely, that all the patroons and their associates, who have enjoyed no particular friendship from your honor in the country over there, defend your cause more strongly than do those persons whom you have so faithfully served (even against justice and reason in the execution in the colonies of their unlawful ordinances and the administration of the severe oaths to all the people). From those people there are no thanks to be gained; they can spit no honey, since they have nothing but gall in their mouths. Our Jeronimus<sup>14</sup> is very much alarmed and would like to have his son at home again. He has sent me the enclosed memorandum marked No. 2. He takes your side, as does also Grietge, who is very sick.

It was not until lately that Aldrichs<sup>15</sup> could get permission to order a suit of clothes for you (since they were busy with Rasiere up to the last) and only a few days ago they decided to allow the remaining thing of your memorandum. I have paid him f150. I will give him the rest when he brings me the bill.

After a long chase I have just been able to secure the conditions of your appointment, as given in the copy No. 3; herewith are also added some others marked No. 4 & 5. I shall keep the originals here.

The heads of the accusations against you, coming from outside, are that you are proud and puffed up; always drunk as long as there is any wine, and thereby the cause that the ship was sent off so long after the last of June, lazy and careless, hostile to the minister and no defender of religion. The following comes from inside: that you write so few reports to the Company, that you have not enough prudence and judgment to rightly discharge your <sup>14</sup> Perhaps Jeronimus Lacroix. A person of that name — his son? — made a tour of exploration into the wilderness from Fort Orange for the Company. His journal exists among the patroon's papers. N. DE R.

This journal which is referred to in the patroon's letter to Wouter van Twiller, May 6, 1638, on p. 401 of this volume, was not in the Van Rensselaer Bowier collection when placed in the hands of the present editor. It seems likely that it is the same as the account of the journey to the Senecas secured by Gen. James Grant Wilson at Amsterdam in the summer of 1895, and published by him in the Independent, 1895, 47:1317-20, and in the Annual Report of the American Historical Association, 1895, 7:79-101, under the title "Arent van Curler and his Journal of 1634-35." If the same, there is no good reason for calling it, as Mr de Roever does, Lacroix' journal, for de la Croix appears throughout in the third person. That Gen. Wilson on the other hand is wrong in ascribing his document to Arent van Curler is evident from the fact that the man who speaks in the first person, and who of the three men in the party is the only person not named, describes himself as one of the commisen of the West India Company, and from the further fact, based upon statements in the patroon's letters in this volume, that in December 1637 Arent van Curler was but an inexperienced youth of 18 years.

<sup>15</sup> Jacob Aldrichs; see p. 273. Possibly this is the same person as Jacob Alrichs who in 1656 was appointed director of the colony of New Amstel, on the Delaware. A Mr Jacob Alrichs appears as witness to various baptisms in Brazil from 1637 to 1651 in "Dooptregister der Hollanders in Brazilië," printed in Algemeen Nederlandsch Familieblad, 1888-89, v.5-6.

functions, that the accounts which you send are not carefully examined, that the books have not been kept in good order (to which I replied that they must send a bookkeeper, whom they should pay for the work that they required of him, because that was not properly your business). Crol complains that you have held his books there. But Conraets says, and justly, that your honor ought to have written to the Company what ships or sloops of the English or Brownists had been there, for instance Captain Stoon,<sup>16</sup> with whom your honor was on somewhat too familiar terms, also Jan Brouwer<sup>17</sup> and others, in order that the Company might have given the necessary orders for such cases. Therefore be on your guard. Secure affidavits even from Hunthum and those who may be opposed to you, by which you will know them, for you have now evidence enough to do so.<sup>18</sup> Inform those who arrive and keep on good terms with those who remain, so that in their letters to the Company they may justify you against such shameful calumnies and slanders, for if you can once clear yourself of this the venom will not be able to affect you again. Consider these warnings, and take it well from me that I thus prescribe for you, although you know it well enough yet nevertheless it is needful to refresh the memory:

- 1 Be God fearing and an example to the people
- 2 Be temperate in eating and drinking
- 3 Be faithful in your service, injuring no one
- 4 Be diligent and vigilant in the execution of your official duty
- 5 Be cautious in everything and with what persons you associate
- 6 Be humble when you are exalted
- 7 Be patient when you are injured
- 8 Trust in God when you are chastised

If you do this the curse will change to a blessing and slanders rebound to your honor, Amen.

Now I will turn to the answering of your letters. As to that from de Helder, I thank your honor in the name of Johannes and Baptist for the f11.13 out of which my wife bought them fur caps as your honor desired. As to that from Wight of the 17th of August, I have paid the f150 to Minuyct and added it to the f250. I will add to this what I must now advance to Jacob Aldrichsz, and subtract the f62.10 which I am to receive from the cashier Reael. Your mother told me that you had divided this amount, which I well believe, but without your express order to me I can not do it; therefore be so kind as to let me know your honor's intention, and when this ship comes home draw as much of your salary as you can, for the sum increases if they keep the people waiting longer.<sup>19</sup> Dirck Cornelisz has not yet got his money. They have allowed him f24 per month as commis, a shame, since they give Hunthum, a rogue, f75. But he expects to earn it by sending 13,000 skins yearly, which I think he will fall far short of, and this will not advance his cause. The money of Wolfert Gerritsen I received but lately also. I have kept back f300, of which I will write him further. They would not let Dirck have his eleven skins, a thing they have done at other times. He says that he informed your honor and others of them; he requests explanation, according to the letter here enclosed as No. 6. Coenradus has promised him that they will make it good to him. Vogelaer is especially hostile to him.

In regard to the letter of the 3d of September from Wight, I met Vogelaer after its receipt and asked him whether the Company had received letters, saying that I had a short letter; he said at once, "There you see, he is already too great to know even his masters." To which I answered that he must first be sure whether your honor had not written and that he should not flare up so hastily. He denied it at once, saying in the presence of Mr Blommaert, who had heard it as well as I, that I lied. This was the beginning. When he afterwards heard from St Marttijn that you had taken a prize, he began at once to scold that your honor had not despatched the sugar by the two large ships Gelderlant and Nieuw-Nederlandt in order to balance therewith the shortage of Hunthum and Remunde, but hearing afterward that they were at Dunkirk he kept still. Think how he must seek occasion against you, of which his aforesaid comrades give him enough, being not only venomous but writing to him in the most corrosive extract, so that you must be bravely on your guard. And Jeronimus does not doubt but there are spies going over, to dog your steps.<sup>20</sup>

Regarding the letter of November 25, by the Cat from St. Marttyn, I will say that your honor should be most grateful to God that he has delivered you out of the hands of the Turks (even if my calves were cast overboard; your honor made this good again to me in your last deal with the Maquaas). Vogelaer and his friends have here cause enough to praise you most highly, but it will not come to pass. The newspaper<sup>21</sup> enclosed as No. 7 by arrangement of Mr Paauw and myself refers to you. I keep your letter secret but you can well scent what it means to say. David Pietersz., against whom you warn me (and who also severely criticizes your honor), has turned out even worse than you stated.

I have not received the letter of December 24. It went to Dunkirk; the letters from Gerrit de Reux with one enclosed to Provoost were sent to me from Dunkirk, but no others.

Regarding the letter of March 18, 1633, I will say that I thank the Lord with you for your safe, though difficult and perilous journey, being pleased to hear that you like the country so well and that you feel so well. But I am sorry that the savages to the south are so rebellious. They ought to be attended to or they will give others a bad example, but yet this should be done with great and Christian discretion.

Concerning the animals bought by me from Minuit and Bijleveldt I have this to say, that I have perfectly agreed with Mr Paauw although I had the most right, as it was done with the consent of the Company. Minuit and Bilevelt did not deceive me although matters did not go just right. Minuit says that he offered them to Mr Paauw and on his refusal sold his animals to me, but Mr Paauw appears to be ignorant of this.

Bijleveldt had given no orders to Andries Hudde, who nevertheless sold the one cow to Cornelis van Vorst, so I did not find it advisable to dispute with Mr Paauw but sought to have him for a friend, especially since he had greatly injured your cause with<sup>22</sup> Mr Coenraets and the others. Therefore we have made such an agreement in regard to these three cows as appears by the enclosed copy No. 8. And we made also the following agreement, No. 9, that all the animals that shall be for sale in that country shall be bought in by your honor on our mutual account, except those which before the receipt or delivery of this contract No. 9 shall have been bought in or engaged by your honor, everything as stated in the said contract which is to remain in force for six years, and I in all sincerity request that it may be observed, as I have voluntarily (although for the reasons before mentioned) agreed thereto. We can not limit your honor in prices, but it seems to me the Company formerly wrote to Director Minuict and the council about them, so that he, and afterwards Croll, by the Company's orders bought up all the animals that were for sale, half for Mr Paauw and half for me, at the same price, so that it is sufficiently known and customary. I hear that private parties are buying animals. The sellers have no consent for this from the Company, as Mr Paauw and I have, for their stock is the offspring of the Company's animals, unless the Company has since given other orders unknown to me. With regard to the animals that you may henceforth deliver to us from your farm, we can not well fix the price here, because there is so great a difference in quality and age; for horses rated at f120 if good, your honor may charge us f150; for cows rated at f80, f95 or f100; and so in proportion; and those your honor buys from others, at cost price according to your honor's letter.

Referring again to the three cows, namely the two of Minuyt and one of Bijlevelt, since I now have the claim against them of Mr Paauw in regard to nondelivery (and as our agreement does not concern them), be pleased to send over to me the resolutions which the council made respecting it, with the proofs of Cornelis van Vorst, who says that he bought the cow belonging to Bijlevelt from Andries Hudden for f69:—for I have not yet paid Bijlevelt for it but Minuit has deducted his amount from what he owed me.<sup>23</sup>

Further Bijlevelt appeals to the contract made with me, that he is treated unfairly by having f50 deducted just for the chickens and the garden, as the agreement will show, which I send your honor enclosed as No. 10. In his presence I sent for the skipper Jacob Janssen Hes, who said that there were other things, and that the contract, signed by us both, was exhibited in the council. Be pleased therefore to have an abstract of this resolution made and certified. Bijlevelt says that the chickens were given as boot. The contract does not say so. Moreover the boot must be paid over as well as the goods purchased. As to Mr Paauw, since he has three other animals in place of these, the difference can not amount to much and the appraisal should be made on the basis of the value at the last delivery, that is, the time when your honor delivered the three substitutes to him.

As to the farm of Bijleveldt, I see that your honor has it worked by one farm hand and one negro, which may well be done and it still yield profit. In case the old mare has not died and is unfit for work, she may be kept for breeding. This farm is very destitute of horses and has had too much ill luck but is still well provided with cattle. Calves might be raised on this farm and then sent up the river. If two horses and two cows were left, the land could be well enough worked with them (that is, what has been cultivated before) or outside help could be obtained.

As to the farm of Notelman, I have practically possession of that also for the following reasons; in the first place, by virtue of the right of Gerrit de Reux who rented it as the other farmers; he has had the use of it and paid the first instalment of 100 guilders and ceded all his rights to me according to the enclosed deed No. 11.

Further I bought of him all his surplus cattle, [later giving] an additional consideration of f50 for a cow in place of a heifer, and have paid him for the same, according to the enclosed bill of sale and receipt No. 12, so that now all the animals that remain, and about which there can be any question, are those that properly belong to the farm, to wit: 4 mares with colt, 4 cows, 2 heifers (instead thereof he delivered 5 cows and 1 heifer, for which I gave him an additional f50), 4 hogs, there still remaining for the Company to deliver 2 hogs. In place of 6 sheep which he was to leave for me on the farm, he paid Notelman f60 cash, all shown by the receipt and account herewith enclosed as No. 13.

The agreement made with Notelman is that I shall keep for myself all the animals belonging to the farm as well as the surplus of the same, but he is permitted to retain the farm for himself and work it with other animals, such as he may buy elsewhere—see his letter of January 15, 1632, enclosed here No. 14, which your honor will please send back to me—so that the animals belong to me and the farm to him. With regard to the animals which he received thereon, he must account for them and for those bred from them; and since he has made use of the same in his own service (although he suffered much loss which I can not help), he must give me satisfaction therefor. The number that he received can be found in No. 12 and No. 13.

In Oct. 1631, belonging to the farm	{	4 mares, 3 of those first sent, one of those last sent, all with foal
		5 cows, 3 of those sent, 2 four year olds raised, with calf
		1 heifer, May 1632, two years old
		6 hogs, 2 of 1 year, 2 of $\frac{1}{2}$ year, 2 that the Company has yet to deliver 6 sheep, for which Notelman <sup>24</sup> paid him f60 cash not belonging to the farm	{	2 heifers
		1 young steer
		1 stallion colt

This, with those bred since October 1631, is all that I can claim from him; and according to what I hear, the farm is not well provided, so that they can not deliver the old number. This will turn out badly. He has used both the farm and the animals and treated the horses very badly, so that they have died. On the other hand I must pay 100 guilders yearly, Reux having paid for one year. And then there are coming to me the wagons, plows and whatever was sold with the animals by the Company. Now to make out the account, there must first be deducted such of the aforesaid animals as he has delivered to me. Then he must be paid f100 a year, there being due to me in return the f60 received for the sheep.

Further [must be counted] what the wagons, plows, etc., that are now there, may be worth more or less than they were at the time [he received them].

As to the delivery of butter and grain to the Company, that comes from the land and off the farm and not from the animals.

Again, the animals of the foregoing number which are still left [on the farm] must also be turned over and delivered to me, giving me a reasonable remuneration for their work and increase in age.

As to the rest, those which have died, there comes the dispute that, deducting those which he has delivered, he ought first of all to make the [number of animals on the] farm complete just as he received it; all that then remains is that I maintain that the increase should be greater than the loss by death, that is, from ordinary causes and not from misuse. And in this way we shall be able to settle with each other, but otherwise not.

The Company will also claim the two horses and two cows, which must be delivered to them, or at least their cash equivalent, and it must therefore be considered whether Notelman has fared well or ill on the farm. If he has prospered, he can not refuse to make good my loss and to deliver the full number of all the animals with a reasonable amount of offspring. If your honor can not make terms with him, let him in my behalf put the farm in your hands and above all take care that he shall devise some means to complete the number [of animals] required and make an estimate of the grain and implements that are on the farm. We may then try to do business here; but I prefer to have it done there, for here I would not get much from him. This being done, your honor can issue an order in my name, that his farm and that of Bijlevelt shall be worked in my interest by a foreman and a boy or a negro and the animals which can be dispensed with may be sent up the river. Since the land is overworked and poor, I have proposed to the lords commissioners to let it lie fallow for some years, leaving there some foals and calves, which by that time will attain their growth, and in the meantime to pay the rent as before and to deliver as much of my grain at the market price as my neighbors do. They found this not unreasonable, but said that the manure must stay on the farm, to which I replied that it was better for the land to lie fallow than to put the manure on and take it out twice over by farming, but that the young beasts should stay on it. So if they do not write to your honor about it, you can arrange with the council that the Company's interests shall not be prejudiced and that I may do with my own as seems to me most expedient. It may be that the farm of Notelman is in such a bad condition that I must reject it, then I must have back again the 1100 I paid on account of the first instalment, also [return] the surplus animals bought from Gerrit de Reux and let Notelman do with them as he pleases. Yet I think it very advisable to hold on to the farm if it can in any way be done with profit or even appearance of profit. It will be of service to me, in that I can in time set a man over it, who could take charge of my affairs at the Manhatas and in the council, which will be most necessary in case they should recall your honor. Therefore do not let the farm go.

Your honor writes indeed in general that the increase [of animals] has been good, but not how many nor where they are. I have not been able to get the information from the Company and now it is too late to make request for it; be so kind as to do as much as this with the assistance of Jacob Planck and compare the invoice of the animals bought from Minuict, Bijlevelt and de Reux, with the animals on the two farms of Nottelman and Bijlevelt, deducting those that have died, adding the increase and where they are, and keeping a list and account of this in future. The exchange of the three young horses bought from Minuict at f120 for an old mare, valued also at f120, about which your honor writes me, must in no wise go through, for I am too well provided with old horses. I would rather have young ones; and if I should have two less than otherwise it would also be to my injury in respect to the contract made with Mr Paauw. I hear also that the mare which your honor would give me in exchange is very old indeed. Rather than lose these three horses, for I suppose your honor has kept them, I would pay your honor twice, yes, three times over for their keep. I am surprised that you propose this to me, as it conflicts directly with the memorandum given to your honor, where I have written on the margin, N. B. 1 stallion, thrown in 1630, bought from Minuit; this was to be for your honor provided you gave me for it some colts, thrown in May 1632, from which it is plain that I would rather have colts than horses considering their prices, for I can raise them at small expense, having grass enough in the summer and in the winter hay for only the work [of getting it in]. Also your honor writes that on the farm of Minuit one cow has died and another has been bitten by a snake and has died also. I can not quite understand whether those that have died belonged to the general stock of the farm or to my own cattle, since these were not separated but were in the common herd when I bought them for your honor and myself from Minuit. It seems therefore that we should share the risk of loss by death, as well as the profits of the increase, unless your honor take the position (which I do not know) that the animals belonging to the farm were recognizable and the surplus, sold to me, also recognizable, and that of my recognizable cattle the aforesaid two have died. I have dwelt on this question so long because it will prejudice me in the contract of half and half made with Mr Paauw. Therefore do me the favor to leave me my three young horses, and by substituting others for the two dead cattle let me keep the same number that I bought. I am willing to pay your honor as much money as you shall wish for their keep and the loss by death, for I must have cattle, all the more because I bought them for my colony and made the contract with Mr Paauw chiefly on your account, so as not to have him against you. You can have no idea how he can hinder or help you; I notice it [by comparing] how it was before, and how it is now since the contract. I may not write here all I know about it, since we are now agreed. It is not well to have him for an opponent; he is too clever.

With these three horses and two cows and some from the farms of Noottelman and Bijleveld, I can establish a third farm in my colony, since there are cattle enough up there to provide two farms. I made a contract for this with Hendrick Conduit, whom they call Swager,<sup>25</sup> but he repented of the bargain and has escaped me; I send your honor a copy of this contract enclosed under No. D, given to Jacob Planck, who will show it to your honor. In place of this Hendrick Conduit, I can employ a person from your honor's farm about whom your honor and also he himself wrote me, since herewith are going three farm hands whom your father has hired for you, according to the enclosed contract No. 15, so that your honor can probably do without him. I will give him the same terms that Hendrick had. He may build the farm house on the place appointed or near Fort Orange. I have also hired a carpenter,<sup>26</sup> who is also a mason and understands farming. But he has not put in an appearance and the last lighter sails at noon today. There are still farm hands over there in the country who were transported at my expense. They must serve me when I want them. In case Roeloff Jansz satisfies your honor and your foreman remains, you may give him the third farm, before named, on the same terms as Hendrick Conduit.

Furthermore, regarding Wulffert Gerritsse or his son, who are very willing to go up the river, your honor can arrange with them to use half or two thirds of Castle Island (which contains 136 morgens) since I neither can nor may pass by Brandt Pielen, who lives with Rutger Hendricksen and has brought his farm into good condition and I have no reason to displace him.

I find it every way advisable to deal with Wulffert or his son, as I have also said to Jacob Planck; and see to it that you pay him for his cattle out of the indemnity of the Maquaas skins, since the Company can lay no claim to these or at the most claim no more than the duty of one guilder per skin. And in case your honor or Jacob Planck can not entirely agree with him, let it go until our meeting, as he intends to come home, telling him that we will certainly come to an agreement with each other here. I should like to have his cattle as if they were excepted from the contract with

Mr Paauw. If he used half of the 136 morgens, it would be 68 morgens; the  $\frac{2}{3}$  are over 90 morgens. That is quite enough for farm and pasture land; the hay they would have to get from outside the island, from the mainland or from the upper islands. I shall hardly have time to write to Wulffert. Do what your honor can and do not give up dealing with him, in order that I may obtain the cattle.

Your honor recommends Brant Aartsen<sup>27</sup> to me. That would have been well had I known how things stood with my cattle which I feared were dead, but now it is too late; therefore I have agreed for the present with Jacob Planck, according to contract No. 16 here enclosed, which your honor will please preserve, since he has a duplicate of it. Please to administer the oath to him as officer and have him select at least three schepens, who shall take the oath before him; then he can convene them and hold court. For this I have given him two books, namely, Damhouwer on Criminal procedure and the Ars Notariatus. But I am disappointed in him; there is not as much in him as I thought. However, I have engaged him; I hope that he will turn out better. It is best that he should not have a large salary and should go at his own expense. Your honor must give him some instructions and cause him to make careful notes of the farms of Notelman and Bijlevelt and also of the cattle, and let him settle with the people, but subject to my approval, since some have received money here.

N. B. I find by the Company's books that I am charged for much provisions and merchandise, which my people are said to have obtained. If they go on in this way they will soon eat me up. Some are there at my expense as to board, others not, so that a distinction must be made. I wish that henceforth none of my people shall at their own request receive a stiver's worth from the Company and have it charged to my account. But those who want anything may apply to Jacob Planck, the officer, and let him apply to your honor or the respective commisen, who can give him what he needs upon receipt, so that I may know how the matter stands. I see that Rocloff Janssen has grossly run up my account in drawing provisions, yes, practically the full allowance [even] when there was [enough in] stock.<sup>27a</sup> I think that his wife, mother and sister and others must have given things away, which can not be allowed. He complains that your honor has dismissed him from the farm and your honor writes me that he wanted to leave it. As to the wagons, plows, etc., which are needed on my farm, and also on yours and those of Wolffert Gerritsen and others on the Manhatans, employ my wagon maker Lubbert Gijsbertssen; he can send them down on sloops or he can come down for a time in order to make them at the Manhatans. Jan Evertsz Bout is going thither also; he has offered me his services, but the shirt is nearer to me than the coat. Mr Paauw requests that your honor will keep on good terms with Cornelis van Voorst and that your honor will help him as much as can be done without damage to the Company so that these local dissensions<sup>28</sup> may finally cease. I trust that the instructions which are to be issued through the efforts of Mr Coenraets will not be conceived in such hostile spirit<sup>29</sup> [toward the patroons] as the preceding.

The 51 whole and 14 half beaver skins coming from my colony, have been handed to me, although with protest. I hope that the patroons by [the time] the next [ship sails] will have the free trade in furs, even [in exchange] for merchandise, unless some restrictions are added. Their High Mightinesses have appointed to settle this question Messrs Arnhem, Weede and Donck, who well understand the rights of the colonies and the population and that the first adventurers ought to be favored in order to tempt others to follow. We find it not advisable to enter on this before the departure of this ship; but as soon as it has sailed, we shall come to it (God willing) and vigorously attack the management of Vogelaer.

Please take charge of any grain raised in my colony for which Jacob Planck has no use, and deliver it to the Company. I hope however that he will be able to use it all for brandy-making and beer-brewing, if he only understands the business. I have had him examined by Claes Claess<sup>m</sup>. He requests that your honor will at my charge provide him with a comfortable little boat so that he can sail to and fro, which will be a favor to me as will all that may be further granted to my advantage.

Regarding the grass and grain scythes which Gerrit de Reux delivered by my order to Mr Paauw, I have no memorandum thereof; let Reux give me an explanation, since Mr Paauw also knows nothing about it but says that Cornelis van Voorst himself delivered such things to Reux. I am surprised that Marijn can not raise any tobacco. He can not understand it rightly or must have taken up too much land which he has not cleared well or not sufficiently spaded and broken up. If I had a supply of brandy and were provided with a sloop, he would do for a skipper to cruise along the coasts of New Netherland and the adjacent settlements and sell it according to the Freedoms to our people, the savages and others, at places where the Company has no commis for furs as beavers, otters, etc., and at all places for seawan or for money, as is allowed everywhere by the aforesaid Freedoms.

Mr Paauw and I have been busy trying to send over a ship with young cattle, but as they demanded too much, and I did not know how matters stood in my colony, and we were not yet quite settled with the Company, we have let it rest. We also intended to send over carpenters. Regarding the brickkiln, I can not yet say much; at any rate I must be paid for the clay of which the former bricks were made, as it was from my land; of which I have here notified the Company and also Crol.

I wish that the remaining little islands and also the land that is on the east side of the river and belongs to the Mahycans, had been bought also. Be pleased therein to do your best, and give Jacob Planck instructions what to do. If the savages make a sale, let the transfer be made before my officer and the court of Rensselaerswyck, using the form that Mr Paauw is now sending over to Cornelis van Voorst. Ask him to give your honor a copy of it, only changing in it mutatis mutandis the names of the officers and colonies: he calls Cornelis van Voorst his chief officer,<sup>29a</sup> and I desire for my own reasons that Jacob Planck shall as yet not be otherwise entitled than as officer. N. B. Do not fail to get a copy of this form from van Voorst and give Jacob Planck a copy, not like that which van Voorst has, but changed as it must be for Jacob Planck. I fear I shall hardly have time to write out the instructions for Jacob Planck, as the lighter is ready to sail. Your honor can give him as many extracts from this letter as he needs, and also from the previous instructions I gave your honor for Rutger Hendrickss<sup>n</sup>, adding to them what seems best to you and ordering him in my name to act accordingly. If you do not possess the books of Damhouzver and the other, be sure to read these copies freely, since the court of Amsterdam generally follows this author, and recommend this also to Jacob Planck. As to clover seed, I would have sent some to your honor, but mine is on the way from Italy, shipped from Venice, and here there is little for sale and it is extremely dear, besides being good for nothing since very little has come up from the last at Craloo.<sup>30</sup> If another ship follows, and den Walvis has lain ready for seven months, I shall provide your honor with it. The confraters, however, will not send out the ship if they can not obtain the freedom of the fur trade.

I am well aware of the advantages of the Fresh River. I have also spoken to Domp̃selaer about it, but every one is afraid on account of the disputes and opposition that arise. Blommaert long ago registered his colony there; we may see how it will turn out after the decision of the States [General]. Some years have elapsed as a result of these disputes, so that the four years<sup>31</sup> should not be counted to begin till after the aforesaid decision has been given and all disputes settled. It is bad that the English are beginning to get a foothold there. But Mr Vogelaer does not worry much about this, I think, since he says he would rather be bitten by strange dogs than by his own.

The prices which the English ask for their cattle are not at all reasonable. I should think it quite unadvisable to pay any way near so high a price, for I notice that they are very apt to die and then the money is lost; let us keep to those which are to be found in the country or which we send from here. I have heard here that Captain Stoon<sup>32</sup> has been killed by the savages.

There is much to criticize in the bill of Wulffert Gerritsz, therefore refer him to me. He can not claim monthly wages when he is not in my colony, according to the copy of his instructions, No. 17. When he comes here, we will settle in all fairness.

I have paid f50 to the wife of Laurens Laurensz<sup>n</sup>, but I do not know how much is still owing to him. He bargained for no wages; all I have to do is to provide his board, or in place of board, pay

It lies a short distance from the railway station of Naarden-Bussum, and has been well kept up for many years by its owner, a prominent Amsterdam merchant. The patroon's energy and perseverance transformed a sandy tract into a fine estate, traversed by long avenues of beeches and firs, with groves of oaks. The picture gallery of the present owner stands on the site of the patroon's house. The estate is now subdivided, and the two villa-parks, Crailo and Loo, will soon be the most attractive of the environs of Amsterdam. S. DE L. v R. S.

I inquired how he came by the mantle; but they had some time ago killed one Capiteyns Soon [Captain Stone] and his men in a small bark, from whom they obtained these clothes. him 1100 yearly, while I have half of all that he earns. And I have no account of what he has done or has earned. He is also responsible for the other two and for the advance money that I gave to Andries Christenssen, who ran away.

I have told them I will give no more money before I have an accounting. Enclosed is his contract under No. 18. Herein is enclosed a letter from Mr Bloemaert, No. 19, about the goods left with your honor by David Pietersse and Jan Tjepkens,<sup>33</sup> skipper of 't Eeckhorntgen. Be pleased to advise him what there is about this, and if there is any of it yet unsold that Jacob Planck or my people may need, let him have it upon giving his receipt. The goods which I am now sending with him, according to the invoice under No. E, I brought into the Company's warehouse and they were packed there by their own people in order to be subjected to no more openings or inspection, since Mr Paauw had a great dispute over their wishing to unpack his goods which were already packed; they released him from this, however, but it must be done on arriving in the country, which will not be the case with mine. I see also what cattle your honor has sent up the river. I hope that since then you have also sent some horses, etc., thither and that the third farm will have been established before the arrival of this letter and that now the fourth can be started, which I have promised to Lubbert Ghijsbertss<sup>n</sup>, the wheelwright, according to contract No. F, herewith sent by Jacob Planck. I fear that you will lack farm hands. Those that came over with Reux and cost me a great deal you might try to get hold of again, wherever they may be, according to the nineteenth article of the Freedoms, of which I send your honor a printed copy under No. 20. The servants of Roeloff Janssen were engaged for four years from the time they came to the country, that is to say, to my colony, so that it is a question whether their time will be up or not; you might contract with them for one year more. There will no doubt be some excuse for making them stay one year more, even if an increase had to be given them.

I thank your honor for the young deer sent me by de Soutbergh; it died on the way, so it seems that I am unlucky with animals on the sea, since I lost my calves also.

I have done my best to get a servant for your honor. So has your father. First we had the sons of Geertgen Michiels at Amers- foort, who decided not to go; afterwards Jehan de Wael, who sails for Pernambuco; and now finally another who, your father thinks, is too troublesome since he was very rebellious during the Easter holidays. We will postpone it till further advice. If your honor could get a good English servant, those people are alert, respectful and obedient.

In case of the Company ordering Hunthum to come to the Manhatans, which I do not expect, present your affidavits to the council which can declare him incompetent and must make him retract his statements.<sup>34</sup> Your honor can readily justify this action on the ground that the Company has had no knowledge of these slanders and this abusive language and if he still continues his mischief, since the magpie can not cease its hopping, send him home by resolution of the council. Some will vigorously protest against it, others will laugh and say that he only gets his deserts. But there must be reasons and no greater reasons can be found than that the savages are his enemies, especially if the slaughter of the cattle happened because of him; also that he can not speak the language; further if he has obtained but few furs, about which he boasted that he would do so much; and whatever else serves the purpose.

Coming to yours of September 14, sent by way of New England, I will persuade our confraters to give your honor a good reward, in case we receive the indemnity of 275 beavers. If they pay in seawan, it must be exchanged for beavers and sent here by the next ship under a proper bill of lading. If your honor can trade any of them so as to obtain animals from Wulfert Gerritsz., do so, also for other animals. But half of this would belong to Mr Paauw and he would have to pay half.

I still can not allow anything else than that there must be not two only but three farms on West Island, each of which would have more than 40 morgens of land. They must draw their hay from another island. But if Wulffert or his son came, I would rent to them 80 or 90 morgens on half shares, according to the contract with Hendrick Conduit under No. D aforesaid, or on such terms as your honor can agree on with him subject to my approval. The farmers want a great deal of land, then they can take the best and let the rest lie fallow; whereas I am looking for many people in order to increase my number. Think that Rensselaer has not even 20 morgens of cultivated farm land, at least not much more; and what a fine farm that is. If a farmer therefore has 20 morgens of farm land near his house and pasture land and hay fields besides he can easily make his living. So that there could easily be six farms on the island. This must come gradually as more cattle and people come; which you must bear in mind in making the contract with Wulffert Gerritss<sup>n</sup>. Then act with caution. Only see that you buy his cattle on the most reasonable terms, for that is of the highest importance to me. I will send people enough hereafter if only I have cattle.

Your proposition to start a farm near Fort Orange is good, on the conditions as stated. But so long as Vogelaer is on the commission, there can be no dealings with the Company. Let my [officer] Jacob Planck talk it over some time with Hunthum and see what he thinks of it, whether he will take it upon himself; if not, whether he will favorably recommend it to the Company; and try him in this way. And if he refuses to consider it at all, make a note of it, since it would serve the interests of the Company and their fort would be better guarded and at less expense, as the people could do double work watching the fort at night and working by day and I would pay the Company or the Company could pay me part of the expenses. Do not fail to have Jacob Planck request this of him in writing, that he may take action thereupon, and if he write to your honor and the council about it, keep cool, else they would lay it to your charge that you had urged it, and this must not be. For no matter how favorable it is to the Company, if the patroons get profit from it, it must be rejected. They would rather suffer loss than that the patroons should prosper. An exceedingly bad disposition. The horses of Wulffert Gerritss could be used on this farm and his son could live there. Marijn or Roclof with their wives could guard the house and cattle at night.

If I have time I will write a short letter to Martten Gerritsen, Corler and Nootelman, also to Wulffert. If not, they must be satisfied with what I write to you. The wind is blowing strongly so that the lighter can not get off, else it would leave at once.

This letter I send separately by Jacob Planck, and the documents herein mentioned, from No. 1 to No. 20, in another packet, also separately, by the same Planck; also my remonstrance (under No. 21) which I presented to the Assembly of the XIX, copied by your brother Hendrick; also No. 22, being a letter written by Domine Badius to the minister there, Domine Euerhardus Bogardus; No. 23, a letter from your honor's father; No. 24, one from Thomas van Wely. As to whatever else is to be done in my affairs

I urge your honor to seek therein my greatest advantage, in which I have confidence in you; and whatever I may have forgotten, be sure to supply it. I will do the same for your honor. I hope with the return of the ship d'Eendracht to receive particular information from your honor and the punctual reply to the contents of these. Wherewith closing, etc.

Vale.

Coenract Noottelman, in New Netherland, 27 April 1634:

I find myself with your favor of the 9th of May 1633 sent by den Walvis, that of the 21st of July by den Soutberch, and that of the 18th of March by de goede hoope, to which I shall reply briefly, for two reasons. First, because the lighter will sail in a moment; secondly because you are coming home, as another officer goes thither. I am very glad to see that you are on good terms with my nephew Wouter van Twiller, director there; hope that you will continue thus to the last as there have been many false tongues and pens which have defamed him by gross lies. The skipper of de Goedehoope has not been to see me; the money which you remitted, I paid to my brother in law, Johannes van Weelen, who handed it to your wife, but the f165 I have thus far not been able to obtain as the directors of groeningen<sup>38</sup> are very particular because you have sent no receipt. I have written several letters about it, also spoken of it to some directors, but they say that it establishes a bad precedent to pay any money on the mere statement of the commis. You should have kept an account thereof and sent it to me here, for not having this I can not claim anything. When you come home, you must bring with you an authentic account thereof or the declaration of somebody who knows what you have furnished for the f165; Tyaerdt brongers makes such a statement, but they will not accept it on his authority. The tobacco, my brother in law has after very long delay been able to receive only under bond and he has sold the same and been obliged to pay out of it the amount which your account was short; this by way of information. As to the animals from the farm of Gerrit de Reus which you have used so long and instead of increasing you have worn out and decreased, I order my officer, jacob planck, to negotiate with you concerning them as is just; commend him to the director. First, you ought to return the full number which you received, and as to the increase which I ought to have had as from other farms, you may see what agreement you can make in compensation for the f100 which you pay the Company on the decision of the council in New Netherland; but with the sayings of Reumunde I have nothing to do. The animals belonged to Gerrit de reux by purchase and he could sell which he wanted, as they ordered him home before the time. I shall protest to the council there as well as to the directors here against the damage which I suffer there, but that does not concern you. What concerns you and me, is that the animals which you have used belong to me and respecting this we must come to some agreement, but my loss because of their detention by the Company or by Crol, I shall certainly recover from the Company. This by way of information. I thank you for the report of my colony, by which you have done me a great kindness; I shall repay it with gratitude. It is a pity that there are not more animals where there is such beautiful land. That the directors have said this and that to reumunde is all talk and does not matter here. They could sell their animals but once, which they have done, and having sold them they have no further power over reux and bylvelt, who would no doubt have served out their years but that they ordered them home and would not allow them to return. The Company can take away their farms which they have leased for six years, but the animals which they sold they can not take away again from any one without his consent.

I do not write thus to accuse you but to accuse the Company and in order that you may help me recover my loss from the Company and that I may send the animals up the river at last.

TRANSLATED BY MRS ALAN H. STRONG

Notice served on the directors of the West India Company by Notary Justus van de Ven in the name of Kiliaen van Rensselaer, April 27, 1634

Mr Kiliaen van Rensselaer, as patroon of his colony named Rensselaerswyck lying on the North River of New Netherland, notifies the lords directors of the Chartered West India Company, Chamber of this city, that a certain contract was entered into between their honors and various farmers according to the conditions signed by both sides on January 8, 1630, by which your honors sold and granted to each of the aforesaid contracting parties, being six in number, four horses, four cows, with their foals and calves, besides two heifers, six sheep, six hogs, also wagons, plows and like implements, on condition that they should pay therefor the sum of 600 guilders in six instalments; including also two horses of three years, two cows of two years, three sheep and three hogs, as soon as the people should have bred the same above the aforesaid number. Further, to each of the aforesaid farmers was leased and appointed a suitable farm, provided with house, hay barrack and barn, with about 50 morgens of land, for the term of six years, beginning the first of May 1630, on such conditions and rent as are further mentioned in the aforesaid contract.

Now thus it is, that Gerrit Mattheuss. de Reux, as purchaser of a portion of the aforesaid animals and tenant of farm No. 2, and Pieter Pietersz. Bijlevelt, likewise purchaser and tenant of farm No. 3, having paid their first instalment and the first year's rent, were shortly afterward, to their great injury and prejudice, summoned home by your honors and coming here were prevented from again returning thither in order to further improve the farms they had rented and which had been of great expense to them during the first year. Being deprived thereof and much alarmed because they could find no one who would take over the animals with the farms, they were obliged to abandon the farms and sell their animals to the complainant, who also bought the same from them for the sake of his above mentioned colony, undertaking to make the further payments and to deliver over the increase as he obtained it.

Following such purchase the complainant ordered Wolffert Gerritsz., then his commis at the Manhatans to send all these animals at the first opportunity to his colony, which was hindered by Director Bastiaen Jansz Crol because he thought it unadvisable to deprive the farms of animals; these, however, were not in the least attached thereto, save only for the aforesaid time of six years, during which time the vendors would not have thought of selling them if they had not been called home and prevented from sailing thither again, or if they could have found buyers who would have taken the same with the farms. Being defeated in all these plans, they were obliged to sell them to the complainant and as he is greatly injured by this delay and the number instead of increasing is daily diminishing (since they are used, not by the complainant's farmers whom he had thereto appointed in his colony, but by others, and he must let his people run idle at his expense or be forced to discharge them with injury and loss, in addition to the charges which he had to pay for their transportation, about which he was forced to make public complaint in his remonstrance delivered to the Assembly of the XIX), and as it is better to provide for redress before the injury grows greater, therefore,—etc.

[He summons them to cause the animals to be delivered and in case of refusal will hold them responsible for his loss.

The notice was handed to Mr Arnoult v. Liebergen, director.

The notary went the following day to receive the answer. The president, Mr Haringhock, said that they had spoken that morning with the complainant and that they had given him provisional satisfaction; that he was to write a letter which the directors would send with their letters and that the difference would be referred for final decision to the director of the Company in New Netherland.

All this van Rensselaer confirmed to the notary.]

Instructions to Jacob Albertsz Planck, schout<sup>40</sup>

April 27, 1634

Instructions prepared and issued by Kiliaen van Rensselaer as patroon of his colony called Rensselaerswyck for Iacob Albertsz planck, in the capacity of officer of the aforesaid colony, according to which he must faithfully govern himself, this 25th of April, in Amsterdam.

When he arrives on board ship he shall take good care that the goods sent with him according to invoice herewith enclosed under letter E be properly loaded and receive suitable places where they may be kept dry and in good condition, and in case the barrels are too large, so that they can not be stowed in the ship, he shall use the bags which have been given him and put the malt therein.

Also, that the men who sail in my service according to the memorandum, may be provided with proper quarters.

As soon as the ship with God's help gets ready to put out to sea, he shall prepare a list of the men who sail for my account and send the same to me with notice whether the goods have come on board in good condition.

He shall not neglect at every opportunity which offers on the way to advise me of what happens.

On his arrival by God's mercy in New Netherland, he shall give my greetings to Director Wouter van Twiller, hand him the letters and memoranda entrusted to him, and request him at the first opportunity to administer the proper oath of fidelity toward me, to him, Jacob Albertsz Planck, instead of to Rutger henrickssz van Soest, according to previous power of attorney.<sup>41</sup>

Which having been done, he shall with the aforesaid director carefully consider and note what animals and tools there are to be moved up the river, before his departure taking a note also of the condition of the farms of Noottelman and Byleveldt and diligently inquiring whether any of my men have entered any one else's service in order to take them again into my service in case I should need them and they prove suitable to me.

He shall confer with Director van Twiller as to how many farms I can for the present establish in my colony and what sort of people may be most suitable for that purpose and, as I have no time to extend these instructions sufficiently, the aforesaid van Twiller will please supplement these instructions from the previous instructions given him for Rutgert Hendricxsz van Soest as well as by what he shall deem serviceable to me and by what I have written him in the letter, which planck must follow as if I had done it myself and written it with my own hand.

If any of my men need any provisions or other necessaries aside from those which I send along, they shall make the same known to the aforesaid officer Jacob planck, who shall make a note thereof and request the same wholesale of the commisen of the Company at a reasonable price, as I in return shall furnish them from what I have in stock, giving and receiving proper receipts on both sides, and of this Iacob planck shall make a proper distribution among my men and keep a correct account thereof, issuing nothing extravagantly but managing the whole carefully. At all events, it is my decided wish that none of my men shall privately get anything at my charge from the commisen of the Company, but everything by the order and management of the aforesaid Jacob planck.

While at the Manhatans, he shall with the director seek to bring about that Wulffert Gerritssz or his son move up the river with some animals, on reasonable terms, being willing to give him the terms of Hendrick Conduit according to the accompanying contract under No. D.

N. B. Further, to take care not to furnish to any one more than is due to him, but having them give me credit for the money which I have furnished and advanced them here, telling jaspar ferlijn what my agreement is with Maryn Adriaenssz, of which agreement as well as of that with him, Iasper ferlyn, the originals are herewith enclosed under the letters K, L, M, together with the receipts of what I have paid here.

As soon as possible, he shall proceed on his voyage up the river and it would be well if some animals went along too, also the goods which were sent with him from here and some suitable servants.

On his arrival there, with God's help, he shall settle on West Island, first trying to store his goods safely, then causing his house to be erected in the appointed place and further doing everything that the contract which he has entered into with me implies.

At the first opportunity he shall choose three schepens from among the fittest of my colonists, and administer to them the proper oath, so that he can hold court if need be,<sup>42</sup> and in order that everything may proceed in an orderly manner, I give him three books to take along, which he must keep carefully and study diligently, to wit: Ars notariatus; Danhouwer int Crimineel; and further, praxcos Civilis, ofte maniere van Procederen, under Nos. Q, R and S.

He shall take care that the men work diligently, every one according to his contract, causing the carpenter to complete the houses and build the enclosures for the animals, and in particular he shall have the poisonous weeds destroyed.

And in order that he may establish as many farms as possible in the aforesaid colony, attention shall be paid to the following.

First, the animals which Commander Wouter van Twiller may have bought for the aforesaid patroon, separately, before the delivery of the contract made with Mr Paauw, as well as his half of those which may be bought thereafter.

Then, the three young horses, to wit, two mares and one stallion bought of Peter Minuit, which [stallion] Director van Twiller would like to have exchanged for an old mare, but this can not be done as the patroon can establish a farm with the said three horses, being willing to pay van Twiller for their care as much as he shall wish.

Further, the animals which Wulffert Gerritssen or his son may bring up the river.

Finally, as many animals as he shall see fit to send up the river from farms Nos. 2 and 3, of Gerrit de Reux and Bylevelt, who bought the said animals and tools and in turn sold and delivered them to him, the patroon, absolutely, without restriction as to term of lease, except only that the patroon has agreed to pay the balance of the purchase money to the Company and to return the number of two horses and two cows when he has them to spare. It must be noted that in the contract which the farmers have made with the Company, a copy of which is herewith enclosed under No. V, two things are to be considered: first, the sale of horses, cows, wagons, plows, etc., for the sum of f600, to be paid in six years, together with two horses, two cows, etc., to be returned when they have them to spare, which sale is final and neither may nor can be retracted without consent on both sides; secondly, a lease of the farms with the houses thereon for the term of six years and no longer, on condition of payment of the sixth sheave, the delivery of one firkin of butter and the grain to the Company, etc., at the end of which period the animals remain in the possession of the purchasers and the farms revert to the Company and each is allowed to do with his own as he sees fit, without stipulation on the part of the Company that the animals must remain at the Manhatans. But, as the Company has ordered Gerrit de Reux and Pieter Bylevelt home before the expiration of their term and would not permit them to return thither, they are thereby released from the terms of the lease and still have a claim on the Company for the profits which they might have made on the farms during the remaining years and for the loss which they suffered by reason of being obliged to sell their animals and tools at a low and poor price to him, Rensselaer, nobody at the Manhatans being willing to accept them; and although he, Rensselaer, bought the said animals with no other view and for no other purpose than to transport them to his colony, willingly agreeing to pay the Company the dues which they could claim by virtue of the sale, they have nevertheless refused to let him have the same, which loss he expects to recover according to his remonstrance delivered to the Assembly of the XIX, as the number of the said animals has not only not increased and grown, but decreased and become less; and in order that no further loss may result therefrom, Rensselaer requests once more that the animals and tools which still remain on the aforesaid two farms may be made free and placed at his disposal to be transported to his colony, otherwise he will hereafter seek to recover the loss which he may still incur and have to suffer in such manner as he shall see fit.

Kiliaen van Rensselaer to the director and council in New Netherland<sup>47</sup>

April 29, 1634

To the director and council of the Chartered West India Company in New Netherland

This 29th of April 1634

Honorable, prudent, very discreet gentlemen: Enclosed I send your honors a copy of the protest made in my name to the lords directors of the Chartered West India Company, Chamber of this city, demanding that they turn over to me the animals, wagons and other tools which are still on the respective farms of gerrit de reux and pieter Bilevelt, also that they repay me for the damage already suffered by reason of the detention and in case of refusal still to be suffered.

But inasmuch as the said directors have entered into further consultation with me and agreed to send the said protest with this open letter to you under cover from themselves, I hereby very kindly request you to take this matter up without delay, duly considering that neither de Reux nor pieter bijlevelt are cause of the removal of the animals before the stipulated time of six years, but the Company itself, which has summoned them home and prevented them from returning thither; for if they eject from farms belonging to the Company, they can not with reason refuse the said people the permission to take with them the animals and tools which belong to them and which, not being able to find any purchaser at the manhatans, they were obliged to sell to me for my colony.

I doubt not therefore but the director and council will understand this as I do, the more so as the Company will thereby not be inconvenienced in the least, as there are plenty of other animals at the Manhatans which the farmers according to their contracts are bound to deliver to the Company; however, if the aforesaid two farms shall be put in the same condition as the six farms were when first leased, I am willing to take one of them on the former terms. I hope that Officer dincklagen, who now sails thither, will take the other for himself, as thereby much damage and trouble which must otherwise necessarily result will be avoided and no one, as far as the future is concerned, will be offended. And as to what is past, if Officer nottelman gives me animals equal in number and quality to those he received on the farm of Rceux, I am willing to allow for the increase and growth by the yearly payment to the Company of f100, subject to arbitration and decision by the director and council as to who of us shall reimburse the other; and in case the same should not be decided with nottelman before his departure, I shall be obliged to seek redress from the Company, which has detained them through its director, Croll. But relying on your honor's discretion I hope that it will end in such way that nobody will be offended or curtailed in his rights, but in the opposite case this enclosed protest will serve me to maintain my good right.

And as I have proposed several other things to the lords directors which they have likewise referred to your honors, I shall make brief mention thereof.

First, as my mill in the colony, where the grain for the men of Fort Orange is ground, is of great consequence to the Company inasmuch as the Company has no other mill there and as the same is situated somewhat far from my house standing on the farm of delactsburgh and could easily be damaged by the savages (to great inconvenience, especially in the winter season when the water is closed and one can not get down any more<sup>48</sup>) I would request that two or three persons from the garrison of Fort Orange with their arms might in turn be ordered to protect and defend the said mill, in return for which I undertake to cause a suitable guardhouse to be built at my expense in which they can defend themselves, which in any event will also serve as a good watchhouse against any attack which the savages may attempt. Secondly, to prevent as much as possible all unnecessary expenses, that five or six persons from the aforesaid garrison of Fort Orange may be permitted to work during the day on the farms which I intend to establish around the aforesaid fort and during the night be required to keep close watch, on condition that I pay their board and the Company the wages, or I the wages and the Company the board; and in this way, one hand washing the other, great unity and love may be brought about between the men of the fort and those of my colony so that they may assist each other faithfully in time of need. Thirdly, that the commis at Fort Orange may expressly be charged by the director and council, according to article 25 of the Freedoms of the patroons, to take all my people, houses, animals and other things under the Company's protection and defense; as I on my side, have ordered my officer to assist the Company or its people with life and limb in all dangers that occur. Lastly, that there may be granted to me as a loan or on proper security, one of the two brew kettles which are in that country and that the commisen of the Company and my officer may mutually accommodate one another at moderate prices with that which one has to spare and the other needs; whereupon I shall be pleased to receive at the first opportunity your favorable resolution so far as the service of the Company will allow, and finally, pray God Almighty, etc.

Enclosed I send you an open letter to the director and council in New Netherland together with the protest<sup>54</sup> which I thought the lords directors would have enclosed in their letter; but as they could not quite decide I send it herein under cover, to read over the contents and transmit it thus open in my name, to the director and council, requesting an answer to the points therein mentioned and, in case of refusal as to the animals, that the enclosed protest may have its course. Before you transmit the letter, copy the protest and the letter, and if the matter can in any way be equitably settled, prefer peace to trouble as I judge also that the directors will write likewise to the director and council to do what is right. If they had enclosed my writing [it would mean that] they had completely granted my request; they have therefore made difficulty about enclosing it in their letters, and the work has been impeded

He states that he set out as comforter of the sick and made a voyage and stay of 7½ months in that country. He went out for the second time in the same capacity, and after he had been away about 15 months, he was appointed to the directorship at Fort Orange on the North River and held the same for three years. The third time he went out again as director of Fort Orange and to the best of his recollection served again for about two years. After which he was elected director general of New Netherland at Fort Amsterdam on the island Manhates, lying at the mouth of the aforesaid North River also named Mauritius, and served in this office 13 months.

Yes.

3. Whether a misunderstanding did not arise between himself and Hontom, who had taken prisoner one of the chiefs.

It is printed in Dutch in Oud Holland, 1890, 8:287-89, as Appendix II to Mr de Roever's articles on the colony of Rensselaerswyck under the title: Interrogatoir van Bastiaen Jansz Crol, gewezen directeur in Nieuw-Nederland, oud 39 jaren, ten verzoeke der patronen, gehouden door den notaris Justus van de Ven, te Amsterdam, den 30 Juni 1634.

Yes.

7. Whether he was not asked by his successor, the new director van Twiller, to go again to Fort Orange in the service of the W. I. Company, in order to prevent Eelkens from trading there.

Yes.

Yes.

11. Whether on the following day, Hontom did not come to tell him that he might as well go away as he could manage the matter himself.

Yes.

12. Whether Eelkens did not go often to the fort and whether Hontom did not often eat in the tent.

Yes.

13. How long Eelkens traded there.

Four to five weeks.

How many skins he obtained.

About 400.

14. Whether he, when he was at Fort Orange, was not present, when Saggodryochta, head chief of the Maquaas, came, and seeing

Hontom, at once packed up his skins and rising up, said, "That man is a scoundrel, I will not trade with him."

Yes.

15. Whether soon afterwards, the Company's yacht de Bever was not burned by the savages near Fort Orange.

Yes.

16. Whether the tribe of the Macquaas, shortly before he left Fort Orange did not tell him, as he understood their language, that they would kill the said Hans Jorissen Hontom the first time they should find him alone, and whether he had not warned Hontom about this.

Yes.

What answer Hontom made thereto.

"That the Macquaas might do their best," or something to that effect.

17. Whether, on the 20th July, 1633, as he, Crol, lay ready to sail for the fatherland, a Mahican savage, named Dickop, did not come bringing the tidings to the island Manhates, that all the cattle in the neighborhood of Fort Orange had been killed.

Yes.

18. Whether the director Pieter Minuict, the predecessor of Crol, had not ordered Cornelis van Vorst to keep two of the four young cows which were with calf.

Yes.

Where this happened.

In the house of Cornelis van Vorst at Pavonia, in the presence of Pieter Bijlevelt and shortly before the departure of Minuit.

19. Whether Andries Hudden, commis of stores, did not also furnish a cow to van Vorst.

Yes.

20. Whether Wouter van Twiller, director, in March 1633, about 10 months after the delivery, took away these cattle from Cornelis van Vorst.

Yes.

For what reason?

He said he had bought them from Minuict.

21. Whether van Twiller did not give van Vorst three other cows in their place.

Yes.

Account of the jurisdictions, management and condition of the territories named Rensselaerswyck<sup>65</sup>

July 20, 1634

TRANSLATED BY MRS ALAN H. STRONG

Account of the jurisdictions, management and condition of the territories named Rensselaerswyck, situated in New Netherland on the river of the Prince Mauritius; communicated in writing upon express condition de non praejudicando. This 20th of July 1634

Comprising the whole district with all the lands formerly inhabited by and belonging to the free, rich and well known nation named the Mahikans, who had a language of their own and in the year 1625 would not give up or sell any of the aforesaid lands even at the request of the Chartered West India Company.

But since Daniel van Krieckenbeeck, former commis at Fort Orange, involved and engaged these same Manhykans in needless wars with the warlike nation of the Maquacs, their former friends and neighbors, they lost in the beginning their general chief named Monnemijn, and subsequently were so hard pressed from time to time, especially by the defeat they suffered in 1629, that they resolved in the years 1630 and 1631 to sell and transfer their said lands with all their rights, jurisdiction and authority to and for the behoof of Kiliaen van Rensselaer, the present owner and lawful possessor of the before mentioned regions, according to the respective deeds of cession and transfer of date August 13, 1630, and May 1631.

First, the free lordship and jurisdiction named Sanckhagag, lying on the west side of the river, beginning from Beeren Island and extending up to Smar Island, having along the shore of the river about 210 morgens of cleared land now ready to put animals on, for raising hay and cultivating with the plow, and extending two days' journey inland, bought from their chief Paapsickenekas with his accompanying councilors and co-owners, Keraftac, Nankoutamhat and Sickenosen. Which aforesaid and the other further to be named lordships are endowed with such prerogatives and privileges as the honorable Michael Pauze has stated in his declaration which, for brevity's sake, it is needless to repeat here, reference being made to this declaration for them and such other prerogatives as may especially belong to these lordships.

Secondly and thirdly, the free lordships and jurisdictions named Petanóck and Negagonse, the first including all the territory to the south and north of the mill creek, comprising also the West Island, containing in all more than 240 morgens of cleared land and fertile soil, with three farms named as follows, Renselaers-Burch, Welys-Burch and Godijns-Burch; that of Negagonse, including all the lands and two parcels up to Monnemin's Castle containing much over 350 morgens of cleared land as above, with the following farm called Blommaerts-Burch, everything along the west side of the river, and inland indefinitely; bought of the respective chiefs, councilors and owners Kottomack, Nazwanemith, Abantsence, Sagiskua, Kannamoack.

Fourthly, the free lordship and jurisdiction named Semesecck, lying on the east side of the river, bought from the aforesaid Nazwanemith, having belonged exclusively to him; containing a watermill and farm called de Laets-Burch with a crystal rock and several beautiful groves, to which must be added the lands which Paapsickennikas at present still possesses and which are ordered to be bought, the same containing together 400 morgens of cleared land.<sup>66</sup>

Fifthly,<sup>67</sup> the islands of Paapsickenekas with the mainland lying on the east shore, bought by Jacob Planck, the 23d of April 1637. from the following chiefs and owners, Caschot, Onhaseme, Kamkebock, Sickewope, Nosenae and Ochkock, and payment made with seawan, duffels, axes, knives and other merchandise.

So that the territory of the Mahikans, who in their time were over 1600 strong, has all together over 1200 morgens of cleared land and far more than 16,000 morgens of mountain and valley, forest and marsh, with all kinds of game and fowl, the 1200 cleared morgens being not only fat, clayey soil of itself but yearly enriched by the overflow of high water there when the ice breaks and jams. The same lies ordinarily from three to five feet above the water, according as the tide runs high or low (and yet it is fresh water) and ships of over 120 lasts can sail up there from the sea.

The lands described above having been bought, all possible diligence was applied to populate the same with Christians, to purchase animals and to send thither all kinds of tools and necessities, namely, in the year 1630, in charge of the farm overseer Wolffaert Gerrittsen, besides those who deserted him:<sup>68</sup>

rutger hendricksen van Soest

brant peelen vander Nieckarck

beerent Iansen van esen[en?]

roeloff Iansen van masterlant

annetgen Jans, his wife

Sara and trintgen roeloffs, his daughters with another child born before in that country<sup>69</sup>

Claes claesens van vlechter

Iacob Goyuerttsen van Ditto

Zeeger Ianssen vander nieckarck

Besides sending 12 ewes with lamb, orders were given to buy all kinds of animals in the country there, so that the aforesaid persons had in the year 1631 established two fine farms, one on West Island, named Rensselaersburch, provided with a convenient dwelling, the sides and gable built up with brick, long and wide as required; in addition two hay barracks, each of five poles fifty feet high; also a barn and sheepcote and other necessities. Eight morgens of land were plowed in the year 1632. On the 14th of April, 1633, there were to be found thereon:

6 horses, including 2 mares with foal

5 head of cattle, including 2 cows with calf

6 hogs

and in the same year were raised 14 morgens of fine winter wheat

2 morgens ditto rye

4 morgens of summer seed, oats, peas, etc.

The house was furnished with all kinds of farm implements and necessities for the animals and for the comfort and support of the people and what further was needful.

The above mentioned persons further established another farm in the lordship of Semelzeeck, named de Laetsburch, on the east side of the river; but as this house was burned by accident, they built again another brick house, 80 feet long, the threshing floor 25 feet wide and the beams 12 feet high, up to the ceiling; further, a hay barrack of 4 poles, 50 feet above the ground, with barn and sheep-cote. They were also provided with a sailing vessel, etc., as mentioned above, and in the year 1632 cultivated 5 morgens of land, and in April 1633, the farm was found to contain:

- 6 horses, including 2 yearlings
- 4 head of cattle, including one ox and one bull
- 5 hogs
- 22 sheep
- 6 morgens winter wheat
- 1 ditto rye
- 3 ditto summer grain

Again in the year 1631, there were sent thither from here:

- lourens lourenssen van coppenhaegen*, millwright
- berent thonissen van heyligensont*
- Maryn adriaensen vander Veere*
- lysbet thysen*, his wife
- a son born before in that country<sup>70</sup>
- Jasper ferlyn vander Gouw*
- Jan thyerts van franicker*
- Cornelis maessen van buermalsen*

Besides the above mentioned persons, all kinds of necessities for man and beast were sent over, including eight heifer calves, of which seven arrived alive, also millstones, all kinds of ironwork and the like for the erection of a saw and grist-mill, tobacco planting and farming purposes; whereof is still in existence the grist-mill where grain is ground for Fort Orange and the country around.

Item, another dwelling house stands outside of Fort Orange in which Marijn Adriaensz is living with his family. They have prepared an enclosed plot of two morgens in which to sow tobacco.

In the year 1632, with the knowledge and consent of the Company, were bought from Pieter Pietersz Bilevelt and paid for:

- 3 horses
- 9 head of cattle

3 bull calves and all his farming implements including wagons, plows, etc.

Ditto, bought from Pieter Minuict aside from the animals belonging to his farm, which he sold to the director, Wouter van Twiller:

3 horses

8 head of cattle and several hogs

Ditto, taken over from Gerrit Theusen de Reux, the animals belonging to his farm, namely:

4 horses

4 head of cattle

2 young heifers

4 sheep

4 hogs

with all the farm stock of wagons, plows, etc., needful for farming, and in addition, of the increase of animals belonging to him, also purchased,

1 stallion colt

1 young ox

2 heifers and 50 guilders consideration paid in exchange of a cow for a heifer.

In addition to this, in the aforesaid year 1632, the following persons were sent over:

Gerrit matheussen de reux

hendrick frederich van bunnick

Cornelis thonissen van meerkerck

Marcus meussen van Cuylenborch

Also two or three laborers to be engaged there from those who have served out their time, in order to establish with the aforesaid animals and their increase three farms, namely, Weelys-Burch on the West Island, Godijns-Burch near the mill creek, both in the lordship of Petanock, and Blommaerts-Burch near the fourth creek, in the lordship of Negagonse. All these three farms would have been established in the year 1633 but that, through a misunderstanding of Director Bastiaen Janssen Krol who raised the objection that he had no instructions from the lords [directors], they were detained at the Manhatans. However, as further advice has now come over, the said animals and implements will be sent to Rensselaerswyck, in order this present year with God's help to establish the three farms before named, which was prevented in the year 1633.

With which firm confidence, the following have been sent thither this year 1634:

Lubbert Gysberttsen van blarcom, wheelwright
Divertgen Cornelis, his wife
Gysbert, theus, and Ian, their three sons
Cornelis thonissen van breuckel, carpenter-mason
hendrick karstenssen van Norden
Abraham Iacobssen Planck

and as the officer of Renselaers comes home, sent in his place
Iacob alberttsen planck, to fill the said place and to administer proper justice.

All the above mentioned persons have been supplied with their proper necessities, as clothing, provisions and tools, firelocks and other needful weapons for themselves, and for the people in that country, so that this last outfitting, with messenger hire and other expenses, will alone amount to nearly 3000 guilders.

From the preceding account, it will be sufficiently perceived to what trouble and expense the said patroon has been, what efforts he has made, what perils his people and his animals have withstood, in what good condition the respective lordships of Rensselaerswyck now are, with prospects of annual improvements, and what a quantity of grain and animals could be raised on the 1200 morgens of cleared land, as good as here the Betuwe<sup>71</sup> or the Beemster<sup>72</sup> may be, there being no doubt but that this present year he will seed enough land to produce over 40 lasts of grain, mostly wheat, whereto may Almighty God lend his gracious blessing. Amen.

The said patroon therefore, considering all the prerogatives and benefits, only touched upon here in passing and in a general way, is most highly inclined to carry on the work he has begun and expects the gracious blessing of the Lord upon it in case he is allowed quickly and peacefully to enjoy the granted Freedoms and Exemptions according to their right meaning and content. But if he should be hindered therein, he would rather negotiate about the undertaking with the Chartered West India Company than oppose himself to the Company, if it will agree to offer him such a sum of money as he has mentioned before the honorable committee; with this reservation, that in case the Company should give the undertaking up again, he should have the preference in accordance with [conditions] further to be expressed; if not, that the original of this memorandum shall be handed back to him without keeping any copy thereof or making further publication. And in order that the honorable committee may have still further enlightenment, he refers to the map and drawing of the aforesaid jurisdictions and regions heretofore delivered to the honorable director Albertus Coenradi Burch and the duplicate thereof which remains with the said patroon.

This memorandum was sent with a letter to the Hague to the honorable Johan Ray, director of the West India Company, and member of the committee in charge of this matter, to be returned by his honor in case no action is taken thereon. And in testimony of the truth, signed by my own hand. Date as above.

This day, 21 July 1634, in Amsterdam

Sir: Enclosed I send your honor a letter to Mr Johan Raye, containing a memorandum concerning the state and condition of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, which I have thought good to send first to your honor in order that your honor may read it, and then at once without delay send it to the Hague, closing the letter which I have left open with your seal.

The Company delays reply to our claim<sup>73a</sup> delivered to it at the Hague. It seems now to be inclined to come to an agreement, to which the combined patroons have consented on condition of receiving a reasonable price. I have asked 6000 pounds Flemish for my colony and would not like to take much less since I have heard that our enterprise is in fine condition. Be so kind as not to neglect sending this letter to the Hague early tomorrow, Saturday morning, as it requires haste and Mr Pauze has already given in his statement here. And give me a line of acknowledgment that your honor has received this letter, so that I may not be in anxiety.

I expected to have found your honor at the Hague the last time and would then have asked you for the third assessment which the other confraters have already paid, your fifth part amounting to 200 guilders with 100 guilders more for other expenses, being in all 300 guilders; it would have been much more if I had not received a goodly sum for the furs which were brought over on the last trip, so that this assessment is not higher. Please send this at once to me. I will immediately send your honor a receipt.

I hope that all our shortage in Swanendael (which has too many rulers) will be made up by my colony.

Mr Jehan Raye, at the Hague

This day, 21 July 1634

Sir: Enclosed I send your honor the memorandum concerning the state and condition of my colony which your honor will please keep by you and not communicate further than to the gentlemen to whom these affairs are committed as I should not like to see that every man had knowledge thereof, for so many men, so many judgments, and through lack of understanding an affair is frequently badly spoken of and misinterpreted. Please do me the favor also to notify me by a line of the receipt of this.

Jacob Planck, officer of Rensselaerswyck, per Jacob ysbrantsen, skipper of de sevenstar

In Amsterdam, this 24th of May 1635

Although at this hour we are still in hope and fear as to whether the ship de Eendracht in which you and my people sailed may be on its way hither or whether in coming or even in sailing thither it may have perished, each of which calls for its especial consideration and remark, and although as long as I am not assured of the one I have to fear the other, and as long as I receive no advice from you as to the situation of my colony I find little about which to write to you, I can nevertheless not refrain from notifying you by this speedily departing ship, which now sails so hurriedly, while at other times it has lain ready for six months, that the respective patroons of the colonies of Swanendal and Pavonia have sold and transferred their colonies to the West India Company. As it may easily happen that they should try to intimate to you that I have sold my colony or am negotiating about it with the Company, this will serve to inform you that my colony is still intact and that I am still free and in the full possession of my freedoms and privileges and, with the advice of my confraters and by the gracious blessing of the Lord, also intend to carry on the said colony with as much zeal and reputation as ever before, and should not have failed to send people and other necessities by this ship if I had been assured of the condition of my colony, which I still hope to learn in a few days on the arrival of the ship de Eendracht (for which the Company according to my judgment should wait a few days longer); it will then be necessary to send a large ship thither by which I hope to send you of everything and write more at length. Investigate some time what the colony's rights are, as the Company having bought the colony of Mr paauw has been obliged to admit and accept the contracts which Mr paauw made with his people concerning the trade in peltries till the expiration and end of their terms.

If then, Cornelis van Voorst and his people, whose master sold his colony, is allowed to trade, how much more right have you whose patroon retains his freedoms and has held them continuously to the present, which does not lessen your business but increases it. Only have patience for a short period of years; the Lord will bless our undertaking as we have a much better object than the Company in this matter, since we seek to populate the country and in course of time by many people to propagate the teaching of the Holy Gospel, while they on the contrary, employing only a few people, seek only the profits of the fur trade and largely deceive themselves, as these profits are still accompanied by losses. Therefore, I trust that the omniscient God will bless our good intention in this matter as an example for others to follow us. Meanwhile, do your best in the fear of the Lord to rule the people in good order and discipline and to urge them to diligent work, which I trust you have done already and hope to hear at the first opportunity. Meanwhile, remain [commended] to the faithful God, etc.

I would write to others of my people also, but know not how it goes with them. Please to greet them all for me and write me at every opportunity by way of Virginia or New England, or by whatever people or ships may come there, as we long very much [to hear from you], as does your wife, who has also written to you. This goes per Jacob ysbransen, who is to be skipper of a sloop and is well acquainted with you. Keep on good terms with him and with all honest people.

May 24, 1635

TRANSLATED BY MRS ALAN H. STRONG

Wouter van Twiller, New Netherland

This 24 May 1635, Amsterdam

Per Jacob IJsbrandtsen, by the ship de Sevenster

Sending you our hearty greetings, we hope that you are well, although we have not heard from you in a long time, and this must be written in haste since the skipper has been notified that he must sail early tomorrow morning; things must now be rushed through all at once, after they have dawdled at least six months with this ship. I wish that they had waited a few days more, now they have waited so long, for I hope that the ship de Ecndracht may arrive in a few days, since I have heard from some Englishmen that over there, as here, it has been a very hard winter and therefore the skins could not arrive before the latter part of March, so that the ship could not leave there before the middle of April and 14 days from now will be just the right time for it to be here, unless it has been wrecked, which may God in his mercy forbid. It is the ship de Ecndracht, which sailed from here in the beginning of May of last year, by which I sent Jacob Planck, as officer and commis of my colony named Rensselaerswyck, with his son; and also a wheelwright with wife and three children; also a carpenter, who is a mason as well; and also a farm hand, besides all kinds of stores of food and clothing, farm implements, etc., which equipment has cost me about 3000 guilders, so that its [loss] would be a great misfortune for me, besides the loss of my time, and practically the decline or ruin of my colony. But I hope that it has arrived there safely.

I wrote by that ship full particulars about all that has happened here with reference to you, which the bearer of this, Jacob IJsbrandt- sen, will also tell you. He has always defended you, as you can see from his declaration, which I sent by de Eendracht. Therefore favor him in return, where you can do it with propriety, since he deserves it.

If de Eendracht has been wrecked in coming hither, many returning people must have gone down with her. We must trust to the Lord for the outcome. The directors are very much alarmed. They do not know what may be the state of affairs over there, since they have received no letters from you by way of Virginia or New England. Many complain bitterly, saying that you have chartered the sugar-bark to the English, which they heard from some Englishmen, and now they are the more displeased since you might for want of de Eendracht have sent over this bark to bring news. To sum up, the work here is quite unsettled.

The Company has bought out the two colonies Swanendal and Pavonia, but my colony is still intact and I am in the full possession of my freedoms. Neither am I negotiating with them; if any one should so report, believe it not; I am in full possession and am determined with my confraters to carry on the work with more courage than ever before, if the colony yet exists. I would indeed have sent people and necessities now, but I do not know in the least how matters stand there. Many believe that everything in that country is entirely destroyed, people as well as cattle, though I still have better courage and a better opinion of the affair. Mr Pauw has sold his colony, as stated; but the Company has been obliged to allow his people to trade in furs during their time, according to his understanding and agreement with them. How much more right to such trading, therefore, have my people, whose patroon still holds his full jurisdiction and freedoms. It seems to me the Company is taking a strange course in New Netherland affairs and that ere long they will be obliged to lease the fur trade to others who will manage it better; or else, the whole will go wrong. They want to economize by having few people and they can not keep the land in that way.

They send no commis with this ship, but late this evening engaged Gysbert op den Dijck as "assistant." Many would like to have had Dirck Cornelisz Duyster as commis, but others feared that Hontom would then have to leave, and therefore they countermanded him this evening. I hope that he will yet be engaged, if de Eendracht brings good tidings, so that they may have to send no other<sup>77</sup> ship this year.

I know nothing more to write since I did so at length by de Eendracht. I recommend to you the welfare of my colony in so far as the service of the Company will permit, which is unnecessary to specify, as you know it better than myself.

I wait with great patience for the arrival of de Eendracht, which I hope will make us greatly rejoice with the news that all is well in the land.

January 10, 1636

Coenraet Notelman, at Tiel

This day, 10 January 1636, in Amsterdam

After wishing your honor and your wife a joyful and happy new year through Jesus Christ, our only and complete Savior, amen, these lines will serve as answer to yours of the third instant regarding our difference concerning the animals of the farm of gerrit de Reux. I notice your statement and the advice which my nephew Wouter Van Twiller is supposed to have given. I will quietly pass it by rather than administer the rebuke which it deserves<sup>79</sup> for neither he nor you have grasped the situation in the least, which I will hereby explain. As far as the affair of gerrit de Reux is concerned, this is not a question between you and me but between me and the West India Company, who through their agents have prevented me from transporting my animals to my colony, not only those of gerrit de Reux but also those of pieter bylevelt, on the ground that they sold the animals to the former as well as to the latter on the 15th of January 1630, as stated in a special letter of same date to the director and council in New Netherland and this upon the conditions agreed to on the eighth of January of the same year with wolphert gerrits and Claas Corneliss in the name of all the farmers of the six farms. You fight therefore against your own shadow in alleging that in your country the first purchase ought to stand as it does in our country,<sup>80</sup> and consequently you pronounce your own sentence, since gerrit de Reux from the aforesaid 15th of January 1630 was the purchaser of the said animals and has not pretended any after purchase.<sup>81</sup> - Although he had paid the first term, I left him the animals as belonging to him, while in the contract made with me he also stipulated that I should return his animals to him in my colony where he would settle. This affair is clear and I shall know how to get my indemnity for detention in this matter by the Company or their agents, but this does not concern your honor in the least, either for or against. That he wanted to hire himself out to you does not take away his right. It may also be that he does not understand his own rights or that the agents of the Company have not correctly communicated to him the contract of the farm and sale of the animals. As for me, I knew the same when later I contracted with him myself, and a year before that, when the Company wanted to take his farm and animals away from him, I caused them to be put in your honor's name, for my behoof as far as the animals were concerned, and for your own behoof as to the farm, according to the instruments thereof which your honor has. It is therefore wide of the truth to say that you promised to turn the animals over to me; on the contrary I caused the farm to be put in your name because I did not want it for myself, and because I added in the instructions given your honor that you should cause the animals and things belonging thereto to be sent up the river for my account, what claim to ownership of the animals does this give you now and what reason have you for drawing me into the farm? As to your honor's saying that the animals and the farm can not be separated from each other, this can be done very well; it has indeed been done with the farm of bylevelt, as well as with that of gerrit de Reux, inasmuch as the company had power to eject them from the farms belonging to them but not to deprive them of the animals which it had sold to them and which did not belong to the Company but to the purchasers, as it was not stated in any article of the contract that the animals must remain with the farm but only the increase to the number stipulated if they should be provided therewith. In short, mon cousin, the farm is yours because I did not want it, as it was of no use to me but was to your honor, to whom I gladly yielded it, but the animals are mine and my confraters.

Your honor knew neither of the farm nor of the animals nor did you request them of the Company except on my order after I had told you that I wished to keep the animals for myself and had the instruments drawn accordingly. I pray your honor, tell me with whom did your honor contract about the farm or the animals, and who granted them to you? I hope that your honor will not depart so far from the truth as to take to yourself for your own behoof what I caused to be put in for my behoof and more than agreed upon with you, of which [agreement] in case of denial I have sufficient proof; and in case your honor understands it thus, to wit that the animals are ours, I shall gladly and in all equity, even to our damage, try to persuade my confraters to treat with you; if not, I can do nothing more, as I then told them and stated the case to them thus and later confirmed it in my letters and I do not wish to alter my word in the least as if I had misinformed them untruthfully. Wherewith ending, Vale.

Woutter Van Twiller, director

In the name of the Lord, this 25th of September 1636, in Amsterdam

Mon Cousin: I find myself with your honor's favor of the 31st of August 1635, sent to me by the ship d'eendracht, from which I learned of your honor's good state of health; we are also, God be praised, still well. My wife is in childbed of a young son,<sup>83</sup> whom I have named after my uncle Claes van Rensselaer, deceased, so that now the names of the three brothers Rensselaer have been bestowed, the youngest having become the oldest. May Almighty God let them grow up in virtue to the honor of His holy name. Amen. Your father, mother, brothers and sisters at Nieuwerkerck were on Thursday last still feeling well also, but the situation at Nieuwerkerck is very sad on account of the severe sickness of pestilence. Already 700 persons had died there and few houses are free. May the Lord preserve them further; however, it does not stop yet but increases daily. Our brother in law Willem van Weelij and his wife annaten hoof both died of it. It rages here pretty badly too; more than 600 in one week. Many acquaintances have died already, too long to relate, but our and my mother's household are still well, God be praised. The Lord grant what is pleasing to His holy will and for our salvation in life or in death. Amen.

I should have been pleased if your honor had in your last letter written at somewhat greater length and advised me more in detail regarding certain points mentioned in my previous letter. However, taking into consideration that you lacked time as the ship was ready to sail, it could not be made longer. I hope that next time you will write more at length. Referring to my preceding letter, which will make this one shorter, I would write your honor at length about the very injurious remarks uttered by the former fiscal, dincklagen, against your person and especially against the minister, but as all the persons sailing on this ship have sufficient knowledge thereof I refer [you] to them, who will no doubt relate everything to you by word of mouth, especially pieter Cornelisz, who knows all about it. My earnest request would be that your honor be pleased to do everything in your power to obtain from the maquaas as much of the indemnity for my animals as is possible and advisable. It seems that they have in view to send another director and they might very well employ as such walbeeck,<sup>84</sup> commander at Curaçao; however, that matter is still unsettled.<sup>85</sup> The Company has much discussed certain points which I proposed to them concerning the throwing open of the fur trade, but thus far no decision has been made; what will come of it, time will show. If they wish to keep it to themselves with few people, which is most profitable to them, they can not defend the country, and with many people they suffer loss; and others will not care to populate the country unless they have the free trade.

September 29 — While writing this, I receive your favors of the 22d of March, the 12th and 15th of August 1636, sent by de Seuen Starra, which I shall answer hereafter. The Company complains very much that your honor writes so little, of which I also warned you in my last letter. I do not know the reason why you are so negligent about that; they say that you do not even mention Davidt pieteresz and his ship which sailed thence with de Seue sterre. You surely ought to have done that, and further they say that they have little advice how everything is getting along there. If your honor hesitates to write to the full assembly,<sup>86</sup> at least do not neglect the gentleman who remains fairly favorable to your honor, for he can easily protect your affairs if he understands them, as the whole work devolves largely upon him, and do not be too headstrong in this matter nor depend too much on yourself. Is it not fair that the masters get some satisfaction from their servants? And if there are some who are rude and indiscreet, I do not think that the Company in their letters written to you and to the council have overstepped the bounds of propriety and decency, nor can one charge the whole body with the action of some impertinent members. This by way of information.

I see that your honor would like to succeed to a share in my colony and to have me buy for your account the share of the heirs of Godijn. If I had known this a little earlier, I should no doubt have succeeded, as this share was publicly sold on the 21st of August in the Orphan Chamber here, 1/10 share to Jacob and hendrick trip [and the other 1/10 to me] for the account of a good friend<sup>86a</sup> whom I am not allowed to mention. If this friend should give it up, and he is thinking the matter over and has not yet given me his answer of yes or no, there would still be hope for your honor to obtain the same; however I think that he will keep it, of which we will speak more fully at our meeting, if the Lord saves our lives. I request nevertheless that your honor make every effort to buy as many animals for my colony as you can get and to send some of your surplus thither too and to cause some separate farms to be established. I hope that we shall come to a good agreement, which will be more profitable for you than to stay at the manhatans, and as the time has gone by to advise you of everything at length as I have done to Jacob planck, [I must content myself] with sending you the enclosed documents from No. 1 to No. 13 and with asking you to assist my people as well as the people of this ship as much as is consistent with the service of the Company and your honor's instructions. I should have liked to send a larger ship, provided the Company had helped me a little and sent people and goods by it also, but they declined to do so. I must have patience, the Lord can bless [my work] that meanwhile it may become greater. I see that the animals have in part been sent up the river; I hope that the rest will follow also. I have ordered Jacob planck to take up the suit again and given him instructions because I have suffered force and violence, as you read in the enclosed papers sent to Jacob planck.

Notelman has been a harmful person to me and it becomes a great question now where the Company will get their payment and increase. As to the payment of the purchase money up to f600, I must supply this money, as Gerrit de Reux has made the first payment. The increase I can not furnish for I have not used them, but notelman. According to the inventory<sup>87</sup> of the Company there has been no increase, as Notelman has delivered no more than he received and the contract with the farmers stipulates that they must deliver the increase if they have any. Notelman must also pay the rent for the three years, with which I never was concerned in the least. He has been looking for favors<sup>88</sup> here for 8 or 10 months and been a burden to me and is as far now as he was in the beginning. I think it advisable to keep a farm for me at the Manathans; please look after that and make arrangement for it.

In your preceding letter I find some obscure reasons of which we shall speak further at our meeting, God willing. Dirck Corssen, the supercargo, has orders to erect if necessary a shed at the Manhatans to store our goods in. It can be put on the farm which I shall keep or even the barn may be used. He has orders to pay to your honor the Company's dues of everything in which he deals, in conformity with the 13th and 16th articles of the Freedoms (the 15th article concerns the colony and not this ship and goods, in which we have a half interest too); and I do not in the least desire to have trouble with the Company but wish in everything to regulate myself according to the Freedoms granted. My wife has received the cunning little animal;<sup>89</sup> it is with her in the room and she thanks your honor very much for it. The raven sent by D'een-dracht has died, nevertheless I thank you for the favor. I see with what kind of people you have had to deal from time to time; however, do right and the lie will not stick. This skipper says many bad things. In fine, it is a confused affair which can not be cleared up without your honor's presence. Do not neglect to advise me as to the actions and comportment of Jacob planck, wherewith I shall end, commending your honor to the protection of Almighty God; may He let us come together in love.

derwritten arbiters, which you may therefore cause to be recorded, in order to charge me with no more than I am obliged to give. His defense has been based mainly on the resolution<sup>91</sup> of the Company; the Company may see then too where they get their due. Herewith goes a plain copy of the instrument, time does not allow to have it authenticated but it will appear from the letters and also from the books here. Please to insert this letter also among the papers of Jacob planck, after you have read it and made a copy of it. Vale.

October 3, 1636

Jacob Planck, officer and commis in New Netherland

This day, 3 October 1636

These presents, going by Pieter cornelisen van Munnekendam with the ship called Rensselaers Wyck, which has been equipped by me and my confraters largely for the service of my colony, will serve first to advise you of the receipt of your letters of October 10, 1634, and July 3, 1635, from the colony of Rensselaerswyck, and of August 17 and 27 following from Fort Amsterdam, together with the account of goods sold to that time, of which I expected the continuation by the ship de Sevensterre, by which I received yours of the 24th of July 1636, written from the aforesaid colony. That letter, being very short and containing little information, does not include the said continuation of the preceding account, much less any account of the profit or loss of each farm in particular and of the colony as a whole, of the goods delivered to the Company, or of the number of animals living and the increase in detail, but only in general that there has been a fine increase, which is certainly pleasant; but if I am to keep the administration of the colony here and to send you people and goods, as I am doing herewith very liberally, I must have somewhat fuller and better information. To do this with order you must keep a regular diary of daily happenings and note everything that is remarkable and send me the same. You could renew this every six months and send me a copy thereof at every opportunity. If you do not like to have me forget you, you must on your side not forget to advise me of everything correctly and at length. I find, it is true, a memorandum of animals which I had in October 1634, but no list of the increase which occurred about May 1634, nor of those in the year 1635 and now lately in 1636.

You write, it is true, how many cows and calves you have taken with you lately from the Manathans, but not how many still remain there. You must take better care hereof and not be negligent; neither you nor I will lose thereby and you will notice at what expense and with what zeal I follow this matter up and take it in hand. You have also done quite amiss herein that you have given Rutger hendricksen, Cornelis Maessen and others their final accounts against me which I had to pay too, while on the other hand you send me no information as to the goods which they or you have delivered in my name to the Company, from which I have received nothing either.

Therefore do not do this again but follow therein this order — settle accounts first with the director [to see] how my account there stands and send me a copy thereof; and if such can not be done as it ought, at all events have my men who come over draw on the director and on the West India Company for the money which they send home, for I do not want to have the men draw on me and deliver their goods to the West India Company, from which I can not get a decision, much less money. Be careful about this, otherwise I shall be obliged to make other arrangements. Further, as the director has several times and lately once more seized all my grain and wheat for the use of the men of the Company, to whom I am not bound to deliver except at my pleasure, whereby I not only lose this advantage that I could have sold the same at a much higher price to the English, as the men of Cornelis van voorst do, but also that, inasmuch as according to article 15 of the Freedoms I have the right to trade these which beyond question are products of the soil, I could have sold them for peltries, therefore, to remedy this matter, I shall request you to submit to the director and council (without prejudice to my general right to trade all sorts of merchandise for peltries, now awaiting decision by the high and mighty lords the States General, lawfully referred to them, after previous resolution and submission, by the Assembly of the XIX and the respective patroons, and in no wise decided to the disadvantage of the patroons but still pending with great likelihood of turning out in favor of the patroons, as their High Mightinesses would no doubt be very glad to see those regions populated) that the aforesaid director and council, in consideration of the fact that I have fed their men, allow me to obtain so many peltries by barter for other merchandise as the said grain, animals and other goods that I have delivered to them may amount to; and in case they should refuse this at Fort Orange as well as at the Manathans, you will not let them have any grain or other products of the soil except for payment and prompt satisfaction by so many skins as the goods are worth, with a proper discharge and guaranty that the same will be sent to me without any hindrance or molestation by the Company, for their men have been fed in their need and their ships provided which otherwise could not have come across, so that their ships, men and peltries must have remained there to the extraordinary loss of the Company. Draw up this paper to the director and council as firmly as you can and follow therein as much as possible the words which are written above and send me a copy of it together with the reply given by the council thereto. These things being thus disposed of, I now come to the answering of yours aforesaid, as you will in the future also punctually read, observe and answer mine.

I see that the brandy wasted very much, have therefore sent none herewith, and that half the cheese spoiled; I hope that this will arrive in better condition, as it is colder and later in the year. I see what a great friend of the patroons Fiscal Dinxlaccken proves himself by stirring up his special and secret masters; yet they could not help him enough, however much they would have liked to do so, to enable him to obtain the salary claimed for the entire time that passed, as he received only salary for the length of time that he was in active service. Now he is busy complaining to the States General, as his party stays out [of power] so long, that the Company should pay him,<sup>93</sup> but instead of [paying him] money I imagine that the Company will write something else to the States General about his impertinent proceedings.

Herewith I send you in God's name goods for the account of my colony, amounting to f4100 according to the enclosed bill and invoice, which you will employ to the best advantage; and as I bought them wholesale for cash [and the above amount does not include] any expenses of packing, boat and lighter freight, freight across the ocean, interest, risk, insurance, damage, etc. (not even your commission of one stiver on the guilder, which amounts to one stiver and a half with the 50% added), you must sell such goods as can stand it somewhat higher than 50% profit, but above

60% I do not want to tax my own people, who must earn it by their hard labor. As far as others are concerned I do not have to care, you may take as much as the market price and as you can get. Herewith go also 38 persons whom I have engaged for my colony under binding contracts for fear some of them should fail to conform to the accompanying conditions and contracts as well as [to repay] the money which I have furnished them both as advances and for the passage, which you must all duly enter in conformity with the enclosed list amounting to f927. You must distribute these people to the greatest service of the colony, each one doing that which he is best able to do, charging the accounts of the farmers with whom they are placed with the money to them [the new colonists] in hand paid as well as the passage money, especially the money for board on the voyage, at six stivers a day as long as the voyage shall last, for there is no reason why I should engage the people with difficulty and why they [the farmers] should reap the benefit of it. These two farmers who have been very helpful to me, namely Cornelis Maessen and Symon walichs, you will give a fair choice of the men who are coming, but in such way that they do not select all the best men, for others must have something too. Cornelis thuijnissen van brueckelen or broer Cornelis you will confirm in the possession of his farm on the terms of Gerrit de Reux provided he conducts himself according to the ordinances and laws of the colony and sees to it that I have what is mine and that he takes good care of the animals. Cornelis Maessen and Simon Walichs you will provide with as many animals as can be supplied from the increase of others. And in case they should wish to settle on Paep Zickenes land, which I think has not yet been bought, make every effort to purchase the same or at least to cause the farms to be established there with the consent and will of the owners. And as it may well be that Lubbert gysbertssen rademaecker has a farm also and as the animals are somewhat few in number, especially the cows, you must see to it that they accommodate one another and do not draw the lines too tight. It is true that the first are entitled to their full number, but they must also act so that when their time is up, they may again obtain a new lease.

I see by the dispute which you have with Gerrit de Reux that others will follow. I have represented here to Cornelis maessen and Simon Walichs that I wanted to make no change in the contract with Gerrit de Reux, but although it was only neglect on my part that I did not fix the price of the grain as well as that of the animals, I will nevertheless carry out the contract as it stands with this understanding that, if they should undertake to fix the market of their grain too high for me, I will then insist hard also on the first article, prohibiting them from trading in furs in any manner, which they in no wise are allowed to do even for products of the soil. But if they act decently and deliver me their grain at a reasonable price that I may make something on it, you will in my name permit them also to purchase yearly for the products of each complete farm the number of 10 or 12 merchantable skins as their share, which is already a fair profit, and in God's name enter into an agreement with them respecting the matter and send it to me for my approval. I can not write to every one of my people, but you will read herefrom to each of them my intention as far as it concerns them in particular or in common, and where it does not prejudice me give each a copy of the part that relates to him.

Pieter Cornelissen van Munnickendam with Claes Ianssen van Naerden and albert andriessen van fredrichs stadt have entered into a special agreement with me according to the contract sent herewith,<sup>94</sup> so that they will dwell apart with their men and goods; nevertheless they must conduct themselves as subjects of the colony and submit themselves to the common laws. I have appointed Pieter Cornelissen as councilor and schepen to take his place beside you with order to appoint others according to the instructions taken with him,<sup>95</sup> the original of which is enclosed. The points mentioned therein which concern you, you must observe as if they had been put in your own instructions.

Said pietter Cornelissen with his men will in every way assist you in erecting houses for the farmers and for others for whom I am bound to do so under contract, at the least cost and as soon as it shall be possible for them. Meanwhile, you will have to make provisional arrangements as to where each shall live and where and how they shall be provided with food; also keep a watchful eye that I lose through no one and what they can not gain at first, that they do that later, if it only goes forward and not backward. As far as the freemen are concerned, you will accommodate them as best you can and assist them to earn their bread with honor, and see that each one according to his thrift may prosper a little in order that others may not be discouraged but attracted thereby.

You will also before all things promote piety and take care that means be found to send a minister over, as is stated at greater length in the instructions to Piter Cornelissen; meanwhile cause the people to assemble every Sunday to train them in the commandments, the psalms, the reading of the Holy Scriptures and Christian authors, in modesty, love and decency.

And as the equipment of this ship ran too high for me, I granted Gerrit de foreest a half interest in it (aside from the goods and the people of the colony) in conformity with the enclosed contract; you will therefore also keep a watchful eye on it and with Pieter Cornelissen represent my person to assist them with word and deed as more fully mentioned in the instructions to Piter Cornelissen herewith enclosed. You can infer from all that is said above that the prospect for you personally is fine upon increase of these things, but this you must know that if your profit and honor grow, your care must increase also, for one can not go without the other. Therefore, read and reread all my papers carefully, put your mind and thoughts upon them and do not let it blow lightly past but show me results thereof, not only in deeds but also in letters and reports; I shall then be armed against all evil tongues which might want to slander you for if you give me contentment and satisfaction, you need neither look to nor fear any one else.

As the lease of the farmers at the Manhatans has expired, make every effort to get some animals and the children of Wolfaertse Gerritsen or others in my colony, as the manathans is for the most part exhausted and my land still fresh, and while that land rests a little they can earn profit on my land and then again go to the manathans with the increase after [the farms there] have lain fallow for some years.

I send herewith two large millstones to erect, either near the saw-mill or somewhere else, a grist-mill to grind the grain not only for my own people and the people of Fort Orange, but all the grain that I have, in order to sell it ground instead of unground to the Company for furs, or to the English for money or other goods. In this way a miller can be kept there in course of time and the savages will be glad to give seawan or other things for the grinding of their corn or at least a good part of their corn.

The mother of Zeeger Janssen van der Nieckarck, who was drowned, asked the account of her son, whether anything was due to him or not. Let me know how that matter stands.

As to henrick Kerstenssen, he must first fulfil his contract, as otherwise it establishes a bad precedent and I do not want the contracts made here undone; but those who have not received wages enough and who behave well, I shall at the end of their time give a good present and improve in their condition, but that must be left to my choice or at least be done with my pleasure and knowledge. If Kersten behaves well you may give him each year a suit of clothes with a pair of stockings and shoes.

Dirck Cornelissen duuster, coming from farnambuco, was drowned near the English coast, so that he will not make the voyage again. It is not at all my intention that the farmers shall give the servants higher wages without my knowledge and consent. They may do that for themselves but not for me except with my will, knowledge and consent; you will read this to them together. Give my greetings to the commis, martten Gerritsen, and show him on my part as much friendship as if I were present. Also to Jeronimus la Croix, whose father sends him a small cask with goods and whose letters Piter Cornelissen has. Tell Gerrit de Reux that he must give me better satisfaction, for that it does not agree to write of 100 muddes and to deliver but 25. If you have any suspicion, let each farmer deliver you for my half the tenth sheaf on the field unthrashed and bring it where you want it and where you can have it thrashed yourself in order to be able thereafter to make the account present a somewhat better appearance. You write that the farmers treat you disrespectfully. If this happens again, send me proper attestations thereof and I will settle that all right, but you must not wrong them either or make improper demands, though you will execute strictly all that concerns my jurisdiction and that their contract implies, especially if they should want to give me less than my share, and then in addition have the power to promise the servants an increase in order to make them keep silence; that will not do. I hope that they will behave better.

The 63 whole and 18 half beavers I received of the Company under bond. I wish that you had sent by this ship the 150 which you have there; the sum total when all is put together would then be so much larger and the Company not even consider whether [the former shipment took place] long ago or not. I do not want you to send me any peltries except with the knowledge of and after entering them with the director, and if there is any opportunity of sending by ships, even by my own ship, you will enter what you send in them and pay to the director the duty of the Company, to wit: one guilder per merchantable skin traded in New Netherland and five per cent for those from the coast of Virginia, New England or elsewhere, taking each time a receipt therefor from the director and sending it to me by the skipper with the invoice of the peltries. You have done very well in not sending them by Davidt pietersz, but you would have done better by sending them in de seuen starra with the knowledge as above. I have received your samples; the crystal is the best. Now that so many people come there, take at once a trip into the country to find out whether there are any minerals, especially, as I hear, that there is a rock of crystal<sup>96</sup> above de laets Kiel where the mill stands. Inquire about this some time and write me whether there is a great quantity of it and send me of the purest, instead of a piece as large as a hazelnut, a couple of barrels as a sample. It is said to extend as far as two or three leagues upwards. Do not omit either to send me by my ship some muddes of grain, that we may have the taste and the view thereof here. I see that occasionally you have to spend a long time at the Manathans; I hope that this will improve. If Dirck corsssen stays there, you could turn some duties over to him and I have no doubt but he will be glad to do his best. If you do yours also everything will go well, and see that I get something too for my great trouble and expense, which has lasted already so long. The indemnity from the Maquaas ought also some day to be collected without getting thereby into contention or war. It must be done in the name of the director below in order that the Maquaas may have less feeling against the people of Fort Orange and also against my people. If this ship (God willing) makes a good voyage, I hope from time to time diligently to continue [sending others] and to await the blessing of the Lord, toward which your zeal and fidelity can help much also.

Notelman has defrauded me much with regard to the animals but I must have patience. He will have to pay the Company its dues for the three years that he has had them, both as to the lease and to the increase, and I for the remaining two years, as Gerrit de Reux has paid the first year. And as I must shorten this, I commend you to the gracious protection of Almighty God that He may preserve you in health for a long time and give what is to His honor and to the salvation of our souls. Amen.

Laus deo, this day, 4 October 1636, in AmsterdamVery obliging friend, Wolffert Gerritsz:

In answer to yours of the 18th of August 1635, I will say that I had hoped that you would have come over yourself to dispose of your money in my care, of which I have paid 65 guilders to Wouter van Kermpt, according to the enclosed notarial receipt. I had hoped that some of your children would have gone with their animals up to my colony, but understand that they have been prevented from so doing so by the director and council. However, as the six years of the lease are now up, each one may do with his animals as he pleases if he pay the agreed increase to the Company. Therefore, if you like to sell some of your animals to me or to send some of your children with your animals up the river, we will deal with each other in all fairness. The Manhatans are mostly exhausted and my land is still luxurious and fresh. Some young animals could be left at the manathans and the land rest a little and by the time the animals are grown up the land would have recovered itself somewhat and have rested. But your honor must do as you think best and as is most profitable to you; wherewith ending, I commend you with your wife and children to God's gracious protection and remain with hearty greetings.

Cornelis van voorst may perhaps have some animals to spare which he can sell, or some one of his men may see to that. To establish farms, there must be animals. [Try] also [to make arrangements with] Wolphert Gerritsz or his children. Make every effort to obtain animals, I shall send people.

October 6, 1636

To Mr Johan de laedtt, at Leyden

In Amsterdam, this 6th of October 1636

Yesterday, on Sunday, I received your favor of the 4th instant, in reply to which I shall briefly say that our ship, God be praised, has already arrived at the Texel. Yesterday, the supercargo went thither with the papers and they are now waiting only for a good wind, which may God grant us.

There is good company at the Texel lying ready also, notwithstanding which we, the participants of the colony, have insured as follows, for which the policies are being made out: f4000 on the goods of the colony going only, of which your honor's portion is f800; the remaining f200<sup>1</sup> your honor must risk, and on our half of the ship and goods in proportion, the policies for which have been handed to Samuel hoffman in the presence of confrater Blommaert, so that we shall not run so very much risk. I think that the insurance will be 6% in going and 6% for the return voyage.

The ship de Seuen starre has come at the right time, and by the good tidings which it brought of the condition of our colony has made the people going thither so happy that they go now with redoubled courage. The news which I have is little but good. The director (although he was again accused of having delayed the ship, which is slander) hastened the sailing of this ship so much that the people could not get ready and I could scarcely obtain even a short letter from Jacob planck.

The contents are:

1 That consent has finally been given to send the animals, which have caused so much dispute, to the colony and that five milch cows and five calves had already been sent, which means a good deal to us. Thereupon I agreed with Notelman, Saturday, by decision of the arbiters, that we shall pay him f150 and the Company f600, provided we receive the full number of horses, cows and other animals.

2 That the wheelwright, whom they needed so much, had come to the colony from the Manhatans.

3 That three farms were complete and their barns full of grain, each having about 30 morgens seeded, mostly with wheat.

4 That there were enough animals to stock two more farms as soon as our people arrive there.

5 That they had had a fine increase of animals and needed nothing but people, who will now arrive to the number of 38, among whom are six women and several children, while some still expect to give birth on the way.

6 That Jacob planck had 150 skins in stock which he intended to send by the first ship of the Company, half of which, I take it, belong to him, it being but a false rumor that he had sent a quantity of skins as contraband by Davidt pietersz.

7 That all our grain of the year 1635 had been delivered to the Company, but I have received no account of it. In short, we must thank the Lord and can wish nothing better.

The Company obtained about 8000 skins, which is good for them also; however, there was little merchandise left. In advising your honor now as to selling a part of your honor's  $\frac{1}{5}$  share, I can say only what I have shown by my own example, namely that the share of Godijn was sold in two parts:  $\frac{1}{10}$  part to Jacob and hendrick Trip, who are married to the daughters, for f1000 cash in bank specie; the other  $\frac{1}{10}$  part I bought also for f1000 cash and offered to leave to Mr Coenracts if he wants it, otherwise I intend to keep it myself, although aside from that I own  $\frac{2}{5}$  shares therein. He has not given me any answer as yet. I promised to let him read all the letters and instructions in order that he may be at ease and do the same with a good conscience. And in order that your honor may be at ease too, I send enclosed the instructions given to the crew of the ship. Please to look this over and annotate it if your honor has any objections and then with additions show it to Gerrit de forceest so that he may sign it and send it back to me at the first opportunity without fail. Blommaert has already transferred to his brother in law adam bessels  $\frac{1}{10}$  part out of his  $\frac{1}{5}$ ; what your honor must now do or not do is for yourself to decide; if the person [to whom you think of selling] could be of service to us, I should be the better pleased. Before I could resolve to reduce my share, I should have to feel that it was necessary in order to have more backing, though we have enough pasture land to divide the one fifth shares into fiftieth shares as I think that by conveyance we have no less than 150 thousand morgens of land. However, I fear that if we expand too much we may become the counterpart of Swanendael, as the large number often causes confusion and, one pulling this way and another that way, hinder one another and are in one another's way, so that I should conclude the fewer in number the better; but your honor must do as he pleases. When we got so many participants in Swanendal, then came our confusion. I hope that after this we shall not have to provide any more capital and that we shall every year receive good returns, which would begin already if we only had the accounts of deliveries to the Company. I keep your honor too long discoursing; when you come here you will be able to see [it all] more fully from the writings and papers which contain everything, especially the letter to Jacob planck; the list of the papers is herewith enclosed.

Enclosed is the account of the cost of the entire equipment amounting for your honor's portion to f1550, and of the colony f1000. Hereto must be added the insurance premium, so that it will be about f100 higher; on this your honor can count. Toward this your honor's draft furnishes f1200, as you still owed me f300 of old, so that there remain f1450 for your honor to pay. I request that you kindly send me this amount at the first opportunity, as I have already advanced a good deal hereon and the people are still daily making frequent demands for money; but most important of all, as Gerrit de forceest has still more than f4000 to pay which they all try to collect from me, your honor will please let him know that he must make arrangements that I receive the said money this week, at least some of it and the rest next week. My own share is large and if in addition I have to provide so many thousands for him, I should be much embarrassed. He promised me to come back here at once or to send money, also to sign the instructions; please have this matter urged on him and that he write me an answer to the enclosed. Your honor can have this general account copied for him; he has the detailed account of f7840:4:6 of the cargo, and he can have that copied for you in return. I ask you kindly to urge the matter strongly on him and in sending back the enclosed instructions to let me have your honor's answer and opinion; in this way I shall also be animated to take to heart with greater zeal and earnestness our common interest, which now for three months has given me no small trouble. I should not like to get into difficulty on account of other people's money. Trusting this matter to you, very dear and beloved Sir and friend, I shall end, commending your honor to the gracious protection of God; may He grant the same to your honor and to us all, etc. Mr blommaert and Trip have paid their portions already.

Laus deo, this day, the 6th of October 1636, in Amsterdam
Monsieur de foreest:

Yesterday forenoon our people left here for the ship, taking with them all necessary papers. The instructions, however, which have been signed by me only and must be signed by your people, I have sent to Mr de Lactt to have him look them over to see whether he has anything to add; you can do the same and then send them back to me signed.

I am also very anxiously waiting for the rest of the money which you still have to provide and which amounts as follows:

The ship with the equipment amounts to	f5706	3	0
The cargo, of which you have the account	f7840	4	6
The food stores amount to	f1930	8	0
	f15476	15	6
Your half comes to	f7738	8

The assignment and payment made by you

The duffels sent last	f 221	1
Total	f3400	15
	Remains due	f4337	13

In the above f15476:15:6 are included all the provisions which we have loaded in the ship, toward which there is coming to the participants from the passengers 6 stivers a day for three months<sup>3</sup>

according to agreement, which will alone amount to more than a thousand guilders. We could not well settle it otherwise without getting into a great quarrel. It amounts to a little less than 5 stivers, but they have agreed to pay us 6 stivers on the arrival of the ship when we receive advice as to how long the passengers have enjoyed board.

Mr de Laet has the detailed account of the ship and the provisions of which he will no doubt have a copy made for you so that each one may have the whole in full.

I am surprised that I do not hear from you about the above f4337:13 which must still be paid, as the people come bothering me daily so that I am ashamed and can not put them off any longer. You must settle this at once and do not neglect to send me word by the first boat how the matter stands, as you promised me to make arrangements for paying me at the first opportunity, and herewith I commend you to God Almighty.

You know what trouble I have had; I ought not in addition to suffer the trouble of having the people coming to dun me so.

This day, the 8th of October 1636

Day before yesterday I wrote to you under cover to Mr de Laett, complaining that I received from you neither news nor money and that the people came importuning me daily. This will happen now still oftener as I hope that our ship sailed today in good company; it was most desirable that it should make such speedy progress; may Almighty God watch over it. However, now the ship is at sea, one can not delay the people any longer. There is also more risk involved for you than you think, inasmuch as of your half share nothing has been insured; and if contrary to our hope an accident should occur, your partners might dispute and question the affair, since I have not been able to discover that you have anything but their mere consent and even that disputable. If one will share only in the cargo and another only in the ship, you must without delay advise me how the matter stands in order that no confusion may arise therefrom; and if there is the least hitch, give me orders to take an insurance of four or five thousand guilders on your half; and aside from that, if [your payment for your share] does not come promptly, I shall be obliged to borrow the money upon bottomry but that would be a double loss. Do not neglect to advise me at once; the matter is risky and demands haste as the danger is largely within the first two to four days; after that the danger is not so great. It should not happen that you send not a word of advice for so long a time, so that I have not only the trouble and my own large interest, but must in addition be importuned on account of your partners. Do not sleep on this but please satisfy me and answer at once.

Your honor's letter with the bill of exchange for 480 Carolus guilders on van der pon I have received and turned over in payment. I doubt not but you have already received the receipt but of the rest which you wrote me would follow on Saturday I have heard nothing. On the strength of it, I have named this afternoon as pay day, so that I shall be embarrassed; I have taken 1000 guilders of my money out of the bank and shall see how far that will go. Meanwhile, do not neglect to urge your partners not to get me into difficulty. I shall name next Saturday as another pay day, when they ought to furnish me with the money. According to your advice, I have taken 700 pounds Flemish insurance for the voyage at 6%. If they wish to insure the return voyage also they have still time enough to think it over. These 252 guilders insurance premium, they must send me also. Let those who have the money do so, as the premium must be paid cash or the insurance agents begin to trouble. I hope that our ship has already passed the Channel and that God Almighty will grant us a happy voyage.

Your honor's favor of the 21st instant with the drafts and currency, amounting together to the sum of 1450 guilders, I have received and entered on your account. We shall settle all accounts at the first opportunity when Geraerd de forceest shall have sent his balance, which still amounts to about f400, as all the debts up to that amount have been paid. He writes me that he will furnish the money promptly, and I doubt not but that he will do as he says; nevertheless, I write him today a short note of reminder which your honor can second by word of mouth when you see him. It is today three weeks since our small ship sailed. If it has kept the wind which we have had here thus far, I hope that with God's help it is already more than half way. For your honor's account insurance has been taken as follows:

en cve; De heer van Coln and D<sup>o</sup> Resslerius were obliged to remain and even yesterday had not gone out, so that I do not know whether they are out or not, I think they are in; it is awkward that the wind has changed.

Day before yesterday we came together once more to discuss the increase of capital and in the name of the participants made three propositions to give them satisfaction.

1 Concerning those who have increased their investment and who will still further increase it.

2 Concerning those who may not increase it.

3 Concerning all the participants whether they have increased the same or not.

On the first head, that all those who increase shall draw yearly 8% dividend on the increase, being 2% on the whole, and that each participant to whom the said 2% shall not be paid, may for his security levy on the goods of the Company, as those may do who have advanced money on interest to the Company.

On the second head, that circulars be sent to all the participants to induce them to make the said increase with such reasons and motives as the situation of affairs of the state and of the Company may permit; thereafter that those who fail to respond be called upon by further and public notice and finally be specially summoned to do so on pain, in case of refusal, of being prosecuted for contumacy and of having others admitted in their place.

However, as the terms for the subscribers are so very favorable it is taken for granted that no one will fail to take advantage of them.

On the third head, that a certain amount of capital shall be reserved for the trade to Guinea and the coast of Africa, to Pernambuco and Brazil, to the West Indies and New Netherland, to trade therewith for the profit of the participants, which profits should be distributed yearly as far as they go and thereto added the duties recently imposed by the Assembly of the XIX on the private traders.

This capital has been fixed at 100,000 guilders. For each ninth part<sup>10</sup> merchandise to be bought here for cash, without including therein the ships or expenses of equipment, which are to be defrayed out of the capital which the Company will derive from the returns, in such a way that purchases shall be made from the first of January on and continue to be made, applying the returns as above, to the amount of the aforesaid sum.

<sup>10</sup> The capital stock of the Company was divided into nine parts, of which the Chamber of Amsterdam managed four parts, that of Zeeland two parts, and those of the Mase, the Noorder-Quartier and Stad en Landen, each one part.

The agents<sup>11</sup> in charge of these goods shall be bound to make oath and render accounts to the auditors of the directors and chief participants in order to divide the profits thereon yearly as aforesaid, after deduction of the expenses of equipment, and if any goods are lost the same to be made good out of the prizes taken by the Company (others think that they should be deducted from the profits); and in this way, with God's blessing, a sure dividend might be declared each year, so that the shares of the West India Company would be worth little less than those of the East India Company.

These articles to be drawn up with the formality thereto required, to wit: with the knowledge of the respective chambers, the chief participants and the Assembly of the XIX and the approval of their High Mightinesses.

This is as far as my memory serves me for I kept no copy thereof, but Mr Coenraets made a note of it. Whether the proposal will be agreeable to the directors, we shall hear in the course of time. I believe that Monday a report thereon was made in the Chamber of Amsterdam.

I have received the remittance of f1542:17:8<sup>13</sup> and anxiously await the rest as everything but that is paid. In addition you must not fail to remit me separately 252 guilders for the 700 pounds Flemish which have been insured at 6%, in order that I can pay the underwriters cash, as otherwise they are apt to make trouble; of this I can not omit advising you.

<sup>13</sup> The third figure of this amount in the Letter Book is illegible; according to p. 344 it is a 4, but adding the sums there given and subtracting them from f7738:7:7, the remainder is f1089:18:3, instead of f1109:18:5, so that the third figure ought perhaps to be a 2. As eight duiten make one stiver, the final figure 8 would seem to be wrong also. To make the subtraction on p. 344 right it should be a 6.

Also as to the rest of the account which is still large and makes me feel very much ashamed; I have great fear that there will be difficulty, as you wrote that it would follow the week after your letter and it has not come yet. Please exert further diligence and advise me how the matter stands, for I can not put the people off any longer and I should resent it if I were obliged to borrow the money.

Touching the West India Company, they thought first of sending thither again de Seuen starre which came thence, but then discovered that it was too small and resolved to send den harinck thither via Curaçao; however, this will probably not be before spring. I think that they will not debate the throwing open of the country till then; it would be well if this subject were kept alive so that in the next meeting of the XIX, which is to be held in 14 days, a resolution might be passed thereon and if the chief participants of Leyden should commission Mr de laet to propose that something be done about it.

P. S. If no money comes about the beginning of next week, I must seek other remedy for I can not delay the work any longer. Vale.

I have just received yours of the 4th instant and am surprised that the wife of hendrick de forest<sup>19</sup> has not communicated to you the letters which she received from her husband, as she left here Tuesday before the day of prayer. I have received but one letter, signed by all three<sup>19a</sup> of them, which contains less information than her letters will probably have. It is all right that one should write in the name of all three but in addition each should write separately a short letter to me and also to you, which they have not done, and as I have not time to copy the letter I send you the original enclosed; please read it, communicate it to Mr de Laat and others, copy it and then send it back to me at once. It is a great favor of the Lord our God that he has preserved our people, our ship and goods so graciously in such perils and such long continued storm, for which He must be lauded and praised forever. They complain about the food, but have not much cause for it as the passengers were victualled for three months and eight of my men were left on land so that the provisions could last that much longer. The 12 men of the crew are victualled for 12 months, which is equal to 48 men for three months, so that one with the other they have provisions for six months on board, as in New Netherland they can supply what is wanting for the crew. They write also for money to buy food, which I would send if it would not take too long before they get it; moreover I have no correspondent in England. I hope that with this wind they will again continue their voyage in God's name and that the Lord may give a good result, that they do a good business. The insurance money must not be delayed or the underwriters will make trouble in case of loss. Worthy, well and dearly beloved wife Trin ijans:

I let you know that all of us and all my people are still hale and hearty, for which the Almighty God be praised and thanked; I hope that it may be the same with you, my dear and much beloved wife, and also with our children and all our good friends; were it otherwise, it would grieve my heart to hear it. I let you know further that we intend to put to sea tomorrow, the 10th, if it pleases Almighty God, for we have only now, that is today, obtained an east wind and have therefore been obliged to remain here long and at great expense for the ship and the people, for which we are sorry. We have lain here over seven weeks, but God Almighty grant us a safe voyage; I hope that we shall make good the loss. My dear wife, you must know that this is the third letter which I have written and I have longed much for your reply to my first letter, which I have not received for unknown reasons. I beg you further, my dearest, that you will take good care of my dear children and keep and direct them in all good ways and so that they may obey you in every respect; and if you write, have my son gerrit jansen write to me too that I may see his writing; tell him that I wish it. God grant that they may grow up in His favor and obtain the salvation of their souls and do you, my dear wife, submit yourself to God and serve Him in his Church and instruct your children therein, if you please, upon which I set my heart; and beware of and avoid what may harm your soul and keep yourself from evil if it is possible as I trust in you, my dear, and that you will be an example to your children for good. No more of this for the present however; may the Almighty God graciously keep you and all of us and grant us a safe voyage. Greet all my

Gerard de foreest, at Leyden

This 2d of April 1637, in Amsterdam

Although I hope that by this time our people, ship and goods have already arrived in New Netherland, I have no word from any of the head people as to the precise day when they expected to put out to sea, only one letter from a young relative of mine<sup>29</sup> stating that they would put to sea at the first opportunity, in company with two well mounted English vessels. What the cause of this failure is, I can not tell but must patiently await their return, with God's blessing, to the fatherland.

As there is still more than 1100 guilders due to me on your account, this will serve also to urge you to let me have the said money at the first opportunity. According to your wish, I have suspended payments for some time; also I have heard nothing of the f800 of Jehan du foreest, and as I am very much in need of money on account of a large quantity of pearls which I have bought and on which I can get a rebate as I am allowed to discount my own note at eight per cent, you will please make arrangements and, in order that I may know how to regulate myself, will advise me at once what I can count on. Further, as I have taken considerable insurance on my half of the returns and as our people, on account of the great demand which there must be in that country from lack of other ships, may come hither again immediately and run great danger from the Dunkirkers since they come alone, I should advise you, as I hope that business will be good and well able to bear the insurance, to insure for a few hundred pounds Flemish, upon which also I shall await your answer.

Joost Van Sandwech, at Leyden

In Amsterdam, this 27th of June 1637

I hope that Sr gerrit de foreest has come home from Delff and agreed and made further arrangements with you as to the payment of the balance and of the new insurance, as I have contracted with him and everything is done in his name and I might get into trouble with him if I undertook anything without his orders. You will therefore please have him give me orders himself or substitute you by notarial instrument to correspond with me in his stead and promise to hold good and binding whatever you shall resolve upon with me, both with regard to his own participation and that of his partners, as to whom I never received proper information to what extent and for how much each one participates under him, since many changes were made therein.

I shall therefore await further orders and for the present take no other insurance on his half than the 1000 guilders, of which I spoke to you, which I have not been able to do yet on account of the bad tidings which come daily from the sea, yes, I have not even completed the insurance which I meant to take on my half and for the colony. I ask kindly that Sr gerret de foreest take care that I get the balance of my money before good or bad tidings of the small boat arrive, otherwise we shall get into great dispute about it. It is not a question of promising the interest nor of the trouble which I have had therewith, but of the participation and the participants themselves. Therefore, I ask you once more in all friendship to let me know the names of the participants and above all that I may receive the money before good or bad tidings come. It is inconvenient for me to be in this uncertainty as to why this money fails to come wherein I unwittingly may run some

Some time ago I wrote you for the money which is still due to me stating that I was in great need of having it by the last of July, now past, to make payments to the West India Company, and a few days later Cortakelis<sup>33</sup> came here to whom also I mentioned it; but to my surprise I have received neither money nor answer. Please therefore not to fail to send me this amount, for I am ashamed to have kept the aforesaid Company waiting so long and besides I must pay eight per cent interest thereon. I hope that our ship will arrive very soon, as it has been reported to me that about four months ago she was spoken at Capo Charles in Virginia and in passing had called out that they hoped to follow soon and had sold most of their goods and sold them well, but that they must first call on the English at the north and also stop in New Netherland, in order, as I presume, to collect the balance.<sup>34</sup> The wife of Hendrick du foreest, who went from here to Leyden, will no doubt have communicated this to you. Let there be no failure about sending or remitting the money.

In Amsterdam, this 14th of September 1637

I receive this moment your letter and see that you have protested to Jehan du foreest and Touchain de herijon, who replied that they had made their payments, which thus far has not been done. I am astonished at their impertinence in keeping me waiting almost a year with idle consolations. It is true that last week a young man was here saying that he had the money and then that he would let me have it in a day or two, which days are now long past. I do not know what their intention is; there is a suspicion of bad faith in wanting to be participants without furnishing any money and to regulate themselves according to the results of the business. Therefore, as the ship is about to arrive, to avoid all question, please let me have the balance of the portion of Gerrit du foreest according to your letter, in order that the others coming in between may not put me again on slippery ice. I must therefore live between hope and fear and can with justice say: Nescio quo me vertam. Do not neglect to answer me by way of haerlem or at the first opportunity and to send me the money in order that I may for once, now it comes to a pinch, be at ease. Trusting to your promptness I commend you.

Tomorrow by the first boat, I expect the effect of your letter; it must not be delayed any longer.

Notwithstanding I have received no letter from you, as my small vessel which I expect every hour has not yet arrived, I can not refrain from telling you, on the report which I have from Jacob wolfersen, who met your son in law<sup>37</sup> at the Manhatans and told me that upon your arrival at the Manhatans you had immediately bought a small yacht or a sloop and at once sailed up the river therewith, that you have done very well herein and that I must praise your diligence in this matter in which you will please continue. Further, I understand also that you had goods enough at the creek or at the falls where the mill was to stand and that you had made every effort to get the mill ready for operation (from which the profits must come).

I have no doubt that no matter how much lumber you saw, it will be sold readily to my people, at the Manhatans, and also to the English, both to the south and to the north, who will no doubt come to fetch it at your place. And you must pay especial attention to this now that your partner Claes Jansen van Naerden, who goes by this ship, is to be with you, that together and with God's help you find means to build for the chiefs and others of the savages houses and huts which they can shut with doors and windows, to which end you must keep on good terms with the smith, that he may furnish nails, hinges, bolts and other necessities on condition of receiving a suitable profit therefrom. The accident to my smith<sup>38</sup> and his helper is very inconvenient for me; however, I hear that another has come from the Manhatans.

I am negotiating here with two good smiths, but the time is now somewhat short as the ships have already left for the Texei and I fear that I shall not succeed this time. I recommend to you above all to observe the fear of God, to live in peace with one another, to promote the profit and service of your master and of yourself; about the blessings of the Lord there will then be no doubt. I long very much for your letter; omit not to write me full particulars on all occasions and greet Albert andriesen and the others of our people of the mill company from me, recommending to them also the fear of the Lord and diligence, wherewith, etc.

the recommendation of the widow of Roclof Jansen,<sup>40</sup> written to me hastily and with few words, and your oral greetings by Jacob Wolphertsen, and am glad to know that you are well. I released the said widow from her debt long ago. My reason for so doing, I will tell you orally when we meet (God willing) in good health. I am expecting your return by one of these two ships which the Company is sending thither with a new director. I do not know what to advise you, whether to cross by the first which returns at once, or by the second, which it appears will stay longer. If the first to come is defendable and large enough, I would advise you to come by that; the sooner the better, so that you may clear yourself at last from the unbearable slanders with which the fiscal<sup>41</sup> and his wife have besmirched and defamed your person through the whole land, before great and small, religious and secular people. The wife, who was here not long ago, or perhaps is still here, continues to do so, trying especially to involve the minister also, who is slandered so before the consistory that it is most important for him to come over; and let him not be persuaded to stay there before he has vindicated and justified himself. Yes; no one was overlooked, either great or small, especially of those who belonged to the council or had had anything to do with the administration, so it seems that the country there is full of rascally and godless people and it is highly needful that every one who has any regard for his honor should come and defend himself in order to thrust such a load of blame from his shoulders.

And as to your honor, many are so misled and deceived that they think that your honor will not dare return but will stay in that country, although I, wherever I go, maintain the contrary.

It seems that the Company intends to take up the affairs of New Netherland now with all diligence, since by the increase of the Company's capital by  $\frac{1}{3}$  they have now obtained money which they really lacked before. As I am informed, they have planned some freedoms but are delaying to issue them until they have received news of the condition and opportunities of the country, which, as I guess, will happen on the advice of this now departing director<sup>41a</sup> and, as I also guess, on the advice of the returning director and other councilors, so that you had better be on good terms with this director who now goes thither, in order to make a success of New Netherland, for if one thinks one way and another thinks the other way, disorder will be the result. I advise your honor to receive and to install this director in office with ail courtesy, keeping on good terms as far as it is in any way possible. And as I met him here several times, I have likewise very urgently recommended him to keep up friendly relations, which he on his part has promised me that he will not fail to do. I have also strongly commended my people and colony to his care, which he has likewise promised to give, so far as his oath and commission will allow (and herein I agree with him). I hope also that matters will improve in the future, since very discreet commissioners for the affairs of New Netherland have come into office by these last changes. But since they transact their business in secret, I write this only on supposition.

As to your animals, if you want to keep them, it is well. If not, let me have the preference over others. And if you have no particular use for them, you could transport them to my colony until your honor has made other plans. I believe they will be as safe and well taken care of there as at any other place until further notice.

And since I do not know in what way I could at this time lengthen this letter, I commend you, etc.

Herein enclosed is also a letter from your father, also one to Cornelis van Tienhoven, to be handed to him.

Be pleased to order Jacob Planck not to fail to keep me fully informed of everything and to send over accounts and memoranda of everything. I am informed that your honor has taken some blacksmith's coal from my ship for the use of the Company. Please give back the same in kind, as the Company is now sending over other coal and I could not get any for love or money. I spoke to the director here about it and he promised me that he would attend to it. And further I commend to you in general the welfare of my people and colony so long as you remain there.

I would have sent more people but at first the Company would not give me any certainty; when they had chartered the other ship they were willing to transport them but it was then too late.

I send herewith no goods to you, not knowing what I should send, as I have no advice at all though I expect it every hour; but it will come too late for this time. I recommend to you to help administer everything to my best interest and to send me all the information you can gather, especially as to what has been sold, what remains still unsold and what it is most necessary to send. I have become well acquainted with the new director<sup>43</sup> who goes over now; he will doubtless help you wherever he can promote your interest consistent with his oath and commission. Keep on good terms with him and offer him out of the common goods a few pretty things or necessities; he can repay us for them in such services as he may be able to render without detriment to the Company. You will assist the farmers in every way provided they on their side do not fail to deliver the just half of the grain which I am entitled to. Herewith go also two smiths who are able workers and also locksmiths.<sup>43a</sup> You must see that they find room somewhere. As long as they have a shop they can easily make shift as to the rest. When they have nothing else to do they could make a quantity of nails, in stock, to sell at the Manhatans or to the English; also, if Pr. Cornelissen could build for the savages small houses and huts with closed doors and windows, let them then make the necessary nails, hinges, hooks, bolts and other hardware, wherewith, etc.

In the year of Our Lord 1636, the 25th of September, the boat called Rinselaers Wijck sailed in God's name from amsterdam to tessel,<sup>46</sup> at about two o'clock in the afternoon. God preserve Rinselaers Wick!

Th. 25 Sailed from Amsterdam and anchored before duickerdam<sup>48</sup> with a south wind and heavy weather.

Sun. 28 Afternoon again set sail with a southwest wind and sailed to opposite pampus<sup>49</sup> and anchored there.

Tu. 30 Again set sail with a south wind and came near the south buoy of the vlacck<sup>50</sup> and anchored there.

October

Wed. 1 The boat arrived at tessel and anchored in nine fathoms near the east end; the wind S.W.

Wed. 8 The wind easterly followed by calm. Here lay some French traders, one Straits trader<sup>51</sup> and two facrnebocks<sup>51a</sup> traders, poor fleets, and the Straits trader intended to go to Ireland; we arranged to sail together as far as pleijmuijen<sup>52</sup> and so put to sea in God's name, about four o'clock in the afternoon, about 22 vessels strong, without convoy.

In the morning the wind was still S.E.; the course as before S.W. with a stiff breeze. At noon we saw the Flemish coast and at the same time we saw two sails, one off the Flemish coast sailing northward, the other off the English coast sailing southward, but they did not approach us and remained unknown. In the evening toward sunset duinkercken<sup>53</sup> lay about five leagues<sup>54</sup> S.E. from us and a W.S.W. course was followed. The wind was then about east; it became calmer in the evening though we kept a steady breeze. As far as we could see there lay some 12 to 15 ships in the scheertie.<sup>55</sup> That day we distributed rations, one to each man. During the night there was a strong wind from the east. Done once more.

In the morning the wind as before with a steady breeze. beeuesier<sup>56</sup> lay then N. N. W. four leagues away from us. Sat. 11

In the morning the wind as before with rough weather. We saw the island of oeranaij;<sup>57</sup> it lay S. by E. about six leagues from us. There the Ireland trader left the fleet. She had 20 guns and as she was going toward the sorlings<sup>58</sup> and had promised us if convenient to convoy us around the sorlings or past them, we followed her and proceeded westward, as that was the most convenient course for continuing our voyage. We left the fleet and about noon we saw a sail come from the coast and as we were but two we prepared as well as we could for action. When we were ready we waited for her with furled sails and when she was nearly within

She waited for it but when it came near she let it pass. What kind of ships they were we do not know. goutstaert<sup>59</sup> lay about west from us and we continued our course. Done.

Sun. 12 In the morning we did not see land; the wind as before and at noon the Ireland trader left us and sailed N. W. and we W. by S., our latitude was then 49-43 min. We estimated that we were then 18 leagues E. N. E.  $1/3$  E. from leesert.<sup>60</sup> Done.

Done.
- Mon. 20 S. W. by W. 45 42-56 Fitful rough weather and toward evening we had sailed eight leagues W.
S. W. with very rough weather from the N. N. W.;
during the evening it became quite calm, which lasted till daylight; then the wind changed to the south. Done.
- Tu. 21 In the morning the wind changed to the W. and it blew so hard that the topsails had to be taken in.
The wind veered to the N. W. We had then sailed about three leagues to the N. W. and about nine o'clock it blew so hard that we had to take in all our sails and could not carry a single sail. An hour later there blew a violent gale from the N. W. and we then drifted east with a very rough sea. The waves rose to such an awful hight that the waves and the sky seemed one. The wind turned again to the W. and so it lasted the entire night. Done as far as the night is concerned.
- Wed. 22 In the morning it still blew so hard that we could not carry any sails, but the sea was calmer. The wind came from the S. W. and during the night in the second watch it grew less; we set our mainsail but toward dawn it had to be taken in again on account of the strong wind, thunder and lightning.
It blew hard, the wind as above, we drifted east.
Done till morning.
- Th. 23 The wind about W. and we drifted east with rough weather. We drifted from about nine o'clock on the 21st to noon of the 23d, by reckoning 23 leagues N. E. by E. No latitude had been taken for the past three days up to noon.
- Fr. 24 Drifted east by north 10 leagues. The wind about W. N. W. with severe storm and during the past day drifted without sail.
- Sat. 25 Drifted E. N. E. 12 leagues, with very rough weather; our mizzen blew away. The wind about west during the past day.
- Sun. 26 Drifted east by south 15 leagues. The wind about west with rough weather and in the evening we bent on our new mizzen. The day gone.

- Mon. 27      Drifted E. by S. eight leagues; the wind from the N.W. with a stiff mainsail breeze till morning. We then ran south with our two courses but could not sail closer than S.E. by S. The wind veered toward the W. and we sailed till evening with the courses, keeping our course S.S.E. seven leagues. The wind then rose again from the S.W. so that both the courses had to be taken in. It blew a terrible gale and we drifted then S.E. by E. The day gone.
- Tu. 28      A gale still blew from the west and we still drifted S.E. by E. Drifted by reckoning 12 leagues. That night the beak of our ship was knocked to pieces. The day gone.
- Wed. 29      The wind as before but the weather fully as good. We set our mainsail but it was not long before it had to be taken in again. The wind veered to the S.W. by W. with rough weather so that we were obliged to let ourselves drift. This day we made the first good observation of latitude since the 20th and found that we were at 41 degrees, 51 minutes. The day gone.
- Th. 30      In the morning the weather was fairly good, the wind about W.S.W. and toward daybreak we set both our courses and steered S. by E. but the sea became rough so that we could only hold to a S.E. course. That noon we again took a fairly good observation of latitude and found it 41 degrees, 41 minutes, and ran that day by drifting and sailing, keeping an E.S.E. course, 14 leagues. We took our sails in again on account of the strong wind, also because we could make no headway by sailing on account of the rough sea. Awaited the right wind. The day gone.
- Fr. 31      Drifted by reckoning 10 leagues E.S.E. The wind about S.W. with rough weather and high seas and an overcast sky so that we could not take the latitude, but by dead reckoning it was 41 degrees, 26 min.; and from that noon till the morning of the first of November we drifted eight leagues S.E. by E. The wind about west, very high seas. The latitude by dead reckoning 41 deg. 10 min. The day gone.

November.

- Sat. 1      In the morning we veered toward the west and drifted north: The wind S.W. with rough weather and high seas. The past half day and entire night.
- Sun. 2      Drifted 16 leagues N.E. by E.; the wind about west, the latitude by dead reckoning 41 degrees, 50 min. with very high seas. That day the overhang above our rudder was knocked in by severe storm. This day a child was born on the ship, and named and baptized in England stoerm;<sup>62</sup> the mother is annetie bacrnts. The day gone.
- Mon. 3      In the morning the weather was fairly good, the wind about W.S.W. We set our courses and proceeded in a northerly direction. During that day we made 12 leagues, drifting and sailing and keeping a N.E. by N. course. Latitude by dead reckoning 42 degrees, 18 min., and that evening the sails had to be taken in again on account of a strong wind from the west. The day gone.
- Tu. 4      Our latitude was 42 deg. and 22 min. and we had drifted by reckoning N.E. by E. six leagues. The wind about west and toward evening the wind turned to the south with terribly high seas but the wind moderated. The day gone.
- Wed. 5      Drifted by dead reckoning N. by E. nine leagues, our latitude was by reckoning 43 deg., the wind about west. This day it has been about S.W. with fairly good weather. The day gone.

passed Caep finnestaer,<sup>64</sup> to wit, to the north of it, in great peril and were drifting into the bay, I knew nothing better to do than to hold a council with the supercargo, the mate and other advisers, to decide what had best be done in the matter. We concluded in the said council to put the helm hard up and to steer in God's name toward the Channel and try to get into faelmuiden<sup>65</sup> or pleijmuiden,<sup>66</sup> which was done and at noon we found the latitude to be 43 deg., 9 min., wind and weather as above. With two courses we proceeded toward the N.N.E. The day gone.

	Course	Leagues	Latitude
Fr. 7	N.E. by N.	sailed 23	44 deg., 23 min.

The wind about west. Last night we drifted for six hours without sail on account of the terrible wind and the high seas. During the day watch it was a little better and we set our courses. The day gone.

Sat. 8	N.N.E.	31 leagues	the latitude 46 deg., 19 min.
--------	--------	------------	-------------------------------

The wind about west with a stiff topsail breeze, though most of the time we sailed with two courses. This afternoon we sailed with two topsails and during the night again with two courses and in the forenoon with one topsail over the ocean. The day gone.

Sun. 9	N.N.E.	31 leagues	the latitude 48 deg., 17 min.

The wind about west. The past night we sailed with one course and the day before with a topsail and this above mentioned day with two topsails and the spritsail.<sup>67</sup> We sailed then N.E. Toward evening the wind changed to south and southeast and we set our course E.N.E. and during the day watch the wind changed to the E.N.E. varying in strength with calm and gentle breezes. The day gone.

E. 20 49-10 by dead reckoning, the sky was overcast and weather uncertain. The wind was about S. W. and during the night we took the latitude by the stars; were at 49-35 min. The day gone.

E. 16 49-0 The wind about west and the weather rough, in the evening we sounded and found bottom at 85 fathoms. We then sailed N.E. till the first watch was over. We judged that we were near heij sant;<sup>68</sup> we sounded again and found the same depth, good Channel ground. We thought that we were in but it began to blow very hard and in the morning there was such a gale that our sails had to be taken in. Till morning.

sorlings

In the morning the wind was south with very rough weather, we did not yet see land. We set our mainsail with great difficulty but took in our foresail and then sailed E.S.E. During the night in the second watch we saw land south of us. It was very bad weather; we could not see for the rain, thunder and lightning. We ran before the wind and according to our reckoning it must be the sorlins,<sup>69</sup> as we later found it to be; we then sailed N. W. with one lower sail. Toward daybreak the weather became a little better and in the day watch we turned toward the land to reconnoiter. The wind changed to the S.S.E. Till morning.

Fr. 14

In the morning the wind was as above so that we could not make the land we had seen during the night. We noticed however the seeven steen<sup>70</sup> which indicated sufficiently where we were. They were to starboard about a league off. The wind began to get stronger again. We looked for a good roadstead and thought it advisable to run behind Caep Coernwal so as to get into the small bay or haven which is there. When we got around the cape the wind changed to the east and N.E. and north and finally to the N.W. with terribly rough weather so that we could hardly carry half a mainsail. We got aground near the cape and at twilight our foresail blew away, for we were obliged to carry all the sail we could, and our main sheet broke and we let ourselves be driven to the north with one sail, but in the second watch the mainsail had to be taken in too, for it was no longer possible to carry any sail, as one thing or another would break and we were driven E.N.E. Till morning.

Sat. 15      In the morning the land lay close under our lee and we drifted toward it. We concluded to set our by londeij<sup>71</sup> foresail and, as we could not keep away from the shore, to run in near the land during the day, thinking that we might make a port there called bedes-haenen<sup>72</sup> or else straton.<sup>73</sup> When we came near the shore we were too far down. We were driven by the strong current so that with our foresail only we were carried along the shore trying to find some place where the ship and people would be safe. As it became late in the day, we decided that we could do no better than to run to an anchorage or land which we saw and which according to the description of the book must be a harbor, and concluded, if possible, to run in, or else to beach the ship, on account of the strong current and the severe W.N.W. storm and the fact that we were in a bay. Commending ourselves to God, we ran toward it with reefed foresail and when we came close to the shore, as the weather seemed to calm down and clear up a little, for it had been very dark before, we saw Londeij and hastily turned so as to sail on the wind, tacked and carried all the sail we could. We again raised our main topmast, which had not been up in eight or ten days, and set both the topsails. It seemed as if we would capsize or all our sails blow away.<sup>74</sup> We headed for a point above the cape called haertlan-puint<sup>75</sup> and during the night we came with God's

Sun. 16 In the morning the wind was as above. We weighed anchor and set sail for a harbor called ijlle vacom,<sup>76</sup> about four leagues from the island. On our way we saw a ship without mast drift by, and coming near the harbor a pilot came on board and brought us in. We found two Dutch ships lying there. One came from Spain with salt, and the other came from the West Indies; they also were driven from their course by the storm. The ship which came from Spain was in Ireland, or near Caep Claere,<sup>77</sup> among the cliffs and thought from its course and reckoning that it was among the sorlings and happened to get here; neither did the other which was among the sorlings, know where it was and it came here also toward evening. Till morning.

Mon. 17 The wind as above with rain and strong wind storm so that we could not do anything to repair the ship but only supply the people with some fresh provisions. Some families went on land.

breezes. We went over to the Irish coast. That day and night and toward daybreak, the wind turned to the S.S.E. with a stiff mainsail breeze. We sailed then S.W. and about an hour later the wind changed to the west and at once blew so hard that we could carry only one lower sail. We sailed south.

Sun. 11 About noon we could not carry any sail on account of the wind. We still sailed south and drifted E. by S. toward the coast. During the night we had a severe storm.

Mon. 12 In the morning we did not see land, which surprised us, for the whole day we had not realized that the current was carrying us farther from shore than we reckoned. Toward evening with great difficulty we lowered our main topmast on account of the severe storm and steered toward the north, sailing N.N.E. because the night was at hand. It was dark weather toward evening and this lasted all night.

Tu. 13 In the morning we cast the lead and struck good ground in the Channel at about 65 fathoms. We assumed then that we were south of the soerlings<sup>87</sup> and set our course S.W. by W. At noon our latitude was 49 degrees, 0 min., by dead reckoning S. by W. of the soerlings. Till noon.

50 fathoms      Stiff breeze, we had during the day much change of wind and terrible thunder, lightning and rain. Toward evening there was a gentle breeze and after supper we cast the lead and found at 50 fathoms small black stones and also small red ones, some as large as shot, together with grayish sand, at this latitude and longitude about 10 miles from land. We went then N.N.W. the wind N.E. with a gentle breeze and when the first watch was over we sounded again and struck sand at 18 fathoms. Course and wind as before. At four bells in the second watch we found sand at 12 fathoms, the depth having become steadily less up to this point. Course and wind as above. We then took in our topsail and turned to the S.E., the wind being E.N.E. We sailed for four glasses [two hours] or till we had 17 fathoms; then we turned and sailed north and set our topsails to a gentle breeze.

The wind fitful with calms. In the forenoon we found most of the time 20, 19 or 18, but also 17 and 15 fathoms, but not long after we saw land, the depth ranging from 15 to 20 fathoms. We did not know where we were for it was foggy weather. We supposed that there might be a bank, as the southern colonies of the English were quite near and as we had had in the afternoon the above course, leagues, latitude, longitude and variation. We were about three miles from land and found 14 fathoms of water, with foggy weather, so that we could not tell much about the land. At about three o'clock in the afternoon smits Island<sup>98</sup> lay about three leagues W. N.W. from us. Seen from there the island looks as follows: the upper part is hard to recognize, the north point is indented, and it seems as if a small flat island lay at the south point.

the wind S.W., a gentle breeze and the course sailed, leagues, latitude and longitude as above. During the past night we had a steady breeze from the S.W. with rain, thunder and lightning. We were about N.N.E. of Cacp hinlooe.<sup>99</sup>

The wind W.N.W., gentle breeze, course, leagues, latitude and longitude as above. During the night we had showers, as if we were near land. By reckoning we were six leagues from land. We found 22 fathoms of water and ran close to northward. We sounded often and found sometimes 22, but also 20, 18, 17, 15, and then again 22 fathoms and we saw many whales. We then sailed mostly N.W. The whole night long with calms and that night we saw many fires burning.

March

- Sun. 1      In the morning we were about two leagues from land and in 16 fathoms, S.W. from the north point of the baernde gat,<sup>99a</sup> bloemerts puint<sup>1</sup> being north of us. We saw many whales, some 10 or 20 swimming for at least two hours about our ship; we supposed that they were taking their course from the south to the north. At about six o'clock in the evening at sunset we came to anchor behind godins puint<sup>2</sup> in five fathoms, good anchorage. God be praised for his mercy.
- Mon. 2      In the morning the wind was N.W. with rough weather so that we could not make the hoefden.<sup>3</sup> Our boat landed at godins puint for the purpose of shooting geese and stayed over night there. It was bitterly cold.
- Tu. 3      At noon the weather was somewhat better as far as the wind was concerned though it was N.W. and very cold. Our boat returned and we could not do anything else.

Mon. 1	In the morning the wind was about north. We set sail and came near noeten hoeck . <sup>14</sup>
Tu. 2	The wind was S.W. and south; a light breeze. We then drifted down with the tide and by flood time came to anchor about a league below noeten hoeck . maerten gerrits , who was going up the river, came on board there.
Wed. 3	In the morning it was still calm and we drifted along with the ebb tide but later there was a light breeze so that we came to anchor two leagues north of madeleens Island. <sup>15</sup> We got some ballast there and turned over some smith's coal to the yacht sintē maertin .
Th. 4	It was calm and we drifted along with the ebb tide and came before the grooete eesoepes . <sup>16</sup> There we got a steady breeze and sailed down into the lange rack <sup>17</sup> where it became calm and the flood returned.
Fr. 5	In the morning it was still calm and we drifted with the ebb tide but at noon we got a fine breeze and came to anchor near polleepels Island, <sup>18</sup> for the wind was south.

- Tu. 23      In the morning we did not see land and kept the same course. The wind as above and light breeze. We reckoned that we were about S.W. by W. of Caep macij.<sup>24</sup> We found various depths during the night, probably due to banks which lie there as the charts show. At noon we saw land and in the evening on account of the light breeze we approached the coast and landed about four leagues south of Caep hinlooeþ.<sup>25</sup> We turned about and sailed mostly S.E. The whole night the wind was S.W. but toward day-break south.
- Caep hinlooeþ*
- Wed. 24      We turned toward shore and sailed west, the wind about S.S.W., and in the afternoon we arrived at about eight leagues south of Caep hinlooeþ. At a distance of about four leagues the land seemed broken, but this is caused by the lowness of the land and the high trees which are found there, by which it can be easily recognized. We turned away from shore and came to anchor in 10 fathoms as we could not make any headway.
- Th. 25      In the morning the wind was northerly and there was a light breeze. We set sail and in the afternoon the wind became S.S.W. We then sailed west till we came near the shore, where we again found flat land and high trees but especially dense woods. We again turned from shore and the wind suddenly changed to the W.N.W. There was a steady breeze and we sailed then S.W. by S. and at sunset the wind changed again to the south with [occasional] calm. We anchored in 10 fathoms, fully a league from shore.
- Fr. 26      In the morning the wind was as above and there was a light breeze. About noon the wind turned to the S.E. and there was a steady breeze. We sailed S.W. and came near the island caled verses Island,<sup>26</sup> where there is a channel between the island and the mainland. We turned from shore and came to anchor in six fathoms, for the wind was S.W. with [occasional] calms and the current was against us.

The inlet<sup>28</sup> north of the island is probably the nearest to matseponge. We tacked along past the sand bank.

- Mon. 29      In the morning at sunrise the wind changed to the below north. We set sail and about noon we came to smits Island,<sup>29</sup> on the west side. God be praised for his mercy thus far. The same day our mate went on land to further the work.

Sat. 26 In the morning we sounded again and found then at 80 fathoms fine grayish sand. From that point we sailed east. We saw two ships which entered the Channel also. At noon we had sailed 36 leagues E. by N. and the latitude by reckoning was 49 deg. 20 min. The wind was west but changed to north. We then sounded again and found white sand at 75 fathoms. We then set our course toward the E.N.E. and thought that we were in the Channel near heij sant,<sup>44</sup> about 14 leagues away from it; it began to blow hard. That whole night we sailed with the two lower sails.

Sun. 27 In the morning the wind and course was as above. We saw three ships coming toward us; they were going S.W. but we did not speak them; and we saw also a fleet which followed them. In the afternoon there came another fleet in which were many Scotch ships and vessels from Lubeck and Hamburg, which we spoke. Bottom here at 60 fathoms. By our reckoning we were nine leagues N. by E. from leesert.<sup>45</sup> The wind north and turned to the west.

Mon. 28 In the morning it was very calm. We were surrounded by a fleet and about nine o'clock there was a fine breeze from the west. We then sailed N.E. and leesert lay N.E. by N. from us. During the night it blew hard and it was very dark. We laid to with one lower sail.

Tu. 29 In the morning we made sail again, but at one o'clock in the afternoon we saw leesert lying S.W. from us, at a distance of about two leagues and the wind changed to N.W. so that we could not make faelmuiden<sup>46</sup> and set course for pleijmuiden.<sup>47</sup> We arrived there in the evening and found no Dutch ships there.

December 25, 1637

Pietter Minuijtt, commander under the crown of Sweden, on the ship de calmer sleutel<sup>56</sup> lying at the Texel

This 25th of December 1637

Heer Commandeur: This sudden change of weather and wind quite upsets me so that I must write today in haste and in an unbecoming fashion. Yesterday evening I had the goods specified in the enclosed invoice put on board the lighter of your honor's skipper while the wind was still west, not thinking that this sudden change would come. It froze during the night and this morning the wind has become northerly with storm and high water and may very easily shift to northeast and so be exceedingly awkward for me, as none of my people who were to sail with you for my colony are at hand; if the wind becomes easterly, I am therefore constrained to recommend you in the most friendly and urgent manner not only to stow away and transport my goods dry in your honor's ship, but also at your convenience to deliver them at the Manhatans to my nephew Wouter van Twiller, or in his absence to some one else with recommendation from me to the director there, named Willem Kijft, to have the same taken at the first opportunity to my colony of Rensselaerswyck and delivered to Jacop planck, my officer and commis. If I have time, I shall write to the said director, as well as to my nephew Woutter van Twiller, Jacop planck and others; if not, your honor must in this case do for me the best you can; in return you must command me wherever I can do you a service or kindness. I have paid to Jan hendriksz, the skipper of your honor's ship, on account of board, transportation of my people and one half of the lighter freight, 70 Ducatons at f3:3 each, amounting to f220:10, which your honor can credit on the account of my people. I hope that the weather will stay a while as it is, so that some may get on board, especially my cousin arent van Corler, whom I recommend most strongly to your honor as he is still young and quite inexperienced; if not, your honor will no doubt be able to use yourself the provisions which your honor's skipper bought for these people, and, if not, deliver what remains at the Manhatans together with my other goods. The box No. M, in which are the six firelocks, is not included in the manifest;<sup>57</sup> you will be able to defend this [by counting] them among the necessary arms of your honor's or my people. Having no more time to spare at present, I pray that God Almighty may grant your honor a happy and successful voyage to the glory of His holy name and to the discomfiture of our common enemy. I had heartily hoped that your honor would have come once more yourself, which could still take place if the wind and the weather allow. Before your departure please advise me of the receipt of this letter and the goods.

Jacob planck, in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

In Amsterdam, 25 December 1637

This in haste, serving only to transmit the enclosed invoice of the goods which I am sending you through the kindness of Commander Pietter Minuijt, who has made accommodation for them in his ships. If I have time I shall write you more at length; meanwhile take proper care of my affairs and enter these goods on my account. Do therewith the best you can and do not forget to send me at the very first opportunity the account of the goods sent to you by my small ship, charging the expenses of the people who came over with it according to the contracts sent you. Do not delay any longer either the accounts of the farms and my account with the Company and what further may be necessary. I must cut this short because it is Christmas and the wind now northerly may soon shift to the east. Yesterday evening and this morning the goods were loaded in the lighter to be taken to the Texel. I have not time to write more.

<sup>59</sup> V. R. B. Mss, Letter Book, f.95b. This letter is in the handwriting of Kiliaen van Rensselaer.

P. S. If weather and wind allow, I shall write you about everything at length. I am very much displeased about the things which dirrick Corssen has done in my colony contrary to my instructions. This must not happen again or I should have to take entirely different measures. The longest of the six firelocks that are in the box you will deliver to jehan lebattij, carpenter, who ordered it of me, charging the same to his account. The gun itself cost f14, to which must be added the 50% advance. I have engaged six persons to go over this time, but not one is at hand. Among others there goes to serve you as assistant, my cousin Arent van Corler, who can copy everything and write me of all more at length than has been done thus far, for I long particularly to have information about everything. Do not neglect to keep a daily journal of everything that happens in the colony. When my cousin comes he will copy it all and relieve you. Enclosed are two letters to ghijsbert op den dijck which I have left open. You can copy them and at the same time inquire about the slate hill,<sup>60</sup> also take notice of other things which it contains. Then seal them and have them delivered to him unless you go to see him yourself.

December 26, 1637

Willem Kieft, commander in New Netherland

This 26th of December 1637

Heer Commandeur: This sudden east wind come up in the midst of our Christmas holidays hinders me on the one hand in my devotions and on the other hand makes me commit the impertinence of not writing properly to your honor as the lighter must now go at once.

as to my regret a few days after your honor's departure from the Texel, my small vessel arrived here from New Netherland, which had arrived already on the 29th of September at pleymuijen<sup>62</sup> and could have been here. However, luck would not have it that, ac-according to my Freedoms, I should send the goods needed by me in your honor's ships for nothing and I have now been obliged to pay duty.<sup>63</sup> But now this opportunity offers itself that Commander pieter minnewiet, at present in the service of the crown of Sweden and sailing from Gortenborch,<sup>64</sup> has on account of storm been obliged to seek shelter at the Texel, and by reason of old acquaintance does me the kindness to take on board what in haste and half in disorder I have been able to bring together in the way of necessities for my people and to forward the same at his convenience to the Manhatans to my nephew wolter van twiller, in order not to trouble your honor too much. However, as he may perhaps have left before the arrival of this letter, at all events will have turned over his command to your honor, I take the liberty of recommending these in haste to your honor also, that the said necessities may be sent at the first and best opportunity from the manhatans to my colony. On account of lack of time I send enclosed the copy [of the invoice] in brief, but if your honor should wish to examine the same more fully your will find in the letter to my officer and commis, Jacob planck, the full and itemized invoice and will find that there is actually nothing in it but what is needed for my people; wherewith, as I have not a minute of time left, on account of the short days, I will end, commending your honor to the gracious protection of the Most High.

This 26th of December 1637

Mon Cousin: This sudden east wind not only prevents my devotions during these holidays, for tomorrow is Communion day, but does not give me sufficient time to read your honor's letter, much less to reply to the same properly, wherefore I postpone that to our next meeting, God willing. I had the misfortune that the ships of the Company had left before my small vessel arrived and not being satisfied with the management of supercargo (dirrick

Corsen and)<sup>66</sup> the skipper I do not think it advisable to send our vessel out (again)<sup>66</sup> before your honor's arrival. However, as Jacob planck writes me for various necessities for my people and the ships of the Company with the new director have left, I have this unexpected opportunity that pieter minnewiet, who is now in the service of the crown of Sweden and presumably will show a commission there for the regions about [Virginia?],<sup>67</sup> in which enterprise however I do not share in the least, by reason of old acquaintance does me the kindness to carry over a few boxes and small chests with necessities for my people, of which I have not time to advise you or to send you the invoice. I have sent it in brief to the new commander willem kyeft and in detail enclosed in the letter to Jacob planck. If you care to open that you will find it therein and among the items you will find nothing but necessities for my people. I do not have time either to write more fully to Jacob planck; please see to it that these goods be sent to him in my colony. I had engaged six persons to go over too, among them our cousin Arent van Corler, a young man of good principles over whom your father is now appointed guardian, but as he went home once more to prepare himself, he will probably come too late, as the lighter must go at once. Of these six only one goes herewith, named Jacob adriaensz van wttrecht,<sup>68</sup> engaged as farm servant or tobacco planter or whatever else he is fit for. He has also some knowledge of vegetable gardening. I have sent along a small barrel with grapevines and other things to be taken to my colony. Please send along from the maenatans some apples, pears and other fruits, also a few grapevine shoots that have come from here, to plant them and see whether they will grow or take hold. I have put in his barrel also some of mine; it seems to me it will be best that he should go and live with albert andriessen if his tobacco has succeeded well, wherewith ending. Vale.

Pietter Minuytt

Heer Commandeur: The bearer of this letter, my cousin arent van Corler, sailing to my colony as assistant, is recommended to you to accommodate him as much as your honor's situation will allow. I trust that your honor will not fail herein but show me friendship. I should also be much pleased, inasmuch as he is still young and inexperienced, if you had a little instruction given to him in the processes of ship's bookkeeping as well as in the keeping of land accounts, as his master Jacob Planck, with whom he will be, is not too expert in these matters himself. He takes with him a mate's chest marked on the inside No. 1, in which there are some Hainault and grass scythes and other hardware which I could not put into the lighter which sailed on Saturday and therefore did not reach your honor till yesterday. This small chest you will please add to the other items mentioned in my last letter, and under supervision or in the keeping of my aforesaid cousin have brought to the manatans by the best means you can find. With him go the following young men engaged for my colony, to wit:

Arent van Corler, assistant, 18 years old*Elbert albertsen*, 18 years old*Claes Jansen*, 17 years old*Gerrit hen<sup>d</sup>*, 15 years old*Gijs<sup>b</sup> Arentsen*, 22 years old.<sup>70</sup>Loaded also

2 barrels of tar, together

Together six persons, who are recommended to your honor and whom, with my goods, you will please cause to reach the manatans at the earliest opportunity that circumstances will allow. From there I hope they will get further. I wish your honor good luck on the voyage.

[December 29, 1637]

Willem Kijeft, commander in New Netherland

Heer Commandeur: Time presses me so that I can not even write to my nephew woutter van twiller nor to my commis Jacob planck. I therefore trust all my affairs to your honor. Enclosed I send the invoice at length of all that I have sent your honor and in brief also the conditions and contracts with my people, from which your honor may see how sincerely I mean not to defraud the Company in the least, neither by sending questionable goods thither, nor by making contracts which may prejudice their trade, yet in everything saving my rights in the matter, as I do not at all consider that all the people of my colony but only the patroon or his agents have the said rights of article 15.<sup>72</sup> Please hand the enclosed papers to my nephew woutter van twiller to send them under his cover with my people and goods to my colony to the commis Jacob planck, with orders to distribute the people where they are most needed, recommending especially my cousin Arent van Corler as assistant of Jacob planck, that he may make note of everything; also, that of these young fellows some or most of them may be assigned to tobacco planting with Albert andriesen if he has had good success, but if the planting of tobacco should not succeed well in my colony these people must be distributed among the farmers. At all events, please let Jacob planck have the enclosed copies, to record them. Please, Sir, after humble salutation to be graciously commended to Almighty God and together with my nephew woutter van twiller to be heartily saluted.

Mon Cousyn: This uncertain weather and the tarrying of my people makes me so stupid that I hardly know what I am doing. I have sent to the commander willem Kyeft my invoice of all my goods, also the agreements and names of my people, with request to hand the same to your honor or to Jacob planck. The people are six in number, among them our cousin Arent van Corler as assistant in my colony to Jacob planck. Please give him a little instruction and information as I have not time to do so. My people are these:

{ tobacco planters under albert Andriessen, if it [the planting] has succeeded well, otherwise with the farmers.

I urge your honor to help dispatch these people and my goods to my colony at the first opportunity in order that they may still plant tobacco this year. I thank your honor for the roll of tobacco sent to me through Arent Corssen, which your honor's brother hendrick and others have shared also. I shall supply your honor with people; please demand of the director willem Kyeft the contracts and invoice sent him with the request to hand them to your honor and let Jacob planck have all the copies so that he may record them. If before your departure you could find time to inspect my colony from one end to the other and examine everything as carefully as possible and then report to me, I should be pleased. Your honor is warned that tobacco in the leaf is in better demand and more readily sold here than rolled up.

Please have the enclosed handed to Jacob planck with the goods and, if you think fit, feel free to open it, but said planck<sup>77</sup> must not come home yet by the first ship.

wouter van twiller

Honor be to God, in Amsterdam, this day, 6 May 1638

Monsieur mon Cousyn: Enclosed herein are copies of the letters sent to your honor by den Harinck and later in the winter by the ship de Calmer sleutel. I hope that the people and the goods sent therewith have come over safely and have at this time, by the grace of God, arrived in my colony of Rensselaerswyck so that I may still this year reap the fruits of their labor either in farming or planting of tobacco. This letter goes to your honor while I am again in uncertainty whether your honor will still be there or will have left when this letter arrives, since the commander willem Kijft, who is to relieve your honor, was to leave the Barrilnudes<sup>88</sup> about the 4th of February and could have joined you in a few days, but it is still uncertain whether he left that exact day; also, because the skipper lange willem,<sup>89</sup> who in return for having hurried your honor so was obliged to wait here a year before he could put to sea, will now perhaps not make much haste. However, if this should still come to hand, you will in answer to yours sent by Martten gerritsz under date of 20 November please understand the following:

First, that I have received your honor's draft for f3000 and have presented it to some gentlemen<sup>90</sup> who gave me little hope of paying the same before your arrival here, and as the question between

the Chambers concerning an open trade to Brazil has caused much trouble since usually most of the directors are out of town and occupied, I have not been able to press the matter very hard. It seems that the matter is now settled that the trade to Brazil will be carried on by the participants jointly, each in proportion to his investment, which is well if the money is used properly and not misused. What they will do with New Netherland, we shall see in course of time. I imagine that they are only waiting for advice from the new director Kyfft; as far as I am concerned they may do as they please. I expect to carry on my colony with all courage and vigor and send therefore in God's name, by this ship het waepen van noortweegen, of which Cornelis melyn is supercargo and in the equipment of which the colony of Rensselaerswyck shares one half, in addition, on payment of freight, 18 mares with several farmers, their wives and laborers and a quantity of goods for the separate account of the said colony, although three of the aforesaid 18 horses belong to Jacob wolpherss, as we do not know whether we shall divide them or let them go there together.

Claes ramaccker had also three horses among them, but these I have taken over from him and paid for so that there are 15 horses for the colony among them. May God Almighty watch over them. I recommend your honor to do your best to have them sent up at the first opportunity, agreeable to my orders and instructions given to Jacob planck, whom for good reasons I have asked to stay there for the present. As to Martten gerrits,<sup>91</sup> he has begun to make me some propositions, but as he is in gelderlant and not in the city very little has been done. I shall expect your honor's arrival, God willing, by the first ship and then take hold of the matter with more vigor. Ieronimus La Croix has also communicated to me the circumstances of his journeys<sup>92</sup> through the maquans land to the Sinnekens and to the Fresh River where the English come much too high up and too near to us. The Company must open their eyes, I think, or they will lose the best part of that fair region. As for yourself, you would better be careful and well prepared; all calumnies will disappear and the curse change to a blessing. Salomon van solderbeeck has been an evil instrument.

I have received a roll of tobacco of which your honor makes no mention in his letter and I have divided it among the friends here and at nyckerck and thank your honor for the remembrance. When you come here, God willing, you may still have a taste thereof. I hope that ours in the colony has succeeded well too under albert diterinck,<sup>93</sup> although they write from there that it is somewhat hot for the reason that it has been picked early. I recommend to you to advance and instruct our cousin Arent van Corler as much as time and place will allow; only, let him be diligent and record and note down everything and advise me on all occasions, not sparingly but as fully as he can.

The animals which are already in the colony, together with the horses and the people who go over now, are also recommended to you for the time that your honor stays there. In chest No. 6 are put three packages belonging to your farm servants, with letters tied on top of them, which must be taken out at the manhatans and the chest closed again. I do not know whether there are any among them from your father, brother or other friends, as your brother brought them here as they are from nyckerck. The friends at nyckerck as well as here are well, God be praised, except my brother in law thomas van Weely, who has a fluxion to his thigh so that he can not walk. I hope that he will soon be better. Your honor's sister Grietgen has had fever several times but was getting better. They all send you many greetings. I would write more at length, but fear that you will have left before this letter arrives. If not, make as much haste as possible to come hither and to defend your affairs before the Company; wherewith ending, I commend your honor to the gracious protection of God Almighty and with hearty salutations from my wife, our children, mother van weeley and all her family, I remain . . .

I urge you to keep the farm at the manhatans for me; also to see that I get some cows from some one or other as I am proportionately least provided with them.

Sr: Willem Kieft

This day, 7 May 1638

Honorable, prudent Sir: As shortly after your honor's departure from the Texel my small vessel arrived here from New Netherland

bringing me advice of some things needed by my people there and it so happened that the ship de Calmer Slutel, commander pitter miniet in the service of the crown of Sweden, was obliged to seek shelter here at the Texel on account of storm, I did not want to neglect this opportunity, though in midwinter and in freezing weather, of supplying my people as far as possible with necessities and of improving the condition of New Netherland as much as possible as to population, and, trusting to God's mercy, I have also sent over six persons, though his destination was unknown to me. I could make out only this much, that he expected to go to Virginia, from which region I have asked him to try to find opportunity to send my goods and people to the Company's settlement. As I had to do this, hesitating between hope and fear, immediately before and during the Christmas holidays, when I could ask no letters to lepold<sup>45</sup> of the West India Company, I have consigned my aforesaid goods and people with all the papers and instructions to your honor. I hope that the same have arrived safely and been sent by your honor to the proper place. I shall not fail to show myself grateful on all occasions where I can do your honor a kindness and if there is anything in my colony which your honor might desire, all you have to do is to speak to my commis. Also, if there should be anything among the goods or necessities which I send over, which your honor needs or can use, you have but to request it of him, as I seek in every way to keep on good terms not only with the lords directors in this country but more especially with their officers and servants on your side, in order that the region of New Netherland may not decline through discord (with which it has for many years been cursed but too much) but may, through harmony, each respecting the rights of others, by God's gracious blessing be changed to a flourishing and useful state, toward which I on my part do and will continue to do all I can. As Claes Cornelisz rademaecker and jacob wolfersen van amersfoort, according to the enclosed extract, had obtained consent to send over a ship with cattle, about which they did not just know what course to take, I helped them out and filled the vacant room with horses and other goods, as you will see from the copy of the manifest signed by the lords directors, the original of which is in possession of Cornelis melyn, supercargo of this present ship het waepen van noorwegen, in which are 15 horses for the account of my colony and three for jacob wolphersen; Claes Cornelissen sends over none because there was not room enough. We had expected to put in many more horses, but the water, hay and oats for the horses and the salt and other things for the fishery have taken up too much room.

I urge you in the most friendly manner to lend my people the helping hand as much as is possible without detriment to the Company, that with the said horses, their baggage and other goods, they may be sent to the colony at the earliest moment to perform, in God's name, with courage their agreed service and labor. If among my horses there should be a particularly fine one which you would like, you can take it for yourself and in its stead provide the farmers with another or poorer one.

I shall also be much pleased if detailed lists and accounts are sent to me of the goods which my commis furnishes to the Company and receives in return, in order that there may arise no misunderstanding; also, if the payment for my grain, which beyond all contradiction is a product of the soil, might take place in peltries to the satisfaction of both sides and if my people in conformity with the Freedoms granted may be allowed to trade and sell what the Company does not need — provided they pay for the goods so traded such duty or freight as the aforesaid Freedoms prescribe; also, if it could be done without hurting the congregation at the manhatans, as the people of the Company at Fort Orange and my people in the colony have thus far no minister, though I hope to procure one for them at the earliest opportunity, that for a time the minister at the manhatans might occasionally go thither to console and admonish them and to celebrate the Lord's supper with them, which would be an agreeable service to me and undoubtedly also to the Company as far as their people are concerned, wherewith ending for this time.

Amsterdam, this 8th of May 1638

Honorable, prudent very discreet Sir: Some weeks ago in conversation with s<sup>r</sup>. Guilliaume monuma, my very good and intimate friend, your honor's person happened to be mentioned in connection with my colony and I was very glad to learn of the good relations between you, as on the strength thereof I may with your permission avail myself of your services, as far as your situation and the service of the West India Company will allow. To this end I send enclosed the letter of s<sup>r</sup>. monna to your honor by this our ship het waepen van noorwegen, whose cargo is largely composed of horses for my colony named Rensselaerswyck and some goods and necessities for my people who are already there or now going over, and herewith I make the following request of you. In case my nephew Wouter van Willer, formerly director there, shall have left before the arrival of this ship, as I suppose he will have done, I would request you very kindly, as I do not know what arrangements he may have made in the absence of my commis about the affairs of my colony or to whom he has entrusted the forwarding and despatch of my animals and goods which might come there meanwhile, to look after this matter with the person whom he may have ordered to do so or with the commis of my colony, if he should be present, and to help along my people as much as possible that they may get up the river with the horses and their goods as soon as there is an opportunity by a vessel sailing thither, the like of which I also recommend to and request of Director willem kieft and promise gratefully to repay all favors received on any occasion, as it is my intention, God willing, to avail myself of every opportunity of providing the said regions and my colony with as many people and animals as possible. Of this I have already made a good beginning and have lately, in the heart of winter and by a ship that came here on account of storm, sent six persons with some necessities who have, I hope, arrived there in one way or another, though the said ship, which sailed in the service of the crown of Sweden, our ally, had another and to me unknown destination but as far as I could understand was bound for Virginia, or in case of need would seek some fresh supplies in our regions. Although by reason of my not knowing your honor, I was then unable to recommend my affairs to you, I hope nevertheless that for the sake of promoting the population of the commonwealth you have of your own accord helped matters along, if the people have arrived; wherewith, from lack of further matter and of knowledge of your honor's person and in order not to trouble you too much at the very first, I shall leave off and should be much pleased to receive a few words in reply.

May 8, 1638

Pietter Cornelijsen, master millwright

This day, 8 May, in Amsterdam, 1638

The aforewritten is a copy of our last letter sent to you by the ship den harinck, which I hope your honor has received; if not, your honor can use the said copy.

Since then, on the 7th of April last, I received by martten Geritsen your letter of November 9, 1637, which made me feel somewhat better again, for I was dissatisfied not to have received any writing from you during the whole voyage of my small vessel in which your honor sailed when I long so intensely to know how everything goes there, whether successfully or unsuccessfully; [may it be] as the Lord wills, if only we fail not to do our part. I was much pleased to learn from your honor's letter that the sawmill was in operation and with one frame could saw 30 boards a day and that your honor would put another frame in it to saw as many more; also, that your honor had built a house near the aforesaid mill and intended to establish a brewery and a farm near it and also to build a small yacht to sail out on the ocean and make a trip to Canada. The zeal is good but the execution has its difficulties. One must not undertake too much at a time in order not to confuse one thing with the other. Your son in law Symon Jansen according to your request goes over herewith to be employed by you where he can be of most service to me and to you. I should be pleased if you remained as much as possible within the limits of the contract made with each other in order that no disorder occur. albart andris. separated from you; I hear that he is a strange character and it is therefore no wonder that he could not get along with you, but I hope that you will be able to agree the better with your other partner Claes Janse van naerdén so as the better to advance the sawmill and the house building. As to the grist-mill and the brewery of which you write, I had already another plan and await but the arrival of my nephew wouter van twiller to draw a general order regarding them, for you know well enough that all wind and water milling [privileges] go with the jurisdiction, but your honor will do well to note down the expenses of the carpenter work with the millstones, hardware and other necessities in order that we may have the benefit thereof. And as to the brewery, it must be under the management of the one who has the supreme command in the colony or the person who will enter into a special contract regarding it; the various affairs must be kept separate and not be mixed, in order that many people may make a living thereby, one undertaking this and another something else, for I hope to send over people from time to time as I do now once more. This costs me a great deal, especially for the number of horses, which with the expenses and freight, besides the risk, become incredibly dear; but God willing, they will in time reimburse me for the outlay. As to what you write about taking a trip to canada, I do not know whether you are fully aware of the condition of trade [in that region]; the French have several charters respecting it, especially along the river of canada, and if you or any one else of our people went there they would be attacked as enemies; but I imagine that you refer to the coast of cadie situate between capo breton and the baye francoyse, from whose governor hendrick de foreest has had a letter which is now in my hands and of which I send you enclosed herewith a copy. His residence is for the present still too far from our colony to [go] with such a . . .<sup>98</sup> but as a provisional measure it would not seem bad to me if in conformity with my freedoms you took care to trade with the English at the south and to the north, if you see any profit in it, taking with you such planks and boards and grain as there might be on hand in my colony, but this should be done in conjunction with my commis and officer of the colony in order not to keep a double account thereof, which in the end leads to nothing but confusion. I believe that Jacob planck is not best fitted for that [work] but I can not do anything in the matter before I have talked with my nephew wouter van twiller in order then to make a definite decision about it. I can not understand very well either from your letter or from that of planck how it is about the servants who have been engaged together for the mill company, whether they are still together in the service of the said mill company or whether they have been distributed. Do not forget to write me about everything in detail and at length. I am ready to support your zeal, which I notice is so satisfactory, but not being sufficiently informed and in ignorance, I stand perplexed. The pen must convey to me what personal speech can not, and let me hope that you will get along better with Claes Janse than with albart andrise, etc. Do your best to think of means to support a minister there; I will do my share to that end also. Jacob planck writes about f300 a year, but nobody cares to go for that.

N.B. Forget not to send me yearly our account or settle with Jacob planck that he send it to me in order that we may know definitely where we stand and what profit we make yearly.

May 10, 1638

Maurits Jansen van brockhuijsen

10 May 1638

Honorable, discreet cousin Maurits Jansen: These few lines will serve to let you know that I duly received your letters from England, as also those from the colony, and forwarded the enclosed to your uncle wynnant van bylaer but received no reply from him. In the expectation of good behavior I have procured your advancement, namely that you are to have a farm on the conditions of all the other farmers, to be established near Paep Sickenes Island, as the commis Jacob planck or whoever shall occupy his place will show you more definitely. And in order that you may not be in want of servants or animals, I have engaged adriaen cornelysen van barsingerhoorn, who is a prudent young man and knows all about farming, to be your foreman for the space of three years; after the said three years I have promised in case of good behavior to make him farmer for himself. Now, with the advice of my officer and commis you might take also one of the boys who go over herewith. As to the horses for the farm, I have assigned to you four gray mares which are going across in this ship, which I hope the Lord will preserve, in order that for the sake of our relationship you may have four horses of nearly one color; and as for your house and other necessities, you will have to address yourself to the aforesaid commis that he assist you according to circumstances in getting under cover with your people and horses, while provisionally you will also try with the consent [of the farmers] to obtain a cow or two from some farm or other, so as to get started.

I have no doubt, now that I have made you farmer so long before your appointed time, that you will deserve the favor by doing right, by advising me of everything in writing and also by using and treating properly this young man Adriaen cornelysen, who is to be your foreman, for the reason that his years far exceed yours. Regarding the fur trade and the delivery of grain you must regulate yourself according to the contracts and common justice and not trespass as I understand others have done. Trusting that you will do this, I commend you to the gracious protection of God. Do not forget as a graceful requital to advise me of everything that happens in my colony.

Albart andriesen, tobacco planter

albart cornelisen:<sup>2</sup> This will serve to advise you that I duly received your letter in which you wrote that the tobacco looked fine, but I received no news on the arrival of marten geertsen, although by that time it ought already to have been prepared, much less did I receive any sample thereof, for which I long very much, as well as for full advice of all the particulars as to how it has turned out.

I have sent some servants and some boys before this and am sending some now, but I must have but one head in the colony to make the distribution of the people and the servants, so you must address yourself to him who at the time is my commis there, to whom I must send general directions about everything and not particular directions to each one. I hear that you have not only parted with pitter Coornelissen, but have also had a dispute with planck and his son, the cause of which I should like to know; for I must in every way uphold my officers whom you, I take it, must obey, as is customary in all places of justice, and if you meet with any harm you have yourself to blame for it. If you behave well, I will certainly stand by you and cause you to be provided with everything, but bad behavior I will not suffer. It also seems to me from what not a few but many have said that you are very unmerciful to your children and very cruel to your wife; this you must avoid and in all things have the fear of the Lord before your eyes and not follow so much your own inclinations. I understand also that not only have you traded beaver furs with dirrick cortssen contrary to your contract but also defrauded and cheated him and for seven pieces of duffel have given him but the value of 25 merchantable beavers. Either you have cheated him and me or else he has cheated me very badly. Let me know what the truth of the matter is; meanwhile, do not pay anything to direck corssen or to any one in his name, as he has been but our servant, but write me all the particulars that I may see whether you are belied or whether what is said is true.

Arent van Coorler, assistant

This day, 10 May

Honorable, discreet cousin arent van coorler: I hope that by this time, with God's help you have arrived in my colony and duly delivered there the goods which you took with you and that according to my wish you have already begun noting everything down exactly and writing me of it, that I may know how things stand there, especially as to the increase of the animals, horses, cows, etc.; also, that you kept a correct account of all the goods which I sent heretofore and now send herewith, and where they may be sold with profit. In all things, however, you will have to submit yourself to your commis with whom you serve so that he will not have to complain of you; but aside from that you may write me of every detail and if you take good care of your affairs and write and advise me at length I will, when the opportunity offers itself and in proportion to your capacity, also take care of your promotion and advancement, but one has to be servant before one can be master. Write me also definitely about the tobacco planting, how it has succeeded there, and of the farms and of the saw and grist-mills and what further there may be of interest, and do not let any opportunity for writing me go by as we long very much for news here. Your father is still well and your brother is at present staying at my house; both send many greetings, etc.

May 10, 1638

Jacob Albersen planck

The 10th of May 1638

Yours sent by my small boat called Renselaers wyck as well as the other sent by marten gerretsen, I have duly received. All I ask for is to have but half as much writing from you as you have from me; this is certainly reasonable, for if everything does not come to your mind, all you have to do is to place my letters and papers before you, examine everything and do as I do, advising me of each matter separately. I send you the names of the people whom I send over, each one by itself, and you write but in general that there have arrived 24 persons besides the women. That is not enough; it is important to me to know who has arrived and who has not, as I thought that I had many more people, and in order that in the future you may make more careful note of everything I have sent my cousin Arent van corler, by de Calmer Slutel, to be your assistant, as he can serve and assist you in noting down everything. I send enclosed a list of the goods sent by the said slutel, as also copies of the letters. You must do this too, that is, send me each time a copy to serve if the original letter should not come. I hope that the people whom I sent have arrived where you are and have been distributed either among the farmers or among the tobacco planters. I write to albart andrisen that he must have more respect for my officers and commisen or that he will rue it. Contrary to his promise, he has traded beavers with direck Coortse and moreover according to the statement of direck Coortsen has given but the value of 25 merchantable beavers for 7 pieces of duffel, so that he must have cheated direck Coortse as well as our commis or dirreck Coortssen must have cheated his employers. Therefore, notify albart and all others living in the colony not to engage in such detrimental fur trade, conformable to their respective agreements, and to make [no] general payments to direck Coortse or his agent as he has treated us very badly: for I do not care to suffer in my colony those who have their eye mainly on the fur trade. That some trifles should be overlooked is a different matter, but those who make purely a business of it, I do not care to have. He who is my officer and commis knows how far my freedoms go, but it is not the business of others. These people not only cheat their patroon and master but also defraud the West India Company of the duties, and I am firmly resolved not knowingly and intentionally to injure the West India Company in their rights in the least, as my principal object is directed toward farming and things connected therewith. Enclosed I send you in God's name the invoice of all the goods which I am now sending over for the account of the colony, as well as a record of the payments made here to the people, with which together with the board during the passage you must not neglect to debit those who have to pay it. I send herewith 18 mares, mostly two years old, all of which except two are covered. Three of these belong to Jacob volpersen, according to the memorandum which he has thereof. The other 15 are for the colony, to be distributed as follows, namely:

Four gray mares for marrits Jansen van brockhuysen, my cousin, who is to be made head farmer, and adriaen cornelisen van barsingerzwout,<sup>4a</sup> who goes over herewith also, and is to be his foreman for the period of three years according to his contract. This farm will have its plowed land beyond paep Sickenees Island, across the Rul opposite Symon walichsz and Cornelis maessen.<sup>5</sup>

From the seven remaining horses, Tunes Janse, also called directse van rechten,<sup>6</sup> may choose four horses to establish therewith a farm south of the farm of mauris Jansen, where there is room enough.

As to the three remaining horses, if with God's help they arrive, you will distribute them where they are needed and if possible establish a fourth farm therewith.

The houses and stables of these farms you will push forward as much as possible. I hope, now that Claes Jansen van naerden must have arrived there, that better arrangements will be made for the building of houses so that the farmers may be better accommodated. And as these new farms have no cows, you will see that the others give each of them some of the young calves to make shift for a while,<sup>7</sup> or you will find out whether there are any to be bought at the manhatans or to be traded for the remaining horses, always remembering that in my opinion one of these mares is worth considerably more than two cows.

You must not fail to send me all accounts in perfect order including your own account. You have not done this very carefully as I understand that you have a goodly quantity of beavers and have sent but 200 of them by my ship. As you wrote me long ago that you had then already 150 skins and the goods of my small vessel have been added since, I had expected at least 500, on which I insured 300 skins and now but 200 appear, of which I was to give one half to your wife without having the account thereof. I have therefore given her provisionally f700 as I had to pay f200 duty to the Company because you did not send any paper showing that it had been paid. She also had to bear one half of the insurance, as you had not written me that you had a share therein; therefore, you must henceforth send me better and fuller advice, which you can do better now that you have as assistant arent van Corler, who is pretty good with the pen. In selling the merchandise, you must not only take into account the first purchase price, but all sorts of expenses of ship, boat and lighter freight, also the boxes and hauling, etc., for which you must raise the price at least one stiver, for example, what cost 20 stivers you must count as having cost 21 stivers. Herewith goes again a goodly quantity of iron and smith's coal, so that the smith will be well provided. I should have liked to have had a helper for the smith and wheelwright but on account of the mortality here I have not been able to secure any. It is possible that the Company will throw open the beaver trade to some extent; if they should do that, I do not intend nor shall I allow any but those of the Company, to whom I can not forbid it, to trade furs in my colony; to private individuals I do not wish to permit it. With my own people some discretion will have to be used, provided that they deliver the skins to you at a reasonable price for my account, so that they may have some profit and I also and the Company receive its duty. They must do likewise with the grain and other products.

Piter Cornelisen writes me that he will put up a grist-mill and a brewery; that is all right as far as the building is concerned, but respecting milling and beer brewing I intend to make some further regulation at the first opportunity, as one man must not have too much. This much I would allow to pr. Corneles, now his son in law Symon Jansen henypot comes over too, that with your advice as the keeper of my place and rights, since I can not be present in person, he may build a small yacht to send his planks and boards where they may be sold to best advantage and also to trade down the river or elsewhere the grain and wheat that is to spare in the colony; all this if there is any profit for me connected with it, otherwise it serves but to do damage. To this end I send over pitch and tar, also materials and tools to make sails, but you must take care of my rights that I may be defrauded by no one. When arent van corler has not too much to do, let him occupy himself in shooting game and catching fish so as to reduce somewhat the expense of his board; have him also look after things here and there and send him all over the colony to arrange things, to note down the grain and animals and especially to look after the planting of vines. Jeronimus la Croix believes that above broeder Cornelis on the west side of the maquars Kil there are suitable hills, which slope to the south and are treeless, that would be desirable for the raising of apples, pears, cherries and similar fruits. This should be looked after but especially the planting of tobacco, whether that will succeed. I am not well satisfied that albeert has not sent me a sample of his tobacco by marten Gerritsen nor reported how many pounds he expected to have. The said albert has a servant, Johan lebattij, who is a carpenter. You can, by paying him, employ him also on the building of the houses, so that the farms, from which in time the greatest profit is to be expected, may be gotten ready. In your last letter, you write nothing of your plan, mentioned in an earlier letter, of putting up a building for a church, the loft of which could if needed be used for the storing of grain. Whether this has been contracted for or not, I urge you to promote godliness in every way and to give me some further idea of the means of supporting a minister.

You write me that these may amount to f300 a year; something must be added to that, for no one will care to go there for as much again as that amount. However, let me see the list of those who would pay the aforesaid f300, and now that more people are coming the amount will increase. Lay this matter before the schepens some day and have them discuss the means and write to me about it. Do not forget to send me at the earliest opportunity all the accounts, especially that of the Company and what they owe me, as I have furnished them things for years and never received anything. Send me also the account of the returns of my merchandise, sent at various times by my small boat as well as by arent van corler, and also in due course, that of the goods which go herewith. May the Lord graciously watch over them and allow goods, people and animals to arrive at your place without accident. I should also like to have the instrument of purchase of paep Sickiels Island. Henceforth it will not be necessary for the grantors to appear before the director and council of New Netherland, but it will be sufficient that they appear before the officer and council of the colony of Rensselaerswyck to make the transfer, making the same declaration as is put in the former deeds. Please to greet bastiaen Janse Croll, commis at Fort Orange, heartily from me. I request you to live with him and the Company in all friendship and as good neighbors and that you assist each other on all occasions with words and deeds and with life and limb against all those who would injure the servants or subjects of my colony, as the Company on its side has promised to do by the 25th article of the Freedoms of New Netherland.

I have noticed that the farmers and others without my knowledge and consent have traded with derreck coortsen and the crew of my boat; they must avoid this or I shall punish it with confiscation. If they have any skins, let them deliver them to you for my account, so that I may have something too for my heavy expenses, as I have now for seven or eight years received little or nothing but always paid out large sums. Take care that the servants and others who receive wages are paid there, so that I am not bothered about that here. Let the farmers pay the wages of their servants in full and debit me for one half of the amount which I will pay them and let them not charge me with the full wages of the servants so that I must recover one half from the masters. In this way I am rid of that for a while and they must find means to satisfy their servants. The councilors whom you have chosen are approved by me, but in order that the charges do not become too great at least two schepens must retire each year and the vacancies be filled by others from among the ablest, as is done here in this country. You must see to it that the aforesaid schepens hold session at least once a month or if need be every week to consider all things touching the administration of the colony and to settle all questions and disputes. Each time the schepens meet, a prayer must be offered up by the most suitable person in order that the blessing of the Lord may rest upon you and grant you wisdom and understanding; the fear of the Lord and justice I commend to you most highly and before all things.

The account of Seegen Jansen must not be put off any longer and do not forget to send us a sample of a few muddes of the best wheat and rye, which should have been done already.

With regard to the indemnity of the . . .<sup>8</sup> discretion should be used, without being too severe you should by constant admonition cause them to entertain a lively sense of their duty and what they owe the colony on account of the damage which they have done. I see that Gerret de reux wants to come over some time to make new terms. He may then at the same time seek himself a wife. The terms must be such that I shall get some return from my land and finally enjoy the fruits of the great expenses which I have had. With God's help it will no doubt improve each year if I do not spare money and pains. Do not neglect to read over this letter and my previous letters once in a while to refresh your memory.

If Cornelis melyn, supercargo of the ship het wapen van norweg<sup>n</sup>, who must have f1000 for the passage of our people and the freight of goods and 15 horses, should load some grain at the manhatans, at the current price there, you will replace the same and send receipt therefor.

If you should happen to be at the manhatans and have any skins for the colony, you might send by this ship some 100 or 200 beavers, provided you enter them with the director and take a receipt for them, as well as a bill of lading from the supercargo.

And as direck Coortsen has thus far given me no detailed account of the board of my people who went over in my ship, do not forget to send me the account thereof at once and to let me know what the amount is.

Jacob Albertsen planck, officer and commis in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

12 May 1638

Yesterday afternoon all the papers and documents were sent to you and now it is discovered that dirck corsz., who has deceived the inhabitants of my colony in every way and incited and induced them to private trading, has declared today that the following persons are guilty and have traded with him, to wit:

Pieter Cornelisz van munnikendam, he alleges owes him 155
 f155:16:8 guilders, 16 stivers and 8 pence, but he does not say for what. You will therefore ask the said pieter Cornelisz what this debt is for, whether for goods which he has received from him or for passage money and board of his men. Let him be frank about it, I shall not take it ill of him this time, even if it is different from what I think, provided he pay you the said amount to send to me for the account of the person whom it may concern. Sijmon jansz. henypot has asked me whether he should pay the said sum to dirck corsz, but I have forbidden him to do so as I did not know what this debt arose from, whether from goods delivered or from passage money of his men. Said henypot now goes over again; he has told me about some small casks of brandy but, from what I hear, it seems that he takes with him several pieces of duffel among his beet sacks or other baggage. He should not do this without telling me about it. Speak to him about it in a discreet way, for I do not propose to have people cheat me in this underhand fashion and would rather that such traders stayed away from there, as these people not only deprive me of my returns from my colony but in addition defraud the West India Company of its duties, which must be paid first and before everything else. After that, I must . . .<sup>10</sup> such expenses not profit some one else and I have the dishonor.

 all events I have received nothing of it. Let this willem adriaensz nothing.

These aforesaid matters you will quietly investigate one after the other and advise me what answer and satisfaction each person gives you. If they refer to their note of hand, you will in my name reply that I shall indemnify them for all future calls upon them, and in case of refusal you will tell those who are in my colony that I shall know how and where to recover the money, but if they appear willing, I shall smooth things over so that this time they need expect no trouble. In the future they must carry on such dealings as they have had with dick Corsz or may have with others, with my knowledge or at least with yours or that of the person who at the time shall be commis of my colony, in order that I may have my share and the Company its trade. I could not help sending this to you; and in order that you may be compensated for your trouble, make every one pay you a small fine of one stiver in the guilder or one skin in twenty; wherewith I commend you to God. Vale.

Honor be to God; in Amsterdam 12 May 1638

Monsieur Melijn: Enclosed is a letter to be delivered to Jacob planck, as I had forgotten to write him something. Advise me at your convenience of the receipt of this letter as it is of great importance. Further, do your best to sail in the name of the Lord as soon as possible, to deliver our people, goods and horses as safely as possible and to treat them well. Keeping the fear of the Lord before your eyes, He will undoubtedly through His divine grace grant you a happy and speedy voyage, wherewith, commending you to His faithful protection, I remain, with hearty greetings—de wilde sailed on this boat and although I have not seen him—<sup>15</sup>

Herewith also a package of eight very useful books, No. X, also to be handed to Jacob planck with the aforesaid letter. Enter them also at the end of your bill of lading so as not to forget them and keep them in your chest or somewhere else where they do not get wet. It would not be bad either to read them on the ship; you might take them all out and then wrap them up again when you get on land.

Request to Cornelis Melijn and Jackop wolfersen

We, the underwritten, officers and sailors who have hired ourselves out to sail with the ship named het wapen van noorweegen on the voyage to Virginia or New Netherland and teera noua and who have come here to proceed on our voyage with the first favorable wind which God may grant, find on the ship so much obstruction that we deem it not advisable to go to sea in a vessel which is so encumbered with boxes, trunks and forage for the horses, that it is impossible to use or move a single piece, yes, we do not know where to turn to go to belay a sheet or bowline; on the other hand it is impossible for the ship to sail or float on account of the encumbrance and heavy weight, as we found out between Amsterdam and the Texel. We are therefore resolved rather to leave the vessel than to go to sea with such a ship, for no matter who or what persons come aboard they are astonished to find so encumbered a ship, and, as moreover the pilot and the bargemaster express the same opinion, we now kindly request that you will do your best and relieve us from such heavy burden and lighten the vessel so that we may cross the ocean in the usual way; and in order to accomplish such lightening at least six horses must be taken out and our boxes, chests, casks and other goods put in their place; and if you do not please to lighten the vessel, we will not consent to go to sea in the ship under any consideration, but first it must be lightened; and if you take six horses out, we will not do as our carpenter and another man have done but, with God's help, will faithfully accomplish the voyage.

<sup>15</sup> The Dutch of this incomplete sentence which seems to have no connection with the letter reads as follows: de wilde is los geraeckt p dese cage ende hoe wel ick hem niet gesien hebben. The meaning is uncertain; de wilde may be a personal name, but may also be translated "the savage;" cage probably stands for kaag, a one-masted boat for inland navigation.

Willem Kieft to Kiliaen van Rensselaer<sup>20</sup>

August 14, 1638

Sir:

While sailing to the Bay to dispatch the ship den Haringh, we encountered your ship 't wapen van noorwegen and received your honor's letter of the 7th of May, to which I reply but briefly owing to the circumstances of the moment. The bearer hereof is Mr Cornelis melyn who goes to terra neuf or Canada to trade for fish or peltries; the Lord grant him a profitable and safe journey.

Your honor's goods have been unloaded, except some things which they kept in the ship or which were not sent with it, in regard to which Jacob wolpertsen, who has the invoice, writes to your honor.

I have had a shallop loaded and it has gone up the river with the people; the horses are still here in charge of a man and a boy; all the bricks, coal and iron are also here yet but will be sent by the next shallop. I am troubled about how to get the horses up the river, as we have no vessel in which they can be sent, the bark going to the West Indies.

The yacht s<sup>t</sup>. merten has gone to the south and does not come here till autumn. There are no other vessels by which horses can be sent. It is not possible to transport them in the scow, so that I shall send them up in an open lighter, which however will hardly hold two and oblige us to make many trips, which at the moment is very inconvenient, the more so as we have but few people and I desire to discharge some in order to lessen the Company's burden. Your honor will therefore in the future need a vessel or two, especially if the grain is sent to the English, for we shall as a rule be able to help ourselves. f270 a last is too much. It will not bring nearly as much among the English, who have also but little cash to pay for the goods on which a duty of two or three per cent must be paid, but this will show itself when the trial is made. As the population increases here, the price will likely for some time remain the same.

Some time ago I sent a shallop up the river expressly with the goods that came with minuyt; now another has gone expressly for you; and the lighter will have to do likewise, as we have no business whatever up above. I shall make a note of the trips and of the circumstances (your officers in the colony ought to do the same) so that later on I can show the directors what I have done with their things and servants.

I thank your honor heartily for your honor's offer of the horses and goods; I do not think that we shall keep any of them, unless it were three or four bars of iron. I shall exert myself to the utmost to assist your people in every way I can with a clear conscience, your honor need have no doubt respecting this; I only wish that your colony might flourish and others become also desirous of engaging in similar undertakings. If the Company will only not get discouraged on account of the continual heavy expenses, abandon everything and back up the English; for certainly you would be caught in a trap and the whole colony not be worth a stiver if the English occupy this river, as some say. I am very anxious to know what the directors will resolve to do. If they continue to do as they have done thus far, I should prefer to be away from here and it would be better for them to order us home.

I have given Cornelis melyn, charged to your account, fIII:3 on his bill of freight;<sup>20a</sup> I shall subtract this when the account for the grain received shall be liquidated.

As to your honor's statement that the payment for the grain was to be made in beavers, I shall take good care not to do so even if Mr van twiller had so decided. I can in no wise come to this resolution, as in this manner the wheat, which is black and small anyway and produces but little, would cost us nearly f500 a last and the Company which is heavily burdened be almost robbed of her beavers, of which she has few enough.<sup>21</sup> I also find on the books here that your honor has since the beginning been indebted to the Company for so much money, goods and also horses and cattle that I shall do nothing in this matter without express orders from the directors. As I said above, we shall need little or no grain.

Our minister has gone up the river with the shallop to perform his duties there.

Wherewith concluding, I commend your honor, after friendly salutations, to the protection of the Most High; may He grant your honor whatever tends to eternal and temporal well being. Amen.

Amsterdam, this 14th of September 1638

I take the liberty to address myself to your honor in this matter, as no one is better acquainted with it and the more so as your honor has been appointed by their High Mightinesses the States General as one of the committee<sup>23</sup> [to consider] the difference between the West India Company on the one side and the patroons of New Netherland on the other side, which matter so far as I am concerned is still pending; if one were to judge from results, a great difference would be found between the condition of my colony, which I have thus far managed and erected at the expense of myself and my confraters without charge and with profit to the Company, and the condition of other colonies which the Company has bought at considerable cost and, though at great yearly expense, has brought to a state of ruin and decline, yes, in the South River, reduced to almost nothing.

My intention in this matter is not to dispute with the Company, as there is no occasion for it at present, but in all humility to request your honor to maintain my dear and precious rights (not considered in haste or by a few persons only, but at different times in all the respective Chambers after communication with the chief participants of each; adopted in various sessions of the XIX, with the knowledge of the deputies of their High Mightinesses and also approved by letters written to the patroons by their High Mightinesses themselves) of which I send you enclosed a printed copy. It is true that in the new project by the Chamber of Amsterdam it is stated "that henceforth no one &c"; but this is drawn in so brief a form that no mention is made of all the previous freedoms which have lasted nine years, about which so many reports have been made in the Assembly of the XIX and since which so many things have happened, notice having been given by many different people regarding colonies other than my own, lands and animals bought for them by private individuals, and people and farm implements sent there, all of which, in my opinion and subject to correction, neither can nor ought to be passed by in silence without prejudice to those interested. I request therefore humbly and kindly that inasmuch as the Chamber of Amsterdam has taken such painstaking care even of the disputable freedoms offered to the freetraders to and in Brazil, that my freedoms and those of all others interested in this matter may not be allowed to suffer through such silence, but that their High Mightinesses according to the fifth article of the enclosed Freedoms may please to take care that the first occupants be not prejudiced in the rights they have obtained and that these may be expressly stipulated in the new freedoms which are now about to be granted. It seems also very strange to me that under the present alteration no patroons or colonies are admitted and that the fur trade is thrown open to those not interested in New Netherland equally with those who have great interests at stake there, to those who do not live there with those who do live there, and to those who are not participants with those who are participants — for up to the present violent and sharp debates have occurred about the said trade, directed even against those who control more land there than the Company itself. As I understand it, their High Mightinesses are not over much pleased with the draft of the Chamber of Amsterdam but, as I am out of the board of directors, I have to look out only for the interests of myself and my associates, which is no other than the aforementioned clause that the first occupants are not to be prejudiced in the rights which they have obtained. This being included in the Freedoms, I commend the matter at issue to their High Mightinesses and to all those who have any voice in it, though I am surprised that time can bring about such changes that of 31 well considered articles not one can stay as it is and that the very foundations are turned upside down. It is true, I know, that your honor's advice in this matter is also sought by the Amsterdam Chamber, but as my request does not interfere with theirs and as I seek only to keep what I have, I can not do less for myself and my associates than to watch that our rights be preserved, in which I urgently pray your honor to lend me the helping hand. If there is anything in which according to my small powers I can be of service to your honor or do you a kindness, you have on all occasions but to command me. Excusing myself that I take the liberty —

Ordinance of Director and Council of New Netherland, prohibiting the sale of firearms to Indians and requiring vessels sailing to or from Fort Orange, the South River or Fort Hope, to obtain a permit<sup>24</sup>

Copy

Whereas the director general and council of New Netherland have observed that many persons, both servants of the Company and inhabitants, contrary to the orders and commands of the High and Mighty Lords the States General and the Chartered West India Company, have presumed to sell to the Indians in these parts, muskets, powder and lead, which has already caused much evil and will hereafter result in but greater evil if no means be adopted by us here to prevent the same; therefore every inhabitant of New Netherland, be his state, quality or condition what it may, is most expressly forbidden to sell any muskets, powder or lead to the Indians, on pain of being punished by death, and if any one shall inform against any person who shall violate this law, he shall receive a reward of 50 guilders. Furthermore, all persons are hereby notified that no one shall undertake to sail with any sloop or other vessel to Fort Orange, the South River or Fort Hope, without a permit from the honorable director and, on coming thence, bringing with him a pass from the commis of the Company residing at the respective place aforesaid; and in case it be found that any one has been at the place above named without the aforesaid permit, such vessel and the goods laden therein shall be confiscated to the benefit of the Company and, in addition, such fine imposed as according to the merits of the case shall be deemed proper. And all our dear and faithful commisen who have authority at the places where these presents are sent are ordered and commanded to affix the same at the usual place, so that their contents may be known to every one and each be on his guard against damage. Thus done and published in Fort Amsterdam, this 31st of March 1639. Underneath was written: Agrees with the Resolution Book of the honorable the former director general and council of New Netherland, Cor: Van tienhouen, secretary.

Tousain Mussaert, at Leyden

This in haste on account of lack of time will serve to inform you that I have received yours concerning Jeronimus La Crois. By my order, he has sent for 50 blankets, dyed white and green, but not fixed, at f3:15 a piece, which you will please order and send up in haste. The amount to be furnished for the colony has been fixed at f4000 for goods, f1000 for my advances and f1000 for payment to brant peelen according to his enclosed letter (which you will please return to me). During the eight years that he has been in that country, his accounts have never been settled and he has received but little money. The subscription for each 1/10 share will therefore be fixed at 600 guilders, which you will please communicate to Mr delaat and through him to Mr blommaert, who is at the Hague, in order that I may receive the said money at the first opportunity, as I have already advanced money again. I hope that we shall not have to make any further subscriptions after this and that the colony will be able to take care of itself. As to the f2500 which, it is conjectured, are still due to gerrit de reus, we must pay that upon advice as to his being living or dead.

Willem Kieft, director in New Netherland

The 12th of May 1639, in Amsterdam

I find myself with your very agreeable letters of the 25th of April, the 31st of July, and the 14th of August of last year, to which a brief answer follows. In the first place, I thank your honor most earnestly for your promptness in dispatching my goods and men to the colony, especially for the ingenious way of sending up my horses in the lighter, as upon the report of my nephew van Twiller I was much worried how it could be done, it having never occurred to me that in all these years no better accommodation should have been provided. In the future I must regulate myself accordingly; and I now hope that, though the lighter must have proved expensive, my horses which have cost me so much arrived in the colony before winter. How the present horses, which are bound for the Manhatans only, will fare on their way remains to be seen and in the future, in sending any from here, I must regulate myself according to that also. However, I do not intend to send any more horses for the present, but should like to avail myself of any opportunity of obtaining some cows for my colony, as last season I lost 11 cows in one year. If there is any chance of buying a supply of young cows and if the price is not excessive, I shall be much pleased, even if they are only heifers. It might easily be that some of those that are sent over now could be obtained towards winter on account of lack of hay, which can be had at a reasonable price less well at the manhatans than in the colony; however, as I have at present no one at the Manhatans, I should not dare commission your honor herewith, especially as I understand from your honor's letter that five farms are unoccupied and the cattle must be needed there. I judge, however, that the land at the manhatans must be bad, as the people with their cattle are going to other places where they expect to find better land, and that they can do without these. I may wait till next year, when I hope that there will be an opportunity on the return of my nephew van Twiller, who is so taken with the country that it will be hard for him to stay away. Kindly do me the favor, however, to buy for me at the current price six or eight heifers to be sent up the river. I shall be very much obliged for this and other kindnesses which I have received from your honor and I hope that in time there will be opportunity to repay them.

There are many people in this country, among them some of large means, who would like to invest their capital in New Netherland if the Company would admit other colonies, in refusing which it makes a great mistake in my opinion, for instead of many poor beggars whom it now gets,<sup>27</sup> it would find people of means who with their money could send all sorts of men and the patroons who stayed here would secure the Company against loss and offense in that country. Your honor will sufficiently understand what difference there is between commanding a loose mass of people and ruling, through representatives from different orders of society, according to the custom in this country, a republic composed of different members each of which in the first instance prevents as far as possible all acts of insolence in its own sphere, so that only great and important matters resulting from the lesser ones are referred to the general chief, which general chief should be assisted by delegates from the respective members. However, as it seems that the Company is not inclined that way, it will not be possible to bring this about gradually and carefully but only to introduce it when the charges become too heavy, in order to get relief, though it will not be possible to do it then as conveniently as if matters had been guided in that direction from the beginning. Your honor will please excuse me if I expatiate too much on this subject; it has been my object from the beginning and I am not jealous to keep my freedoms for myself alone, but am quite willing that others should have the same privileges, and dare freely express my opinion that, if the Company admits no more colonies, the bounds of New Netherland will not be extended but contracted and encroached upon, as is done even now by foreigners, English as well as Swedes.

Returning now again to my private affairs, I enclose the invoice of the goods which I send by the ship den Harinck, in order that your honor may see that I seek to deal with the Company in all sincerity. Your honor can open the boxes as you please and examine them to make sure that there is nothing else in them; but if there is anything that your honor needs for the Company or for yourself, I wish that I could satisfy you rather than my people who are inexperienced,<sup>28</sup> or that your honor would give me further information . . .<sup>29</sup> what I entrust in secret to my servants they may later when I have made them too wise use against me. They imagine at once that the same prices for grain which I make with the Company must also be paid cash to them, although there is a reason for doing this between me and the Company which does not exist between them and me who am their master. On the other hand, the goods which I receive from the Company by way of payment, they would also want to have at the same price if they knew too much about it; therefore, settle this matter if possible by yourself in order to have a definite basis for the future, and as to your honor having scruples about settling this between you and me, on my request, I do not see that it is contrary to the commission from the lords directors, for the instructions you have to trade with my people does not exclude trading with the principal himself instead of with his servants; and whether through ignorance of circumstances I have in this letter ordered anything to my detriment or benefit, I shall submit myself in fairness to your honor's judgment, but if there should then still be some difficulty refer the matter with the arguments to the Company and to me, for I should not like to have my people get too wise and figure out their master's profit, especially in matters in which they themselves are somewhat interested,<sup>30</sup> for in the course of time I shall have to find means with which to pay the wages of commisen and others [for work] for which as yet I still have to employ the farmers and others. I have no objection to their knowing everything, except the freight and other charges, the price of grain and the manner of payment; these I would rather keep a secret between the Company and myself. I ask you kindly to assist me herein without detriment to the Company, and to communicate nothing of this to the servants of the Company but to write freely and openly about it to the lords directors, who, I hope, will keep it secret also, and to give your advice and reasons on each point separately, as there are but few. I shall then be better able to trade with my people and to satisfy them. If your honor approve of this, send only the enclosed invoice with the goods to my people, keeping the rest with yourself; but if you disapprove, and I hope that you will not, your honor will please send the invoice with all these enclosed papers to my cousin Arent van Corler, who is still young. They may see what arrangements they can make with you.

I am negotiating about sending some people of capacity<sup>31</sup> to my colony, but they were not able to make up their minds so quickly and to get ready, and in the former officer, Jacob Planck, I do not find a proper manager. He knows more about trading furs, which have been of greater profit to him than to me; however, I wish to part from him in friendship and not to give the least occasion for dissatisfaction among my people, for they stir one another up. This in secret between your honor and me but little news to the lords directors who understand matters of government.<sup>32</sup>

And as the payment for the grain and the acceptance of the merchandise is still uncertain, I should like to have the rumor go forth that the merchandise was to be sold at an advance of 50% and that the wheat had sold at eight guilders Holland value and to have your honor settle accounts with my people on that basis, with the understanding that the Company in good faith will pay me whatever we shall agree upon in addition; and in order that your honor may not think that I try to defraud my people in the least, I will further explain to your honor my reasons. The first is that they do not by far give me what they promise in this country, for instance I have found out that Gerrit de reux, with whom I had agreed that all gains no matter what they might be called should be shared half and half, has had nearly 1500 guilders worth of goods for himself of which I had no knowledge, and the others apparently in proportion, and then they dare sustain that I ought to pay them here promptly for the wheat, which was delivered to the Company, at 10 guilders a mudde, while up to this date I have received from the Company nothing but credits on my accounts, aside from the fact that I stipulated the right of preemption of the animals and consequently also of the grain, which I think may fairly be reckoned at eight guilders between them and me. As to the merchandise, inasmuch as I have sold that which I have thus far sent from here to them at an advance of 50%, they ought on account of the increased charges by the Company pay me something more too, which they will be the more willing to do when the rumor goes forth that they cost me so much from the Company. At all events, it is plain to me that I can not defraud them but that they can defraud me. Here your honor has now the entire secret of my affairs, as to which I would rather deal with your honor or with the Company without the knowledge of my people than with their knowledge.

Regarding my nephew van twiller, although they have dealt very sharply with him, he has taken all his books and papers with him and given them such satisfaction that to this hour the lords directors have not been able to accuse him on one single point upon which he has not given them satisfaction. He has had to suffer many evil tongues, which never fails to be the lot of those who occupy any high charge or post. I should be pleased if the minister continued to perform religious services a few times a year in the colony at Fort Orange. I have thought of some means whereby I could engage a minister and other officers but must see how it will work.

Cornelis Melyn is still in France. He sold our ship there with profit but through lack of knowledge of the matter has had a poor catch and caught not much over 12,000 codfish. In course of time this will have to be looked after better, at present we must pay for our experience.

Your honor will please place to my credit whatever goods you have kept and each year settle accounts with my men, balancing the amount against the grain delivered by them. As to the necessity for my having a boat, the expenses have truly thus far been so high that nothing has been done about it; and as to the freight charges on my goods sent to the colony, as your honor says, these ought to be included in the account of the grain and merchandise, especially as the Company promises the patroons, for the sake of better populating the country, to transport all farm implements free, but I shall wait to see what your honor charges me for that. I do not in the least desire that the Company shall suffer loss, but if their goods are going up or grain comes down it would be an accommodation if those of the patroon were shipped with them.

I did not in the least want to mix my people's goods with my own and hope that they like others will pay the duties and freight; the only things that by mistake got among my goods are a small cask of gunpowder belonging to Reyer Stoffelssen and four shirts of my cousin arent van Corler; I know of no others. As you write that I shall need a vessel in case my grain is sold outside the limits of the Company, you would do me a kindness by informing me thereof in time so that provision can be made, but as your honor writes that if the population continues to increase the price of grain will keep up for some time, I think that there will be no need for it so very soon; moreover, if the English knew that we had a supply of grain they would no doubt themselves come for it from Virginia and New England. The coming of these horses and other animals will spread the rumor of our [efforts at] populating widely among our neighbors and show them that the Company is taking the matter in hand more earnestly than before.

Your honor will see from the letter of the Company that they do not make so much difficulty about furnishing peltries for grain as your honor does, for they put it indifferently either one or the other.<sup>33</sup> Your honor makes a mistake in valuing the skins there at the price they bring here. In throwing the trade open to every one, which does not please me any too well, there will be a great deal of fraud, and whether the Company has herein followed the best course is not for me to inquire. The difficulties which I foresee in it will no doubt reveal themselves in time and I can not see how the officers of the Company will thereby rise in estimation or find opportunity to let the Company make profits; on the contrary, they will yearly run far behind. At first there will be somewhat of a rush and duties and freights may increase, but this will soon cease. Enclosed is my statement of what I may owe the Company, this can be settled here better than there. Please to greet oloff Stevesz from me, who has been my . . .<sup>34</sup> and is now in your honor's service; give him the enclosed. I should consider it a favor if he were advanced a little.

Commission to Arent van Curler as secretary and bookkeeper of the colony of Rensselaerswyck<sup>35</sup>

Arent van Corler, who sailed as assistant of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, is hereby promoted to and qualified as secretary and bookkeeper of the said colony, to enter upon the records faithfully all resolutions and public instruments; also to keep proper books and accounts of the increase of the animals as well as of their deaths, indicating the day and month and as far as possible the cause of death: also to make proper distinction between expenses which must be charged to the patroon or the colony and those that must be charged to the farms and to the accounts of the individual farmers, tobacco planters or other servants, the patroon's intention being that after he has once erected the houses of the respective farmers and provided them with [hay] barrack and barn, wagon and plow, the same shall thereafter be kept in repair, half at the expense of the patroon and the participants and half at the expense of the farmers, not including herein the household effects which each farmer must provide at his own charge; moreover, to prevent all carelessness, the farmer must bear one half of the damage by fire to his house and what belongs to it; also to enter the 16 guilders a year extra for expenses of each farm hand,<sup>36</sup> which covers all small expenses and also the earnest money and agent's commission for procuring said farm hands and to which shall be added only the annual wages which they receive: also to demand of the farmers annual returns of the increase of the animals and the surplus grain, one half belonging to the patroon or the participants and the other half to themselves, the wheat being valued provisionally at six guilders a mudde, for reasons more fully specified in the instructions, with promise that those who will serve him conscientiously, faithfully and justly will receive as much more than six guilders as circumstances will in his opinion in any way permit: also to keep proper account of how much each farmhouse costs and to see to it that the timber be hewn for them in winter and that the carpenters do good work at reasonable wages, the patroon intending that he shall, with the advice of Cornelis Theunissen as representative<sup>37</sup> of the patroon and the participants, contract at a reasonable rate for the houses which may be erected there until other officers or commisen specially qualified to do so shall arrive in the colony, in order that the carpenters may receive proper wages and the patroon get good and cheap work. And as the administration of justice in the said colony ought not to be neglected either, the said arent Van Corler shall advise with the person above mentioned and in more serious cases also seek the assistance of Pietter Cornelissen and with them provisionally and until further order fill the post of officer. Upon receiving good reports and results of their services the patroon will pay proper attention to the promotion which is most suitable to them. The patroon recommends to each one to do his duty and to live with the others in friendship, peace and harmony, to hold religious services at the proper seasons especially on Sunday by public prayers, hymns, thanks, and readings from the Holy Scriptures and the authors of the Reformed Christian Church. Further, he orders this document to be entered on the records after it and also the commissions of the others have first been publicly read in the full council of the colony. Done at Amsterdam, this 12th of May of the year of our Saviour Jesus Christ one thousand six hundred and thirty-nine and in witness of the truth signed by me. Was signed: kiliaen van rensseleer, patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, and further sealed with the seal of the said colony.

<sup>34</sup> die myn dick over geweest is. The meaning of this phrase which hints at some former connection or business relation between Kiliaen van Rensselaer and Oloff Stevensz van Cortlandt, the future father in law of the patroon's son Jeremias, is not clear. By changing a single letter, the phrase can be read die myne ick over geweest is (who I believe has been over) but as the patroon would unquestionably have known whether Oloff Stevensz had been in Holland or not, it would seem that this interpretation must be rejected.

Cornelis Theunissen van breuckelen, farmer on the farm called Cornelis teunissen, Bloemartsburch, is hereby appointed and authorized to fill the position and office of representative<sup>39</sup> [to defend] the rights of the patroon and the interests of the participants in the colony of Rensselaerswyck and to represent him and them in everything that may tend to the advantage of his aforesaid lords and masters. And a's the colony for [certain] reasons is as yet not provided with a commis, the aforesaid Cornelis Theunissen shall assist with word and deed the person of arent van Corler, who is secretary and book-keeper of the said colony and who will hold the said office provisionally and until further order, in order that all the goods that are received may be carefully entered on the proper accounts and that a record may be made of their disposal; also help to bring about that all resolutions and public instruments be entered on the records of the colony, among them this present commission, which provisionally is to last for a period of two years. Done at Amsterdam, this 12th of May in the year of our Savior Jesus Christ, one thousand six hundred and thirty-nine and in witness of the truth signed by me. Was signed: kiliaen van rensselaer, patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, and further sealed with the seal of the said colony.

<sup>39</sup> voorspraecke; literally one who speaks for another, one who pleads or defends another's cause. In seventeenth century documents the term occurs frequently in the legal sense of attorney, or advocate, as for instance in the resolution of the States of Holland and West Friesland of July 30, 1603, whereby schouts and secretaries are forbidden to appear in the courts with which they are connected as voorspraaken or woorthouders of parties to actions pending in such courts. As the duties of Cornelis Teunisz according to his commission and instructions were apparently less of a legal than of a general representative character, to look after the patroon's interests, the term "representative" has been preferred in these translations to either attorney or advocate.

Commission to Pieter Cornelisz van Munnickendam as receiver of tithes and supercargo of the vessel<sup>40</sup>

Pieter Cornelissen van munnickendam, master millwright of the mill company, is hereby appointed and authorized to receive and to collect, in accordance with his instructions sent to him by letter, such tithes as are covered by the annexed authentic extract from the contract made and entered into with the freemen or inhabitants of the colony of Rensselaerswyck executed in the name of the absentees before Notary joost vande venne on the 28th of March 1639, and this provisionally for the period of two years, orders being hereby given to the council of the said colony to lend him a helping hand herein and especially, in the absence of higher officers whose places for certain reasons are for the present still kept vacant, to the secretary and bookkeeper of the said colony, arent Van Corler, and to Cornelis Theunissen van breuckelen, in his capacity of representative of the patroon and the participants in the colony aforesaid, in order that the good and Christian intentions which the patroon and participants of the said colony have with regard to the holding of divine service and the maintenance of justice, though largely at their charge and expense, may not be frustrated. But since in the beginning all dues can not be strictly determined and collected, the aforesaid receiver of tithes, advising with the aforesaid two persons, shall have power to treat and settle in fairness with the persons concerned and shall yearly render accounts of the proceeds, stating the amount thereof, so as to be able to make better calculations in engaging the minister and other officers of the colony. It is hereby agreed that the aforesaid pietter Cornelysen shall receive for his trouble and expenses in connection therewith the tenth penny of said tithes, and power is given him to apply the said receipts in the most economical and useful manner for the interests of religion and justice and of the patroon and the participants.

He is also hereby authorized to act as supercargo <sup>41</sup> of the vessel which shall sail up and down the river for the said colony and no one is to ship anything either up or down without his knowledge and consent, and the said pieter Cornelissen shall cause this commission to be entered upon the records of the colony. Done at Amsterdam, this 12th of May of the year of our Savior Jesus Christ one thousand six hundred and thirty-nine. In witness of the truth signed by me, and was signed: Kiliaen van renselaer, patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, and further sealed with the seal of the said colony.

Permit to Maurits Jansz van Broeckhuysen to settle as farmer on de Laets Burg<sup>42</sup>

Maurits Iansen van broekhuijsen, heretofore appointed as farmer<sup>43</sup> on a farm newly to be established on the east side of the river, is hereby authorized [to settle on de laets burch,<sup>44</sup> as] farmer on the farm called de laets burch,<sup>44</sup> on which formerly Gerrit de reux was farmer, and this on the conditions agreed upon with Gerrit de reux in the year 1632, and also with the stipulation as to the right of preemption of the grain and animals at the option of the patroon and participants of the said colony of Rensselaerswyck heretofore misconstrued by gerrit de reux; the patroon promises however that if the said maurits jansen conducts himself well on the said farm and honestly and faithfully accounts for all gains and profits, no matter what they may be called or how he may have obtained them, not concealing any, then the patroon will allow him more for the grain according to circumstances, as is more fully specified in the commission given this day to arent van Corler; included herein is also the fur trade on half shares and nothing else; reference is further made to all parts of the aforesaid commission which relate to the farmers as well as to the contract made with Gerrit de reux aforesaid, especially to the clause providing that the six years of the aforesaid lease both with regard to the pasture and the plowed land shall commence each year on the first day of the month of January and also end exactly on that date, but the wages of the farm hands and the leases of the houses shall commence and cease or expire on the first of May following. He shall not be permitted to have any grain appraised on the field for the account of the patroon but the latter shall receive one half of what shall actually be in the barn on the first of January, when most of the grain

The 13th of May 1639, in Amsterdam

Mon Cousyn: As the wind turns rapidly toward the east I must make haste with my business of the colony. I have received yours of the 16th of July 1638, to which I will say briefly that you do superfluous work by putting the date both at the top and at the bottom of the letter, once is enough; also by adopting the general style followed in the schools, for example: If it were otherwise I should be heartily sorry. Such and similar words fill the paper but give no advice. You might leave these out and in place thereof write me definitely about everything that happens in the colony, and instead of taking such pains to write letters for others, write to me, for your promotion must not come from them but from me and you must give me separate answers to everything that is mentioned in this letter and in all the papers which I send you. In that way I shall see what use I can make of you. You must in the beginning not hold your head too high, for that does not end well. I had asked your brother to write to you the situation at nyckerck and of the death of your father. He tells me that he has done so but, instead of communicating the said letter to me as I expected, he has sent it by Sander,<sup>48</sup> for which I am not well pleased with him. I am also displeased with you because you sent a letter by aert which he was to deliver himself, and if I understand the reason rightly it is because you write about private transactions which you do not wish me to know about. This is not the right way for advancement. Write of such things to me and I shall not refuse you anything to your advantage which is fair. In the future, therefore, enclose letters which you write to others in those to me, and if you want to seek your greatest advantage leave them open that I may read them. I can then see that you mean to do right by me; otherwise, you give me cause to think that you are seduced by the people and that you want to do as they do and conceal everything from me that is possible and feasible to conceal. Take this from me as a lesson and an admonition to govern yourself accordingly and I shall not fail to advance you if I see that you stand by me instead of by the people. Urge brandt Peelen also to conduct himself honestly and not to be led astray by the actions of Gerrit de reux, who has told him a good many things that are not so and that are to my disadvantage, for he has managed to leave things so that in goods as well as skins and debts and other things, he had about 1000 daelders<sup>49</sup> which of right belong to me, and of which, if he had remained alive, I should apparently not have received much. Brandt pelen and claes jansen ruyter were witnesses thereto, which is all right except that they should have advised me of it or at least have urged Gerrit de reux to enter the same in the books, as he was careful to do about the grain in the field appraised at 75 guilders a morgen, one half of which he was entitled to in June though according to his contract his lease expired in January, as you may read at length in the enclosed documents. I have paid the brother in law of brandt peelen 600 guilders and also agreed to pay f120 to the heirs of Gerrit de reux, deceased. Let him [Peelen] conduct himself as an honest man and do justice to his master ; he will then keep a good conscience and I shall not grudge him his profit if I get my half [share]. Say this also to Cornelis theunissen, with whom you will discuss your affairs and communicate to him this letter and all my papers. I have for that purpose made him my own as well as my coparticipants' representative. Let him also incline toward my side, he will not have to complain of it ; let him help me in my rights, more I do not ask and he shall be duly rewarded by me. I have no time to write to him ; give him his sealed commission and urge him to take good care that his farm be profitable too, as thus far it has been a great expense to me and yielded few returns ; let him also write to me about everything. Hand also to cousin maurits the enclosed appointment as farmer, urging him to be faithful and diligent, for although I am far out of their sight they ought to be faithful to me, as they have no expenses in the world and gain whatever they gain through my investment. Nor ought they to defraud me of any part of my half, no matter how they make it ; my contract with Gerrit de reux says plainly that I am entitled to one half of all and everything. This is the secret, they seek to defraud me in that and I must therefore secure something for myself too by means of the price of grain, till I see that they give me what is due to me ; then I shall seek their best interests also.

<sup>45</sup> Roeloff Cornelisz van Houten; first entered in the account books under date of June 11, 1638.

I have no doubt but you have received the goods which I sent by minuyt, as well as those by Cornelis melyn in twapen van noorwegen, and sold them to my best advantage, either to the people on account or to the savages for skins.

If you and Cornelis theunissen do what is right and send me good returns of peltries, you will have your profit thereof also, as the contract with Iacob planck provides. At first he looked out for me properly, but toward the end mainly for himself ; however, we have come to an amicable agreement, for when I see that a man deals justly with me, I can overlook something. See to it that you do not give or lend to people who are not likely to repay me, as I am again sending a large quantity of goods, of which I enclose the invoice, which I hope that Director kyeft will send you. Of each cargo that arrives by the different ships you must keep a separate account and yearly send me a correct statement thereof, and in order that no stranger swindle us out of the trade in the colony, do not allow any traders to stay with any one in my colony, or to be furnished with provisions or grain, for under that pretext I get cheated and other inhabitants of the colony are defrauded too. The servants of the Company may trade as much as they please but strangers and private traders I do not want my people to trade with. They must trade with my commisen and my commisen with the people of the colony, as can be seen from this enclosed original contract made with the freemen, which you must examine with Cornelis Theunissen. Nor do I want any of my grain to be sold or other articles of food to be given to any traders who refuse to trade with you, nor my people to exchange any goods or merchandise with such traders, on penalty of expulsion from the colony. In fine, whatever strangers trade in my colony must, as said above, trade with my commisen, and then it will go all right and the commisen will also be able to make some profit for themselves and for their master. If you notice that you are short of merchandise employ means to exchange for such merchandise as you lack the skins which you have obtained by barter or which have been delivered to you by other colonists and carry on trade with the neighboring settlements<sup>50</sup> even if this is not quite so profitable. Frequent gain, though little at a time, is also good.

The Company has further charged me to write to its director that he must pay for my grain either peltries or merchandise at reasonable price. I have written my opinion about that to Director kyeft and have no doubt but that, if you run short of any kind of merchandise, he will give you good merchandise for good wheat, as a good deal of wheat must already have been delivered or be in process of daily delivery. Each year you must settle your accounts. Enclosed is a memorial which I sent him; act as if you had not received it and let no one but Cornelis Theunissen see it. In order that you may recognize it, I have marked it with a large N. B. If he gives you merchandise you can barter for skins with it, and if in return for grain he delivers you seawan you can also buy skins with that, and if he has neither he must deliver you skins and the skins you can exchange for merchandise and by so doing put most of the trade in my hands, when I shall also be able to remunerate you better. For the present, as I have no proof of your work, or of that of Cornelis Theunissen,

I have appointed you provisionally as secretary and bookkeeper, and I shall advance you further if you stand by me and do me good service and if you are diligent about writing and keeping record of the farms and animals. And above all be careful not to mix with the heathen or savage women, for such things are a great abomination to the Lord God and kill the souls of the Christians when they debauch themselves with them. Therefore work and move in the council that an ordinance be issued imposing severe fines and punishment on those who are found guilty of it.

I have written a letter to albert andriesen, which is herewith enclosed. You will copy it and hand it to him open and then govern yourself according to the contents. An ordinance should be passed in the colony directing the people to sow wheat by itself, for otherwise they mix rye and wheat, which is bad in every way, especially in reaping, as the rye is ripe sooner than the wheat and therefore spills on the ground during the reaping, to the great loss of the farmers. Let some be sorted first; this will produce clean wheat and can then be used as seed and so increased.

As to the debts which Dirck Corsen claims for merchandise delivered at Rensselaerswyck, according to the memorandum sent to Iacob planck which he has handed to you, please collect these as far as possible and see that Cornelis Theunissen pay his account also.

Cristen Cristensen noorman owes his mate who did not go with him f20 for tools sold to him. Let him pay this to you, he will thereby pay me there what I have advanced him [his mate] here. I believe his name is barent.

Regarding the boards which Peter Cornelissen may saw and which may be needed for my houses, he must not rate them too high, otherwise it were better to divide half and half with him.<sup>51</sup> I have also given him some office, as you can see by his commission. I hear that the mill is working and that plans have been made for the erection, at the least expense, of a grist-mill, which is much needed there.

Concerning the goods which I send you or which you receive there, separate accounts must be sent as follows:

proposition First, of those which are delivered to the people on ac-60% count of their wages. To these people things must be sold somewhat cheaper than to those who give furs in return.

70% Second, of those which you issue to free men or to others

for furs and these people must be divided into two classes, those that give you furs at once receiving things a little cheaper than 80% those who give you furs afterwards, for one can always buy more with ready money than on credit.

at least Third, an account of the furs which you yourself get 100% or as by barter from the savages for merchandise; that will much as you be most profitable to me, but I have no objection to can get others of my people making something too if they turn over the furs to me or to you in my name.

planc brought me at least f100 in grain and f300 in skins. The duty [to the company] here and the import duty must be counted, also the freight charges and the duty for the Company there.<sup>52</sup>

When you receive skins from the director of the Company, for wheat at 4½ guilders a lb,<sup>53</sup> according to the enclosed copy, I need not pay any duty as I am free from that, but of other skins I owe one guilder on every merchantable skin, in conformity with the 15th article of the Freedoms of New Netherlands, which I send enclosed. You must read through carefully; and when you send me skins send me the very best, as I have to pay but one guilder duty on every skin no matter how large it is, while you can exchange the small ones with other people for merchandise.

All the skins or tobacco which you send me you must enter with Director kyeft, taking a receipt from his hand that the duty has been paid. You must pay it in grain and pack the skins in substantial boxes, well preserved, tightly nailed and marked as the boxes which I send you, and on each box or cask you must put a distinct number. If you give me satisfaction in everything you will have enough to do and I shall be able to judge of your ability and take care of your promotion.

Worthy, discreet Sir: As the wind begins to blow and the lords directors will immediately leave for the Texel, I can not answer your letter at length. I am sorry about the discord which I notice among my people, each complaining of the other, and as yet I can not see that it tends much to my profit. I shall therefore await further advice before resolving to appoint my principal officers. I expect from you also further advice concerning the condition of the sawmill. I hope that it is steadily at work and sawing large quantities of boards. However, you must not put the price too high for the lumber that is used in the colony on my houses, for in that way I should receive with one hand and spend twice as much with the other. What is sold to others or to strangers is a different matter. Therefore, you must make the price reasonable or otherwise my people could divide with you, taking as much [lumber] as I would need and leaving you an equal quantity to sell to your best advantage; the balance which might then remain could be sold for the common benefit. Do not neglect to write all the circumstances, how much profit I can expect from the sawmill, what the prospects are for the grist-mills and what they would cost. By the same ship goes a carpenter, called Jan Cornelisz, who understands mill work thoroughly and who is a freeman. He will no doubt assist you in one thing and another, but I recommend to you to arrange matters so that I do not suffer loss, for to treat me like the Company will not do. I prefer to do nothing rather than suffer loss. You write about a house, that is all right for you to live in, but the mill must yield me profit, otherwise the house is of no use. In the hope that your business will succeed, I have also begun to think of your advancement as you will see from the enclosed commission. I highly recommend you to observe your duties and if any one should hinder you in the performance thereof, let me know it, but on your part do not be a cause of dispute; and neglect not to send me our account that I may see how matters stand.

It is said that you have many furs with you; you know how many I have given permission for you to have and everything above that must be shared half and half and when I notice that goods follow and that I do not receive words instead of money, I shall send enough merchandise and not forget you either.<sup>55</sup> As to the tenths of the sawmill, I keep this matter under consideration as the contract which I sent and the extract<sup>56</sup> which I enclose will show you. I have not yet filled the high office or [the posts of] officer and commis, as may be seen from the commissions of the others, which they will doubtless show you and cause to be recorded at the same time.<sup>57</sup>

The money which you owe Dirck Cornelissen<sup>58</sup> you must pay me and I shall reimburse you for it. However, send me the account showing what it is about and deal openly with me about everything. When I notice that, I shall do the same with you. I see in your letter what you have to say about others but this does not vindicate you from what they write about you.<sup>59</sup> With God's help I expect better advice, better profits and better service and harmony than there have been thus far, otherwise it would grieve me and I should be obliged to follow an entirely different course, for if every one seeks his own interests it can not go well with the patroon.<sup>59</sup> From what I hear it seems that Gerrit reux had nearly 1000 daelders worth of property with him, in money and skins as well as in outstanding debts, which apparently I should have been cheated out of if I had not found it out. If others do the same I shall undoubtedly find them out also.<sup>59</sup> If you experience any opposition from the farmers in the delivery of the tenths or the entering of the grain which they ship, let me know it; I shall settle that all right and know how to guard myself against it. I understand also that an ordinance ought to be passed in the colony concerning the grain which is sold to the inhabitants of the colony who ought to get it cheaper than it is sold at the Manhatans. Finally, I listen in expectation<sup>60</sup> and shall see what the results will be. You write about advancing money from your purse; that is speaking in general terms; you should write me what and how much and what has been done with it, and each year send me an account thereof, so that we may yearly settle and balance accounts in order to avoid misapprehension. Wherewith ending in haste, I commend you to the gracious protection of Almighty God and greet you heartily. Vale.

Worthy very discreet Sir: As the wind begins to blow from the east and the lords directors are on the point of going to the Texel to dispatch the ship to New Netherland, I shall not reply at length to your letters but must say to your credit that I have received returns from no one but your honor. On the other hand, I have heard complaints saying that you have cheated Dirck Corsz and for seven pieces of duffel given him but 25 beaver skins. dirck corsz has been an unfaithful supercargo; write me the truth of the matter and pay me what you still owe him and if I then discover your honesty therein, I will on my side reach you the helping hand in every way, and now that the trade is open send you by and by plenty of merchandise. Arrange it so, however, that every one may have something. Provisionally I send herewith some merchandise. Go to my cousin Arent van Carler and give him a true account of the transaction with dirck Corsz so that he can feel that the matter is straight and [if] you satisfy me in this respect I hereby give him orders to deliver to you necessities for yourself and your people at an advance in price of 50%, which with the present increase of duties and freight charges to the Company cost me more myself, as well as merchandise for the Indian trade at an advance of 75% over the purchase price here; in return for this you will furnish him skins at such a price that you make something and that I may have something too and to such an amount as he can give without inconvenience to others and to the trade which he carries on for me, and when these things have gotten well started, keep on my side and you will thank yourself.

And to show that I shall also seek your advantage in the tobacco which you sent me and that which you are to send this year, I will try to sell it at the highest price, which is of benefit to you; furthermore I will give you 25% more than your half of the net proceeds will amount to, which 25% shall be balanced against the 75% that you give me on the merchandise which you trade for skins so that the merchandise as far as the said sum goes will in fact cost but 50%. I will also grant you 25% discount on the grain which you buy from me or need, so that when wheat costs 10 guilders a mudde, you will deduct 25% and really have to pay but 7 guilders and 10 stivers a mudde, that is, so far as the money for the tobacco sold for you reaches, but for anything above that the old price of f10 a mudde must remain, unless a lower price be adopted in the colony, about which I am also writing to Pieter Cornelisz.

If the farmers should agree that the market of the wheat for the inhabitants of the colony and for no one else were fixed at 8 guilders a mudde I shall be satisfied, although I do not like it. In that case, if the wheat came down to 8 guilders, by balancing the 25% discount against the expenses of the tobacco, it would cost you but 6 guilders a mudde, but this must be fixed voluntarily as I should not want to force or constrain any one thereto.

Now as to the tobacco which you sent me, it is a great loss to yourself and to me that the tobacco in these barrels was so poor and thin of leaf that it could not stand being rolled, which must be due to your having left too many leaves on the plants; furthermore the weight was short. On the one hand, I am suspicious about hermen den boutwercker,<sup>62</sup> now going to New Netherland, whom for that reason I did not want to take into my colony as a freeman, as he goes over as a broker and in all sorts of ways tried to induce me to put it<sup>63</sup> at 6 stivers [a pound] which I did not want to do; on the other hand, there must be some error, for barrel No. 2, which you put down at 292 lb, weighed but 220 lb. I have measured the barrel and compared it with others and it is not possible that it could have held so much; however, this is the first time for you and me, in the future we must be more careful about that. These are the weights as I have found them: No. 1, 184 lb; No. 2, 220 lb; No. 3, 190 lb good and 13 lb rotten; No. 4, 143 lb; No. 5, 178 lb; No. 6, 140 lb; No. 7, 187 lb good and three pounds rotten, amounting together to 1242 lb good [tobacco]. Deducting 6%<sup>64</sup> for the stems, or 86 lb, there remain 1156 lb net, which at 8 st a pound amount to f462:8. I have given them to a man to sell for that amount but not half of it is sold yet. Meanwhile I do not want to keep you waiting. I have paid for freight according to my Freedoms 30 st per 100 lb, for which others would have had to pay twice as much. I have also paid 1st per lb duty which amounts to f60, and with some small charges by coopers and truckmen, in all to f90. There remains therefore net f372:8, that is for your half f186:4, against which you must credit me with one half of what you have sold there, and in order to close this account, reckon the wheat which you have received and which you are still to receive at f3 a mudde, for so far as these f186:4 of your half share reach, above that the wheat must be counted at f10. Please make out also each year a complete account of all expenses and receipts from the tobacco so that I can see whether I make progress or not. Had this tobacco not been so bad and wretched, I could have gotten 10 stivers for it, and if in the future you take better care and leave fewer leaves on the plants, I hope that we shall get as high a price as others. The tobacco from Christoffel<sup>65</sup> is here so plentiful that it brings but 3 stivers a lb, therefore try to grow good stuff, for the poor quality brings little money. I can not get many people on account of the great mortality which there has been in this country. Your brother in law was with me but has not come back; be commended to God Almighty.

I shall also look forward to your letter when you have been in the colony, stating what you have found out there to my best interest and your own. Worthy, prudent, very discreet Sir: I find myself with your honor's favor of the 12th of August 1638, but as the wind forces me to be brief, I can not reply as I ought. I thank your honor for your friendly offer and would not in the least have your honor get in any way into difficulty on my account. I seek your honor's favor and assistance only where it does not interfere with the service of your honor's masters and my lawfully obtained Freedoms and Exemptions of New Netherland (offered by the Assembly of the XIX to all the participants), especially in sending people and goods again at the first opportunity and in the most convenient way to the colony, so that they may not be detained; in this you can assist me; I shall not neglect to be grateful. I have already recommended you to the lords directors with whom I am acquainted and think that your honor will now have a better place than the office of fiscal has been, wherewith ending, I commend your honor after hearty greetings to the gracious protection of Almighty God and remain. I was very angry, as I had reason to be, and the Company or its commissioners finding their mistake have hired another ship to go thither and to transport our goods, but when that will get to sea I do not know. It is a great loss to us; we had a fine cargo, amounting to more than f4500, which will still bring us good returns if it can be gotten to the colony before winter, otherwise we shall lose a year's time; this Mr de laet ought at a convenient time and with courtesy to urge on Mr Coenradus and the other directors and show them how their fault results to our prejudice. deprived and cheated of its dues and their patroon of his profits. Therefore, the aforesaid lord patroon, in order to prevent such evil, as well as for other reasons, has seen fit hereby earnestly to admonish and strictly to enjoin all subjects and inhabitants of the said colony that no one of them, whoever he may be, may send out of the aforesaid colony, by himself or by the servants of the aforesaid Company or by any one else, either directly or indirectly, any furs, tobacco or other goods, whether by water or by land, up or down, to the manhatans or to the fatherland or wherever else it may be, without having legally and properly entered and given notice of the same in writing, both to the secretary and to the representative of the patroon, to each separately (and this before any one has loaded or shipped any of the goods in the ships, sloops, canoes or other vessels), with declaration as to the patroon's share therein, everything on pain of forfeiture of the said goods by the sender to the patroon, who shall have the disposal of them, which aforesaid secretary and representative must each for himself keep accurate accounts thereof and furnish the senders with proper certificates. And in order that no one may be exempt therefrom, the aforesaid secretary and representative must, each for himself, notify the supercargo of the vessel of the goods they want to send, even if the goods belong to the patroon, on forfeiture and disposal as above, and no shipments which have not been legally entered shall be sent. And in order that the aforesaid lord patroon may not be deprived of his share of the grain, tobacco and other products, no farmers, tobacco planters or the like, in his employ and under special contract, shall be allowed to alienate, sell or deliver, to whomsoever it may be, any grain, tobacco, products of the soil, animals or whatever else it may be, in which the patroon has a share, without notice to and knowledge and consent of the secretary, representative and supercargo of the vessel, each one separately, or at least two of them, with the exception of the tithes which shall be in the hands of the receiver of the tithes. And in case any one do this without knowledge and consent as above, the half share of the concealer shall be void and forfeited, whenever it shall be discovered or become known, to wit, one fourth part to the officer and the other three fourth parts to the secretary, the representative and the supercargo of the vessel, on condition that they take care, jointly and separately, before they divide, that the patroon's half be properly accounted for and turned over to him. And as the office of officer or schout is at present still vacant, the fourth part belonging to the officer shall be divided into three parts and given to the secretary, the representative and the supercargo of the vessel, which three shall provisionally and until further orders perform the duties of officer, the secretary having the precedence. And the council of the aforesaid colony is hereby ordered and authorized to declare such goods confiscated and to proceed against the violators of this ordinance as according to circumstances they shall see fit, as none of them ought to permit the aforesaid lord and patroon to be in any wise injured in his rights or share, or to connive thereat, in view of the fact that he is far away and can not be present to protect his rights. The aforesaid council shall also see to it that this present ordinance be properly proclaimed and recorded by the secretary and that this ordinance be made known to all the inhabitants, subjects or residents in the said colony (without however admitting any residents) by posting of public notices, proclamation, personal notification or otherwise, in order that no one may claim exemption on account of ignorance, and if the council be neglectful herein, they will be held responsible, since the rights of the aforesaid West India Company and the profit of their patroon are most vitally concerned in this matter. For which purpose the lord patroon has sealed this original instrument with the seal of the colony and signed it with his own hand. In Amsterdam, this third of August 1639.

In Amsterdam, this 4th of August 1639

Mon Cousyn: Enclosed I send you a copy of my previous letter sent by the ship den Harinck; this you must also do, that is, send by each ship copies of what was sent by the preceding one, as the ships may meet with disaster, as did the ship de liefde, which lately sailed from there and was taken here close to land by the Dunkirkers. All the letters and papers were torn and thrown overboard and I received not a word of writing from any one, for which I am very sorry, as I do not know how matters stand there. Dirck stypel<sup>74</sup> told me a good deal by word of mouth but he has acted in a rash way here, so that I fear that he has told me lies. He is at present not to be found, though the banns for his marriage were published last Sunday for the third time, and he does not appear. He told me that on the east side six farms were completed besides the house of Cornelis masen which they were building; further, that this year I had already obtained 12 heifer calves in the colony, also that Commander kycft had settled accounts with you and brocder Cornelissen and sent a draft for about 8000 guilders by the captured ship, and many other things which I doubt very much. If it is true, another draft must be sent to me at the first opportunity. Although the lords directors had agreed with me that they would deliver there furs or merchandise for the grain, which agreement has been sent by den harinck, I am satisfied if this be done for the future; but the aforesaid draft must be sent to me and you must not take goods for it, as I send herewith by the ship Den engel Gabriel such goods as could not be loaded in den harinck, together with many other goods, as you can see from the enclosed invoice, the goods sent in Den harinck amounting to f565:1:8 and those in this ship to f6112:13, for which I shall expect good returns in furs or drafts. If any one of my people should desire any money here in this country, have that transferred to the books of the Company in the custody of Mr kycft, in order that they may receive it here from the Company, the amount to be charged to my account of the grain furnished. And pay those to whom I owe anything there as far as possible in goods or by transferring their accounts and so avoid as much as possible issuing any drafts to me. Enclosed is a sealed ordinance for the council to pass and put into effect in the colony, together with sealed instructions for Cornelis Theunissen and the copy of a detailed memorandum of payments to the people; also four authentic copies of commissions for yourself, for Cornelis Theunissen, for pieter Cornelissen and maurits Jansen van broeckhuysen, the sealed originals of which were sent by the ship den harinck; also a copy of the memorial marked NB; from all of which, as well as from the copy of the last letter and from this letter, you can sufficiently understand my meaning and intention. Please record and copy all [the documents] and observe everything carefully, for in that way you will do me and yourself a service, but it can not be done without pains and I shall soon find out whether you can carry out my plans or whether I must make other arrangements. Now has come the time that you can advance yourself, therefore avail yourself of it. Read and reread all my writings as much as possible; if you do not spare pains you will get more experience from them than a young man acquires who stays four years with a master and pays in addition 100 daelders a year. But you must not spare quills and paper and must reply at length and punctually to everything I write, not from memory, but by placing before you my letters and instructions and answering point for point, and do not follow your own mind but the will and intention of your master. If any one opposes you, give me discreet information and I shall support you, and do not listen to people who seek their own advantage.

<sup>74</sup> Dirck Stipel was appointed by the director and council of New Netherland, June 3, 1638, as wachtmeester, or commander, of Fort Orange, at a salary of 10 guilders a month, to commence July 15, 1638; see N. Y. Col. Mss, 4:10.

In box No. O.O. is a wooden model of a small church;<sup>75</sup> please use diligence in erecting it at the least cost, if the [building of the] farmhouses does not prevent it. I have at Craloo a farmhouse of that shape, which is 60 feet wide. This church would be but 48 feet wide, so that it ought not to cost so very much. However, the upper structure is somewhat heavier and a story higher. It is my definite intention that this church be put opposite Castle Island, north of the small grove<sup>76</sup> and south of the farm of Gerrit de reux, deceased, not far from the small grove on a small hill,<sup>77</sup> near or on the bank of the river. Cornelis Theunissen would perhaps rather have it on the west side of the river, but I am firmly resolved to have it on the east side, at the aforesaid spot. Near this church ought to be built also a dwelling for the minister and one for the sexton and this at the least expense; to this end the eight farmers should bring the timbers to the required place, Pieter Cornelissen furnish the boards cheap and the smith and especially the carpenters work diligently. Inquire some time what they would ask for wages for these three buildings with a palisade<sup>78</sup> around the churchyard and write me about it at the earliest opportunity, for as long as there is no minister it can stand some delay. It depends too on whether pieter Cornelissen will receive enough in tithes to pay the expenses of the church and the salary of the minister, but tithes will increase year by year if the [number of] farms increases somewhat, for which I long very much; I also hope that it may go better henceforth than it has thus far. You must in every way look out to whom you give merchandise and keep distinct records and send me the accounts of what was sent over last and of the skins received in return. I have insured 600 skins to be sent in den harinck and in this ship. You can govern yourself accordingly and send me as many as you can possibly get, and inasmuch as I have insured them, if you can not get them otherwise, try to obtain some from Commander kyleft for grain, or buy some from the freemen or others for merchandise, or in whatever way seems best, in order that in these two ships the 600 beavers which are already insured may be sent over and this for my own account, as the insurance would be void and of no value if any one else should share therein. You must be very careful about that, as otherwise I might easily spend money uselessly and not be insured. But what is sent for my account must be expressly stated in the letters and bills of lading and no one should send anything that does not belong to me, as I have insured my own goods only and not other people's. Therefore do not allow anybody to send anything that does not belong to me; if any one should want to send anything to me, he may do so on his own account but not under my name. I should also be pleased, and it would be advantageous to the people, if some of the mechanics and others would build their houses around the church, as for instance reyer Stoffelsen Smith, who would be nearer to the farms there than anywhere else; also the wheelwright, the carpenter and such like, but as they are freemen, I can not command them. However, you will not neglect to inform them of my pleasure in the matter. Pay close attention also to the inland trade, giving the people of the colony merchandise for furs and selling such furs again for merchandise at the manhates or to other people, which said merchandise you could in turn exchange for furs in the colony and in this way do me a great service; however you must not trade on credit but exchange goods for goods and I will take notice of your services and give you a proper share of the profits which you realize, or advance you. It depends only on good management to bring the most of the trade at Fort Orange, aside from that of the Company, into my hands<sup>79</sup> but if you want to mix your private interests with this and seek your own advantage, you will spoil one thing as well as the other, for which you must look out. Wherewith ending, I commend you to the gracious protection of Almighty God and greet you heartily from us all. I shall not have time to write to any one else, especially to pieter Cornelissen and albert andryesen, whom I wrote by den harinck; for fear the [letters] were not received, I send enclosed copies which you will hand them or copy. But if they received the originals by den harinck, you may keep them or tear them up. Give my greetings to Claes Jansen van naerden and recommend to him to see to the putting up of buildings on my farms, to set a good example to the men, in everything to serve my best interests and to build the church in such a way that he may be proud of it. Greet also my cousin maurits Jansen, recommending him to be diligent and economical and not to do like others but to be straightforward. Greet also the other farmers, urging every one to be faithful and diligent, and do not forget Cornelis Theunissen, reading to him his sealed instructions and urging him to observe them carefully and to assist you with his best advice. Thys barentsen Schoemaecker still owes me a good deal; let him pay you in skins at a reasonable price. You must know that beaver skins have gone down at least two guilders per marketable skin and, since they are sent at my risk, that you must get them proportionately cheap. Do not tell anybody that I have insured some skins.

August 4, 1639

Willem Kieft, in New Netherland

In Amsterdam, this 4th of August 1639

Heer Directeur: On the 12th of May last, by the ship den harinck, I advised your honor at length and also sent the invoice of the goods amounting to f4551:4, which I intended to ship on my account and which were in the warehouse in plenty of time but had to be left out of the ship on account of lack of room. On my showing my dissatisfaction about this, the lords directors resolved to let the present ship den engel Gabriel follow (which has taken already pretty long); as the fault was on their side and I had given notice of my goods at least six weeks before the departure of den harinck, they are themselves the cause of this double expense. I send enclosed the invoice of what I have bought since the former invoice, amounting to f2126:4:8, at the utmost, including expenses, which together with the preceding consignment of f4551:4, amounts to f6677:8:8. Hereof has been shipped in den harinck f565:1:8, consisting of ironwork and smith's coal shipped by Jeronimus la crois to the amount of f459:9; a small square box No. D.D. at f87:0:8; a small keg of soap No. V, at f18:8. The rest, amounting to f6112:13,<sup>81</sup> goes in this ship, of which the lords directors will send your honor the invoice and if they fail to do so, which I hope they will not, your honor can see [what this rest is] from my invoice sent by den harinck and the enclosed additional invoice itself. May Almighty God watch over it all that it may arrive in time to be sent to the colony before winter, in furthering which your honor's diligence will oblige me exceedingly.

Since my last letter I have learned to my sorrow that the ship de lijefde which was nearly safe before 't Vlije<sup>82</sup> (which it did not want to enter) was taken by the Dunkirkers between there and the Texel, all letters and papers being cut to pieces<sup>83</sup> and thrown overboard, so that I have not received a word of writing, though I am told that there were many letters addressed to me, especially one from your honor, the loss of which annoys me exceedingly, as it seems to have contained an order on the Company for a considerable sum which I can not demand now for lack of advice and proof. If this is so it must be for grain furnished, the pay for which I shall now have to forego so much longer. I request your honor therefore and shall depend on you to send me another order, as well as copies of your honor's letters. I had agreed with the Company that your honor should there pay for my grain in furs, merchandise, money or credits, and your honor has been notified hereof by den harinck, but as it has not been done that way now, I shall once more expect the aforesaid order on the Company and hope that in the future the grain which is furnished your honor will be paid for in merchandise or furs as aforesaid. I send herewith a copy of my last letter sent by den harinck, but as I hope that the originals have arrived safely I keep the [copies of the] documents and papers which were sent to your honor with the original letter. I send your honor also a power of attorney from the heirs of Gerrit de reux, deceased, which I accept for so far as I am concerned, requesting your honor to send all the papers, goods and effects, together with the inventory of the said de Reux to me, in order to settle all accounts with the said heirs, I should also<sup>84</sup> be very glad to know your honor's future intentions regarding my grain, whether I must expect beaver skins or merchandise or other payment for it, for if beavers, I could insure them here if I knew in advance how many to expect and by what ship, and if merchandise, I would send so much less from here, so that this ignorance of what to expect is quite detrimental to me. Meanwhile, the farmers who have their share in the grain might wish to go insured under my name and I might suffer loss, as would have happened if I had had beaver skins in the ship de lijefde. And as I have as yet no one among my people who has any business training, I ask you kindly to help them a little in drawing up bills of lading and other receipts in order that in case of loss I may satisfy the insurance agents and that no one's goods may be mixed with mine. In the hope of a good consignment both by the ship den harinck and by this ship, I have insured 600 beaver skins on the home voyage. If my people should not be able to send that number in both ships, please to add some at my risk, in payment for the grain which I furnished since the aforesaid order on the Company, in order that I may not have to ask for any rebate from the insurance agents. Said beaver skins must also be entered on my bill of lading under my name. Your honor can do this in conformity with the letter from the lords directors and it would be an accommodation with respect to the rebate; also, since the said beavers have so much depreciated, a price of  $f4\frac{1}{2}$  a lb, according to the former resolution of the council there, is not as favorable to me as your honor has made it out to be. I have written to my people that they must pay the duty on my furs to your honor, but in view of the fact that the freight of the merchandise must be paid there, the lords directors would be pleased to receive the duty here, as I have always done formerly and even now recently with Jacob planck. In that case my account there should not be charged with it. The 15th article of the Freedoms says also clearly that the guilder on each merchantable skin must be paid here. I intended to send several farm laborers by this ship, but Dirrick Stijpel, on whom I relied, has deceived me. The banns for his marriage were published here for the third time; at present he can not be found. Apparently he has told me many lies, so that I am anxious to get copies of the letters sent by de lijefde together with the new ones. Vale.

August 4, 1639

Instructions for Cornelis Theunissen van breuckel, representative of the patroon and the participants of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, according to which as well as other [rules] he must govern himself in defending the rights of his lord and master

First, he shall take care and help bring it about that means be found to pay the persons connected with the church and the government and to that end give the receiver of the tithes every possible help and assistance; also at the least expense to the patroon further the erection of the church, a model of which is sent herewith (and which must be put up north of the pine grove and south of the farm of de laets burch on a hill which is there near the river)<sup>86</sup> seeking to contract for the same with the carpenters and writing to me what wages they ask; also, further the erection of a dwelling house for the minister and one for the sexton, and if necessary cause them to be surrounded with palisades, for which the eight farmers ought to bring the timber to the place and to which others must contribute proportionally.

Next, he shall see to it that the council of the colony shall as a rule be complete and consist of seven capable persons, or, when the inhabitants increase, of nine persons, leaving vacant the following three places till they shall be filled by the patroon by commissions under seal: first, the place of director general of the colony till the patroon shall qualify somebody for it; secondly, the place of opper-commis of the colony till such time as aforesaid; thirdly, the place of officer of justice till such time as aforesaid. And as the place of officer of justice ought not to be vacant, the patroon has provisionally and till further orders qualified thereto the following three persons: Arundt Van Curler, who is at the same time secretary and bookkeeper; Cornelis Theunissen van breuckel, who is also representative of the patroon and of the participants of the colony; Pieter Cornelissen van munnekendam, who is also receiver of the tithes and supercargo of the vessel. Which three persons, for the prevention of all disorder, abuse, violence and trouble, shall in good accord fill the place of officer and execute the same either by unanimity or majority of votes, without however outvoting arent van Corler, to whom the care of the office is chiefly entrusted though he is to be assisted by the others.

And as the office of opper-commis can not very well be left vacant either, since the patroon has already sent various goods and hereby sends others, arent van Corler who was engaged as assistant shall provisionally and till further orders fill the said office also. But as he already has several positions and the patroon does not dare charge him with so many nor trust him with the provisional execution, he shall accept the aid of Jacob wolfertsen, the son of wolfert gerritsen, in the capacity of onder-commis living at the manhatans, who has offered his services by letter. But if he should not want to be onder-commis, arent will have to do the best he can with the advice of Cornelis Theunissen van breuckel, till the patroon shall make other arrangements according to circumstances. At all events he shall take care that the books are not neglected and that yearly all accounts be closed and sent over, as well of the farms, showing what the houses cost and what the farms yearly produce, as of the tobacco plantations, sawmills and the like authorized by the patroon; also the yearly accounts of the carpenters, showing what profit or loss each one in particular is to him, matters about which jacob planc has been very negligent, having brought home his books entirely unclosed. And in case arent van Corler could not close all accounts at the end of the year he must nevertheless send the books, as from these the patroon shall best be able to judge of his capacity and know whether he can advance him to a higher office, for everything depends on the closing of the accounts and without that it is entirely blind man's work. Therefore if arent has the least hesitation about accepting this office, let him write about it at once and the patroon will immediately make the necessary arrangements; for that he keeps the office open is principally to see what ability arendt has and it depends upon this whether the patroon shall let him remain commercial assistant<sup>87</sup> or promote him to such higher office as he shall deem him capable of filling, which is of the utmost importance with regard to his future advancement, as in this way he can climb in a few years higher than he otherwise could in many.

Coming now to the director-generalship of the colony, as the other offices are well filled, the patroon can await a favorable opportunity without hurrying about it, as time will reveal to him who will further his interests most and who is most suitable to the office.

Taking the matter as it is at present, leaving open the three aforesaid places, the present council shall consist of arent van Corler, Cornelis Theunissen van breuckel and Pieter Cornelissen van munnekendam, to whom the aforesaid three councilors shall add four persons to be selected from among those who have been councilors before or other suitable persons who have come later. The secretary shall communicate the names of those chosen to the patroon who, if he thinks them suitable, shall approve them, as the patroon does not intend that any election of councilors shall be final unless he has nominated or at least approved them. And as to the instructions for the aforesaid councilors, the patroon will according to circumstances cause them to be drawn up later after careful deliberation. Meanwhile he warns and orders the aforesaid councilors not to make any changes in, or put any interpretation upon, the contracts made here in the fatherland by the patroon with any individuals, as he begins to notice already that each contracting party is inclined to interpret and violate the contract made with his patroon according to his own liking, whereas the patroon intends that all contracts made with him here in the fatherland shall be subject to the judicature of this country, to which the patroon also freely submits himself, not wanting in the least to be a judge in his own case. However, if any necessary or useful changes not intended for selfish purposes are needed in the contracts made, the representative of the patroon shall propose them to the council in the presence of the party interested, if they come from the side of the patroon, or coming from the side of the contracting party, such person shall propose them in the presence of the representative, whereupon both parties withdrawing, the council shall carefully consider the matter without favor or disfavor to either side and finding the change useful or further interpretation desirable shall communicate their advice to the patroon for his approval or further order. This they shall do also with regard to all contracts or agreements with the patroon for which application may be made in that country.

Coming now to the private interests of the patroon, the representative shall see to it that in the matter of prices of such goods or materials as are entered on his account, such as boards or other lumber sawn by hand or by the mill, the patroon is not overcharged and, subject to the approval of the patroon, shall have a schedule of prices prepared by neutral persons appointed by the council of the colony; also of the wages in so far as they are not fixed by contracts with the freemen. It is a selfish principle that they want to make the patroon pay as much as they claim they can get from others when one bears in mind that they use his lumber, for if they use such arguments against him, could he not maintain with much more reason that they ought first to satisfy him for his lumber and that then he would be on the same basis as others? The principal question therefore, as far as he is concerned, is that of the wages, which he will gladly pay if they are fair, but he has not the slightest intention of purchasing at a high price his own lumber from people to whom he gives it for nothing; therefore a fixed rate ought to be decided upon as to how much he shall pay for all sorts of boards, of which he has thus far received no advice or information and the representative shall submit the said prices to the patroon's approval.

The representative shall warn all persons who are unwilling or not ready, to hand in their yearly account to the secretary and bookkeeper, or to come to him to liquidate their accounts in conformity to his instructions, and those who refuse to do so after several warnings he shall summon before the council in order to compel them thereto by law. He shall also see to it that the ordinance relating to the registration and shipment of goods as well as to the delivery of grain by the farmers, issued on the third of this month and properly sealed and signed, may have its full effect and in case any one shall undertake to oppose it he shall proceed against him according to law and send the name to the patroon.

He shall also see to it that all furs, tobacco or goods which are sent to the fatherland by the commis of the colony or whoever shall fill that place, be properly packed and marked, specifying for whose account they were sent, and shall procure three bills of lading or receipts therefor either from the skipper or from the honorable director general of the Chartered West India Company, one of these to be sent to the patroon with the goods, the second to be sent at the next opportunity and the third one to remain there.

He shall also see to it that each year accounts be settled with the honorable director general of the aforesaid Company as to the grain delivered, the accounts to specify whether it was paid for in furs or merchandise or other goods, always procuring the best advantage for the patroon and taking care that the furs be sent to the fatherland at the first opportunity and in the best ships.

He shall further see to it that all persons in the colony who need any goods shall each year notify thereof the commis or whoever takes his place in order that these orders may be sent together to the patroon and the goods bought here in a regular manner and sent thither when convenient, as it is inconvenient for the patroon to correspond about this with every one individually; and this he shall let every one know.

He shall also see to it that a sharp distinction be made between goods which on the patroon's behalf are given to any one in discount of salary, daily wages, sums due for grain and boards delivered and the like and such other goods as are furnished to be bartered for furs, which furs must in turn be delivered to the commis of the colony or to his substitute, in conformity with the conditions and contract of the freemen heretofore sent by the ship den Harinck, and he shall exclude all persons who should want to violate the same and in no wise admit to the colony any residents who intend to do so.

It is not the intention of the patroon that his representative shall actually perform all that is written above, as every one is charged with his own duties, but that he shall see to it and cause those whom it concerns to do so and in order that no one may have any doubt that what is above written is the will of his patroon, the said patroon has thought fit to seal these instructions with the seal of the colony and to sign the same this fourth of August 1639, in Amsterdam.

Kiliaen van Rensselaer to Jonkheer Gerrit van Arnhem<sup>88</sup>

October 29, 1639

Joncker Gerrit van Arnhem, deputy to the assembly of the High and Mighty Lords the States General, at the Hague

This 29th of October 1639

I still find myself with your honor's very agreeable letter dated September 17, 1638, from which I understand that it is your honor's sincere opinion and intention concerning the colonies in New Netherland that the first occupants ought not to be prejudiced in the rights which they have obtained, to which you add that one can not pass conditions [in favor of one person] which are to the prejudice of another who has already obtained rights; truly the upright feeling of a faithful magistrate, and would to God that all the directors of the West India Company had the same feeling, they would not then pass freedoms contrary to it.

It has pleased the Assembly of the XIX in its last session, without mention of the matter in the call for the meeting, to devise other and less liberal freedoms than those of the years 1628 and 1629,<sup>89</sup> and they try to bring me indirectly under that yoke and to take away from me what I have possessed so long and what has cost me so many thousands. The net which they have spread is this, that quite improperly they make the heading read: Freedoms and Exemptions, etc., for all patroons, masters, or private individuals who — N.B.— have planted or who shall plant any colonies in New Netherland, which words “have planted” are the venom with which they try to poison me. They have kept this so secret that I did not know anything about it before the close of the session of the XIX and later found it out accidentally when I requested Mr Hamel to let me read the said Freedoms, which he refused, notwithstanding the same in my absence seem to have been read in the meeting of the chief participants practically without remark, and what has happened further your honor will be able to see from the enclosed petition. And as your honor in the aforesaid letter was pleased to give me a favorable reply, stating that you would gladly see to it that I am not injured in my good rights, and also because your honor, the first named of the committee of their High Mightinesses, is also appointed to investigate my case, I take the liberty to address myself to your honor in the first place, the matter being now so much more dangerous than when through the earnest appeal of the honorable Burgomaster Coenradus in brief these words were inserted, namely “that no one — N.B.— henceforth or hereafter,” and now in his honor’s absence instead of “hereafter,” we get practically the sense of “here before,” which is a shameful distortion and a sly Italian trick; where it comes from I do not know. Inasmuch then as this is as much more dangerous as no differs from yes,<sup>90</sup> I must be more careful and such persons ought to be given a sharp reprimand for this distortion by their High Mightinesses. My request is that your honor will please once more take trouble and in your capacity as member of the committee present the accompanying petition at the meeting of their High Mightinesses, or else to have this done by the Hon. Mr van voorhout,<sup>91</sup> deputy to the XIX; as I had no certain knowledge of this deceit till the very last, I had the honor to speak to his honor about it but once, the day before his departure, at least when I came again the next day he had left; however, I think that his honor pretty well understood the matter. Or else, if your honor deem it advisable, you might have the petition handed in by the president of their High Mightinesses; whatever your honor may do in the matter will be agreeable to me. Although the petition may be somewhat prolix, the conclusion and my request are very brief, asking only for a certificate de non praejudicando<sup>92</sup> in order not to be judged without having been heard or summoned. I hope that their High Mightinesses will not refuse me this and I should be still more pleased if your honor would send me the same with a letter; or else, if this is too much trouble for your honor, if you would indicate to my friend matthys miller,<sup>93</sup> the bringer of this letter, from whom he should demand my aforesaid petition, with a view of returning it to me. If, as I hope, I should obtain an apostil to the above effect, no matter how simple it may be, I think that the directors will in the future leave me unmolested and not use further tricks, for their dispute with me is without foundation, especially now that they throw open to everybody the fur trade, about which they have so violently disputed and litigated with the patroons. I hope that before the end of this year I shall receive some more returns of furs, in which case I shall not neglect to send your honor some of the best beavers in view of the repeated trouble which your honor has had in this difficult matter. My nephew, the director, has come back; the Company can not convict him on a single point and the former fiscal, dincklagen, who slandered him so shamefully, instead of coming himself has sent his wife, and I take it that they received such a reply that they will henceforth leave the Hon Company and the director unmolested.

Memorandum of matters for cousin Casembrooth<sup>95</sup> to commend to the attention of the Hon. Secretary Musch

1639, November

When the question of New Netherland, or the freedoms lately framed by the Assembly of the XIX shall be presented to their High Mightinesses for approval, that his honorable worship will please to remember that the said Assembly of the XIX did, first in the year 1628 and then in the year 1629 by way of resumption and amendment, issue similar Freedoms and Exemptions, upon which several patroons established their colonies, of whom some indeed have sold theirs to the Company; and that, inasmuch as kiliaen van renselaer, patroon of the colony called Rensselaerswyck, and acknowledged as such patroon in several letters<sup>96</sup> from their High Mightinesses, has so far kept and maintained his colony upon the aforesaid Freedoms, he begs the aforesaid secretary to recommend that before these new freedoms which are very injurious to him and his associates are approved, their High Mightinesses will take care that the aforesaid patroons and private persons be maintained without prejudice in all the rights and possessions which they have already obtained, and that in these new Freedoms a clause be inserted to the effect that the first occupants (according to article 5) be not curtailed or prejudiced in their acquired rights; to which matter he, rensselaer, is obliged to pay the more diligent attention as the Company in these new freedoms makes no mention whatever of the preceding, but on the contrary seems to try to include him under the new ones, calling them in the title, not "Freedoms, etc., for those who shall plant colonies or send cattle," but "Freedoms etc. for those who have already planted colonies or sent cattle and who shall yet do so," which being the case, their High Mightinesses would without their knowledge and intention deprive him, rensselaer, of what they have already acknowledged to be his; and as the Hon. Jacob planck, at Edam

This 9th of December 1639, in Amsterdam

Having received by the ship den harinck the account of the grain furnished to the Company and comparing the same with your memorandum, I discover some discrepancies which you can no doubt explain to me. In your memorandum is written: from Gerrit de reux, 1638, 8 April, 169 schepels of wheat, again 140, again 34, again 81 schepels; from Brant Peelen, 108 schepels, again 108, again 98 schepels; from Cornelis theunissen, 115 schepels; together 853 schepels of wheat. In the account of Director kijeft is written, 1638, 19 March, from brandt peelen, 43 schepels; 12 April, from jacob planck, 275 schepels; 18 May, from jacob planck, 355 schepels; together 673 schepels. Advise me at the earliest opportunity how this difference is to be accounted for, that Kijeft pays me less than you have noted down. On account of high water, I have suffered great loss in my colony, both in grain and in animals which were drowned. It is the Lord's will and we must have patience. On the other hand, eight farms have been established which have a surplus of horses but are much short of cattle. When you meet some good farm laborers, please keep an eye on them, as I intend to send some more thither.

Yours with the 12 duffels and 25 blankets in two packages received. I deem it advisable to keep the rugs<sup>99</sup> and have credited the amount 603 guilders 16 st on [your share of] the seventh assessment for the colony. As I have already paid for the greater part of the cargo which we shall send and as I shall also have to provide the assessment of trip together with the money required for buying him out, I am quite short of funds. Please therefore do me the kindness to request Mr de laet that his honor will please send me his quota, being 600 guilders, at the first opportunity. I hope that the Lord will grant us good returns.

The Campen duffels I have also in the house. They contain a good many yards more than those from Leyden and are at least two or three fingers wider. Before I pack them, I shall compare them with the others and see which I like better at the price.

I shall expect the three blankets at the first opportunity, as the ship is beginning to make preparations. I have already engaged four worthy farm laborers and two free men and it seems that the daughters of brant peelen are both resolving to go along, while their father hopes to secure some boys also, so that I hope that no less than 12 persons will go to the colony; may God protect them.

Kiliaen van Rensselaer to Toussaint Muysart<sup>1</sup>

Toussain Muijssart, at Leyden

This 7th of May 1640

Your favor of the 5th received. I shall expect the three blankets at the earliest opportunity and also examine closely into the respective qualities of the Campen and Leyden duffels. We were already last Saturday busy comparing them. In general the Campen duffels are much wider than those from Leyden, but that is not strange as I had them made that way on purpose. The pieces are also about 10 yards longer than those from Leyden. The wool of one of the consignments from Campen, for I have two of them, is also fully as good as that of the other but the red color of the Leyden duffels is superior. We shall look into this more closely yet and weigh every piece to see how much wool it contains, and for our guidance make a note of the quality, the price, the color and whatever else is of importance. I see your advice as to the tobacco. I have a hard time selling it; there are many people that look at it but few that make an offer.

I am further surprised and grieved that Mr de laet refuses to pay his quota unless I declare myself as to my understanding of the patroonship. It seems to me that this request is made of me at an inopportune time, as the goods have been bought at common expense and nearly all are paid for and as this declaration needs ripe deliberation and consideration, so that I can not make it so promptly without perhaps injuring myself. This declaration I make with all my heart over my signature, that I do not seek in the least to defraud any one of the participants of what belongs to them, trusting that they in the same way will not curtail me in my rights of prerogative or patroonship, for which I refer to the documents, the discussions and the Freedoms granted by the Assembly of the XIX concerning it; all of which is plain and clear and to my knowledge without any obscurity, and according to this I have from the beginning till now governed myself without to my knowledge having in any way extended or exceeded my power. I have also given notice of everything I did and in the matter of contributions and merchandise, usually taken special advice of the participants and frequently asked Mr de laet in particular to read the reports of those who went to the colony and returned from there, whereupon his honor has usually acted as if he cared little, which gives me the more reason to be surprised that he should at present be so particular. At our last conference I noticed that there was some dissatisfaction; had the cause of it been revealed to me I could doubtless have removed it, but not being aware that in ten years there has been any misunderstanding between me and any of my co-participants, I thought it quite alarming that at the said conference so much stress was laid on an explanation of the patroonship, as the documents concerning it, which by subsequent resolutions continued from year to year have been further strengthened and confirmed, are at hand. And if in anything I have gone too far or curtailed the rights of the participants, I wish that it had been pointed out to me. All these years I have as a rule, coming now to the main point, had all the burden, care and trouble and from none of the participants received any assistance except when it happened to suit one or the other. I have also, in order to deliberate on certain points, called various meetings at which perchance one or two, but as a rule no one, appeared, every one appealing to his private affairs [as an excuse]. Finding now to my joy that the last meeting on the contrary was very fully attended, I hoped that our business would relate to the points stated in the call issued by me and that the participants would leave me the honor of presiding over the said meeting, but instead I found that my questions for consideration were either forgotten or unknown and that business was introduced not from my side but from the side of the participants, very much like a separate body against me. Such things, Mr Muijssart, ought not to occur or the colony is ruined. There is, there should be and there must be but one head to rule the colony or we shall be in each other's way. Each one will think he knows what is best and meanwhile nothing but quarreling can be expected, as in the colony of Swanendal, which was placed under a board of directors;<sup>2</sup> this is proved by experience. Truly I should be unhappy if, after I have had so much expense and trouble, others should knock over my foundations now that business looks bright, and so injure themselves and me. I hope that I respect my participants enough to heed their advice and recommendations so carefully that they have nothing more to wish for themselves, to render true accounts and to let them see, read, yes, gladly and willingly to let them have copy of, everything that concerns them, but I do not in the least approve of, much less do I want to subject myself to, the proposition of Mr de laet, among other things, that a case be made in which to lock all the books and papers and that to this case there shall be two keys, one to be kept by me and the other by some one of the participants, in such way that I should have to trust the participants with a key to go over all my papers while they do not seem to trust me by myself and alone to keep the papers in which they are concerned also. To tell the truth, though I am not as learned as Mr de Laet, I can easily foresee the consequence of this work. Pray, which of the two plans is the better for the participants, that the patroon, who also has the largest interest, alone keep the papers, and let the participants see them and have a copy of them, or that there be two keepers, each of whom has a key? If they can each get at the papers and unlock the case and anything should be missed, of whom of the two can it be demanded? If they must come together before they can get at the papers, would not the patroon then be locked out of his own house by the participants and instead of the head become the tail? What reason have the participants to trust their coparticipants more than the patroon, and the said participants having in turn become suspect, could not each of the remaining participants claim a key also, and would the papers not be kept well then? In short, Mr Muijssart, I see well that there must be somebody who makes the others dissatisfied. I can not help that; I do not desire greater rights than I have and they can not leave me less. Please to greet Mr de laet from me and ask his honor to be pleased to pay his assessment, as otherwise it will cause great confusion. When we left each other I did not know but that Mr de laet was satisfied and I promise on my side to do all that an honest man and a Christian ought to do and more I can not say. If Mr de Laet pleases to hold back his money, it is already provided, and herewith I commend you, etc.

We have further examined the duffels and find that the wool, workmanship and color of the Leyden make are better or at least as good as those of Campen, but they are fully two inches narrower, which we must keep in mind in the future. As to the three gray-colored duffels there is great misunderstanding. They should be only steel blue and not gray; they will not sell as well as if they were white. Another time we must send a quantity of white ones among them, which may perhaps bring as good a price as the colored ones, but they must be washed quite clean and be as white as chalk, like the white blankets. I expect the answers of your honor and Mr de Laet at the earliest opportunity.

The 14th of May 1640

Yesterday being Sunday, I could not write you an answer for reasons which I will state later. Today being Monday, I have decided (though I expect other merchants who have not seen it to inspect the tobacco and though 10 st have been positively offered to me for it before) to let your merchants have the said tobacco, in order to make these buyers more wide awake another time. I will deal with no one unless with your buyers till Friday afternoon, as Wednesday and Thursday are holidays. The price when they see it will be 10 st cash, just as it is,<sup>4</sup> without allowance for defects.<sup>5</sup> Upon this condition I shall expect the buyers Friday by the first boat, as they can hardly come tomorrow. I doubt not but our Amsterdam merchants will make pretty long faces, for it seems that they collude with one another. I shall also expect a reply to my letter with the order to receive the money from Mr de laet, or else shall have reason for most serious complaint; for up to f4000 the majority of votes may decide and including this last assessment Mr de laet has not yet advanced f4000, counting the assessments and not the sales.

I have engaged some worthy farm laborers, and the daughters of brant peelen go along also, so that already more than 12 persons intend to go thither and the goods are already in the storehouse of the Company. May the Almighty direct all well. Vale.

The bringer of this letter, henirick van dijck, who sails to New Netherland on the ship den waterhont, as military commander, being at present still fiscal of the military court<sup>7</sup> of the province of Utrecht, which office he has held for five years, during which he has been mainly employed in the service of the country, has asked me to give him a few lines of recommendation to your honor. Seeing his ability and his rank, which your honor can further learn from his commission from the honorable lords directors and find out by experience, and because some of my friends in the government of the city of Utrecht declared to me yesterday that they were well acquainted with the said person, I can not help recommending him to your honor for such favors as the service of the Company in accordance with his commission and instructions and your honor's affection and inclination will in anywise allow, by which you will do me an especial favor which I shall try to return on every occasion as much as is in my power. For the rest I refer to my letter, which God willing I hope to write to your honor tomorrow, in reply to your favor of September 30, 1639, although time presses now so that I can hardly get ready.

Meanwhile, if the time should fail me, as I have not written any letter either to my people or to any one, being busy with the copying of the invoice of my goods, I commend my private affairs to your honor, etc. Vale.

May 29, 1640

29 May 1640

At the kind and urgent request of the commander of the militia, called Hendrick van Dyck, who sails thither in the ship den waterhondt, I could not help giving him a short letter of recommendation to your honor, though I sufficiently gave him to understand that your honor was not in any way bound to pay attention to my recommendation. Please therefore to excuse my taking such liberty. I trust that he correctly stated his function to me, as I have read neither his commission nor his instructions from the lords directors, which were none of my business. During the little conversation which I had with him I noticed in him some good qualities both as to his intelligence and courage, which will be of great service to your honor. Though it was not my business, I talked also briefly with him about the extent of his commission as compared with that of your honor as director general. He said frankly that he was content with the command over the militia, recognizing your honor as director general, so that I hope that your honor will in every way be satisfied with his service, as he must have learned by experience what rank every one is entitled to according to his commission. He offered also in case of disturbance in my colony to assist me with some soldiers, and as I know that (unless his commission is broader than I suppose) this can not be done without your honor's order, I request your honor in all kindness, in case of need which may easily occur, and if your honor should be asked to do so by my cousin Arent Van Corler, to second or rather to fortify him in his good intention, as far as the service of the Company and of my colony will in any way permit. As to an ordinance made by me providing that no one shall carry any skins or grain out of my colony without having given due notice of the same and entered them there, which is of the utmost importance to the Company with regard to their duties and to me with regard to my profit, your honor is right in writing that the shoulders of this young man are still too weak to take charge of such matters. I have been delayed here in this country more than two years with regard to two persons whom I had in view, without receiving any refusal or acceptance, and as to the material in that country in the Company,<sup>9</sup> if I were as sure of the faithfulness of any as I am of the aforesaid young man, I would certainly decide to appoint some one else. But these are still years of probation, and I rather suffer some definite loss than bind myself to untried persons without certainty as to quality and faithfulness.

No matter what I write, I can neither from Pieter Cornelissen nor from Cornelis Theunissen van Breuckel get a final account, which account would soon open my eyes as to [their] capacity and honesty. I ask you in all kindness to give me a little of your honor's good advice in this matter, which I promise your honor to keep as secret as I ask you to keep the above. Believe me, Sir, the success of my colony depends mainly on the good relations between your honor and myself and it is far from my purpose intentionally or knowingly to hurt the Company in the least in their power or revenue. If my people speak any foolish words, it is by reason of their weakness and not of my orders. I can not believe either that Croll has caused my flag to be hauled down from my house by your honor's special order, for in this country not only are those who have high, middle and low jurisdiction allowed to put out such flags but even the country inns during the fairs may do so. I have no advice of this matter except a verbal report and do not know what the truth is, nor do I know what my people did to prevent it. The least I could do was to ask Croll whether he did it by your honor's order, and if so to communicate and send over to me the order, that I might discuss the matter with the lords directors as principal with principal. It is well known that I have established a court of justice in my colony; even if the persons who hold office are not of much capacity (which with God's help I hope to remedy soon), this does not lessen the fact that there is one; and as a sign that it is a country where justice is administered I sent such a flag thither. Now as to Fort Orange, this was kept from the beginning as a trading place, the fortifications having served no other purpose than to secure the people and the goods against attacks of the savages, and that it is still kept as such by your honor I can see from your honor's letters. The person who holds the highest office there has never had any other rank than that of commis, without power, so far as my knowledge goes, to administer justice and execute sentence among his men, and even if he had full power to exercise high jurisdiction, could not the baliff of Amsterdam<sup>10</sup> at the limit of his jurisdiction, which is close to the gates of Amsterdam, hoist a flag of jurisdiction without infringing on the high jurisdiction of the city?

Have I not a certificate under the seal of the Company of my registration of the colony with the Chamber of Amsterdam on November 19, 1629, which reads as follows: "Kiliaen van Rensselaer declares himself from now on as patroon on the North River of New Netherland, extending above and below Fort Orange on both sides of the river, with the islands situate therein, so many leagues downwards as has been fixed by the Assembly of the XIX, intending to send a colony thither by the first opportunity on the conditions framed by the aforesaid Assembly of the XIX"? Examine in connection herewith the deed of conveyance to me executed before the director and council under date of August 8, 1630,<sup>11</sup> of which a copy is undoubtedly in your honor's custody, whereby the high jurisdiction of the owners and their chiefs is transferred to me. Add to that the 5th and 6th articles of the Freedoms of New Netherland, which are equally as effective and binding as the rights which the Company holds of the High and Mighty Lords the States General. These pregnant reasons have induced their High Mightinesses to acknowledge me as patroon and to style me such in formal communications,<sup>12</sup> as likewise his Highness the Prince of Orange has acknowledged me as such in his decision<sup>13</sup> in the matter of Cornelis van Vorst. It would not be necessary to relate this to your honor at such length, except to prevent the rise of misunderstanding through ignorance of the circumstances and because I do not wish to get into conflict with the Company, as happened with the colony of Pavonia; and in order that everything might be duly considered I could not refrain from informing your honor of it, the more so as your honor writes that it seems that the Company has no subjects but [only] partners. If they pleased or should still please to take partners, who would prevent them? But then I ask whether they are partners who pay duty? And whether the inhabitants of this county cease to be the subjects of the High and Mighty Lords the States General, though the provinces and the cities retain their high authority and jurisdictions? The form of government of our fatherland interprets the work itself.

<sup>10</sup> This should be: bailiff of Amstelland. The patroon draws a parallel between the situation of Fort Orange in the colony of Rensselaerswyck and that of the city of Amsterdam in the bailiwick of Amstelland, each being within the geographical limits of the larger district but outside of its jurisdiction.

As to the contracts which I have made with my people, they do not infringe on the right to hear cases on appeal,<sup>14</sup> for a judge is not appointed to seek cases but [to act] in case of need when parties can not agree, and I take it that if all contracting parties in Amsterdam could settle their disputes and differences by submitting them to arbitrators, the schepens would not take it ill but approve of it; also that the members of the Supreme Court of Holland would not take it ill if parties having some dispute should by agreement exclude the Court and not appeal to it. The contracts with my servants, therefore, are but agreements [to the same effect] and not in any way restrictions on the appeal to the director and council of the Company; and this for the reason that, since I must furnish all my people not only with houses but also with animals and land, I should not like to have them waste their money and time checkmating one another with pleadings, for which I should have to pay the bills on both sides. These contracts are also not permanent but made for a certain number of years. When the people are their own masters and have their own money and property, let them plead and appeal all they please, but I will not allow my servants to do so. I am not aware either that the freemen of the colony are included in this agreement. Therefore, Sir, interpret my affairs in the most favorable manner according to the spirit of love and I think that your honor will be completely satisfied about my actions. Should I, however, make a mistake somewhere, I shall set everything right on being properly informed. This much as to Lucifer's question.<sup>15</sup> I shall now set myself to answering your honor's favors of the 30th of September 1639 and the last of March 1640, but especially to thank your honor for the good disposition and kindness, duty and diligence, shown in that of the 10th of April, wherein you report the good condition of my colony, about which such bad rumors were circulated, as well as that your honor on the 15th of March sent a shallop with goods to the colony and that on its return you would send the rest thither also. Indeed, I have reason to be thankful and I should like to know how I can repay you for everything, for if your honor had refused me this favor I should have had to employ others of lesser rank who could not have helped me very much. Provisionally and as a first mark of gratitude I am satisfied to let your honor have a commission of one per cent on all my goods which your honor shall send up the river, as well as of all that they may consign from there to your honor to be shipped to me. It is but little at present, but when my colony increases it may get larger, and as long as I have no special person or house at the Manhatans, I can not find any one more suitable than your honor. In case you should please to accept this offer, it will not be in the least prejudicial to the Company but in every way advantageous that I consign my goods to their director, who has taken the oath of fidelity to them, so that they need not fear the least smuggling on my part. As to the ship's freight charges expressed in the Freedoms, I do not care to press the question very hard as to whether the goods ought not to be delivered in the colony for them, but I do not see any reason which would preclude this altogether, the less so, as the Company has canceled the boat charges for my horses which were inserted in your honor's account (but not crossed out); and in order to accommodate each other in every way, so that the Company may not suffer the least loss on my account, I would request that the shallops which take my goods up the river might be used to bring down again grain or skins, if there is any opportunity, in order to make the expense on both sides as little as possible, and in case your honor should please to accommodate me with this commission, you could advise my people when they should send their skins and other goods down to your honor so as to ship them to me at the first opportunity. Your honor could then assist Arent Van Corler in the carrying out of my ordinance that no one is to send any goods out of the colony without having duly entered them, and as I claim with justice the right of preemption of my people's half of the grain and of the animals, I would order that all the grain, with the exception of the tenths intended for the support of religion, administration and other purposes, be delivered to my provisional commis, Arent van corler, who could then send it to your honor to sell to the best advantage.

Provisionally, I am content to carry out whatever decision the director and council may make in the dispute between myself and my farmers, without prejudice to the rights involved. Our dispute consists as far as I can see in that they concede that I have the right of preemption but claim that de facto I should pay them, in this country or there, their half at 10 guilders a muddle, which is in many respects unreasonable; for 10 guilders in money here is better than 10 guilders there; also, the money for the wheat furnished in 1638 I did not receive here from the Company till the year 1640, as appears from the accompanying papers, and all previous deliveries of grain are extinguished by goods and provisions furnished to my people without specification as to who received them, as also appears from the accompanying papers; aside from this, the freight charges, salaries of my agents and other expenses must be paid out of that also; and further than all that, I claim not the mere right of preemption but preemption at the price at which the first and earliest farmers were obliged to furnish wheat to the Company, namely at six guilders a mudde. Against this, they allege that in the contract with Gerrit de Reus grain is not specified but only animals; in reply to which I did not merely afterwards and at the present time declare that this was but a slip of the pen and that Gerrit de Reux would not have made any objection if the contract had read grain and animals, instead of animals, but sustained such [contention] long ago, already during the lifetime of Gerrit de Reux deceased, and I also received a written answer which does not dispute the preemption but says that six guilders a mudde is too little. These later colonists can not have better terms than Gerit de Reux himself, especially those who have no other lease than my declaration, like Maurits Janssen, Adriaen van barsingerhorn and others whose first years have expired or will soon expire. I have however waived a good many of my rights which they agreed to observe, namely that they bound themselves not to barter, buy or accept as presents any furs without the consent of the Company and without my consent; this was the tie by which I held Gerrit de Reux and by which I can still hold them all, for they are dependent not only on the throwing open of the trade by the Company but also on the promise to and contract made with me. If they say that according to its strict letter grain is not mentioned in the contract, I reply that the prohibition of the fur trade is expressly stated therein in strict terms and on forfeiture of everything. And to find a middle way I have not declared that I will pay them only six guilders a mudde, except for the present, for if they do the right thing by me and pay me half of the profit on the fur, which [share] is also for me to accept or to reject, and honestly fulfil their contract, I will also deal honestly with them and not bind myself by the six guilders but according to their industry and fidelity pay them the highest price. Truly, if a master who is far from his property could not stop there, I do not know whether he had not better be a servant than master, and hereafter leave such men at home or rather lease the farms to the highest bidder, which every one will have to expect next when his lease expires, for according to reports they cheat me in every way and hardly a vessel comes down that does not contain some smuggled grain, whereas it is my wish that everything be delivered to my commis and that this be then consigned to your honor for the purpose of supplying the Company first with as much as it may need and then of selling the rest to the best advantage, especially as your honor writes that the English themselves will let us have furs for wheat so that it is in every way necessary that the grain of the colony remain in one hand to avoid cheating and underselling. If any one then should fail to do his duty, I am willing, while reserving my half, to have the other half, belonging to those who act contrary to my order in shipping grain, confiscated and hope that it may be divided among your honor, the fiscal, the informer and the process server<sup>16</sup> as your honor shall see fit, and this till the time that they give me other satisfaction. I should write about this to the fiscal himself also but prefer to confine myself to the head. Your honor will therefore communicate it yourself to the fiscal, and in order that your honor may have less trouble I send herewith an extract from the terms expressly stipulated by me, though the patroon has power of his own and in his own right to make ordinances against all frauds. In this connection high jurisdiction is quite useful to the patroon, for those who have middle and low jurisdiction are not allowed to confiscate, but the high jurisdiction of the patroon must not be opposed to the Company, as little as the high jurisdiction of the Company must be placed in opposition to the High and Mighty Lords the States General, but every one [acting] in his own sphere, one having proceeded out of the other, in such way however that each one may and must preserve with a good conscience the jurisdiction which has been ceded him. Which being duly observed on all sides, the higher not hurting the lower and the lower not offending or defrauding the higher, the state of New Netherland would be in a happy condition.

Coming now to my private business, it has so happened that I have an old and long account with the Company from the year 1630 to the departure of Director van Twiller, and also the accounts during the time of your administration sent to me and to the Company. I had several conferences with the lords commissioners of New Netherland and at last, on ratification by the full Assembly on the 17th of March 1640, got things so far as the two enclosed resolutions drawn up by me show, the originals of which I gave Bellechere to keep. Report having been made thereof in the Assembly, the same, on the 19th ditto, was pleased to approve them in full, as will appear from the enclosed extract of its resolutions, which though differing in their original form somewhat from the enclosed copies were finally completely approved as drafted by me. I doubt not but the Company will send your honor copies of them also, as for greater security I do herewith too. And as several things which needed further proof have not been settled, namely the first number of schepels of wheat entered on my accounts by Jacob planck and amounting to 853 schepels, while in your honor's account I find only 630, I enclose a letter from Jacob planck which will show your honor how the mistake occurred. Planck thinks that the mistake is in the wheat which was furnished to Croll for baking and delivered on the loft. Please to straighten this out for me, as I have already waited so long for my money. The other schepels I consider also to be beyond dispute, as your honor's accounts stop on the 20th of May and the later consignments will follow in my next account; herewith, by way of memorandum, that I have not settled further with the Company.

Coming now to the question of private persons who have had goods from the commisen of the Company, since the Company has conceded to me that no private persons may have anything charged or credited to my account but that this must be done upon order of those who have been so empowered, and since I find in your honor's account:

do	To carpenter's tools for cornelis Theunissen	f 14 7
do	To 5 yards of canvas at 14 st a yard	f 3 10

Your honor will in the future please see to this and tell and warn all your honor's commisen that they must give nothing on credit to any of my people personally but must refer them to Arent van corler, who provisionally holds the office of commis, to whom they can state what they want and who can then, not every time in small quantities but when it is worth while, request of your honor as head of the Company whatever he may need for himself and his people, turning over to your honor a detailed list signed by him, Corler, and by pieter cornelissen and cornelis Theunissen as his assistants. If your honor will then please cause your commisen to send as much as they can spare to said corler, who will distribute it to the people and charge each one with the amount which he has had, your honor will have much less trouble and I much more certainty that everything has been duly recorded, for many of the above items may be unknown to Arent van corler, and if I pay them here to the Company I may lose them altogether in two ways, first because Arent may be unaware of them, and secondly because even if he had been notified of them the people might not have so much due to them from me, as I mean to give no goods or provisions on credit to any one but those to whom I owe something. Please therefore, Sir, settle the account of the above items with arent and let him give your honor a receipt or discharge for the quantities which he takes, with specification of the goods and the persons; whereupon, if you send these to the Company I will pay them the said items, but unless that is done the Company itself will have to seek the people to whom their honors gave credit and force them to pay by legal proceedings, among them those whom they may have given credit on the 2000 put down in one item, as otherwise these people could ruin me; in the future I do not intend to let any private person have anything on credit, of which in all friendship I give warning to the lords directors by memorial and to your honor by sending you herewith a copy of the same; and as to what has passed, I hope that with Arent Van Corler your honor will find means whereby the Company may be paid for the aforesaid items and I through the crediting of the same may not suffer loss. However this rule can stand this exception, that when my people come from the fatherland to go to the colony, some provisions may be furnished them on my account till they get to the colony, provided that Arent is advised to enter them on their account and that no goods are lent to them, while those who wish to go from the colony to the fatherland must defray their own expenses. Now concerning the money for board during the passage of Claes Janssen Ruijter<sup>16a</sup> and his wife, amounting to f133:14, let him pay this to the Company or bring proof that he paid it to the commis in the colony, otherwise tell him that he must go to the colony and work off the amount, as is indicated in my aforesaid memorial. And as to Jan Willems-sen cuijper,<sup>17</sup> if the Company desires to keep him, I shall this time accommodate them, but Jan Willemssen will have to provide the money for his board himself or the Company may debit him with it like others; the lords directors likewise promised me by word of mouth to write your honor that they would do for my people whom I sent over and am sending over now as for others, granting them free passage. But although this would have to be done out of kindness of their honors and I can not constrain them to do so, it is very improper to charge my people that came over on den harinck more than 6 st a day according to the first article of the Freedoms also mentioned in my memorial. Mr de Raadt promised me in the presence of Messrs Berck and harinck hoeck, and also of Director Twiller, that they would do with my people who go over now as with the others, and as they may have forgotten to write this to your honor, please take this by way of notification and (freely quoting the above) remind the directors of it in reply to this, for I think that my farming people will, in proportion man for man, grow more grain than any others and thus help to make the country rich in grain so as in time to nourish Brazil and bring home sugar in return for meal sent there; then New Netherland would flourish. I also kindly request you, Sir, in future to help me maintain the 19th article of the Freedoms concerning the discharge of my people and to see to it that no one is dismissed before his time without my consent (except such as go astray, who should be sent out of the colony or banished as useless members) which the directors have also granted me according to my memorial.

When these things shall be thus reformed and if your honor will please to accept my above proposition regarding the shipment of my goods, I shall be a great deal more at ease than I have been thus far. It will not lessen the respect for your honor either but cause all my people to stand more in awe of you. Now as to the grain which my commis will deliver to your honor for the account of the Company, therefrom must be deducted such goods and provisions as in return will be furnished to my commis for my people, and the rest must each time be settled and paid in beaver skins at f4 ½ a lb in conformity with the resolution of the director and council dated September 11, 1637, which being also contained in my memorial drawn up in the presence of the lords commissioners and deposited with bellechier, has been approved and granted by the others. And thereby, Sir, we shall right along have a fixed basis for settling our accounts and if your honor help my cousin Arent a little you will back up the chief administration of my colony sufficiently that for some time I shall have no need of such learned people and be able provisionally to get along with Arent, who I fear is not too accurate in his bookkeeping but whom your honor with a little instruction could make efficient, for which service or other I shall not fail to compensate your honor. And inasmuch as the Company authorizes your honor by letter, according to the enclosed extract, to settle all things in that country without referring them to the Company, your honor can by corresponding with me instead of with my people settle things to our mutual satisfaction in accordance with the papers sent, in which all things are set forth and decided. I may conclude by saying that [if] Arent is too weak in carrying plans through, he will give the greater contentment to your honor, who in many things can be of assistance to me and set me right.

Enclosed is the invoice of the goods which go in this ship, being 8 items distinguished by figures and 16 items by letters from No. A to No. P, also 7 items which lie loose in the ship, amounting to f5111: 15. Also the roll of my people, consisting together, old and young, of 13 persons. I kindly request that no one be exchanged for any one else and no one detained, but that the people and the goods at the earliest opportunity be sent to the colony, thanking your honor very much for the expeditious way in which my horses were sent to the colony two years ago. I am exceedingly sorry that Broer Cornelissen so deceived our honor in the furnishing of grain; it must be that they themselves have not much to spare or that they carry it off secretly, in which case it is necessary to catch the cheats. I hope that from now on conditions will improve and that greater quantities will be delivered, as I shall otherwise fare badly.

I can not get over my surprise as to the changes which are said to have occurred in the fur trade at Fort Orange, whence for at least 15 years in succession yearly 5000 or 6000 skins have come. There is no lack of furs, therefore there must be a lack of merchandise or the trouble must be that Crol holds the merchandise too high and that the English on the Fresh River, by corresponding with the Mahicans lying about two leagues below Fort Orange and through these in turn with the macquaas, draw everything away from us over land. That my people spoiled the fur trade can not by any means be true; they may have outbid and brought about the high prices of the skins, but such outbidding does not divert the fur trade, but causes a greater supply. Now, as far as I can see, the trouble is not with the price of the skins but with the quantity, which is a great paradox to me that I can not understand; for according to what I hear Croll has few skins and also little merchandise, which conflicts directly and diametrically with the outbidding which my people may be guilty of, for as a result of that there ought to have come more skins than before. It may be perhaps that Croll has placed the prices of skins so low for the magnaas<sup>18</sup> that it drove them away and diverted the trade. If that is so he will get great thanks from his masters and have done the Company good service.

The sister of Gerrit de Reux has been here bothering me a number of times. Please to further her business as quickly as possible; even if it can not be brought to a final settlement let it be brought to it as closely as possible.

The victory at the Downs<sup>19</sup> is bloody, but the victory for the Company in Brazil<sup>20</sup> has been miraculous. Today comes the news that Admirals lichtHart and houttebeen<sup>21</sup> accidentally met the remainder of the fleet and completely destroyed it. What the Prince of Orange will do in Flanders remains to be seen, the commencements, etc.

P. S.<sup>22</sup> Mr Kieft. This is the true account of the purchase of my goods, on which according to the 10th article of the Freedoms I am obliged to pay 5% for freight, and though the farm implements are free I make it 5% throughout, amounting to f250. The bills of lading of the Company are drawn in the usual way so as not to establish a bad precedent for others, but I do not owe more.

Arent van Curler is ordered to pay to the honorable director general Willem Kijft in grain or other articles the sum of two

Mr Kijft. The wind is beginning to blow, the skipper left long ago and I fear that I shall not have time to write to arent van Curler or to any one of my people. As I have not received letters from them either, oblige me in addition to so many other services for which I am obliged to your honor, by giving arent van Curler an extract from your honor's letter so far as it in any way concerns him and is to my advantage and guide him a little; I promise your honor I shall not forget it. Also send him the enclosed package containing nothing but the invoice of my goods with several letters from private persons. If I have time I shall still write to him and others. Vale, 30 May 1640.

May 30, 1640

Arent Van Curler, in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

30 May 1640

Worthy, affectionate cousin: As I received neither goods nor letter from you by the lately arrived ship den Engel Gabriel, I am much surprised that you let pass the opportunity of den harinck because of talk of the ship den Dolfyn, which was to follow soon. The letters sent by the ship de Lieffde I did not get, as the ship was taken by the Dunkirkers, so that for the present I get neither accounts nor returns, just as if all the goods which I sent thither were confiscated. I wrote you that if the task should prove too heavy for you you should warn me in time and you must not let any opportunities go by in the hope of later ones. You could also have sent me a copy of the letter sent by de Lieffde. You look for the hen's egg and you let go the goose's egg. I hear that you spend too much time in the woods, that ought not to be; you must stick to writing and never again neglect to copy your papers and accounts but always have some ready to send when there is an opportunity. This time I can overlook it because the ship den Engel Gabriel left so soon, but let no opportunity pass without sending me copies of all your books and papers and accounts of all the people.

<sup>23</sup> V. R. B. Mss, Letter Book, f. 124b. On f. 126 of the Letter Book, the clerk once more wrote the heading and first words of this letter, then canceled the date, writing "should be June 16, 1640." This date probably refers to the instructions to van Curler, which instead of being given in this place were copied into the section of the Letter Book, f. 163-71, containing papers of that character.

I have not time to reply fully to yours of the 23d of August 1639, as all the other papers have gone and as I have written at great length to Director Kieft to instruct you a little and to communicate to you the documents which I send him. Let me know privately how he acts toward you. I have addressed to you the invoice of the goods which go over now, amounting to f5111:15. If I have time I shall enclose another copy of it herewith. As you have now so much merchandise, try to buy skins to the best advantage and as soon as you have a reasonable amount send them down at once to Mr Kieft, that he may send them to me at the first opportunity; however, pack them, mark them and store them well that they be not exchanged and make every effort to send a good supply of skins by this ship. Enclosed is a bill of lading of the skipper; do not show this if it is not necessary for I have given Mr Kieft an order on you for f250 to pay for the freight. Now if he should have further advice from the Company about f617, as this bill of lading shows, give him only f250 according to the Freedoms, and appeal to me, stating that if I owe it I will pay it here to the Company. I have made an agreement with the Company concerning the old accounts and sent the papers to Kieft, who will no doubt hand them to you. They refer to many matters for which you have to look out, especially the 19th article of the Freedoms, to let no one leave my service before he has completed his time and paid his debt, for I reserve that power to myself; secondly, that no one have charged to my account anything gotten from the Company for his own use, but pay for it himself. When they need anything, let them notify you and you can then ask it of the Company and distribute it among those who have a credit balance with us, but be careful that you lend to no one whom we do not owe and do not let them deceive you. Keep Jehan barij<sup>24</sup> with you when he has no carpentering to do. You need not ask such things of the council, for I see that the council instead of being my council is their own council. If they act that way I shall appoint others. I am surprised that they dare call themselves an [independent] community,<sup>25</sup> as they are altogether my servants and subjects and every one promised to subject himself willingly to the laws and ordinances which I had made and might make. If they rise against me, they will ride an easy horse. What reason have maurits<sup>26</sup> and Ariaen<sup>27</sup> to join the others? If they do not want to accept the promotion which I offer them, they may leave it and serve me as many years and for such wages as I have engaged them and they are bound to serve me. It seems that they want me to trust them and that they do not want to trust me. I wrote to Mr kieft to please to support my ordinance concerning the shipping of goods from the colony and to confiscate all grain and furs sent by any one which are not entered according to the aforesaid ordinance at the manhatans, with reservation of my half. I see that these insolent people who hold everything that they have from me would like to defy me, so that I prefer to have these fellows far off rather than near by. I have also explained to Kieft the provisional valuation of the grain at f6, stating that it is not my intention to keep it at that figure (though if it came to the worst, I could claim the right) but that this is done only provisionally to see how they will treat me. I want them to trust me or I will not trust them in the least, and in case any one should be refractory, the commander of the militia,<sup>28</sup> who now goes to the Manhatans with a good many soldiers, has offered to assist me if need be with a sufficient unumber against any one of my people who should be refractory. I write this also to Mr Kycft in case you should ask him for such assistance. I do not wish to injure any one but neither do I want to be injured. I write to Mr Kieft that, saving my rights in the matter, I am satisfied to submit the differences between me and my farmers to the arbitration of the director and council of New Netherland, to show that I do not wish to injure them; but if they mean to threaten me by refusing flatly to accept my terms, I shall with God's help prevent this and in due time know how to find the bellwethers. They ought to be ashamed to refuse me yearly the f16 of which I must pay half. It would cost them a great deal more if they had to look out for that themselves. Distribute the men who go over now properly among those who behave most honestly and decently toward me and who are most faithful to me. You will do this with the advice of dirrick Cornelissen<sup>29</sup> and Cornelis Theunissen and no one else shall have anything to say about it. I will teach the peasant councilors to mutiny against their lord. You will do the same with respect to the distribution of the supplies, advising only with the two above-named persons; and if broer Cornelis mutinies too, he may see what he can gain thereby, for if I notice that he encourages others you will pass him by and advise with pieter Cornelisz only. I can not find out what service Cornelis Theunissen has rendered me in his capacity of my representative. If, because he is a farmer, he should side with the others, he would be of no use to me and it would be a lesson to me not to grant any of my officers or commisen any farms, for instead of looking out for me they would look out for themselves. Tell cornelis Theunissen to write me some time what he has done for me. If you do not know better, he ought to know better than to let you be put off with such a poor answer from the farmers in common; you should have asked each one individually and one by one what his intentions with regard to the patroon were and have asked them this in the presence of Pr. cornelissen and broer cornelisen, or else have had them sign their answers with their own hands. If they want to submit the matter to the director and council of New Netherland, I am satisfied to do so for the present; the letter to Kicfft contains my reasons.

As to the new farmers or those whose lease has expired, I do not want to let any one have a farm except on the terms of the permit to Maurits Janssen<sup>30</sup> and of the contracts of Cornelis moesen and Symon walichsen<sup>31</sup> even if I should not rent a single one, for I do not want to be defied by them whom I have made men. You will tell this freely to every one individually. The uncle of Maurits is here now; I have complained to him that mauritz, who really has no reason to do so and who should favor me so that I might treat him better, sides with the others who are of no concern to him. He therefore writes him the enclosed letter; greet him from me and tell him that I had not expected such an answer from him; that every one will hereafter think that he is master and can do as he pleases is wrong; they must follow my instructions and not I theirs. I shall not do them any harm for I am far enough from them and from my property.

Crijn cornelissen<sup>32</sup> goes over now. I have granted him a farm on the above conditions; he had most of the trouble in engaging the men and should be allowed to pick out the best of them. However, let him sign the agreement of mauritz, as I have not time to write out his agreement. Send me without fail some barrels of the crystal found in the hill of michiel jansz. Have the expense of digging it noted down, I can see then whether there is any money in it or not, for it is of little importance; yet if it is large, white and clear, it is worth something. But send me good and bad as it comes and let no one pick out the best pieces and hold them back. It would be best if Michiel did it himself and got some profit from it too; I think he is one of the most upright farmers in the colony, and when there is an opportunity I shall have an eye to his advantage also. He writes most politely of all; let him do what is right and he will be treated well by me. All these quarrels originated with Gerrit de Reux deceased, who made the people believe whatever he saw fit. I would write to him<sup>33</sup> and to others but the time has gone by. Give p<sup>r</sup>. Cornelissen my compliments and tell him that I expect his final account; I shall then have the more confidence in him. Let him make protest against those who will not pay him the tithes and if they will not pay them from what belongs to us in common, let them pay them provisionally from my share, for I desire by all means to have the right of the tithes for the future support of religion, the officers and other charges of the colony. It is childish to think of a minister going from here to be paid by the inhabitants individually. He, who is a servant of Jesus Christ, would then have to become a servant of the people, and when it came into the farmers' heads they would give nothing at all. Truly such ministers can not be found.<sup>34</sup> It seems to me that it would be a good plan if Cryn cornelissen established a farm on the West Island where brant peelen lives, as I am quite determined that there shall be two farms on that island, one to be called Rensselaers burghte and the other Welys burgh.

Order of Wouter van Twiller to Aert Willemsz<sup>35</sup>

May 30, 1640

Aert Willemssen, foreman

On receipt of this, deliver from among the animals which are on my farm and in your keeping to Cryn cornelissen van houten, for the account of the colony called Rensselaerswyck, two milch cows, now three years old, to be drawn by lot from the three which are on the farm, also two heifer calves born this year; and although this memorandum contradicts my letter, you are to comply with this last order and do right. Done at Amsterdam. this thirtieth of May 1640.

Instructions to Arent van Curler as secretary and bookkeeper of the colony of Rensselaerswyck<sup>36</sup>

Arundtt Van Curler, secretary and bookkeeper of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, is hereby provisionally and till further orders authorized, with the advice of pieter Cornelissen van munnekendam, receiver of tithes and supercargo of the vessel, and also with the advice of Cornelis Theunissen van Breuckelen, provided he unconditionally accepts and consents to further this matter, and if he is not willing to do so then in his place mauris jansen van Broeckhuysen, and on his refusal Brandt pelen vander nykerck, and if he also objects Cornelis masen van Buymalsen, and on his refusal miichel jansz van Schrabbekercke, and if they all refuse with pieter Cornelissen alone, subject to ratification by the patroon, to provide other farmers for the farms on which the farmers refuse to accept without change the conditions of maurits jansen van Broeckhuysen. The patroon exempts herefrom, however, the two oldest farmers, namely Brandt pelen and Cornelis Theunisen afore-said, not because he grants their argument, but taking that for

At the top of f.126 of the Letter Book, after the words "such ministers can not be found," of the preceding letter to van Curler, were written, and then canceled, the following: "Aert wallenessen, foreman. On receipt of this, deliver from among the animals which are on my —." It is clear that when the clerk found himself copying this order among the letters he stopped abruptly and turned to the section of the Letter Book, f.163-71, containing orders and similar papers. The form of the name seems to be a mere copyist's error.

what it is worth, mainly because at the time when they took possession of their farms, they had not yet signed the pledge to submit themselves freely and to obey his laws and ordinances; this exemption to last till the expiration of their first lease, and no longer. As to the farmers who followed later, since the patroon noticed that Gerret de reux, deceased, took the liberty to construe the contract made with his master to his own advantage by strictly adhering to the letter of the text in which by mistake a word had been left out, by changing dates and by passing by and rejecting other clauses by which he was strictly bound, the patroon wishing to prevent such things in the future, ordered his officer Iacob planck on the one hand to inform him of the impertinences of the said de reux and on the other hand, in order to avoid all contradictions, exceptions and obscurities, to be strict in obliging all future farmers to submit themselves to his rules and ordinances and to obey him as their said lord and master, which [obligation] began with the arrival of Cornelis maesen and Symon walichs agreeable to their contracts dated the 15th of August 1636 in Amsterdam and has continued thus till recently. In order not to have his rights disputed, the patroon at present and for the future intends to accept no one for his colony except upon said pledge. Meanwhile noticing that several people seek, not the patroon's advantage but their own, he has been obliged further to declare his honest and sincere intention regarding those who will serve faithfully and justly as appears by the permit to maurits jansz and adriaen Cornelissen aforesaid under date of the 12th of May 1639. Fully trusting that at least those who had made all their profits on, from and by means of his goods would have helped him in his good intentions and conducted themselves most properly, he has learned on the contrary that, notwithstanding the farmers are not on an equal basis with one another but are divided into three groups, namely those who came first, those who came later and those who came last, they have nevertheless all together like one man plotted against their lord and master, just as if the patroon had asked of them something which it was in their power to refuse if they saw fit, styling themselves an [independent] community<sup>37</sup> and even offering to find means of their own choice for the support of religion and the payment of the ministers. And although the patroon would gladly excuse their ignorance in this matter he can not help but resent and keenly feel it, as such pretensions and rejections of the ordinances of their lord and master, especially as to his right to the tithes, are of such consequence that in course of time he might be deprived, not only of his revenue and his right of jurisdiction, but finally even of his entire colony, his own grounds and lands, in the way and by such farmers as are spoken of in the gospel of Matthew 21:33-39, who must also expect the consequences set forth in verses 40 and 41. Wishing now to make timely provision in regard to these matters, the patroon authorizes the aforesaid arundt van Corler and pietter Cornelissen aforesaid to categorically ask the aforesaid Brandt Peelen and Cornelis Theunissen separately, first one and then the other, first what their intentions are with regard to the first term of their lease; secondly, whether they are willing at the expiration of the said lease to ask the patroon for [a renewal on] the aforesaid conditions of maurits jansz just as they are; and in case they refuse to do the latter, to cancel their lease immediately on the expiration of the first term, on the first of January next. But in case Cornelis Theunissen agrees to do so, he shall with pieter Cornelissen and arundt aforesaid be the third man to put this commission into effect with regard to the evil-doers; if not, such persons as were mentioned in the beginning. Thereafter they shall ask each one, man by man, namely, Cornelis masen, Symon zwalichs, michiels jansz and Cornelis dircxsen van vechten, whether or not they are willing to accept the conditions of maurits as aforesaid, the patroon granting, however, that as these farms were only recently established they shall be free from paying tithes for the years 1640, 1641 and 1642, each answer to be put in writing and sent to the patroon. Finally, they shall ask maurits jansz and adriaen Cornelissen whether or no they are willing to accept the conditions as they are now (provided that maurits shall be free from paying tithes for the years 1640 and 1641, as his farm is somewhat lacking in equipment and adriaen Cornelissen also for the year 1642, since Cryn Cornelissen van houten, who now goes over, has already accepted the conditions over his signature, provided he also shall be exempted from the tithes for three years, till the year 1643 inclusive); and if maurits or adriaen are at all unwilling, expressly tell them in the name of their patroon that they shall not have liberty to leave but must serve him for the remaining years of their contract as farm hands on such farms as arundt aforesaid and his adjuncts shall assign to each of them, and this upon such pains and fines as they have freely submitted themselves to by their signature. Now as to those who freely submit themselves to the rule of the patroon or his commissioners, the patroon not only promises to overlook their faults and ignorance but to grant them upon their request such privileges as reasonable subjects might properly demand of their lord and master, always reserving his right of high jurisdiction, which will teach them that they can not have any rights, much less call themselves an [independent] community<sup>38</sup> without his consent. If they desire any privileges, let them very discreetly ask them of their patroon, for if they fancy themselves too important they may commit a great crime which will then hurt the bellwethers most. All those who are willing to accept the conditions shall have contracts similar to that of maurits jansz recorded and sign the record, the names of those who are unwilling to be noted down and sent hither. And in case any farms should be deprived of farmers the following order shall be observed. If it is the farm of maurits jansen or [that of] adriaen Cornelissen, it shall be publicly leased or rented for three years to the highest bidder for a certain sum of free money,<sup>39</sup> the tithes, preemption of grain and of the animals and 16 guilders per year for each farm hand to be at the charge and for the benefit of the lessee, but the increase of the animals as usual one half for the patroon and one half for the lessee, oats and wheat to be bought at the price of eight guilders a mudde, [the lease to] commence the first of January next, all upon condition that the lessees may be no other than free-men who have a knowledge of farming and who give sufficient surety for the payment of the rent and the return of everything at the expiration of the three years in the same condition as they found it. If after the expiration of the lease of Brandt peelen, his farm called rensselaers burch should be without a farmer, instead of engaging a farmer, arundt van Curler shall take this farm for himself for three years on the conditions of maurits jansz and shall keep a good foreman thereon at his own expense. Pieter Cornelissen may do the same with the farm of Cornelis Theunissen, if upon the expiration of the first term of his lease he does not ask and obtain from his patroon [a renewal on] the conditions of maurits jansz. And as it seems that submission to the right of collecting tithes is one of the principal objections of the farmers, though the patroon is not bound to give his subjects and servants any reasons therefor, he will nevertheless indulge their weakness and say that the said right is the most just, the oldest and the means appointed by the Lord God himself, from which also the greatest blessing and protection against loss of everything, whether animals, fruits, crops or anything else, may be expected; that it is used in all Christendom and from it no lands are free (aside from those of the popish clergy) but those [whose owners] have transferred this charge from one piece of land to another, redeemed it or bought it off; also, that the freemen who went to the colony in the year 1639 and those who go thither now in 1640, have considered it fair and just and freely submitted themselves to it, while at present it differs in effect little or not at all from the offers which some seem to make for the furtherance of religion unless their object be to become themselves paymasters of the servants of Jesus Christ and to receive credit in proportion to their gifts. Some may also think that these tithes might in time amount to a great deal; this concerns the owner but not those who rent his land for a certain number of years unless they cast envious eyes on the property of the patroon and his copartners. Such property can not be obtained by lease but by cession and sale; the patroon, however, is not averse to selling in course of time a few farms in perpetuity to those who shall be inclined and have means to take them and in this way gradually to form an [independent] community,<sup>40</sup> for tenants can not form a community apart from their landlord. It is also an obligation imposed upon the patroons by the 27th article of the Freedoms to endeavor to find means for the promotion of the service of God, so that by virtue of the said article, even if the land were owned by the farmers, the patroon would have the right and the power to introduce the levying of tithes for this purpose. How shamefully those persons act who oppose the patroon because by the conditions of the contracts and leases he provisionally charges his own land with this in order to save his inhabitants personally, bearing himself one half of the expense. On the contrary, those who have a sound judgment and who do not let themselves be stirred up will find great cause for gratitude that the patroon at his own expense seeks to promote the service of God. And in order that no one may think but that what is aforewritten is the patroon's entire will, intention and meaning, he has besides his signature confirmed this with his own seal and that of the colony and ordered the secretary to enter the same upon the records. Done at Amsterdam this sixteenth of June in the year of our Saviour Jesus Christ sixteen hundred and forty. Was signed: kiliaen van renselaer, patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck.

Cornelis Teunissen Van Breuckelen, farmer in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

This 25th of June 1640, in Amsterdam

I have not received any letter from you for a long time, more particularly not since I sent you the commission as representative of the patroon and the participants, nor can I find that you have done me in that connection any service in defending my rights against the unwilling farmers or advanced my interests in other ways, for instead of defending my rights — but be that as it may, it will show itself and I shall soon find out whether the farmers are my master or whether I am their master. I have signed commissions for my cousin arent van Corler and pieter Cornelissen and also for you if you will defend my rights; if not, some one else must do it. You can read the commission and then make your statement. I hear and see by the letters of most of the farmers that they object greatly to the conditions of mauris Jansen. Who does not want to accept them as they are, need not. I can easily find masters enough if I can get servants enough, even if I have to send them from here. I am no child and know very well what profit the farmers can make, but if they think that they can become rich in a few years, they will find themselves mistaken. I, who have paid all the expenses and still daily pay them, must have the better part. I shall not dispute with you long, the four years of your lease will end on the first of January 1641. If you please to accept the conditions of mauris as they are, in God's name I shall extend your lease on these conditions for six or for four years at your choice, provided that you maintain my rights against others who are unwilling, for which I shall compensate you so honestly that you will have reason to thank me. And if you faithfully accept to do this according to my commission let me know how much extra I should pay you yearly for this office and if you serve me well I shall in the future also see that you get promoted. You should first find out also who is most faithful toward me. I am far from my property and must therefore pay close attention so as to prevent losses. The farmers are keen in noticing that in writing the contract of Gerrit de reux, I omitted to mention the preemption of the grain. I wrote at length to Jacob planck in the years 1635 and 1636, that he must notify gerrit de reux of it and I also spoke about it to cornelis masen and Symon Walings here at Amsterdam, and as to yourself, I engaged you in my service at a yearly salary and also paid you f30 extra allowance, which the farmers do not get and in addition have to pay their own passage, and when you said that your goods had been taken, I paid you f30 more as an advance; and further paid your board during the passage to the Company and instead of serving me so many years you have tried to establish a farm, promising me and making me believe by your letter of June 26, 1636, that the house would be finished much sooner than others and at half the expense. Now what the truth of this matter is you know best yourself, aside from the fact that the first house burnt down and that the next one was erected not by you but by others at an excessive cost to me, as I wrote to Jacob planck. They know how to lay great stress on the words of gerrit de reux but my own words are not even taken into consideration and what you and others have promised me is kept only as the wind which blows past. What became in 1636 of your 25 or 30 morgens of summer and winter grain which you promised me and what has become of the servant whom your brother would bring with him? Is it not true, on the contrary, that in the year 1638 you had but 13 morgens of winter grain and 3 morgens of summer grain? From the account of grain delivered it is shown how much was furnished by your farm but not at what great and excessive expense it was reerected. Where do you find in the contract which I made with gerrit de reux that the lease of his land will begin in May? It is true the lease of the house expires in May but the use of the land ceases on the first of January.<sup>42</sup> In all these ways they try to deceive and cheat me and then they dare to refer to the contract of gerrit de reux. Who gave you and others orders to appraise the grain on the field in June 1638 at f75 a morgen, chargeable to my account? You should have seen to it that the morgen produced f100, and what has become of the grain? I see people are only seeking commissions and, when they have them, they do not even think of their master. I write this somewhat fully because it grieves me to see that those who should in every way further his interests become at once arrogant and selfish. If you want to do me a favor, assist my cousin arent van corler and seek to observe [your duty under] my commission as much as possible and give me a reliable answer so that I may know how to govern myself and how far I can depend upon you.

Pietter Cornelisen van Munnickendam, in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

The 25th of June 1640

I have received yours of the 25th of August 1639, which on account of the hasty departure of den waterhondt I could not answer, and what is more, all my other letters came too late, notwithstanding I handed them to the president of the Company; theirs, however, did not come too late. I rejoice to learn that the sawmill is working and, from oral accounts of others, that the grist-mill is also completed. There remains therefore only for you to send me a correct account, having the same examined and entered there by my cousin arent van corler as bookkeeper of the colony, to whom I have sent a commission which he is to execute with your advice and assistance and that of cornelis teunissen van breuckelen. However, as I am not sufficiently sure of Cornelis teunissen because he is himself a farmer, and may perhaps act contrary to my orders instead of bringing others to reason,<sup>44</sup> I have framed the said commission as you may see for yourself. It is necessary that arent make a copy of it for you, for I fully intend to reserve to myself the right to the tithes and the shipment of the grain, even if I have to provide other masters for the farms, if they stir one another up there, or have them worked by faithful foremen, as rutgert hendricksen has been, who has brought me the greatest profit; but after the arrival of gerrit de reux, who is the sole cause of this ill-will, things took quite a different turn. It is surprising that people who could get along so well should be so avaricious that they show themselves in every way rebellious and disobedient to their master who has provided them with everything at his expense. They may do as they please; some of them will find out how well it is for them to continue therein. The Company has sent a letter to their director stating that no one may leave the colony without my express will and consent thereto; I have sent a copy of it to arent van Corler. The commander<sup>45</sup> of the militia who sails in den waterhondt promised to assist me with soldiers if any one of my people should become rebellious or turbulent, but Director kieft must always be consulted in the matter, as I wrote him. I shall not give them any cause, but those who urge and press me to it will soon find out, if not the first time then the next. I shall have patience but I want to remain master, even if I have to request the strong arm of the High and Mighty States General and the Prince of Orange, who will not refuse me the same against those who oppose me and refuse to obey my orders, which they promised to do over their signatures.

Now as to [the execution of] your provisional commission, as the lease of brant pelen expires next January and also that of Cornelis teyunissen, these farmers must leave or pay tithes to you [beginning with] the year 1641, in conformity with the commission given to erant<sup>46</sup> and yourself. The farm of mauris Jansen must pay the tithes [beginning with] the year 1642. Cornelis maesen and Symon wolichs ought also to pay in the year 1642, but as they suffered some loss last year they shall with the rest pay tithes [beginning with] the year 1642;<sup>47</sup> protest must be made against those who pay too little and the protest sent to me that I may take the necessary measures. As to the commission concerning the vessel,<sup>48</sup> I desire that everything shall be entered according to my orders and who neglects to do so must expect confiscation by me as well as by the director and the fiscal at the manhatans, whom I have provisionally authorized to do so till further order. I am far from my property and must look sharply to prevent loss. As to [my] paying [you] in that country, I do not know what you mean, for there is no money, so that it would have to be in furs or merchandise or in grain, but if you sell the boards to others you could for your half take such payment at the rate charged for boards which you furnished for my farmhouses. Does this [demand] become less, a plan might be adopted for selling the boards for our mutual profit at the manhatans, to the English or wherever else they are wanted most. Deal properly with me and I shall do as much for you. Therefore, assist my cousin arent van Corler; it will in the end do you no harm; meanwhile I expect your accounts and the report of your doings.

The 25th of June 1640

I have received your letter and can hardly understand or read what you mean. I see only that you seek to make a definite lease at a fixed sum a year, but I can not make any change till I have arrived at a definite understanding with the other farmers. I can not conceive what they intend to do and why they should be so foolish as to stir one another up [to insubordination], as you may see by the commission<sup>51</sup> to arent van Corler, in which I also mentioned you. Because you came last I have given you this farm, but do right, be honest and do not let them stir you up; I shall remember you in such way that you will get along well. The f400 a year do not come near [the real rental value; at that rate] I should lose my whole [investment in the] country. You know what the horses, cattle, houses, barns and hay barracks cost and what trouble I have in having good servants hunted up. Keep on the side of my cousin arent van Corler. You will oblige me by doing right and he will in the future also remember you and provide you before others with good servants and other necessities. I can not understand what sort of people I have in the colony. The four of them have appraised the estate of gerrit de reux, to my displeasure, as follows: 31 morgens of winter grain at f75 the morgen, amounting to f2325, also 7 morgens of summer grain at f30, amounting to f210, besides what may be expected in the way of butter and cows and from the fattening of hogs and the increase of the animals and what was still on the field and had to run the risk of reaping and bear the expenses of binding and bringing home. Truly, they have fully opened my eyes as to what such a

<sup>50</sup> Erroneously given by O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:436, as Michiel Jansen van Broecckhuysen. Michiel Jansz came over with his wife and two servants on het Wapen van Noorwegen, in 1638, and from 1640 to 1646 leased from the patroon the farm called de Hoogeberch. In 1646 he moved to New Amsterdam, where he attained prominence as one of the Nine Men. Dec. 14, 1646, his age is given as 36 years. See Macntgelt Bocck, 1638-44, f.6 and Gerechts Rolle, 1648-52, f.10b, among the Rensselaerswyck Mss, and *N. Y. Col. farm can produce yearly and they must have shamefully forgotten their lord and master, who has done so much for them, to cheat him so grossly; these fellows will find that their avarice will deceive them. Read my reasons which I set forth in the letter to Arent van Corler; you will in your conscience find that all their doings are but empty air and vanity. What will they say to this? A few days ago the Company framed new freedoms for New Netherland by which the Company stipulates that all the lands of the patroons shall pay their tithes; however, this does not concern me, as I obtained my freedoms before, and I write it only to shut the mouths of such instigators who are unwilling to pay and to convince them of their mutiny.<sup>51a</sup>

As to the crystal which you found on the hill, keep that matter as secret as you can and advise with arent van Corler about it. Perhaps it will be a source of profit to you if you serve me faithfully. Have some barrels of it dug, good and bad, large and small, and send it to me: I shall know then what price it will bring. However, you must make an estimate as to the labor it takes for each barrel and look out carefully that the people do not keep back the whitest and largest and clearest pieces, for they are the best, and when I see how many of such pieces there are among it, I shall give you further orders to the profit both of myself and you.

This 25th of June 1640

I have received your letters with the accounts, but I can not understand them very well. You should settle and liquidate accounts there with arent van Curler. I see that you put in my account all charges for yourself and for your whole household. This is not according to our agreement and should not be done. There must be other reasons which induce you thereto and you ought not to write to me about these.<sup>53</sup> The account of the sale of the four cases of tobacco, among which there was one of your brother arent, I send in another package of letters to arent van Curler. You have caused me and yourself great loss by making me hold the tobacco so high. It would have been left entirely unsold and have spoiled and I should not have dared to sell it except for the advice of huybert jansen, tobacco roller, the son of jan Cornelisen, who had rated it so high. One must follow the market here. The tobacco which has lately come from the manhatas is held high. They must probably pay two stivers duty and I paid but one stiver; they must pay a stiver a pound for freight and I paid but 30 st a 100, which makes a considerable difference, and they will not get as much for it as they imagine. As to the goods which you request by letter, you should have given this letter to arent van Corler; he would then know what to furnish you in proportion to others. It is inconvenient for me to correspond with everybody. By so doing I should become everybody's servant; I think that I do you enough kindness by selling your tobacco together with mine and by sending the merchandise in return for it to my commis, who will supply you in the same proportion as others as I wrote him also. And if you are not satisfied with that you must make another contract with me. Each inhabitant of the colony would no doubt like to have a master at his beck and call;<sup>54</sup> that can not be. When your term expires we must enter into a different contract, so that I may know what I have above expenses, as my nephew twiller does at the manhatas with his people. I see that you are diligent; I am therefore willing to help you along, but I can as yet not comprehend or understand from your accounts what your yearly profit to me is. Could you arrange things so that I made something, I shall see that you get something, even if it were in merchandise or in furs to be delivered to you,<sup>55</sup> but everything must pass through the hands of the commis whom I shall appoint in the colony. If you know a better way, I will accommodate you but you must not make me your servant nor write as you did about the soap and other things; I can not tolerate that from you.

Meanwhile, I shall feel favorably toward you if you will give me further explanations and a more detailed account with arent van Corler.

Reijer stoffelsen, smith, in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

The 25th of June 1640

I have not yet received any letter from you but understand that your wife's sister, the banns of whose marriage were published in my colony, married at the manhatans and stayed there. It would have been better if she had married in the colony, as she would have been more company to you in that way. How much iron and coal I sent by den waterhondt, you will see from the invoice which I sent to arent van Corler. I trust that you will serve me faithfully and live up to your contract, unlike to others, who I understand do nothing but misconstrue my contracts and seek to stir up others. According to what I am told here they make my contracts out to be much worse than I do in order to arouse others thereby to mutiny.<sup>57</sup> They make the charges out to be greater so as to have reason for not paying anything; as for example, they make the freemen, who should receive 30 st a day, believe that they are to get but 25 st, saying that the patroon must have one sixth part which is 5 st, therefore there remain but 25 st. That is a shameful misconstruction, for in case they spend 30 st I am not to have a penny, as I get but one sixth part of the gain at the end of the year. In the same way they misconstrue the tithes, as well as the guilder on each hog, the idea being not to pay a guilder as often as the hog is sold but only when it is sold to be slaughtered, to be sent away or for some such purpose, and it seems to me that it is little enough to be able to keep a hog in the field or in the woods for one guilder a year. Therefore please construe everything to my best advantage and do not listen to the instigator to evil. The Lord will bless you the more for doing so and I shall return kindness for kindness, but those who want to oppose me will find themselves deceived.

Mauris Jansen, in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

Cousyn mauris Jansen: If you had thought of me as I thought of you, you would not have sent such an answer instead of thanking me. Something must have been wrong in your mind or you must have allowed yourself to be stirred up with others. You may be sure I shall find who is the cause of it all and whether it was not done by those who had the least reason for it. How much I thought of you appears from the fact that although you were but 19 years old I gave you such wages as men of 24 years and over received and that while I had engaged you for six years, having arrived in the colony in the year 1637, I made you at once in the year 1638 master instead of servant on a new farm and in the year 1639 gave you one of the best farms on which under the present terms and in your present capacity, you could earn yearly according to your own diligence and God's blessing, three, yes, four times as much as at the time I engaged you. Now see what thanks I receive for this. You know or at least ought to know that Gerrit de reux, deceased, during his lifetime misinterpreted the conditions made with me and frequently acted impertinently toward me, which deeds it would take too long to relate. All these abuses I wanted to remedy, trusting that a relative of mine, and one whom I had so soon and while he was so young promoted from servant to master would as a sign of gratitude help me therein. On the contrary I discover that you are the principal one to oppose me, threatening to leave (as if you had a right to do so, which would soon appear not to be the case) if I do not grant you the conditions which you dictate in your letter.

Examine your conduct conscientiously and you will find other matters to fill your letters than you have put in so far. Even if geerit de reux had been right, which he was not, was I, after his death and after the expiration of his lease, bound to observe the contract made with him when there was but one farm in the colony and when he, being the second [farmer], promised to erect a new farm on the fifth kill far from the fort and where nobody lived?

On this farm which you obtained, on the contrary, there were in the year 1638 <sup>59</sup> morgens of winter wheat, which the farmers appraised at f75 a morgen, chargeable to the patroon. They have either scandalously overvalued it or you are not grateful that you are master instead of servant on such a farm. And as to the tithes, if according to my high jurisdiction I might impose tithes on all lands within that jurisdiction which do not belong to me, how much the more right have I and also how Christian and proper is it to stipulate the same in the lease of the land which I own. Therefore, think well what you do, and if you want to expect further promotion do not dispute my terms but accept them as they are and serve out the time which you have promised me, to which I shall expect a more carefully considered reply than I have received so far. Enclosed is a letter from your uncle. Understand me well, when you do right you will also be treated rightly, but remember all you gain there, so that I must remain the master and the oldest child;<sup>60</sup> and if you wish to have any prospect of advancement, do not oppose my cousin van korler but help him in every way. It will be better for you than if you did otherwise, for I shall not let myself be overruled by the farmers, even if not one of those fellows remain in the colony. Meanwhile, best wishes from your trusting, &c.

This 26th of June 1640, in Amsterdam

I shall briefly answer your undated letter to me. I understand your meaning and see that you are greatly mistaken about your stipulated wages, and that others have stirred you up and made you believe that instead of 30 st you are to get but 25 st. If you have saved 30 st free money,<sup>63</sup> 5 st thereof belong to me, but if

you spend 30 st on board and clothes, I do not get a penny. Therefore be at ease and satisfied with the contract made with me; the years will soon pass. And urge others to do their duty and to fulfil their promises instead of stirring each other up against their patroon. It seems that many people have no conscience and while here in the country promise me a great deal which on their arrival there they do not think of giving me; but I do not think this of you and shall favor you as much as the opportunity will in any wise allow. For this reason I have done your wife this favor that I have packed a small package for you in case no. 8, which now goes thither in den waterhondt and which you can get upon request from my cousin arent van Corler when the case with God's help shall have arrived. Cask D contains a fishing net and what belongs to it, for which albert also has asked me. You may pay for it and use it together, as well as michiel Jansen and sander leendersz, according to your letter.

The grist-mill, I understand from pieter wyncoop, is entirely finished and grinds excellent meal and as to the 8 st a schepel for grinding, this must be so arranged that people have no ground for complaint. I am longing to hear how your tobacco plantation goes. Your son huybert writes you; his letter is enclosed in another packet of letters. You had valued the tobacco of albert too high; one can not fix there the market of this country. I shall make regular use of your son to advance and to recommend him; return me the favor, especially in seeing to it that the necessary farmhouses be erected strongly and conveniently and at the least expense, and as I have sent a model of a church, see to that also, as Claes jansen ruijter has gone to the manhatans, and look around for suitable timber to be cut during the winter and brought to the [place of] building by the farmers. You must not make a mistake and take it too large; the dimensions of the building are indicated in the memorandum. And as to sending a minister, I make every effort to find suitable means but it seems that there are restless spirits in the colony who want to thwart my good work. I wish that I knew who they were, I would make a note of them. Is it not a shameful thing that they try to arouse you and other freemen against [paying] the tithes which you granted me here in the country according to the contract of freemen? They want to dictate another way of paying the minister, but these fellows will find out whether they are my masters or whether I am theirs. There is no more divine means than the tithes for where the Lord

God gives and lets grow nine trees, fish, or schepels of grain, he [the freeman] can easily give the tenth in addition and will be blessed more than those who try to keep it in their purse. I would rather yield my own right than allow myself to be deprived of the right to the tithes; therefore, do your best also to manage everything according to the terms made with the freemen and put in the lease of the farmers.

July 2, 1640

1640, 2 July

Albert andriesen: I have examined your letters and your accounts as well as those of arent, your brother. I can not get any clear idea from them. I have shown them also to my nephew van twiller, the former director, but he can not make them out either; therefore, as you sent me duplicates of your accounts I return herewith one copy to arent van Corler. You must settle with him there. Just as I send you a clear account of your tobacco, you must send me a clear account of everything that has been advanced there. That I should share in all the expenses of the household is contrary to your agreement. The three of you were like one man and if you had remained so you would together have needed but one house. That it must now be divided into three dwellings is to my disadvantage and not my fault but yours jointly. Therefore, you must not count as you do but as follows: first, you must calculate what your dwelling house costs you, which concerns you alone; then what the drying houses or the tobacco, cost you, half of which is to be charged to you and half to me; further, as to my half of your board and that of the men whom you have employed, this must not be mixed and entered with the expenses for board, clothes and household articles of the whole household, but every week, year or month, you must charge each one with the amount which I think reasonable and also credit each with one half of what he has contributed to the kitchen by fishing, fowling or hunting. As to your wife, she should be credited daily or weekly with such wages as she has earned by her work, one half of which is to be charged to me; hereto must be added one half of the wages of the men or other people whom you have employed in planting tobacco or in work connected with it.

In return you must credit me with one half of all the tobacco which you have sold there to one person or another; also, one half of all the profit on the furs, which you do not mention in your accounts, though it is included in your contract. You must also credit me in your account with the f75 and the 50% additional, together f112:10, which I advanced you here in this country; with your  $\frac{1}{3}$  share of the goods bought for the mill company, amounting to 448:18:8, of which my half is f224:9:4 and that for the three of you f224:9:4, your third part amounting to f74:8:14, which you have paid me, but not the above f75, on which you promised me 50% additional and which will be paid when you give me the f112:10.

You must also pay for board of yourself, your wife and the children in the colony, to the 24th of March 1637, amounting according to the account of dirck Corsen to..... f104 8 for the children..... f 52 4

f156 12

I also paid for you to the West India Company f10 duty on the 10 skins sent to your godmother by Dirck corsen, for which I paid her f100. Further [you must pay for] the merchandise and the like received from Jacob planck and arent van corler, or which you may have bought from the Company or others on my credit, to which must be added whatever else I may have forgotten.

Against this I owe you for  $\frac{1}{2}$  of the tobacco of the year 1639, amounting to f372:8; for your half..... f186 4 for the tobacco of the year 1640, of your brother arent f631:18; for your half..... f315 19

This is the way you must count, or everything will be confused and mixed up. No other result is possible; I can not understand your accounts.

July 2, 1640

Arundt Van Curler, in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

2 July 1640

As the preceding letters came too late on account of the hasty departure of the ship den waterhondt, I shall answer somewhat more fully yours of the 23d of August 1639, sent by Cornelis melyn.

By the letter of my brother in law twiller, you will see the care taken of you with regard to the inheritance of your father and mother, especially regarding the succession to the estate near nieckerck. Your uncle boldewyn has been here but he did not even speak to me, as he is angry at having missed what was coming to him by right of primogeniture.<sup>66</sup> It will turn out all right for you if you will only fear the Lord and be faithful in your service and let no one induce you to sin against God or to injure your master. Remember that all things have their time and that one must not be too hasty and attempt to fly too high. If you do right, things will come of themselves, for which otherwise you would have to serve or solicit much; and when you consider yourself too weak, let me know it and I will have no trouble in getting others; however, I do not trust every one whom I chance to meet.

I have this fault to find with several of your accounts, as for instance those relating to albert andriesen and Cryn Cornelisz and his brother, that you put on the one side what they owe you but not on the other side what you owe them in return, while another time you put down what you owe them and not what they owe you in return, so that this must be a lesson to you to keep debit and credit accounts. Even if there be nothing to put down, this must be indicated, otherwise one thinks that it may have been forgotten. When you give anything to any one you must add briefly of what and to whom, so as to give a clearer idea.

Herewith goes by Cornelis melyn a cargo chest RQ. which came too late for den waterhont. It contains three very fine blankets which you will give in my name to three chiefs; one to Sader Juchta, chief of the maquacs, the other two to the two chiefs who have the greatest credit and power among the maquacs or to one of the principal men of the malikans. You will write out for these people my name in large characters, to wit: kiliaen van renselaer, patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, presents and gives you (N.B. putting his name) as a sign of peace and friendship and good neighborly relations, this present which you receive here from my hand. And although he does not see you with his own eyes you are nevertheless remembered in his heart by similar ceremonies of friendship. You might do this in the presence of pieter cornelissen and cornelis teunissen, who can then further extend the matter. There are also four blankets in case no. 8, sent by de waterhondt. One is a present for you, the second for pieter corneliss, the third for cornelis teunissen if he behaves well, and the fourth you must sell for me as high as you can so as to have some compensation. These small presents to the savages may sometimes cause great friendship and prevent much enmity. It would also serve as a means of making them acquainted with God, saying this person knows you, although he has not seen you, through those persons whom he has heard speak and who have written of you. How much better then can God, who made the heavens and the earth and created the sun which you can see, see your works, He who each day lets his bountiful gifts come to man through the fruitfulness which He gives to the products of the earth and to man's sinful body.

I have seen the accounts of Albert andriesen but can not understand them. I send them to you herewith for your examination. I write to albert as to the way I think the accounts ought to be drawn up. Talk with him about it and tell him that he must render the accounts in that form or there will be a great confusion, which I do not want, and before handing him his letter you will please first copy what I have written at the close about drawing up the accounts accordingly. However, if he should complain too much at bearing alone the expense of his dwelling house and if everything went well, I would consent to pay one half of it, provided that half the house then belonged to me; but the other freemen must pay for their own houses themselves. I have enclosed all these six letters under cover of yours. You must read them through carefully and copy what is of use to you and then give them to each one individually. Give mauris his letter first before he has spoken to any one and see how he takes it. Then give cornelis teunissen his letter without anybody being present and see whether he takes it well or not, thereafter give pieter cornelis- sen his letter, also alone, and read him a commission which I send you, in which he is also mentioned with cornelis teunissen if the latter is willing to comply, otherwise pieter cornelissen alone. The other letters you must give one by one but in such a way that one does not know about the others and as soon after each other as you can. If you do not trust yourself to manage the matter alone, take pieter cornelissen from the first as your counselor. When you notice that he behaves well, listen more to him and trust him more; but if he should not carry out my intention you must be somewhat cautious. You can reply to all objections that you must follow your commission and that I have strictly ordered it, asking them whether they would be served better if I sent another man to carry out my instructions than by having them carried out by you. I have no doubt that the bond will be broken and the net will be torn, which will prevent them from inciting each other as they have done.

Let me know whether Jacob planck left you there all the contracts which I made with my people and examine the contract of the three people who formed the mill company, namely, pieter Cornelissen, Claes Jansen and albert andriesen, in which you will find a promise to settle their accounts each year with Jacob planck or whoever may fill his place. How obedient therefore is albert when he writes in his letter that he does not want to get any goods from you. He will find himself in trouble if he keeps that course. However, keep quiet and carry out your instructions. If they have anything to say, tell them that they must write it to me, that you must follow your commission and that I shall know how to find those who try to violate their contracts. I shall expect by the first opportunity the accounts of the aforesaid merchandise together with the returns in furs and the like. However, send me no beaver skins except the very best. Others you might trade in again, as I have to pay the Company one guilder on each skin. That would be too heavy a charge on the small skins unless you count two as equal to one merchantable skin.

It is great loss to me that the goods sent by the ship den Engel gabriel did not arrive there before the winter. I must have patience and you must do your best to sell everything to the best advantage. Above all things take care that your goods are not reduced by fire or theft and give no one anything on credit except those to whom I owe something and let no one impose upon you and construe my contracts in a wrong sense as I notice everybody wants to. If you want to have somebody with you whom you can trust and who means to do right by me and you, I do not wish that Cornelis teunissen or any one else shall refuse you this, but take no one unless he is honest and of good conduct. De ruijter<sup>67</sup> and his wife must live by themselves when they come back; do not engage them. Have your house fortified that animals may not steal from you nor savages surprise you; be especially careful about fire and guard yourself against bad women, Indian or others, and keep the fear of the Lord before your eyes and He will bless you.

As to the farmers, I want them to enter all their grain according to the former ordinance and also to offer to you first all the grain that they want to deliver to the Company or they will have no small dispute with me; and if they do otherwise, they will have to expect loss and confiscation. What you need for your own support you might get from brant pelcn or others on credit; and if they refuse to give it to you, you might pay them in merchandise. In this way one knife will keep the other in the sheath. I notice that you allow others to rule too much over you. The farmer who can drink so much wine at a Maypole [festival] and not deliver anything, the representative of the patroon ought to accuse before the council and they ought to fine him heavily to the profit of the patroon. They will thus observe their duty better than in valuing the grain on the field at 75 guilders a morgen. If they are appointed councilors, it is in my interest; and if they do not seek my advantage, I shall if it pleases me appoint others. As to the debt which the farmers or the men owe the Company they must pay it themselves, as you can see from the arrangements made between me and the Company, which I have sent to Mr kieft, who will no doubt hand to you such of the papers as I do not send to you, for the Company itself has sent him a copy thereof. In the letter which I write to Mr kieft, there are many things which it would be useful for you to know. Ask him and he will undoubtedly let you read my letter. Keep on good footing with him and present him in my name with two or three muddes of wheat, which you can do the more properly as he is helpful to you in making the farmers enter everything and deliver it into your hands. Carefully examine the papers containing the agreement between me and the Company, but as grain is in great demand in that country and beaver skins are becoming cheaper here, he ought instead of 4½ guilders a pound to furnish you beaver skins at 3½ guilders a pound and [pay for] the wheat at [the rate of] 10 guilders a mudde. As to the debtors of dircks korssen referring to their notes of hand, they talk about that to others, but as they know without doubt that dirck korsen was my servant and that the goods which he sold to them were my goods, they may be assured that it will not do them any harm to pay to me as I am sufficiently able to guard them against further claims. They did wrong in making out their notes of hand in the name of dirck korsen, as they knew that the goods which he sold them were mine, in which I let dirck korsen and Jan ticpgens together have an eighth share, and as I understand that dirck korsen has sent over the notes of hand for collection, let cornelis teunissen when they appear stop them in my name saying that they are false notes of hand. As to the fact that dirck korssen has the goods belonging to the joint owners of the ship rensselaerswoyck entered in his own name, this ought to be investigated, and if they request Mr kieft to assist them, cornelis teunissen will no doubt defend my case and carry it out to my profit, for dirck korsen can not turn over to private persons goods owned in common.

As to the right to the tithes, you will have to regulate yourself according to your commission, especially with regard to the farms whose leases will first expire, like those of brant peelen and cornelis teunissen, and do not change any date, for these leases must expire the first of January. This is clearly stated in the contract of Gerrit de reux and therefore this date must be kept and brant pelen must have none of the grain that was in the barn before the first of January. You must look out for that in his account, for he might think that he had a right to one half of the grain that stood on the field in May 1635. That year still belongs to me, as I paid the expenses of it and he must have his wages. [His term begins] with the year 1636, so that his four years end the first of January 1640 which is the end of his lease, and it is a favor on my part that I continue him till the first of January 1641. The same is the case with cornelis teunissen. These people do themselves a great deal of damage by depriving themselves of such beautiful farms; but they may do as they please. I will not rent them to any one except on the terms of the contract with mauris even if I have to have them tilled as in the beginning by rutgert hendricksen, who has been an honest servant, as was also brant peelen, but now that he begins to be rich it seems that he sides with others to his own disadvantage. He is foolish, for I was favorably inclined toward him; it is not for him to grant me land according to his wishes, but for me to grant him my land according to my wishes, and if he does not like it I will not force him to it, as others will be glad to take it.

As to jacob wolfersen, he should have given me a cow for my half share in the horse. He must still do this if it has not yet been done; or else put a price on the horse and draw lots as to who shall have it. He is a worthy man and I am surprised that he has taken the whole horse without paying me, as only one half share in it belonged to him. It is a great loss to me that cornelis teunissen and brant pelen have exchanged a horse for two cows and given four muddes of wheat in addition. I do not wish you to consent to such things next year, but inasmuch as there are so few cows in the colony I will this time overlook it. I am very anxious for the increase of the horses but especially of the cows. Enclosed is a memorandum<sup>68</sup> from my nephew van twiller to receive two cows and two calves from aert willemssen, which Cryn cornelissen is to use on his farm and which I have granted him because he has done his best to procure good servants. The sample of the tobacco of arent van driesen<sup>69</sup> is extraordinary but it has a strange after-taste. If his brother is willing to discharge him, I am willing to grant him a plantation on the basis of that of 1639, but not at all to share expenses. That must be entirely abolished and I must know what my profit will be; even if the contract of those who work without servants stipulates that instead of one half they will deliver one third to me in tobacco, I shall be satisfied. I have written to micheel about the crystal. Read his letter and let him do as I told him. Something is said in your letter<sup>70</sup> about the farm of brant pelen. You must not get your advancement from that source.<sup>71</sup> You will have enough to do in carrying out my commission and instructions and in course of time when I hear of your capacity and efficiency I will give you proper promotion, but you must do like others and in the beginning not want too much. Many a young man serves his master six years in the hope of being advanced. The benefit will come to you of itself if you carry out my instructions, render me correct accounts and bring in some profit; for on this your promotion depends. You must give me an exact account of what has become of the 31 morgens of grain of the farm of Gerrit de reux which they valued at f75. Let the farmer<sup>72</sup> account for that and if he can not do so he must be called before the council by cornelis teunissen to render true account. These are things which are of service to me and in case he does not render a true account he must be fined according to circumstances, for as far as I can make out from what mauris jansen says, he has been quite useless to me and caused me great loss. I am sorry about the accident of the flood and the poor crop which I had in the year 1639. One must have patience in regard to what the Lord God does, but what happens from neglect of the people ought to be remedied or punished. I hope that this year 1640 will be a better year, both as to the increase of animals and the grain crop, of which I hope to be advised by the first opportunity; and put in the inventory the hogs which are on the farms, which so far has not been done.

As to Symon walings, who so far has not furnished anything, he shall also be called before the council to defend himself concerning the farm as well as the great expenses which he has occasioned, and in case the council be unanimously against their master, like the appraisers of the 31 morgens of Gerrit de reux, you will write to me about it; and do not fear in the least to denounce their faults; if they are unfaithful to me or very partial I must take other measures and send others. I see that last year there was a fairly good oat crop. You must take care of this and see that it is not uselessly squandered but disposed of and sold to my profit. [I see] that albert has bought a heifer for f200, which is much too high. You must make other arrangements about the provisions for the freemen, namely, if there are any oxen to be killed about that time, that they be properly divided and sold, the farmers having the preference, especially those who have raised them, and likewise about the hogs, that one does not get everything and another nothing. These are matters which the council are to settle. There ought to be regular fishermen in the colony who at the proper season make it their business to fish and to sell their catch among the people so that each one might get some, similarly hunters or game-shooters who can then sell their deer and turkeys to the people. Is not this much better than that every one spend his time doing this?

The inventory of the animals is quite incorrect and full of mistakes and you must in the future pay more attention to that, for

I can not get any clear idea from it. The lack of time excuses you to some extent, but you ought always to do this work in advance so that the time may not find you unprepared. Adopt a good form which you can continue with little trouble. If I had time I would send you one but my occupations prevent me. Vale.

Ordinance of the colony of Rensselaerswyck prohibiting storing of grain and tobacco without inspection<sup>73</sup>

The commissioners and councilors of the colony of Rensselaerswyck by order of the patroon and his participants earnestly forbid and prohibit all farmers, tobacco planters and freemen, whoever they may be, from bringing any grain, of whatever kind, or tobacco and other products into their houses or barracks<sup>74</sup> without consent of and notice to the commissioners or councilors there, in order that they may make proper examination and inspection of the same while it is still in the field or on the land, and whoever opposes or does anything against this ordinance and does not allow such proper inspection to take place, shall by way of fine forfeit the sum of 200 guilders. Let every one take heed that such is our intention and guard himself against loss. Done in the colony of Rensselaerswyck this 19th of July 1640.

By order of the commissioners and councilors of the said colony.

September 10, 1640

Johannes de laet, at Leyden

10 September 1640

I can not let the opportunity of the going of Sr mussart thither pass by without asking you to pay the last assessment (long ago advanced by me), the said mussart having paid his in good time. I see no reason why this is delayed. If any umbrage is taken by any of the participants in the colony, this can be properly remedied. As to the last memorial drawn up by you and caused to be handed to me by Mr blommert, it seems to me, subject to correction, that it runs entirely off the track, and that you must have imperfectly understood my intention, for the said memorial dissolves the colony, dispossesses the patroon and opens the door for separation, which I am even asked to take the pains to procure. If that had been the intention from the beginning, I would not have taken the trouble to undertake the management as of an ill success nothing could be expected but ingratitude and loss and of a good success nothing but trouble taken for others. It is well known that as early as November 1639<sup>77</sup> I declared myself as patroon, put everything in order and gave instructions in my private name and person to buy land and pay for it, and had the deeds and conveyances made out in my name, yes, what is more, even in the beginning of 1630, before I shared the management with anybody in the world, I sent thither wulfert geeretsen as my director and rutgert hendericksen as my officer<sup>78</sup> together with several farm hands and boys. This will be corroborated by all signed documents, and although from January 1630 I had been spending money, I did not get a penny from any one till about two years later, [receiving then on the] 29th of September 1631 from blommert for the one fifth share f281: 17: 8, from you by Sr boudezwyns the same sum in November following, and from Godyn, deceased, not till February 1632 the same sum for one fifth share; and it will nowhere appear that I have ever turned over, ceded or given any part of my patroonship or management to any one, [acting in this] as did Mr Godyn, deceased, and Mr blommert, who left my name out of their conveyances, although I was one of the original subscribers to their colonies; so that I can not and may not cede in any way what belongs to me privately. But this I declared to you and wrote and said to Sr maussaert that inasmuch as the Lord has blessed me with several sons, I was willing to listen to such propositions as would prevent the patroon or the successor to the fief from cheating his brothers and coparticipants with false accounts and from making them pay other taxes or charges than those which might be decided by majority of votes and to such other propositions as would serve to preserve their rights; also that if the undertaking through the Lord's blessing should get to such a point that a greater number of councilors must be appointed, each fifth and tenth share, according to circumstances, should have the right to nominate a person to hold such place under a commission from the patroon and that all participants, especially those who won a fifth share, may if they like empower such persons to inquire into such matters as they shall think advisable.

And although the colony can not and ought not to be divided, it would not seem unnatural to me to make some subdivision and to apportion [to each participant] some private farms and lands as long as it did not interfere with the general rule, for if the subdivision were to be absolute, all things that are inseparable would have to be separated and each fifth would have to be absolute, or at least have its separate smiths, carpenters, wheelwright, shoemakers and tailor, which would be difficult. And as to the sawmill, grist-mill, bakery and brewery, how could these be separated from the whole, especially as to the men who often go from one master to the other? And what disorder would it give if there were absolute division. In short, if the colony were to be divided absolutely it would be better in order not to interfere with one another to have each fifth 10 miles from every other rather than to have them mixed. Such division has never been thought of and as to the new freedoms, these have nothing to do with the colony, otherwise we should be badly off, as they provide that tithes must be paid to the Company, from which we are free, as well as other servitudes. Some arrangement like that mentioned above serving to restrict the power of the patroon I should be willing to accept, but to do away with him entirely and to make the management popular<sup>79</sup> is not suitable to the colony and has never been planned.

It is also impossible to accomplish it as, in addition to the patroonship and the management, I own three fifth shares, so that I can not be outvoted. It will therefore be better if we act in unity without formality as before and give the others no cause for umbrage or contention.

Kiliaen van Rensselaer to the Chamber of Amsterdam of the West India Company<sup>80</sup>

October 25, 1640

1640: 25 October, in Amsterdam

To the honorable lords directors of the Chartered West India Company, Chamber of Amsterdam

Your honorable assembly can not be unacquainted with the fact that the long disputes which arose from time to time between your worshipful honors on the one side and Kiliaen van Rensselaer as patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck on the other side, both with regard to matters of account and the condition and the freedoms of New Netherland, were on the 19th of March last completely settled and adjusted after previous consultation with the honorable commissioners of New Netherland and report thereon by the said gentlemen. All that remained to do was to grant him, the remonstrant, a proper order for the payment of the arrears agreed upon for wheat delivered for the support of your honor's subjects from March 1638. In addition to the previous delay seven months more have passed and he has not been able to obtain the said order, mainly, it seems, on account of the various absences of one or the other of the said honorable commissioners, and now that he has at last obtained a hearing, all he can see is that they are again trying to throw everything into confusion, referring him to this assembly and seeking to render the matter already decided upon as troublesome<sup>81</sup> as if it had never been decided and this for two frivolous reasons; first, because I drew up the resolution of your honorable body and N. B. the form to be used by the Company in granting the order, everything according to the written proposition entrusted by the said renselaer to bellechiere, which was approved by the aforesaid assembly, [the commissioners] holding that instead of "all according to" there ought to have been written "all in conformity with," as if one expression were not the same as the other, simply for the sake of making trouble contrary to the intention of the assembly on a subtle question of words; second, a mere excuse, saying that in the heading of a document is written "proposition of renselaer with regard to the new account," and therefore interpreting this as a mere proposition (oh! Sancta Simplicitas). But what at first was only a proposition was later accepted by the honorable commissioners as a draft to be introduced into the assembly, first adopted on the 17th and thereafter on the 19th introduced into the assembly, not by Renselaer, but by the Hon. Mr hamel, who at the time presided over both the assembly and the commissioners, upon which such discussion took place that he, Renselaer, waited in the anteroom for four hours, inasmuch as the business with the honorable commissioners consisted of two parts, the first having reference to what took place before the arrival of the Hon. Mr Kieft till the year 1638, the other as to what took place during his administration till June 1639. The first part having been read before other business was taken up, the other part was held over till after said business, when it was also read, examined and approved with the first part, whereupon the said Renselaer was called in and informed by the president that all questions of long standing were entirely settled and determined to the satisfaction of the assembly and that the papers would be placed in the custody of belechier to prevent their being stolen. The said rencelaer having accepted this arrangement, the president ordered a bumper of wine and drank to the health of said renselaer as a former member of the assembly in the presence of all the gentlemen present, whereupon he left gaily, notwithstanding the first document was very prejudicial to him, as may be seen clearly from the resolution, because of the lack of the proper documents on the part of the Company. However, for the sake of peace and to have once and for all an end to all disputes, he declared himself satisfied, so that he, Renselaer, has reason to be grateful as far as the honorable assembly is concerned, but on the contrary has the greatest cause to complain about the delay by the commissioners, who now at last come forward with such frivolous impertinence.

Concluding, he requests of your worshipful honors an order to the honorable commissioners to grant him the order in conformity with the resolution of the 19th of March last and to let him have the substance of the contents of the approved documents in the custody of bellechier in order that they may now and in the future form the basis for mutual business. Vale.

This 25th of January 1641, at Amsterdam

This will serve to advise you that the ship den waterhondt which has long been lying in England has arrived from New Netherland in this country, but the goods and furs and other merchandise have not been brought here yet. I received some letters from there and even this morning got one from Pieter cornelissen, but I suppose that there must still be many others which will gradually appear. In general, the affairs of the colony are all right, God be praised. In the year 1640 a small house burned down in which three horses perished, the accident having been caused by fire which blew from a torch with which the farmer set fire to the brush in the field, as is the custom there; coming back he found his house on fire. On the other hand the Lord gave us that year a fair increase of foals and calves and a fine wheat crop. We begin also to receive some returns, as I expect in three cases 681 beavers sent by this ship for the account of the colony and also a case for brant peelen and another for Cornelis teunissen, so that the undertaking is prospering, God be praised. The fur trade begins gradually to get into our hands. They write from there that if we do not fail to send merchandise, we can each year expect plenty of returns. He had still some goods left but did not dare venture to exchange them for lack of letters from us, which unfortunately are still at Dunkirk or were thrown overboard. He writes that we should have the duffels made somewhat wider and heavier, so that it is necessary that we come together at the first opportunity to discuss the matter. Please to communicate this to Mr de laet together with my greetings. We are at hand here and can suit the convenience of the others. As to the previous request to declare myself more in detail regarding the patroonship, I referred you to the sixth article of the Freedoms, in which all our questions and disputes are decided and removed, to wit, that all lands purchased and lying within the limits of our colony, together with all the fruits, plants, minerals, rivers and springs thereof, belong to the participants in common, each in proportion to his share, but as to what the patroon holds in fief, this belongs to him separately and alone, the fees to be paid on each demise being also at his charge. I have never shared my right with any one of my participants, they have never asked me for it and there has never been any discussion about it with any of the participants. By what means could I then be deprived of it? I will gladly listen to reason but I declare in truth that I never heard any reason or can think of any that would deprive me of my prerogative, which belongs to me alone, and make it common to all. This is impossible, for even if I wanted I could not give it to my own children, for the article in the new Freedoms which allows the division of the jurisdiction is not found in ours, so that even if I should want to try it I could not find any ground to justify it. If a girl can lose her honor without being touched, I can lose my feudal right without having spoken a word about it or ever having given it a thought. As to what some say, that Mr Coenradts understands it that way also, I am sure that his honor will not say anything but what is true, but the answers depend often on the way the questions are put. Mr de laet took over his honor's share; let Mr de laet show a document from his hand whereby his honor declares that any part or parcel of my right of patroonship belonged to him and that he ceded the same to Mr de laet. His honor knows very well that there were four patroons, each of whom registered in his own name at a different time, and that later we agreed to combine not by way of consolidation but by way of alliance, each patroon respectively participating for one fifth with the others in the three other patroonships. The truth of what I say appears clearly, namely that there were four patroons and each patroon had three partners, each of whom owned a fifth share under him and held respectively [each in his own colony] the same position [toward him as he did toward them], for it is impossible that five shares should constitute but four patroonships unless one portion be without a patroon, or else not a single whole patroonship be found but each of the five shares have but  $4/5$  of a patroonship, to sustain which of course would be ridiculous. Now it is beyond dispute that Mr de laett can not have taken over from Mr Coenradus more than his honor owned himself, being one fifth share in each of the three respective colonies. But, if Mr de laet claims to be a patroon, his honor is right, not of or in my colony however, but in full over the colony registered by Mr coenraet himself on the first of November 1629 on the east side of the South Bay, just as Mr blommaert on the Fresh River, so that each one is and must remain patroon and feudal lord of his colony and I of mine. Here, mon-sieur Mussart, you have the analysis of the whole undertaking from the beginning, with which I hope that you as well as Mr de laet and the other participants will be satisfied and rest assured, as all sensible and neutral persons will judge, that each tenth part is 50% better off having one head to take care of it than it would be if it were ruled by five or 10 heads, for if many heads became sleepy and trusted to one another to do the work the whole would be lost; on the other hand, if they became wide awake and each one extended his interests too far, there would be endless intrigues and dissensions and the whole undertaking would go to ruin. I consider each tenth part 50% better off and I sustain this not for my sake because I am patroon and because I have brought the undertaking thus far by my efforts and work, but I would sustain the same if I were simply participating under Mr de laet or any one else who had charge of the patroonship, provided the patroon is held to render proper accounts to the participants, not to demand contributions according to his pleasure but with their consent and in all matters to consult them like confraters.

I shall now leave the matter, with the understanding however that I do not want to prejudice any of the participants in anything that belongs to them and that I am willing and ready to prove and confirm and defend my patroonship and feudal right before any court or competent body of people before whom the participants might please to summon me, and more I can not do.

But this is my wish and request that we may deliberate together in harmony, love and good fellowship and that I may be seconded by the help and good advice of my coparticipants, for I can say in truth that I have never been able to obtain this from Mr de laet, not merely for a few but for many successive years, notwithstanding my repeated requests that his honor would be pleased to take the trouble to examine such papers as were sent out and received and to assist me with his good advice; nor have I ever been able to learn that his honor, either in the Assembly of the XIX, or in the Chamber of Amsterdam, or before their High Mightinesses, has sought to recommend or to promote the cause of our colony, but this I found to my sorrow that his honor seldom or never called on me except to inquire about rarities or to ask me for some copy or document, just as if the colony did not concern his honor in the least. And when lately the undertaking through God's blessing and my trouble, care and management began to look promising, I sent the aforesaid participants a list of subjects for discussion at a stated meeting; but when we came together these subjects placed in their hands by my own hand were not discussed at all and not even produced, indeed they would almost have pretended ignorance of them if I had not insisted on the urgency of their being taken up in connection with the letter from Messrs blommant and de laet of which I wrote you at length on a previous occasion; and since that time they have never come together except for the sake of Lucifer's question,<sup>83</sup> they state difficulties which might occur in the future in order to curtail me in what at present and rightly belongs to me and, what is more, band together against me by withholding assessments for which the money was furnished by me long ago; with this I do not charge you, as you paid me promptly, but the three others. This matter however has no connection with the previous question, for I do not refuse but have at all times offered and been willing to render a true account of my receipts and expenditures and to lay open the entire condition and situation of the colony, yes, more than I have been asked to do.

Here I let this matter rest, having in the above lines stated and proved my contention and sufficiently protected myself in case of opposition and, I think, hereby acquitted myself of my task conscientiously and properly in the judgment of God, of all courts and of all honest people. Neither do I intend to go further into this matter without hearing other arguments, for I have written a great deal but received no written reply except copies of propositions tending to the division and consequent dissolution of the colony and the patroonship. I acknowledge that I talk too long and too much but, when I think of the trouble which I had for others and how I receive nothing but opposition in return, I do not know how to balance my labor against the ingratitude shown me. This was on my heart and had to get out. Further, monss Muijssart, in order that the things which are beyond question may not be neglected but properly attended to, I beg and request you once more, let us come together to attend to and put them in order (excluding Lucifer), for the affairs of the colony look so promising both with regard to the fruits of the land, as wheat, rye, oats and other summer grain, and with regard to the tobacco and other things, especially the fur trade, that by and by we may expect more returns than one might think. I will therefore in all friendship beg and request the Honorable de Laet and yourself to have a peaceful meeting at the first opportunity to attend to whatever is beyond dispute and in case I can not in good conscience satisfy you all, I hope that a basis such as I indicated above may be adopted for me whereby the profits which are beyond dispute may be attended to, the easiest means that can be found, namely, the preservation of my right under protest, being all that is necessary and that is the least I can do. I hope to receive a favorable reply to this from you and Mr de Laet at the first opportunity as the time is getting short, especially for the making of the duffels so as to have them ready in time. It will be better to have our meeting in a week than in two weeks; however, you can therein suit your convenience. Vale.

Sr Muijssart. When convenient please have inquiry made through Mr de laet or some one else regarding a young man, called vander donck, from the barony of breda, who has studied law at Leyden and is desirous of attempting something connected with farming in our colony; and if there are no serious charges against his character, as one can not always get the best to go thither, we might employ him also in some other capacity. Vale.

January 29, 1641

29 January 1641

Having in October 1639 on the wise counsel of your honor resolved to withhold my remonstrance to their High Mightinesses as the said High Mightinesses might perhaps have seen fit to send a copy of it to the West India Company, I decided in November following to request of the presiding Chamber of Amsterdam a grant of Venia testandi in order to confirm the rights which I had obtained to my colony.<sup>85</sup> Having obtained their consent as shown by the accompanying authentic copy attached to my petition to their High Mightinesses and considering on the one hand the uncertainty of human life and [on the other] the changes which occur among the directors, in order that I or my family might easily obtain the further approval of their High Mighti-nesses, I have thought it advisable to request them by petition, (referring them to the fifth article<sup>86</sup> according to which their High Mightinesses are supreme in jurisdiction and sovereignty, their High Mightinesses occupying the highest position and the West India Company the next position, being second to them) not to refuse to ratify the same nor to delay it in any way, as at my death the young children might thus be completely deprived of what I should leave them by will. And as I do not know which is the best way to present this petition nor whether it is in proper form, I take the liberty to hand it to you by the bearer and to request you, after reading it over, to advise me what I had better do in the matter. I do not doubt its success, but much depends upon the manner of proceeding. Should your honor think it advisable to hand it yourself to the president when a good opportunity offers I should be exceedingly honored; and if not, I should like your advice as to who should do it for me. I could easily obtain some favor or recommendation from the son of my cousin<sup>87</sup> Casembroot, the brother in law of Secretary mutz,<sup>88</sup> and have the petition presented by his honor if that is customary, which I doubt however as he must sign the apostil thereon. And if his honor please to do me the favor to affix the small seal of their High Mightinesses, I would gladly pay liberally for the pen, ink and wax. However, as I am ignorant of these matters I shall follow whatever advice your honor may please to give me, as you know best what is the customary fee in such cases. I beg of you very kindly and request very humbly to let me have a few lines of your honor's good advice and to hand the same when convenient to the bearer. I received by the last ship a first instalment of beaver skins or castors, but they are still in the ship; when I get them I hope to remember your honor as the protector of my first fruits, or in case your honor's wife should have use for a good sized border of sable which I received from Muscovy I will send that to her honor for a New Year's present. Vale.

<sup>88</sup> Cornelis Johannes Musch, secretary of the States General. According to a note in Oeuvres complètes de Christiaan Huygens, 3:179, Jan van Casembroot, the son of Councilor Jan Leonard van Casembroot and of Anna Schadee, became quartermaster general of the navy and married Cornelia Musch. This Jan van Casembroot, or Jan de Casembroot, as the name is usually written, is probably the brother in law of Secretary Musch referred to in the text.

I do not doubt but the lord of rinswoude<sup>89</sup> and the other gentlemen who request new freedoms will also be favorable to me in this matter, that there may be no delay or obstacle, the Company having paved the way.

Sir, as the English from the North approach my colony from the Fresh River so that they can get there over land in two or three days and as I should like to defend the limits of my colony, under the supreme jurisdiction of their High Mightinesses and the Company, as far as the Freedoms granted to me allow, particularly article 5, which says "and so far into the country as the situation of the occupants will permit," my situation demands that the English (who have without cause taken the aforesaid Fresh River from the Company, of which I see that the Company takes little notice so that I must pay all the closer attention to what belongs to me) that the English must remain at least on the further east side of the aforesaid Fresh River.<sup>90</sup> And in case their High Mightinesses should be pleased, in view of the Company's interest with regard to the entire North River on which I occupy the farthest position, to grant me proper commission to extend my colony into the country from the North to the Fresh River, that is to say not wider than my colony extends on that side, I would not hesitate to force a certain master pingen,<sup>91</sup> an Englishman who is nearest to me, to retreat across the Fresh River, whereby the other Englishmen of the Fresh River will also be compelled not to come nearer to the Company, for if the English continue thus they will soon take possession of the whole of New Netherland, as the Company does little to come to a determination of the boundary, which is generally, it is true, a rather troublesome question. However, if their High Mightinesses declared the limits of my colony to extend to the west side of the Fresh River, it would be but a private boundary and not affect the general limits which the Company can defend as covering not only the entire Fresh River but even 30 miles further eastward into the country. I shall hold fast to my end and let the English try to settle the boundary themselves, if your honor thinks that, inasmuch as the welfare of the country is also concerned in this matter, their High Mightinesses will have no objection to it. I am willing to go to the Hague to lay the matter before their High Mightinesses, for I notice that the English on the one side and the Swedes on the other encroach on the limits of the Company and take away their land. They might better grant it to the subjects of their High Mightinesses than to foreign nations and potentates.

This 31st of January 1641

The young man from Breda of whom I wrote you last, named vanderdonck, from the barony of Breda, called on me today and requests to contract for two or three families of farmers, from whom he has power of attorney which he showed me, to sail to our colony in New Netherland on conditions that for us are better than or at least equally as good as those we have made before. If you have made inquiry about him, as he studied at Leyden, please advise me of it at once, as he would like to return at the first opportunity; otherwise he goes to the lord of horst,<sup>93</sup> to whom our louys Saumon, mentioned before, is also inclined to go. If this young man is of good moral character, it would be a good thing for us. Vale.

<sup>93</sup> de heere vander hors; apparently referring to the lord of Nederhorst, one of the proprietors of the colony of Achter Col, which was granted to Meyndert Meyndertsen van Keren and which extended along the west bank of the Hudson River from about Caldwell, Rockland County, N. Y., to near Hoboken, N. J.; see N. Y. Col. Mss 2:85, 89; Doc. rel. to Col. Hist, N. Y. 1:190, 411; 13:9; De Vries, Korte Historiack, p. 165-66; and van der Donck's map of New Netherland. In the absence of any direct evidence, it may be doubted whether O'Callaghan (Doc. rel. to Col. Hist. N. Y. 2:516) is correct in stating that the proprietor of the colony of Achter Col was Gerard van Reede, lord of Nederhorst, a son of Godard van Recde, plenipotentiary at the peace of Munster. Godard van Reede, who in the biographical dictionaries appears also as lord of Nederhorst, died in 1648 and presumably his son Gerard succeeded to the title in that year; any mention therefore of the lord of Nederhorst in 1641 would seem to refer to Godard and not to Gerard van Reede. O'Callaghan's earlier statement (History of New Netherland, 1:238) that a colony "of which Meyndert Meyndertsen, the Heer Nederhorst, was patroon," was established early in 1641 — slightly modified by Brodhead (History of the State of New York, 1:313), who speaks of Myndert Mynderssen van der Horst — evidently rests on a confusion of persons.

Nederhorst, a lordship in the former Nederkwartier of the province of Utrecht, now the southeast part of the province of North Holland, was so named to distinguish it from Hoogerhorst, or Ter Horst, near Amersfoort, in the former Overkwartier of the province of Utrecht.

In Amsterdam, this 4th of February 1641

I duly received your honor's favor of the 29th ult., under cover from Sr Muijssart and learned with joy that your honor was satisfied with one part of my declaration, though you request a further explanation from me of others which seemed objectionable to your honor. Nothing will please me more than that we may give each other satisfaction, but as far as I am concerned, during the 40 years that I have lived here I have never had any suit brought against me either here in this city or at The Hague on account of my personal management, nor have I talked with any one about our affairs, as I notice has been done on the other side, except with those who made some propositions to me and to whom I did not fear to state the matter as it was. I see that the difficulty which your honor raises has reference to the freedom of your honor's person and is set forth in a lengthy argument. I never intended nor has it ever entered my mind to let my own person, or you or any one else, prevail in a way that would imply subjection, so that from the outset you are under great misapprehension and according to my mind, to give your honor any satisfaction in this matter, this distinction must be made that owning property is something entirely different [from having the administration of it]. The participants of the West India Company have the ownership but the administration or direction belongs to the directors, with certain reservations agreed upon between the directors and chief participants by way of amplification of the charter. All the land in our colony together with the fruits thereof belongs to the participants equally, each in proportion to his share, but the administration or direction belongs to the patroon; and herein we respectively shared in such a way that I trusted to some one else the administration or direction of my money and goods and that person trusted his to me in return and if we had remained on that basis we should all four of us have had the same privileges. What difference can it make to me that others make a change herein, as for instance that Mr Godyn, retaining but the bare name of patroon, permitted as many as ten people to share in the management, whereupon the business ran into great expense on account of the many directors, one wanting this and another something else, and had to be sold at a loss of f40,000? What difference does it make to me that the Hon. Coenradus also sold and ceded his colony with its appurtenances; or what difference can it make to me that Mr blommart never began or developed his? Shall I, who have usually been vigilant and diligent in my management, be deprived of my powers, and do my partners who have either sold or not cared for their rights now want to enter upon mine? This is without reason and ought not to be asked by any one. And as to the fidelity of my management I have stated with sufficient clearness that it is not my intention to make the participants contribute more than they please and see fit and have also submitted to the request to render detailed accounts so that I make myself less rather than more important than any one else. However, as I feel sure that this will not remove your objection I shall proceed to the second part relating to the colony. Above I spoke of the participants who are on an equal basis each in proportion to his share and of the management which belongs to the patroon provided he is obliged to render proper accounts; it is a question which part is the more important. Leaving aside for the present the administration or management of the use and ownership of the property, I am compelled to refer to the jurisdiction or judicature of the colony and I notice that there is a great misapprehension on this subject which might have serious consequences, namely, that persons are supposed to be subject in the same sense as their estates may be. One can have a free or a dependent or, taking it at its worst, a servile estate but it does not follow that a free person on account of that dependent estate becomes a serf. So that, sir, the fear which your honor has of losing his freedom does not give the least cause for argument or worry, though it is true that in my colony I have the management of your honor's property, as in similar circumstances your honor would have had like power over mine if you or the Hon. Coenradus had cared to keep your colony as I did mine. If I have anything special at present it is but what your honor would have had too, namely, the management of the property and the exercise of justice in the colony. Heretofore I have spoken of the property. I shall now speak also of the administration of justice which only those are competent to exercise who are specially authorized to do so either by virtue of descent from their forefathers or by grant from competent authorities. As with us the right was not acquired by descent we must look for a grant and see from whom and how it was acquired. The first place belongs to their High Mightinesses the Lords States General. The second to the Chartered West India Company by charter. The third to the patroons by perpetual fief. Now what has the company granted? The ownership of the land? Not at all, for by article 26 they stipulate that the patroons must compensate the savages for the land, so that the ownership does not proceed from a gift pure and simple but from purchase, in which many can participate. But this the Company granted, namely, according to article 6, "the high, middle and low jurisdiction, fishing, fowling and grinding,"<sup>95</sup> to the exclusion of all others to be holden from the Company as a perpetual inheritance" and this is what I am entitled to in my colony and others in theirs. I do not dare write here all I think of it; however, we must give each other all the information we can. It seems to me, sir, that, though I never noticed you to do so [in other matters], you on the contrary confound what the whole world distinguishes between, namely, ownership and jurisdiction, for many millions of people have ownership in land over which but one has jurisdiction or is judge; it is true that in this country there are combinations of jurisdiction, especially in sticht,<sup>96</sup> but this is the result of their union in one person. Besides, here in Holland fiefs are rare and unusual, but in Gelderland they are common and there are fiefs of all kinds and of all forms of succession, for instance the duke of Gelderland is the overlord of the lady of elten<sup>97</sup> and the abbot of paterborn.<sup>98</sup> From this lady and the abbot respectively I hold fiefs, but without jurisdiction, nevertheless my fiefs have subfiefs so that people of quality who hold the highest offices there must pay me rents of small value; however, for so far as these estates themselves proceed from me, would a nobleman have the less freedom or respect because he must pay me rent? In no wise, therefore, is your honor's freedom dependent on me, even though your honor's property lies within my jurisdiction, the less so as I should have had property of the same kind under your honor's jurisdiction if things had taken their proper course. Therefore, sir, do not dispute my perpetual fief of inheritance which costs none of my participants a penny; but if it please you and the other confraters I will speak not only of you or the other persons, to each of whom I leave his full prerogative, but so far as the land or property there is concerned, I will speak also of myself and what proceeds from my perpetual fief and shall show that it has more features, be they what they may, than you or any one else of the confraters suppose, and this the more so in consideration of the several children which the Lord has given me, about whom I have said and written enough. But as long as your honor or the others, no matter who it may be, dispute my perpetual fief, it is but reasonable that your honor show me some ground for it either verbally or by written instrument, for without that I do not know on what tack we sail. At first there were four of us who were patroons, now there is but one person; at first there were five shares among us, thereafter four shares, then again, five shares, and now there are 10 shares and by death there might easily be 20, 40, 80 or even smaller shares and if every share made the same claims as the 10 shares do at present, what would become of the management and the administration of justice. Examine the matter well, sir; the 80 shares would have the same reason to act against me that the 10 shares now have, for the smaller share has as much right as the larger share, unless some shares had certain specific rights, which will not appear. But your honors may rest assured, not for the sake of your honors' persons but for the sake of the property aforementioned, there are several territories and lordships in the colony and I shall gladly yield as much as I can but I do not intend that one tenth share shall have more than low jurisdiction and two tenth shares together, or one fifth, more than middle jurisdiction, otherwise the jurisdiction which is derived from the Lord God would give rise to despotism. The tribes of Israel descended from the twelve patriarchs never had more than one judge at a time in the promised land of Canaan. I am sorry that I have to bring up such an example, for our colony is still so tender and it will be so long before it can be called a village,<sup>99</sup> or even a hamlet,<sup>1</sup> that it will sooner be divided into 80 portions. However, as it has pleased the Assembly of the Nineteen to lay such foundation, I hope and think I know what has been given me and, be it said without boasting, that I understand my rights but I pray God that He will grant me the intelligence to exercise and maintain them. Although for a long time I have not thought about the granting of the said privileges the matter is so definitely settled that in all the violent altercations which took place about the affairs of New Netherland it has never been disputed. It is true that Mr Coenradus never wanted to accept the said articles but his honor never tried to get away from them except by transferring his possessions. The Lord our God be judge between us and as for myself I am satisfied that I do not keep more than belongs to me and have never ceded anything to any one, and if your honor and the other three do not desire more than belongs to them either, our difference will soon be settled. If you will satisfy me on some points, I will show that I am neither obstinate nor too ignorant to give you satisfaction on others and in yielding my rights, with the exception of placing the management of the colony in the hands of many, show myself to be as willing as can possibly be asked from me. I must ask your honor a question which you have so often asked of me, namely how I understand the right of patroonship. How does your honor understand it? Must each fifth part as it was at the time of Mr Coenradus, or each fourth part as it became later, or each tenth part as is now, or each still smaller part as it might become by sale or death, be consulted in the management of the property as well as in the administration of justice? And how must it go in case none of the participants have any sons or daughters? The inexpediency thereof will appear at once, so that each colony must necessarily have a single administrator of property which can be inherited and owned and which may be divided and subdivided among sons and daughters ad infinitum. On the other hand, if the administration of justice could also be divided like the preceding so that many hundreds of people could have a share in the administration of justice, it ought to be restricted by special regulation. It is true that each colony might assume the form of a company of ship freighters or be put on the basis of the West India Company so that a certain number of chief participants or land owners would nominate the administrators from whom the company must elect a certain number. These nominators however would have to be limited to a certain number, otherwise one would have to meet new difficulties with regard to succession in case of death. [The Company], understanding this, entirely barred the way to all subdivision of jurisdiction by thus far not allowing any ownership of jurisdiction (so that no one in case of subdivision could make any pretension thereto) but decided to have the same administered and to grant it in fief, as the second part of article 6 shows as clearly as the light of the sun at midday. The Company not desiring to give to the government of the colony many heads, states that the patroon, of whom mention is made in the preceding article, shall hold the high, middle and low jurisdiction from the Company to the exclusion of all others<sup>2</sup> (not as an estate of inheritance but) as an imperishable fief of inheritance, subject to homage,<sup>2</sup> and this so strictly that if the patroon should want to will any part thereof to his children or heirs (having no power to do so during his lifetime and such action taking effect only after his death) he must during his lifetime request a grant to do so. The provision in the new draft of the Freedoms that the high jurisdiction may be divided will not readily pass if the high and mighty government of this country properly see to it; but taking it for granted that those who are interested should obtain it, what would it mean? Would it be for the best interest of this country, or the best interest of the Company, or the best interest of the colony or the participants? Not at all; but for that of the patroons who seek to obtain it and whose birth gives them a right to be called to a seat in the Provincial States when they have such right of jurisdiction, so that a patroon who had six sons and who should confer the high jurisdiction on each of them, could recommend one to a seat in the States General, another in the Council of State, and the rest in the Provincial States, the representation of the nobility, and so on. If your honor thinks that these articles have reference to the participants, I can not find that as they are drafted at present the participants are in any way concerned in them, but their children and heirs, provided they also apply for a grant to transmit their jurisdiction. However our Freedoms are not so worded, so that it is unnecessary to speak thereof. And as the 7th article is not so limited that it precludes the patroon from including others therein and I have already obtained a consent or grant from the Company to dispose of the said fiefs by will according to my pleasure I am willing to make such disposition (not as a matter of obligation, but of my own free will) as to enfee my participants, that is to say, the fifth shares or each two tenth shares, just as my own chil'ren, other than the patroon, with the middle and low jurisdiction, fishing, fowling and grinding, to be divided respectively among the five lordships within the colony so that the patroon will in the first place keep the high jurisdiction and also retain in one of the five lordships the middle and low jurisdiction and further — as two of his brothers, as well as two of his participants, are counted by me each as one fifth share, for the sale of one half of their right does not concern me — cede by way of fief to each in the lordship to be selected by him middle and low jurisdiction, fishing, fowling and grinding inclusive, subject to a fee of f10, whenever the fief descends or changes hands. And further it is inadvisable, even impossible, to go; for if we made some agreement, contrary to the Freedoms of the colony, no matter how much I might grant or promise your honor or the other participants, believe me, sir, none of these promises could be kept no matter how firmly I bound myself to fulfil them, unless a special article to that effect (not a set of new freedoms, for these the other patroons could not oblige me to request) were inserted in the Freedoms by the Assembly of the XIX, at my request as fief holder, granted by the Assembly of the XIX and approved by their High Mightinesses who have acknowledged me as patroon. In this way it would have to and could be done and not otherwise, except by testamentary disposition according to article 7 aforementioned, by way of subfiefs.

Sir, I have treated this matter somewhat more fully than was necessary for the sake of giving you as much satisfaction as possible and I have taken this trouble to show you that I on my side am willing to do all I can to exclude Lucifer, and if it is not stated as neatly as it might have been, it has flown this way from my pen in haste, without consulting anyone but a certain person<sup>3</sup> who studied up to the time of taking his degree. Having got into an argument about feudal rights, he replied that the professors at Leyden had said that they seldom occur in Holland and that it was useless to waste one's time on them. Excuse me, sir, if I notice in your honor's letters that you confound the management of the property with the administration of justice, which are distinguished from each other by the Freedoms, the first being made heritable, so that a last of grain might be divided into quantities not larger than a thimbleful, while on the other hand the administration of justice is made, not many-headed, but single-headed and, furthermore, not a single-headed administration transmissible by descent, but a perpetual fief which must pay homage to its lord and acknowledge him in other ways such as are reserved to the High Mightinesses the Lords States General and the Company from the patroons by article 5. The expression "high jurisdiction" is used here by mistake, as this is conferred on the patroons by article 6. It should be "supreme jurisdiction," having reference to sovereignty.

February 5, 1641

5 February 1641

Enclosed I send a letter to Mr de laet in which I have set forth in haste yet at length not only the reasons but also the fundamental principles, as well of the management as of the administration of justice, upon which the Assembly of the XIX have granted the respective colonies, the management and administration of the property being accountable and communicable to the participants or owners of the said colonies, while the administration of justice is held by the respective persons as a perpetual fief from the Company. I am sorry that my confraters have not done as I have done; they would then have the management of my property in the same way as I have now the management of theirs and they would see that their interests were equally well cared for. As I have stated at all times orally and in writing and as I now again declare to Mr de laet, I am willing to render proper accounts to the participants and to advise with them about everything. As far as the administration of justice is concerned it is out of pure affection that I reserve to myself the high jurisdiction, in order to keep the colony in one hand and under one head as a protection against all injurious separation and subdivision. To each fifth part might be given middle and low jurisdiction under payment of a fee of f10 whenever the fief descends. And if they should want to subdivide these fifth shares still further, each fifth share might grant by way of subfief a tenth share with stipulation of the payment of a fee of f5 whenever the fief descends, while retaining the low and middle jurisdiction, for I can not understand how a fifth share consisting of two tenths shares could administer the middle and low jurisdiction except by their taking turns, and how would that go in the future? But according to the preceding arrangement there will always be one who administers the high jurisdiction in general, while there will be five participants who by right of descent administer middle and low jurisdiction, which is a good arrangement. Now as far as I am concerned, I do not care which twentieth share is to have the middle and low jurisdiction, whether one cares to cede to another or they draw lots for it; it amounts to the same thing to me, I like the one as well as the other.

Further, Monss<sup>r</sup> Muijssart, I am glad to hear the good testimony about the young man who left some days ago and proceeds with his plan. I hope that we will get good service from him but if you should hear anything to the contrary, please let me know. I am anxious that we should come together some time to talk about the merchandise which we are to send and also about having the duffels made somewhat wider, heavier and more woolly than the preceding. We shall receive more than twice as much for them not by getting more skins but by getting the largest and the best. I am sorry that the survey of the land in our colony by lamontangne was not completed. I forgot to write about it and therefore Cornelis Teunessen, whom I appointed as the representative of the patroon and the participants, objected to it and I can not blame him either that he did not allow this without order from his patroon, for it might have serious consequences, as one participant might give different orders from another. I did not think of this when you read the letter to me and it appears that the servants pay more attention to their duties than the masters. I think, however, that he refused this largely on his own account, as he has always stated that the lands are smaller than they really are. I will see to this at the first opportunity. It would have been better if you had given me a recommendation to la montangne to help me in this matter provided I paid him for it and that I had requested and authorized him to carry it into effect. It seems to me his charges are pretty high, making a voyage of six weeks out of what in good seasons with a small vessel can be done in six days. I presume however that his survey took that length of time. I am surprised that Corneles teunissen did not write anything about it. Vale.

February 5, 1641

The States General of the United Netherlands, to all who shall see these presents or hear them read, greeting. Be it known, that on the humble petition of Kiliaen van Rensselaer, patroon of his colony named Rensselaerswyck, situated on the North River of New Netherland, within the limits of the General Chartered West India Company of this country and taking into consideration the fifth article of the Freedoms, granted by the Assembly of the XIX of said Company to all those who shall plant any colonies in New Netherland aforesaid, we have granted, allowed and conceded, and do of our sovereign power by these our letters patent grant, allow and concede unto him, the petitioner, authority to dispose of, bequeath, and give directions concerning the aforesaid his fief, named Rensselaerswyck, either by form of last will and testament and codicil before a notary and witnesses, superintendents and commissioners of fiefs within whose jurisdiction the said property is situate, or elsewhere and otherwise at his pleasure, for the behoof of his children, if he has any, friends and relatives or others, strangers, as he shall please and think proper; the aforesaid, his fief to his children or other persons to give, convey, or leave, in whole or in part; thereupon to charge rents, hereditary or for life, or to give any one the usufruct thereof, at his discretion and good pleasure. We have further given, and do hereby give, the petitioner permission and power to change, enlarge, diminish and revoke his aforesaid last will and testament which he shall thus make, or has previously made, by codicil or other arrangement of last will, whenever and at all times that he shall please; which testament, gift and order thus made, or to be made, by the petitioner, we now, for them, have confirmed and ratified, and by these our letters patent do confirm and ratify, and will that it be maintained and executed, and be valid and of good effect forever, and that to whomsoever the aforesaid petitioner has given the said fief, or a portion thereof, or assigned any rents or usufruct thereof, he shall use the same according to the laws, statutes and customs of the place wherein situated, in the same manner, and in all forms and ways as if the said gifts or grants were properly made and executed before the above mentioned General Company, or others, its agents. Provided, that to whomsoever the above named petitioner shall give, order, or make over the aforesaid fief, whether man or woman, he shall be bound, within a year and six weeks after the death of the aforesaid petitioner, or his or her entrance into possession of the above described fief, to do homage unto us and to no one else, and pay the fees thereunto appertaining and belonging, all without fraud, guile or craft. Wherefore we do request and order the aforementioned General Chartered West India Company to instruct and command the governors, or commanders and council, who now are, or shall hereafter be in New Netherland, and moreover all others whom it may in any wise concern, conjointly and each individually as it may behoove them, to maintain and execute according to its form and tenor the order, last will and testament of the above named petitioner, as he shall have made, or yet shall make it (and as now by us ratified and confirmed as said above); and to allow and permit whomsoever he, by his last will and testament, has given and granted the aforesaid fief, or shall have made, assigned, or shall yet make, give or assign, any rents or usufructs, the quiet and peaceable use and enjoyment thereof, without causing or allowing him at any time to experience any let, hindrance or molestation therein to the contrary. ### Johannes de Laet to Kiliaen van Rensselaer<sup>7</sup>

Sir:

I have duly received your favor of the 4th instant, in reply to which I shall briefly state the situation of our affairs as I have always understood them and still understand them. The Company, deeming it advisable to throw open to individuals those things which according to the charter it alone was entitled to do, did so by the offering of freedoms and in other ways and with the stipulation of what was to be done in return by those who wished to enjoy those privileges. Among those things which the Company alone possessed and wished to share with others was the right to populate the lands within its jurisdiction. These lands were of two kinds; some had their inhabitants and government (bad or good as the case might be), others were still wild; and the conditions to be imposed on those who accepted the [freedoms] must be arranged accordingly. Our subject relates to lands which were inhabited. The Company by a general grant promises that all those who shall bring into New Netherland a certain number of people within a certain time shall in return enjoy such privileges as are more fully expressed in the grant so that the grant is a gift with conditions: do this, and you shall in return enjoy that. In addition the Company has stipulated that no former owners are to be dispossessed of their lands by force, but that they must be paid for their interest. This having been proposed by the Company and offered to every one, Messrs Conradi, Godijn, Blommart and your honor agreed to declare your willingness to the Company to do each in a certain district what is required by the conditions and in return therefor to enjoy what is promised by the Company, with this understanding among yourselves that the expenses were to be borne by shares, in the same way in each colony, namely, that the person who should make the promise and sign the agreement with the Company should be responsible for two fifth shares and the others each for one share, making five shares in all. This has later been changed in some respects and can always be changed again, each one being master of his own, but is really not essential to the matter. The registration having been made, nothing was thereby obtained from the Company, nor could anything be obtained before the conditions which the Company exacted were complied with; for example (to come somewhat closer to the matter between us), your honor did not by your signature or registration in the Company's book become fief holder in New Netherland, but bound yourself to do as the Company required in order in return to enjoy what it offered, the arrangement being exactly the same as that of the charter and participation in the Company, for it was not enough to sign to be a participant, but money had to be furnished also. To proceed, your honor making registration on the North River, had no intention of complying with the conditions alone (neither had the other gentlemen), for you had agreed with one another to carry on all these affairs with common funds [contributed] in the proportion above mentioned; nobody reserved anything special for himself but what existed in fact.<sup>8</sup> Your honor promised the Company and agreed to comply with the terms and so had the others; by this a perpetual fief was to be obtained which was to be granted and to descend to a single individual; these things could not well be separated. In this way it was reserved for your honor, and also for the others who registered to receive the fief and have the name thereof. Anything more I do not find reserved in your contract or that of the others and those who were the participants or who since have become so in their stead did not have to make a single stipulation with your honor for they entered into partnership as to expenses and therefore must also have entered into partnership as to everything that might be obtained therewith. Even if it had so happened that you had first associated partners with yourself after the registration of the colony in the book of the Company, your honor could not (with reason) make stipulations with your partners, for your honor could not give them but what they could if they wished get from the Company just as easily as your honor got it, for everything remained still to be done, all expenses and investments were still to be made or to be considered by the copartners and those who might later be admitted as such by your honor or others, so that everything that was obtained at the registration or was to be obtained later, was obtained with the money of the partners who contributed in even shares. Should your honor now come and say — these lands which have been bought belong indeed to the copartners in common, the people or the colonists which have been sent over there are for the loss or profit of the partners, but the hereditary fief belongs to me alone; I alone have the administration of justice and whatever else the Freedoms grant in connection therewith according to the regulations and, reserving to myself the high jurisdiction, I will gladly extend to my partners the middle and low jurisdiction? I wish that somebody could tell me the arguments upon which such an arrangement could be based. In companies for the diking of land, everything is obtained for the partners in common; nobody gets anything for himself alone, but every partner receives in proportion to his share in the whole, yes, even (to touch on this point also) he who owns a share of 6000 guilders in the company has just as much to say about the administration as he who has ten times as much in it; and the small town of purmerend has as much voice in the assembly of the States<sup>9</sup> as the city of Amsterdam. To conclude, as I have also explained to your honor by word of mouth, my understanding is (till some one can inform me differently) that all that has been produced and obtained in the colony of Rensselaerswyck and all that is owned there, freedoms, dignities, jurisdiction, hereditary fief, was received by our company in common, and not one thing by your honor privately and the rest by us; that your honor bears the name of the colony is all well and good inasmuch as you made the registration and are the largest shareholder but your honor is not entitled to more, alone and above us and in good faith. Seeing that your honor talks so much about a fief, has your honor letters of feoff-ment from the Company and [from] their High Mightinesses by which Rensselaerswyck is acknowledged as a lordship with criminal jurisdiction and your honor as a vassal? I imagine not and that you would not easily obtain either. I shall say little of the administration; it is true that it is customary in all companies to entrust the administration to a few; so it happens in our company here and this because too many administrators make confusion, but no examples will be found where the entire administration is entrusted to a single individual and I do not think either that your honor seeks this. Our number is still sufficiently small and in the course of time there would probably be enough work for us all to rack our brains about, one having knowledge of one thing and another of something else. That he who has ten shares should have somewhat more power than he who has but two seems reasonable enough but is not taken into account by any government, otherwise in all cities the richest must become magistrates and the largest shareholders be chosen as directors. If we could only get over this first difficulty and if your honor could only understand that like master, like man<sup>10</sup> and that we form a partnership (your honor wants to make us cardinals but be pope yourself) and that everything still belongs to us in common, just as if it were a newly diked-in polder which has not yet been sold in lots, the manner of administration will then readily be settled among us. I shall say this however that, although I ascribe to your honor much intelligence and wisdom, I do nevertheless not believe that your honor would be able to do the work alone, especially if the government and the administration of justice must be looked after and proper officers and instructions and everything else connected therewith provided, as you would have to do if you alone should have the jurisdiction. And what would become of us if your honor or those who may succeed you should make an important mistake? To conclude, for my part, I do not want anything from you; for, as I understand it, your honor has nothing that I have not also, except that as you have advanced more money, you ought also to enjoy more returns and if the polder (by way of speaking) came to be divided into lots, to expect more land. Your honor may now as well state your intentions in the matter, for I am neither inclined nor is it convenient for me to write again and again and at length on this subject and draw up a "process verbal" as it were; if I see that I can not have it as I think it ought to be and as I should want to

In reply to yours of the 10th instant, I will say that I am informed that the Company will make a ship ready to sail to New Netherland but I do not yet know definitely when, nor how much room there will be left in it. I have no doubt but there will be plenty of room for the passengers but I am much afraid not for the animals, unless a special ship be hired for that purpose. I spoke to the young man vanderdonck, who was here with you, about the condition of my animals in the colony. He showed me an order or power of attorney from the people who were to sail thither. He will tell you about my animals; it takes too long to write about it. As far as I understand from him you are not quite agreed about the voyage. Let me know about this when convenient and tell him also that the ship is being made ready by the Company. I gave him some idea as to the conditions; you might come together and talk the matter over, especially if you are agreed.

I still have your letter of the 18th instant and see that you obtained consent to have duffels made  $\frac{9\frac{1}{2}}{4}$  yards wide, which suits me very well. However, as I do not know what the situation is among ourselves (though you have paid me your last assessment in full) and as the fur trade is not an essential part of the participation as regards the ownership of the colony,<sup>13</sup> I should like to know whether Mr de Laet as well as yourself are willing to participate in the merchandise which is sent thither or might still be sent, in order that we might revise the list proposed by me and according to circumstances increase or diminish the quantity. If so, I shall not fail as soon as I receive notice from you to call a meeting to discuss the matter thoroughly with one another. I shall expect the decision of both of you respecting this, so as to speak of it also to the participants who are here as soon as I receive notice from you and then to prepare for the appointed time.

Now, as to the other matter, I had already drafted one half of my letter to Mr de Laet, but as Mr Blommaert informed me of his displeasure at my prolixity, I broke off and stopped my work, the more so as the said Mr Blommaert intimated to me that the participants intended to constrain or force me by legal process and because I understand further that four owners of tenth shares have banded together not to act without each other's consent, which is a kind of plot. In addition to this comes this third reason, that certain advocates or lawyers in going by boat from Utrecht to Amsterdam discussed (though in Latin) our controversy at length, mentioning me in fact on the one side and the other three (not mentioning you) on the other side by name and putting me in the wrong (though no sentence has been pronounced); so that I can see clearly what is brewing. Therefore, Mr Muijsart, this short letter will serve only to request you and Mr de Laet kindly to give me some information regarding the matter in order that I may not be taken unawares for I have till this hour consulted no one in this matter. If these things are done behind my back and without my knowledge and if efforts are made to draw me out by letters, this will not deprive me of my just rights and 10 to 12 years' possession; the reasons which I gave are simple indeed and must be taken literally and to break off my prolixity I can not help giving from the bottom of my heart this categorical answer to his: that of all that is in dispute between us nothing was bought with his money or obtained by [his] promise [nor by any] giving or promising of money, but all was owned before I ever gave money or promised to give money and was never ceded by me to any one.<sup>14</sup> This will be found to be the truth and herewith ending, etc.

In Amsterdam, the 20th of April 1641

I see that the heirs of Gerrit de Reux deceased have given you power of attorney to liquidate their accounts with me. I am surprised that after I here made them various propositions, as the matter is very intricate and confused, and after I offered to pay them a considerable sum in order to avoid long delay and to acquire reputation for liberal dealing since I send many people thither every year, and after they agreed to consider said sum with a view to letting me know their decision later, I never heard from them again and that now, on the contrary, I understand that they have given you power of attorney. If they seek tedious proceedings the work is sufficiently adapted thereto, so that it will not be so easily settled as one might think. If you like to try it, call at your convenience, as I am at home most of the time, Thursday afternoons however I am always engaged and each day gives me enough to do, especially at present when I am busy sending to New Netherland 30 people with their necessary equipment. When you come please bring the power of attorney and the necessary papers to facilitate the work as much as possible. I am not the only one concerned in it and some of my partners live in this city and others at Leyden. However, I shall expedite the matter as much as possible.

This 20th of April 1641, in Amsterdam

A few days ago I spoke to Sr bessels and yesterday to Mr blom-mart about the sending of the merchandise to New Netherland, who gave me to understand that all will go well. Therefore, I ask you kindly, as much of the time has been spent in dispute, in all diligence to have 36 duffels made of  $\frac{9\frac{1}{2}}{4}$  yards width, to wit: 18 beautiful red, nine steel gray and nine beautiful blue ones, but none of those drab ones which were sent before and which no one wants; I also ordered some to be made at campen, as I did not know what our friends were inclined to do. Please to let me know your decision in this matter; but if the friends should not be inclined to participate therein and to pay the previous assessments which are still wanting, I shall rest content with those which I have had made for my account at kampen. And as to trading, which as aforesaid is not an essential part of the colony, I shall in the future have to carry this on for my private account, for there is no reason why those who do not furnish the money should derive any profits. In the future those who do not care to furnish their share for the trade will have to run no risk on that account but also will have no right to claim or expect any profit. Yet I hope that my friends will not desert me, who have most of the trouble; the other way would be the easiest for me but as I have taken the trouble for so many years I shall not be the first to seek a change.

I have engaged at least 25 persons to go thither and have communicated the contracts to Monss<sup>r</sup> bessels. I also offered to send them to Mr blommaert and shall be glad to do so to Mr de Laet and yourself, either jointly or separately. The Company has granted me permission to send over on payment of freight charges 12 cows which I ordered yesterday to be bought in goylant because the land is high there and more of the nature of that of New Netherland. I wish that we might have a friendly meeting, leaving the question of jus patronates alone, to consider together what we had better do or leave undone, in which case I shall do with joy and diligence for your four what I would do for my six tenth parts; but if we can not bring about such meeting I shall do what is easiest and carry on the trade for my own profit and at my own risk. Please to communicate this matter to Mr de laet before his departure in order that his honor may make arrangements about the money that his honor has not yet paid on the last assessment. I estimate that I shall send about f12,000 worth of merchandise, as our business promises to yield large yearly profits and returns. Deducting at a rough estimate f6000 which the furs above their cost and other expenditures will yield, the remaining f6000 come to f600 for each tenth share. If his honor does not wish to risk that much I am willing myself to furnish the assessment of his honor and those of all others who have any hesitation about it, provided that I keep for myself the profit or loss which the Lord shall grant me; but for them to let me go on like this and to think that if the enterprise succeeds the profit will be theirs and it fails the loss will be mine, aside from the fact that it is un-Christian, might turn out to be an unfounded conclusion. Therefore I ask you kindly to let me have your decision as far as your account is concerned and that of Mr de laet with regard to his. The remaining gentlemen I will speak to here.

If the friends were willing, I should as far as my six tenth shares are concerned be glad to send f6000 worth of merchandise beside the above named f12,000, together making f18,000, for our business looks very promising and the directors have also promised me every assistance and accommodation. I also think that I will insure most of the merchandise but the time draws near. The skipper thought the latter part of next week he would be ready to sail to the Texel.

This 4th of May 1641, in Amsterdam

I received yours of the 18th last past and see that everything there was going all right and that the people were getting ready to come hither; however, the skipper makes great haste and several people have already gone on board with their goods, so that neither you nor they must tarry any longer. Our parting word was that you would come back on the last of April; therefore, do not wait any longer, as your commission and instructions must still be drawn up, which requires some time for me to do too. As to the wheelwright, I could perhaps accommodate him with some young cows, as I now expect to send 12 to 18 of them over, most of which have been bought already and are stabled at Craloo, the stalls on board being now made ready. If he is inclined to sail along, he must come over immediately with the other people. He could also take up his residence in your district as the other wheelwright lives in the over-district of the colony.<sup>18</sup>

I fear that I shall not be able to secure a suitable minister to go by this ship inasmuch as the time is too short. Meanwhile, I shall make every effort to secure a learned and godly one. Vale.

May 14, 1641

14 May 1641, in Amsterdam

I am sorry that I am so pressed for time that I can not properly answer your honor's favor of the 12th of October 1640, but I send herewith my previous letter of the 29th of May 1641<sup>20</sup> sent by Cornelis melyn, which made a trip to Dunkirk<sup>21</sup> and which is circumstantial and prolix enough. Though it contains several things which need to be somewhat corrected, it would take too long to do so and I rather send it on than correct it now. I refer therefore to that letter, especially as to the matter whether you would be willing to accommodate me by receiving and shipping my goods going to and coming from my colony and to and from the fatherland, which your honor has so far very kindly done. However, as I do not wish to trouble you with it any longer without knowing in what way I can compensate your honor for it, I shall expect the favor of your advice in this matter. I commend to your honor anew the sending of my people and their goods and animals to the colony, especially the tiles and brick which are in great danger of disappearing, as they lie exposed on the shore. The Company promised me to send my goods in this ship but it is so overloaded with animals that there is little ballast freight<sup>22</sup> in it except iron, brick and smith's coal. They have promised me to hire another ship at the first opportunity to send over my goods and those of other people. I therefore request your honor, if it can be done without inconvenience, to detain the last sloop as long as possible so as to get my goods up the river before winter, as otherwise it will be quite a loss to me. I received the papers of gerrit de reux deceased. The heirs want to have from me the money and the accounts of what is still coming to him and your honor did not send to the Company the books thereof, nor me any order on them. The matter ought to have no connection with my other accounts and I can not pay the amount to the heirs because it is inserted in my account and I have not yet received any money. I have serious complaints to make that the Company is so backward in paying for the grain delivered by me, which they sold at a handsome profit.

I thank your honor for having the bills of lading signed and for shipping the last consignment of furs sent to me by arent van Corler. I hope that the bearer of this letter, Adriaen Cornelissen vander donck, a young man of education, whom I have engaged as officer, will find means to compensate your honor for all your trouble and kindness. I firmly trust that he will keep up friendly intercourse with you and not treat you so impolitely as you complain that others of my people have done.

As to what your honor writes about my complaints to the Company, you must not take this as detrimental to you in your relation with the Company for the more closely you look after their rights, the more activity and diligence you show them. I did it on account of the boat charges, because the horses had cost me so much. I have taken the resolutions of the Company<sup>23</sup> out of the letter and sent them to arent because you have received the same already from the Company. The resolutions show plainly enough that the cooper's<sup>24</sup> staying there was not your fault but that of Jacob planck, Vale.

P.S. I value your honor's counsel more than the demand of the West Indian Islands for grain from New Netherland and [shall therefore do my best] to entertain friendly relations. I am sorry that you are so badly served; I do not know what the trouble is, for have I not made an ordinance that everything should be delivered to my commis and by him sent to your honor for the Company? Assist him, arent will not fail to do his duty.

I hope by the next ship to reply more fully to yours of the 14th of September 1640, as the bearer of this letter is in great haste and must leave this evening and as I am very busy preparing the papers and commission for Adriaen Cornelissen vander donck, a young man of education whom I have engaged as officer and instructed to respect you; [I want you] to be mutually helpful to each other, which I have no doubt you will be. Herewith goes the invoice of the merchandise which I caused to be bought, though only a little of it will go over in this ship, which is indicated in the margin of the invoice. The rest I hope will follow in five or six weeks. Do not fail to send to me by this ship on proper bills of lading as many skins as you can get. The manner of conducting the fur trade you will find fully described in the instructions to Officer van der donck. The furs which you sent brought a fair price but I am surprised that the merchandise sent by Minuyet, deceased, and in het wapen van noorweegen, amounting at first purchase to f4000, have melted down so. You must see to it that they do not overrule you. This man vander donck will lend you a helping hand whenever necessary. Be careful not to give anything on credit to any one who has no claims against us and from whom it might be difficult to collect payment and do not be so neglectful in sending copies of the books and accounts. By the next ship I hope to send you an active young man for your assistance. The case of brant peelen brought more than 800 guilders, that of Cornelis teunissen 500 guilders. I have not time to deduct the amount of the freight and the duties but will do so next time. However, I do not know on what basis they were sent. People do not write me what the goods cost and to whom they belong, whether I have a half or a whole share in them nor how my account with every one stands at the end of the year. You will find what I mean in the instructions to the officer.

Separately, by the skipper of den cyckelboom go the letters<sup>26</sup> which I sent you more than a year ago by Cornelis melyn and which have made a trip to Dunkirk. Herewith, in God's name, 20 persons who will establish three farms in bylersdal, on the west side of the river, between beeren Island and smackx Island; assist them in every way; also 24 young cows, six of which are for the account of Cornelis melyn and the other 18 are for the colony. The Lord grant that they may arrive safely. The animals must be distributed proportionately, and as many horses as can be spared must be added to them; both must content themselves with young horses or with geldings and stallions. Plan everything with vander donck how it can be best arranged.

Enclosed is a memorandum given by [my] nephew van Twiller to vanderdonck to receive three milch cows; of these each of the farms now to be established is to have one and also four each of the animals which go over now, so that they will have plenty. Now, if they want to exchange two of those four with some one else for a milch cow they will then have two milch cows and two heifers. The horses must be given them as aforesaid at your discretion so that in God's name they may with courage begin the tillage of the soil in that neighborhood. I also send two cases with grapevines which I hope will grow, so as to form the beginning of a vineyard; some to be planted in bylaersdal near van-derdonck, some near the tobacco planters, some near pieter cornelissen in the place where the trees are being cut down. But all these places must be kept well weeded so that no brush or weeds grow around the plants and should also be fenced in so that the shoots are not bitten off by any animals.

I strongly recommend to you the building of the church as I hope to send a minister. Take care in every way that the merchandise and furs be not stolen and damaged, guarding especially against fire. Use the tiles, which I sent over for the roof of your house to protect it against fire arrows.

You write me that the servants have been distributed in accordance with my instructions but you do not write me with whom they are placed. You put off giving the number of heaps of grain which were counted<sup>27</sup> because the summer seed is not yet counted; it is good to have both but better to have one half than nothing at all. If you can make the trade in Indian corn profitable to me you shall have your share of it but a profit must be certain and get into the pocket and not consist of elaborate accounts and loans. Contract to my advantage with such carpenters as you need from among those whose time expires and who have behaved well in the service of the Company. The other households which I have once formed and equipped must be supported from the profits of the farmers. The irregularity of the wheelwright and the farmer must be corrected by the council. The officer who now goes over will arrange these things better according to his instructions. If they annoy you in any way you might keep the offenders in mind

Before I received yours of the 21st ultimo I handed Mr Bessels the form of a receipt as I think it ought to be. I should have been pleased if the last clause could have been left out as the said matter is entirely beyond dispute. Said Bessels told me that he handed the said form to Mr Blommaert and that the same handed it to Mr de Laet. Today through Mr Blommaert a man advised me that he was willing to be responsible for one half of the freighting of a ship to New Netherland; there is also another man who would like to have a fourth share in said freighting and I have consented to take a fourth share also for the account of the colony, provided the participants be willing to contribute four tenth parts or two fifths parts to our cargo. I am ready as to my six tenth parts and I trust that the four of you will also agree; and if so, that you will have made at once 36 or 40 wide duffels, such as I have before this more than once told and written you about. I can not tell exactly the time when they will be needed; have them made as soon as possible so they will be well finished, we will then compare them with those from Campen. But in case the confraters at Leyden should not be quite decided, inasmuch as those here are satisfied, let me know it at once, so that I may not involve myself too far in hiring the ship, for I have no need of a half share<sup>31</sup> in the freighting of a ship for my three fifth parts, as our animals, people and freight ballast were sent by den Eijckenboom. Sr. Bessels leaves here this minute and says that he is satisfied.

Mr Muijsart, just consider in the interest of your heirs, as well as of mine and of those of Mr de Lact and the others whether it is not better for a definite person to have the management and to be accountable therefor, than to have the management in the hands of many people, so that widows and orphans, who might come in course of time, would not know to whom to apply, especially if trouble occurred among the directors, which with a large number of people can hardly be avoided, one blaming the other. I willingly grant that if the person who had the management were great and powerful enough to resist and defraud his partners if he wanted to, it would be a serious matter; as on the other hand, the rule of many has its objections also. But on that score no danger is to be expected from me, neither in one way nor the other, neither with respect to the power nor the will. It would be much less trouble to me to do business for myself than to have the care and trouble for others also. I should not in any way be willing to undertake it, nor could I be moved to do so, except for the confusion which otherwise might arise; for, as we participate in the colony in proportion, business carried on for myself would cause jealousy all the time which I on my part shall try to prevent and if it is possible I shall not rest, after this ship is equipped, till I have settled all accounts and made a clear path. I hope that after this we need to expect no more assessments but dividends. It is true that I have said this before but examine the matter well; the last two assessments are not on account of the colony but for merchandise which is sent with the expectation of certain returns at the end of each year, and if I now conduct the business on a somewhat large scale this is done for the purpose of keeping others out and of establishing ourselves in it. I have not given up the hope, if the Lord will grant me a few years more, of diverting to the colony a large part of the furs of the savages who now trade with the French in Canada, and nothing grieves me more than that we now dispute with one another about formalities and do not even touch what is to yield profits. However, I hope that hereafter more attention will be paid to this; nothing will please me more than to receive advice and counsel from you and your confraters; but if they want to spoil the business, how could I who have such large interests at stake consent to their request; this by way of advice. Herewith, etc.

These in haste to tell you that the freighted [ship's] skipper hurries us very much. Today we begin to pack our duffels and it will take probably two or three days before it is finished; as I wish to compare them with those from Leyden, please send five or six of the latter as soon as they are ready and let me know at once when the first consignment will be sent hither and how many can be ready in eight or 10 days, as the skipper counts on setting sail with the Portuguese fleet. If you can not get ready there let me know it at once, for my man has ready 15 duffels more than I ordered. All our other goods are lying ready in the warehouse of the Company. I hope that the day after tomorrow our cases of duffels will get in there also. Please use the amount of the assessment, to wit, f600 of the seventh assessment of Mr de lactt and f1600 on account of the eighth assessment of both of you, in payment for the duffels there and pay the balance to me here. You paid f3:16 too much on the seventh assessment; you might deduct this from the eighth so as to even your account. Vale.

I should expect, if the animals arrive safely which your son took with him and which I hope are already more than half way, that next year there would be no lack of cows or of horses, but this year the people will have to make shift with little. In 14 days a ship will be ready at the Texel to sail thither, but I fear that there will hardly be any room for people left in it as this notice is given rather late. Let me know promptly whether they could be ready by that time. I shall then talk to the skipper and let you have an answer at once, but you must advise me of the number of persons, their ages and how many sons, daughters and servants there are among them; also whether they understand farming and whether they know any trades besides, which in those countries is very convenient. I shall expect your answer hereto by the first opportunity to govern myself accordingly, but I can promise neither one thing nor the other with certainty. In addressing your letter you give me the title of "zwegeboren;" such titles belong to princes; I shall be satisfied if you give me a lesser title. Instead of "formerly councillor of the West India Company," put "ex-director of the West India Company," this being the way in which in this city the retired gentlemen, each in his capacity, are distinguished from those who are in office. Vale.

all papers and letters<sup>39</sup> in full and refer to them. This letter goes by the ship den Coninck david in the care of anthonie de hooges whom I send to you as underbookkeeper and assistant and who has the invoice and bill of lading of what is in the ship. I have given hoges a set of instructions and ordered him to deliver them to you and to keep a copy of them, as they contain many things to which you and he must pay close attention. And as several boxes had to be left out, which I hope will follow in a month or six weeks in another ship which the Company has hired, I wish that I had enough goods to send to avoid all the bother with the freighted ships<sup>40</sup> and to send or hire a ship myself. Let me know some time how much ground and unground wheat you think, with God's blessing, I might have in March 1643, with a view to my sending a ship with merchandise from here to the colony in July 1642 and letting it stay there over winter (for if it should come back in October the grain would not be thrashed, much less ground), said ship as soon as water is open to sail with the furs obtained by barter and the aforesaid grain or meal to Virginia, there to exchange them and other merchandise which is in demand for tobacco and then to come hither, thus reimbursing us for the freight expenses. Or else let me know what is the best arrangement for me to make to have my goods, when I get good returns which will increase year by year, transported hither and back in the most advantageous manner and with the least expense, and at the same time to prevent the fraudulent sale of furs and grain which are not entered. Seek herein the counsel and advice of Officer vander donck who has good judgment, but as the matter is outside of his official duties I write this to you; you might advise with him and others about this but must not bring the matter up in the council, for the farmers who sit in it would have in mind and seek their own profit and not mine, so that you must be very cautious about everything and know whom you can trust most and who is most honest and most favorable toward me. You might write to me as to how far every one acts to my advantage, I shall keep your name secret; but as to crimes, misdemeanors and abuses, these concern mainly the duty of the officer. I shall now answer somewhat more fully some matters contained in your letter of the 14th of September 1640 and want to impress on you this lesson, that even if a thing can not be entirely completed it is better for you to write but half the facts than to say nothing at all. For example, you do not give me the number of vimmen<sup>41</sup> which are counted on the field because there are still others which are not counted. There will always be some lacking, therefore write as much as you know and be ready when the opportunity comes. It is for this reason that I have sent you this young man and I hope that he will give you good service; let me know of his behavior. Just think for yourself, you have now received goods by four ships, besides what you have received now and then since the year 1637 when den Calmer sleutel sailed, and thus far I have not heard of a single settlement of accounts nor in all that time received any books. That ought not to be. Every year promptly I must have all books and accounts, otherwise I can not know how much I gain or lose; and even if I get the books there is the question whether every thing is properly recorded, for if no caution is taken each one will seek his own interest and if you do not properly defend my rights I might lose instead of gain, especially if no proper credit and debit accounts are kept. Everything is done through me who am absent, therefore you must not let yourself be overruled where my rights are concerned. In fairness, I do not want to give any one less than he is entitled to but others try to defraud me. Take care that you are not behind in your journal, or daily writing, and then it will not be your fault, but his, if hooges does not copy them properly and promptly; otherwise it will be your fault. You are now on the way to advancement if you serve me diligently, prudently and faithfully. If you give me profit I will also seek your advantage, but remember that slow riches give happiness but that those who want to get rich quickly cannot walk the straight way. Albert de noorman sent me an account which I could not understand very well. I send it back to you for examination, as I can not make any sense out of it. You must carefully examine their contracts and see whether the accounts are made out accordingly. Hereafter when the leases expire, the farms must be put on the basis of the farms of the people from breda. My people complain because they have it too well<sup>42</sup> and do me great injury by selling grain without my and your knowledge. Officer van der donck must see to it if he can detect any doing it; as those who came first ought to have some profit when their lease expires, I would accept their grain at a somewhat higher price than that of the people from breda, who at first were very well satisfied with their contracts but having been stirred up by others became at once dissatisfied with van der donck. In your letter you call the farmers "residents," this is a misunderstanding, I mean by that term the plunderers<sup>43</sup> who have no fixed residence in the colony but take lodgings with the farmers and other people and meanwhile strip them of their grain and furs to my great prejudice. I have noticed that some are going over by this ship who will undoubtedly go to the colony to trade with my people. Speak about this to Officer vanderdonck with a view to regulating that matter as justice and fairness demand. Is it not pure thievery that the farmers sell to others without my knowledge some of the grain of which half belongs to me or that they trade with the residents the furs which they ought to deliver to me? It can not be arranged too strictly, but some go too far.

I can not help wondering what has become of the returns of the 31 morgens of wheat of de Reux which was valued on the field at f75 a morgen. They can not hide it in their sleeves surely, and I do not hear of any returns. This also is due to the fact that you do not send me any account of what has become of it. I have ordered vanderdonck to call the persons whom de reux left on the farm before the court to produce their accounts. The heirs of de reux want me to pay them one half and I can not learn that I received half as much as they demand from me. He must be a godless person indeed who spoiled those 31 morgens of wheat which looked so fine on the field. There is no real defense to offer and he ought to be punished as an example to others. I see that the farmers of the colony act badly; the whole reason is that they are spoiled. If they do not want to accept my conditions, I can get plenty of farmers, much more easily than servants. Cornelis Teunissen complains that you side too much with p<sup>ter</sup> cornelissen; and I guess that you and I have good reason for this as you will be able to conclude from the arrangement I made, the reason being that p<sup>r</sup> Cornellissen serves me better than Cornelis Teunissen as far as the farm is concerned. Here are brant peelen and Cornelis Teunissen, each of whom has sent me a case of furs but neither of them writes me on what basis, whether the cases belong entirely to them or to me, or one half to them and the other to me, which is also the result of your not sending me their accounts. Therefore, now that you have Antonij de Hooges as an assistant, be no longer negligent in this respect; he will copy your letters and accounts and if you wish to write a short note to me personally and make a copy of it yourself, you can easily do so. If you mean it well with me, I will do well by you and, if it is necessary, send you more help when I have proof of your capacity.

Enclosed is a memorandum<sup>44</sup> which you will hand to the officer, to bring suit against such farmers and others as employ their friends to the exclusion of the carpenters and other workmen of the patroon, in order that this matter may be properly attended to. You did well to warn me of it. Continue to do so in similar cases; it will increase your reputation and in course of time you will thereby command respect among those who formerly imposed on your youth. I see that hereafter you will try to pay the people there and issue no more drafts on me. That is all right; however, great discretion must be used in this matter that you do not pay them too much, not according to their demands, but according to my claims till further order from me; and send me the account of such payments every year that I may examine it. Do not charge my accounts with goods which I am not bound to furnish and which you can omit; if they trouble you too much, let me know it and I will order them to pay you for such goods and for your trouble.

Memorandum for the officer Adriaen vander donck, this 18th of July 1641, in Amsterdam.

Whereas several farmers not only pass by the carpenters and other workmen of the patroon, who must remain idle, but also employ others and strangers who are not in the service of the patroon and then must pay these men much higher wages than to his men, which greatly tends to the injury of the patroon, the detriment of the colony and the violation of his ordinances and is directly contrary to their promise and the stipulations in their contracts; therefore, the officer is ordered to summon all such farmers before the commissioners of the patroon, and if necessary also before the councilors of the colony (with the exclusion of those who may themselves be guilty thereof), in order to take proper action in this matter by further rule or ordinance and to punish the delinquents with such penalties and fines as the law provides. In witness of the truth, this has been signed on the date above written,

[Signed] Kiliaen van Rensselaer, patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck.

He shall also make inquiries of the person who had charge of delaetsburch and was left there by Gerrit de reux, as the said farm in May 1638 had among other things 31 morgens of winter grain valued on the field by four farmers at 75 guilders per morgen, and find out what has become of the said grain and whether he has been faithful or negligent, in short, what the reason is that of so large a number of morgens so little has appeared and if he is found guilty punish him as an example to others, as is more fully set forth in the letter to arent Van Curler.

[signed] K V Rensselaer.

[Endorsed]

In case the person whom Gerrit de Reux left on the farm should refer to the heirs of his master (which I do not think he will) I wish to say that the said heirs have given me a power of attorney which I have sent to Director Kijft.

There is danger [of error and loss] to me in copying, therefore be careful. You have done well in issuing an order that the grain must be counted on the field; add thereto that the receiver of the tithes may have his percentage thereof; that will be doing still better.

Greet Pieter Cornelisz and Cornelis Teunisz and all the rest, telling them that this time I have not time to write to each one personally, for the number is getting too large to write to every one of them.

I again commend to you the building of the church; there must be no failure about the delivery of the tithes, even if I have to make all the servants masters or to send other masters from here. The people there live in too much luxury, those who are located here on the frontiers where war is would thank God to have such conditions. The building of the church is not a very complicated matter, the shape being mostly like that of an eight-cornered mill; it can not cost a great deal either as it is small, its greatest width on the outside measuring but 48 feet. If it could have been arranged, I should like to have had it three or four feet larger in each direction, but this could not be done on account of the timber; have it built according to the model. I am trying to get a good minister but as yet have not succeeded. I should like to have an elderly man<sup>45</sup> but they are hard to get. I think that Ian Cornelisz Timmerman will know how to build it, or else Andries de Vos, who sailed with vander donck as farmer and who is an experienced carpenter. Now, that I am sending you so much merchandise, you must try to bring me as much trade as you can and in order to interfere as much as possible with the "residents" also offer good terms to those with whom they trade; especially when you have too much merchandise which you can not easily sell, you must (though with caution as to whom) give a little more credit than usual.

As to the returns in the shape of furs, which were not sent in den Eyckenboom, please send these with proper bills of lading in the ship den Coninck David, and what is not ready to go by this ship, send that by the next; but remember that the next ship will come home by way of the West Indies and Curaçao so that I would rather have it sent in this ship which expects to come by way of France, where there will be good convoy.

Enclosed I send some changes which are made in the contracts of the freemen whereby I have especially benefited the tobacco planters, who instead of one third will deliver but one fifth in addition to the tithes; by and by, on account of the good terms which they enjoy, they must cut down some trees and clear the land. Please record these articles with the preceding.

I send herewith also an account of the payments made to the people who go over, both those made on condition of repayment with 50% advance<sup>46</sup> and others. Do not fail to enter these and all previous payments on the accounts of the respective persons as otherwise I should be greatly injured. If I have forgotten to send the accounts of any of the people who went over before, let me know it and I will send them to you.

As to the insurance, of the 1000 skins which I insured here, I received 681 by den waterhont; for the remaining 319 rebate was granted and likewise  $\frac{1}{2}\%$  rebate for the preceding 600 skins. I have now insured 2000 skins, large and small, which I expect by the ship den cyckelboom, by the ship den Co David and by the next ship whose name I do not know yet. No matter whether they come over in two or in three ships, as many as 2000 in the three aforesaid vessels are covered by insurance; this for your guidance and information. Let me know at every opportunity what kind of skins you have and how many you expect to have each year, I shall then have a better basis for my insurance. The insurance going and coming, together with the duties, convoy charges, ship and boat freights, interest, brokerage, commission and other expenses which have no name, run up to a surprising amount, so that you must do your best to sell your goods to the best advantage, but care must be taken that others do not get better goods and cheaper rates than I do and above all things you must take care that I keep the trade even if I make a little less profit if it comes to the worst. But this is a word and a hint which must be carefully considered and intelligently applied and not abused, for as there is greater risk in such long voyages one must make as much profit as one reasonably can, all seasons and occasions must be carefully observed and when the opportunity is not favorable one must have patience.

I am surprised that you received no furs for the first two shipments of merchandise; I long to see the accounts, but settle none without making such settlement subject to the ratification and further examination by the patroon. I fear that they have already condemned you in my name,<sup>47</sup> however things will no doubt improve now that I help you so.

I am expecting to hear what measures have been taken with regard to the delivery of the tithes and other grain. Cornelis teunissen will doubtless understand what my opinion of him is. I would write him also, but must first hear how he has conducted himself. I am also waiting impatiently for the account of pieter Cornelissen. He writes of great profits but I do not know of what they consist. If they are supposed to consist of the house which he built, that is of wood and will wear out in a few years, besides he has had the use of it and not I; if they consist in this that he furnishes the boards for my dwelling houses at such high price, he wins twofold and I lose twofold. All these joint transactions must be abolished and I must know what my net gain is from the money which I advance as well as from the timber which they would like to get for nothing and sell to me at the highest price. You will have better help, now that you get vanderdonck as officer and hoges as assistant, who are not personally interested in these things.

I have learned of the accident of the fire at the farm of adriaen Cornelissen, if it can be called an accident and was not due to carelessness. It is a pity about those fine horses which I hear were with colt. You must not fail to charge these to the account of Teunis dirckse (including those that were sent the second time and those that died); they cost at least f400 a piece. That you have had a house built to live in is well and I await the account. Teunis dircksen however has too much land so that a great deal will lie idle and remain uncultivated. That he<sup>48</sup> disposes of the duffels at f3 like Director Kieft is well, but inasmuch as the dye, especially the double steel gray, becomes expensive and as I have also had the duffels made wider and heavier, this must hereafter be taken into consideration and if they are kept at the old price of f3 the payment must be made in better skins.

Director Kieft complains greatly that they furnish him so little wheat. I have still more reason to complain that so poor payment for the wheat which I furnished has been made here by liquidation of unfounded accounts. I have not yet been paid for that delivered in the years 1638 and 1639 and have indeed not yet received one half of the money due to me. The grain is of such high grade that it ought not to be paid by balancing it against bad accounts. Therefore, as you write that you can get f3 a schepel for the wheat, which amounts to f12 a mudde, it is proper that the director pay you the same and this not with accounts but in cash there or drafts payable here on demand. I write about this matter to him also because Director Kieft or the bookkeeper stated in an account of grain furnished, which I had to show here, that the people of the colony owed at least f2000, so that I could not get any money and can not yet except by way of liquidation of those unfounded accounts of the wheelwright and others, which I have sent to kieft. I had to pay the Company this year 18% interest on the increase of my capital stock which fell due in August 1639, while they owed me twice as much for grain which I furnished them. Therefore, if you can not get prompt payment either in merchandise there, or in drafts or letters of exchange here, without mixing up with them in some way the accounts of other people, try to sell the wheat to the best advantage for me but do not give it out on credit.

<sup>47</sup> dat se V in myne name al sullen veroordeelt hebben; meaning perhaps, that they have already condemned you as my agent.

By and by I shall send you some law books but have not time to do so now. I send you however, by hoges, de hollantse recht-geleertheyt,<sup>49</sup> which is not yet bound.

You need not send me copies of letters which you know have reached me but of those which have not arrived, like those sent by de liefde which were taken to Dunkirk. It is a good plan however to send by the next ship copies of the letters sent by the preceding ship for fear that they may not have arrived, especially if goods were sent by them, as in that case demands might be made on the underwriter on presentation of the second bill of lading.

As to Cornelis Teunissen van niekerck,<sup>50</sup> do as you think best and as is most advantageous to me. If he is not capable, leave him as he is; but if he behaves well and is able treat him like the others.

It was very wrong of you to say to Director kieft that he should charge the duty on the skins to my account there; I do not owe the duty in that country but here when the skins have arrived and when they do not arrive I do not owe any duty; but I wrote you to pay 5% for the freight of the goods sent over, according to the Freedoms; however, inasmuch as the ships generally receive their cargo here it is best that the freight be paid in this country, especially as the skipper who is his own master has agreed that I should pay him on his return for my goods and the board of my people toward which I had to give him here for each person f20 in cash, contrary to custom; herewith I end.

P. S. I forgot to write in the letter about the carpenters who have no work especially in the winter when the wood [cells] are closed and [the trees] fit to cut down. A goodly number of oak trees should then be cut down, using as much as is necessary for timber and cutting the others to the length of pipe staves, which measure the cooper will probably know. It is about four feet, rather an inch longer than shorter. These lengths may then at a convenient time be split into staves, so that you must take this into consideration and pay due attention to the splitting of staves, for these might be used to make barrels in which to send flour to Virginia and bring back tobacco, so that the splitting of staves is a very important matter. And in order to get the work done more cheaply you might give the carpenters piecework and, with the advice of Jan Cornelissen, andries de vos and Cornelis Teunissen, settle for yourself how much each carpenter ought to accomplish per day in the way of felling trees, sawing or splitting; but you must be sure about the proper length of the staves and when there is an opportunity you must find out where the most suitable trees for this purpose are and make plans for everything that is necessary thereto.

As the council of the colony of Rensselaerswyck notice that many persons and inhabitants of the colony make bold against the order of the ordinance of the Chartered West India Company to sell to the Indians or savages, who frequent these parts, firearms, powder and lead, which might cause great harm, with regard both to war and to the great dispute between our patroon and the Company.

Therefore, every inhabitant of the said colony, whoever he may be, is expressly prohibited from selling, repairing or lending any

Kiliaen van Rensselaer to Willem Kieft<sup>52</sup>

July 19, 1641

This 19th of July 1641, in Amsterdam

On the 14th of May last, on account of the hurried departure of the ship den eyckenboom, I was obliged to reply in haste to your honor's letter of the 12th of October 1640. This letter by the bearer anthonie de hooges, underbookkeeper and assistant of the colony, serves only as a confirmation of the other, supplemented by the usual message and kind request to help him send my people and goods to the colony. With that end in view I have given him a letter of recommendation to your honor. He has also with him the invoice of my goods; if your honor should like to see it he will show it to you, and if your honor should find anything in there that you like you might pick it out. It is unspeakable what trouble I have in sending my goods thither as I do not know at all on what to count, otherwise I should already have sent you a good draught of French wine, as I suppose the Spanish is more abundant there. My goods which had lain for a long time in the warehouse to be sent by the ship den harinck came back by the lighter and had thereafter to be loaded into den Engel gabriel, which arrived [at the Mannhattans] in the winter and sailed again before I could receive tidings of the arrival of my goods in the colony, much less obtain any furs or letters. With the ship den waterhont, it went better. However, it sailed so unexpectedly that my letters to you remained behind, although, when I delivered my letters to the president on Wednesday, he said that matters would be determined upon on Thursday and that the ship would have to wait therefor. These letters, having thereupon been sent by Cornelis melyn, were taken to Dunkirk but recovered and lately sent by den eyckenboom. This year the worst that happened was that my goods which were in the warehouse in time had to stay out of den eyckenboom though the fact that the animals got in made it bearable. The goods which were already then in the warehouse have even now to stay for the larger part out of this ship and are waiting for the third ship, which is the most vexatious thing in the world. I made some inquiry as to the cause of it; linclacn<sup>53</sup> in the warehouse said that he had orders not to load my goods and, when at the last minute I inquired about this, I could not find out who the man was who had forbidden this. However, I can guess the reason, namely, that there are some directors who hold that I must pay such duties as the recent Freedoms prescribe. In that case no one could be sure of the future, whereas one who has already obtained his right is not subject to future changes; in this contention, when I further urged the matter, I received the full approbation of their High Mightinesses for myself and my successors forever, which document I have already shown to the Hon. Coenradus. I at once received permission to proceed with the loading but the ship was then so full that the greater part of my supplies are still left out and will follow by the next ship. Is it not vexations also that I can not get any payment for the grain of which you sent me the account and which was already delivered in 1638 and 1639? I received toward this f1272, to which must be added f228 charged to me for 18% interest on f1200 which I had to pay the first of August 1639, making f1500, but a great deal more is due to me. They quarrel with me about the rest because at the end of the account, which your honor sent me and which I had to show them, it was stated that the freemen of the colony owed about f2000. I have advised you of the amount in dispute. In fine, for the grain which is of such high grade, for which one has to wait so long before it is ripe, and to get which one must first throw good grain into the soil, then thrash it, and thereafter deliver it, for this after it is delivered one has to wait a long time before the accounts are settled, first because the accounts which are sent in October entered only the quantities delivered in May, and then because the ship was so long on its way, and finally because they wanted to balance the grain which was delivered in June and July 1638, when Jacob planck left, not only for payments due on the first of August 1639 but also for 18% interest which I had to pay to the first of August 1640; so that, deducting therefrom f228 as aforesaid and adding thereto the f1272 which I received, I received in all f1500 as aforesaid in August 1640, which was the first money I have received for all the grain delivered by me since the year 1632, everything being paid [by way of liquidation of] accounts drawn up at their pleasure, without evidence, either against or without my order and entirely without receipt from my people. Whether these things are endurable I leave for you to consider; and I should not object either if your honor sent these complaints to the lords directors. I have the more reason to complain as grain is ready money and ready money from Brazil is at 18% premium, more or less, while instead of giving me 18% additional they make me pay 18% interest. I have patiently endured all this till now; I would have suffered it still longer if it had not been that your honor's complaint conflicted with those of my people, as your honor says that they have delivered little or nothing whereas they complain that instead of f10 they can get f12 [a mudde], yes, that grain is sold at the manhatans at f3  $\frac{1}{2}$  a schepel.<sup>54</sup> I am therefore forced to issue this order that they must deliver my grain to the Company before any one else, provided you pay them what they can get from others and do not credit this on account but pay for it on the departure of the vessels with collectable letters of exchange or drafts. What I owe the Company I am also ready to settle in cash or negotiable paper without mixing them with or balancing them against any accounts of my people who are in debt to me. It is [no] more than reasonable that upon my account is entered what is delivered to my commis or to those to whom I give credit but that every one should charge my account, as has now been done for 11 years, is unbearable and would tend to my ruin.

Further, sir, as we must adopt a definite basis for mutual transactions between the Company and myself, I say frankly that the Freedoms granted to me form the standard according to which we must regulate ourselves on both sides. If you have permission to deal with me from the honorable directors, we shall have no difficulty in coming to an understanding; but if they should have any objection to it, I would like to be informed of it. It is a very dangerous business if succeeding administrators want to alter the privileges granted by their predecessors; if their successors in turn change the limits set by them, great changes will soon take place when one third [of the directors retire] and what certainty will the people have from one [administration] or the other? It is right to make changes upon proper information, but not with regard to those who have already obtained their rights. In their leases, I have imposed tithes upon my people for the support of religion (as at the first opportunity I expect to seek a suitable minister and have given orders to build a church) and also for the support of the officers and of justice, but I have not done this during the term of their service but when it expired and they and I were free. Whether broer Cornelis has done me good service with regard to this matter I know partly but he knows best of all. Sir, the statement that I have been untruthful is a pill I can not swallow as I have never to my knowledge lodged either hypocrisy or lies in my heart. Your honor understands the matter quite differently from the way it is; you observe and contend that I have complained about you; such is far from me. I have thanked you and do so again and most heartily, most of all for the good plan which you devised and carried out to my great service of sending my horses up the river in lighters for lack of other vessels; but as according to my Freedoms I rightly maintain that I am not bound to pay for this, since the Company promises to send the animals there free when there is room in the ship and the said lighters took the place of the ship, [for this reason] I tried to avoid paying for it and not for the purpose of checking you as if you had charged for more days than it took in reality. Far from it, that would have been very ungrateful and unfaithful toward your honor, instead of grateful. On the contrary my complaints tend to the advantage of your honor who stands up so well for the Company's rights. In which matter I also said, not to you but to the Company, that these lighter charges were trifling compared with the ship freights from here to New Netherland. I do not refer to what was done about the lighter charges but claim that as sea vessels and sloops of the Company often lie idle at the wharf without making a voyage, it could have been arranged to send up the sea vessels; and [if it is alleged that] if these vessels were used then here and then there for the Company the voyage would take longer than it need otherwise with diligence take, I explain that in six or eight days a trip can be made from above to the mouth of the river. That this is the truth I can easily get attested as there are examples of small vessels coming down from above in 24 hours. Even if it had been 30 days each time, it would still be less than to come from there here. They have [never?] according to their promise transported any animals for me [free?]<sup>55</sup> but once consented to take six calves in the ship upon condition that in case of need they might throw them overboard, which they actually did when they got out to sea; there was reason to, but the clause made them decide to do it sooner than they would otherwise perhaps have done.

Here your honor has my sincere declaration in regard to this matter. If I have reason to thank you and the Company has reason to laud your carefulness, must this now cause you to break your friendship? It seems to me unreasonable and uncalled for; if I had said "the director charges me but six or eight days whereas they have been thirty days on the way," that would be to your disadvantage but being obliged to you while yet dissatisfied and the Company having reason to praise you for doing your duty, I hope that you will continue favors which you commenced to show me; upon which I shall await your reply. At all events, if your honor should be inclined to warn me once more and, as this time no other arrangement has been made by me, to lend me once more a helping hand or to give me good advice as to what I had better do in this matter in the future, I should like to know in what way I can please your honor and hope at the first opportunity to obtain your honor's definite answer with regard to my previous letter. I would decide to keep a vessel in the North River myself but that as yet I have received but few returns compared with my large consignments. I hope that now it will begin to go better, were it only that I could make more definite and liberal arrangements; and as I find that other colonies are to be founded on the North River, my prerogative respecting it under the fifth article of my Freedoms ought at any rate not to be diminished or disputed. For a while, it is true, I shall not be able to do much; nevertheless, every one likes to hold on to what belongs to him by good title. I am surprised that the English are said already to deliver grain, both those of Virginia and those of New England, though flour is still one of the best articles that is traded in Virginia for tobacco; if it were not that I wished to deprive the Company of all chance for trouble, I would already before this have made my plans accordingly. That your honor received so little grain from my colony is principally due to the fact that they can get more for it from others; it seems that with them the highest price is the supreme law and, as during the last years so many farms have been established at the manhatans, I am half inclined to trade with Virginia which is much nearer than the island of the West Indies while its tobacco is also much better and its price reasonable. If I had a vessel I would make a small venture.

Broer Cornelissen writes that you urge him to have me appoint an agent<sup>56</sup> at the manhatans. If I could find a suitable man I would have done so already. However, I can not see that according to article 28 I must do this, but only that I am allowed to do so and as to the report which I am bound to make, I could not do anything more than communicate to your honor what goods and people go thither and come back, also how much grain comes from there; other particulars I do not know myself for I only know what broer cornelis, Arent van Corler or others communicate when convenient. Wishing to be further informed regarding your honor's intentions as to these matters, vale.

N. B. If I have been remiss in one thing, the Company is remiss in ten things at least.

Adriaen van der donck, officer, in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

This 23d of July 1641, in Amsterdam

Of your honor's safe arrival and that of the other people and goods, especially the animals, I hope to learn with joy in due time and with still greater joy that you have not only arrived at your place of destination in the colony but that you have duly settled down to enter with fidelity and zeal on the one hand upon the exercise of your office, and on the other upon the cultivation of your farm (may the Lord our God bless both). Herewith go again some persons; two in my service and seven freemen, among them Johan v<sup>r</sup>beek, tailor, with his wife, from breda, recommended to me by your mother, according to the contract sent to the secretary arent van Corler. Ditto van Corler has complained to me about the impertinence of some of the farmers who let my carpenters go about idle and employ others who are not in my service at higher wages and to my damage, concerning which I have enclosed a memorandum<sup>58</sup> in his letter which he is to hand to you in order that you may see to it that such disorder and impertinence be checked by ordinances of the commissioned councilors.<sup>59</sup> I doubt not but you will find so many of these things to remedy that you will become aware of the task of redressing them, and the delinquents of your fines. I send herewith enclosed authority to the secretary to deliver to you merchandise, at the first purchase price without counting any expenses, to the sum of f32:13, advanced by you for lighter charges of the animals from naerden. I would advise you of one thing and another more at length, but the pain I suffer from a sound heart<sup>60</sup> takes away my courage.

P. S. As several other colonies now appear on the North River, you must take great care to acquaint them in the beginning, with tact and suavity, of my rights under the fifth article, specially approved by their High Mightinesses, and confer about it in friendship, but duly maintain my rights. Vale.

After closing my preceding letter and sending it to you by anthony de hooges two days ago, I found enough time to draw up your instructions concerning the three commissioners and four adjunct councilors<sup>62</sup> mentioned more fully in the instructions to officer Adriaen vander donck which I enclose in this letter,<sup>63</sup> sent by Jehan Theunissen,<sup>64</sup> carpenter, whom I have engaged since as a freeman for four years, on condition that he serve me the first year as a servant at f150 a year. Instead of f40 according to his enclosed contract, I paid him in cash f50; this you will charge to his account with the 50% advance, also his board on the ship, toward which I have paid already f20 just as for the others, and any other expenses which he may yet occasion till he arrives in the colony,

Through indisposition I have been unable to answer you sooner; am now only in fair health. The tailor<sup>66</sup> from breda with his wife and still other company, together 10 persons large and small, set sail for New Netherland on Tuesday last; may God be with them. They have good weather but the wind has changed and become contrary; I fear that they will have to seek shelter in England. I could still use a smith's helper and a brickmaker. A ship is being made ready which I hope will lie ready to sail in a month; it would be well if the men could go across in that ship, but this you must know that there is a smith<sup>67</sup> in the country but no brickmaker, so that the brickmaker must have a boy or other help, unless he could burn brick alone. Vale.

We, Adriaen Vander donck, chief officer,<sup>69</sup> with the commissioners and councilors of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, to all who shall see these or hear them read, greeting. —that is such persons as have no fixed residence there and only go thither to practice usury, provoke quarrels and discord and incite the inhabitants to private trading of furs which causes them to neglect their own proper duties — and in order to stop all this and prevent it by proper means, we have seen fit to order, enjoin and command, as we do by these, all the inhabitants of the colony on whatever basis or under whatever contract they may live here, that they shall not undertake to buy from or exchange with the residents any goods, or in any manner let them have any beavers, otters or other furs, directly or indirectly, upon fine and forfeiture for the first offense of three times the value of the goods first bought, exchanged or delivered, and 100 rix-dollars additional, if any one should act contrary to this ordinance. But, if any shallops or vessels of the Company or any one else come up the river and the inhabitants want to buy anything of which they are in great need, they shall ask permission of the officer, who will act according to circumstances.

Secondly, no one, whatever his rank may be, shall be allowed on forfeiture as above, to send any beavers, otters or other furs down the river or cause them to be sent down, without handing in a true inventory of them or giving notice of their number, before they are shipped. Herein we dispose as above.

Thirdly, no vessels except those of the Company shall be allowed to sail down the river without inspection and they shall also give notice of everything they carry out of the colony. Everything on forfeiture as above. Done and concluded in council this 12th of August 1641. By order of the officer and council of the colony of Rensselaerswyck.

Cornelijs van der donck, at Breda

This 21st of September 1641, in Amsterdam

This morning I received yours of the 18th instant, in reply to which it may serve to say that if the ship were now at the Texel, it would run out by this east wind. However, it still lies before the city, but in a few days will sail from here to the Texel and being there will have to wait for the wind. You must therefore not neglect to send your things speedily but, if your honor does not need these things very much, I should advise you to wait till spring, as the winter is now at hand and the goods can not reach the colony this year before the frost; also, this ship does not sail direct for New Netherland but first to Curaçao in the West Indies, which lengthens the way and increases the danger especially at this season of the year; but you must do as you think best. The preceding ship, on which the tailor from bredael sailed, was the 23d of August lying in England in Plymouth. I hope that it has left there since. It will be difficult enough for the persons and goods which sailed in it to get to the colony before the frost. If by next spring you could secure an able smith's helper and a brickmaker, but especially one who can also make tiles, it would be well; but you must pay due attention that they know their trade thoroughly and are of good moral conduct. I hope that your honor's son is now already settled and housed and that in eight or 10 days, God willing, we shall have tidings thereof.

September 29, 1641

This 29th of September 1641, in Amsterdam

In the letter sent on the 19th of July last by Anthoonie de Hoges who sailed in the ship den Coninck david, I replied at length to yours of October 12, 1640. On the 23d of August the said ship was still at Plymouth but hoping that it sailed shortly after and may have arrived safely before your honor receives these I refer entirely to my previous letter. These go by the ship de brandarys, which will stop first at Curaçao in the West Indies, and it will therefore make a long voyage for my goods, which have already been six months in the warehouse. I know no better way than to have patience, praying Almighty God to let these and the preceding arrive safely without accident. I beg and pray you earnestly to favor my people and goods with your assistance, that everything may as soon as possible get to the colony, especially the goods sent by den Coninck davidt, which will have a hard time unless the Lord please to grant her a speedy voyage and you second it by your efforts. I long to know wherewith I can recompense you for all your former kindnesses as well as those to come and whether my previous propositions please you in any way. The accompanying goods are numbered and marked as in margin:

- |             |        |  |
|-------------|--------|--|
|             | No. D  | a case, quite long and narrow  |
|             | No. E  | a similar case, much shorter   |
|             | No. 11 | a cask of prunes   |
|             | No. 12 | a cask of oil  |
| 4RW | No. 13 | a hogshead of vinegar  |
|             | No. 14 | a cask of soap   |
|             | No. 15 | a large barrel with keittles and lead                                  |
|             | No. 16 | a cask of train oil, which leaked in the warehouseand was not sent |
|             | No. 18 | a barrel of tar  |
|             | No. 27 | a case with duffels  |

If they can not get to the colony before the winter, as there are many perishable and liquid goods among them, you would do me a favor by sending them to the colony in the first sloop in the spring to my cousin arunt van Corler.

It would also be a great service to me if Arunt van Corler sent you each year by the last sloop going down before the winter some cases of beavers to be shipped to me in the spring when the ships leave so suddenly, as did den engel gabriel, that he has not time to send any.

Arunt van Corler, in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

By the ship den Coninck david, by Anthonie de hoges sent to you as assistant, I wrote you at length and also sent you the goods mentioned in the invoice sent previously, with the exception of the following, which came back because they could not be loaded in the ship. The ship den Coninck david was on the 23d of August still in England in the harbor of Plymouth. I hope that it sailed shortly after, as it is of great consequence to me that the goods get to the colony before the winter, as well as the people, 10 in number, sent to the colony by the same ship. I also hope that the ship den

eyckenboom, which left here on the 17th of May, having on board Officer adriaen vander donck and the people whom I sent over, being about 20 persons strong, arrived in the colony in due time and that I shall be informed thereof at the first opportunity. This serves mainly to enclose the list of the goods which remain from the last consignment and which are now sent via Curaçao in the ship den brantaris; may Almighty God watch over it all. It will also serve to advise you that I insured 1800 beaver skins on the following three ships, to wit, den eyckenboom, which sailed from here in May; den Co David, which sailed in July following; and this ship, which I hope will sail in October. You can load the aforesaid 1800 beaver skins in these three ships named; the insurance policy is equally valid and it amounts to the same thing whether the 1800 skins are divided among three ships or whether they are sent in one or in two of them; therefore, as I fear that den eyckenboom has left too soon, I expect but little by that ship though I should wish it otherwise. The largest quantity, however, I expect by de Co: David and if this should fail, the rest by this ship in the spring, up to the 1800, if you have as many. As you write that some debts in skins are still outstanding, also that goods sent by den Enge gabriel are not yet sold and that the stock of goods sent by den waterhont is still complete, I estimate there ought to be as many as 1800 or more; nor need you confine yourself so closely to the number insured but even if there were three or four hundred more send those too; it will also be very necessary for you as a rule to keep some skins at the manhatans ready for shipment by the next ship. Whenever they do not give you sufficiently timely notice to send your goods down, it is a good thing to have a certain quantity in stock in the keeping of Mr kieft in order that they may be sent hither by his honor. You will also do well to advise me of the quantity which you estimate you will have during the year in which you write me so that I can arrange the insurance accordingly. Write me also each time how the skins are marked, whether there is little or much merchandise in the country (that I may regulate myself accordingly in the purchase of merchandise) and everything else that occurs there with reference to the trade. You were under a great misapprehension in understanding by “residents” the farmers or other inhabitants of the colony. I mean by that term such people as Goyver and the like who come to trade in the colony without authority from the Company and have no consent from me to do so. I have explained my meaning and my rights orally and at length to Officer van der donck, namely, that you can not forbid the trade to the West India Company but only to private individuals. Of substitution of private individuals for the Company there can be no question, for next to the Company, I come. Should I settle the country and incur great expenses and should other private individuals clandestinely reap my profit? That is without right and reason; outside the jurisdiction of the colony I have nothing to say but within the same I have. In the beginning great discretion must be used, as I stated to vander donck, who will no doubt communicate to you everything. As long as I have merchandise private individuals shall not undermine and spoil my trade, but when I have no merchandise, in order not to divert the trade, one can be a little more lenient with them, though it would be best that the private residents traded with you, that you traded in my name with the Indians, and that they as well as I might make some profit.

The 8th of October 1641, in Amsterdam

By my last letter to your honor of the 29th past, by this same ship den brant arys, I recommended to you the forwarding of the balance of my goods which go thither by this ship via Curaçao; I have since learned from my nephew wouter van Twiller that your honor is a great lover of fine horses, which I presume are not wanting there, and thinking that a fine saddle looks well on a fine horse to show off the rider to better advantage and that suitable saddles can not be had in that country, I have with the advice of my aforesaid nephew discovered one which I hope will be pleasing, useful and convenient to you. I send it to you in the care of Gysbert op den dyck and kindly request you to accept it as a first sign of gratitude for the favors bestowed upon me. I hope that it will arrive without damage. I have had it sewed in canvas with everything that belongs to it and addressed to your honor with the mark of the colony, as in the margin.

mendations from various other people, even from the directors, I could nevertheless not refuse to do this hereby. I beg your honor to excuse me for this and to be assured that I have tried to avoid it as much as I could; sometimes these things must be done on account of other recommendations and sometimes on account of importunities. Your honor need not pay any more attention to this than the person's capacity and your honor's opinion of him will warrant. I think that this young man has a good disposition; he served the Company in that country from the very beginning and did not take sides with any faction but properly respected and obeyed his superiors, which I have no doubt now that he is so much older and more experienced he will do better than ever. Vale.

I return herewith to you the power of attorney which in my opinion ought to be drawn up in an entirely different form.

First, I can not find that all the heirs of Gerrit de reux, deceased, are named or represented therein.

Secondly, the inheritance of their brother Gerrit de reux, deceased, is not even mentioned therein.

Thirdly, this power of attorney does not state that you may arbitrate or compromise but simply empowers you to begin a suit against me in the name of the persons mentioned.

Fourthly, it does not give you any power to receive any money or to give a receipt.

Further, my name is incorrectly given (being, not Guilliaen Renselaer but Kiliaen Van Rensselaer) and furthermore they have nothing to do with me individually nor I with them, but there is an open account concerning the service of their deceased brother which does not concern me alone but also others who participate therein with me. I did not individually enter into an agreement with Gerrit de reux but did so in the capacity of patroon of the colony called Rensselaerswyck, lying on the North River of New Netherland, which capacity must necessarily be stated in the power of attorney or my other participants would not want to contribute their share in the restitution. I kindly request your honor, therefore, to help the people somewhat that their business may be done in good order and that they may give you proper power of attorney and the matter remain hereafter beyond dispute; for it is inconvenient for me to deal with each one individually but I am willing to do so with them jointly or with the person to whom they give a power of attorney, in which capacity I shall be pleased to meet you.

P. S. I must add that it was not I but de reux, deceased, who kept the accounts; that I did not administer his property, but he mine; that he did not die and leave an estate in my colony or jurisdiction but at the manhatens or in the jurisdiction of the West India Company, and that not I or my officers but he himself always delivered his grain to the Company and received therefor other necessities for which he had to pay, so that accordingly the director of the Company, and not I, undertook the settlement of his estate; the situation is therefore quite different from what you think and the good people were not well informed simply to go by the report which they hear from one person or another. I have told jan bastiaenss right along that I will not keep a single letter or writing back from them and will deal in all fairness with them. They dream of mountains of gold but do not count on expenses.

July 30–November 29, 1641

In the year of our Lord 1641, the 30th of July, I commenced this journal in the name of the Lord. May the Lord conduct us to the place of our destination, in order that on our arrival we may offer to the Lord the offering of our lips, to His honor and our salvation. Amen.

N. B. In order to make this journal complete, I obtained from our mate the courses and changes thereof together with the latitude, and hope that your honor may not become tired of it.

New Netherland, 1641

July 30

In the year of our Lord 1641, we set sail from Texel with an E.S.E. wind and a light breeze, in company with 35 or 36 sail, among which were four convoys, three Pharnambocks<sup>77</sup> traders, four boyers<sup>78</sup> bound for Rozwanc<sup>79</sup> and the rest French traders. When we got outside it became calm. We shaped our course S.W. when we had Camperduijn<sup>80</sup> E. by N. from us.

31

In the morning there was a breeze. By noon we reckoned that we had sailed a total of eight leagues S.W. We saw 12 ships and supposed them to be Portuguese traders.

August 1

Variable wind, mostly W. At five o'clock in the morning we sailed close to Schevelingen.<sup>81</sup> We saw upward of 20 Portuguese traders at anchor and kept on our way tacking again and again. In the evening de Briel<sup>82</sup> lay about two leagues S.S.E. from us.

2

Very light westerly wind. We had made no progress on account of the calm. At noon we anchored in 13 fathoms, to prevent the tide from carrying us away. Den Briel lay S.S.E. from us. In the evening we weighed anchor again and set sail. In the evening at the end of the first watch we again secured ourselves against the tide. Still calm.

At daybreak we weighed anchor again. Wind S.W. with dark weather; the course was W.N.W. Den Briel lay about two and a half leagues S. S. E. from us. Toward noon the ship Elizabeth bound for Pharnambuco, having on board the wife of Admiral Lichthart, joined the fleet from the rear, as did two East India traders. After our admiral had spoken one, he continued on his way.

- 4 Wind S.W. At daybreak we turned south again. We reckoned that since we had stood out from land we had sailed 15 leagues N.W. by W. In the evening we went west again and reckoned that we had sailed 10 leagues S.E. During the night, at two bells in the dogwatch,<sup>83</sup> we took in the foresail.<sup>84</sup> Had rough weather; wind W. and S.W.
- 5 In the morning the wind W.S.W. At eight o'clock we again hoisted our foresail and again turned south. We reckoned that we had sailed a total of six leagues N.W. That night one of the men-of-war lost its topmasts and we were widely scattered. Five of us however, namely the three Pharnambocks traders, with which we had made company at Texel, and the ship Elisabeth, kept close together. In the evening we turned north again and reckoned that we had drifted five leagues S. E. by E. since morning. The rough weather had separated us from the French traders. We once more took in our foresail. During the night a horse died and we threw it overboard.
- 6 During the night our mainsail was torn in two; we repaired it and set it again. The wind was westerly with rough weather. We saw three strange ships; they were lying to with two courses.<sup>85</sup> At noon we set our foresail and the five of us came together again and were joined by a small flute. In the evening we turned south again. The course was S. by W. We reckoned that from last evening to this we had sailed five leagues N.E. by E. and four leagues N.E. The wind was west. Toward evening we turned north again with a mainsail breeze.
- 7 In the morning the wind W. by N. Still rough weather. At noon we were in 22 fathoms of water. We reckoned that we had sailed nine leagues N. by E. In the afternoon the wind became N.W. and we turned again to the south. We sailed one league N.N.E. We again shaped our course S.W. by W. Had very rough weather during the night. One calf dead.

8 The wind N. with a fair breeze. Squally weather. Our fore-topsail blew away. We reckoned that on the whole we had sailed 17 leagues S.W. In the evening it became calm. The wind became westerly.

9 Squally in the morning. During the past night we followed various courses. At daybreak our main yard broke. We found that we were off duijnckerken<sup>86</sup> which lay S.E. by S. from us at a distance of about three leagues. We saw our vessels lying in the scheurtje.<sup>87</sup> We steered north as we drifted toward the Flemish coast. We were in five fathoms. At noon our yard was ready again. We sailed toward the fleet and stayed with it. We had variable winds. In the evening we turned again to the north. Duijnckercken lay about three and one half leagues from us.

10 The wind S.W. At mess time we reckoned we had sailed nine leagues W.N.W. Toward noon we came close to the Voorlandt<sup>88</sup> and anchored S.S.W. of the Noord Voorlandt, in 15 fathoms. At noon there was a breeze from the E.S.E. During the night we ran before the wind past Gom, alias Goi-jingh.<sup>89</sup>

11 The wind S.E. In the morning we ran close by Kalis Klieff.<sup>90</sup> It became very calm. Shortly after noon we anchored in 15 fathoms. In the evening there was a light breeze from the W.N.W. and during the night from the north.

12 In the morning the wind N.N.W. We sailed close by the Singels<sup>91</sup> and on to Vierleij<sup>92</sup> and Bevesier.<sup>93</sup> At noon the wind became quite westerly; Bevesier lay then about four leagues from us. The course was S.S.W. We and the ships that joined company with us were still together. There were also a frigate and a galley, both from Vlissingen, and some French traders, which in the evening sailed east again toward the fleet. That evening we saw the French coast and turned again to the north. Course N.W.

13 In the morning the wind west with a fair breeze. We sailed' close to shore past Bevesier and again turned south. The course was S.S.W. In the evening we reckoned that we had sailed eight leagues S.S.W. That evening it became very calm, foggy and dark. We saw none of our company. That day a calf died.

14 In the morning the wind E.N.E., still foggy weather. Now and then we fired a musket to which the other ships replied. At mess time the weather became clear again. We found ourselves to be near one another. The course was west. At noon we reckoned that we had sailed since last night 10 leagues W. by S. At sundown the west needle of zwicht<sup>94</sup> lay six leagues north of us. We shaped our course west. The wind E.N.E. with a fair topsail breeze.

15 At daybreak the Kiskassen<sup>95</sup> lay S.E. by S. from us at a distance of about two leagues. We had sailed nine leagues west. The wind became southerly and we had some fog. The course was N.W. At noon it cleared off somewhat. In the evening we came close to the high land of Dortmuiden.<sup>96</sup> At sundown Goutstart<sup>97</sup> lay three leagues S.W. by W. from us. We saw some English vessels which tried their best to get around to the west. We turned south again. Changeable winds.

16 The wind west. We turned to the north. We reckoned that we had sailed S.E. two and a half leagues and S.W. five leagues. At four o'clock in the afternoon we came close to the shore of Salcam.<sup>98</sup>

We tacked to the south again and again. That night during the dogwatch we stood toward shore again. We reckoned that we had sailed eight leagues S.S.E. The course was W.N.W. The wind S.W. and a fair breeze.

17 Very foggy weather. We sailed six leagues N.W. by W. The wind was S.W. We tacked again and again. At noon we stood in toward shore and in the evening we turned again S.W. We should have liked to go to Pleijmuiden<sup>99</sup> to get water and hay but could not on account of the fog. The frigate which was with us stood toward shore. The galley also became separated from us so that there were only five of us left.

18 The wind was S.W. That night we tacked again and again. Before noon we arrived between Pleijmuiden and Goutstart and tacked back and forth. During the night we ran closely past the Mccuwesteem<sup>1</sup> and let ourselves drift along in a calm. A dead horse overboard.

19 At daybreak the wind S.S.W. A dense fog set in. We found ourselves before the beacon of Pleijmuiden. There were only two of us, the vice admiral and ourselves. We thought it advisable to run in. Before Draeckenkasteel<sup>2</sup> we found five English royal vessels at anchor. We sailed on toward the east Conser<sup>3</sup> and anchored there in five fathoms. We found the frigate and the galley at anchor.

20 In the morning the wind was westerly. Our three other ships also came to anchor near us. We began to get our casks ready to draw water in the nearby village, as no water could be had where we anchored.

21 The wind S.W. At night our crew brought over 20 casks of water on board. At noon we got a quantity of hay.

22 The wind westerly with dull weather. Our crew hauled water again. A dead calf overboard.

23 The wind variable. Our sailors again hauled water. A dead horse overboard.

27 The wind from the shore and at noon S.W. We got some more water on board.

28 In the morning there was a calm. At noon the wind blew from the sea. In the afternoon a fleet of English vessels bound for the Stract<sup>4</sup> arrived here in the Kaddegat.<sup>5</sup> Outside the fort a fleet of Portuguese traders was seen which the aforesaid fleet had met. We got some more firewood on board.

29 The wind was W.N.W. in the morning with calms and good weather. At noon it was still calm with a breath of air from the northward. We got water on board; and some more during the night.

30 In the morning it was still calm. At noon the wind became E.S.E. with a fair breeze. We got a fathom of Norwegian wood on board. Two hours before sundown we weighed our anchor to set sail. In the evening we got to a point inside the beacon and the five of us anchored there to wait for General Halfhoorn, commanding the ship Elizabeth which could not get its anchors clear.

31 At daybreak Halfhoorn joined us. We weighed our anchors and set sail, the five of us and one galley. The wind was E. by N. May the Lord grant us henceforth a happy and speedy voyage and everything else that may tend to our salvation. Amen. Some English vessels followed us. We shaped our course S.W. At 10 o'clock in the forenoon we came near a fleet of 19 sail. We spoke one of them which came from Cape Verde.<sup>6</sup> Most of the rest were French traders. At noon Lesacrt<sup>7</sup> lay two leagues W. by N. of us. We kept our former course.

At noon we could not take the latitude. The wind was S.E. by E. By our reckoning we had sailed 34 leagues S.W. Squally weather, much thunder and lightning and a hard pelting rain. The wind became southerly and during the night easterly. The sea ran high. West and S.W. with whirlwinds.

After the mate had taken the latitude, we found that we were in the latitude of 47 degrees 13 minutes and during the day we had sailed 19 leagues S.W. The wind was E. by N. with a topsail breeze and clear weather. In the evening the wind became southerly again and in the dogwatch S.S.E. with a stiff breeze and squally weather.

In the morning the wind S.S.E. with a fair breeze. We were in the latitude of 46 deg. 40 min. The distance sailed 18 leagues. For the most part the wind had been S.W. by W. It became S.W. with a light breeze.

4

In the morning we turned south. The wind W.S.W. Distance sailed  $13\frac{1}{2}$  leagues. The course south. At noon we reckoned that we had sailed another three and a half leagues south. The latitude was 47 deg. 4 min., the wind became W.N.W. with a topsail breeze. The sea ran high from the south. At night the wind was again S.W.

A little before dawn we took in our topsails. At daybreak two English vessels passed us. After four bells in the day watch we turned west. After dinner it began to blow harder and harder. We took in the foresail. We could take no latitude. The distance sailed was 12 leagues, mostly S.S.E. Toward evening we set our foresail again. The course was S.S.W., the wind west with a light breeze.

In the morning we turned west again. The wind S.S.W. The course west. At noon we were in latitude of 46 deg. 21 min. The distance sailed, keeping on our course, was three leagues W. from yesterday which was Sunday. Shortly after noon we took in the foresail. The wind was S.S.W., course W., rough, squally weather, variable wind.

- 7 At eight o'clock in the morning we turned south and set our foresail again. The wind W.N.W. with squally weather. At noon we were in the latitude 46 deg. 5 min. The distance sailed six leagues, mostly N.N.W. The wind changed to the N.W. The course was S.W. with a mainsail breeze and high seas. For the first time we began to pump water from the hold for our needs.
- 8 In the morning we set our topsails again. We saw a sail and passed it. We presumed that it was an Englishman. At noon we could not get our latitude. Distance sailed 23 leagues S.W., the wind N.W. with rough weather. In the evening it quieted down and became beautiful weather. Course S.W., wind N.W. by N.
- 9 In the morning the wind N.W. with light breeze. At noon we were in latitude 43 deg. 28 min., distance sailed 30 leagues S.S.W. with a fair breeze and fair weather. At noon we saw a sail west of us which stood to the east. Our course was S.S.W.
- 10 We were in latitude 41 deg. 56 min., distance sailed 28 leagues S.S.W. The wind N.N.W. with a fair breeze, fine weather.
- 11 We were in latitude 40 deg. 12 min. Distance sailed 28 leagues. Course S.S.W. Wind N.N.W. with a fair breeze. Fog on the horizon.
- 12 Latitude 38 deg. 40 min. Distance sailed 23 leagues. Course S.S.W. Wind N.E., light breeze.
- 13 No latitude at noon, variable winds. Distance sailed 22 leagues S.W. Wind N.N.E. with a light breeze and fine weather. Clear view.
- 14 Found ourselves in latitude 35 deg. 50 min. Distance sailed 21 leagues S. by W. with good weather. Wind variable. At noon we shaped our course south.
- 15 We were in latitude 34 deg. 24 min. Distance sailed 22 leagues S. The wind northerly with a light breeze and fine weather. We reckoned that it was still 28 leagues S. to the east end of the island of Madera.
- 16 At six o'clock in the morning the island of Porto Santto<sup>8</sup> bore S.W. from us, distant about three and a half leagues; and at noon west. We had sailed during this day 29 leagues S.W. The wind mostly N.N.W., variable with squalls but mostly clear weather. We found that we were further east than we had reckoned and that we should have shaped our course west of Ilha de Palmo<sup>9</sup> but did not dare leave the other vessels, as at times the weather was calm and at others the wind N.W. We thought it therefore advisable to stand to the south with the other vessels. In the evening the east point of the island of Madera lay west from us at a distance of about six leagues. We shaped our course S.S.W. with a fair breeze and fine weather.

17 At eight o'clock in the morning, the south point of de Sarters<sup>10</sup> lay north of us, distant about seven leagues. At noon we were in latitude 31 deg. 43 min., distance sailed 21 leagues S.S.W., the wind N.N.E.

19 In the morning we were between Ilha de Palmo and Tenerifa. We passed between them and were west of Gomera. The course was changed to S.W. by S. Wind N.W. with a light breeze. At noon the course was S.W. We lowered our boat. The skipper went to the other vessels to take his leave before we continued our voyage, hoping that we were out of danger. That night the wind became S.S.W.

20 In the morning we had just passed the island of Gomera. The wind was W. with a light breeze. Before noon we spoke our vessels and took our leave of each one by firing a salute, whereupon in the name of the Lord we stood out to sea together with the galley. May He guide us to His praise and honor and to our advantage. At noon the south point of the island of ferro lay about four leagues from us. It became calm. For nine leagues the course had been about S.W. by S. In the evening at sunset we saw a sail. During the night the wind became S.W. In the morning the vessels were in full view east of us.

21 At noon we reckoned that during the past day we had sailed 12 leagues S.W. The course was W.S.W. The wind N.N.W. with a light breeze.

22 At noon we were in latitude 25 deg. 45 min. Distance sailed 27 leagues S.W. by W. Wind northerly with a light breeze.

23 It was still calm. Latitude 25 deg. 2 min. Distance sailed 17 leagues S.W. by W. Wind N.N.E. but calm. At night we shaped our course S.W. in order to catch the trade wind better, as daily there was a calm. The wind N.N.W.

24 We were in latitude 24 deg. 24 min. Distance sailed 19 leagues S.W. by W. Wind N.E. We were hoping that we would catch the trade wind. We shaped our course again W.S.W. with a fair breeze.

25 We were in latitude 23 deg. 54 min. Distance sailed 24 leagues W.S.W. Wind E.N.E. with a fair breeze.

26 At noon we were in latitude 23 deg. 12 min. Distance sailed 28 leagues W.S.W. Wind E.N.E. with a topsail breeze and a fair trade wind. God be praised.

27 At noon latitude 22 deg. 26 min. Distance sailed 31 leagues W.S.W. Wind N.E. by E. with a topsail breeze, fine weather, good trade wind. The course was W. by S.

28 Before noon there was a small travado. We took in all our sails except the foresail, but it did not reach us. It was to the N.N.W. Toward noon the wind became N.N.E. with a light breeze. The latitude was 22 deg. 2 min. Distance sailed 28 leagues W. by S. with good weather.

29 At noon we were in latitude 21 deg. 42 min. Distance sailed 19 leagues W. by S. Wind N.E. with a light breeze. At times it became somewhat dark but we did not get any travado.

October

1 We were in latitude 21 deg. 17 min. Distance sailed 23 leagues W. by S. Wind N.E. with a light breeze.

2 We were in latitude 21 deg. 6 min. Distance sailed 30 leagues W. by S. The wind E. by N. with a steady breeze; clouding weather.

3 We were in latitude 20 deg. 44 min. Distance sailed 32 leagues W. by S. Wind E. by N. Topsail breeze and a good trade wind. Overcast sky.

4 In the morning after mess we began to put things to order to see how many casks of water we still had, as each day we found another one empty. Except for lack of water, we were resolved to set our course straight for New Netherland. In the afternoon when all the casks had been examined, we found that of the 29 casks which we supposed were still left, only 16 were full. These were provided with iron hoops; of the others the hoops had sprung. By reckoning we were still 600 leagues from New Netherland and the animals consumed at least two casks of water in three days, so that we had water for the animals for only 24 days. We began to look at each other. At last after some questions had been asked we decided unanimously that for the preservation of both man and beast it was necessary to go to the island of Christoffel<sup>12</sup> and continue our voyage after we had obtained a supply of water. We shaped our course therefore W.S.W. Wind E. by N. with a steady trade wind. Latitude 20 deg. 25 min. Distance sailed 24 leagues.

- 5 We were in latitude 19 deg. 40 min. Distance sailed 33 leagues W.S.W. Wind east with a topsail breeze and steady trade wind with good weather. A dead heifer overboard.
- 6 We were in latitude 18 deg. 41 min. Distance sailed 36 leagues W.S.W. Wind E.N.E. with a steady stiff trade wind. Fog on the horizon. In the evening there was sharp lightning and the weather became very dark. After the first watch we took in our topsails as it looked very dark in the south.
- 7 In the morning we reefed<sup>13</sup> our mainsail and furled the spritsail.<sup>14</sup> At daybreak we had a travado from the south which lasted three hours. Toward noon we set our mainsail again and shortly after our topsails, and the wind became east with a light breeze. We got no observation at noon. Distance sailed 31 leagues W.S.W.
- 8 We were in latitude 17 deg. 14 min. Distance sailed 34 leagues W.S.W.; the wind east. The galley got separated from us during the night. We set our course W. by S. We had a stiff breeze during the past night. A dead heifer overboard.
- 9 We were in latitude 17 deg. 7 min. The course was now changed to west. Distance sailed 32 leagues. The wind E. by N. with clouding weather and fog on the horizon. At times a topsail breeze; sometimes less. Toward evening there was a travado from the S.S.W. with rain. We took in all the sails. At night there fell a calm. The whole sky was very dark. We lay there till morning. A dead horse overboard. The four horses on starboard were now overboard and the four on port still remained.
- 10 A little before dawn there came a stiff travado from the S.E. At daybreak the weather cleared off. Wind E.S.E. We were in latitude 16 deg. 59 min. Distance sailed 10 leagues W. by S. Wind as above with a fair breeze.

- 11 We were in latitude 16 deg. 44 min. Distance sailed 26 leagues W. by S. The wind E. by N. A fair breeze and good weather. Course W. By reckoning we were still 100 leagues from the island of Antigo.<sup>15</sup>
- 12 We were in latitude 16 deg. 42 min. Distance sailed 28 leagues west. Wind E. by N. with a fair breeze. Weather as above.
- 13 We were in latitude 16 deg. 38 min. Distance sailed 30 leagues west. Wind E.N.E. with a fair breeze. Weather as above.
- 14 We were in latitude 16 deg. 40 min. Distance sailed 25 leagues west. Wind E. by N. with a light breeze.
- 15 We were in latitude 16 deg. 37 min. Distance sailed 23 leagues west. Wind east with a light breeze; fine weather. In the afternoon there was a travado from the south with much rain. Sharp lightning during the night.
- 16 A little before dawn we had a travado from the S.E. with much rain. We were in latitude 16 deg. 46 min. Distance sailed 20 leagues west. Variable and clouding weather. At noon we saw the island of La de Cede<sup>16</sup> four and a half leagues S.S.W. of us; after three o'clock the islands of Marigalante<sup>17</sup> and Guere de Loupe,<sup>18</sup> as we thought. Weather was still foggy. Toward evening we saw an island bearing W.N.W. Very foggy so that we could not make out what it was. We let ourselves drift before the wind.
- 17 At daybreak we got under sail again. It was still as foggy as before. We ran to the aforesaid island; on approaching it we learned that it was Antigo.<sup>19</sup> We saw two ships lying in the roadstead which is on the N.W. side. We shaped our course W. and W. by N. west point of the island Montfuratte<sup>20</sup> lay W.S.W. at a distance of two leagues. For 17 leagues our course had been about W. by N. and we kept our course. We passed just north of the island of Rodonde<sup>21</sup> and then set course for the island of Meves.<sup>22</sup> Toward evening the west point lay N.W. at about two and a half leagues from us. We reckoned that since noon we had sailed nine leagues W. by N. The course was W.N.W. and later N.W. After four bells in the first watch the south point of the island of Christoffel<sup>23</sup> lay N.N.E. from us at a distance of three and a half leagues. We took in our sails and let ourselves drift in order to remain near the roadstead. The wind was west. A dead horse overboard.

18 At daybreak we set our sails again and ran into the roads, where with God's help we anchored a little before noon in 10 fathoms. We found in the roads two Zealand vessels, namely one flute and one frigate. Our course was changed and we drifted five miles W.N.W. and till morning three miles N.N.W.; when we came into the roads we had but one cask of water left. We sent our boat ashore in haste with empty casks. The wind was S.E. with a stiff breeze. We reckoned that we were in latitude 17 deg. 6 min.

19 During the night and also in the morning, at noon and in the evening the sailors brought some casks of water on board having fine pleasant weather. Most of the time there was a land breeze. We saw two sail which did not stop in the roads. In the early part of the night we took another boat load of water on board.

20 Sunday; no water was drawn. Meanwhile we filled the casks in the hold. We also caréened our ship and cleaned the side. Foggy weather with drizzling rain and calm.

21 In the morning we took more water on board and had a travado from the S.W. with much rain. The sea began to run high. The rain lasted till the afternoon. A small English vessel drifted from shore and the English on board had neither anchors nor cables so that it was carried far out to sea. The frigate went out and caught it again. In the evening we took some more water on board.

22 We took our last load of water on board and stored it away. We cleaned the other side of our ship and got ready to set sail. The wind was S.E.

23 At two o'clock in the night we set sail again in God's name. May He bring us to the place of our destination. The wind was variable but mostly calm. We ran along the island to the Sant punt;<sup>24</sup> at day-break we were close to it. We ran between the island of Eustachio<sup>25</sup> and the Sant punt of Christoffel, along a reef which projects from Christoffel. The course was N. by W. and N.N.W. We passed the islands of Saba and Bartholomeus.<sup>26</sup> We spoke a small bark which came from the island of St Marten and learned that there were no ships near the said island which made us feel more at ease in passing it. We laid our course close to St Marten and found the above statement to be true. In the evening we came close to the north point<sup>27</sup> of the aforesaid island which bore north. We were almost becalmed and therefore did not quite dare stand on because of getting near the island of Sombrero. We took in our topsails and tacked back and forth. The wind was E. and E.S.E. with squalls. From the santpunt we had sailed about nine leagues averaging a N.N.W. course.

24 One hour before daybreak we set our sails again. There was a light N.E. breeze. We sailed a half league below the lower point of St Marten and so on past the island of Anguilla. Wind N.N.E. We ran to the westward of the island of Sombrero not being able to sail any higher. We were in latitude 18 deg. 6 min. The north point of Anguilla lay then E.N.E. of us at a distance of about four leagues and Sombrero N.E. by N. one league. In the evening Sombrero lay E.N.E. of us at a distance of about two and a half leagues. It fell calm. N.W. of us we saw another island. The wind changed to W. and W.N.W. We turned north. Course N.N.E. At the end of the first watch we sailed above Sombrero having it E.S.E. of us about a half league off. Light breeze.

25 At daybreak Sombrero lay south of us about two leagues off. Wind W.S.W. with a heavy sky. We had much rain. At noon there was a travado from the S.W. with a pelting rain. At noon we saw an island bearing south. Course N.N.W. with squally weather. We took in our topsails. Variable wind.

26 Weather continued squally. We were in latitude 19 deg. 52 min. Distance sailed 24 leagues N.N.W. Wind mostly S.W. but variable.

27 We were in latitude 21 deg. 10 min. Distance sailed 21 leagues N.N.W. Wind S.S.W. with a light breeze.

28 Latitude 22 deg. 43 min. Distance sailed 25 leagues N.N.W. Wind S.W. Now and then we had squalls.

29 We were in latitude 23 deg. 8 min. Distance sailed seven leagues N.N.W. It had been calm since evening and still continued so. Today we tarred our ship. A dead sheep overboard.

30 We were in latitude 23 deg. 20 min. Distance sailed four leagues N.N.W. During the past day it had been very calm; now we got a light breeze.

31 We were in latitude 23 deg. 46 min. Distance sailed seven leagues N.N.W. A gentle S.S.E. breeze, almost calm. During this day we passed the Tropic of Cancer.

November 1 We were in latitude 24 deg. 36 min. Distance sailed 14 leagues N.N.W. Wind E.S.E. with a light breeze, fine weather.

2 We were in latitude 25 deg. 44 min. Distance sailed 18 leagues. Wind mostly S.E. with a light breeze. During the night we had a travado from the E.N.E. We reefed all our sails. The wind went around the entire compass. It was the hardest travado we had had. It blew very hard with much thunder and lightning and hard pelting rain.

3 At half past two o'clock in the night the wife of Govert Loockemans gave birth to a daughter.<sup>28</sup> Thus was our number increased; God be praised. In the morning after breakfast we set our sails again after having had very rough weather during the night. The wind was west; thereafter E. by N. The sea began to run high from the north. No latitude was taken at noon. We reckoned that we had sailed 14 leagues N.N.W.

4 In the morning after the dogwatch we took in the foresail and let ourselves drift with the aftersails. It began to blow very hard and to look ugly. At daybreak we took off the foresail bonnet<sup>29</sup> and stood on with the courses. The wind was E.N.E. We were not able to take the latitude at noon. The distance sailed was 16 leagues N.W. by N. Wind as above. Rough weather, high seas and fog on the horizon. In the evening the wind began to turn southerly.

5 We were in latitude 28 deg. 51 min. Distance sailed 23 leagues about N. by W. Wind S.S.E. Topsail breeze, good weather. In the evening at sunset we had a severe travado with heavy thunder and lightning and hard rain from the west. We had taken in all our sails and let ourselves drift. Toward the end of the first watch we made sail again. The wind S.W. with an overcast sky.

6 At the beginning of the day watch we took in the topsails and reefed the courses. A travado sprang up from the north. We lay with the ship's head to the east and at daybreak to the west. It began to blow harder and harder. We sent down both our yards and set the spanker. The wind west by north. At noon we could not take the latitude. We reckoned that we had sailed and drifted 11 leagues about N.N. W. Wind N. with rough weather and high seas. In the afternoon we bent a new mainsail and set it.

7 At eight o'clock in the morning we set our foresail again and stood to the west. We were in latitude 29 deg. During the past day we had sailed and drifted 12 leagues about S.W. by W. The wind mostly north, stiff breeze and clear weather.

8 In the morning we set our main topsail again. No latitude at noon. Distance sailed 10 leagues about W. by S. The wind north with a topsail breeze. High seas from the north and overcast sky.

9 We were in latitude 29 deg. 15 min. Distance sailed 14 leagues. The wind N.E. with a light breeze.

10 We found that we were in latitude 30 deg. 13 min. Distance sailed six and a half leagues about N.W. by N. Wind variable and for the most part calm. In the afternoon a topsail breeze sprang up from the E.N.E.

11 We were in latitude 32 deg. 39 min. Distance sailed two and one third leagues N. by W. The wind E.N.E. By reckoning we were still 34 leagues from shore.

12 We were in latitude 33 deg. 43 min. Distance sailed 31 leagues north with a stiff topsail breeze and bad weather. At noon we saw breakers near our ship. We hove the lead but found no bottom.

13 We were in latitude of 35 deg. 54 min. Distance sailed 33 leagues N.E. The wind became south and during the morning it remained S.E. by E. In the evening and at night we hove the lead but found no bottom.

14 We were in latitude 38 deg. 5 min. Distance sailed  $32\frac{1}{2}$  leagues north. The wind south. During the night we had a stiff breeze which calmed down at daybreak. We set our course N.W. to get to the coast as by reckoning we were not far from it. It was foggy weather. In the morning we were becalmed. Very dull weather and much rain. The sea ran high.

15. In the morning a stiff N.E. breeze sprang up. Drizzling rain and dark weather. We got no observation at noon. We reckoned that we had sailed 11 leagues N.W. By reckoning we were in latitude 38 deg. 38 min. At noon we sounded and found no bottom. We shaped our course N.W. by W. to reach the coast. It was very dark foggy weather with a stiff breeze and high seas. Wind N.E. At four bells in the afternoon we took in our topsails and spritsail.<sup>30</sup> We hove the lead again and found bottom at 38 fathoms. It was coarse sand with black specks and small broken shells. A storm came up so that we took in the foresail and let ourselves drift with the mainsail and spanker. The wind was E.N.E. with dark weather and drizzling rain. In the evening after the watch was set we sounded and found 35 fathoms, sand as above. In the first watch we took soundings again at 25 fathoms, very fine sand, ash-gray with black specks. We put the ship's head to the north to get near the coast as with that wind we could stand off and on. After the dogwatch we found ourselves in 23 fathoms, sand as before.

16. At daybreak after having had stormy weather we hove the lead and found 22 fathoms. We were afraid of a S.E. wind and therefore turned to the east to get somewhat further off shore as it blew very hard with dark weather, drizzling rain and high seas. At noon we reckoned that since noon of the day before we had sailed and drifted 10 leagues about W.N.W. and that we were in latitude 38 deg. 54 min. We found soundings of 25 and in the evening of 32 fathoms. We were then driven eastward from shore. We would have landed about between the suijtbaij<sup>31</sup> and the Hoofden.<sup>32</sup> But it did not please the Lord that time to grant us the relief to which we had looked forward so long. The hard storm obliged us to stand out to sea again and we had no sight of land.

- 17 The storm continued with dark rainy weather and very high seas. We could hardly carry a reefed mainsail. The wind was N.E. and N.E. by N. At noon we got no observation. We reckoned that we had been driven 12 leagues S.E. by S. We were obliged to stand out to sea as we did not dare touch a sail and did not know how the wind might turn. Toward evening we took in our mainsail and hauled to the wind, with a reefed spanker. The storm continued. Wind became N. and we were driven S.
- 18 We took the latitude at noon and found that it was 37 deg. 8 min. We had been driven 16 leagues mostly south. The wind was mostly N. with the same storm as before; the sky not clear. In the afternoon we turned west again and set our mainsail. Toward evening the weather began to calm down some. We set our foresail.
- 19 At noon we got no observation. We reckoned that we had sailed 12 leagues W.S.W. In the forenoon we bent a new foresail as it began to blow harder and harder from the north. Shortly after noon we took in the foresail again as it stormed again just as hard as before.
- 20 We got no observation at noon but we reckoned that we were in latitude 36 deg. 18 min. Distance sailed and drifted 11 leagues S.W. The wind N. with the same storm as before and overcast sky. Vapors rose from the sea as from a boiling pot taken from the fire and were drawn in long rays toward the sky.
- 21 At daybreak we set our mainsail again to steady the ship against the sea as we shipped much water and were tossed about badly. At noon we found ourselves in latitude 35 deg. 23 min. We had been driven 14 leagues S.S.W. Wind was N. by W. with a severe storm and high seas. Clear on the horizon and bright sunshine. Toward evening the weather began to grow calmer. Toward the end of the dog-watch we set our foresail again and sounded bottom at 50 fathoms, ashy soil with small pebbles. The weather began to calm down again.

22 At daybreak a topsail breeze sprang up from the west. We set our course N.N.W. to try once more to reach the coast. At noon we were in 14 fathoms of water. For about six leagues the course was about W.N.W. At noon we got no observation but reckoned that we were in latitude 35 deg. 32 min. Foggy weather with an overcast sky. At three o'clock in the afternoon the wind became north again with a sudden burst so that we could hardly get in our sails. It blew a storm once more. That night in the dogwatch the weather quieted down somewhat and we set our foresail again.

23 In the morning there was a N.W. topsail breeze. We set both our courses. We were in latitude 35 deg. 55 min. Distance sailed and drifted eight leagues about N.E. by E. Clear sky and still high seas.

24 We got no observation at noon but reckoned that we were in latitude 36 deg. 42 min. Distance sailed 14 leagues N.E. by N. The wind N.W. with clear weather and squalls. At noon a light W.N.W. breeze and good weather. The wind turned S.W. We shaped our course N. by W. to get to the coast. In the evening a stiff breeze sprang up and we set our course N. In the beginning of the first watch we took in our main topsail and later our fore topsail. At four bells in the dogwatch we took in the foresail. The wind came N.W. and we had a storm. We sounded but found no bottom.

25 In the morning the weather became somewhat less rough. The wind became N. by E. We turned to the west to get to the coast. We were in latitude 38 degrees. Distance sailed 18 leagues about N. by E. After mess time we set our foresail again and thereafter our main topsail and fore staysail.

26 Shortly before daybreak we got a S.E. wind. We sounded bottom at 40 and shortly before noon at 25 fathoms. We got no observation at noon but we reckoned that we were in latitude 39 degrees. Distance sailed 18 leagues N.W. by N. Toward evening we were in nine fathoms. We then turned again S.W. till we were in 15 fathoms for the weather was very dark. We then stood along the coast.

27 At daybreak we made sail again. The weather became very foggy with drizzling rain so that we could not see a ship's length. We anchored therefore in 13 fathoms. Meanwhile we caught a large quantity of codfish smaller than those in Holland but very white. Toward noon it cleared up. The wind was N.W. by W. with a topsail breeze. We saw the whole coast and found ourselves between Barne gat and de Sacl.<sup>33</sup> We therefore set sail. Toward evening we saw Renselaers hocck<sup>34</sup> N. by W. of us about two and a half leagues and there we anchored. Wind northerly.

28 In the morning there came a stiff breeze from the N.N.W. Toward noon we weighed anchor to see whether we could get a little further by tacking. While under sail we were becalmed. No latitude at noon. We reckoned that from noon of the day before till the time we anchored we had sailed six leagues N.N.E. In the evening we dropped anchor again as there was still a dead calm. At night a light breeze sprang up from the S.E. and we made sail. We came close to the hooge hoeck<sup>35</sup> and let ourselves drift while waiting for the day.

29 At daybreak we ran to the Sandpunt<sup>36</sup> and as we rounded it too close we got aground on a reef which had formed there within a year. After two hours we got afloat again. God be praised, we suffered no damage and with good speed passed between the Hooffden<sup>37</sup> and in the afternoon came to anchor at the Manhatans in front of the Smits Valeij<sup>38</sup> in four fathoms. At anchor there we found a flute, called the de witte Valck,<sup>39</sup> laden with salt and sugar. Thus

Cornelis vanden donc, at breda

This 10th of December 1641

Yours of the 4th inst. I have duly received. A ship from New Netherland had already arrived, by which I received letters from your honor's son, who, God be praised, had safely arrived in the colony. He did not send his letters to you under cover of mine, but handed them to a young man, who has come over too, to deliver them at Breda; this young man has waited for the unloading of the goods in order to deliver them together with the small box No. C and the squirrel coat. As the unloading has been somewhat delayed because the Company has trouble with the customs inspectors of the tobacco and on that account has been retarded till now, I have taken the letters, which I send you herewith enclosed. The goods I shall also procure at the first opportunity. Meanwhile, you might send some skipper hither, if the water is open, to take the same with him. How he likes the country you will learn from his letters, unnecessary to repeat the same here. Vale.

This 12th of February 1642, in Amsterdam

Your letter dated the 28th of January was handed to me today by the bearer of this. I learned with satisfaction your reverence's resolution and have no doubt that if we are fair and just we will agree about the conditions. As to your honor's arrival, I wish that it could be somewhat earlier; at any rate as the Company seems to make great haste in equipping their ship it should not be postponed later than the first part of March, as otherwise your honor might have difficulty in engaging suitable accommodations. And if, contrary to my desires, I should be away from home, I shall not be further than three or four hours away and there will be opportunity three or four times a day to advise me of your honor's arrival. As to the terms for the farmers, who in the first place must be persons suitable for farm work, thoroughly understand the same and be ready to put a hand to the plow themselves, they are very favorable, as will appear from the contracts. They are too long to be set forth in full but in substance they are as follows: each farmer must take with him at least two servants and one boy who understands farming and himself equip them; the patroon, on his part, provides their board till they arrive in New Netherland at the island of manhatans and on their arrival in the colony causes them to be provided upon condition of repayment with grain for eating and sowing and with a suitable site on which to establish their farm, where the patroon will once and for all have a good house with [hay]barrack and barn built for them, which according to the custom of that country are usually placed near the river, the waters of which flow by clear and fresh and full of fish; the patroon causes them also to be provided once with wagon and plow and what else is needed for farming, the same to be kept in repair and replaced by the farmer; he will further assign them 30 or 40 morgens of land toward the interior, consisting of beautiful woods filled with excellent game, such as deer, turkeys and all sorts of nourishing fowls; he also turns over to them on each farm, from the surplus of animals in the colony, four horses and four cows, of which they are to have half the increase, the other half to be paid to the patroon in money or in kind. Each farmer therefore can with little capital or advance of money establish himself as pleasantly and as fully as the best noblemen in this country. As to the rent which the patroon derives from all this, he reserves to himself in the first place the right of the tithes for the support of the political and ecclesiastical persons and whomever else he shall see fit; then, every third sheaf of the remaining crop, the other two third parts being for the farmer for the wages of the servants and other expenses; and finally the right to redeem the animals. Considering now the fertility of the land; the healthy climate thereof, lying as it does at  $42\frac{1}{2}$  degrees north latitude; the smallness or absence of dike or mill charges and of duties on consumption and of imposts and similar taxes; the prices at which grain may be redeemed, namely, wheat at f180 a last and rye, colza, rape seed and the like at f160; the prices at which animals may be redeemed, horses at f120 and cows at f80; and further what they might profit by the fur trade, for which however they must ask special permission; it can easily be seen how profitable and advantageous the terms are for each farmer.

I have had some communication about this with the people, but would not like to promise any one anything that I could not make good nor would I like to be deceived by them. Though I have full faith in your honor's recommendation as to their conduct and belief, I am still in doubt as to whether they are capable of administering and working such farms, which is of the utmost importance to me.

This being the case, I suggested to them whether it would not be better if your reverence sailed this year and, on your arrival there with God's help, examined with the commis of the colony the number of animals and found suitable places for their farms and then with full knowledge of circumstances summoned them to come over, though I could not well bind myself absolutely in this matter, as I do not know what might happen to me in the meantime. However, as two have been here with their wives, whose outward appearance pleased me very well, I am willing to contract with them on the basis of the memorandum which I have of the surplus animals in that country; what I fear most, though they deny it, is that it seems to me that they are lowland farmers rather than highland farmers, in which case they would injure themselves and me. My cousin Maurus van broeckhuijsen, who lately returned from there, told me that at his departure there were in the colony in addition to the appointed number of animals of the old farmers, 11 colts of 1640 and 21 colts thrown 1641, also 11 calves of 1640 and 30 calves of 1641, though he did not know how many mare colts or heifer calves among them; as the oldest of the horses and cows will be  $2\frac{1}{2}$  years old when they get there, some of the cows will already have calved, as they ordinarily do this the second year and the horses will be coming along nicely. This is what passed between us.

I should be pleased if your honor could find a smith's helper and six or seven farm hands among whom some boys or some brick or tile makers' helpers; I will give them good wages. I have engaged as surgeon a capable person<sup>43</sup> who is a member of the church; he goes thither with his family and will take up his residence near your honor's. If your honor could find some suitable families for the following trades I would license them for six years to the exclusion of all others and they would earn a plentiful and easy living, namely, a wheelwright, a cooper, and a shoemaker or the like. Next year, God willing, I would on your honor's advice send more farmers who would then feel all the more assurance. You might hold some in reserve with that end in view. Vale.

Conditions granted by Kiliaen van Rensselaer in his quality as patroon of his colony named Rensselaerswyck and accepted by De Johannes Megapolensis, minister of the holy gospel to the congregation at Schorle and berge under the reverend classis of Alcmaer, attested by Sr Adam Bessels as copartner in the said colony, and the Rev. Jacobus Laurentius and Petrus Witterwongel, both ministers of Amsterdam, as preacher to administer and perform divine service in the aforesaid colony for the term of six successive years after previous dismissal from his said classis.

<sup>44</sup> V. R. B. Mss, Letter Book, f.156. Another translation of this contract appears in O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:448-49, and also, with minor changes, in Ecclesiastical Records of the State of New York, 1:143-45.

First, D<sup>e</sup>: Johannes Megapolensis, 39 years old, with his wife Machtelt Willems, 42 years old, together with his children, Hillegont, Dirrick, Jan and Samuel, aged 14, 12, 10 and 8 years, shall furnish and provide themselves with clothing, household effects and other furniture and cause the same to be packed in such small and compact form that they can be conveniently stowed away in the ship.

Meanwhile, as his six years and his salary are to commence when he shall set foot on land in the aforesaid colony, the patroon in addition to free board for them all in the ship until they reach the colony shall as reward for services in the meantime, pay him the sum of f300 once, without deduction.

An in case it should happen (which the Lord God in his mercy forbid) that he and his family should fall into the hands of the Dunkirkers, the patroon promises to use all diligence to procure his ransom, afterwards when convenient, once more to further this voyage and to cause to be paid him during his detention for the support of himself and his family f40 per month and also the same amount here monthly, after he shall have received his dismissal or instructions and shall have transferred himself hither, until he embarks. On his arrival in the colony, by God's help, the patroon shall cause to be shown to him where he and his family shall lodge at first until a fit dwelling shall be erected for him. As soon as he shall reach the colony, his hereafter mentioned salary shall commence and his board cease and the patroon be discharged therefrom.

[For] which salary, in order that he and his family may be able to maintain themselves honorably, that he may not be obliged to have recourse to any other means, whether tilling the land, trading, the keeping of animals, or such like, but [employ himself] in the diligent performance of his duties to the edification and instruction of the inhabitants and Indians without giving offense to any one, which he also agrees so to perform, the patroon promises him for the first three years, meat, drink and whatever else he may claim in that line, one thousand or ten hundred guilders a year, one half here in this country and the other half, proper accounts being kept, there according as he requires it in provisions, clothing or anything of the kind at the ordinary and usual prices, and in addition to this yearly 30 schepels of wheat and two firkins of butter, or in place thereof, f60 in credit. Should the patroon be satisfied with his services, he shall give him for the three following years an increase of f200 a year.

In case of his decease within the aforesaid six years, at which time the salary shall cease, the patroon shall pay to his widow, besides the balance of the half year on which he shall have entered, a yearly sum of f100 until the expiration of the aforesaid six years.

All of which, besides doing such services and favors for the patroon as he can without interfering with or neglecting his duties, the aforesaid Johannes Megapolensis agrees to, with promise to comport himself as a faithful subject and inhabitant of the colony; the aforesaid patroon on his side also promises for himself and his successors to perform and execute what is written above, and to let him have proper authentic copy and commission thereof under the seal of the patroon and the colony; and in witness of the truth, without fraud, guile or deceit has this writing been signed by both sides in Amsterdam the 6th of April<sup>45</sup> 1642. This 14th of May 1642, in Amsterdam

I received the letter of the 4th instant from your wife, but my absence has delayed the answer. I have received no letter from the tailor<sup>47</sup> but understand that he has arrived and that his wife is sick. I hope that they are already now in the colony. As the wind is now east, the Company makes much haste with the ship, so that you will please as soon as possible send the boys hither with whatever else you intend to send. If this wind continues, the ship could run out to sea in eight or ten days, but if it changes there might be some delay. However, one should not trust to that; it is time that the people and goods come at once. The minister and his wife have arrived already and will today or tomorrow put their things on board, so that you ought not to wait any longer. Vale.

<sup>45</sup> In O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:449, and in Ecclesiastical Records of the State of New York, 1:145, the date of the contract is given as the 6th of March 1642.

Brabant* being apparently inserted by O'Callaghan. No such place as Barlt exists in the province of North Brabant or anywhere else in the Netherlands but a village by that name is found in Süderdithmarschen, province of Schleswig-Holstein, Prussia.

<sup>50</sup> These three names and two notes following were written in the margin of the Letter Book.

N. B. The bookkeeper in the colony must regularly see to it that the board of the freemen is charged to their account, as Director kieft sometimes charges it with that of other people in one lump to the patroon.

He shall take a little care that these persons may get on board and, on their arrival with God's help at the Manhatans, obtain from the honorable Director kieft that they, and also my goods, be sent to the colony at the first opportunity and at my expense supplied with food.<sup>51</sup>

On the arrival of these persons in the colony, he shall first see to it that they present themselves to Commis Arant van Corler that he may register them and, with the advice of Officer Adriaen van der donck, assign them to their work. If the latter should need the two boys from bredael he may take them; otherwise, as the farmers quite unreasonably object to the payment of 16 guilders a year for each servant for my expenses and risk, my proposition subject to further examination there, is that the aforesaid farm hands, or at least some of them, be provided by the commis with board and lodging and the wages which they are to receive charged to me and that then the farmers or others for whom they shall work shall pay their wages to me at such rates as they pay others or at discretion or according to the ability of the persons employed, for in this way I remain master of them to employ them where they are most needed, to wit, for farm or other work with the farmers, between seasons with the tobacco planters, in the saw and grist-mill or wherever else they may be needed, especially in the winter to help the farmers thrash and do what is necessary. But above all things, as there are few carpenters, my proposition is that some of these fellows who are the most capable be employed to fell trees at the proper season and place and, as far as they are able, to cut them into logs and hew them, so as to lighten the work for the carpenters; and that Hans vos van badens, who has been a gamekeeper,<sup>52</sup> be employed at the proper seasons to shoot game for food supply and at other seasons to fell trees as he says that he can do that also, and if necessary to help the farmers of whose work he has good knowledge also. But everything must be well considered and done as is most profitable to me for I see that everyone seeks his own advantage and not mine. If things are done as here described, I remain master of my people to employ them in the way which is most profitable to me. I also consent that some be turned over to the farmers who are most faithful to me provided they pay me yearly the 16 guilders; but if they dispute this fair arrangement they will do themselves the greatest harm and make me unwilling to send them laborers, D<sup>e</sup> Megapolensis having seen what care, expense and trouble it is to me.

Maurus Jansen van brockhuijsen, who came home before his time was up on a passport from the officer without bringing his accounts with him, and to whom, upon his telling me that some money was still due to him, I paid 50 guilders on condition of repayment if it proved that they were not due, must repay the same with the usual advance. I offered him the liberty to trade in furs up to a certain number, just as abraham Staes, at 20 st a skin; he would give only 15 st; perhaps he will seek to trade indirectly in the colony. If he does this, proceedings must be instituted against him according to the contract which he made with me, his bounden time not expiring till April 1643 and this being at servant's wages unless he accepts the terms of the farm on which he has been, just as they are. He must do one of two things, either accept my terms as they are without dispute or serve out his bounden time, he has no choice but to adopt one course or the other.

Herrij Albertsen, who also came home before his time was up, has consented to pay me a guilder on each skin by way of duty but I have not been able to come to an agreement with him regarding the quantity of the tobacco which he is to give me in addition to the tithes which he conceded. He has been treating with me for the place of ferryman, putting his house near the bevers kil, in order to ferry the people from there to the church neighborhood and back, as the church, the house of the minister, that of the officer and further those of all the mechanics must hereafter be built there, just as Abraham Staes and Evert Pels, beerbrewer, have agreed to settle there, for I do not in any way wish or consent that, with the exception of the farmers and tobacco planters who must have their houses near their farms or plantations, any people following other trades shall hereafter and on the expiration of their years of service settle anywhere but in the church neighborhood, according to the accompanying order and plan, for if everyone lived where he saw fit they would be too far separated from one another and in case of sudden attack be in peril of their lives, as sad experience near the Manhatens has taught. Commisarent van Corler shall notify everyone concerned hereof so that they may govern themselves accordingly in the future.

Jacob Jansen flodder, carpenter, has been to see me<sup>53</sup> to ask permission to do carpenter work in the colony. I was willing to engage him at the daily wages agreed upon with the freemen; but as he wanted a good deal more, I would not take him on daily wages but agreed that, if he wanted to do certain work, I would be willing to contract with him upon definite specifications and at a definite price. I have no intention whatever of increasing their appointed daily wages at their pleasure; it seems that they contract with me here only pro forma and on their arrival there do as they please.

All other people whose time has expired and who remain in the colony, whether married or unmarried, and outsiders who may come into the colony, must take the oath of fealty on the same conditions as the other freemen who went thither made with me. And as at present, carpenters are somewhat scarce there, especially journeymen, we must exercise prudence and rather have a little patience than get under obligations to these people. There are several masters but few journeymen; some of the fellows who now go over might be assigned as helpers<sup>54</sup> to the carpenter<sup>55</sup> who came to the country with anthonie de hooges. They will try to conspire against us but we must try to divert them from their purpose, and, as was said, rather have patience than grant them such unreasonable wages. The houses which were contracted for on the advice of Officer vanderdonck cost a good deal more than is paid here though andries de Vos according to his contract is bound to be satisfied with the latter, so that this matter must be carefully seen to. It does not matter to me whether private individuals promise them more than the prices fixed by me; they are bound to serve the patroon for their stipulated wages before anyone else, but it seems that the prices of the private individuals fix the market for the lord patroon who will know how to find compensation again in some other way.

In fine, it is better to have a little patience and to write to me about it than to give such extra wages contrary to the contract. To this end, the brick and tile kilns would be very useful, for while it would not cost much more the work would be much more lasting.

Further it is necessary to unload in the most convenient way all my goods which go over now and to ship them again to the colony. If my people have a vessel, they should be notified by an express by land, or much better by a small boat by water. Giving the honorable Director kieft my greetings, his honor's advice should be asked how everything can be done to my best advantage and, as the honorable Director kieft had heretofore and still has a great deal of trouble with my people and goods, I send herewith as a present and an acknowledgment of gratitude the following:

First, a saddle with everything that belongs to it, packed in canvas and addressed to the honorable Director kieft, which should have been received by the last ship but was sent back by mistake and now accompanies this, numbered No. 24, with the mark of the colony; also, packed in the East India chest, No. 22, are the following things in my name to be presented to the honorable director:

- a gold and silver plated rapier with its scabbard and all that belongs to it
- a gold and silver embroidered baldric
- a pair of gold and silver plated spurs
- a pair of boots with spur straps

These things having been taken out, the chest must be closed again. If necessary for the transportation of malt some sacks which are only loosely sewn, so that they can be ripped apart later and sold as canvas, must be taken out also and a memorandum kept of everything.

The goods which are now sent over by this ship are packed as follows and marked as in the margin:

| Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4    | are four large casks containing two lasts, 11 muddes of malt for brewing for Evert Pels for which he is to pay me according to contract |

On the arrival of the above people and goods in the colony with God's help, D<sup>e</sup> Megapolensis shall hand this memorandum to Commis Arant van Corler that he may attend to the contents thereof as carefully as possible and communicate them to Officer vanderdonck.

While at the manhatans he shall acquaint the honorable Director kicft with the improper procedure of those among my people who, after I have paid their board and advanced them other expenses and money, marry there and remain at the manhatans or near there notwithstanding they are bound by definite contract in case of marriage to go to the colony and, according to the 19th article,<sup>58</sup> may not be hired there. He shall request his honor to lend me a helping hand herein and meanwhile order Officer vanderdonck to serve notice on each of the said persons as well as on the husbands of the married women (provided he first obtain consent from Director kicft and the officer at the manhatans) to reimburse the patroon for the money advanced and expenses or to serve out their time at the place agreed upon with the patroon and in case of refusal to do either one or the other he shall request the director to lend a strong arm, at all events to [let my officer] protest against them especially against the husbands who by marrying such subject persons<sup>59</sup> have become also liable for their debts and promises, namely on forfeiture of all their goods and property which they had and which they shall acquire within and without the colony, and in due time levy on the same and proceed therein at law according to the express words of their contracts.

As to lucas Smit,<sup>60</sup> who is probably still at the manhatans with the minister D<sup>e</sup> bogardus, who would like to keep him in his service on condition of reimbursing me for my expenses and money advanced, although I would gladly do D<sup>e</sup> bogardus every service and favor I can not let him have this man on account of the evil consequences, also because at least half of my people who came over by that ship left me at the manhatans and vicinity by getting married and for other reasons as well as on account of the great trouble and expense of traveling, board, and agents' commissions which I have before I can get any servants, not to speak of those who run away from and desert me, and because of the great lack of good servants in the colony and of the fact that this is one of the most upright servants of that nation whom I have and that he will serve the others as an example. Therefore I can not grant this but would request that he be allowed to go with the others to the colony and am willing to reimburse d<sup>e</sup> bogardus for his expenses in connection with him. D<sup>e</sup> Bogardus should be able to suit himself sufficiently upon the arrival of so many people as now go over for the account of the Company. D<sup>e</sup> Megapolensis knows how much trouble is connected with this matter, what difficulties I have with the Company before I can get my people on board and what risk I run of losing them together with all the money advanced by the action of some disaffected persons and will therefore please to excuse me with D<sup>e</sup> bogardus.

Herewith goes my resolution regarding the affair of Pieter Cor-

nclissen which D<sup>e</sup> megapolensis will please to communicate according to my oral request.

Furthermore, as I notice and fear for various reasons, as well as because of express warnings from the manhatans saying so, that the administration of my colony is in a very confused state, which might easily cause some trouble among my principal agents<sup>61</sup> of the colony, I still keep the supreme direction in my own hands nor will I readily cede it either for the reason that those in the colony (even if I were not their lord) need me here more than I need them there, for who will supply their necessities if I do not? Who will furnish them the money if I do not? All this does not even concern the government so that I am very much surprised at the ingratitude of the people there who seek their own interests so entirely and mine so little that when they get there they misconstrue according to their own desires the contracts made with me here which might easily cause me to abandon this work altogether for I would rather sit idle than suffer loss. Let them consider for a moment what it has cost me to establish each farm, aside from the horses, cows and land which I furnish them, and how much they have given me in return. They think that as soon as they have delivered their grain to the Company, I am bound to credit them with the amount. This is not so at all. For all the grain which they have delivered for 10 years, I have received no payment but the amount has been balanced against accounts and supplies; so that I will not pay any one a single penny no matter how much they may furnish to the Company. But what they deliver to my commis, not on the books but on his own loft and in his own power and possession, and for which they obtain his receipts, with that I shall credit them; this as far as the common people are concerned. Coming now to the agents,<sup>62</sup> my intention is that everyone no matter whether he is wiser or more intelligent than someone else, shall be strictly and expressly held to his contract. The more intelligent shall instruct and admonish the less intelligent and seek to dispose him to do what is useful or necessary, also to protest, if necessary, against his not doing so and to send the protests to me, but in no way to trespass on some one else's duties and to do what others ought to do. For instance, I take it very ill that Officer vanderdonck, knowing why I placed him at the entrance to the colony which I explained to him orally at great length, with the mere remark that there was room for only two farms, left that place and settled at the extreme upper end, as far as possible from the place intended for him, from the people and from the entrance to the colony where the key ought to be, and all this too without the consent of the commissioners of the colony or at least of my cousin Arent Van Corler. If below there was room for but two farmers, he ought to have been one of them; matters being now thus and the contract being let for a dwelling on the farm at the upper end, I am willing to let vanderdonck keep the said farm for himself on the conditions made with him; but as to his personal residence, I can not consent to its being there as it is too far from the people near whom he must constantly be, so that at a convenient time, when the first hurry of the most necessary building is over, he must cause an inexpensive house such as will meet his most urgent needs to be erected in the church neighborhood, where he can have his regular domicile in order to be present and at hand. Once in a while he can also inspect his farm, but that [only] one farm should be established there as he requests must be further investigated as I find that the place of broer Cornelis and the Great Flats<sup>63</sup> together, including some woods which can easily be cut down, contain about 140 morgens according to the survey of Mr Creyn Cornelisen,<sup>64</sup> surveyor, so that by and by another farm ought to be established in that vicinity. It would be surprising if from bylaers dal on, being four leagues upward, there should not be room for 20 farms as Director minuyet and wolfert gerritsen advised me at the time and it should turn out now that there could hardly be found room for a dozen. What would that be for such a district? D<sup>e</sup> Megapolensis will therefore have the patroon's commissioners who are not personally interested in farms, such as, Arunt van Corler and Pr Cornelisen, with the help in this instance of surgeon Abraham Staes, further investigate this matter in order to send me definite advice as to how many farms could conveniently be established there according to the number of morgens which I have agreed by contract to furnish the farmers and how much clearing of land can be expected in the future. I exclude Officer vanderdonck from this work only for so far as he is personally interested in the matter, for no one may be judge in his own case. As to the tithes, a suitable arrangement ought to be made whereby they shall be properly collected to the best advantages of the patroon, by individual agreements with the respective farmers, by leasing them yearly for each parcel of land or farm to private persons upon proper surety, by having private persons for a commission gather them in the field and thrash them, or by such other means as will be most profitable, having in view the heavy burden of paying the salary of the minister and other officers which the patroon has taken upon him, which salaries ought to be paid out of these tithes as far as possible so that the latter must be sold in the most profitable way. As to the administration of the colony this is under the present circumstances chiefly vested in the person of Arent van Corler, [for just as] adriaen vander donck in case of need, represents the chief officer, so Corler, also in case of need, represents the director, so that the said Corler must provisionally be acknowledged as the first and chief administrator of the colony,<sup>65</sup> with this understanding however, that each of them shall be unprejudiced in his rights and powers described in his instructions; each of the other commissioners and councilors shall also be maintained in his rights; and the lord patroon expressly orders that, if any differences of opinion as to the meaning of their commissions and instructions should occur among those of highest rank which they can not settle among themselves, both parties or one of them must address themselves or himself to D<sup>e</sup> Megapolensis, showing his reverence besides his instructions and commission the reasons on which he bases his argument, whereupon the other party having been summoned and heard, the decision of d<sup>e</sup> megapolensis shall stand without contradiction till the lord patroon sends over his decision concerning it. In all cases [Megapolensis] shall have an eye to the rights and advantages of the patroon that the common welfare may not suffer from misunderstanding, contention or the like; and hereby disorder shall cease and the patroon be satisfied that everyone acquits himself of his duties as he ought.

In conclusion I commend D<sup>e</sup> Megapolensis with his worthy wife and children to the gracious protection of Almighty God that He may keep them from all hindrances and accidents, grant them prosperity in the colony, bless his ministry and work to the honor of His holy name and to the extension of the Christian religion not only among Christians but, if it please God, also among the blind heathen in order that the triune God, Father, Son and Holy Ghost, creator, redeemer and sanctifier to the end of the world, may be preached, served, lauded and praised in my colony till the second coming of our Lord and Savior in order that, being raised from the dead by His power, we may possess with him the eternal joy of His Father's kingdom, which eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither hath it entered into the heart or thoughts of man. P. S. Immediately upon his arrival De Megapolensis shall go to my cousin Arent van Corler and stay with him till he shall find a convenient opportunity, with the advice of Officer vander donck and the other commissioners,<sup>67</sup> to have a suitable though inexpensive temporary house built with the intention later when the colony is a little more prosperous of having a larger house built for him. Meanwhile, as I fear that the church will not be finished yet, he shall select the best place that can be found to preach the word of God.

The church neighborhood, where in time all mechanics must settle shall if it is not too late be chosen near the pine grove, on the east side of the river, to the south of de laets burgh, placing the center thereof at the place on the river where inland the swamp is deepest and so may serve as defence in times of need, as abraham Staes knows; and all houses must be located there as indicated on the accompanying small map.<sup>68</sup>

June 8, 1642

Anthony de Hooges, in New Netherland

This 8th of June 1642, in Amsterdam

Your letters from the Texel and from Plymouth, and your last letter from the manhatans, dated June, August and December of last year, were duly handed to me together with the journal<sup>70</sup> which has given me a great deal of satisfaction. If you continue in your course and do not allow yourself to be diverted from your toil, diligence and faithfulness, you will, if the Lord spare my life, distinctly notice the results of your good conduct even during the term of years for which you have engaged yourself. This I must recommend you, as long as you are under some one else, do not be sullen but obey in matters about which you think you have good ground for being of a contrary opinion; communicate this opinion to your superiors and persuade them to weigh it without however forcing them, for human nature is such that those who have charge of anything do not like to be instructed by those who are below them in rank. But if the case were such that my loss or my rights were involved to a considerable extent and if it were worth while (for one must not let himself be burned for a trifle) you might press the matter a little. But above all things guard yourself against the presumption of thinking yourself in the right when as a matter of fact some one else is in the right. Therefore, in the beginning, hear and see, notice and learn, obey and make yourself agreeable and liked; in that way you will be able to accomplish much. I would answer yours more fully, but it is now Pinkster day, the eighth of June, the wind blows and we must break off. What I have to observe about your letter from the manhatans is that you will find out that many words, even if they come from persons of importance, are but plumes. I hope that later you arrived safely in the colony with the goods and that you are helping my cousin Arent van Corler in whatever way he seeks my advantage in what I have entrusted to him. I am curious to know how many followed you to the colony. It was a misfortune that your ship was so long on the way. Have patience and continue to keep a full diary of every thing worthy of note which occurs to you. From this you might send me brief extracts every week or month, for I have cause to long to know about everything that occurs there, as everything concerns me and depends on me. I must end. I gave to D<sup>e</sup>. Megapolensis a letter written to you by my brother in law Johannes van wel.<sup>71</sup> The friends are, God be praised, still well and send you greetings.

June 8, 1642

Willem Kieft, Director of New Netherland

1642, in Amsterdam, this 8th of June

This unexpected breeze today compels me to make haste and to break off. I can not refrain from thanking your honor for your kind assistance with regard to my goods and the good treatment of my servant, Anthoonie de hooghes, who expresses his thanks himself for having been accommodated at [the home of] oloff Steven- sen, to whom I should like to write but can not do so now. I delivered his letters, sent under cover to me, to his mother. I must complain about the fickleness of my people who let themselves be held fast there at once. I have given orders to bring suit against them and request your honor's favor and assistance. It was very unfortunate that den Conin. dav. arrived so late that arent had left. I fear on that account still more calamities than I can write of but hope that this spring everything will have come out all right and that the loss will be made good. As I hear that there is little merchandise in the country, I commend to your honor to send the people and goods that go over now promptly to the colony. I also send to the colony a very pious and experienced minister who has occupied the pulpit for at least 10 years. I hope that the Lord will bless his ministry among the dissolute Christians and blind heathen and that my colony may in time reach a state of peace and harmony. I noticed also that those who complain the most about disorder are frequently themselves the cause of it. I sent you by the ship den brandaris a good saddle with its belongings, but whether it is the fault of the skipper or of Gysbertus opdendijsck, it has been returned to me in the cag.<sup>73</sup> I therefore send it to you herewith once more, also a rapier with baldric and belongings, of which our De megapolensis has the list and an order to hand them to you because of the gratitude which I owe you. Please accept them as a mark of gratitude. I am very much troubled, however, that the account sent has not been settled with my cousin arent van Corler according to the advice of the lords directors and our agreement, dated the 5th of May 1639, stipulating that the director of the Company on the one side and the commis of the colony on the other side shall settle their accounts in skins or money by balancing one debt against another or by delivery of merchandise as fairness and circumstances shall require. That my debt is computed at the sum of f2408 without my knowing the items in detail,<sup>74</sup> and without my receiving the least sign or notice from my commis, is directly contrary to our agreement made with the Company. This ought not to be and I have expressly said and protested to the directors that I will not pay or credit them a penny of that nature without further information and proof.

According to what they tell me these debts arise mostly from the consumption of wine. Can it be that Fort Orange is a wine cellar to debauch my people, exhausting them as long as they can find something to pay and after that charging it to my account? I am forced to seek some remedy or other against these things and request you kindly, sir, if it is so, to see to it. The law of the Lord commands me expressly to prohibit such excesses on account of the sin and the evil which may result therefrom and [I do so] also and especially on account of my own interests, since in these excesses my people uselessly squander what is called their property but in reality is mine. As to the customs, duties [to the Company], averages, and freight charges which I have found in the accounts, I have also emphatically told the directors that I am not in the least inclined to pay these. If they are not satisfied with the prices fixed in my Freedoms, let them refuse to accept my shipment; I do not want to cause them any loss but will send ships myself according to my Freedoms. This has been my frank statement of my position all the time and is so still, and I would not depart from it whether up or down, as I absolutely refuse to submit to these changes of the Company. I have their Freedoms given to me in the years 1628 and 1629 by the Assembly of the Nineteen and approved by the High and Mighty Lords the States General. This is an unchangeable law and by virtue of it as well as on account of the aforesaid agreement with the Company, I request your honor to settle with my commis accordingly. I can easily step over a straw and I do not insist on trifles, but I must maintain the Freedoms, which I duly obtained and which have cost me so much, against every one no matter whom. This I told the directors here. They asked from me payment for the goods which come over now. I offered them to pay according to my Freedoms but that remained unsettled. If my Freedoms are subject to alteration there will in all eternity be no certainty to be had from the Company. With regard to the discontent among my people, some who threaten to come home will be ordered home sooner than they think. I do not ask for such threats in the least; I can find at least 100 masters who want to go thither but what I lack most is servants, for they must work. To finish with our old disputes, I can not refrain from explaining the misapprehension your honor is under with regard to the instrument of the 17th of March 1640; this date indeed refers to the period of your administration, but the proceedings in question occurred during the time of Crol, and thereafter during the time of the fiscal dinclagen and my nephew van Twiller, when my people and animals were shamefully detained, about which I made due protest to the Company; I have not the least complaint to make about your honor in this except that it costs me too much; on the contrary I sincerely thank your honor for your promptitude. I would write more but the time is gone and I must break off. Vale.

Sir :

On the 4th of August arrived here the ship d'houtuyn with all your honor's people in good health and the goods in good condition; they have for the most part been sent up the river; the brick and coal take up much room. Herewith we sent the letters in return which have come from above and from which your honor will learn the complete situation of your colony. I trust that henceforth, on account of the arrival of do<sup>e</sup>. grootstedius,<sup>76</sup> there will be more regularity both in secular and spiritual matters, things having been in pretty bad shape thus far.

I have received your honor's favor of the 8th of June, to which the following lines serve as reply. The saddle, rapier, boots, spurs and baldric have been delivered to me and although I would rather these things had not been sent—first, because I am still pretty well provided with everything, secondly, because I expect to be called home next summer and, thirdly, because it is against my oath to accept presents—nevertheless, to show that it is my desire to render your honor and your honor's colonists as much service as I can and as is consistent with my bounden duty, I have neither been able nor willing to refuse the aforesaid articles and have accepted them on behalf of the honorable Company, as whose effects they have been entered on the books. I further thank your honor heartily and shall always try to repay this debt with gratitude.

Concerning those of your honor's colonists who have let themselves be tied down by marriage, it seems that this can not be prevented. They must either go to your honor's colony or give complete satisfaction; I believe also that there are contracts to that effect in existence which we shall enforce by law if requested; likewise we have always been ready to settle accounts with s: Arent van Curler, to which I have often urged him, but it seems that the good young man is somewhat negligent in the matter, as I believe he is also as to your accounts. The fault lies rather with his inexperience than with his carelessness; I hope that he will henceforth through the urging of the minister be more diligent and attend to his business in proper manner. I believe the will is very good.

We have had some conversation whether it would not be best and whether it could not conveniently be arranged that no freemen be allowed to sail up to your honor's colony. I wish this was already forbidden for all the trade carried on by the private individuals is injurious both to your honor and to the Company; grain and skins are stolen. It is true that formerly much wine was sent to the colony but I do not hear that unusually great quantities go there now, for the reason that there is no money there and the credit of the farmers is exhausted. They owe a great deal here to private individuals for cloth, powder, lead, wine and other articles.

I have long since forbidden mons' Crol to lend to any of your honor's colonists except sr. Curler; I believe that the individual farmers have paid their debts mostly in wheat.

As to your honor's freight charges and other expenses, I wish that I could give you satisfaction. I am charged in an entry with the freight and average; in order not to fall short, I must again charge them to those whom the directors indicate, but I trust that if your honor's cause is just the same shall be made good in Holland.

The crop has been very bad this year; many farmers in the colony will not have more than the grain for their own use and for seed, on account of the severe frost last winter and the high water. Here around the Manhatens it is a good rye year and there are also plenty of peas; I estimate that we shall have about 50 lasts of rye and 20 lasts of peas in our granary.

The Maquaas have taken a French church on Lake Champlain, killed one Frenchman and taken prisoner three whom they treat very badly. I have ordered Crol to ransom them, in which I hope he will succeed. The cruel war which the savages wage against one another is the reason that no skins arrive; I fear that the trade will be reduced to nothing.

Wherewith, after friendly salutations. I commend you to the protection of the God of grace,

Sir,

Your honor's willing servant

Ordinance of the colony of Rensselaerswyck prohibiting freemen and private traders from coming with their vessels within the limits of the colony<sup>77</sup>

October 10, 1642

We, the commissioners and councilors of the colony of Rensselaerswyck to all those who shall see these presents or hear them read, greeting. As we are noticing every day many abuses, frauds and misdemeanors, which originate entirely from the sailing up and down of the vessels of the freemen and the private trade which they carry on in the colony, whereby not only is the honorable patroon wronged in his jurisdiction but also the inhabitants greatly impoverished; as furthermore, we not only hear rumors but are well assured that they supply the Indians with powder, lead and firearms and incite the inhabitants of the colony to such trade, which not only strengthens the savages and imperils our lives but heaps contempt and ridicule on the good intentions of the honorable West India Company and practically annuls their ordinance, all of which are things of very serious consequence; therefore, we have ordered and decreed, as we hereby do order and decree, that hereafter (without prejudice to the jurisdiction of the honorable Chartered West India Company) no one of the freemen and private traders, whatever his rank or condition may be or under whatever pretext he shall do so, shall undertake to enter the limits of the colony with any vessel, on forfeiture of ship and lading and on pain of peremptory punishment at the discretion of the court. And if any one obtains license from the honorable officer to come with a vessel for the service of the honorable patroon, such skipper on his arrival in the colony shall not be allowed to unload any goods or to let any one come on board before his vessel has been inspected by the officer and he has handed in his bill of lading. In the same way such skipper shall not be allowed to sail and leave the colony without similar inspection and permission from the officer; everything subject to fine as above. We enjoin and command every one whom it may concern to govern himself accordingly. Therefore, let every one take heed and guard himself against loss. Done in council the 10th of October 1642 in the colony of Rensselaerswyck.

Ordinance of the colony of Rensselaerswyck prohibiting inhabitants of the colony from trading with the "residents" without special consent<sup>78</sup>

We, the commissioners and councilors of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, let every one know that we have thought fit, ordered and decreed, as we hereby think fit, order and decree, for the behoof of the residents and inhabitants of the aforesaid colony, not only for good reasons us hereunto moving, but also for the further extension, confirmation and execution of our preceding ordinance, dated October 10, 1642, that none of the inhabitants of the said colony, shall presume, under any pretense whatsoever, to buy, sell, exchange, barter, or trade anything from, to or with any of the foreign residents and private traders, not to take them into their houses or lodge them without previous consent, much less to render them any assistance, wholly or in part, directly or indirectly, on forfeiture (if any one should act contrary hereto) of 200 guilders Dutch, and, the second time, of life and property, everything subject to immediate execution, without defense or contradiction. Wherefore let every one take heed and guard himself against loss.

Ordinance of the colony of Rensselaerswyck prohibiting export of goods without special consent and forbidding people who come to live or hunt in the colony from leaving without making a contract<sup>80</sup>

We, the commissioners and councilors of the colony of Rensselaerswyck to all those who shall see these presents or hear them read, greeting. Whereas it is right and just to prevent and correct as far as possible all frauds and abuses; and whereas many of these have their origin in the sending of various goods out of this colony by the inhabitants or residents, without properly entering and indicating them; therefore, we have thought fit, ordered and decreed, as we hereby do think fit, order and decree, that no one, whoever or of whatever rank he may be, within the jurisdiction of this colony shall be allowed to sail down either in his own or in any one else's vessel, not even the Company's, or to send away any goods, directly or indirectly, without previous consent and written permission of the officer of this colony, on forfeiture of such goods as they take with them or send by some one else and 50 guilders Dutch in addition. Provided also that no one, of whatever rank or condition he may be, who comes to live, reside or to hunt in winter in this colony shall be allowed to sail away, even if he requests permission to do so, without previously making a contract with the patroon or the person acting in his stead, on forfeiture of all such effects as he possesses in this country. Therefore, every one is hereby warned not to leave before he has made a contract.

Neither is any one permitted to lend or hire out any vessel except to such people as are under contract with the patroon or his representatives, also on forfeiture of 50 guilders as aforesaid. Let every one take heed and guard himself against loss. Done in council this                      164 :

Herewith I send your honor letters from de Johannes megapolensis, who, God be praised, arrived safely and well with all his family at the place of his destination, and who kindly sent me the enclosed sermon which he preached there on the 17th of August last. Please be sure to have the letters delivered at the first opportunity to his honor's father in law and uncle,<sup>83</sup> the minister at Coedijck,<sup>84</sup> and inform me when you have done so.

*De Megapolensis, minister at Coedijck*This 12th of January 1642<sup>82</sup> in Amsterdam

Under cover to Hendrick willemsen, tailor at Alckmaer [I send you] the letters received by me from your honor's son in law,<sup>86</sup> by

Alckmaer, Aug. 31, 1649. Do. Johannis megapolensis, senior, minister at koedijck, gives 500 Carolus guilders to "Hilgont Jans, oldest daughter of Do. Johannis Megapolensis, Junior, at present minister of the Gospel of the Christian Reformed Church in New Netherland, born of machtelt Willems dr., his, the donor's Niehte [niece or cousin]." N. Y. Col. Mss, 3:122; translated in Alb. Rec. 5:323.

Fort Amsterdam, March 26, 1655. Machtelt Willemsen, daughter of Willem Steengen, in the presence of her lawful husband Do. Johannis Megapolensis, minister at Amsterdam in New Netherland, executes a power of attorney to Jan Claesen, draper at coedijck, to "collect from the worthy Hendrick Willemsen, residing at suijt seherwout op langedijck, and the other coheirs, her portion or share of the inheritance descending to her from the estate left by Hillegont Jans, wife of the reverend and very learned Do. Joannis Megapolensis, senior, minister of the Gospel of the Christian Reformed Church at Coedijck." Signed: Machtelt Steenie willem [margin of paper torn off]. N. Y. Col. Mss, 3:129; translated in Alb. Rec. 5:339.

Inasmuch as the term schoonvader in 17th century writing may mean stepfather as well as father in law, it is not entirely clear whether Megapolensis, junior, was the stepson, or rather the adopted son, of Megapolensis, senior, and married the niece of the latter's wife, or whether he was the nephew of Megapolensis, senior, and married the daughter of the latter's wife by her first husband, Willem Steengen. The second solution seems the more probable. Cf. letter to Megapolensis, senior, July 22, 1643.

which your honor will learn of his happy and speedy arrival and reception. It is unnecessary for me to repeat these matters but as the diversity of advices gives a great deal of relief and satisfaction and their agreement gives further information and gratification, I shall be pleased if, leaving personal matters on one side, you will communicate me further information regarding the condition and appearance of the country and the people and what might in any way tend to my advantage or disadvantage as it is well to know both the one and the other; also his satisfaction and observation, for although he had been there but six or seven days he had already noticed a good deal. As far as I can see from his letters, he is quite satisfied thus far; he praises the country very much and pities the faults and failings of the people very much. It is not strange that people become reckless when they do not profess their faith, so much the more as every one has thus far been without admonition. I hope that the Lord God will bless his ministry there in such a way that it may not only bear many fold fruit among the Christians but also lead the blind heathen to the fold of our Saviour Jesus Christ and by the fulness of His mercy include even those who are thus far estranged. Vale.

Adriaen van der donck, in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

This 9th of March 1643, in Amsterdam

<sup>88</sup> On the occasion of this extraordinary ship and for fear that the one of the Company may be delayed, I can not refrain from communicating to you these lines in reply to three [letters] of yours, namely those of 7 September 1641, 21 June and 19 August 1642. Although in the memorandum<sup>89</sup> given to De Megapolensis (being at that time, through haste, prevented from writing to every one in particular, [though] I intended to do so) I put several things for the maintenance of harmony and good order among the heads of the colony, for which I had occasion on the one hand and to which I was urged on the other, and although I intended to wait what the effect thereof would be, I can not refrain, since I notice your sensitiveness (in that of the 19th of August, confusing the matter of Arent van Corler with that of maurits Jansen), from revealing you mine also; it is not blood only which I have had in view, as I value the carrying out of my commission and instructions as well as my advantage and profit far above blood, which on account of the distant degree [of relationship] is pretty cold and would have to be much nearer to me before I should feel it as keenly as your honor pleases to write. From the beginning maurits Jansen has done nothing but dispute with me without obeying; such conduct I have as yet not noticed in Arent van Corler. That he keeps me waiting by [not] sending books and accounts is for him to explain and the harder to justify if he should have exceeded his commission. What pleases me now in you is the zeal and diligence which I notice in your honor in expediting several matters and especially the matter of Piter Cornelisse and Cornelis teunissen, regarding which, as van Corler advises me in a hasty and brief appendix to his last letter, an agreement has been reached; I hope they will not abuse their powers. I have no objection to the letting of the contract for the houses except that the price runs too far above the specifications and prices here in this country, of which I still have some from de Vos. It displeases me greatly, however, that without the consent of the commissioners<sup>90</sup> you have chosen a place so remote from where I intended and instructed you to settle, also, that complaints have been made to me that from the beginning you have acted not as officer but as director, respecting which I had more confidence in your honor's prudence and had expected more from your patience so that instead of procuring a premature advancement you would have given me time to find out by experience and to have the honor of the advancement myself,<sup>91</sup> for be assured that not importunity but well doing and this not in words but in deeds and in experience will constitute the supreme law in the matter. I beg your honor, show me in what way I could have advanced you more than I have. If, instead of smoking your own net<sup>92</sup> you had advised me, article for article, what you had done regarding each point of my instructions, which is the only means toward your honor's advancement and ought to be your sole object, it might have moved me to take fur- ther notice of your honor's person;<sup>93</sup> this serves therefore here to recommend such course again most strongly to you and to command it in all seriousness. If anything has happened of which I do not know, it should appear to me from a resolution, or from advices, or from actual results, and none of the three can I find. If these matters have been recorded in the minutes and the books are slow in coming, as they are, your honor could easily have made a brief extract therefrom or at least briefly have written me the substance thereof; for the execution of my instructions, I say it once more, is the sole object of the promotions I make.<sup>94</sup> The memorandum sent by De Megapolensis was for the most part drawn up because of your failure in the above, for your honor's letters make little mention [of things] touching your honor's commission and my instructions. On the contrary, I find therein a great freedom in charging me without reason with a number of things, namely, among others which will follow later,<sup>95</sup> that the council had no dignity. Answer: this is not strange for they never have had an able leader and I have therefore sent your honor to give them proper dignity among the people and whether they help you only with words when they are half drunk depends largely on your action in making proper protest against those who fail to perform their duty and sending me the copy.

If the intentions of Corler were good but he knew more of commerce than of government, all that is needed is to instruct him well, which is properly your work, but in the way of command rather than of information.

The subtlety of pieter Cornelissen and the laxity of Cornelis teunissen give you cause to spur on the latter and to match cleverness with cleverness in the case of the former, in which you have acquitted yourself well.

As to the willingness of Broer Cornelis to give tithes provided he be allowed to seed the farm once more after the expiration of his term, but the refusal of himself and every one else to recognize the right of preemption, while these people when their lease has expired may express such determination and force me, I do not see on what right they base that action nor that your honor could not with justice eject them from their farms and in case of opposition make a strong protest against them. I shall never lack master farmers but rather servants who if things go this way can become masters.

Your two propositions to send a minister and yearly 100 duffels have been complied with, but the third, to send yearly f15,000 worth of merchandise, I can not understand; the whole revenue of the colony is not worth enough to pay that unless the people were to take from me on account only and never pay me; you will therefore explain it somewhat further to me.

I have never claimed the right of preemption by virtue of authority but by virtue of the contract made with Gerrit de reus or those offered to them after the expiration of their leases and I insist that all the grain and other products must get into the hands of the patroon or his agents,<sup>96</sup> in order to conduct the sale and shipment in an orderly manner.

That I give cause for a good deal of discontent by words used in my letter sent by den eycken boom has no foundation, for, aside from the fact that such words are written to my commissioners who must treat them with discretion and silence, they were written in great fairness and justness. How could those who refuse to pay what they owe me under contract, constrain me to grant what I neither owe them nor have promised them, especially those who if they know where to get but one penny more for their goods pass by my agents and my goods, as they do frequently? What I do in these matters is more a question of favor than of contract or promise; let them show me any sign of either. And that they threaten me with leaving, proceeds from impudence; let them fulfil what they have promised and when they have done that, they may request permission to leave; even if there were some 25 of those threateners less, things would go all the better, but still that does not give them consent from me to leave and they would be forced to account if they had means, for who of those threateners brought anything with him and who has not had it better in the colony than at the place which he left?

I wish that I knew the names of those impertinent fellows individually, I could then regulate this matter better. Therefore, in the future, do not advise me of general but of specific matters with the names of the persons, their claims and the reasons that may be advanced to the contrary. I shall some day when I have sufficient documents call in a higher and stronger hand, who will then no doubt make an example of some of them. If they hang together, try to separate them, and pick out the bellwethers, count them in blanco<sup>97</sup> and proceed against them according to each one's deserts, for it is not my intention to do any one an injustice. That the goods are purchased too high and that bad faith is practised in the matter of the invoice is calumny on their part and wrongly alleged by you; if any one has said such a thing, it is your express duty to bring him before the court to make him furnish proof or keep quiet; it can not be done by mere talk. That all purchases should be at the same price, that even the times should cause no change therein, is unreasonable and impracticable. As far as I am concerned, I buy with ready money and I even give 1% commission to buy at first hand and never placed a fixed price on any goods;<sup>98</sup> your honor does very wrong in reporting this matter to me without naming the man who says so, what is more, without even making complaint thereof against him, for I have no one nearer than yourself. Furthermore, I am not bound to do it,<sup>99</sup> unless it were for ryer Stoffelssen, the smith, who has contracted with me about it and on such basis, but of any such contracts with others I know nothing. Such people do nothing but slander their voluntary benefactor whereby they will close his hand and then feel to what a state they have brought themselves. Whereas I have been inclined to have a large number of people in my colony, I become disgusted with it, seeing that the greater the amount the worse the bargain and the better I regulate everything the more every one looks out for himself, from which disorder proceeds. If the people make one another believe that the sending of the goods and the fixing of the prices at 5%<sup>1</sup> above the invoice price is stipulated by contract, they are far from right, as must appear from the contracts. I have not taken such things upon me; I have indeed followed the custom as to borrowed money but not as to the goods, of which I can regulate the profit as I please.<sup>2</sup> Should I have to bind myself also as to the prices where the West India Company tries to charge me for freight and duties three times as much as I owe them? The rights which the Company promised me would first have to be settled with their director or with themselves before my people, whom I have promised nothing, would have a right to open their mouths against me. They argue from false maxims and principles; and in order that you may know of everything, you must make copies of everything and act upon written documents and not upon oral statements.

It is surprising that you write me again in a general way in regard to Piter Cornelissen, that he tries to distort my writings; some day take up a special point, introduce it in proper form in the council and see whether the conclusion of the entire council or of the majority of the votes will be in his favor or put him in the wrong, and notify me of the actions of those who behave badly, making public protest against them, for your honor knows what is right and what is not right. The reason that your honor can not force the removal of broer Cornelis from the council is that they might seek to degrade yourself, as it would be exceeding your instructions in case they upheld [him];<sup>3</sup> therefore use caution, prefer your charges in writing if they sustain [him], let them properly debate and conclude and send me the decision with advice as to those who judge with partiality; you have done well in so far as you have maintained the true sense and meaning of my instructions, in which I shall also support your honor to the utmost when I know the true state of the case and whereupon every point turns, for in dealing with matters at large no solution can be found. Therefore, some time, get hold of somebody who proposes such wanton impertinence and insults or slanders and proceed against him as stated above; you will then learn what I shall do therein if the matter duly merits it and is of any consequence and what thanks and benefit you will derive therefrom, especially if you follow exactly the oath which you have taken and keep yourself free from censure, for one who is guilty himself has no right to accuse any one else, no right whatever even though it were a contrary or entirely different accusation.

I have no advice that Curler was to pay Labatie f20 a month, nor can I understand why he should do so before his term has expired, and thereafter I do not know what the object is. I recognize no improvements but those which take place with my consent and timely knowledge beforehand. I consent that you establish your farm at the south end of the West Island, where brant peelen lives. In that way you will be within easy reach and near the church neighborhood.<sup>4</sup> The island contains in all 136 measured morgens, according to the measurement of the surveyor Creijn fredricksen, and I hope that this winter you will have found better accommodations than the preceding. Your principal fault has been that you have wanted to prevail over corler and that you have gone ahead too independently in some matters without recognizing his proper rank, consisting not in that he is my cousin but in his representative character<sup>5</sup> according to his previous instructions. Again, he writes me in a general way that others have to a useless degree what their hearts desire and their mouths crave; if there is any superfluity or useless expense, advise me of it, I have no knowledge of it. It is your duty to seek my advantage and protect me against loss; seek a remedy and if they will not apply it, protest and advise, even if it be against arent and the whole council, but rightfully and without passion and in course of time your service will exceed that of all others and give me more chance for taking favorable notice of you. You can learn the measure of their duty and power from their commission as they can yours; keep them to their duty and perform yours, but each in his own sphere, you as prosecutor and they as arbiters or judges. If they arbitrate or decide unjustly, send me the documents. What displeases me most in you and what is quite the contrary of what I had expected of you is that you bring forward a great many charges and do not show me a single legal procedure against any of them, for legal practice does not consist of discourses or words but of formal and judicial actions and procedures.<sup>6</sup>

If there is any one who injures or wrongs my person or goods, investigate who the man is, make him own up, force him to show proof and convict him according to law. If you lack documents, write me and I will send them. For I know myself innocent in everything and all things and seek to wrong no one, so that you may without hesitation defend my rights. Those formal excuses not to challenge any one's knowledge or to hurt any one in his station are unnecessary if your actions proceed from an honest heart, influenced not by ambition but by a desire to remedy, for the saying Rectafaciendo neminem Timeas<sup>6</sup> ought to be the motto constantly before all officers. You have clearly pointed out [the mistake], which I am also anxious to remedy and which I have felt in the losses suffered by me though I have received no books or accounts covering the subject, namely, of using so many perishable boards which will cost nearly as much as hard and permanent bricks; consequently, that I have urgent need of a good brick-maker. If I hear of any one from your honor's parents I shall devise such means in the matter that it will not be without profit to you but to accept everything indefinitely as to number, quality and prices as the Company does, does not seem advisable to me; I can not follow in their footsteps. I have tried for a long time to get one and if I succeed, I shall take care of your profit in the matter also; and while I am on this subject, now that Pieter Cornelissen has accepted my conditions, his subtlety should be carefully watched that he does not cheat me or burden me by furnishing a superfluous number of boards. I ought to get along yearly with my portion without buying from him. Advise hereof also others to whom the care of this matter is committed, not for the sake of the honor of each one's respective charge, but for my best interest. If you can suggest any improvements to my advantage in what others do, propose it to them; if they follow you, you may expect thanks from me; if not, serve notice where it belongs, and if they do not follow your advice then, you put me under obligations to promote you and you also condemn their incapacity. Your instructions give you power, not to compel obedience but only to make representations in my interest and the words in your oath, to seek in everything my advantage and to protect me from loss,<sup>7</sup> give you the power and make it your duty; but the enforcement of your proposals is not entrusted to your honor. Your power consists in making representations and in case of refusal in protesting; if you had been satisfied with this from the beginning, you would have put me under greater obligations, convinced them [of their incapacity?] in case of refusal and shown yourself capable of executing what others refuse; I am not without suspicion that you have indulged ambition too much, from which much harm has come to your and my damage: he who goes slowly gets farther than he who runs fast.

smith, without revealing your plan to him, as to whether he could get along with such coal and about the quantity and the price for which he would agree to take it. I shall inquire then more closely in regard to this matter of the coal carriers here and it being advantageous shall have your profit in view. Your advice as to the brewing of beer came too late, as Evert pels had contracted with me. As to the sawmill and the grist-mill, as they must be managed these four years by me or by my order, pieter Cornelissen having had the management for the first four years, it ought to be arranged in this way, in order to have no dispute about the price of the boards, that I shall furnish him in my time as many boards as he furnished me in his time, which he may sell to best advantage or deliver to me if I need them at the price fixed in the new contract concerning the two mills; and as to the cutting of the wood, the hauling to the mill and the sawing of the boards, the price of each must be fixed separately, either by bids [giving the work to the one] who will take it at the lowest price, or by yearly wages, according as is most profitable to me. About the grinding of grain an ordinance must be passed, with a fine for the miller if he does not comply with the ordinance. A price must be set for the grinding and the same be divided into three parts, a third for the patroon, a third for the mill and a third for the miller, but if the miller should not be able to get along with the third in credit,<sup>8</sup> a certain measure of meal or grain of each mudde might be granted him, and in order that the mill might pay better, it would be well not to allow any unground grain to be carried out of the colony, which ought to be duly seen to. Of these two things, namely the saw and grist-mill, I give you during the aforesaid years the entire disposal, because you proposed it to me first; however, you must do nothing without the knowledge of the council, the final decision, such as you will care to be responsible for to me or to my commissioners,<sup>9</sup> resting with you. And herein I shall test your power of management, namely, by seeing how far this proves profitable to me, and in order that you may act with the more energy, I grant you the following emoluments: first in the grinding of grain, half of the above mentioned patroon's third part; and just as in the case of the grain, so of the tenth of the boards that I am to receive, I grant you half, that is every twentieth board, provided that due account is rendered of the other half of the boards as well as of the above mentioned charges for grinding by wind or water.<sup>10</sup> Herein is not included the sawmill of Pieter Cornelissen, about which I have made other arrangements; if you acquit yourself well in this matter I shall be mindful of further benefits for yourself. The administration, of which you write that I have divided it into seven parts, has reference only to judicial and criminal matters between individuals, since matters relating to my prerogative belong properly to such persons as are especially charged with any matter and in general to the management of the commissioners of the patroon to the exclusion of the four councilors who are not commissioners,<sup>11</sup> and by virtue of your honor's special instructions, as also by virtue of the clause contained in your oath, in everything to protect me from loss and to seek my advantage, you have general power of proposition if the same matters have not already been proposed by the commissioners, by the council or by private individuals. You have the care but also the fees of one thing and another for your office extends to and includes, so long as nothing special is done in the matter, the powers of a fiscal or prosecutor as to all matters that injure the patroon, whether in his person, in his rights or in his profit and gain. Pieter Cornē has no more power in the matter than my documents give him, the interpretation of which does not belong to him but to me; for the rest mention no more what people have to say, for it is childish to pester me therewith; things are put in writing to kill all assertion and contradiction, therefore, let him who has anything to say prove it by contracts or [some document under] my hand, the rest is but cackle and useless talk. If all words and discourses were contracts, and that even on the report of one side [only], work would never be done. As to my complaint that the people there work so little, would it be right if I were content with that and if I let them off when they do but half the work? Each servant must satisfy his master who commands him, the work being left not to the discretion of the servant but to the discretion of the master whom he must satisfy and obey, and those who would like to do but half the work, should also receive but half the pay and also eat but half as much; if one should compare the work of the farmers in the Vcluzve<sup>12</sup> with the work there, I take it that [he would find that] most of the cacklers do but half as much work. That all grave complaints of great importance must be made after communicating and advising with the commissioners is not with a view to curtailing the power of the officer but in order to prepare the work better. Coming now to the administration of the law, if the commissioners have refused to entertain any of your complaints, protest against it and send the complaints to me, for the rest it is but Lucifer's strife. It is an outrageous thing that the farmers in order to defraud and cheat their lord themselves, refuse to take the oath for their servants, alleging the knavery of their servants as the objection to their oath, when as a matter of fact their only purpose is to keep open the opportunity for their own deceit under cover of the knavery of the servants whom they do not wish nor dare to punish as they are guilty themselves, perhaps of more than they charge their servants with. It would be outrageous if the master had to take an absolute oath for his servant; such is not the intention of the patroon, the oath requested being absolute, it is true, as far as they themselves are concerned, but with regard to their servants and family reaching no farther than it is possible for them to go nor beyond what comes to their knowledge, for otherwise [it is unlawful and] under cover of their servants they themselves commit the greatest fraud. I request therefore that they shall take such oath; by refusing, they will make me suspicious of fraud and be guilty of pure rashness and disobedience. And if you have no basis or argument by which to defend this oath from a legal point of view, I will send you sufficient opinions of jurists, and when you have sufficient arguments, convince them and make protest against the unwilling. To find a man who should have absolute power to direct has never been and will never be my intention and [although] there are some countries where the sovereigns themselves have such power, in all well regulated governments distinction is made, some persons having charge of justice, others of government, others of military matters and others of commerce; that too is my intention exactly. Justice, consisting of well defined rights, I have assigned to the three commissioners and the four councilors of whom the officer occupies the first place in making complaints and propositions, as said several times. Government, having its origin in the paternal powers of parents over their children, I have assigned to the three commissioners of the patroon to the exclusion of the four other councilors, who have nothing to say about it, unless the first, having difficulty in solving some important matter, wish to call the four to their aid; of these three Arent van Corler occupies the first place; their duties concern the rights of the patroon, his special profits and the affairs of the country [colony] in general, as for example, to turn from a less important to a more important instance, the States of Holland have business distinct from the courts of justice, so that the business of the three commissioners is quite different from that of the seven, among whom are included the four councilors as explained above. The military, as long as it is unnecessary (or if unduly strong, when you can not do without it), I consider as having no foundation in the law of God, and only the greatest need must call for it. Commerce I have committed to those to whom I send my goods. From none of these is the officer excluded but, as said repeatedly, his duty to protect me from loss and to seek my advantage gives him the power to make representations and complaints, nothing that affects my rights and profits excepted. The minutes which you mention would afford me great relief; if sending does not rest absolutely with you, I recommend you to take pains to procure them. Copies of matters which concern you can not be refused you, at least you could have given me some idea as to the substance. By commission you surely have the right to exercise the powers of chief officer<sup>13</sup> if necessity demands it; and if not required you have no business to do so, unless it be again Lucifer's strife. You ought to know better than to think that I would write such things to P<sup>ter</sup> Cornelisse; if necessity requires to constrain him, he may see what exception he can find, he will then find the authority over him absolute enough. I am trying to get a man for your assistance; no one who has any ability will accept the terms, so that one can induce none but rough fellows<sup>14</sup> thereto. One has been recommended to me and has also called on me, but I am very much in doubt and fear that he will cause more disorder than order, being a rough and strong fellow who would be quite serviceable to you if he were disciplined a little better. If I should accept him and he disobey you or rebel against you, or give offense by drunkenness or other scandalous living you may send him back at once as he must stand under your absolute control. I am almost thinking of asking some of the negroes (with consent of the honorable Director kieft) or even to employ for your assistance some Indian of good courage and obedience who could then also be of service to you in other things. The management must be in your hands and these people must be used almost as brute forces against malevolents. One should be enough, for justice must be executed not by force but by intelligence. I also want you to consider whether or not some one in the colony, who has become so deeply indebted to me that there is no appearance of his ever being able to pay me, could be persuaded or commanded to take that office. It is not proper for you and you far exceed your bounden duty in criticizing my administration and this once more on slanderous statements that I am sending informers into the country and that I place a confidence in them that is both blind and deaf.<sup>15</sup> Surely, you do not increase thereby the faith I have in you, but diminish it; no one has a right to complain before he suffers. I shall account for my actions to those to whom such account is due and be you careful to do as much for me as I do for you. If it were true that I am not watching the least of my officers and agents<sup>16</sup> as much as I do the highest, I should not be worthy of the name of lord or patroon of my colony; a prudent and vigilant captain divides his officers over several guardposts, but none of them all would dare to censure him that in addition he has some one make the rounds; how much less proper is it for you to reproach me with what you have neither been informed of nor felt? Do you not think that the looking after my people at such a distant place involves a great deal more care and danger for me than if I were near at hand? Should you not rather give proof and taste of your good service and thereby confirm the faith I have in you, instead of reproaching, hindering, worrying and accusing me at an untimely moment and of presenting to me your supposed unhappiness? Do you want me to trust you whether you do good or wrong, or do you imagine that you can do no wrong? For if you can, it is my business to look out for it and you must not prescribe the manner in which I shall do it. When harm is done to you through my action, only then is it time to speak; you know no doubt the saying that excuses lead to accusation<sup>17</sup> and that no one ought to accuse or to excuse himself before it is time, also that no one ought to praise or blame himself but that the works must crown the master; this is enough about this matter; do well, fear no one.

The greatest and most important reason for help I consider the necessity of keeping the traders from outside out of the colony and of preventing communication with them except in the manner set forth in the sixth article of your instructions, for many private individuals are already going thither from here mainly for that purpose; therefore, because you lay so much stress on the objection of the farmers to take the oath for their servants, I beg of you to consider with sober judgment whether this is not calculated to raise more suspicion of wrong than I could give you by sending thither some informers; to be frank,<sup>18</sup> the object of all New Netherland traders is, indirectly, to destroy the privilege of the fur trade which belongs to me and which costs me dear enough and to use my agents whom I must support as cat's-paws to rake the chestnuts out of the fire. Therefore the only way by which you can seek my advantage and yours is by discovering the pretexts which are used in the name of the West India Company and by preventing the frauds with my inhabitants, masters or servants, whomever it may be, and it is for that reason that I have taken it so ill that (prejudicial to this object) you had planned your farm so far away, at the extreme end,<sup>19</sup> therefore, sometime in the future let me know what progress you have made herein; and as to Corler, whom your honor wants to convince me that I have appointed as director, that is not true, for to represent somebody in case of need is quite different from being at all times the man himself. What I have done, I have done to forestall all ambition and to preserve my own right of disposal, for I have written several times that I keep the directorship open; nor shall I lightly dispose of it either, unless I be better informed and have other proof, and if, in opposition to you, pieter Corné has in this sense understood the chief officership his contention is closer to your instructions than your opinion, for according to your opinion, I should have no right to appoint another director over the colony, or take another chief officer, except after discharging Corler in the one [capacity] and you in the other. I have conferred this representative character on you both in case of need, in order that no one could in any way plead exception, but I have not absolutely committed myself as to [the appointments]; also, as I have said, to represent some one is not to be the man himself. I do not know why on the one side you lay before me the dispute of Pr Cornelissen and on the other settle that of Corler; you would have done well to take the matter as it is, at all events, [in mentioning it] to me who know better. I say frankly, if your desire inclines to high office, your efforts will be directed more toward your own advancement than toward my advantage. However, I trust that you will observe your oath, my instructions and advices; but time will show. They are nothing but spiteful words which you use about hating and liking; you should first have proof thereof. If you have imagined that you can extort the directorship from me, you will be much deceived, for that is not the way to get it. Do you think also that you had reason to break off your last letter so abruptly because you received no letter from me; furthermore, to show me my duty to write in good time? If you had written in good time on the 16th of June 1642, and not put it off till the 21st, I should not have had to content myself with a few lines, for a whole year; as time slipped away from me on Pinkster day, when the wind began to blow and the same day De Megopolensis was urged<sup>20</sup> to sail for the Texel, you have been without letter also. Was the memorandum sent by De Megapolensis not addressed to your honor also, in which in addition to your instructions and commission you should find sufficient material and topics that reports thereon ought to fill many pages and give you plenty of work of which I ought to hear the effect? If you act contrary to me, I can not help it; I mean it well with you, but you will have to adjust yourself to me, and not I to you, though I am glad to hear of objections, if they are made with reason, without passion, without ambition, and without selfishness. Your honor's goods sent by your father I have forwarded and sent over as my own; I hope that later they reached you safely. Here-with goes another from your father which I received today, being the 13th of March. If my letter is somewhat prolix and badly arranged, it is because I have for four days been many times interrupted and have not been able to make good connections between the parts. Vale.

March 13, 1643

Johannes megapolensis, in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

13 March 1643, in Amsterdam

Pastor of Jesus Christ in my colony. Passing by your reverence's letter dated 14 June 1642 from the Texel, pausing at that of the 8th of August following from Fort Amsterdam at the manhatans and sitting down to that of the 19th of August from the colony of Rensselaerswyck, I shall take advantage of this extraordinary opportunity<sup>22</sup> and reply to one and all. On the 16th of July, two days after your reverence sailed, I had the f1000 insured; I paid the premium of f50 and have the policy in my possession. I received the list of the people that went over; the drunken fellow who fell in the mud will no doubt have dried on the way and he had a profitable fall if together with the dirt and mud he rid himself of the evil of drunkenness.

We did not fail to join our daily prayers with yours, nor do we fail to continue therein, hoping that as the Lord our God has been your leader and given you a happy and speedy voyage, he will also bless the purpose which I thereby have in mind, extending His blessing over yourself, your wife and family, especially to make your reverence a blessed instrument in His service to establish there a church and community both among the Christians and the blind heathen; for the Christians, that they may see the day of their holy baptism and confession and practise righteousness more and more; for the heathen who live among and about us, that their stony hearts may be softened, their blind eyes opened and their deaf ears unstopped by the power of the Holy Ghost, in order that they may see and understand the wonders of His law, recognize their sins and His grace and that they may be brought to the fold of Jesus Christ and go among other heathen bringing forth righteous fruits of confession and gratitude. Amen.

I have been exceedingly glad about your speedy and happy voyage, the journal of which I communicated to several brethren of the consistory, particularly to Laurentius<sup>23</sup> and Wittevrongelius<sup>24</sup> who send your reverence hearty greetings, the latter especially renewing them again the day before yesterday. I noticed what your reverence did at the manhatans and your diligence in reaching the place of your destination, also your opinion as to the excellence of the country and the faults of the inhabitants who are to be pitied and made better. The Lord our God will not fail to bless the good example, good manners, work in season and out of season, diligent prayers and continuous patience. If it does not show much in the beginning, the Lord will crown the end; His word will not be spoken in vain or return unto Him void.

The affidavit concerning your reverence's service on board is in my possession but your best chances of success do not lie in working through me, as your reverence knows from experience while here; if any one of your family comes here, I shall try to instruct him and consider with him how we can best set about it. I fear that it will turn out like the case of the farmer's discretion about which you told us here. I should be especially pleased to hear that your reverence had found freedom and comfort in a suitable house according to the situation of the country. It is a pity that the carpenter from Leyden<sup>25</sup> behaved so badly, having left his wife and shamefully deceived me by saying that he was a widower. The poor woman whom he left here in great poverty with two small children complains to me daily. Would that God might touch his heart, so that he would change his conduct, leave off drinking and work diligently; he could then prosper so much that he could have his wife and children come over or at least send them some of his savings. If admonition does not help, communicate the matter to the officer and council, urging them to show him that he is in a place where godless people can be punished by such means as seem most suitable to them, for there is no lack of such means if they are willing and united. If he is an example of vice, a man who leaves his wife and children, lives a godless, reckless, drunken and lazy life, let him be punished as an example; but if your reverence can gain anything by words and admonition, such punishment is unnecessary. I am advised by others also about the expensive house of Arent van Corler; tell him in my name that I know it and that he must remedy it. He must not keep the pace of Director kieft, which I can not follow. Represent to him that as he has my favor he ought to retain it; that he need not spare the people at my expense and that he must not wait long before sending over my books and accounts. He puts a heavy load and responsibility upon himself these many years, during which I have not seen what profit has been made on my goods and how they have been distributed and managed, and makes me fear exceedingly that he may have done many things contrary to my advantage and will, whereas if I had had the books and accounts, I might have made other arrangements in time which might now come too late. Exhort the officer also in my name to be humble, for he shows many signs of ambition. Do not hesitate in private conversation to tell him of his faults and others of theirs; you will thereby keep your conscience clear, render an agreeable service to God and duly perform your duty, and I trust that your reverence shall manage things so prudently that their respective offices shall not lose in dignity. I am pleased to hear that Director kieft received my present gratefully, which he also gave me to understand in his letter. What your reverence heard further about him must be accepted with caution; on the one hand your reverence may have been misinformed; on the other there is a great deal of jealousy encouraged by his principals beyond what might otherwise be expected from common characters,<sup>26</sup> so that the experience will no doubt have made you wiser. Confer some time with Antonie de hooge, who spent winter before last at the Manhatans, and extract the quintessence of his discourse. I imagine that the substance will not be favorable to the colony and that under a polite pretext it will serve to prepare for unfavorable judgment; for instance I take it that broer Cornelis is the best man in his judgment, while in my opinion he is the worst one I have. That you do not find the people in the colony what we should both like them to be is apparently and without doubt due to the luxuriousness of the country,<sup>27</sup> the small number of people (for people usually fear more the opinions of others than the penetrating eye of the Lord), lack of a good pastor, the natural tendency towards evil and the fact that the best people seldom go so far across the sea. All this will give you cause for sorrow and diligence, patience and attention, in order with the Lord's blessing to make other people out of them. They will try in every way whether they can make you connive with them; they will, each with respect to his own affairs, know how to bring a great many charges against me; they will bring up wrong principles and make every effort to benefit themselves and to cheat me. Their willing offer of the tithes the very first day is not for my benefit but for yours in order to gain your favor; I have now tried it for many years but have discovered few people that have any conscience, though there are still some who I think are conscientious and if my opinion agreed with yours it would be a great touchstone of truth. I do not care for words, the deed must follow; those who do the finest talking before our faces are the very ones who stir up others behind our backs, so that I pray the Lord to grant you the spirit of wisdom and of prudence and discernment. As for myself I desire what is fair and just and what they have promised me by contracts and by word of mouth. With the papists they want to appeal to tradition and oral promises, which is all useless, for just because words are forgotten or can be twisted written instruments are made. As to the written instruments, they want to accept what serves their purpose and pass by the rest; they want to interpret them to their own advantage and to the disadvantage of the person to whom the interpretation belongs. I shall close this matter knowing that you have already had experience thereof. I am glad to hear that you secured lucas Smith from de bogardus; let me know whether it was worth while and what testimony is given of him by domine bogardus. While referring to the manhatans, as to the statements of kieft, let me know sometime what Corler has done to the people who married there about collecting the money advanced by me and the amount of their board and about their stipulated service. I can not readily believe that most the inhabitants of the colony are poor; their drunkenness and laziness prepares the way thereto, but I take it that as a rule they are better off than those at the manhatans. But if it were true, Corler should be advised thereof so as not to give them too much on credit. The quantity of wine which kieft has sent up the river has helped a good deal to bring this condition about. It is very necessary for you to urge that an ordinance be issued against excessive importation of wine and liquor into the colony, which cause the people not only, contrary to God's law, to burden their consciences, to render their persons unfit for work, to waste their time and to squander their money, but also and finally to resort to evil practices in order to pay for them and ultimately to become too poor to reimburse the patroon for what they owe him and what he has lent and debited to them in the way of board and clothing, so that they are forced to produce strange exceptions and arguments for, according to the saying, an empty purse makes a desperate mind.<sup>28</sup> And as to vanderdonck, I am surprised; if what you write me that you heard kieft say were true and not said in passion, he would not be worthy to live and would be unfit for his office. I guess that this must come from broer Cornelis; your reverence has a divine right and it is my bounden duty to God to investigate the truth of this statement. He complains that I send informers into the country but I make a pretty sharp reply to that. I send my letter to him open and enclosed in yours; you can say to him that I do this on purpose and that I have understood things to be as you write, without mentioning any one's name, and that in case it should be true I have given you orders not to hand him my letter and not to communicate the contents till further orders; this will cause him to justify himself or, in case he admits that any of these charges are true, to humble himself and reform, in which case you will be able to make a deep impression on his conscience. If he reforms and a beginning is thus made with the superior officers who hold commission from me, the others will begin to reflect. Carefully examine my letter to him and read it before you hand it to him and if you find the matter suitable you will greatly oblige him and he will greatly respect and uphold you<sup>29</sup>; and if it will do at all, or if he is innocent or promises to reform, hand him the letter, but at all events give him the letter from his father; if you do your full duty according to the word of God, whereto I shall add my authority, I have no doubt that by the Lord's blessing we shall make other people out of them even if I should have to discharge all those who lead a godless and reckless life and put others in their stead whenever the conduct is unmistakable, which if it is true that vanderdonck boasts of it, is clearly so in his case. (Here I must make a digression.) Having just come from the house of de Sommerius, whose eldest son has just died and is not yet buried and whose son in law is to be installed tomorrow as minister at Schage, he charged me though with a sorrowful heart to greet you most heartily from him. To return to the manhatans, as to the charge that Corler and de Hooges have taken to drinking, it ought to be carefully investigated whether they have become, one more and the other less, completely addicted thereto or whether they drink occasionally.

Tell Arent van Corler especially to show you in what shape his accounts and books are and whether they are in proper order to be sent to me, for if he delays doing this I shall make an entirely different arrangement, and tell him that I will not, will not, will not, be put off any longer; [ask him] if he is not ashamed not to have sent me any reports or accounts in all these years of the many thousands of guilders worth of merchandise which I have placed in his hands; all his good deeds can not balance the anxiety and delay which he has caused me. He ought to have done that every year and I shall not send another penny's worth of goods until I receive accounts and goods in return, even if the whole colony were to rise against him, so serious do I consider this matter. As Director kieft told you that the farmers sell their wheat secretly at f2 a schepel and cheat me, and as kieft also writes to me about it, I urgently request that his honor's men and mine may jointly devise means whereby all vessels which sail up and down the river may be inspected, both by his and my agents.<sup>30</sup> The Company is cheated out of its dues as much as I am cheated out of my profits and by helping each other care could be taken that no vessel, without proper pass from the director at the manhatans, could sail up the river without being confiscated, said vessel upon arriving in the colony being obliged to exhibit its pass and to allow its lading to be inspected by my agents as well as those of the Company at Fort Orange. Coming from above each vessel must also have a pass from the Company as well as from me or, with the exception of my own goods, be confiscated by the director upon its arrival at the manhatans or wherever it is discovered on the way. Let the director give orders to that effect to his fiscal and I to my officer, and also give orders to his soldiers in regard to the exemption, and not so much fraud will be practised. Communicate this also to Corler and vanderdonck, if they are not impeached, for much depends on this. I see also that Arent meanwhile supplies Director kieft without receiving payment, yes, even without advising me what he has supplied him with. I also hear that he has contributed some muddes of wheat toward the erection of the church at the manhatans. What orders has he to give away my goods in this fashion? I could use them very well for the erection of my own church. I hope that it is not true. These young people, like Arent and vanderdonck, do not think at all of my interests, each one thinks of his own advancement, especially vanderdonck. You must hold the helm of the vessel till it has started on a good course. For all that I have furnished the Company for 12 years I have not received a penny aside from the supplies for my people. In the year 1640 I adjusted my accounts with them and agreed that thereafter all business should be finally settled in that country, according to the enclosed authentic copy which I send your reverence. What has Arent done thereupon but just as much adjusted his accounts with the director as he sent accounts to me.<sup>31</sup> He sent supplies down from above without receiving goods in return, and kieft, who is probably too clever for him, calls his attention to accounts which are unfounded, as the Company asks three times more for freights and duties than I owe them according to my Freedoms. I have complained to kieft; he says that he must follow the orders of his masters. That is all right as far as his orders are concerned, but according to my Freedoms, given me by the Company itself and approved by the States General, of which vanderdonck has an authentic copy, kieft is directed to maintain these Freedoms for me. Now if he prefers to follow the orders from his masters to following those of the States General, let us settle that question here in this country. I will not pay them there what ought to be settled here and have decided that I do not want to have any merchantable grain and other goods furnished there to Director kieft in payment of disputed freight charges, duties, etc. But leaving aside the question of freight charges and duties, according to instructions of the Company he must promptly pay me in money, in merchandise or in furs for what I furnish him. I must also pay him in grain or other goods for what I receive from him and in this way we shall settle accounts. It is intolerable that Corler should furnish anything to kieft without receiving prompt payment for it there and it is also against the order of the Company to keep open accounts. If kieft wants to deduct from my grain such freight charges as I owe, I am satisfied; if not, let him advise his masters that they must make me pay here. I have enough evidence for my defense but do not want any grain to be furnished except upon receiving other goods in return in that country. This point is of the utmost concern to me. I hope that Mr kieft will be notified of this decision of mine and that I shall not have to run after the Company so many years more for payment for my merchantable grain. Please tell arent that I do not want to have the latest consignments, sent by Hooges and your reverence, sold or given out except for furs, but as to supplies of stockings and shoes, linen and wool, he may sell or give these to the people to whom I owe anything or who pay for the same with furs, grain or tobacco, for all this giving out on credit does not suit me. I expected a great many skins in return for the preceding consignments, as abraham staes and Maurits Jansen told me that a great many skins were then due to Arant and that he had also a great deal of seawan, to which must be added those that were not sent. I still have 1400 skins insured, of which the insurance was paid long ago. Let him send these first as soon as there is a ship and advise me as to the quantity which I can expect that I may govern myself accordingly with the insurance. I had 2000 skins insured for the year 1643, but as hooges remained at the Manhatans during the winter, I have returned and canceled [the insurance of] the said 2000 skins, so that at present there are only 1400 skins insured as aforesaid. Skins ought always to lie ready at the manhatans, so as to be sent whenever a ship sails. Hereafter many small vessels will come over and it ought to be seen to that he send some in each. As to the debts which Corler is said to have contracted at the manhatans and which he neglected to pay, this is a matter of evil consequence. Please find out from him how this is. Coming now to your reverence's experiences in the colony, I would go into this a little more fully, but as I have this day, the 16th of March, been told that the ship will sail from here tomorrow morning early, I shall contrary to my intention be obliged to break off, the preceding matter having taken too much of my time. I received the list of the commutation of the tithes by the farmers. The tobacco planters and others must do the same and in the future this must be looked after a little more closely, as otherwise things go irregularly. The collecting [of the tithes] of the grain must be carefully managed and I urge your reverence to see to it that the proceeds may be used in the most profitable way, without mixing them up with other accounts. I was pleased to hear that you delivered your first sermon on the 17th of August last in the storehouse<sup>32</sup> in the presence of about 100 persons. The Lord grant that their hearts be touched and their number increased. I am also glad to hear your opinion about the country and colony, that every year great profits may be expected therefrom if things go as they ought, and shall expect with much pleasure your advice and counsel as to the manner in which I may reach that point. I shall not fail to contribute thereto as much as is in my power and to discharge such people as are unserviceable to me if I can get better ones. Good people are few and far between and even if they are good they are easily corrupted there. If Corler should leave there, let him settle as many accounts as possible and turn over all papers, with an inventory thereof, to Anthonic de hooges, likewise all the merchandise, charging the said de hooghes to take good care of the latter. But if Corler does not leave, hold this order back till his departure occurs or till I issue another order. Every effort ought to be made to stop the excessive drinking and now that there is a public brewer<sup>33</sup> I hope that private brewing will cease. Some regulation might be made regarding the beer brewed by him, but as he has not taken a brew kettle with him I do not know what he is going to do. As to the evil rumors that Corler visits a certain woman in Fort Orange, this gives me much ground for serious reflection. If it is true you can as pastor admonish him to keep away from her in order to avoid all scandal and, if you think it necessary, also prohibit it in my name, especially if the substance of the suspicion proves true. In the preceding pages I have written enough about him, I shall also write him that he will learn from you the complaints against him and that he must reform in whatever respect he is delinquent or he will entirely lose my favor and his reputation among his friends and countrymen when he comes here, whereas he is otherwise on the way to honor and profit and a good marriage. It should be impressed upon him that everything depends upon the manner in which he serves me. As to his extravagance in office, he must remedy this also; I have written above at length about this; if he found such bad practices, he need not follow them. I do not believe that jacob planck was so extravagant; the account which he rendered me does not indicate this as he was obliged to pay for his own board, so that he [Corler] did not find that custom there but made it himself. If Corler had sent me my accounts I could see whether the yacht which lay idle for so many days was charged to me or not. Now I can not tell. Is that not a wretched state of affairs? Let me know what he gives the people to eat and where he gets the food and at what price. At the present rate he might consume the entire revenue of the colony, which is still small. I hope that Anthonic de Hooges will conduct himself well. What I fear most for him is that he may become addicted to drink, against which he must be strongly warned. His sweetheart here, Anneken Sprom, married at Campen, so that he need not wait for her any longer. I have sometimes thought that his thoughts were too much concentrated on her and that he liked the country less on that account. You might tell him this when there is an opportunity or have somebody else tell him in order that he may be at ease, and especially warn him to abstain from strong drink and women. I understand that he says that he is little respected; let him behave well and have patience and he will be advanced in due time. One must first suffer before one can enjoy. I am sorry that the vine shoots died; make some effort to get a few plants from manhatans and to propagate them where you are. You write me that there is plenty of land and animals to establish some new farms. I am surprised that no people have come to me from the noorder quartier,<sup>34</sup> there have been two from sevenberger lant<sup>35</sup> but I have put them off till the next ship. If the carpenters could manage it, a farmhouse or two might be erected in convenient places, in preparation for the coming of these people. I am glad to hear that the lumber intended for the ferry house will be used for your dwelling. I hope that it will be speedily built and that the carpenter from Leyden<sup>36</sup> may have repented and reformed. Your recommendation as to women for the colony, I follow as well as I can. Several of them were detained at the manhatans, where they settled down at once. They should be strictly proceeded against in conformity with their contracts and my Freedoms. The farmers from breda have already several daughters and by and by these will come in handy. Everything can not be perfect from the first but things will improve gradually. My children are still too young and inexperienced to send any of them thither, but I hope that this can be done by and by. Meanwhile I recommend to you to do the best you can by admonition and instruction and especially to state in your reply to the suggestions made by me what measures have followed them, what the results has been and what further had best be done and undertaken; also give me particulars as to the farms which could be erected, namely, how many and where room could be found for them. Wherewith ending, I commend your reverence

Oloff Stevensen, in New Netherland at the Manhatans

On account of lack of time I can not write you at length nor answer yours of the 10th of September last. This will tell you briefly that I thank you very much for the accommodations provided for my servant Anthonie de hooges. I do not doubt but he himself before his departure, or my cousin Arent van Corler after his departure paid and settled for everything that he ate or drank. I thank you also for the present offered to my daughter Maria; that was unnecessary and it is entirely against my habit to accept any presents. As to what you ask of me, I shall take care that your money is well invested according to your suggestions. Send your accounts to my nephew Wouter van Twiller, who three months ago married here a young woman maria Momma, well connected and of means. He will collect the money and then I shall see to it that it is profitably invested for you.

I congratulate you also upon your marriage, which may the Lord bless to His glory and to the happiness and contentment of both of you. Please to recommend and to urge that the enclosed letters, under cover to the Hon. Director Kieft, be sent to the colony by his honor in the safest way and at the earliest opportunity. I am not pleased to hear that the trade is spoiled so. Let me know your opinion as to the cause of it and whether it can not be remedied. I fear that the arrival of so many Englishmen will later give trouble. The Lord grant that it may turn out better.

Write me your opinion of the colony, in what way you think the greatest profit may be derived therefrom, and how the people conduct themselves, especially the officers. I shall keep your advice secret. Vale.

March 16, 1643

This 16th of March 1643, in Amsterdam

I find that I have several letters from you, among others that of the 17th of September 1642. I must answer briefly, as the supercargo of this private vessel in which I have neither goods nor people wants to leave tomorrow morning early. I only commend to you hereby the forwarding of the enclosed letters to the colony to De Megapolensis, in whose name, as well as in my own, I heartily thank your honor for the help and assistance given his reverence on his arrival and for his voyage up the river; I shall leave the principal matters till the sailing of the Company's ship, though it is still uncertain not only when it will sail but even whether they will send any ship this year. I think they will. The Assembly of the XIX will meet in a few days to consider the whole question of equipment; I hope that they will then also establish the freedoms of New Netherland on a definite basis. There are many heads, and opinions differ. Some go on the principle of commerce; others, though fewer, on the principle of colonization. It is to be hoped that these two principles may be neither mixed nor separated but combined. According to my opinion they will not improve the first [freedoms] much. If they left the clause relating to colonization in force and raised the duty somewhat on commerce in other quarters the country there would by and by flourish, which is of the greatest importance to me. Thus far, however, I have not been able to find out anything about it. My people have thus far not observed proper order in the administration but have thrown my instructions in a corner and they have mainly studied their own benefit and advancement. I hope that the said megapolensis by Christian admonition will produce some improvement in their conduct and behavior and also cause them to keep in mind and follow my instructions. In the enclosed letters, which for certain reasons I put under cover addressed to the minister, I write about various things which must be arranged with your honor, especially about proper regulation of the sailing up and down of the vessel by which the Company is so shamefully cheated out of its dues and I out of my profit and about the freight charges and duties which are in dispute between me and the Company and have been referred here for settlement. Merchantable grain must be credited there against other merchantable goods and each time the balance paid by the one or the other in money, merchandise or furs, about which my cousin arent has been so neglectful that it is a shame. I hear from others of my people that 12 lasts of wheat were delivered to your honor but I learn neither from Arent nor any one else anything [more] about it. It goes again in the old way. That I, who bear all the expenses of my people, be paid in accounts for everything that they furnish your honor is contrary to the orders of the Company to settle all accounts there and I do not in the least intend to furnish merchantable grain for the payment of freight and duties for which they charge me three times as much as I owe them. If the Company will not transport my goods for what I owe them they may leave them and force me to send ships myself. But when they have my goods in the storehouse, then to fix freight and duties as they please and to make me pay them in merchantable grain from my colony is unreasonable. On such conditions I do not want to furnish any more and if Arent van Corler had understood his business, he would, even according to the orders of the Company, not have furnished wheat wildly but for cash or bills of exchange. I do not find that he has ever said or done anything against your honor's fixing everything to the interests of the Company and in this way I never get a penny for all the grain I furnish. The Company knows very well that they have no right to ask this of me; therefore, they send an order to your honor and you must follow it, but my people ought not to have agreed to it nor thereupon to have furnished grain wholesale; this ought therefore to be remedied. The rest I must postpone till later; only I can not omit telling you that my nephew Wouter van Twiller married here three months ago, a young woman of respectable family of means, so that his voyage to New Netherland has had a good result. I understand that your honor intends to come over some time this year and I learn from others that your honor has some of my merchandise which I bought from lopes. If this is so, I shall be glad to give it to your honor at the most reasonable price. Vale.

P. S.

Willem Kieft

The owners of this ship have in the presence of supercargo Willem turck promised me to bring me home some cases of furs in case your honor has any there from Corler or my people on condition that I pay the freight. Do me the kindness to send them to me with the bill of lading and, if there is time, to advise Arent van Corler thereof. I understand that there are brickmakers amongst the English on the Fresh River and that Jan Evertsen bout gave them an order for some bricks. If that succeeded all right and if the wages are not too high, I should like to contract with them for some hundreds of thousands, as there is fine clay in the colony for that purpose. Excuse me that I ask so much of and trouble your honor so much.<sup>39</sup>

Arent Van Corler in New Netherland

This 16th of March 1643, in Amsterdam

I am in receipt of your letters of the 18th and 26th of August, hastily written at the manhatans, to which I can not properly reply on account of my annoyance that last year you did not send me any accounts or books. You make me suspicious. You will learn of my dissatisfaction through Megapolensis, as I can write more calmly to him about such wrongs than to you. You know that since you left the country your father and now lately your uncle boldewyn have died and you would also make me pass away my life without knowing once, in all the years that you have been there, how you have administered my property. I have offered you help but you reply that you can manage it alone. I do not know what has become of the merchandise which I sent you; I do not know what the farms which are there cost me; I do not know what the house that you live in cost me; I do not know what you have eaten up or given away; I do not know whether or not you have kept proper record of all the consignments; I do not know how my account there stands with the Company, except that kieft, of his own accord, charges me on behalf of the Company for freight three times as much as I owe and for duty the same as others though for 10 years I do not have to pay any convoy charges on goods going thither; for the furs coming hither however I must pay one guilder here, each time, before I can get my skins. For this amount you furnish in advance wheat from the colony, which is as if I threw money into the water, for if I should furnish wheat in payment of such freight charges and duties I must be a fool and an idiot. You should have referred the duties and freight charges to me and not furnished any wheat except to settle a debt, for merchandise, furs or bills of exchange on the Company, according to my agreement with the Company of which I sent you a copy. Mr kieft knew how to protect the rights of his masters but you have protected the rights of your master like a child. I hoped from year to year that matters would improve and that some day I should get the accounts and books, but I do not get them and if meanwhile I should happen to die, as my children are still young and do not know the exact situation, I should lose everything. Yes, just lately, you have caused 12 lasts of wheat to be delivered and you do not even write me about it, let alone that you should send me bills of exchange or furs thereof. What must become of this? Do you want to ruin me and yourself and do you not think that you must answer for all that? Therefore, listen to and follow the advice which D<sup>e</sup> Mcgapolensis will give and read to you. Do not neglect your duty unless you want to make yourself the laughing-stock of all people. If the books and accounts are not entirely closed, or not even half closed, send them as they are. If you had done that long ago, I could have seen by them what your management was and have instructed and advised you. Now you pile it all on top of each other. The more I tried to advance you, the less information I received. In two of your last letters you write me that you have no skins, seawan or anything in stock, not of the last consignment which had not begun to be sold yet, but of the preceding consignment; you do not even write me what persons I am in debt to and who are in debt to me. In sum, for five years, which may mean life or death to a man of advanced years, I do not know what has happened in my name and on my behalf in such a far-off country and my long patience begins to change to impatience. You have now had charge of about f36000 worth of goods, at the purchase price here, of which I have not yet received a single account. Follow the advice of Domine Megapolensis and do not lightly reject the advice of hooges, although he is younger than you and not so experienced; I consider him an upright young man. If your charge is too heavy for you, you should have asked for help. To close this quarrel, make at once on receipt of this letter a list and inventory of all the merchandise and be especially careful that the duffels do not get damaged, wet or eaten by rats. Make also a list of the furs, seawan, debts to be paid and to be collected, in order that you may be ready when the ships arrive and send me some furs by each ship. There are still 1400 skins insured which I expected already last year in return for the goods sent by hooges. I want yearly to have accounts and returns or I shall entirely stop sending things. I notice that there are many stallions in the colony. It would have been better if some had been gelded while young, for so many stallions are too hard on the mares. From the letter written while among the mahicans I understand that the matter with p<sup>ter</sup> Cornelissen and Cornelis teunissen was settled. Let this agreement be carefully observed and the papers examined point for point, for p<sup>ter</sup> Cornelissen can easily say that the patroon's documents must not be taken literally but interpreted somewhat freely, so that care must be taken that he does not defraud me by furnishing me more than I need or poor stuff. I understand that vander donck will establish his farm at the south end of West Island, which is satisfactory to me as he will then be opposite and not far from the church neighborhood where henceforth all the mechanics and freemen must take up their residence. But I hear that you want to put labatije on the farm at the Great Flats<sup>41</sup> and give him f20 a month. What does he know about farming? I must have further information about this before I can give my consent to it. I do not want farms for myself, for when the expenses are shared equally with the farmers great expenses are incurred, and what would the result be if I became alone responsible for the expenses? If I had the accounts of the farmers who have now long gone on half shares, I should know what to say, but now I am blind; therefore, I must have further information as to the basis on which it would be done. Hereafter, it must be no longer a matter of speculation but when I furnish houses and animals I must draw a definite income from it, and I know no more than a child what profit the old farms have been to me. It may turn out better than I think, but I fear that it will result badly and that you will be held responsible, for what measures could I take about things of which I knew nothing? I do not know either what provision you have made for jan labatie, who promised to write to me from time to time; in all I received one letter from him in the beginning and nothing more thereafter. He was engaged as carpenter and ought to serve out those years. You wrote me that in winter when they could not build, he could stay with you to hunt in the woods and supply the table. This he and you must know, that I will not allow any increase of wages except such as is given with my approval and knowledge. The tobacco of albert andrissen and his brother sold on an average of  $8\frac{1}{2}$  [st] a lb. It weighed 4484 lb gross, deducting 6%, 270 lb, for the stems, there remains 4214 lb net which amounts to f1790:19;<sup>42</sup> of this the Company, counting on 4580 lb, claims a duty of 5%, f114:10; freight charges of 1 st per lb, f229; and convoy charges of  $1\frac{1}{4}$  st per lb,<sup>43</sup> f286:5; together f629:15; but I do not want to pay them so much and if the tobacco planters in my colony, especially albert andriesen, compensate me according to my ordinance for my land on which the tobacco grows I shall see to it that he pays less than half of these expenses, but as long as he is in dispute with me and I with the Company, I must deduct these f629:15 and also the duty on the tobacco which huybert jansen, the son of Jan Cornelissen, disposed of very cheaply, which [duty] with the cases amounted to f213:15. Adding thereto f20:8 st to jeronimus La Croijs for expenses, the total amount is f863:18, so that there remains f931:12 net in money, half of which f931:12 should belong to me. However, you must see on what basis this tobacco was sent and whether half of it belongs to me or not. I wish no more than belongs to me. You will therefore pay him there the sum which is due to him of this account in proper goods and at current prices, to be agreed upon with him. If they give me what is right and agree with me as to what I should have from my land, I could reduce the expenses of the Company to at least half of the above amount. I learned here that in Virginia the tobacco, without counting expenses or duties, is worth but 2 st a lb, reckoned by purchase prices in Holland. If this is so, I might send a ship thither also. As to Andries huddle, his claim is impertinent and unreasonable. I have a good deal to claim from him, first, f26 paid in his behalf, in the colony to Hans hansen, tobacco planter, for grain. If he had anything to claim from me he should have informed me of it before he turned over the farm and the animals, as I should then have deducted half of the money from the animals bought of belevelt whom I paid in full when I received word that the animals had been delivered. Therefore, if he had anything to say he should have spoken then or may see that he gets it from bylevelt whom I paid in full. As for myself, in addition to the f26, I have the following to claim from hudde. In my contract with bylevelt, of which I sent a copy and which was shown to hudde, is written N. B. Board and wages of the people till May 1632, which andris hudde agreed to upon condition that he have the milk and butter; also, feed for the animals till the new planting;<sup>44</sup> so that the butter which he made after the first of May, during the summer, belongs to me. I am further entitled to the seven morgens of winter grain of the new planting of 1632, all of which hudde received; also the supply of summer grain, oats, barley, gray peas, which bylevelt left there, together with the crop proceeding therefrom, which he [Hudde] also enjoyed and used to fatten the hogs and hens which he sold. He also had the benefit of a well planted garden which beylevelt left there and in addition to all this a stack of grain<sup>45</sup> which the council estimated at 90 schepels of rye and wheat, for which I had to pay the Company f100. All this hudden received and yet he is not ashamed to demand money from me who bought all these things from bylevelt and fully paid him therefor. I have the original of the contract but the authenticated copy, in accordance with which hudde turned over the animals and the farms, must be in that country. If it is necessary, I shall send the original to make the impudent fellow rightly pay what he rightly owes me, letting him get from beylevelt what he has to claim from him; I bought and paid cash for all these things. You might give Director Kieft an extract from this to show the impertinence of hudde and also broer Cornelis who wrote me for information.

<sup>39</sup> The above postscript was written on a separate piece of paper found in the Letter Book. That it belongs to the letter to Director Kieft of Mar. 16, 1643, seems evident from the heading and from the occurrence of a corresponding passage in the letter of same date to Arent van Corler.

As to the church, if this is not yet contracted for or begun, I should like that the model which I sent be kept back till some other time and that at first and provisionally a suitable place be erected which can be used first for preaching and later on be turned into a dwelling house. This could be made ready quickly, about 26 feet wide and 60 feet long, but the location must remain as directed and this dwelling must be placed with the others in proper order. Next to the house of De Megapolensis would not be unsuitable and later it could be used as a school.

I am surprised that you do not write me at all about the crystal near the house of miachel Janse and do not send me any further samples than the little pieces which you sent at first. There may be a great quantity, some pieces larger than others, and these must be dug out with care. I am also surprised that such poor care has been taken of the vine shoots which I imported alive into the colony at great expense and trouble and which are now altogether neglected and dead. I received the inventory of the animals taken by hooges; it is arranged better than the preceding one but I send herewith a blank which in the future will serve as a model for the inventories. The paper can be taken lengthwise and in that way many more columns made. The cows of the same age must be put on the same line, and after them the horses, specifying the full-grown cows, oxen and bulls, and then in turn heifer calves, oxen and bulls of one and two years, according to the example of the accompanying blank, beginning with those of the year 1640, 1641 and 1642, but those of 1641 and 1642 must be distinguished so as to show the difference. See also to this; I do not know what privilege albert andriesen has received that his cows are not mentioned in the inventory. I do not want any one, no matter who he is, to own any animals which are not subject to the right of preemption. Therefore, have his animals included therein too, or make him leave the colony and pay me for pasturing and hay during the past years. You wrote me that claes jansen ruyter promised to give me one half of what he made at the manhatans and that thereupon he obtained permission to leave. What has become of these earnings? Is he ever asked for them? The owners of the ship called den swarten raeven, of which Willem turck is supercargo, have promised me to bring over some cases of furs on condition that I pay the freight. Do not fail to send me some when it is possible; during the year 1642 I did not receive a single beaver.

The statement that vanderdonck seems to have made to you that he was to invest yearly f3000 in merchandise is mere talk; his contracts must show it. I wrote him and I write to you also that I do not want to hear of verbal statements; everything must be regulated according to my writings, of which you have the originals and I the copies. Every one of you ought to be satisfied to perform his duties but it is every one's duty, apart from his instructions, to seek and to further my advantage. Vanderdonck, as my sworn officer, has the right to propose everything that he thinks will serve to my advantage, but in civil actions involving the interests of the patroon (and of the whole colony) the commissioners must examine the proposition<sup>46</sup> and if they reject it, he has a right to protest.

It is strange that all your letters speak of haste. Have you not had time once in five years, to write to me in time and beforehand? Is not that rather strange? You answer my letters from memory; you should put my letters before you and read them paragraph by paragraph and write me what has been done in each case. You write me in every letter that you will send the accounts but you do not do it. In reply to yours of the 29th of June last I will say that it is well that all the merchandise sent was duly received; of the sale thereof and that this year and last year you bartered a good deal with the Indians, I hope to learn in good time. If I could be sure of that, I would insure more than the 1400 skins which are insured now. You might send some at every opportunity. As to the fact that Kieft is not willing to pay f10 for the wheat, I do not intend to let him have it for less. You need not refer that to me but should have asked his honor frankly whether he was willing to pay, not by crediting it on undetermined freights and duties but by balancing the amount against debts or in other ways as written heretofore, and if he was not willing to do so, you should have advised me, telling me at the same time how much I could expect so that I might take proper measures. Now my hands are tied. You furnish in good faith; I receive no payment and even the price is in dispute. You should have told his honor, if he did not care to pay at the rate of f10 as formerly, that you would have to advise me of it and that I had adopted and would adopt other measures. In that way you would have shown that you had sense, for there is no need to sell such staple for less; it has a standard value the world over. What has been written to me about this I consider of no importance. Meanwhile, find out whether the people of Virginia would not be glad to buy the wheat at that price. These are things you ought to pay attention to. For the farmers to sell [the wheat] at f8 or f9 is fraud; if he could indicate who they are. I shall know how to punish them. Words do not count; deeds must reveal the man completely. I am sick of all this talk that the farmers will not give me more except at f10;<sup>47</sup> it is childish, they must give me one half as belonging to me after the tithes have been deducted; their half is uncertain. Who promised them f10? And furthermore, brant pelen, crayn Cornelisse and broer Cornelis have accepted the conditions of maurits jansen of f6; the farmers from breeda have agreed to that price also, so that it hinges then upon a few whose leases will soon expire when we shall settle that matter. You excuse them and I do not, for I can get 10 masters to one servant. They ought to be ashamed of themselves for having disputed the 16 guilders so long. Are they not aware that everything comes in due time, and that it is a poor schout who can not wait for his fine and opportunity? Hereafter, they will not torment me so much. As soon as their time is up I shall let others, who can barely make a living here and who often enough apply to me, take charge of the farms of these tormentors, [even if] they all have to go down.<sup>48</sup> If no one stands by you, call upon the officer in a formal way and if he does not assist you then write to me, not generalities but exactly what the matter is. I can then adopt proper measures, but to act on promises, on what people say and repeat, amounts to nothing and produces only confusion. What is uncertain must be set aside and what is clear must be settled. They seem to think that in matters which are uncertain, their wish ought to be consulted before mine. If they defraud me so much in the sending of grain ask p<sup>ter</sup> Cornelissen, supercargo of the vessel to assist you, also v<sup>r</sup>donck, in his capacity as officer, and if they refuse to do so, protest against them and write to me, not in a general way that they will not assist you, but stating in what they will not assist you. In that way I can take the necessary measures but not on mere talk. You complain that I am cheated but it is your duty to prevent this in the way described above. You must not listen to any excuses from vanderdonck or any one else, but tell them plainly and frankly your duty and theirs, or write to me. If you had done this regularly I would have supported you regularly and, when there was occasion for it, reduced the others in rank and at the end of their term either have called them home or dismissed them from their farms. This is the way I intend to proceed in the future, even if I have to send new people altogether who fear God and treat me rightly. You ought to give me the names of the councilors who are unserviceable to me; I would pass those by, but to exclude all is uncalled for. You must ask those who are partial in the matter or themselves guilty<sup>49</sup> to stand outside, and as to the residents, of whom you write that they go to the savages as soon as the latter arrive and spoil the trade, communicate this matter to the officer, notify them at once that they came into the colony without permission and forbid them to trade with the Indians. If they will not obey, call them before the court; and if the court refuses to sentence them, refer the case to me and write me especially how vanderdonck behaves in the matter. Should I bear all the expense, possess the jurisdiction from high authority and should strangers be allowed to ruin the trade for me? That is unthinkable. First issue a general prohibition and then prosecute the law breakers. Serve notice on them at their places of residence<sup>50</sup> and if they are obstinate, cause them to be fined; and let vanderdonck assist you herein, and you him, and no one will be able to oppose you. I have no objection to your coming over after you send me the accounts; but if you should leave there without sending me the accounts every one would dispute them to your disadvantage and who would know how to settle it but you? Therefore, do not neglect any longer to send them; your coming over depends upon that only. I am not at all willing that you turn the balance of your goods over to labatije. He is a foreigner and is under a severe ban in his own country.<sup>51</sup> I have given you Anthonie de Hooges as assistant and you must turn it over to him if I do not take other measures. As to their threatening vanderdonck, I shall send him help if he conducts himself well and the threateners will think ten times before they act once, for I would make them feel what it means to maltreat the officer. I approve of the farm of vanderdonck near brant pee and as to my own on the Great Flats, you must proceed carefully. Labatie has no knowledge of farming but if you do it<sup>52</sup> on account of the trade, that is a different matter. If you and vanderdonck were united and you had Labatie and hooges on your side, who could harm you? But vanderdonck complains about the imperti-

<sup>47</sup> datte bouwmer niet meer als f10 will geven; literally, that the farmer will not give more than f10, but the meaning is doubtless that the farmers will not furnish me more grain unless I pay them f10.

<sup>49</sup> die Inde saccke p'tydich syn ofte vande selve nature; literally, those who are partial in the matter or of the same nature.

<sup>50</sup> A general prohibition warning private traders not to sail into the colony and a notice to be served on them individually were issued in print by the patroon under dates of Sept. 2, and Sept. 8, 1643; see p. 682-85, 697-99.

nence of Labatij. You have great plans about the farm at the Great Flats but see to it that it does not become too expensive and that care be taken about the servants so that the undertaking may do you credit and be of profit to me. That the farmers refuse to furnish animals without actual payment is not justified by their contract. You must find out who the author of that statement is and give me the name of the man. It must be some invention of Cornelis teunisse, who in order to avoid paying me what he owes me asks me [to pay] the note of hand which dirrick Corsen unfaithfully made out in his name. Let them first settle their accounts and then when their lease expires, make an inventory of the increase and loss of animals. The original number must be kept. If I paid them for the increase and a horse or cow died the next day, where would these fellows get another in its stead except through my efforts? In that case they would also have to make prompt payment to me. I should like to know who said that. You must not write in general terms but name the man who said it. If you boxed the ears of such rude fellows who thus state their intentions against their lord and master, so that they felt for them with both hands, they might then realize against whom they have spoken so insolently. As to Willem Juriaensen, who sailed I think as a baker, make an example of him. Let vanderdonck bring action against him; his time has expired long ago and make him leave the colony, for if you have no one to proceed against by way of example you will accomplish nothing. See who is with you in the council, and who is against you. If they do not help you against a man whose contract entirely forbids trading and whose time has expired, they are not worthy to be councilors and I would dismiss such people from the council as unworthy. You must not bind yourself so strictly by the price of the skins. When you have much merchandise you must give a little more and keep strangers out both by your authority and by outbidding them. I see your plan about the English bark. I can not say very much about it yet; experience will be the best guide in the matter; but I am surprised that the skins can be bought cheaper from some one else than in the colony. If it has been bad thus far, I hope that it will improve, but it is a good thing that you cause scarvan to be used in trading. I am pleased to hear that Sander leendersen is an upright man,<sup>53</sup> such people<sup>54</sup> I am inclined to advance.

I do not want the council to change the first of January to the first of May, for the grain which is in the field on the first of May belongs to the new planting. Therefore, I do not want the accounts to be closed on another day than that on which the lease of the land commences, but I have no objection to its being a little later in January. It seems that the council is inclined to change all my ordinances so as never to settle any accounts. The council must know that I appointed them and that they did not appoint me. You will ask vanderdonck to have the accounts settled on the day fixed by me and to have every one notified in time and to have those who fail to settle their accounts fined. Meanwhile, it will be all right if this time the accounts be settled on the first of May next but hereafter it must be done in January, when the animals are in the stable where they can be counted and the grain is in the barn. As [the leases of] the houses begin in May, I hope that the debit and credit accounts balanced in January will be settled then; no stock must be taken of the animals, which they can hide then, as they run in the field. I notice that there is some trouble about this already. I am also willing that an estimate be made in January and the accounts adjusted and paid in May but the registration of animals must at all events take place in January, specifying which are with calf or colt. I am also surprised that in the inventory no mention was made of the sheep and hogs, upon which sheep mauris jansen has prided himself a great deal. You understand this, that when I send an ordinance or instruction they must for the time being be issued and executed as they are; and if any change ought to be made in them, you must advise me thereof in good time, with the reasons, and await my further orders, for you and all those who represent my person must understand that I am superior to the council appointed by me and they are not my superiors. They must follow my orders and not I theirs. To let one of the councilors count the vimmen<sup>55</sup> [of grain] of a farm will not do; the farmers who are members of the council must have nothing to do with that; they are partial.<sup>56</sup>

<sup>56</sup> At this point in the Letter Book, at the bottom of folio 181b, occurs the word vervolght, continued, but there is no continuation of the letter in the book. It is worth noting that it is the only letter from the patroon to his agents in the colony to which the reply, at least in translated form, has been preserved. Unfortunately the translation given by O'Callaghan in his History of New Netherland, 1:456-65, is in many places clearly incorrect and the Dutch copy or draft which he found among the Rensselaerswyck Mss is not with those papers at present.

March 18, 1643

Anthonic de Hooges, in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

This 18th of March 1643 at Amsterdam

I have your letters of the first of March and the 18th of August of last year, 1642, to which the following is a brief answer, as time has gone by in writing to others. I have recommended you well, as you will learn from d<sup>e</sup> megapolensis, but I must admonish you for your own good to continue to be religious and faithful and especially to guard yourself against drunkenness and lewd women. There are many rumors current about the first but you can best test the matter yourself; heed the faithful admonitions of your pastor d<sup>e</sup> Megapolensis and do not follow the footsteps of those who may be guilty thereof, but fear the Lord; do right and fear no one. You will do well to keep and send me a daily journal, giving a truthful account of affairs, for I have no use for things that are not true. Respect the commis Arent van Corler and by and by he will like you. Keep good order and peace, but not when things are wrong. Have the accounts of the manhatans entered on the books, which probably is already done. Those who married at the manhatans must bear their own expenses and if they refused to do so you should have stopp'd the publication of the banns or made them promise to go to the colony according to their contracts, for they were not their own masters. Mr kieft must help you therein by order of their High Mightinesses the States General, as is well known to Officer vander donck.

You duly notice the evils which are present in the colony; that is the way things usually go in the world and the deeper you get into it the more you will notice it. If you walk uprightly among this wicked and adulterous generation, you will find peace for your soul. Do not let the evil examples seduce you but take them as a warning.

I received the list of the animals; it must be made out each year according to the blank and the brief instructions to my cousin Arent van Corler. You might put the horses and cows on one paper with several columns, but the transfer, increase and deaths of animals must be entered on separate blanks. I hope that you will have more and more satisfaction; all new things are difficult but matters will turn out to your advantage if you conduct yourself well. I must thank you for communicating to me the text of the first sermon of d<sup>e</sup> megapolensis; no other foundation can and ought to be laid. Vale.

Kiliaen van Rensselaer to Toussaint Muysart<sup>58</sup>

July 9, 1643

Toussain Muysart, at Leyden

This 9th of July 1643, in Amsterdam

This afternoon we bought, with the advice of ship's carpenters and other experts, a ship<sup>59</sup> suitable for our intended voyage, of 80 lasts burden, well protected with an upper deck, five feet high, extending the entire length, a comfortable forecastle to lodge people in, mounted with six pieces properly supplied with powder, lead and ammunition, and well provided with tackle and sails and all that belongs thereto. I was on it yesterday with confrater blommaert and S<sup>r</sup> Bessels; we looked it over carefully and this afternoon purchased it for 7000 guilders. It has lately come from Portugal, having taken 79 lasts of rye to that country, and is a ship with a square stern,<sup>60</sup> built at Lubeck, of heavy timber, but somewhat old though well kept. It has also rather too much draught but will serve us well enough to send people and goods to Virginia as well as to New Netherland. We shall now make all possible haste in purchasing the cargo and supplies. The ship will not need extensive repairs as it was thoroughly overhauled a half year ago. The duffels are very expensive at 35 st a yard. For the present you will please with all diligence have 12 pieces, [instead of] half of them red and half of them steel gray, made gray only as an offset against the others and so as to reduce the average price.<sup>61</sup> I sent a great many which are probably not yet all sold. You must look out especially for the width, for the last time the duffels from Leyden were the narrower.

<sup>59</sup> This was the ship het Wapen van Rensselaerswyck, which sailed in September of the same year. Jan Simonsz was skipper and Pieter Pietersz Wijncoop was supercargo. The invoice of this voyage is found among the Rensselaerswyck Mss and amounts to f12870:11:12. For the experiences of the ship at New Amsterdam, see O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:342.

The 10th ditto.

This letter written to this point yesterday was left till today as we have been busy making invoices and engaging the skipper and the supercargo, which was done today. Please to greet Mr de laet; when he comes here, we shall talk the matter over further and as his honor hesitates about contributing his tenth share because he is director,<sup>62</sup> I shall be pleased to have you furnish it as I must furnish six tenth shares; otherwise I shall have to find some one else, which I do not like to do, so as not to pave the way for another. I shall expect your reply at the first opportunity. I was looking forward to your coming here, as Mr de laet wrote of it, but you have not come. In order to keep strangers out of this business, I have admitted my mother in law to an equal share with the participants of the colony, so that she will participate to the amount of f9000. May Almighty God grant us good success, of which I have great hopes from the appearance of things. We intend to have the ship and lading insured as far as the half share of the colony is concerned. Vale.

I still have your favor of the 12th instant. As to the duffels which were to be made as soon as possible, we would have ordered here 12 pieces more but on account of the high price we had only six made and shall let it go at that for the present, as a considerable number were sent before. As to providing the tenth share of Mr de laet among the three of you, Sr bessels is willing to do so but he thinks that when Mr de laet comes here, he will be able to induce him to furnish his share. If not, it will remain as you write. We are very busy; we hoped to have the outside of the ship ready today but some worm holes which go clear through show themselves on the last side, which keep the work somewhat back as they must be properly attended to.

I wish you could come here sometime that we might communicate to each other matters which it takes too long to write with a pen. We intended first to include in our cargo about f200 worth of cam-

The double dyed cloth, grayish and  $5/4$  wide, is sold at f24 to f30; camlet from reysel,<sup>64</sup>  $3/4$  wide, red and violet, at f28; English serge,  $6/4$  wide, dark green, musk<sup>65</sup> and red, at f37; and as I do not know much about this I shall wait to hear from you the prices of the materials from Leyden with your statement as to the difference and what will serve us best. I shall then answer immediately how much you may furnish us. Vale.

In reply to yours of the 20th instant, will say that you will please order as soon as possible, to be sent here with the duffels:

2 pieces of Leyden grosgrain, double dyed and 5/4 wide, light liver color or gray

2 pieces of Leyden serge, first quality, color at your discretion.

The lowest prices will suit us best. I should like to know when the duffels will be ready. Yesterday we began to load as ballast, bricks, tiles, smith's coal, iron and the like. We make diligent haste.

Mr de Laet has come. We shall have further talk with him; otherwise his one tenth share must be furnished by the three of you. Vale.

The other duffels, those from Campen, are finished and I hope everything will be ready, if possible by the middle of this month, to sail hence to the Texel, unless some other delay should occur which we neither know of nor expect.

Another

Extract from the record of Mr kiliaen van rensselaer, lord of Rensselaerswyck, etc., of privileges and contracts granted to and made with his inhabitants and subjects in the said colony, situated in New Netherland, etc.

Abraham Staas van Amsterdam,<sup>81</sup> 24 years of age, for himself as well as for trijntgen jochims, his wife, 19 years of age, and a servant or boy whom he must take with him, has gratefully accepted the conditions of freemen of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, after they were read to him, and this for the period of six years commencing on his arrival in the colony, with a view to practising his profession of surgeon in the colony during the aforesaid time (to the exclusion of all others) on the strength of the good, written testimonial given him by master jan dircksen brimmer,<sup>82</sup> surgeon of this city, and shown to the patroon, etc.

Whereupon the aforesaid Abraham Staas, besides signing these conditions shall take the proper oath of submission and fealty to the lord patroon according to the copy thereof, given him. Done at Amsterdam, the 1st of February 1642, and in witness thereof signed by the said Abraham Staas in the presence of the undersigned notary and witnesses. Was signed: Abram Staas, H: V: Velde, j. Vande Ven, notary public residing in Amsterdam.

<sup>81</sup> In reply to an inquiry made for the purpose of ascertaining whether Abraham Staas, or Staes, was in any way connected with the contemporaneous and well known city carpenter of Amsterdam, Hendrik Jacobsz Staets, Mr W. R. Veder, archivist of the city, informed the editor that the records of births for 1617 and 1618 show no Abraham whose father is called Staas, or Staes; presumably Staas' father is entered under his patronymic. Though Staas is not entered in the register of master surgeons, he is called surgeon in the record of his intended marriage, Jan. 9, 1642. His place of residence is given as Nieuwe Weg, Amsterdam; that of his bride Tryntje Jochems, as Haarlemmer straat, Amsterdam. Both his parents were dead at the time and Staas' uncle, Dirck Jansz, acted as witness. The name of Staas' master was Jan Dircksen Brumer, not Brimmer; Staas was apprenticed to him Aug. 14, 1635. Mr Veder also stated that Mr N. de Roever, the former city archivist, left among his notes the following memorandum: Abraham Staets in Manhattan, 1653; see Protocol of Notary Touw, 3 May.

EVERT PELS

Another

The patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, understanding that several people in this colony outside of their trade occupy themselves with the brewing of beer, which not only hinders the said people in their ordinary work but exposes the houses of the patroon to the danger of fire and in addition causes the said beer to be sold there in an irregular manner at very extravagant and high prices, to wit, at 20 guilders a barrel, to the burden of the community, and wishing to make provision in this matter, has thought advisable and fit for the service of his subjects, to license and authorize, as he does hereby, Evert Pels van Statijn,<sup>83</sup> who is well acquainted with brewing, for the space of six consecutive years, etc.

Finally, he must govern himself according to the laws and ordinances of the lord patroon or his commissioners and submit himself to all the clauses and articles relating to the freemen or colonists of the colony for so far as they do not conflict herewith and which have been read to him, for that purpose, under special pledge and obligation more fully expressed therein. Done at Amsterdam the 5th of June 1642. Below was written: Evert Pels.

In the name of the Lord, Amen. On conditions hereafter specified, Cornelis Segertsen van egmont,<sup>84</sup> farmer, about 44 years of age, for himself, for brechtgen jacobs, his wife, 45 years of age, three daughters and three sons named Cornelis, 22 years of age, Claes, 20 years of age, and Sege Cornelissen, 14 years of age, also

Lijsbeth, 16 years of age, janetgen, 10 years of age and neelgen Cornelis, 8 years of age, for whom he makes the promise that they will also faithfully carry out and fulfil the following agreement, has bound himself and his wife and six children as he hereby does bind them, to the honorable Kiliaen Van Rensselaer, ex-director of the Chartered West India Company and patroon of this colony of Rensselaerswyck, situated on the North River of New Netherland, etc.

In witness of what is aforewritten, this has been sealed with the seal of the aforesaid patroon and the colony and signed by the aforesaid Cornelis Segersz van egmont with his own hand, in Amsterdam this 25th of August of the year 1643. Was signed in the several hands: Cornelis Segers-Soon. This mark made by breghe jacobs.

Commission to Nicolaes Coorn, as commander and commis on Rensselaers Steyn, and to Jan Dircksz van Bremen, as skipper of the vessel<sup>85</sup>

August 26, 1643

The patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, noticing with sorrow the great disturbances which have lately occurred between the heathen and the Christians near the island of the Manhatans and fearing that this might extend further, even to his colony, has on the occasion of the offer of certain persons to go thither as free men (imitating to some extent the example of the Chartered West India Company with regard to the island of the Manhatans) and also for the sake of having a suitable place of retreat for his people to which they can conveniently and with the smallest boats betake themselves in time of need, which God forbid, and finding that the island commonly called Beeren Island, now named by him Rensselaers Steijn, situated in the river at the entrance to the colony, is very suitable for both his purposes, has thought fit to admit the above persons on certain conditions agreed upon with them the 21st of this month and, in order to benefit as much as is possible and advisable the place of their residence aforesaid, has deemed fit, provisionally and till further order, to confer upon the said island the right of staple or bulk breaking of all merchandise which wishes to or must pass up from below or down from above, exempting always the goods or vessels of the said West India Company which going to or coming from Fort Orange may want to pass there (provided that under this pretext no goods are included which belong to his colonists or are intended to be sold to them); also to favor the said inhabitants of Rensselaers Steijn, provisionally and till further order as before, with the carrying trade so that all goods coming from below or wishing to go down must be transported up there or from there down in their sloops and vessels, as is more fully stipulated in the aforesaid contract of the 21st; and whereas suitable persons are required for this, the patroon respectively accepts and hereby appoints under the proper oath of fidelity Nicolaes Coorn, as commander and commis<sup>86</sup> on the said island, and Johan Dircksz van Bremen, as skipper of the vessel, and hereby orders and commands all the inhabitants of the colony, whoever they may be, quietly to allow the same to execute their office in conformity with their contract, oath and instructions without molesting them in any manner, but rather rendering and showing them every favor, help and assistance that circumstances will admit of. And whereas the patroon is now sending two millstones to erect another grist-mill, in the hope of shipping yearly a great deal of meal either to the Manhatans or vicinity or within the limits of his Freedoms, in case the inhabitants of Rensselaers Steijn should find it convenient and expedient to erect at their own expense a wind or water mill either on that island or some nearby creek, the patroon leaves to the judgment of his three commissioners and the officer of the colony the question whether it would be more expedient to erect the said wind or water mill there or somewhere else and in what manner the patroon, aside from the ownership of the millstones shall receive proper recognition of the mill or water rights.

And in case the inhabitants of the island of Rensselaers steijn, or upon advice as aforesaid other persons of sufficient means in the colony, should be willing to erect the said wind or water mill at their own expense, charging proper fees for grinding as in this country and giving the patroon for the use of his stones and the mill or water rights a just third part of the ground grain, the said commissioners and the officer are hereby authorized to deal with the persons who may be willing to undertake the same, preference being given in this matter to those of Rensselaers steijn, if their location is the most favorable and if they have enough wind or water. And in testimony of the truth, the patroon has sealed this instrument with the seal of the colony and signed it with his own hand, and has ordered it to be recorded in the secretary's office. In Amsterdam, this 26th of August sixteen hundred and forty three. Underneath was written and signed: Kiliaen van Rensselaer, patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck; the fold bearing a seal in red wax covered with white paper.

Warning, Prohibition and Permission concerning the colony of Rensselaerswyck

The patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, foreseeing that his necessary, good and sincere intention in occupying and peopling Beeren Island (now named by him Rensselaers-steyn), either through misunderstanding or for selfish motives, will be misconstrued and resented because he can no longer suffer that others eat the fruits of the table which he has spread and provided; having also now for many years past been at heavy expense and spending more money all the time without the enjoyment of any returns worth mentioning, while others who come only occasionally have through the unfaithfulness of his inhabitants taken more skins out of his colony in a few weeks than he has done in many long years, notwithstanding that his commis has at hand quantities of goods for barter, resulting from the fact that several colonists or freemen pass so freely and easily in and out of his colony as if it were their colony, their people and their jurisdiction: therefore the aforesaid patroon by these presents gives notice and warning to all such traders that by virtue of the fifth article of his Freedoms, granted to him by the Assembly of the Nineteen of the Chartered West India Company and enlarged by special sovereign act of the High and Mighty Lords the States General of the United Netherlands, with orders from their High Mightinesses to the aforesaid West India Company, as well as instructions and commands to the director and council of New Netherland, present or future, to maintain him the said patroon and his descendants forever in the quiet and peaceful enjoyment of his privileges (which fifth article cedes to him as patroon of the earliest colony on the North River the command on the said river, with regard to subsequent colonies and colonists, empowering said subsequent colonies to appoint one or more councilors to assist him that in consultation they may look after the interests of the colonies on the river, for which purpose nobody has thus far been presented to him so that the said command still rests with him alone), by virtue of this he now requests first of all that the director of New Netherland in accordance with the instructions received from the High and Mighty Lords the States General assist him in maintaining the same so that no private traders abuse the said river, go forth and sail against his will and intent into his own colony, where according to the sixth article the right of high, middle and low jurisdiction is vested in him, trade contrary to his will and intent with his subjects, even with those who are tenants of his lands and his houses and who hire his cattle and, without settling their accounts, much less restoring the goods entrusted to them, occupy his estate. Such traders furnish them, in the first place, with wine and spirits which is bought<sup>88</sup> there in extravagant quantities at very high prices, not only by the farmers but even by the farm laborers and others, for which they can not pay if they treat their master justly but for the payment of which they steal, and almost completely rob him of, his undivided wheat and thereby render themselves incapable of settling their accounts and restoring the property entrusted to them; secondly they ruin the whole trade in furs as well for the West India Company as for him, the patroon, by raising the price of the said furs, the larger part of the profits going to the savages and the small remaining portion to the private traders, so that nothing is left for the patroon who is under heavy expenses in supporting officers, a minister of the Gospel and other councilors; the profits of his commis (who has to feed the savages and provide also for those who assist him faithfully) do not exceed those of the least farm hand or even the private and foreign traders themselves, notwithstanding no one in his colony is allowed, under the oath taken, to trade any furs except with the permission and the consent of their lord and master. For all of which reasons he, the said patroon, is compelled, for the maintenance of his colony and his right, to resort to different methods, and has been unable to discover any better means than the peopling of the above-named island and the granting of the carrying trade and staple right to its inhabitants, for which he has appointed Nicolaes Coren as commander and commis<sup>89</sup> over the same and Ian Dircksz van Bremen as skipper of the vessel with orders to unload there all goods belonging to himself, to his inhabitants, or to any freemen — intended to be sold to his people — and to ship all the said goods in his vessels thereto and not further, up or down the river; enjoining all those whom it may concern, subject to him and within his colony or under his command (with reference to the river), that they must govern themselves accordingly and in case of opposition must expect both loss and dishonor. Further he prohibits the sale of wine or spirits to his people in conformity with the ordinance previously issued. He permits any one whomsoever to transport in his said vessels any goods on proper payment of freight charges, with the exception of the said wines, for which a special license must be obtained, and to ship the said goods to Rensselaer-steyn and unload them for the purpose of selling them there, subject to the following regulations:

I That no one shall be allowed to transport goods higher up in the colony.

II Also, that as long as the commisen of the colony have any goods for sale on behalf of the patroon, all other goods of the same kind must be kept back till the first named have been sold.

III Also, to deal with no one who has an open account (more than one year old) outstanding, much less with those who have failed to restore what was entrusted to them.

Further, that they are not allowed to accept in exchange any wheat on which the patroon has any claim growing out of his tithes, his third part or his half, or his right of preemption until the patroon or his commissioners have waived the said right of preemption.

With reference to the skins of beavers and others, inasmuch as none are permitted to trade in the same without his especial consent, he is provisionally willing that such of the inhabitants as have obtained from him the right to trade shall barter or sell the said skins to the free traders residing on Rensselaers-steyn, but not in the colony, on turning over to him in advance the number of skins stipulated by contract or paying him his half share of the profits; all others being excluded.

And inasmuch as the aforesaid articles impose many restrictions on the traders, it were better if the free traders coming from down the river exchanged their goods with the commisen of the patroon for furs or wheat and the said commisen in turn exchanged the same, partly with the savages for skins and partly with the inhabitants of the colony for skins and wheat, fixing the prices so judiciously that the patroon on his part and the traders on theirs, as well as the inhabitants of the colony, may each get a share in the profits, which by this means may be easily accomplished, as the only sufferers will be the savages, who now by the exorbitant prices offered them get what virtually belongs to the patroon, while on the other hand this will serve to restore the fur trade to a flourishing state. And in order that each and every one may be duly informed as to the contents hereof, the commander and commis of Rensselaers-steyn, Nicolaes Coren, is directed to request the director, Willem Kieft, to bring the same to the attention of the free-men residing on or near the Manhatans, either by proclamation, by posting of placards or by service of formal notice. And in testimony of the truth, the patroon has signed these presents with his own hand and sealed them with the seal of the colony, in Amsterdam, this 2d of September 1643.

Redress of the abuses and faults in the colony of Rensselaerswyck

Though the patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, in founding said colony, has had an eye to the enjoyment of the products of the country and of his labor and to the profits of his investments, he has nevertheless also had in especial view, by means of settling the country and the practice of godliness, to have the Christian Reformed religion proclaimed there in order that the blind heathen also might be brought to the knowledge of our Savior Jesus Christ, and has now already for many years past sent over many people, officers and goods, together with a godly and learned minister in the hope that by the exercise of justice and order as well as by teaching and admonition, he might attain his aim and object. It is therefore to the deepest grief of his heart that he has learned that the contrary is the case, namely that things there are in such a state that hardly any semblance of godliness or righteousness is to be found. As to godliness, whereas the word of God ought to have softened and opened their hearts to accept not only all consolations and admonitions but also all reproaches for their sins and to govern themselves accordingly, there are many who, having become hardened and calloused, absent or hide themselves so as not to hear the word of God; as to the righteousness, which consists in keeping the commandments of the Lord and in the humble obedience to their lord and master as regards fulfilling their oaths and promises, executing their contracts and settling and paying their debts, all of these duties the majority of the people scarcely think of, much less observe, the reason for which, as far as the patroon can discover, must be ascribed to the following circumstances:

First, to comfort and abundance, neither of which the majority of the colonists were accustomed to in the fatherland as they sailed in a state of want and poverty, but which they acquired by reason of the favorable conditions offered by the patroon, who credited them with their passage, advanced them money, furnished them free houses, live stock and fertile lands, provided them with servants, necessities, yes, practically with everything they could think of, wine and spirits excepted, that their situation and occupation did not afford.

Secondly, to extravagance, in using that which is not proper for them, not being satisfied with the ordinary drinks of farmers, nor with beer, but the majority of them, even to farm laborers and others, using to excess wines, brandies and other strong liquors, and at such exorbitant prices that they find it impossible to pay for them without robbing their lord and master, as the quantity of wheat which they have exported without declaration proves sufficiently.

Thirdly, to licentiousness and wantonness, (advantage being taken of the youth of the commis of the colony), which the principal inhabitants have themselves under personal guaranty particularly undertaken to prevent in order under this disguise more effectually to play their part and impose upon his youth.

Fourthly, to unfaithfulness, not only disregarding the ordinances and regulations of the patroon to which they have voluntarily subjected themselves, but directly violating and abusing the same, taking all they can get on credit, and never paying as the unpaid accounts show.

Fifthly, to covetousness, which they show in the execution of their contracts, interpreting the same to suit their own will and pleasure — a privilege which does not belong to them but to the patroon only — accepting whatever suits or profits them and rejecting what does not satisfy their cupidity, not being content that the patroon provided them at the outset with houses and the necessary requisites without charge, in order later to reap the benefit thereof, but involving him constantly in new expenditures without ever rendering account, much less settling the same, yes, what is worse, remaining on their farms after the expiration of the leases, without getting new ones, as if these farms were their own property.

Sixthly, to persuasion, on the part of other freemen coming up the river, who make them forget their bounden duty and the fidelity which they owe their patroon, all of which being duly considered will go to prove that there are greater and worse sins among those who profess to be Christians than among the heathen themselves.

To which must be added the trade in furs, which no one is allowed to carry on without special consent from his lord and master and from which the patroon has nothing but a very little in the way of his half of the profits, which they are also bound to make good at the liquidation of their accounts.

And before the patroon speaks of the remedy, he desires to point out to the inhabitants that these heinous sins and this unrighteousness cry for vengeance to the Lord God, who has already punished and chastised them in a noteworthy and exemplary manner with injurious and destructive floods, which in former years never occurred and now within a few years have taken place often; fearing also that God's visitations might still further add to their destruction through extermination by the sword of the heathen whom many through avarice have but too liberally provided with the weapons for such an attack, the patroon has been unable to think of any other or better means of protecting the pious and of punishing the wicked than by erecting at his own great expense a suitable place of security and refuge for his people in times of danger which shall also serve as a check on the malevolent, for which refuge has been chosen Beeren Island, now called by him Rensselaerssteyn, to be peopled and settled in accordance with the conditions agreed upon with the inhabitants and the privileges granted them, with orders and instructions to leave them in the quiet and peaceful enjoyment of the same, without attempting anything to the contrary on pain of being arraigned for rebellion and mutiny.

In order now to remedy as much as possible the aforesaid abuses so that the patroon may some day enter into the right use, arrears and returns of his lands and his half profit on the furs, in the first place all farmers must first pay the just tenth of all crops of this season, without composition of any kind.

Then, those whose contracts so provide must pay the patroon's third, while those on the half share plan, after deducting the above tenth, must divide the remaining nine tenths into three equal parts, one third to go to the patroon and two thirds toward the wages of the farm hands and the profits of the farmers, and settle accounts accordingly; warning being hereby given to all farmers on the half share system whose lease expires that they will have to accept the terms of Andries de Vos and Cornelis van Nes and of Cornelis Zegersen who sails by this ship,<sup>90a</sup> or else leave the colony, it being the intention of the patroon that the wages of the farm hands be defrayed out of the produce directly after deduction for the tithe has been made and that the same shall not be charged to the patroon.

Concerning the wheat which may remain as a surplus in the colony, this shall be delivered to the patroon in accordance with the right of preemption at six guilders per mudde, the balance of what is due to those who have settled their accounts to be paid in goods or other products (skins excepted) at 50% net advance over the purchase price, instead of 100% or two to one, which the merchandise costs the patroon, but in consideration of the price of six guilders now counted at 50%, as above. As regards the farmers who have not settled their accounts, they must have patience till the same are settled provisionally by the commis, Arent van Corler, everything however being subject to the approval and closer investigation of the patroon, as he does not intend to have the final settlement of accounts take place over there but here at this place where the contracts were drawn up and the acquittal must be granted, though the liquidation by the commis shall provisionally have effect till further investigation, and inasmuch as the needs of the colony may perhaps not reach the amount to be paid for the wheat, since the patroon contemplates sending a goodly quantity of the same to Virginia by this ship, Supercargo Pieter Wijnkoop shall be at liberty to place the price of his goods at 100% above the purchase price and of the wheat at eight guilders the mudde or at 50% and the wheat at six guilders, which are the prices of Commis Arent van Corler, and dispose of the same in behalf of the participants in the equipment of said ship and in case any farmer should refuse to deliver the said wheat he shall actually be brought to Rensselaers-steyn to remain there till he has settled his account and delivered his wheat there, the patroon being unwilling to depend any longer on the ill will of the peasants, said farmers being also required to render accounts of one half of the profits on the beaver skins.

On the first of January 1644 next ensuing, or on the arrival of this ship in the colony, all books and accounts in the entire colony shall be closed, new books to be used thereafter and the old dis-used.<sup>91</sup>

And, to begin with those who are at the head, Commis Arent van Corler shall without delay make out his own accounts and deliver them into the hands of Pieter Wijnkoop, who will look them over and then bring them home with him and hand them to me for further examination.

<sup>91</sup> A few accounts among the Rensselaerswyck Mss are closed in July 1644, but the majority in August and September 1644.

Thereupon Arent van Corler shall make an accurate list and inventory of all merchandise and wares previously received that remain in his charge, as well as of all the skins, seawan, goods sent away or remaining in the charge of others and of all the property belonging to the patroon, and continue the same from day to day, without fail, noting down everything in proper form in a book and not on scraps of paper; [noting] also his expenditures, transactions and matters connected with them, without fail, on pain of losing his office and incurring the extreme displeasure of his patroon, who hereby warns him for the last time.

Concerning the goods formerly received by Arent and those which are now sent to the colony by the ship, he shall distinguish according to the blank between goods used for the fur trade and goods needed by the people. Of the goods employed in the fur trade Arent van Corler shall be commis and have the administration, and the skins which he shall receive in exchange he shall turn over to no one else under any circumstances, but forward them hither. Thereafter he shall specify which goods are suitable for the people in the colony to be exchanged against wheat, without lending, but merchandise against merchandise. Of these goods Anthoni de Hooges shall be commis and have the administration, though he must submit his accounts to Arent van Corler.

As regards the daily wages or pay of the laborers, separate accounts shall be kept by Anthoni de Hooges, satisfaction to be given either in goods not used in the fur trade or in wheat or otherwise.

Officer Adriaen vander Donck shall also promptly render accounts to Arent van Corler.

As for the farmers whose accounts have not been settled, they must liquidate the same at once on pain of forfeiture of the remaining years of their lease, the latter to be given to the foreman or other competent person in the colony when the time for settling the first year's accounts shall have arrived, everything, both at the time of leaving and of reoccupying the farm, to be duly inventoried without concealment, it being the patroon's intention to leave no one in possession whose account shall remain unsettled for longer than one year and in case any one should object to this measure the same shall be forcibly ejected by the commander, Nicolaes Coorn.

In the same manner shall actually be removed from their farms all those whose terms of lease shall have expired and who have obtained no new leases from the patroon and this also without connivance, for otherwise the patroon is not master of his own property, and if, in spite of this, any one should still stay on his farm without lease the same shall not be allowed to reap any profits from his labor, said action constituting a form of violence. Those whose leases expire and who are ready to accept the condition of one third, before mentioned, must give the patroon timely notice thereof, while all freemen whose lease is up and who have not settled their accounts or obtained a new contract must actually be made to leave, or otherwise reap no profits from their land, such as Willem Juriaensen backer, whose term has long since run out and whom the patroon deems unfit to remain any longer in the colony, and who after liquidation of his accounts shall be discharged and removed from the colony, inasmuch as he has neither made nor obtained a new contract with or from the patroon.

Symon Walichsen is to be definitely notified that he must leave his farm at the expiration of his term, as the patroon has had no gain but great loss through him and that he must liquidate and settle his accounts, the patroon not wishing to continue him in service any longer.

Albert Andriesen, whose term has also long ago expired without his having made or obtained a new lease or contract, shall nevertheless be continued for the present but shall not own any live stock otherwise than according to the general rule of one half of the increase belonging to the patroon and of the right of preemption and, in case he does not accept this, his cattle shall immediately be sent back to the place whence they came, with this understanding however that half of the increase bred in the colony shall go to the patroon in consideration of the pasturage and hay which they have used; and as to his accounts he shall also be obliged to close, liquidate and settle the same; and as far as the conditions after the expiration of his lease are concerned, the patroon adopts for him as well as for all others this fixed rule, of which they must all be notified and if they do not wish to continue under it must immediately leave the colony, namely, that every freeman who has a house and garden of his own shall pay an annual rent of five stivers per Rhineland rod and for land used in raising tobacco, wheat or other fruits 20 guilders per Rhineland morgen, newly cleared land to be free for a number of years, more or less, according to the amount of labor required in such clearing, said number of years to be fixed by agreement with the patroon's commissioners; all of which stipulations tend in no wise to impair but confirm the right of levying tithes, and by this means the patroon shall know what his revenue will be and they on their part shall know what they are entitled to, the right of preempting grain being also reserved; and as to the trade in furs, this is generally forbidden, being reserved for such as have obtained a license from the patroon on condition that they pay promptly what has been stipulated and not otherwise.

Officer van der Donck shall diligently inquire respecting those who have formerly exported wheat and other goods, as well as furs, out of the colony without entering the same and to this end he shall with the consent of the patroon's commissioners or any two of them order all servants and others who may have had knowledge of the facts to be examined regarding such persons as appear in any way implicated, the patroon having been specially advised that Cornelius Theunissen van Breuckelen has often done the same, wherefore his former and present servants must be examined under oath, it being the patroon's firm intention to renew and reassert his smothered rights against those who imagine them already forgotten and no longer to permit the license practised by certain farmers, who hold great banquets served with an abundance of wines and meanwhile do not close their accounts, consequently, use what belongs to the patroon, as no man, no matter who he is, can have any property of his own as long as he has not rendered proper accounts and returns, not according to his avarice but to justice.

Moreover, the money which Pieter Cornelisz and Cornelis Theunisz owe the patroon under the name of Dirrick Corssen and withhold under pretext of their note of hand (notwithstanding they know full well that it was the patroon's property), if they refuse to hand it over to him willingly under his promise of indemnification, the officer shall force them to deposit with the court, and he shall especially prosecute Cornelis Theunisz, who was not allowed to trade in furs, in such manner as shall lead to the confiscation of these.

Coming to the question of the wages of those laborers who have served the individual farmers and who were engaged here by the patroon, if they are not paid yearly by said farmers, the said wages shall be made good separately in the annual account to the patroon in wheat or skins or seawan, so that the farm hands may know definitely where they are finally to seek their payment, which ought to be with the farmers unless the same have turned it over separately to the patroon, of which the farm hands must be notified in order to govern themselves accordingly, as otherwise in coming here they could obtain no satisfaction, for if the amount were charged to the accounts of the farmers it would not be paid till the whole account had been cleared and settled.

Concerning the newcomers in the colony, they must be supplied with wheat for seed and domestic use, as well as with other articles stipulated by contract, and those who are industrious and faithful be assisted, care being taken to ascertain at the annual settlements who is the least in debt and who has accumulated the largest store of produce, in order to see whether the patroon can be sufficiently certain of ultimate restitution, but no further loans are to be made to those who have been three years in the colony, unless, at the settlement of accounts which is to take place every year in January, it is found that there is a good supply of wheat in the barn on which a further small credit could be allowed, provided that the wheat immediately after it is thrashed be delivered to the patroon to pay for his share.

With regard to the tithes, the same shall no longer be commuted but lawfully collected, unless the commissioners deem it advisable to sell the same publicly to the highest bidder, either for cash or on short-time payment, when the wheat might be thrashed and the buyer pay therewith, the wheat to remain as the patroon's security, with this understanding that a farmer may not be the buyer of his own tithe but one farmer may buy the tithe of the crop on another man's land; and in case it shall seem better for the patroon to have his own hay barracks or barns built in which to thrash, the two carpenters who go over now may be employed on this work and a strong fellow added to assist them, care being taken to have the barracks and barns strongly built and erected in the most convenient places where many farms are found close together and to put in them the crops of at least three farms, as the expense would otherwise be too great, also to look out for the third part, which the patroon has reserved for himself.

And inasmuch as wine and spirits are the cause of God's wrath, of the patroon's loss and of all evils, no one whose account is open and unpaid shall be allowed to have the same till he has discharged his debt, unless the commissioners and councilors think fit to make a small allowance for each family as occasion requires, for which a license must be given them, as otherwise without showing such license to the commander the wine would not be permitted to pass Rensselaers Steyn; with regard to those whose accounts are settled and who owe the patroon nothing, in order that they may not pass their lives in drunkenness and dissipation, it is the patroon's desire that the commissioners and councilors allow each family, according to its station, so much wine or good beer as will suffice them for all honest purposes and not lead to drunkenness, on which heavy fines shall be imposed and proceeds thereof go to the same objects as those of other fines and one third to the officer, but if the officer himself be found guilty of drunkenness, he shall pay a double fine to the behoof of the commander at Rensselaers-steyn; and all of the persons living there, from the humblest to the highest, shall be subject to the same restriction.

Coming now to the unchastity with heathen women and girls, whoever is found to have intercourse with them shall pay the first time a fine of 25 guilders, if the woman becomes pregnant 50 guilders and if she gives birth 100 guilders, leaving it to the discretion of the minister and the consistory to decide what the obligations of the offender are with regard to the baptism of such children; and if he continues to have illicit intercourse a yearly fine of 50 guilders and according to circumstances banishment from the colony, one third of which fines shall go to the officer, another third to the commander at Rensselaers-Steyn and the remaining third to the patroon for the benefit of the building of the church.

All those adults or youth who do not attend Divine service at least once a week, unless prevented from so doing by sickness or other important cause, shall forfeit for the use of the church now in course of erection, the men each week . . . .<sup>92</sup> stivers, the women . . . . stivers, the servants . . . . stivers, and since the people are quite widely dispersed the minister shall devise the best means [of reaching all], the patroon wishing to suggest to him whether it would not be well to preach occasionally at Rensselaers-Steyn in order to be nearer the people who live in that quarter, or else on some week day to offer them more opportunity and less excuse; another thing that must be taken into consideration is that of the families who live farthest off, members can only attend in turn so as not to leave the houses entirely without supervision, consequently that husband and wife shall only count in the fines for one if both stay away; but in other cases if either the husband alone or the wife alone stays away, each to pay his share; and may God grant that they have to pay few fines, as this will tend to their salvation, there being greater reason than ever for leading a godly life in such distant countries.

As the patroon intends to send a large quantity of wheat to Virginia by this ship, it is necessary to take along as much well ground meal as the mill can grind and to this end instructions have also been given to Supercargo Pieter Wijncoop to treat with the inhabitants of the colony regarding this matter in accordance with the above stipulations.

Since Andries de Vos and Cornelis van Nes have each written for two servants, the four men from Hilversum<sup>92a</sup> will be allowed them, but as one is a shoemaker and another understands wagon making, the shoemaker, if he wishes to be free and to repay the patroon for his advance and expenses, shall be permitted to earn something toward this by making shoes, which he could well do at the house of van Nes while assisting him at other times on the farm; likewise the wheelwright at the house of de Vos and, since Lubbert Ghijsbertsen the wheelwright lives near there, this servant could help both the said Lubbert and de Vos, the latter to reach some agreement with each other in regard to the matter, but if Lubbert should not want this, the young wheelwright may come to some understanding with de Vos as to what he shall earn with the tools which he takes with him at the expense of the patroon, and shall at the same time assist him on the farm, for some means must be found whereby the patroon shall be repaid for his disbursement for the tools together with the advance of 100% on the same.

As the patroon is in every way inclined to benefit the inhabitants of his colony, he would have sent a great many more supplies than he did, but seeing that everything he sent was charged year after year on accounts without end and that no payments were made, while on the other hand all goods furnished by private individuals, especially wines, were promptly paid for, and that the patroon misses therefore both his returns and his goods, he has been unable to do more, no matter how much he would have liked to; but he assures the people hereby that if they will duly pay him and render prompt returns and if he shall receive satisfactory profits from the colony, he will in the future take more pains and send sufficient supplies in anticipation of prompt payment, either in skins or in wheat, and shall expect to that end an annual list showing the kinds and quantities of things needed in the colony with indication of the sort of payment and statements regarding the furs to be delivered to his commis upon conditions minutely described above.

All persons who leave the colony and possess any houses or property there may sell the same to whomsoever they please at their own price, but shall in no wise force the same upon the patroon, at an appraised valuation, as such valuation is derogatory to the rights of the patroon, who reserves unto himself in case of sale the right, which belongs to him, of preemption at his pleasure, in which respect his commissioners have not well watched his interests, as such property must be sold at public auction and the price honestly made known to him or his commissioners, who are then at liberty to accept or to refuse the same, but under no circumstances must the present commis or his successors accept such property in discount of the person's debt, except what he or they seize directly in the patroon's name or is of no importance or consequence, and this may serve as a warning for the future, as they will be obliged, in case of refusal by the patroon, to keep things for themselves and therefore should be careful as to what they do seize.

Coming now to the conclusion, inasmuch as the patroon is not able to remedy everything at once, he refers for other matters to his commissioners (reserving the final approbation to himself as he has always done, still does and will do in the future); it being understood that he has never given, nor gives, nor will give in the future, any unlimited power to his commissioners, his councilors or anybody else, but on the contrary well defined authority to supplement provisionally such regulations as may here be wanting, all to his service and profit according to their discretion and to justice.

In like manner the patroon reserves to himself the right of interpretation, extension, decrease, increase or alteration of anything herein written, allowing on the one side as well as on the other all reasonable complaints or grievances of those who may feel themselves hereby unjustly reproached either through lack of knowledge of the exact circumstances or owing to wrong information, without however in any way opening the door to unfounded or selfish claims, leaving and commanding every one, the commis-generael, the commissioners, the officer, the commander, the respective commisen in the colony and on Rensselaers-Steyn, as well as the councilors and others, and every one whom it may concern, each one in his respective sphere of duties, collectively or individually, to govern themselves accordingly, under the penalties and fines herein provided or to be provided hereafter. In testimony of the truth of which the patroon has signed these with his own hand and affixed the seal of the colony. At Amsterdam, this fifth of September 1643. Notice to be served on private traders who contrary to the patroon's orders sail into the colony<sup>93</sup>

Notice, Protest and Permission on behalf of the patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck

I, Nicolaes Coorn, commander of Rensselaers-Steyn, on behalf of the honorable Kiliaen van Rensselaer, hereditary commander of the colonies on this North River of New Netherland under the high jurisdiction of the High and Mighty Lords the States General of the United Netherlands and of the Chartered West India Company, and as his vice commander in his stead, give you notice that you shall not presume to abuse the said river to the injury of the right acquired by the aforesaid gentleman in his capacity as patroon of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, the first and oldest on this river.

Which right he obtained as early as the 19th of November 1629, pursuant to the Freedoms and Exemptions granted by the Assembly of the XIX of the Chartered West India Company, by article 5 of which it is promised that care shall always be taken that the first occupants (in this case the patroon) shall not be prejudiced in the rights which they obtained.

Which by the aforesaid High and Mighty Lords the States General was further confirmed and extended by letters patent of their High Mightinesses granted to him and his heirs, forever, on the 5th of February 1641.

And whereas he declares that he is greatly injured:

First, in that you navigate this river without his knowledge and have come thus far against his will.

Secondly, in that you try to draw away and to allure to yourself and if possible to divert, to his injury, the nations who for many years have been accustomed to trade either at Fort Orange with the commis of the Company or privately with his commis; or to show to the said nations other and secret trading places, greatly to the injury of the West India Company and the patroon.

Thirdly, in that you spoil the fur trade (by driving up the price and bidding even against the commis of the Company at Fort Orange as well as against the commis of the patroon) and that you who are satisfied as long as you get some booty out of it do not ask whether the trade is being so spoiled that the patroon may thereby become unable to meet the expenses of his colony or not, which is a great injury to him, the patroon.

Fourthly, in that you seek to debauch his own inhabitants and subjects and to incite them against their lord and master, furnishing them among other things with wine and spirits and selling these to them at usurious and high prices, against his will; causing yourself to be paid in furs which they obtain by barter contrary to his orders and their own promise, or in wheat which they purloin from their lord, of which they have rendered no account, of which the tithes have not lawfully been paid and of which the patroon has not even received his third or half share according to the contracts and of which he has not waived the right of pre-emption, obliging the patroon who provides his people with commodities at little or no advance in price (considering his expenses) to charge these on account while you go off with the (yes, with his) cash, whereby he is rendered unable properly to provide his people with everything because you so exhaust them and impoverish his colony, by which the patroon suffers great injury. Therefore, not being obliged to suffer any of these things from private individuals, he hereby causes notice to be served on you that you must entirely refrain therefrom and in the name aforesaid I declare, should you in defiance of law, contrary to this protest, presume to attempt to pass by force, that I have orders to prevent you from doing so. Permission is granted you however, as expressed in the Warning<sup>94</sup> and more fully to be seen and read in the instructions given by the patroon to Pieter Wijnkoop, as supercargo, and to Arent van Corler, as commis-generael, under the restrictions of the regulations contained therein, to trade with his commisen, but in no wise with the Indians or with his private subjects themselves.

And in case you should use force, I am to declare to you that you will commit:

First, Crime against the High and Mighty Lords the States General.

Secondly, Crime against the West India Company and their governor.

Thirdly, Crime against the patroon and his command<sup>95</sup> within whose jurisdiction you are at present against his will, forcing us to necessary resistance.

Wherein I shall await what you will answer, do or not do, in order to govern myself accordingly, once more giving you full warning that you can have no grant (unless from the High and Mighty Lords the States General themselves) which can deprive him of this his right and that in case of loss you will have to indemnify the patroon of everything.

Which foregoing instrument, drawn up by the aforesaid patroon and commander, he hereby ratifies by signing it with his own hand and sealing it with the seal of the patroon and the colony of Rensselaerswyck, this eighth of September 1643, in Amsterdam.

Wulfert Gerritsz aforesaid is engaged by rensselaer, his service to begin on his arrival in that country. He is bound for four summers, but rensselaer may end the contract after one or two summers, etc.

<sup>98</sup> Dirck Cornelisz Duyster. Mr A. Bredius, in an article on Pieter Codde and Willem Duyster (Oud Holland, 1888, 6:187-94), cites the settlement of the estate, Oct. 1, 1631, of Duyster's father, Cornelis Dircksz, in his lifetime messenger between Amsterdam and Hamburg. It appears from this document that Dirck Cornelisz Duyster was a half-brother of the landscape painter Willem Duyster and a brother in law of the painter Simon Kick. June 19, 1635, Simon Kick is authorized to collect f170 from a barber (surgeon) at Fort Orange, from which we may infer that Kick visited New Netherland. Dirck Cornelisz Duyster lived at that time in de duystere werelt ("the dim world", apparently a play on the family name) on Koning street, at Amsterdam. After the death of Willem Duyster, in January 1635, Dirck Cornelisz Duyster changed his will so as to constitute his sister, Lijsbeth Cornelis Duyster, his sole heir. Dirck Cornelisz Duyster was drowned off the English coast, on his return from Pernambuco, apparently shortly before October 1636; see p. 329 of this volume.

First, rutger hendrix aforesaid, after taking the oath of fidelity and as officer aforesaid, shall present himself before and call on the commis of Fort Orange and offer him every favor, assistance and the usual tokens of friendship, in order that they may mutually aid one another not only with word and deed, but in time of danger with life and limb, against the common enemy; he shall further entertain friendly relations, each respecting the other.

Thus provisionally decreed and decided by me the underwritten, as patroon of Rensselaerswyck in New Netherland, this 20th of July 1632, in Amsterdam.

Proper remedy against the abuse of outstanding accounts in the colony of Rensselaerswyck<sup>17</sup>

September 16, 1643

Copy.

N. B. No latitude to be given to the conscience or discretion of the farmers, but the law to be rigorously enforced.

Here follow the instructions.

1643, Sept.—Proper remedy against the abuse of outstanding accounts of the principal farmers as well as of others.

As the Redress of the abuses and faults in the colony of Rensselaerswyck,<sup>18</sup> issued by the patroon in printed form, refers to many irregularities and among these principally to the running up of unsettled accounts, special attention is here given to the form and manner in which said accounts must be drawn up.

With reference hereto comes up the question: who are obliged and who are not obliged to make up these accounts.

For the farmers or inhabitants of the colony to think that the commis of the patroon must make these out for them, that is a mistake. For he is by no means in the employ of private individuals, but in that of the patroon. His duty, therefore, is really to pass provisionally, in the name of the patroon, upon all accounts in the colony and to look them over, adding thereon his advice and opinion and then to send them over to the patroon for his approval, criticism or rejection.

Although he is accountable specially to the patroon, he is so far accountable to the inhabitants that he must deliver to them the accounts of such property (merchandise or other goods, which they receive from him) as is under his administration. But as regards the accounts [of property] under the management and direction of the farmers, and of all others who have administration of any property, belonging in whole or in part to the patroon or to him in company with others, such must be rendered not by him to them, but by them to him.

As it is just that each one should render account of his own acts, since an outsider can not know what thereof is right or wrong, it necessarily follows as is customary throughout the world:—

That all farmers or others who hold any of the patroon's property, must make out their own accounts, and deliver them to the patroon or his commis for examination. Should they say that they are not able to do this, then they ought not to have accepted or undertaken it, much less allow it to run on for several years, lest otherwise the inability or the loss to result therefrom, may fall on them, and they remain bound notwithstanding to render the account.

It is not inability on their part but a perverse desire to defraud the patroon, and thereby to place him at crossroads;<sup>19</sup> thinking that everything that they in this way can conceal from him shall remain concealed and that he will know nothing thereof.

That it has been feasible for them [to render accounts] every year and still is so, shall appear. But that they design something else thereby, that shall also quickly come to light.

Under the cloak of this simplicity, the following bad practices are concealed.

I That they make themselves trustees of property which is under their administration and direction and for which they are accountable, without rendering any account.

II That they may run up their outlays and expenses according to their [own] pleasure.

III That they include in the expenses of the farm their own personal expenses which they incur for clothing, furniture and unlawful drink.

<sup>19</sup> En daermeede op eenen kruys wech te setten.

IV That they can embezzle as much wheat and other produce as they please.

All of which the patroon repudiates as inconsistent with right and conscience; the trouble is therefore not only with the manner in which the accounts are drawn but that the people thereby alter his contracts and their promises.

They have made promises to him in accordance with the first article of the contract of Gerrit de Reux, deceased, whereto all contracts refer, until the arrival of the farmers from Breda. Of this contract of the late Gerrit de Reux, which they well knew how to cite with keenness and impertinence, as regards the preemption of the grain, they stated that copies were in that country; to these copies, as well as to the original remaining in his hands, the patroon appeals. And it will be found in the beginning thereof, that they are bound under oath, on pain of losing their wages and effects, that neither they nor their people will trade in any forbidden peltries of otters or beavers, nor obtain any such as presents or otherwise, without the express consent of the patroon.

So that all such as have done so have forfeited their effects, unless they have subsequently obtained the consent of the patroon; proving which to him, he will confirm the same provided they fulfil the conditions on which he granted it to them:

Namely, half the profits each time they trade and barter. They must therefore render upright account and declaration of what they have gained thereby, and credit him with his half. If they now say that they can not render such account, the patroon insists, according to their contract, on the confiscation of their effects, giving them the choice between one and the other; and that continuously from year to year; and this is the first point.

Coming now to the other points of their contracts, they turn these around completely.

Brant Peelen and Cornelis van Breuckel are for themselves personally bound to render an account for the goods brought by de Calmer Sleutel and het Waepen van Noorwegen, among which were divers goods which they traded for beavers, whereof Arendt van Curler writes that not 12 pelts have come into his hands. They remain, besides, bound and accountable as security for Arendt van Curler, whom the patroon sent over only as assistant and they put up as commis under their bond, as appears by their own hand.

Further, they misinterpret all these following points. Their contracts read that they must defray out of the common produce and profits:

I The wages of their men and boys.

II Next, their board.

III Next, their own expenses, as regards board on the farm, their contract speaking in no way of drink but simply of wages and board; as far as drink is concerned, they must content themselves like other farmers with milk and ordinary beer, but during the harvest, as an exception, good beer, and for the rest with what the river affords.

IV That they have undertaken to pay, out of the general produce, all wear of wagons, ploughs; in fine, all damages and losses.

All of which most of them fail to pay, leaving not only the wages of the servants to fall on the patroon, who with trouble has obtained these for them, but even taking on credit, without paying any money, such merchandise as the commis, Arendt van Curler, has delivered to them.

From which it appears clearly, that over and above all their debauches in wine and strong drink, every one would fain claim and has much to demand in settling accounts, and the patroon who in the first place supplied their equipment, their requirements of dwellings, cattle, wagons and plows and their needs of stockings and shoes, linens and woolens, as the invoices sent by him can prove, would still, instead of the returns from his goods and profits from the farms, have to pay large sums, which he never intends to do. He forbids his commis to settle any accounts of masters or servants until the masters shall first have made out and paid the accounts of their servants, and so from year to year, and shall then have drawn up their own accounts in the following manner (charging him, the commis, not to meddle in any one else's affairs nor to make up any accounts except of what he has [in charge], but to demand in the name of the patroon that all outstanding accounts settled in the following manner by the farmers and other persons who are to render accounts):

Firstly, those who hold the land on half shares shall make up their accounts accordingly.

I Each year report honestly the whole amount of grain and other produce obtained that year from the farm; and those who can not do so shall incur fine and penalty.

II Item, what they have received from the sale of hogs, from milk, butter and other products.

III Item, what grain they have delivered and sold to freemen in the colony.

Herefrom must be deducted, and by them be paid, according to their contract:

I The wages of the farm hands, with the 16 guilders yearly for the patroon.

II The board of themselves and people.

III The wear of wagons, plows, repairs of houses, barracks, fences, and other such things.

This being deducted, they must make out an account of what then remains; indicating to the patroon; or his commis, the just half which falls to him, first deducting the tithes.

Now as regards the just half of the remainder, which belongs to the farmer, therefrom must be subtracted the following:

I What he has had for himself each year for clothes and household articles.

II What he has had each year from the patroon's store for himself and his men (from whose wages he in turn is to make a deduction).

III What he and his people spent each year in wine and strong drink, whereof the patroon is not bound under his contract to pay his half; the patroon stating peremptorily that all the wines which have been drunk in the colony and paid for in grain or other common effects shall not be deducted from the general stock, much less from his share, but from that of the person who consumed them, whether man or woman, master or servant, having promised no one such, much less in so great abundance as many have used.

And as regards the increase of the animals, each farmer shall each year give in an exact account of those that have died, those that have been added and those that have been disposed of; and the patroon understands the preemption price of cows to apply to those which calve in their third year, and not in the second, as the valuation on the part of the Company, to which the preemption price has reference, is understood of cattle which calve in their third year. So that those calving in their second year, which gradually decrease in size and produce smaller stock, are to be taken at only half the price or a little more.

And whereas the farmers commonly employ contrary means and enter upon wrong courses, as for example, when grain became scarce and more in demand, then many of them sent a great deal away and sold it higher than the preemption price or delivered it recklessly and in gross on their own authority to the Company's servants without receiving special payment therefor or obtaining special bills of exchange or drafts; therefore the patroon resolves, as is just, that for all such wheat as is delivered in this manner to the Company he is not bound to give compensation until the payment therefor has come into his purse. He hereby gives the farmers notice that, from the beginning until now, being now nearly 13 years, he has received but one payment in money, 1500 guilders, in all that time; the remainder has been credited against goods and provisions delivered to the farmers and the people of the colony, who have had the same charged to the patroon in amounts of two to three thousand guilders, without naming man or horse. These accounts must first be properly itemized as to who is, and who is not, to pay for those amounts, allowing no exceptions or excuses from one or the other as, "I have not had this; I have not had that," each one desiring to clear himself by his own statement; and although some will be found more at fault than others in this respect, yet it must nevertheless first be cleared up or settled from whom these sums are due. For what one has delivered and another has received, that he must find out to whom payment is due, and not the patroon. Nor can any money be charged to the patroon which has not been received at his office, particularly not if [the grain] has, without his consent, been delivered or sent to the Company and by them accepted on the general account of the colony, as appears to have been done; and such farmers had done better to have immediately taken their payment in return therefor.

And whereas grain is now somewhat less in demand and will apparently be somewhat lower in price, the patroon hereby also notifies the farmers who have running accounts that they must not hand in their statements of produce delivered in gross, but separately:

I The tenths.

II That which is for the men's wages and that which is for the yearly expenses.

III The third or half belonging to the patroon.

Which being done, what is then found to be justly coming to them may each year be balanced against other accounts so as not to get into arrears.

They must offer the total number of mud'es of grain to the patroon's commis, demanding of him whether in the name of the patroon he consents or declines to take it over, in which matter the commis must govern himself according to the orders of the patroon and according to the expected prices and sales, which he may be able to obtain for it in cash, goods or peltries, without giving credit, and if conditions are contrary he must refuse to take it over, in which case the farmers are at liberty to do their best with it, and this is the option of the right of preemption. But that the farmers should wish to crowd up the commis and overload him with produce when it is low in value, and when at a higher price, themselves sell it, as many have done — that is in no wise the intention of the patroon. He warns all farmers to put their people on their guard against this and not to deliver any mixed grain; that is to say, wherefrom the tenth and the third, or half according to contract, have not been separated or paid.

Coming now to the conclusion: the patroon declares that he will not accept any accounts which cover several years; but that every farmer, or whoever he be, shall deliver to him yearly accounts of the year's profits, as well for them as for him.

That also things delivered wherefor they have not received special payment, or which have not come into the patroon's office, must remain in the general account until everything has been cleared up and itemized.

That none of the inhabitants have or can have any free or private goods, except such as have rendered their yearly and proper accounts.

And if they should complain of this, the patroon, who has not received any accounts from them in all that time, has much greater cause to complain. As to their reference to the patroon's commis, saying that it is his fault, it has already been stated that he is not in their service but in that of the patroon, that he is not obliged to make out their accounts but the patroon's, and that every person, be he who he may, the patroon's commis as well as other persons who have entered into contracts, farmers, yearly or daily laborers, each shall make out his own account. The commis generael is specially enjoined to account to the patroon; and all others, none excepted, shall account to the commis generael for his examination first, and afterwards for the approbation of the patroon.

As for their imagining that all their secret practices of covetousness will through length of time be forgotten, they will find themselves deceived; if they take a course toward the west to escape, the patroon will take a course from the east, in order with the rising of the sun to expose their deception.

The patroon does not propose to wrong any one in the world, much less the least of his inhabitants; but as he will not wrong any one, so on the other hand he will not be hoodwinked or wronged by any one. Every man whose conscience is not asleep or seared will well understand what that means.

And all persons, farmers or servants, are warned that if they come over with any accounts which they have extorted from the commis through his ignorance, or by persuasion or threats, they will have to pass the review of the preceding points before they can get satisfaction from the patroon, who being far from his property is near to his loss.

In the meantime, the patroon is heartily desirous of a full settlement with all who have obtained their goods, however much, without prejudice to him, and wishes them all luck and prosperity therewith. While it is in part due to the carelessness of the commis that neither he nor any one else has, for five or more years, sent any accounts, yet the patroon must first make his demands upon those who have not, according to their bounden duty, rendered any accounts to the commis, which every one in the colony was obliged to do, and their neglect shall tend not to the accusation but to the excusing of the commis. Nevertheless what he was bound to do, and must and ought and could have done, in regard to the goods sent to him, thereof he shall not be excused by the patroon.

These things then being so, you are requested to direct the work so that for the future I may know precisely, each year, what profit each farm gives me, for I am not liable in case of loss; after I have once delivered to them dwellings and cattle, they must find means to pay the tithes, the servants' wages, and the patroon's half and third without confusing them; and what supplies they then need, they must pay for out of their own share; and God grant that regular and proper accounts may at last be kept there from year to year. There has been sent to me here, from the Manhatans, an extract of the contract of Gerrit de Reux, deceased, in which many articles are left out. Let Arent look among the papers to see if they have not a complete contract. Otherwise I have the original here, which I will send over if necessary. But I think that Arent has it. Vale.

•      August 31, 1644

The honorable court of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, noticing the great evil which occurs yearly by the untimely picking of the hops which tends largely to the loss and detriment of this colony, and wishing to remedy this, have ordered and thought fit, as they hereby do order and think fit, that no one shall be allowed to pick any hops in this colony or to carry any hops that are picked outside into the colony before the 25th of September of each year, on forfeiture of the said picked hops and an additional fine of 25 Carolus guilders whenever any one is found to act contrary to this ordinance; and the hops which have been picked or are being picked at present shall be burned by the officer of this colony, as they are not merchantable hops and cause great fraud by being mixed with others and otherwise. Therefore, let every one take heed and guard himself against loss. Done in council, this 31st of August 1644.

By order of the honorable court of this colony of Rensselaerswyck.

Ordinance concerning the fur trade issued by the officers at Fort Orange in conjunction with the court of the colony of Rensselaerswyck<sup>32</sup>

May 8, 1645

Copy

The court of the honorable Chartered West India Company here at Fort Orange and the honorable presiding officer and council of the honorable patroon of this colony, to all who shall see these presents or hear them read, Greeting. Whereas, we notice the great abuses which are daily practised in the fur trade here and which tend greatly to the detriment both of the honorable Chartered West India Company and of the honorable patroon of this colony, we have ordered and decreed, as we hereby do order and decree, as follows:

<sup>31</sup> As the column stands the total is not f544 0 8 but f550 4 8. If the item concerning de Bloom is changed to f7 10, the total would still be only f551 4 8.

First, that no one, whoever he may be, may give more than 10 hands of white and five hands of black seawan or four hands of duffel for one merchantable beaver, smaller or larger as the case may be, on forfeiture of the said fur thus obtained and such merchandise as he shall be found to have with him and in addition under penalty of a fine of 25 Carolus guilders.

That no one shall presume to barter any furs with the Indians during the night or at unseasonable hours outside of his house on forfeiture of 50 Carolus guilders.

That no one shall be permitted to meet any savages outside of his house to barter with them, much less to go to the woods, unless he shall have obtained special authorization to do so from the court here, on pain of 50 guilders aforesaid.

That if any one is found enticing any savages to him from the houses of either commis, he shall be liable to a fine of 30 Carolus guilders; or if he allures them from the house of some one who has obtained a right to trade freely, 25 guilders aforesaid.

As your honor knows best on what basis the first colonies in New Netherland were established and what was understood by the word patroon of the respective colonies, in regard to which several disputes occurred between us underwritten and Mr killiaen van Rensselaer, deceased, during his life and still continue with his heirs and the guardians of his minor children, the aforesaid construing the right of patroonship into a supremacy over us, their copartners, even so far that without our consent they dare choose a director over the colony and other officers and give instructions to the same of which they claim to let us have the mere approval, whereas we, according to the first plan and contract agreed upon respecting this matter, understand this patroonship to have been conceded to the said van Rensselaer and his heirs inasmuch as the same must be entered under one name, but the force and effect thereof to belong to the copartners in common, without the pretended patroon being at liberty to do anything without the knowledge and approval of his associates or to claim for himself in particular anything in the way of dignities or emoluments; we request most urgently that your honor will please to make such statement regarding this matter as you may deem proper. ### Reply of Samuel Blommaert and Johannes de Laet to the States General<sup>38</sup>

To the High and Mighty Lords the States General
High and Mighty Lords:

The answer of Jean van Wely and Woulter van Twiller as guardians of Johan van Renselaer, to the memorial presented by us, the underwritten, to your High Mightinesses on the 20th of November 1648, was handed to us by the said guardians on the 8th of May of this year, as appears by the copy hereto annexed, to which we add the following by way of refutation.

First, that it is indeed said by the defendants that Kiliaen van Renselaer, deceased, registered the colony in New Netherland in accordance with the freedoms granted for that purpose, but they omit to state that he registered it cum Socijs; these were the plaintiffs or their predecessors, so that those freedoms were obtained for them as well as for the said Renselaer, just as from the beginning they have also jointly borne the expense in proportion to their shares.

Secondly, that they wrongfully pass by the contract signed by the parties which the plaintiffs annexed to their memorial to your High Mightinesses and set forth another agreement which was never signed.

Thirdly, that they are wrong in alleging that the management and jurisdiction belong to them alone and the gain or profits to the participants in proportion, it being an unheard of arrangement, which no one in his senses would enter into, to let some one else have complete control where he himself might suffer loss. The plaintiffs trusted Renselaer, deceased, with the management as long as he gave them regular notice of his doings; but when they noticed that the said trust might be considered a right, as he began to consider it before his decease and as these people have openly treated it (just as if we were their vassals instead of their coparticipants), they always objected both during his lifetime and later.

Fourthly, it is truly said by them that they have never refused to render accounts, but they omit to state that they have never rendered them though requested to do so long ago; there is not much difference between not doing a thing and refusing to do it.

Fifthly, it seems strange to us that these people refer to the management of other colonies in New Netherland in which the aforesaid Kiliaen van Renselaer as well as the plaintiffs participated because the minutes of the meetings and some of the participants who are still living can testify that the patroons of the said colonies have not taken upon themselves the management and jurisdiction, but that everything that was to be done was decided by joint vote, the title of patroon only, and nothing else, being reserved to one person for the sake of the descent of the fief.

Finally, that after having delayed us for a long time with the expectation that according to our request they would submit the questions between us to the decision of arbitrators to be chosen by both sides and having meanwhile done everything they pleased, they sent a director thither without consulting us in the least, yes, against our protest, gave him and others without our knowledge instructions of such content as might lead to misunderstanding between us and the Chartered West India Company (as indeed complaints have already been made about certain acts caused by their instructions) and do not communicate to us the letters which they write thither or those which come from there, as if the matter did not concern us.

After these and other abuses, they now request your High Mightinesses to refer us to the ordinary courts of justice, to all appearances as if it did not belong to your High Mightinesses to take cognizance of a question which depends on a regulation approved and issued by your High Mightinesses, the interpretation and decision of which belongs to your High Mightinesses alone.

Taking all this into consideration, we once more very humbly request your High Mightinesses that your High Mightinesses will please to summon both parties on a certain appointed day before a committee of your High Mightinesses and, after hearing the arguments on both sides, to effect a settlement or to decide the questions at issue, in such a way as your High Mightinesses shall deem fit.

Which doing, etc.

Sentence of Claes Andriessz<sup>43</sup>March 26, 1650

TRANSLATED BY MRS ALAN H. STRONG

A conditional sentence in 1650

In the matter of several serious misdemeanors of Claes Andriessz. from Hilversum.

On the very urgent prayer of his master Jan Barentsz. Wemp and his wife, and perceiving the great need of the same, the honorable members of this Court have been moved to what follows, yet under express pledge of the delinquent.

1st. That Claes Andriessz., shall not enter any tavern of this place to drink beer, wine or distilled liquors.

2d. That he shall promise under oath that he will faithfully serve his present master and master's wife, or any other whom he may get in the colony, and do their work, in everything obey them, not leave their service or leave the colony before and until he has fulfilled his obligations to the aforesaid, the director and the patroon according to his contract and promise and that on the Lord's day of rest he will go to hear God's Holy Word instead of going to the taverns and will perform and show all proper obedience to the authorities.

3d. That he shall also promise under oath that he will give to no one, whether man, woman or any aged person, either by word or deed, the least cause which might result in damage of any sort, and if such be done, that then he shall publicly be punished for all previous misdemeanors<sup>44</sup> though all his fines, charges for extraordinary sessions of the Court, etc., had been paid.

All the aforesaid Claes Andriessz. promises, without legal constraint, to perform in every respect, fully confirming the same by oath in the presence of the aforesaid honorable members of the

<sup>44</sup> March 18, 1650, Claes Andriessz. while denying a number of charges brought against him, confessed that July 16, 1649, he struck at Hendrick driesz with a knife; that he had spoken insolently to Director Brant van Slichtenhorst on the street; that Jan. 31, 1650, he struck gysbert aende berch over the head. Gerechts Rolle, 1648-52, f.50b, 52.

Court, according to his own hand, pledging therefor his person and property, which he now owns or hereafter may own, be it in this country, in the fatherland or elsewhere; to this end submitting himself to this honorable Court and to all other courts and justices without exception, all with expenses. In witness whereof, he has signed this with his own mark in the colony of Rensselaerswyck, this 26th of March 1650.

(Copy of a copy from the court proceedings of the colony of Rensselaerswyck appearing among the legal documents used in the suit of van Slichtenhorst against Van Renselaer before the Hoog Adellijk Landgericht of the Veluwe 1656/59, preserved in the government archives at Arnhem.)

The sentence was quoted in the lawsuit as proof that the schout had set free some one "contrary to oath and contract" and was therefore apparently not approved by the patroon.

<sup>49</sup> No farmer by this name appears in the account-books among the Rensselaerswyck Mss. The name occurs several times in Gerechts Rolle 1648-52, but on f.91b of that volume and also in the index to Account Book, 1642-54, the name Cornelisz is written over that of Segersz, while the occupant of the farm on Papscaene Island is given in the Notietie Vn de Bouwerijen, 1651, on p. 741, as Claes Segerts, and in the renewal of the lease, 1652, on p. 767, as Claes Cornelisz. It seems certain therefore that Claes Segersz was the same person as Claes Cornelisz, the son of Cornelis Segersz van Voorhout, and that contrary to the usual rule of Dutch nomenclature he was occasionally called Segersz to distinguish him from Claes Cornelisz, the brother of Gijsbert Cornelisz op den Hoogenberch.

The document is valuable for its information as to location, size and quality of the farms mentioned in the preceding "Inventory of animals, 1651," and in "Leases and agreements relating to the farms, 1650-58," which follows, and has therefore been deemed worth printing here. A comparison of the document with the "Inventory of animals, 1651," will show some discrepancies in the number of animals reported. Capt. OFFER OF LEASE OF GRIST- AND SAWMILLS ON THE FIFTH CREEK TO THE HIGHEST BIDDER AND MEMORANDUM THAT IT HAS BEEN GRANTED TO JACOB JANSZ FLODDER<sup>85</sup>

January 29 and February 2, 1654

The director and commissioners of the colony of Rensselaerswyck desire this day, the 29th of January of the year 1654, to lease to the highest bidder the grist- and sawmills situated and being on the fifth creek,<sup>86</sup> upon the following conditions.

First, the mills shall be delivered to the lessee in working order with all that the former lessee received with them; he shall keep the aforesaid mills in working order and at the end of the term of his lease again deliver them up in working order; but if he removes the mills to another place or rebuilds them, he shall at the end of his lease receive 400 guilders.

The lease shall be for eight consecutive years, beginning the 18th of May of this year 1654.<sup>87</sup>

<sup>87</sup> According to the account books of the colony, the mills were leased to Rutger Jacobsz and Barent Pietersz till May 18, 1654, at 550 guilders a year.

Within two years from the commencement of the lease two new millstones shall be furnished for the grist-mill.

The lessee shall pay once for the expenses connected with the leasing one stiver on each guilder and annually as toepacht<sup>88</sup> eight fowls.

The lessee shall always and before others accommodate the farms, especially those which are far away, because of the greater amount of the wages involved, and further help every one as fast as possible.

To the mills shall be furnished two stallions or geldings which the lessee shall use without any payment therefor. The horses shall be appraised at the commencement of the lease and the lessee shall bear the risk. At the end of the lease they shall be appraised again and their decrease in value made good by the lessee.

Payments must be made promptly each year in good, strung seawan or merchantable beavers.

The price of grinding remains as before.

The lessee shall submit himself to the honorable court of the aforesaid colony as well as to the ordinances already passed or to be passed hereafter.

The lessee shall be obliged to furnish two sufficient sureties, who shall submit themselves to the honorable court aforesaid.

No one shall be allowed to take as surety a member of the court of the aforesaid colony.

The lessee shall immediately pay the secretary a fee of two rix-dollars.

In leasing the mills, the same rules shall be followed which have been observed heretofore by the honorable court.

These conditions being understood by the hearers, every one is to suit his own interest. Was signed: Jan Baptist van Rensselaer, Anthonius de Hooges, Arent van Curler.

Jacob Iansz. Flodder has leased the aforesaid mills on the above conditions for 1906 guilders a year and Sander Leendertsz. Glen and Willem Fredricxsz, van Leyden offer themselves on behalf of Jacob Iansz. aforesaid as bondsmen and sureties for the fulfilment of the above conditions, for which the lessee and the sureties, each one for himself, submits his person and property, movable and immovable, owned at present or to be acquired hereafter, to the jurisdiction of the honorable court of the colony of R: Wyck, or where it may be most convenient to the lessors or their successors. AGREEMENT ABOUT CHANGES IN THE ABOVE LEASE<sup>89</sup>

On the 19th of May 1654, Iacob jansz. Flodder took over the mills at the fifth creek on the aforesaid conditions. It is found, however, that the sawmill has fallen considerably into decay, which at the end of the lease will be taken into proper consideration. On the date aforesaid there were delivered to Iacob Iansz. two stallions which upon request have been appraised by Goosen Gerritsz. and Cornelis Cornelissz. van voorhout, the stallion taken from Cornelis aforesaid at 240 guilders and that from de Hoogenberch<sup>90</sup> at 200 guilders.

Without prejudice to the preceding lease, as the aforesaid mills are found greatly out of repair, the director, Iohan Baptista van Rensselaer, and the commissioners have further agreed and contracted with Iacob Iansz. Flodder together with Willem fredricxsz. and Sander Leendertsz., sureties for the aforesaid Iacob, that the term of the lease shall be extended and prolonged four years, so that it shall run 12 years, but only 10 years' rent shall be paid, two years' rent to be equally distributed over the 12 years and each year deducted,<sup>91</sup> while on the other hand the mention in the contract of 400 guilders for the renewing or removing of the mills shall be annulled and void. And in case they should erect another grist-mill on the aforesaid creek they shall pay no rent for it during the aforesaid period and the patroon and codirectors shall on the expiration of the lease take over the newly erected mill at its proper valuation and during the aforesaid time no other grist-mill may be erected on the said creek. All of which, being done without guile or deceit, the contracting parties have confirmed with their signatures. R. Wyck, the 2d of June 1654.

LEASE OF WATER POWER OF THE UPPER MILL ON THE FIFTH CREEK

This day the 14th of December 1654, Mr Iohan Baptista van Rensselaer, in his capacity of director of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, has agreed and contracted with Barent Pietersz. and Teunis van Spitsbergen concerning the lease of the water power of the <sup>93</sup> dc ses Iacrs 1654; apparently a mistake for dc s Iaers 1654, of the year 1654. Abraham Stevensz leased the Valeije behind the farm of Broer Cornelis on Feb. 3, 1650, for four or six years, at an annual rent of one and a half beavers, taking upon himself all the expenses; Gerechts Rolle, 1648-52, f.47b, among the Rensselaerswyck Mss. Barent Pietersz apparently took over the two years' lease from Feb. 3, 1654, to Feb. 3, 1656, and then March 1, 1655, had the lease extended from 1656 to 1660. Abraham Stevensz is in the Gerechts Rolle and in the account books frequently referred to as de Croaet, the Croatian. Not unlikely he had come to Holland with the bands of Croatians who under Ernst, count of Montecucculi, invaded the Veluwe and the Gooi in 1629. Barent Pietersz appears in the Rensselaerswyck Mss., under date of 1647, as Barent Pietersz Koijemans.

In testimony whereof both parties have confirmed these presents with their signatures. Agreed on the date as above. PERMISSION TO BARENT PIETERSZ COEYMANS AND TEUNIS CORNELISZ
VAN SPITSBERGEN TO ERECT ANOTHER SAWMILL ON THE CREEK<sup>97</sup>

August 3, 1656

Copy

This day, date underwritten, Mr jan Baptist van Rensselaer, director of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, has contracted and agreed with Barent Pieterss. and Teunis Corneliss van Spitsbergen, as follows: the director gives them permission to erect another sawmill<sup>98</sup> above the sawmill situated at the fifth creek, which said mill they may use for the space of 10 years next ensuing, commencing when the first board shall be sawed. They shall pay as an annual rent, for the first three years after they begin to saw, the sum of 100 guilders, and for the remaining seven years, 125 guilders, payments to be made in good merchantable goods, either boards or good, strung seawan. In testimony whereof, parties have confirmed these <sup>96</sup> According to the account books of the colony this was a sawmill, formerly owned by Rutger Jacobsz and Barent Pietersz who, Dec. 14, 1654, are charged with six years' rent for water power at 125 guilders a year. It was called the bovenste molen, or upper mill, on account of its location on the fifth creek relatively to that of the combination saw and grist-mill belonging to the patroon and codirectors, for which, May 18, 1654, Rutger Jacobs and Barent Pietersz are charged with six years' rent at 550 guilders a year and which after that date was leased to Jacob Jansz Flodder at 1588 guilders and six stivers a year (see p. 746). A third mill, which was erected in 1656 at the expense of Barent Pietersz and Teunis Cornelisz van Spitsbergen, in accordance with the agreement printed below, is in the account books usually referred to as the alderbovenste molen, the uppermost mill, but in some entries as the bovenste molen, in which cases the mill mentioned in the present lease is called the onderste molen, the lower mill.

<sup>98</sup> In the account books of the colony among the Rensselaerswyck Mss this mill is usually referred to as the alderbovenste molen, the uppermost mill. See note to preceding lease.

Wyck*, as lessor, and Abraham Pietersz. vosburch, with Hans Jansz. van Rotterdam, as lessees, have agreed and contracted about the water power on the mill creek<sup>6</sup> south of the farm now occupied by Ian Barentsz Wemp, on the following conditions.

The lease shall commence on the first of January of next year, 1657, and continue six successive years at 100 guilders or 100 good merchantable boards and two pair<sup>7</sup> of fowls each year, the boards to be delivered at the water's edge of the river. The lessees may plant a garden and also keep some horses, cows and hogs but upon the express condition that the farm of Ian Barentsz aforesaid shall not be injured or inconvenienced thereby and that they must enclose the land which they want to use for their horses or cows with a good fence. The aforesaid lessees further expressly promise, each one for himself, that they will not in any way, either directly or indirectly, sell or cause to be sold to the savages any brandy, good beer or any liquor by whatever name it may be called, on the forfeiture of the share in the mill of the one who is found to have committed the offense, without any exceptions or excuses. They further submit themselves to the orders, regulations and ordinances of the honorable court of this colony of Rensselaerswyck, both those which are already issued and those which may be issued in the future; and for the fulfilment of what is above written the lessees besides their persons and goods pledge the aforesaid mill by way of mortgage, and to that end the lessor as well as the lessees have confirmed these with their own signatures, without guile or deceit. LEASE OF FARM BETWEEN THE TWO CREEKS, LAST OCCUPIED BY

November 18, 1654

Copy

On the date underwritten, Mr Iohan Bapt. van Rensselaer, director, and the commissioners of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, have agreed and contracted with Ian Barentsz. Wemp respecting the lease of the farm last occupied by Thomas Chamber in the aforesaid colony, upon the following conditions.

I

The lessee shall use the land between the two creeks as cultivated by Thomas Chamber, and if the adjoining land can be obtained from the savages, he shall use it with the aforesaid land, without further charges than those mentioned in this contract.

The house, barn and barracks shall at the first opportunity be appraised by experienced men, the risk and charge of the same

<sup>s</sup> V. R. B. Mss 45, p.15. The farm referred to in this lease was established by Thomas Chambers under a contract with the officers of the colony, dated Sept. 7, 1646, which is found in Copije van cenige Acten en andere Aenmerckelijcke Notitien, 1643-48, p.74-78, among the Rensselaerswyck Mss. The land is described as being "situated obliquely opposite the farm called de Vlackte, on the east side of the river, between the two creeks," by which is meant the land between the present Wynant's and Poesten Kills, in the southern part of the city of Troy. The contract provides that Thomas Chambers shall use the said land for the period of five years, commencing Nov. 1, 1647; that he shall build at his own expense a barn, 60x28 feet, in all respects like the barn of Poentje, a dwelling house, 32x18 feet, hay barracks and a fence, and that at the end of the five years he shall surrender these to the patroon in lieu of rent; also, that he shall receive two mares, two stallions and four cows, and that each year he shall pay tithes and, as an acknowledgement, 25lb of butter. The contract provides further that if there is an opportunity to erect a sawmill, Thomas Chambers shall have the preference, and that at the end of the five years he may extend the term of his lease for three years, on payment of an annual rent of f500, in addition to tithes. In the account books of the colony, Thomas Chambers is charged with tithes from 1647 to 1652, and with rent and tithes from 1652 to 1654. July 14, 1654, Thomas Chambers surrendered his farm, dwelling house, barn and hay during the term of the lease to be shared half and half by the lessors and by the lessee, except in case of general war, when the lessee shall not have to bear any of the charges.

3

All expenses of whatever nature shall be defrayed by the lessee, who is also solely responsible for the fences.

4

The lessee receives four mares, one stallion and four cows, which he must return at the end of the lease or replace from the increase; half the increase of the said horses and cattle shall belong to the lessee.

5

The lease of the said farm commences at stubble time of this year 1654 and shall end the first day of May 1659.

6

The winter seeding which is put into the ground during the last year of the lease shall be appraised in the latter part of May after the expiration of the lease and the next tenant must take it at its valuation and pay the tithes upon it.

---

barracks and gave a promissory note to Jan Baptist van Rensselaer for f1388:3. Soon after he moved to the Esopus, where he had bought land June 5, 1652. As far as any records show, the farm of Thomas Chambers was the first one to be established on the east side of the river, north of the present city of Rensselaer, while the tract on which it was located was probably the first to be purchased from the Indians in that vicinity. (See note to the certificate of purchase of Aug. 13, 1630, on p. 167.) Jan. 27, 1651, according to a certificate among the Rensselaerswyck Mss, the commissioners of the colony bought from the Indians a "certain creek situated south of the farm of Thomas Chambers and north of Monamin's Castle, with the surrounding wood and the adjoining land and the jurisdiction thereof, to the castle, obliquely opposite the house of Broer Cornelis." This refers apparently to the purchase of the Wynant's Kill and to a tract of land to the south of it, in spite of the fact that Monamin's, or Monemin's Castle appears on the parchment map of the colony, reproduced in this volume, as lying at the mouth of the Mohawk, on what is now called Peobles Island. The lease speaks of an eventual purchase of adjoining land. This refers to land on the Poesten Kill, for which a confirmatory patent was issued to Sweer Teunisz van Velsen on April 13, 1667. From this patent we learn that "a Certain pcell of Land lying neer Albany on the other side of the Creek or Kill beginning from the Mill on the Creek and to goe on over the sd: Creek unto the Great Meadow Ground whereabout Sixty six paces the Trees are markt" was "in the Yeare 1659 Purchased of the Indyan Proprietors by Ian Barentsen Wemp with the Leave and Consent of Ian Baptist van Rensselaer and Arent Van Corlaer." The purchase evidently covered the Poesten Kill, so named after Jan Barentsz Wemp, also called Poest, and a narrow strip of land to the north of said kill. The year of the purchase, though coinciding with the expiration of the lease of the farm between the Wynant's and Poesten Kills, may not be correctly given in the patent, as Jan Baptist van Rensselaer left the colony in the fall of 1658. It is interesting to note that the issue of a patent to Sweer Teunisz shows that Wemp must have bought the land in his own name.

7

As rent for the use of what is described above, the lessee shall pay the aforementioned director or his successor yearly, promptly and without delay, the sum of 600 guilders, that is for four and a half years' lease 2700 guilders, over and above the yearly tithes and toepacht, in merchantable grain, the wheat at 10 guilders and the oats at four guilders a muddle.

8

And as bondsmen and sureties for the terms of this contract and for the due performance of the same, offer themselves Rutger Jacobsz. and Goossen Gerritsz., to that end, subjecting themselves to the honorable court of the aforesaid colony.

Ian Barentsz. aforesaid promises further to conduct himself diligently and honestly as an upright colonist should, submitting himself to the laws and ordinances of the aforesaid colony, for which purpose the aforesaid parties together with the sureties have signed this with their own hands. Done this 18th of November, 1654. Was signed: Jan Baptist van Rensselaer, Anthonius de Hooges, the ordinary mark iB of Ian Barentsz. made with his own hand, and as sureties, Rutger Jacobsz., the mark X of Goossen Gerritsz. made with his own hand.

Below was written: This contract is extended for two years at the request of Ian Barentsz. Wemp, on condition that the sureties of the contract are satisfied therewith, the 21st of August 1658 in Rensselaerswyck. Was signed: Jan Baptist van Rensselaer, this is the mark iB of Ian Barentsz. Wemp made with his own hand, Rutger Jacobsz., the mark X of Goossen Gerritsz. made with his own hand. This lease still continues as above.

<sup>10</sup> Given in Account Book, 1634-38, among the Rensselaerswyck Mss, as Goosen gerritsz van westebroeck; first entry dated April 8, 1637. The same book gives Cornelis Teunisz Bos, commonly called van Westbroeck, as Cornelis Theunissen van westebroeck, first entry dated April 8, 1637. It seems most likely that westebroeck refers to Westbroek, in the province of Utrecht, though there is a Westbroek, also called Westbroek, in the province of Groningen. The children of Goossen Gerritsz used the name van Schaick.

<sup>12</sup> It is not clear whether the 10 years are from May 1, 1655, or from Sept. 11, 1658. The account books of the colony record the payment of rent and tithes from May 1, 1655, to May 1, 1658, but contain no accounts with Goosen Gerritsz and Thomas Jansz after Sept. 11, 1658, so that the above lease would seem to have been canceled.

The lease shall continue for the space of four years commencing today. In testimony whereof, Mr Rensselaer and Arent aforesaid have confirmed this with their signatures, without fraud; in *R. May 1, 1653

Copy

Evert Pels promises by his signature, hereto affixed, that this winter without further delay he will make prompt and full payment in merchantable grain to the director of this colony for all debts remaining unpaid according to the accounts; and in case of his failure to do so, the following contract shall be void and of no effect.

On the date underwritten the honorable Johan Baptista van Rensselaer, director, and the commissioners of the colony of Rensselaerswyck have agreed and contracted with Evert Pels about the lease of the farm used by him to this date and now leased again on the following conditions.

<sup>14</sup> over de by een wooninge der durpe Beverwyck. In the account books among the Rensselaerswyck Mss, the island is referred to as lying opposite the fort; it is apparently what is now known as Boston or Van Rensselaer Island.

I

The lessee shall use the old plowed land and the other as before.<sup>16</sup>

2

As to the house, barn and barracks, the lessee shall deliver them up in the same condition as he received them, according to the inspection and valuation of competent persons, and Evert Pels shall furnish the carpenter and others who are to work on the new barn with meat and drink at his own expense and shall furnish all the heavy timber at the place of building, also at his own expense without making any charges therefor. As to other materials, such as boards, hardware and the roof which Evert Pels is to furnish for the barn, as well as the wages of the workmen, these shall be at the charge of the lessors.

What the lessee advances will be credited to him in the next rent. The lessee must further each year repair the aforesaid buildings and keep them in proper order and on the expiration of the lease deliver them with tight sides and roofs, one half of the risk to be borne by the lessors and the other by the lessee, except in case of general war, in which case the lessee shall not have to bear any of the loss, as aforesaid.

3

The lessee shall take upon himself alone all expenses of whatever nature they may be.

4

The lessee shall have the use of as many animals as there are on the farm at present, one half of the increase to be his on condition that he do not sell or remove his share without consent of the authorities here. There have been delivered to him <sup>17</sup>horses and <sup>17</sup>cows.

6

And during the first years of his lease, he shall spread the manure over the land and cut down or kill the trees which stand in the way.

7

The lessee shall pay promptly each year, as rent of the aforesaid farm, in addition to the tithes, 400 guilders in merchantable grain, wheat at 10 and oats at four guilders a mudde, the toepacht being the same as on other farms.

8

The lease runs for the next four consecutive years, commencing on the first of May 1653.

9

It is further agreed that Evert Pels for the use of the water power and the logs for the two mills shall promptly pay each year 125 guilders in merchantable boards, the period commencing and ending as above.

10

The lessee must provide two sufficient sureties for the rent and the fulfilment of the contract.

11

For all that is written above, Evert pels and his sureties pledge their respective possessions, movable and immovable, now owned or to be acquired hereafter, none excepted, submitting them to the honorable court of the aforesaid colony or wherever it may be convenient to the lessors.

12

Finally, the lessee promises to conduct himself quietly, faithfully and diligently, to observe all proper laws as an obedient subject and to pay proper respect to the director and commissioners as his lawful superiors. In confirmation whereof, the lessee and the sureties have ratified this by their signatures. Agreed as above. RENEWAL OF LEASE OF THE FARM CALLED DE HOOGEBERCH TO GIJSBERT
CORNELISZ VAN BREUCKELEN<sup>27</sup>

Copy

On the following conditions, Mr Johan Baptista van Rensselaer, director of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, and the commissioners have agreed and contracted with Gijsbert Cornelisz van Breuckelen<sup>27a</sup> about the lease of the farm called de Hoogberch<sup>28</sup>

The aforementioned honorable gentlemen shall supply the lessee, out of the animals which are on the aforesaid farm, with four mares and four cows, which number he must deliver again at the expiration of the lease, replacing such as are wanting by others out of the increase, one half of the increase to be the lessee's provided that he do not remove them out of the jurisdiction of the colony before he has offered them to the above regents at a valuation fixed by impartial persons.

Further, if this colony (which God forbid) should become involved in a general war, it shall, if necessity requires it, be sufficient for the lessee to return [such] animals [as he has] to their honors aforesaid, provided it be done in good time; and every three years delivery [of the surplus animals] must be made. The lease runs for six successive years commencing the first of May 1654, the rent, to be paid yearly in addition to the tithes, amounting to 350 guilders in merchantable and good grain, wheat at 10 and oats at four guilders a mudde, which must be paid off each year without delay. The toepacht is according to agreement. The lessee shall take the barn and barracks at previous valuation, with which Gijsbert Cornelis van Weesp appears at New Amsterdam in 1639; he owned a house in Beverwyck and died before 1654; see N. Y. Col. Mss, 1:134, 158, and Early Records of the City and County of Albany, translated by Jonathan Pearson, p.193. Gijsbert Cornelisz van Breuckelen, usually referred to as Gijsbert Cornelisz aen den berch, or op den Hoogenberch, does not seem to have arrived till 1647 and appears in the account books of the colony as late as 1685.

<sup>28</sup> This farm was from 1640 to 1646 leased by Michiel Jansz van Scrabbekercke and is frequently referred to in the letters of Kiliaen van Rensselaer on account of the rock crystal which was found there. It was situated on the east side of the river, near the present Mill Creek. April 23, 1646, Antony de Hooges, in the absence of instructions from Holland leased the farm for one year to Teunis Cornelisz van Vechten, formerly a farmhand of Michiel Jansz, and April 18, 1647, this lease was renewed for one year. he shall be debited on his account; and on the last year's rent he shall be credited with improvements made or make good depreciation, and Mr van Rensselaer aforesaid shall at the first opportunity furnish the lessee with as many bricks as are needed for a chimney with which he shall also be debited as above.

One half of the risk on the house, barn and barracks is to be borne by the patroon and codirectors and the other half by the lessee, except in case of general war, when their honors aforesaid shall bear the loss alone.

Further, all expenses, of whatever nature they may be, are and remain at the charge of the lessee.

The grain which is sown during the last year of the lease shall be appraised at the end of May, at the expiration of this contract; the lessee to pay the rent and his successor the tithes.

For all that is above written and for its fulfilment Goossen Gerritsz. and Teunis Dircksz. van Vechten become bondsmen and sureties, pledging their persons and possessions, movable and immovable, now owned or to be acquired hereafter, none excepted, and submitting them to the honorable court of the aforesaid colony or wherever it may be convenient to the lessors or their successors.

And the lessee promises to be submissive and diligent as a good colonist ought to be. In confirmation of what is written above the lessors as well as the lessee and his sureties have ratified this by their signatures, in R: Wyck the 23d of June 1654. Was signed: Jan Baptist van Rensselaer, Iohan de Hulter, Anthonius de Hooges, the usual mark X of Gysbert Cornelisz. as lessee, made with his own hand, the mark X of Goosen Gerritsz. as surety, made with his own hand, the mark X of Teunis Dircksz., as surety, made by him with his own hand.

RENEWAL OF LEASE OF ISLAND OPPOSITE BETHLEHEM TO JAN REYERSZ
VAN HOUTEN<sup>30</sup>February 15, 1653

Copy

On the following conditions, Mr Iohan Baptist van Rensselaer, director of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, and the commissioners have agreed and contracted with Ian Reyersz: van Houten<sup>31</sup> about the lease of the island situated at the end of the place called Bethlehem used by him to this day, as follows.

In the first place Reyersz. shall have and use the land as before, for which he shall pay a yearly rent of 230 guilders and 45 guilders for tithes, in merchantable grain, wheat at 10 guilders and oats at four guilders a mudde, and as toepacht, also yearly, 12 pounds of butter, four fowls and two schepels of wheat. The lease commences on the first of May 1653 and runs for eight consecutive years so that the term ends on the first of May 1661.

The lessee receives two mares, four stallions, four cows and one heifer calf, one half of the increase of which shall be his, but before any increase can be counted the number of animals received must be turned over and, in case contrary to our hopes all the horses and animals happen to die or be killed, the lessee must nevertheless pay for them and make good the loss and may not convey away any of the animals raised by him without consent.

As to the buildings, the lessee must defray the cost thereof himself and they shall be his property; for them he shall be furnished with 200 boards for which he must pay at the first settlement of accounts.

As by the preceding contract a dwelling house barn and barracks were promised to Ian Reyersz., which he did not receive, one year's rent, that is, 300 guilders, is deducted from the amount due under the preceding lease, provided that Ian Reyersz. must pay for the 160 boards delivered to him.

The lessee shall further bear alone all the expenses of fencing, farm implements and the like, for which, as well as for the seeded land, the next lessee must compensate and reimburse him according to proper appraisal.

Finally, Ian Reyersz: promises to conduct himself as a good and obedient colonist and inhabitant of the colony should, submitting

On this date underwritten, Pieter winne, with the consent of Mr Iohan Baptista van Rensselaer, director of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, has conveyed and made over to Eldert Gerbertsz. the use of the farm occupied by him, Pieter Winne, to this date according to contract, and of which the lease runs for two years more, expiring on the first of May 1657, on the following conditions.

Eldert Gerbertsz. shall accept the aforesaid farm in its present condition and use as much land in connection with it as the former lessee; but all expenses incurred during the aforesaid time, of whatever nature they may be, are at the sole charge of the lessee.

As to the house and barn, which have been newly erected, the risk thereof is to be borne half and half; and to avoid disputes, since Eldert Gerbertsz. must deliver up everything in equally good condition as he received it, the said buildings are put down at the sum of 2400 guilders. As to the barracks, the charge thereof shall remain as before, so also the provisions about their redelivery.

In the account books among the Rensselaerswyck Mss, Jan Helmsz (written Helms, Helmsen, Helmes, Helmessen and Helmiehsen) is charged from May 1, 1650, to May 1, 1672, with an annual rent of 445 guilders for a farm at Bethlehem, formerly occupied by Jan Dircksz van Bremen.

As to the grain which the lessee leaves on the field the last year, the next lessee must take it over from him according to the appraisal of impartial persons.

Eldert Gerbertsz. shall at the end of the term return as many animals as Pieter Winne received with the farm, that is, three full-grown mares and one yearling mare (but if this mare should die, the lessee may make good the loss by furnishing a yearling, otherwise he must return her as she is), one stallion and one gelding, four cows and one yearling bull. The number of animals received is reserved and of the animals found in addition to that number the lessee shall receive and possess one half with the provision that he may not transport them out of this colony's jurisdiction without previous consent from the rulers here.

As to the rent, Eldert Gerbertsz. shall pay the same as the former lessee, to wit, 275 guilders a year in addition to the tithes and toepacht, payments to be made in good merchantable grain, wheat at 10 and oats at four guilders a mudde.

The lessee must furnish two sufficient sureties for the fulfilment of these conditions, it being left to the discretion of the lessor whom he shall call upon for that purpose, whether the principal or the sureties.

Finally, the lessee submits himself to the honorable court of this colony and to its laws and ordinances, promising to conduct himself as an honest and obedient colonist should. In confirmation whereof, the contracting parties, with the approbation of the said Mr Rensselaer, have ratified this with their signatures, in Rensselaerswyck the 10th day of April 1655; and was signed: Pieter Winne, as grantor, Eldert Gerbertsz. as lessee. Below was written: This is approved by me, J: B: van Rensselaer. Jan Labatjé and *Claes Hendricxsz. LEASE OF CASTLE ISLAND TO CORNELIS SEGERSZ VAN VOORHOUT<sup>42</sup>

Cornelis Zegersz. promises by his signature hereto affixed that he will this winter promptly without delay pay to the honorable Johan Baptista van Rensselaer or his agent in good merchantable grain, as part payment of his old account, the sum of 3000 guilders, wheat counted at 10 guilders and the oats at four guilders a mudde; and in case of his failure to do so, the following contract shall be null and of no effect, his honor aforesaid being then free to rent Castle Island to whom he pleases.

On the date underwritten the honorable Johan Baptista van Rensselaer, director, and the commissioners of the colony of R. Wyck have agreed and contracted with Cornelis Segersen about the lease of the whole of Castle Island used by him to this day<sup>43</sup> and now leased again on the following conditions.

Cornelis Segersz. shall use and properly cultivate the aforesaid island as before.

2

The lessee shall take over the old farmhouse as his own on condition that he pay the sum of 200 guilders for it, which shall be

<sup>43</sup> Previous to 1646, Cornelis Segersz van Voorhout occupied one of the two farms on Castle Island, for which in 1648 he acknowledged to have signed a contract on August 25, 1643; the other farm was occupied by Adriaen van der Donck. In 1646 the farmhouse of van der Donck was destroyed by fire and van der Donck, who decided to leave the colony, ceded to Cornelis Segersz the remaining three years' lease of his farm together with certain live stock and grain; from that time therefore Cornelis Segersz occupied the whole island. In 1648 and 1649 the court of the colony repeatedly ordered Cornelis Segersz to settle his accounts and Jan. 31, 1650, the authorities offered the lease of the whole of Castle Island to the highest bidder, Gijsbert Cornelisz (probably the tavern keeper, from Weesp) becoming the lessee at an annual rent of 1210 guilders. In the account books of the colony Cornelis Segersz is charged, however, with the rent of 1210 guilders from 1650 to 1652, so that he appears to have remained in possession of the island. (See Gerechts Rolle, 1648-52, f.20b, 32-33b, 80-81b, 82b-83b; Leases and Ordinances, 1648-52, p.8; Copije van eenige Acten 1643-48, p.49-50; Account Book, 1642-54, f.17; among the Rensselaerswyck Mss.) accepted in place of the provisions in the former contract concerning redelivery of the said house and of the new barn. And if, at the expiration of the lease, the director and commissioners can come to a suitable agreement with the lessee on the basis of a proper appraisal, they shall take over the house, otherwise the lessee shall be free to remove it for his own profit. The barracks he shall deliver up as he received them. The new barn and the other buildings, with the exception of the old barn and the barracks as aforesaid, he shall deliver up with tight sides and roofs.

All expenses connected with the island or the farm, of whatever nature they may be, are and remain at the charge of the lessee. He shall also during the first years spread the manure over the land and cut down or kill the trees that are in the way.

The aforesaid Ian Baptis van Rensselaer leases and delivers on this date in the name of his masters to the aforesaid Thomas Higgins two horses, one mare called Hans, seven years old, one black gelding, about five or six years old, which aforesaid horses Thomas Higgins hereby acknowledges that he has received sound and well and for each of which he promises to pay yearly to the aforesaid I: B: van Rensselaer or his successor 30 guilders in good merchantable beavers, or well-winnowed grain such as can be traded here. ## Agreement of the council of Rensselaerswyck to pay tithes to the West India Company<sup>45</sup>

Copy

Whereas Mr Iohan La Montagne, accompanied by Abraham stacts and francois Boon, did on the 10th instant serve on me, Ian Baptist van Rensselaer, director of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, the order<sup>46</sup> issued by the directors of the West India Company concerning the collection of tithes in the colony aforesaid, accompanied by a letter<sup>47</sup> from the director general and council of New Netherland, in the which order issued by the directors it was firmly

<sup>46</sup> This order, referred to in the letter from the director general and council as an "extract from the letter of the directors," was part of the letter of Dec. 22, 1657, and reads as follows:

"We hear with regret that the colony of Rensselaerswyck perseveres in its unfounded contentions and can not in any way be persuaded to provide and pay the tithes and other taxes. As this is unreasonable and neither can nor may be permitted on account of the consequences, we have deemed it well that you try once more and for the last time what you can do and, in case of nonappearance or refusal, that you bring them to compliance by means of legal execution or otherwise."

The letters of May 20, June 7 and June 19, 1658, make no reference to this matter but in that of Feb. 13, 1659, the directors express satisfaction with the settlement made.

Honorable, beloved, faithful:

This letter serves to enclose an extract from the letter of the directors, from which you can see what their orders and intentions are in regard to the collection of the long since due tithes of the colony Rensselaerswyck, which orders we intend and hereby command shall, on receipt hereof, immediately be put in execution against the people of the aforesaid colony in the following manner.

On receipt of this letter you will send for Mr Rensselaer or go to his house and communicate to him the extract from the letter of the directors, as well as the contents of our own, and in the best way persuade him to obey the high orders and authority; and if he is willing to comply therewith you are authorized to enter into a reasonable agreement with him concerning the amount to be paid for the ensuing year. But if the aforesaid Mr Rensselaer should raise objections as before and refuse to comply, you will publicly farm out these tithes to the highest bidder with ample and full promise to the collector that he shall be supported by us in the exercise of his duties; and after such farming of the tithes, you will serve notice, or cause notice to be served, on the farmers of the colony that neither they nor any one else, under penalty of a fine of 100 guilders, shall undertake to remove any grain from the field resolved to proceed to attachment, whereupon I requested a copy of the aforesaid resolution and replied to their honors that I must first communicate it to and take action upon it with our council; and whereas it came to pass on the 12th instant that Mr La Montagne, having been called to our meeting and requested to suspend the aforesaid order as we could not find that according to the Freedoms the colony owed any tithes to the Company, in reply said that he could not do otherwise than follow his instructions and therefore offered to come to an agreement with us about the tithes but that in case of refusal he would proceed with the public farming thereof; therefore, we, considering ourselves in the highest degree aggrieved on account of the injury to and infringement upon our jurisdiction, have under due and serious protest agreed, as we hereby do agree under protest, to pay on the first of July 1659, as tithes on the present year's crop, 300 schepels of wheat, or the value thereof if in good payment, but before the aforesaid date the patroon and the codirectors come to an agreement with the West India Company in the fatherland either by process of law or by way of amicable settlement, the present agreement should be of no effect and the stipulated tithes for this year 1658 should be reimbursed.

And in case the advice through any accident happening to the vessels should not arrive in time, the honorable Company shall be paid as tithes for the year 1659, 300 schepels of wheat, on the above conditions. Thus agreed and concluded in our council of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, this 12th of July 1658; present, Messrs Ian Baptist van Rensselaer, Cornelis van Nes, Teunis van Spitsbergen, Geerardt Swartt, officer, D: V: Hamel, secretary.

This compromise in the terms above written has been agreed upon between the Hon. Mr Rensselaer, director of the colony of Petition of the schout, burgomaster and schepens of New Amsterdam to the director and council of New Netherland for the convocation of delegates from the several towns to consider the state of the province; with the resolution on the same<sup>50</sup>

October 26, 1663

To the honorable very worshipful gentlemen, Director General and Council of New Netherland

Honorable very worshipful gentlemen:

The schout, burgomaster and schepens of the city of Amsterdam in New Netherland most respectfully show:

That it has pleased your honors now and then to summon to your honors' council either the burgomasters alone or the entire body of schout, burgomasters and schepens, and to present to them the very dangerous situation and condition of the country, both with regard to the dangerous war with the barbarous Esopus nation and their followers and the threatening advance and approach of the neighbors together with the mutinous revolts of some English subjects which have already taken place, and for the prevention of further inroads to solicit not only advice but also deeds and assistance, which truly are most urgently required and necessary. However, although your honors' petitioners, both in their public and private capacity, are inclined and also bound to serve your honors for the public good of the country and also in this particular instance with their humble counsel and limited means, nevertheless, considering and seeing with your honors the great danger and necessity of the matter, and in view of the fact that your honors' petitioners, though the oldest and largest body, represent nevertheless but a part of the country and that the danger of the province concerns the country as a whole, they deem it therefore necessary and useful that, just as from this city, so also from other surrounding places and villages, especially also from the hamlet of beverwyck and the colony of Rensselaerswyck, some delegates should be convened and called together, to discuss and consider, under your honors' wise direction and high authority, the public good of the country, and whereas the same can not take place without your honors' order and convocation, your petitioners request in all humility (as the ships to the fatherland are about to

Which doing, your petitioners are and remain. . . Below was written: Your honors' subjects ready to serve, schout, burgomaster and schepens of the city aforesaid. Was signed: P. L. vander Grist. Below was written: By order of the same; was signed, Joannes Nevius, Secretary.

Although the director and council of New Netherland find the request reasonable and consider the convocation of magistrates herein mentioned necessary, they would deem it more expedient, owing to the unsuitable time because of the approaching winter and because it is hardly possible for the delegates of the colony of Rensselaerswyck and the village of beverwijck to sail down the river and up again before the winter, if for the present the magistrates of the neighboring villages and hamlets were convened and if whatever might be proposed or advised by them (with the knowledge of the director general and council) for the good of the public were communicated in writing, time and opportunity permitting, to the courts of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, the villages of Beverwijck and wiltwijck and their report thereon heard. Delegates to the convention at New Amsterdam to Jan Baptist van Rensselaer and Johannes Pietersz van Brugh, asking them to support the remonstrance of November 2, 1663, before the directors of the West India Company<sup>51</sup>

Taking into consideration your honors' large interests involved in the ruin and destruction of this province, in particular, your honors' zeal, affection and love for the same in general, as well as the ability, knowledge and capacities of your honors' persons and the present urgent need and dangerous situation of this province

(which without timely remedy and prevention is in danger of being lost) set forth at length in the accompanying remonstrance,<sup>52</sup> we have taken the liberty to ask your honors' assistance and to trouble you with the accompanying commission and warrant, trusting that your honors in view of the present critical juncture will take no offense thereat but rather keep a watchful eye that the things asked for in the aforesaid remonstrance may be taken to heart and that we may learn here speedily of the greatest and most salutary promptness, and that your honors may exert to that end all imaginable and unimaginable means which recommend themselves to your honors' skill, earnestly promising that we will gratefully refund and repay your honors all expenses and charges incident thereto, not doubting but your honors will have received by verbal report explicit information of the violence recently committed by the English at various places of this territory and the unsuccessful results of the notable exertions made by the [director] general in person at the meeting of the General Court at baston and later by embassy to the special meeting at Hartford.

The objections and pretenses offered by the English are based on references to their general and unlimited patent obtained (as we apprehend) during the last voyage of Governor wintrop to Old England, contrary to the intention of the king, and on the neglect of the honorable directors to obtain such a commission and patent from their High Mightinesses, the consequence of which, without speedy prevention, can be no other than that they must let others mow what has not been sowed by them; wherefore realizing the importance of the above, we hope that your honors will see to the execution of our just intention with your honors' customary diligence and that you will be blessed with a good success, which may the Lord God grant us, to whose gracious protection, after cordial greetings, we commend your honors and remain, count thereof in due form. It might be that one Ian girrits, glazier, deceased, who lived on the Heere Gracht in Amsterdam, has received some of it. In that case, he should have informed me of it, for as security for my debt to him I left in his hands as a pledge, a silver girdle with key ring, two silver chains, two silver-handled knives, four silver spoons, three gold rings, a Bible with silver mountings and a chain, also twelve napkins and two table cloths; these, or the value thereof, must then be returned; please to inquire into this also. I shall consider it a favor if you will please send glass for the money you may receive and retain for yourself what is due to you for your fees and trouble. Aside from the 100 guilders, there is due to me from aeltje marchal, on account of house rent paid to Mr Sille, the sum of 20 guilders, and also 11 guilders [paid] to Egbert van Borsum, the last two amounts in seawan, ordinarily reckoned here at four to one in money of Holland, so that she ought to be ashamed of herself for having denied this. Please do not spare her, but in case of unwillingness constrain her thereto by force of law. Trusting the matter to you, I shall in return not fail to do you such service as I can; with best wishes I commend you to God, and remain, lace, on the part of His Royal Highness, James, Duke of York, Governor General of all his territories in America, and before the hereafter named witnesses, Ián Hendricksz Van Gunst, glazier within this city, who declared that he had constituted and fully empowered, as he hereby does constitute and empower Sr. B: Coornhart, notary at Amsterdam, to demand, procure and receive in the name and behalf of the principal:

Your affectionate friend,

Jan Hendricksz van Gunst

1 From the honorable commissioners of insolvent estates at Amsterdam such moneys in the possession of the said chamber of insolvent estates as have devolved upon the principal by succession and inheritance through the death of Ian Minnekes Van Gunst, his uncle on his mother's side,<sup>61</sup> who when alive was a resident of Amsterdam aforesaid; and to acknowledge receipt of the same and give security against future claims.

2 Also, from Aeltje Marchals, widow of Evert Marchall deceased, the sum of 100 Carolus guilders, according to the original note of hand signed by her the 28th of July<sup>62</sup> 1662 at the manhatans, hereunto annexed.

3 Also, from Juffw. Houthuysen dwelling in the gecroonde Stockvis<sup>63</sup> on warmoes street in Amsterdam, or in case of her decease, from her heirs or executors or administrators of her estate, the sum of 77 guilders, 15 stivers, 12 pence, earned wages,<sup>64</sup> according to the account hereto likewise annexed.<sup>65</sup> Also to acknowledge receipt of the same and if need be to give security against future claims.

Also, in case of unwillingness to pay, to act in the matter and bring or defend suit before all proper courts, justices, laws and jurisdictions, either as plaintiff or defendant, to see and hear sentence or sentences pronounced, to cause them to be executed or to move appeal or modification thereof, to prosecute the matter of appeal or modification as well as to renounce the same, and all this with such absolute warrant, power and authority as the principal could or might have if he were present himself, promising under the bond of law to keep inviolate and to cause to be kept inviolate whatever may be done or performed in the matter aforesaid by his representative; the representative being obliged under like bond of

I, the underwritten, acknowledge that I am truly indebted to Jan henderixse van guynst or the bearer of this, for the sum of one hundred Carolus guilders, which I owe him for board received during two winters, to wit, in the year 1661 and in the year 1662, which I will honestly pay him as I received it while my husband was to verginy. Brant Schuyler to Kiliaen van Rensselaer<sup>83</sup>

Yours of the 20th of November, I received with pleasure and in health; God grant that we may both long be blessed therewith. I am sorry for your sake that the fleet waits so long before beginning its return voyage to the fatherland. I wish that you had remained here till the end of February or the beginning of March, as your company would have been very agreeable to me. I doubt not but you would then have found transportation from here to Maryland or Virginia by water. I imagine that the time seems long to you because you have or can make few acquaintances there owing to the fact that the people live so far apart. At your request I have given your compliments to our friends, who thank you and send theirs through me. Be kind enough not to forget, upon your safe arrival, to send us a statement of our Holland accounts, including the interest, in order that we may settle our accounts, with cousin Renslaer. Our friends here and in Albany are still well; where-with ending, with hearty greetings from myself and my wife to you and my neighbor van dam and best wishes for a happy and blessed New Year and a safe journey, I remain,

Your obliging friend and servant,

SETTLERS OF RENSSELAERSWYCK

1630-1658

This list gives a concise record of the arrival and occupation of settlers in the colony, from the date of its founding to the end of the administration of Jan Baptist van Rensselaer, in so far as such record appears in the Van Rensselaer Bowier Manuscripts and the Rensselaerswyck Manuscripts. As to the first of these sources, the statements have been limited to leading facts and the reader is referred for further information to the preceding pages of the present volume. As to the second source, a careful examination has been made of ledger accounts with colonists, 1634-77, 13 v.; accounts of Jeremias van Rensselaer, 1654-59, 1 v.; court proceedings, 1648-52, 1 v.; resolutions of the commissioners of the colony, 1652-64, 1 v.; leases and contracts, 1648-52, 1 v.; deeds, powers of attorney, etc., 1660-65, 1 v.; and a considerable number of miscellaneous papers. Together, these include practically everything of consequence that has been preserved of the early records of the colony, and the information contained therein has been given as fully and definitely as possible.

The arrangement is alphabetical under the date of arrival when known, otherwise under the date of the first entry in the accounts. Pains have been taken to indicate various forms of names and also to locate the places from which settlers came. To emphasize that the proper name preceded by van was a place name and not a family name, the word van has been translated from in all cases where the entries in the records made it certain that such was the case; in names, such as van Vechten and van Voorhout, which are constantly used by different members of the family and where there might be some doubt as to whether they referred to the actual place of origin or had already become family names before the persons using them left Holland, it has seemed advisable to retain the van. Names marked with an * are those of people who entered into contracts with the patroon, but for one reason or another did not come to the colony.

By de Eendracht

*Sailed from the Texel, March 21, 1630; arrived at New Amsterdam,
May 24, 1630*

Claes Claesz, from Vlecker [Fleckerö, an island off the south coast of Norway]; sailed with Roelof Jansz in 1630 and served as farm hand on de Laets Burg. His name does not appear in the records of the colony after 1634.

Wolfert Gerritsz, from Amersfoort; occasionally referred to as Wolfert Gerritsz van Couwenhoven, Couwenhoven being a farm or estate about four miles northwest of Amersfoort, in the province of Utrecht. He was engaged by the patroon in Jan. 1630 to superintend the establishment of farms in the colony and to purchase cattle. He was to serve for four years, each year from April to November, but at his request was released by the patroon in 1632. He lived at the Manhatans.

Jacob Goyversen (Goyverttsen), from Vlecker [Fleckerö, Norway]; sailed with Roelof Jansz in 1630.

Pieter Hendricksz, from Soest, [presumably the village of that name in the province of Utrecht, but possibly the city of Soest in Westphalia]; was engaged in 1630 as a shepherd or plow boy, for the term of four years, at f15 a year. He served under Rutger Hendricksz and probably left the colony in 1634.

Rutger Hendricksz, from Soest; was engaged in 1630, for four years, at f120 a year, and in 1632 appears as farmer on Rensselaers Burg, on Castle Island. He was appointed schout in 1632, but probably never qualified and seems to have left the colony in 1634.

Barent (Beerent) Jansz; given in one list as from Desens, and in another as from Esen, neither of which place names can be definitely indentified. He sailed in 1630 as farm servant to Brant Peelen. His name does not appear in the records of the colony after 1634.

Roelof Jansz, from Masterland [Marstrand, on the coast of Sweden]; sailed in 1630 with his wife Annetje Jans, his daughters Sara and Trijntje and another child born before in New Netherland. He was farmer on de Laets Burg and was appointed schepen July 1, 1632. He probably left the colony in 1634.

Segeer (Zeeger) Jansz, from Nykerck, [province of Gelderland]; sailed in 1630 and served as farm hand under Rutger Hendricksz, on Rensselaers Burg. Oct. 3, 1636, he is referred to as having been drowned.

Brant Peelen, from Nykerck, [province of Gelderland]; was engaged as farmer in Jan. 1630, for the term of four years, at wages of f110 a year, and in 1632 was appointed schepen. He was married twice, first to Lubbertje Wouters, by whom he had three children, Lysbeth Brants, Geert Brants and Gerritje Brants and secondly, at New Amsterdam, July 3, 1643, to Marritje Pieters, widow of Claes Sybrantsz, who had two children, Sybrant Claesz and Aeltje Claes. Lysbeth and Gerritje Brants came to the colony by den Waterhondt in 1640. One of them married Claes Jansz Calff. Brant Peelen died before May 1, 1644, when Cornelis Segersz van Voorhout succeeded him on his farm, called Welys Burg, on Castle Island.

1631

By de Eendracht

Sailed from the Texel shortly after July 7, 1631

Marinus Adriaensz (Marijn Adriaensz, Maryn Adriaensen, Marin Adriaensz, Marinus Ariaens), from Veere, [in the province of Zeeland]; entered into a contract with Kiliaen van Rensselaer, Jan. 12, 1631, to serve as tobacco planter for the period of three years, if possible, on the farm on the north side of Fort Orange, "which he began to clear before his departure." He sailed with his wife Lysbet Thysen and one child and several farm laborers by de Eendracht in July 1631. In 1632 he was appointed schepen and the same year he is referred to as farmer on Godyns Burg situated south of Fort Orange. His name does not occur in the account books of the colony; he probably left the colony at the end of his term in 1634.

*Claes Brunsteyn, from Straelsundt [Stralsund, in Pomerania]; entered into an agreement with Marinus Adriaensz, May 27, 1631, but did not sail for the colony.

*Andries Christensz, from Flecker [Fleckerö, Norway]; entered into a contract with the patroon for the erection of a sawmill, July 2, 1631, but did not come to the colony.

Jasper Ferlyn (Ferlin, Ferlijn) van der Gouw, from Middelburgh, [in the province of Zeeland]; entered the service of Marinus Adriaensz as tobacco planter, Feb. 17, 1631, for the term of three years, beginning on his arrival in the colony. His name does not appear in the account books of the colony; he probably left at the end of his term in 1634.

* Cornelis Goverts (Gerritssz), from Flecker [Fleckerö, Norway]; was engaged to sail by de Eendracht in 1631, but failed to go.

Laurens Laurensz (Lourenssen, Loerens), from Coppenhagen; also referred to as Laurens Laurensen noorman. He and two other Scandinavians were engaged, July 2, 1631, for three years, to erect a sawmill in the colony. Laurens Laurensz was appointed schepen in 1632 and in July of that year is referred to by the patroon as miller on de Laets kil, which is the present Mill Creek in the city of Rensselaer. Laurens Laurensz' name does not appear in the business accounts of the colony for 1634; he probably left at the end of his term of service.

Cornelis Maesen (Maersz, Maertsz, Martsen, Maessen), from Buurmalsen [Buurmalsem, in the province of Gelderland]; sailed for New Netherland as a farm laborer in 1631, having been engaged by the patroon on May 27th, for the term of three years, and went back to Holland shortly after Aug. 2, 1634, on which date he is charged in the colony with f12:18 for clothes and brandy. Aug. 15, 1636, he entered into a new contract with the patroon and the same year he sailed by the Rensselaerswyck, accompanied by his wife Catelijntje Martens and a servant by the name of Cornelis Teunisz, from Westbroeck. On the voyage, Jan. 30, 1637, a son was born named Hendrick Cornelisz. Cornelis Maesen arrived in the colony the second time about April 17, 1637. From that time till his death, some time before April 8, 1648, he occupied a farm on or near Papscaene Island. Cornelis Maesen and his wife were buried the same day; their effects were sold at auction Shrove Tuesday, 1649.

Barent Thonisz (Berent Thonis, Thonissen, Tonisz, Theunisz, Thomasen), from Heijligesont [Hellesund, on the south coast of Norway]; he and two other Scandinavians were engaged, July 2, 1631, for the period of three years, to build a sawmill in the colony. The name of Barent Thonisz does not appear in the account books of the colony; he probably left at the end of his term in 1634.

Jan Tyaerts (Thyerts, Chierls, Teersz, Terssen, Treersz), from Franicker, [in the province of Friesland]; was engaged as a farm laborer, May 27, 1631, for the period of three years, at f60 a year, and sailed with Marinus Adriaensz on de Eendracht in July of that year. In the account books he is entered as a farm hand of Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen, from June 1, 1635, to July 19, 1637. He probably left the colony soon after the last named date.

1633

By den Soutberg

Sailed from the Texel shortly after July 20, 1632; arrived at New Amsterdam in April 1633

Hendrick Fredericksz (Frerixsen), from Bunnick, [near Utrecht]; was engaged as farm laborer for Gerrit Theusz de Reux and sailed with him, being then 26 years of age. In the accounts of the colony he is charged with supplies from 1638 to 1643 and credited with wages earned in cutting straw, thatching roofs, threshing and other work, between 1638 and 1650. In May 1638, he acted as foreman on de Reux' farm.

Cornelis Jacobsz, from Martensdyck, [near Utrecht]; was engaged as farm laborer for Rutger Hendricksz, on Rensselaers Burg and sailed with Gerrit Theusz de Reux, being then 23 years of age. His name does not appear in the account books of the colony.

Marcus Mensen (Mens, Meussen), from Culenburgh, or Cuylenborch, [province of Gelderland]; was engaged as farm boy for Brant Peelen, on Welys Burg, and sailed with Gerrit Theusz de Reux, being then 17 years of age. The entries of his account in the colony, April 17-Aug. 18, 1637, are canceled.

Gerrit Theusz de Reux (de Reus); was engaged by the patroon as farmer on a farm to be established on Blommaerts kil, June 15, 1632, but had previously been in charge of a farm of the West India Company on the island of Manhattan. He sailed with four farm laborers by den Southberg, which brought Wouter van Twiller to New Netherland. Before sailing, de Reux was appointed schepen of the colony. In April 1634, he had succeeded Roelof Jansz, from Masterland, on de Laets Burg. He died before Aug. 4, 1639.

Cornelis Teunisz, from Meerkerck, [province of South Holland]; was engaged as farm laborer for Gerrit Theusz de Reux and sailed with him, being then 20 years of age. His first account in the colony runs from Feb. 2 to Aug. 20, 1637; he next appears in 1640, and later is said to have come on den Harinck; presumably therefore, he visited Holland shortly after Aug. 20, 1637, and returned to the colony by den Harinck in 1639. He is charged with three years' hire of two horses from 1640 to 1643, and credited with wages earned in cutting and hauling timber. His name does not appear in the records of the colony after 1643.

1634

By de Eendracht

Sailed from the Texel in the beginning of May 1634

Hendrick Carstensz, from Norden, [East Friesland]; sailed by de Eendracht and served under Brant Peelen from July 20, 1634, for four years, at f25 a year, and again for three years, at f140 a year. He does not appear in the records of the colony after 1643.

* Hendrick Conduit, from Coningsbergen [Königsberg, East Prussia]; made a contract with the patroon on April 15, 1634, but failed to come to the colony.

Lubbert Gijsbertsz, from Blaricum, [near Naarden, in the province of North Holland], wheelwright; made a contract with the patroon on April 15, 1634, and sailed with his wife Divertgen Cornelis and three sons, Gijsbert, Theus and Jan, by de Eendracht. His account in the colony runs from July 20, 1634 to 1647.

Robbert Hendricksz; is credited in the accounts with wages at f11 a month, from Dec. 16, 1634, to June 23, 1635; with f30 for splitting 3500 pallesacten (stockade posts) for the farm on Castle Island; and with f62:8 for splitting 5000 similar posts for the new farm of Cornelis Teunisz. His account was closed June 23, 1635.

Jan Jacobsz; credited with 13½ months' wages at f11 a month for service as farm hand under Brant Peelen on Castle Island, with f100 for threshing and with 12 months' wages at f13 a month. His service ended apparently April 17, 1637.

Jacob Albertsz Planck, from Edam, [province of North Holland]; bound himself, March 4, 1634, to serve as schout and agent of the colony for three years from the date of his arrival and sailed with his son Abraham Jacobsz Planck and one servant by de Eendracht. In a letter of Oct. 3, 1636, he is called "officer and commis." Planck's accounts run from Aug. 12, 1634, to Nov. 26, 1637, but apparently he did not leave Rensselaerswyck till after van Curler's arrival in 1638. Sept. 20, 1639, he certified at Amsterdam to the sale of Papscanee Island by the Indians, on April 23, 1637. Planck was the second person to receive an appointment as schout, Rutger Hendricksz, from Soest, having been appointed as such in July 1632, but in all probability Planck was the first schout who took the oath and held court.

Cornelis Anthonisz van Schlick, from Breuckelen, [near Utrecht]; generally referred to as Cornelis Teunisz, often as Broer Cornelis and occasionally as Cornelis Teunisz, alias Broeder; signs his name Cornelis anthonisen van schlick. He was a carpenter and mason and sailed by de Eendracht in 1634, having entered into a contract with the patroon on April 5th of that year. His account in the colony begins Aug. 12, 1634. He was before Oct. 1636 in charge of a farm, which till 1648 he seems to have worked on shares; from 1648 to 1652 he is charged with an annual rent of f600; from 1652 to 1661, with an annual rent of f500. The indications are that during all these years he occupied the same farm, which appears to have been located some distance north of the fifth, now Patroon's, creek and to have adjoined the farm called de Vlackte, later known as the Schuyler Flatts. Between 1643 and 1648, Cornelis Teunisz spent much of his time at the Manhatans; Aug. 6, 1646, de Hooges urges him to come up the river to see how the harvest proceeds and intimates that he might come to the colony at least once a year to look after his farm. While at the Manhatans, Aug. 22, 1646, he received from Director Kieft a patent for land at Catskill, in return for services rendered in bringing about general peace and in ransoming prisoners in the hands of the Indians. He was appointed the patroon's voorspraecke, or representative, May 12, 1639, and as such filled the place of officer jointly with Arent van Curler and Pieter Cornelisz, till the arrival of van der Donck in 1641. Sept. 23, 1650, he was chosen to go with van Curler and others on an embassy to the Maquaes, and in 1658, 1660 and 1661 he was a member of the court of the colony.

1637

By the Rensselaerswyck

Sailed from the Texel, October 8, 1636; arrived at New Amsterdam, March 4, 1637

Albert Andriesz, from Frederikstad, [in the southeast of Norway]; hence, in the early records, his designation as Noorman. After 1670, he became known as Albert Andriesz Bradt. Aug. 26, 1636, he joined Pieter Cornelisz and Claes Jansz in an agreement with the patroon for the erection of a mill in the colony. In this agreement he is given as tobacco planter, 29 years of age. He sailed with his wife Annetje Barents on the Rensselaerswyck, Oct. 8, 1636, and appears first in the colony under date of April 17, 1637. Soon after his arrival he left Pieter Cornelisz and established himself as tobacco planter. From May 4, 1652, to May 4, 1672, he is charged with an annual rent of f250 for two mills and land on the Normans Kill. Annetje Barents died before June 5, 1662, leaving him eight children of whom the eldest was born on the Rensselaerswyck and named Storm. This son later adopted the name of van der Zee. Albert Andriesz married the second time Geertruy Pietersz Vosburgh. He is said to have died June 7, 1686.

Arent Andriesz, tobacco planter; a brother of Albert Andriesz, from Frederikstad, and like him designated as Noorman. He appears to have come over with his brother on the Rensselaerswyck and to have stayed with him in the colony for one year. His wages began April 2, 1637, at f75 a year. Between 1638 and 1646, he is various times credited with tobacco furnished to van Curler and de Hooges. May 1, 1658, he obtained a lease for land opposite Beverwyck.

Thijs Barentsz, shoemaker; charged with supplies from June 5, 1637, to 1643, when he was indebted to the amount of f341:14. Jan. 18, 1652, he was ordered to pay his account within a month.

Maurits Jansz van Broeckhuysen; was a young relative of Kiliaen van Rensselaer and came out as farm hand by the Rensselaerswyck. May 12, 1639, he was authorized to establish himself as farmer on de Laets Burg, on the farm formerly occupied by Gerrit Theusz de Reux. In the accounts he is credited with four years' salary, at f110 a year, beginning April 3, 1637. One half year's wages are charged to Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen. His account closes Sept. 7, 1641. Feb. 12, 1642, he is referred to by Kiliaen van Rensselaer as having lately returned from New Netherland.

Carsten Carstensz (Christen Christensz), commonly referred to as Carsten Carstensz Noorman; is first entered in the accounts under date of April 17, 1637, hence probably came on the Rensselaerswyck. Before 1644, he was employed as a farm laborer, sawyer, stave splitter, mill hand and roof thatcher. Afterwards he leased a garden, which in 1650 was granted to Gijsbert Cornelisz, from Weesp.

Gijsbert Claesz, also referred to as Gijsbert Claesz Jongen (the boy); was a carpenter by trade and like Jacob Jansz, from Amsterdam, is credited in the accounts with four years' wages from April 2, 1637, at f40 a year. Both men appear to have been employed by Albert Andriesz and probably came over with him on the Rensselaerswyck. His account closes Sept. 5, 1641.

Pieter Claesz (Niclaesz), from Nordingen, or Norden, [in East Friesland]; is credited with six years' wages from April 3, 1637, and in Aug. 1644 is mentioned as servant of Symon Walichsz. He probably arrived with the latter on the Rensselaerswyck. He is charged with rent, at f11 a year, from 1643 to 1645, and in 1648-49 appears to have occupied a farm at Bethlehem. He left the colony before June 5, 1649. He was the son in law of Cornelis Hendricksz van Nes.

Crijn (Quirijn) Cornelisz, from Houten, [near Utrecht]. His accounts in the colony run from April 20, 1637, to Aug. 21, 1639 and from Jan 1, 1641, to 1648. May 30, 1640, he is referred to by the patroon as about to sail from Holland. Presumably, therefore, he came out on the Rensselaerswyck in 1637, went back to Holland in 1639 and returned to the colony by den Waterhondt in 1640, accompanied by Cornelis Crijnen, Jan Crijnen, Jan Cornelisz and Jan Reyersz, all from Houten. He served at first under Gerrit Theusz de Reux and from Jan. 1, 1641, to Jan. 1, 1642, as farm hand on a farm in Greenbush, which he thereafter seems to have occupied as farmer, jointly with Pieter Teunisz, from Brunswijck. In April 1648, he was repeatedly ordered to settle his accounts and Nov. 18, 1649, his farm was leased to Evert Pels and Willem Fredericksz [Bout]. With Christoffel Davids, he also occupied, till stubble time 1649, six morgens of land in Greenbush, which in 1650 were leased to Teunis Dircksz van Vechten. Nov. 2, 1651, Crijn Cornelisz and Hans Jansz, from Rotterdam, received permission to erect a saw-mill on a creek on the west side of the river, a little north of Beeren Island.

Pieter Cornelisz, from Munnickendam, [in the province of North Holland]; occasionally referred to as Pieter Cornelisz Meulenmaccker (mill wright); sailed by the Rensselaerswyck, Sept. 25, 1636, after having entered in company with Claes Jansz, from Naerden, and Albert Andriesz, from Frederikstad, into an agreement with the patroon for the erection of a saw-mill in the colony. In this agreement, dated Aug. 26, 1636, his age is given as 43 years. His account in the colony begins May 4, 1637, and closes May 3, 1649, but from the log of the Rensselaerswyck he is known to have sailed up the river as early as March 24, 1637, and from other documents it would seem that he left the colony in 1646. Oct. 3, 1636, he was appointed councilor and schepen, and May 12, 1639, he received a commission as receiver of tithes and supercargo of the colony's vessel. Jan. 31, 1646, Pieter Cornelisz made a contract with Antony de Hooges for building a horsepower mill in Greenbush, the mill on the fifth creek being most of the time out of order and too inconvenient for the inhabitants on account of het heen en wederwaeren (the sailing back and forth).

Roelof Cornelisz, from Houten, [near Utrecht]; brother of Crijn Cornelisz, from Houten; is charged with supplies furnished to him in 1638 and may have arrived with Crijn Cornelisz in 1637. He was at various times employed in splitting wood and in thatching roofs of houses and in 1646 is charged with hire of horses and cows and rent of land.

Goossen Gerritsz, from Westerbroeck [Westbroek, province of Utrecht?]; was engaged for six years, three years at f50 a year and three years at f80 a year. His wages in the colony began April 8, 1637; he probably came by the Rensselaerswyck. In 1646, he is charged with f19:9 received in Holland on Nov. 3, 1645. In Oct. 1648, on the repeated solicitation by the director to accept the place of gerechts persoon (member of the court), he pleaded to be excused on the ground that he did not consider himself fit for the office, that he was not possessed of a house and lot and therefore not bound to serve, and that he had not yet settled all his accounts with the patroon. His objections however were overruled and he was urged once more to accept the office, the court, in case of refusal, threatening to proceed to other measures. He finally yielded, on condition that he be first allowed to make a trip to the Manhatans. This was granted and Nov. 19, 1648, he took the oath as member of the court. At his urgent request he was released from his office on Jan. 5, 1651. In the accounts he is charged from 1648 to 1652 with f32 a year for ground rent of a house and license to trade and, jointly with Rutger Jacobsz, from May 1649 to May 1650 with f450 for the lease of the brewery. July 18, 1650, he was granted permission to become a taster and Sept. 9, 1650, he was with Arent van Curler appointed trustee of a fund for the building of a school. From May 1, 1655, to May 1, 1658, he and Thomas Jansz are charged with an annual rent of f40, for a small piece of land situated opposite den sack. July 19, [1659?] he entered into an agreement with Jeremias van Rensselaer regarding the purchase of hides of cattle to be killed in the colony, showing that by that time he was engaged in the tanning business. After 1660, he is occasionally referred to as Goossen Gerritsz van Schaiek.

Robert Harmensz; his account in the colony runs from April 17, 1637, to 1638. He is credited with wages earned in repairing a fence, splitting wood, thatching and grinding, and would seem to have been in the employ of Gerrit de Reux. He came probably by the Rensselaerswyck.

Adriaen Huybertsz; is credited with six years' wages at f100 a year, from April 8, 1637; like others whose term of service began at that date, he came probably by the Rensselaerswyck. For four and one half years he was employed by Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen. In 1652, he is charged with five years' rent, at f300 a year, for a farm on the fifth creek, which he seems to have taken over from Rutger Jacobsz, and for the same length of time with f20 a year for trading privileges.

Rutger (Ruth) Jacobsz, from Schoonderwoert [Schoonrewoerd, province of South Holland]; served as farm hand on the farm of Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen, for the term of six years, beginning April 8, 1637, at f100 a year, and probably came on the Rensselaerswyck. Feb. 9, 1643, he was engaged as foreman on de groote Vlaete (the great Flats) at f220 a year, a suit of clothes, two shirts and two pairs of shoes, his term of service to begin April 7, 1643. From Jan. 1, 1645, he appears as lessee of a farm on the fifth creek, which in 1647 seems to have been taken over by Adriaen Huybertsz. From 1648 to 1654 he is charged with an annual rent of f125 for a sawmill on the fifth creek, taken over from Andries de Vos, and for the same period he is charged, jointly with Barent Pietersz, with an annual rent of f550 for a saw- and grist-mill, also on the fifth creek. He owned a yacht from about 1648, and April 4, 1649, agreed to pay f32 a year, for three years, for rent of his house lot and the right to the fur trade. Oct. 18, 1650, he and Goossen Gerritsz were authorized to brew beer, on condition of paying a duty of one guilder for every barrel of beer and of brewing, free of charge, the beer needed for the households of van Slichtenhorst and de Hooges. Rutger Jacobsz is credited with f36 for nine months' salary as raets vricndt (councilor) and again with salary as councilor, at the rate of f50 a year, from Dec. 18, 1649, to Oct. 18, 1651, when at his urgent request he was released from his duties and succeeded by Jan Baptist van Rensselaer. Rutger Jacobsz married June 3, 1646, at New Amsterdam, Trijntje Jans, from Breestede [Bredstedt, in Schleswig], and died before Dec. 9, 1665.

Claes Jansz, from Nykerck, [province of Gelderland]; is credited with four years' wages, at f120 a year, beginning April 2, 1637, and with carpenter work done between 1642 and 1644 on houses of van Curler, van der Donck, Megapolensis and others. Aug. 30, 1646, Antony de Hooges ordered Nicolaes Coorn, officer of the colony, to seize grain on the farm of Broer Cornelis and to turn the same over to Claes Jansz, from Nykerck, in payment of wages earned by him on de Vlacte while Broer Cornelis was at the Manhatans, as per account of Ruth Jacobsz.

Dirck Jansz, from Edam, [in the province of North Holland]. He and Reynier Thijmensz, from Edam, entered into a contract with Kiliaen van Rensselaer on Aug. 26, 1636, to sail by the ship Rensselaerswyck and to settle in the colony as free colonists, for a period of four years. He is charged in the accounts with supplies from May 9, 1637, to 1642. Under date of May 29, 1643, he is referred to as deceased. He was a member of the council of the colony in 1637.

Jacob Jansz, from Amsterdam; was a carpenter by trade and was engaged for the term of four years, beginning April 2, 1637, at wages of f40 a year. He appears for part of this period to have been employed by Albert Andriesz; in the harvest of 1640, he served under Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen. May 1, 1640, he received f32 extra pay for "faithful service to the patroon." In 1641 he was employed by van Curler to do some copying and from that date till Aug. 20, 1643, when his account was closed by van Curler, he was engaged with other carpenters in building houses and barns.

Thomas Jansz, from Bunnick, [near Utrecht]; was engaged as farm hand for the term of six years, beginning April 8, 1637, at f110 a year, and served under Brant Peelen and Symon Walichsz. He probably came by the Rensselaerswyck. From May 1, 1646, to 1650 he occupied a farm, for which he is charged with an annual rent first of f180 and then of f130; April 11, 1650, van Slichtenhorst leased to him an additional piece of land formerly occupied by Hendrick Albertsz, and from that time till 1652 he is charged with rent of f180 a year. From May 1, 1655, to May 1, 1658, he and Goossen Gerritsz are charged with rent and tithes for a small parcel of land on the east side of the river opposite den sack.

In 1656, the accounts contain the name of Thomas jansen Timmerman. This man is probably to be identified with Thomas Jansz Mingael, the carpenter, who appears to have been a resident of Beverwyck, and not a settler of Rensselaerswyck.

Jean Labatie (Lebatie, Lebattij, Labatyn, Labatis), also referred to as Johan Labatie fransman (Frenchman); was engaged as a journeyman carpenter for the term of four years, beginning April 2, 1637, at f80 a year, and for part of the time was employed by Albert Andriesz. At the end of the four years, he engaged himself to the patroon for three years more, at f200 a year. Thereafter, van Curler intended to put him on the farm at the Great Flats to trade, but he probably left the patroon's service. In 1648, he is charged in the accounts with the patroon's Gerechtigheyt (dues) for four years, beginning May 1, 1643, compounded at the rate of f25 a year, which may indicate that he was engaged in the Indian trade, as in 1650 he is spoken of as being well versed in the Maquaes language. June 15, 1647, he received permission from the West India company to erect a house in Fort Orange and to brew therein; in 1649, he is referred to by van Slichtenhorst as being in command of the fort, which may have reference to a temporary absence of Carel van Brugge, who was appointed commis Nov. 6, 1647, and is supposed to have acted in that capacity till 1651. Sept. 23, 1650, Jean Labatie, inhabitant of Fort Orange, was summoned to the house of Director van Slichtenhorst and asked to accompany van Curler, Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen, Thomas Chambers and Volckert Hansz on an embassy to the Maquaes to renew the covenant of friendship, but he refused to go, saying that it made little difference to those in the fort whether they were at war or at peace with the Indians. Aug. 26, 1652, Labatie and Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen, jointly leased the farm formerly occupied by Cornelis Teunisz, but in the accounts Labatie is not charged with rent for this farm and it is likely that he never occupied it. July 20, 1654, Labatie took over the farm on Castle Island formerly leased to Jan Barentsz Wemp, for which from stubble time 1654 to May 1, 1655, he is charged with f150 and thereafter with an annual rent of f300. Feb. 20, 1672, Labatie settled his accounts with Jeremias van Rensselaer.

Arent Pietersz, generally referred to as Arent Pietersz Jongen (the boy); was engaged for six years, beginning April 3, 1637, three years at f45 and three years at f75 a year, and served at different times under Albert Andriesz, Cornelis Teunisz and Teunis Dirksz. He is probably the same person as Aert Pietersz alias Solder, or Solder Pietersz, who was furnished with supplies in 1642 and who appears as late as 1651. The nickname Solder would seem to indicate that he was in charge of a graan solder, that is, a grain loft, or granary. July 8, 1649, Aert Pietersz was summoned before the court to state whether he would fulfil his promise to seecker vrouwemens, genacmt Blancke ael (a certain woman, called fair Alida) and in reply declared that he would marry her at the first opportunity.

Jacob Pietersz, from Utrecht; in one account referred to as Jacob Pietersz van Uijtrecht alias Veeltje, and in another as Jacob Pietersz Veeltje; was engaged for six years, from April 8, 1637, at f100 a year, and served under Brant Peelen. He left the colony on, or before, Nov. 16, 1644.

* Hans van Sevenhuysen; sailed by the Rensselaerswyck as smith's helper to Cornelis Thomasz, but was arrested in England for killing his master in a tavern at Ilfracombe, Dec. 8, 1636.

Arent Steffeniersz (Steevenniersz, Steveniersen), hog dealer; entered into a contract with Kiliaen van Rensselaer before Oct. 4, 1636, and sailed by the Rensselaerswyck. March 22, 1637, he married at the Manhatans the widow of the murdered smith, Cornelis Thomasz. Arent Steffeniersz is charged with supplies in the colony from April 17, 1637, to 1644. In 1639, he accompanied Pieter Cornelisz, from Munnickendam, to the Manhatans to get lime and iron.

Cornelis Teunisz, from Westbroeck (Westerbroeck, Wesbroeck, Wijsbroeck); also referred to as Cornelis Theunisz bos, Cornelis Theunisz vanden bos, Cornelis Theunissen schoester, and Kees schoester; signs his name Cornelis thonisen bos. He came probably from the village of Westbroeck, in the province of Utrecht, and would seem from the designation schoester, to have been a shoemaker by trade. He sailed with Cornelis Maesen by the Rensselaerswyck, in 1636, and served him in the colony for six years, beginning April 8, 1637, at wages of f100 a year. As early as April 8, 1648, he and Teunis Dirksz van Vechten are mentioned as guardians of the minor children of the late Cornelis Maesen. March 25, 1649, Cornelis Teunisz, from Westbroeck, Volckert Hansz and Cornelis Vos were warned not to engage in illicit trade with the Indians; April 3, 1649, their license was revoked for not observing the ordinance. July 13, 1650, Cornelis Teunisz was ordered to send Jan Hagemans, a free trader, away from his house; April 1, 1650, he was granted the use of a garden between the first and second creeks. He was a magistrate of Fort Orange, prior to Aug. 19, 1662.

Reynier Thijmensz (Tijmense, Timansz, Tymansen), from Edam, [province of North Holland]. He and Dirck Jansz, from Edam, entered into a contract with Kiliaen van Rensselaer, Aug. 26, 1636, to sail by the Rensselaerswyck and to settle in the colony as free colonists for the period of four years. His account in the colony begins May 7, 1637, and closes Sept. 12, 1643. In an extract from his contract his name is given as reijnier thomassen.

* Cornelis Thomasz, from Rotterdam; engaged as smith, Oct. 4, 1636, and sailed with his wife by the Rensselaerswyck. Dec. 8, 1636, he was stabbed to death by his helper, Hans van Sevenhuysen, in a tavern at Ilfracombe. His widow was married to Arent Steffeniersz, March 22, 1637, at New Amsterdam. Burger Jorisz took his place as smith of the colony.

Teunis Cornelisz van Vechten; his first account in the colony, entered under the name of theunis Cornelissen van der vechten Jongen, runs from April 8 to Nov. 14, 1637. He appears next in 1641 as having been three years in the service of Michiel Jansz. It is not unlikely therefore that he arrived as a boy, on the Rensselaerswyck, early in 1637; went back to Holland in the winter of that year, and returned to the colony in 1638, with Michiel Jansz and Teunis Dircksz van Vechten, both of whom came by het Wapen van Noorwegen. He probably came from Vechten, a small village southeast of Utrecht. In the Schult Bocck vande goederen vant'schip den Waterhondt, 1640-41, his name is indexed as Teunis Cornelissen van Westbroeck, but this is probably a clerical error, due to confusion with Cornelis Teunisz van Westbroeck. Between 1647 and 1656, he is referred to as Thunis Cornelissen alias jonge Poetien, toenis Cornelisz poyntgen and tunis Cornelisen Jonge poentie. Teunis Cornelisz served under Michiel Jansz till May 1, 1646, and then succeeded him on the farm called de Hoogeburch, which he occupied till May 1, 1648. Oct. 15, 1648, Director van Slichtenhorst leased to him for six years the south end of het groenenbos (pine woods) with six morgens of old land forming part of the farm of Teunis Dircksz van Vechten, but, owing apparently to animosity on the part of Teunis Dircksz, he was allowed to leave the farm Jan. 27, 1650, and was promised a house in some other part of the colony. Jan. 29, 1650, he complained that the house which he occupied was uninhabitable on account of smoke and Mar. 17, 1650, Director van Slichtenhorst sold to him for f125 a small house south of the fifth creek, formerly occupied by Barent Pietersz and Jan Gerritsz, deceased.

Symon Walichsz (Walichs, Walichsen, Walinchsz, Walings, Walingen, Waelingen), from Wijngaerden, [in the district of het Bildt, in the province of Friesland]; entered into a contract with the patroon Aug. 15, 1636, and sailed by the Rensselaerswyck. His account in the colony begins April 17, 1637. He occupied a farm on Papscaene Island till May 1, 1647, when it was leased to Evert Pels, for six years, at f560 a year. Jan. 14, 1649, Evert Pels had the lease transferred to Juriaen Bestval and Jochem Kettelheym. Symon Walichsz agreed to buy Pieter van der Linden's plantation on Manhattan Island, Oct. 7, 1648, and was killed by the Indians near Paulus Hook, at Pavonia, in March 1649 (see N.Y.Col.Mss, 4:428, where his name is given as Sijmon Walingen vant bilt).

Burger Jorisz; was at New Amsterdam in 1637 and was secured as smith of Rensselaerswyck to take the place of Cornelis Thomasz, who had been killed by his helper Hans van Sevenhuysen, on the voyage out, at Ilfracombe, Dec. 8, 1636. The terms upon which Burger Jorisz was engaged are as follows: "Inasmuch as Cornelis Tomassen died and Arent Steveniersen, who married the widow, does not understand smith's work, the council of the colony have decided to turn the iron and coal and all the tools over to Burger Jorisen Smit at 50% advance in price, and to let him do the work at the rates paid by freemen at the Manhatans, to wit: pound work at six stivers, nails at 10 stivers a hundred, braces at 12 stivers, double braces at 28 stivers and other work proportionately, and this till the patroon makes different arrangements. In the year 1637, the 26th of May, and was signed, Jacob Albertsen Planck, Pieter Cornelissen, X the mark of Dirck Jansen." Burger Jorisz' account in the colony runs from June 4, 1637, to Aug. 18, 1639, when he turned over his tools to Reyer Stoffelsz and moved to the Manahatans. Dec. 18, 1639, he married at New Amsterdam, Engeltje Mans, from Sweden. In the marriage records of the Reformed Dutch church of New York, Burger Jorisz is given as from Hersberg, in Silesien (Hirschberg, in Silesia).

By den Harinck

Sailed from the Texel shortly after September 21, 1637; arrived at New Amsterdam, March 28, 1638

Frans Altersz (Aldersz, Albertsz), cooper; sailed by den Harinck, Sept. 1637, in the stead of Jan Willemsz Schut. His board on the ship is charged to Symon Walichsz. He is credited with wages for 39 months and 15 days, at f14 a month, beginning April 27, 1638, and is charged with supplies till 1642. Nov. 20, 1644, a bill of Frans Altersz, for cooper's work, signed by Symon Walichsz, is sent to Arent van Curler, then on his way to Holland.

Jacob Jansz (Gardenier), from Campen [Kampen, in the province of Overysse], carpenter; generally referred to as Jacob Jansz flodder; appears first in the accounts of the colony as knecht (helper or servant) of Claes Jansz Ruyter and not unlikely sailed with him on den Harinck, in Sept. 1637. In the spring of 1642 he was at Amsterdam and applied to the patroon for permission to do carpenter work in the colony; the same year he is in the accounts charged with supplies. In 1647 he had a saw- and grist-mill in Greenbush which on Nov. 18, 1649, was leased to Evert Pels and Willem Fredericksz. From 1653 to 1654 he appears as lessee of a mill at Bethlehem and Feb. 2, 1654, he obtained the lease of the saw- and grist-mill on the fifth creek, for the term of eight years, beginning May 18, 1654. In the first two volumes of deeds in the Albany county clerk's office, he is referred to as Jacob Jansz Gardenier, alias Flodder.

Claes Jansz, from Naerden, [province of North Holland]; also referred to as Claes Jansz Ruyter, and as Claes de Ruijter; was a house carpenter by trade and 33 years of age in 1636. Aug. 26, 1636, he entered, jointly with Pieter Cornelisz and Albert Andriesz, into an agreement with the patroon for the erection of a sawmill in the colony, but for some reason failed to accompany his partners on the Rensselaerswyck in 1636, and sailed by den Harinck in Sept. 1637. In May 1640, he and his wife Pietertje Jans were apparently living at the Manhatans. He is credited in the accounts with 60 weeks' board of Arent van Curler.

By den Calmer SleutelSailed from the Texel at the end of December 1637

Gijsbert Adriaensz (Arentsz, Aertsz), from Bunnick, [near Utrecht]; sailed on den Calmer Sleutel, at the age of 22, and was engaged as farm servant for six years, at wages ranging from f80 to f110 a year. He served for four years, beginning April 2, 1638, on the farm of Brant Peelen; for  $\frac{3}{4}$  year on the farm of Teunis Dircksz; and for  $1\frac{1}{4}$  years, jointly with Sander Leendersz, in running the colony's yacht Rensselaerswyck. He was a brother of Rutger Adriaensz, the tailor, who appears first in 1646.

Arent van Curler (Corler), from Nykerck, [in the province of Gelderland]; sailed as assistant to Jacob Albertsz Planck by den Calmer Sleutel, at the age of 18 years. May 12, 1639, he was commissioned secretary and bookkeeper of the colony, and from 1642 to 1644 he held the office of commis. He sailed for Holland by het Wapen van Rensselaerswyck, Oct. 20, 1644, having married, probably in 1643, Anthonia Slachboom, or Slaghboom, whom O'Callaghan, apparently on the strength of van Curler's statement, History of New Netherland, 1:464, has identified with Teuntje Jeuriaens, the widow of Jonas Bronck. Sept. 30, 1647, while van Curler was still in Holland, he obtained a lease for six years of the farm called de Vlackte, but May 5, 1649, this lease was transferred to Jacob Jansz, from Stoutenburch. Van Curler returned to New Netherland probably at the end of 1647 and on the arrival of Director van Slichtenhorst, early in 1648, was nominated as Gecommitteerde, but various circumstances prevented his accepting the office and taking the oath till Jan. 5, 1651. In the accounts he is credited with an annual salary of f200, as Gecommitteerde & raetsvrint, from July 1, 1652 to July 1, 1655, and with an annual salary of f200, as gecommitteerde, from 1655 to 1658. Sept. 9, 1650, on the petition of the inhabitants of the colony, Arent van Curler and Goossen Gerritsz were appointed trustees of voluntary contributions for the erection of a school, and Sept. 23, 1650, van Curler was chosen to go with others on an embassy to the Maquaes. He became one of the leaders in the settlement of Schenectady in 1661-62, and was drowned on Lake Champlain in 1667.

Elbert Elbertsz (Albertsz), from Nykerck, [in the province of Gelderland]; was a weaver by trade and sailed by den Calmer Sleutel, at the age of 18 years. In 1646 he married Aeltje Cornelis, the widow of Gerrit Wolphertsz (N.Y.Col.Mss, 2:152).

Gerrit Hendricksz, from Nykerck, [province of Gelderland], shoemaker; sailed with Arent van Curler by den Calmer Sleutel, at the age of 15 years. He was engaged for six years, at wages ranging from f40 to f100 a year; his first three years' wages, from April 2, 1638, to April 2, 1641, are charged to Albert Andriesz. He does not appear in the records of the colony after 1642.

Claes Jansz, from Nykerck, [province of Gelderland]; was a tailor by trade and sailed with Arent van Curler by den Calmer Sleutel, at the age of 17 years.

By het Wapen van Noorwegen

Sailed from the Texel in May 1638; arrived at New Amsterdam about August 4, 1638

Adriaen Cornelisz, from Barsingerhorn, [province of North Holland]; also referred to as Adriaen Cornelisz Berghoorn and Adriaen Cornelisz van Barsingerhout; was engaged May 10, 1638, for three years, as foreman under Maurits Jansz, and sailed on het Wapen van Noorwegen. His wages in the colony, at f140 a year, began Aug. 14, 1638. He does not appear after 1643.

Jan Dircksz, from Amersfoort, [in the province of Utrecht]; is entered in the accounts as Jan dircksen Engelsman van Amersfoort, showing that he was a native of England; was engaged as farm laborer, for six years, at wages ranging from f30 to f50 a year. His service in the colony began Aug. 16, 1638, and he appears at first as servant of Michiel Jansz, so that he probably arrived with the latter on het Wapen van Noorwegen. In 1644, he was employed by Reyer Stoffelsz. Nov. 19, 1648, Claes Gerritsz testified that Ruth Jacobsz ordered him to beat Jan Dircksz Engelsman, if he proved refractory.

Claes Gijsbertsz; was, apparently in 1641, in the service of Michiel Jansz and may have come out with him by het Wapen van Noorwegen, in 1638.

Symon Jansz Henypot, son in law of Pieter Cornelisz, from Munnickendam; sailed by het Wapen van Noorwegen and was apparently in the colony for a short time in 1639.

Michiel Jansz, from Schrabbeckerke [’s Heer Abtskerke in the province of Zeeland]; came with his wife and two servants by het Wapen van Noorwegen in 1638. He was originally engaged as farm hand, but before his departure from Holland was promoted to farmer; he served as foreman in 1638 and 1639, and from 1640 to 1646 was farmer on the farm called de Hoogeberch. July 27, 1646, he received permission to leave the colony and to reside at the Manhatans, on condition that his accounts be settled. Oct. 8, 1648, the court ordered him to prepare a full statement of his accounts by Saturday next, or sooner, “if his voyage should thereby be delayed.” Oct. 10, a similar order was issued and a few days later Director van Slichtenhorst asked that the court impose on Michiel Jansz the penalty of death or such other sentence as it shall see fit for the sale of ammunition to Indians during the war, together with a fine of f50 for beavers sent to Fort de Hoop, 1644, without paying duty. May 29, 1649, the court once more ordered Michiel Jansz to render a detailed account and July 27, 1650, he was asked to sign the account rendered by him.

Willem Meynten (Meijntten, Mijnten, Menten); served as a farm laborer under Cornelis Maesen for the period of six years, beginning Aug. 14, 1638, at wages ranging from f40 to f60 a year. Thereafter, he carted stone for the foundation of the house of Domine Megapolensis, graded the latter’s garden and did other day labor. In Sept. 1648, he seems to have been in the employ of Teunis Dircksz van Vechten.

Jan Michielsz, from Edam, [province of North Holland]; was a tailor by trade and arrived by het Wapen van Noorwegen, accompanied by his young son, for whom the patroon paid one year’s board to the Orphan Masters at Edam. April 30, 1648, the court of the colony granted the petition of Jan Verbeeck and Jan Michielsz to exercise their trade as tailors, with one helper, to the exclusion of all others. In 1651, Jan Michielsz built a small house in the village and agreed to pay eight beavers a year for ground rent and the right to exercise his trade.

Rijck (Rijckert) Rutgersz; was engaged for six years, beginning Aug. 16, 1638, at wages of f120 a year. From 1640 to 1644, he served under Teunis Dircksz van Vechten, with whom he would seem to have come on het Wapen van Noorwegen. He leased Bethlehem's Island, Nov. 29, 1648, for the term of six years, but left the island, March 17, 1650, perhaps as the result of a quarrel with Christoffel Davids, who struck him on the head with a club on March 3, 1650. Jan Reyersz, from Houten, succeeded him on the farm.

Abraham Stevensz, in the earliest accounts referred to as Abraham Stevensz Jongen (the boy), later as Abraham Stevensz Croact (the Croatian), and in 1650 as Abraham Stevensz d Capeteijn (the captain); he is credited with six years' wages from Aug. 14, 1638, two years at f30 a year, two years at f40 a year, and two years at f50 a year; for 4½ years he served under Teunis Dircksz van Vechten. In 1646, he is referred to as maet (partner) of Claes Teunisz, alias Uylenspiegel. Abraham Stevensz leased the Valeije or maizeland, behind the farm of Broer Cornelis, Feb. 3, 1650, at an annual rent of one and a half beavers, taking upon himself all expenses; at Easter 1654, he turned the lease over to Barent Pietersz.

Teunis Dircksz van Vechten, presumably from Vechten, a small village near Utrecht; arrived with his wife, one child and two servants by het Wapen van Noorwegen, in 1638, but appears as early as July 20, 1632, as farmer on Pieter Bijlvelt's farm at the Manhatans. He is occasionally referred to as Tennis Dircksen Poentie. He worked in 1638 and 1639 as a farm laborer, but from 1640 to 1663, and perhaps later, occupied a farm at the south end of Greenbush, adjoining the farm at one time occupied by Teunis Cornelisz van Vechten and later by Cornelis Hendricksz van Nes. He had in 1648 and 1649 a half interest in the colony's brewery, in Greenbush, which was offered for sale on March 7, 1650. In Feb. 1651, he was prosecuted for calling Director van Slichtenhorst, in the presence of many people, een ouwde gracwec dief en schelm (an old gray thief and a rascal); for calling Domine Megapolensis an informer and threatening to stab him with a knife; for selling his wheat at f11 a mudde, contrary to the orders of the patroon; for ordering Willem Menten four times during the night of Sept. 18, 1648, to fire off a musket in the brewery, thereby causing Monsr. Labatie and some soldiers of the fort to cross the river; for calling Teunis Cornelisz a thief and a rascal and striking him on the head for having leased the six morgens of his, Teunis Dircksz', farm which the authorities of the colony had reserved; for fighting with Pieter Hartgers and Abraham Staas; and for letting two horses stand in front of Jan Verbeeck's house, in severely cold weather, without cover or food.

Christoffel Davids, also referred to as Kit davitsz; according to his own statement, he was born in England and on Sept. 3, 1658, was 42 years of age (Mortgages, A, p. 93, Albany county clerk's office). He appears first in the colony in 1638 and between 1642 and 1647 is various times credited with tobacco furnished to Arent van Curler and Antony de Hooges. Till stubble time 1649, he was with Crijn Cornelisz in possession of six morgens of land in Greenbush, and July 22, 1650, he leased the Dominces

Hoeck, on the west side of the river, opposite Papscanee Island, for six years, at an annual rent of f50, in addition to tithes, Christoffel Davids to build his own house and fences and the patroon to furnish the live stock. March 3, 1650, an action was brought against him for striking Rijck Rutgersz on the head, for beating his servant and for wounding Jan Dircksz, from Bremen.

1639

By de Liefde

Sailed from the Texel September 25, 1638; arrived at New Amsterdam, December 27, 1638

Willem Juriaensz, commonly referred to as Willem Jeuriaensz Backer (the baker), once, in 1646, as Willem Jeuriaensz, alias Capitajjn, and again, in 1650, as Capiteijn (captain). He made a contract with Kiliaen van Rensselaer, May 7, 1638, and sailed by "the ship of the West India Company," presumably de Liefde. He is credited from about 1641 to Oct. 8, 1647, with wages earned by baking on the farms of Symon Walichsz and Gerrit de Reux and on the farm called de Vlackte; also, in 1643, with boards furnished to various farmers, apparently from the sawmill of Carsten Carstensz, in which he may have had an interest. At first he probably worked with Harry Albertsz, baker, who sailed for Holland about April 1641. Willem Juriaensz was sentenced to banishment from the colony for various misdeeds on Feb. 4, 1644, and again on Aug. 29, 1647, for attacking de Hooges with a knife, but in each case respite was granted on condition that he refrain from molesting people. In 1650 new charges were brought against him and July 18, 1650, he was once more sentenced to banishment from the colony, the court resolving July 27, 1650, that he be brought in irons on board the yacht of Rutger Jacobsz and taken to the Manhatans. Aug. 4, 1650, he was released to settle his affairs, on promise that he would comply with the last sentence, but whether on account of his old age (in 1650 he is described as fully 70 years of age), or for other reasons, nothing more seems to have been done in the matter. Nov. 30, 1651, Willem Juriaensz declared that he refused to fulfil his contract with Jan van Hoesen, dated Jan. 30, 1650, and Jan. 18, 1652, the court gave Jan van Hoesen permission to occupy the erf (lot, or bakery) of Willem Juriaensz, on condition that the latter be allowed to dwell in his house as long as he lived ofte de gelegenheijt presentcert (or an opportunity for removing to another place presented itself). Cf. O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:437-38.

Jacob Aertsz (Arentsz), from Utrecht; referred to as Jacob Aertsz Wagenacr, and also as Jacob Adriaensz Wagenacr (the wagoner); sailed on den Calmer Sleutel, Dec. 1637, at the age of 25, as farm servant for Albert Andriesz. He served for 1¼ years at the Manhatans and June 26, 1639, began his service in the colony, for the term of six years, at wages ranging from f90 to f120 a year. He is charged in the accounts with supplies furnished by Albert Andriesz, but is entered as servant of Cornelis Maesen. April 2, 1648, the court ordered him to serve Evert Pels for one year, so as to complete his term. Feb. 23, 1649, he appeared before the court on the charge of having the preceding day, with Jacob Adriaensz Raedemaecker (wheelwright) and Harmen Bastiaensz, prevented Director van Slichtenhorst from arresting Jacob Toenijs, servant of Jan Verbeeck, in the Greenen Bos.

By den Harinck

*Sailed from the Texel in May 1639; arrived at New Amsterdam,
July 7, 1639*

Jan Cornelisz, tobacco planter and carpenter, probably from Leyden; sailed by den Harinck in 1639; he is usually referred to as Jan Cornelisz Timmerman and appears to have been a master carpenter who had other carpenters in the colony in his employ. July 18, 1641, the patroon designates him as the person who may build the proposed church. His account runs from 1639 to 1647. In 1646 he offered to repair the mill dam on the fifth creek for f550, but his bid was thought too high and rejected.

Sander Leendertsz Glen; sailed with his wife, Catalijn Donckesz, by den Harinck, in 1639. March 11, 1649, they acknowledged their signatures to contracts of March 28, 1639, and Feb. 23, 1645, and stated that they sailed the two yachts of the patroon from 1641, for three years, "but not when they tapped liquor." The nature of the two contracts is not disclosed. Sander Leendertsz is credited with wine and beer furnished between 1644 and 1646, and charged with f32 a year from 1647 to 1652, for ground rent and the right to trade with the Indians. Aug. 2, 1649, Director van Slichtenhorst notified Sander Leendertsz and other skippers not to transport colonists to the Manhatans without his consent.

Andries Hendricksz; arrived by den Harinck and served for four years, beginning Aug. 14, 1639, under Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen.

Marten Hendricksz, from Hamelwaerde [Hamelwörden, near Freiburg on the Elbe, Hanover]; came on den Harinck and was engaged for six years as farm hand at f100 a year, beginning Aug. 14, 1639. He was for three years and 8½ months employed by Michiel Jansz, and for two years and 3½ months by Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen. From Nov. 1, 1645, to March 1, 1646, he was in the service of Antony de Hooges. He is credited with 26 weeks' board of Hans Vos, the court messenger, and in 1651 appears to have had an interest in the brewery, with Evert Pels. In 1657, he is referred to as Marten de bier Craaker and Marten de bierkracker. He is perhaps the same person as Marten Hendricksz Verbeeck, who on Feb. 1, 1652, obtained a lot next to Jacob Simonsz Klomp, the rent to commence Easter 1653.

Barent Pietersz Koijemans [Coeymans]; came by den Harinck and was engaged for six years, beginning Aug. 14, 1639, at f30 a year for the first two years, f40 for the next two years and f50 for the last two years. He worked for four years under Pieter Cornelisz, the millwright, and is in the accounts referred to as the latter's jonghen (boy). Early in Oct. 1645, Barent Pietersz and Jan Gerritsz entered into an agreement with de Hooges for sawing boards at the patroon's mill on the fifth creek; Oct. 11, 1646, the agreement was canceled and a new one entered into whereby the two men jointly took charge of the sawmill, and Jan Gerritsz alone of "both the mills" [sawmill and grist-mill?], the contract to last till the end of Jan Gerritsz' term of service. May 18, 1648, [perhaps the date of Jan Gerritsz' death], Barent Pietersz and Rutger Jacobsz leased the sawmill and grist-mill on the fifth creek, at an annual rent of f550. From Dec. 14, 1648, to Dec. 14, 1654, the same men are charged with f125 a year for water rights of a sawmill on the fifth creek, which Rutger Jacobsz took over from Andries de Vos. Dec. 14, 1654, the same water rights were leased to Barent Pietersz and Teunis Cornelisz Spitsenberch for f150 a year, and Aug. 3, 1656, the two men obtained permission to erect a third mill on the fifth creek for which they are charged f100 a year, from Aug. 1, 1657. After 1645, Barent Pietersz is sometimes referred to as Barent de Molenaer (the miller). Jan. 19, 1651, he is called swaeger (brother in law) of Andries de Vos. A brother by the name of Lucas Pietersz is mentioned in the court proceedings in 1650.

Harry (Hendrick) Albertsz, from London, baker; his first accounts in the colony run from 1639 to April 2, 1641. He then left for Holland and in June 1642, at the age of 29 years, returned to the colony, on den Houttuyn, accompanied by his wife Geertruyt Dries, from Doesburch, [in the province of Gelderland]. June 7, 1642, he signed a contract with the patroon for the place of ferrymaster. He died before April 11, 1650, when the land formerly occupied by him was leased to Thomas Jansz. He was succeeded as ferrymaster by Jacob Jansz Stol.

Reyer Stoffelsz, smith; was at New Amsterdam in 1638 and succeeded Burger Jorisz as smith of Rensselaerswyck on Aug. 18, 1639. He does not appear in the colony after 1647.

1640

By den Waterhondt

Sailed from the Texel in June or July 1640

Gijsje Berents [Barents], wife of Pieter Jacobsz; is charged with board on den Waterhondt in 1640, and credited with 28 days' work done by her husband on the house of Arent van Curler. It is not unlikely that her husband was the same person as Pieter Jacobsz, constapel of Fort Orange, who on April 15, 1652, by order of Johannes Dyckman tore van Slichtenhorst's proclamation from the house of Gijsbert Cornelisz, the tavern keeper.

Adriaen Teunisz van der Bilt; was engaged for six years, beginning Sept. 24, 1640, three years at f90 a year and three years at f100 a year. He probably came by den Waterhondt, as farm laborer for Symon Walichsz. It is uncertain whether the words van der Bilt, represent a family name, or have reference to the village of de Bilt, near Utrecht, as Adriaen Teunisz' place of origin. If used as a family name, it is probable that Adriaen Teunisz van der Bilt was the same person as Arijen Teunisz van Luijten [from Luyten-Ambacht, in North Brabant], who is charged with supplies in 1642.

Lysbeth Brants, }
Gerritje Brants, } daughters of Brant Peelen van Nykerck. They came by den Waterhondt.

Cornelis Cornelisz, from Schoenderwoerd [Schoonrewoerd, in the province of South Holland]; served as farm laborer for six years, beginning Sept. 4, 1640, at wages ranging from f80 to f100 a year. He is probably the same person as Cornelis Vos, and Cornelis Cornelisz alias Vosje, who appears in the account books from 1642 to 1657. Jan. 29, 1649, *Cornelis gen<sup>t</sup> vossge*n (Cornelis, called vossge) leases a farm adjoining Rem Jansz, the smith, on the north.

Jan Cornelisz, from Houten, [near Utrecht]; was engaged as farm hand for six years; three years at f100 a year and three years at f110 a year, his wages beginning Sept. 4, 1640. For the first year and eight months he was in the service of Symon Walichsz; the rest of his term he was in the service of Crijn Cornelisz, from Houten. He was probably a brother of Crijn Cornelisz and would seem to have come with him on den Waterhondt, in company with Cornelis Crijnen and Jan Crijnen.

Cornelis Crijnen (Krijnen, Quirijnen), from Houten, [near Utrecht]; is charged with board on den Waterhondt and credited with wages for mason's work on cellar of Domine Megapolensis and for spading of gardens. He was probably a son of Crijn Cornelisz, from Houten, whose surety he became July 7, 1646. Oct. 13, 1648, he was forbidden to leave the colony without furnishing two sureties for the payment of certain amounts owed by him, and April 29, 1649, he is referred to as having left the colony.

Jan Crijnen (Krijnen), from Houten, [near Utrecht]. Before Sept. 6, 1642, he was for a year and six months in the service of Symon Walichsz; after that date he appears to have been in the service of Crijn Cornelisz, from Houten. He was probably the latter's son and may have arrived with Cornelis Crijnen by den Waterhondt.

Claes Gerritsz, from Schoennerwoorde [Schoonrewoerd, in the province of South Holland]; was engaged as farm laborer May 26, 1640, for six years, three years at f100 a year and three years at f110 a year. His wages in the colony began Sept. 24, 1640. He was at different times employed by Brant Peelen, Michiel Jansz, Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen, and on the farm called de Vlakte. In 1648, he was prosecuted by Director van Slichtenhorst for selling ammunition and bartering skins, contrary to his contract. Claes Gerritsz claimed that van Curler gave him permission to trade and the case dragged along till Nov. 10, 1651, when it was settled by arbitration.

Nijs Jacobsz; was engaged for six years, as farm hand, at wages ranging from f20 to f40 a year. His term of service began Sept. 4, 1640, and his board is charged to Crijn Cornelisz, from Houten; he doubtless came with the latter on den Waterhondt.

Teunis Jacobsz, from Schoonderwoert [Schoonrewoerd, in the province of South Holland]; in one instance referred to as Tuenis Rut Jacobsz broeder (Tuenis, the brother of Rutger Jacobsz); was engaged as farm hand for the term of six years, beginning Sept. 4, 1640; three years at f90 a year and three years at f100 a year. He served apparently first under Symon Walichsz and then under Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen. He probably came by den Waterhondt. From 1650 to 1652 he is charged with f16 a year for a house lot. He married April 19, 1650, at New Amsterdam, Sara Denijs, from England.

Jan Reyersz, from Houten, [near Utrecht]; was engaged for six years, beginning Sept. 4, 1640, at wages of f105 a year for the first three years and of f112 a year for the last three years. He served for  $1\frac{3}{4}$  years under Cornelis Maesen and for the rest of his term under Crijn Cornelisz, from Houten. March 17, 1650, he took over from Rijck Rutgersz the lease of Bethlehem's Island, which was renewed on Feb. 15, 1653, for eight years, at a yearly rent of f230 and f45 for tithes.

Dirck Teunisz, son of Teunis Dircksz van Vechten; came by den Waterhondt.

Gerrit Jansz, from Haerlem; also referred to as Gerrit Jansen Cuyper and Gerrit Jansz Kuijper (the cooper); seems to have done cooper's work in the colony as early as 1640, and is mentioned in the court proceedings under date of July 16, 1648. May 4, 1647, Antony de Hooges gave him a promissory note for f28, being the balance of money due to him for 'thaelen vant Geschut (bringing the ordnance).

Cornelis Spierinck; charged with supplies in 1642 and 1643 and credited with f107:15:8 for copying and other work in the service of Arent van Curler, in the course of  $1\frac{1}{2}$  years, previous to the arrival of Antony de Hooges in the spring of 1642.

1641

By den Eyckenboom

Sailed from Amsterdam, May 17, 1641; arrived at New Amsterdam in August 1641

Adriaen van der Donck, from Breda, [in the province of North Brabant]; son of Cornelis van der Donck, who appears in New Netherland in 1655. Adriaen van der Donck was commissioned officer of justice, or schout, of Rensselaerswyck, May 13, 1641, and sailed four days later by den Eyckenboom. He occupied a farm on Castle Island till Jan. 17, 1646, when the house was destroyed by fire and he and his wife, the daughter of the Rev. Francis Doughty, temporarily accepted the hospitality of Antony de Hooges. Feb. 23, after a quarrel with de Hooges, he left the latter's house and moved to the fort (see de Hooges' account of the quarrel, O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:469-70, erroneously attributed to van Curler, who was at the time in Holland). May 3, 1646, van der Donck was still in the colony, but soon after he left and established a sawmill and plantation on the Saegh kil, in his colony of Colendonck, in the present city of Yonkers, for which he had obtained a grant in 1645. Before leaving Rensselaerswyck, he transferred to Cornelis Segersz van Voorhout the remaining three years' lease of his farm on Castle Island. He was succeeded as officer by Nicolaes Coorn. Early in May 1646, in an account with Abraham Clock, de Hooges refers to van der Donck as de Joncker, which is probably the earliest mention of the title and which may have reference to his having recently become proprietor of a colony. Adriaen van der Donck died in 1655.

Cornelis Hendricksz van Nes (van Es); was in the colony in 1641, and probably came with Andries de Vos, on den Eyckenboom. From 1642, he is charged with tithes of a farm at Bethlehem, which he seems to have occupied till the fall of 1648, when van Slichtenhorst brought actions against him for calling him a liar and a cheat and for throwing oat straw on the dump heap out of spite against the director and to the detriment of the next lessee. In April 1649, he made preparations to leave the colony, but for some reason stayed and Aug. 25, 1650, he leased, for eight years at f225 a year, a farm in Greenbush, formerly occupied by Teunis Cornelisz van Vechten, together with six morgens of land belonging to the adjoining farm of Teunis Dircksz van Vechten. Van Nes served as racts persoon (councilor) of Rensselaerswyck, at an annual salary of f50, from 1652 to 1658, and again in 1660, 1661 and 1663. He lived with his wife Maijgen Hendricksen, at Vianen, province of South Holland, in 1625, and owned land at Scherperswyck, near Leksmond, in the neighborhood of Vianen, as late as 1661.

Andries de Vos; was a carpenter by trade and sailed by den Eyckenboom in May 1641. He occupied a farm [at Bethlehem?] from 1642 and in Oct. 1648 is referred to as gerechts persoon (member of the court). Jan. 21, 1649, the court of the colony decided that he must pay f62:10 a year for the patroon's rights of the mill at Bethlehem. Oct. 18, 1650, he entered into an agreement to lease the creek south of Thomas Chambers' farm for six years at an annual rent of f75 and to erect thereon a saw- and grist-mill, but Feb. 16, 1651, he was released from his obligation on the ground of inconvenience. He was a brother in law of Barent Pietersz Koijemans.

Hans Jansz Eencluys (een kluijs, in Cluijs), by his mark well identified with Hans Jansz, from Rotterdam; appears at New Amsterdam in 1639 and seems to have been in Rensselaerswyck as early as 1641. He was in July 1648, preparatory to Stuyvesant's visit, employed with Jan Dircksz, from Bremen, to clean the colony's cannon, and in the spring of 1650 acted as interpreter for Jacob Jansz Flodder in buying land from the Indians. In 1651 he operated a sawmill for Evert Pels, being under contract till May 1652. Nov. 3, 1651, Hans Jansz and Crijn Cornelisz received permission to erect a sawmill on a creek on the west side of the river, a little north of Beeren Island; Sept. 30, 1656, Hans Jansz and Abraham Pietersz Vosburch obtained a lease of the water power on the creek south of the farm of Jan Barentsz Wemp.

By den Coninck David

Sailed from Amsterdam, July 23, 1641; arrived at New Amsterdam, November 29, 1641

Antony de Hooges; was engaged as underbookkeeper and assistant to Arent van Curler, and sailed from the Texel by den Coninck David, July 30, 1641. He reached New Amsterdam Nov. 29, 1641, but apparently did not arrive in the colony till April 10, 1642, being credited from that date till April 10, 1644, with a salary of f150 a year. From van Curler's departure for Holland, in Oct. 1644, till van Slichtenhorst's arrival on March 22, 1648, he was entrusted with the business management of the colony; from the latter date till his death, on or about Oct. 11, 1655, he held the offices of secretary and gecommitteerde. In the accounts, he is credited, from May 11, 1652, to Oct. 11, 1655, with a salary of f360 a year as secretary, and for the same period with a salary of f100 as gecommitteerde, also with f56, for salary as voorleeser (reader in the church) during two months and one week in 1653. In a petition for salary, March 27, 1648, he states that he has been for more than six years in the service of the patroon and for four years has not received any salary; that he has now been entrusted with a new office without any mention of salary; and that he must have a house built inasmuch as the storehouse, assigned to him for a dwelling, has been turned into a church. He married, in Oct. 1647, a daughter of Albert Andriesz, named Eva, who on Aug. 13, 1657, became the wife of Roelof Swartwout.

Lucas Smit (Smith, Smitt, Smits), from Jehansberg [Johannisburg, in the district of Gumbinnen, in East Prussia]; arrived at New Amsterdam, by den Coninck David, Nov. 29, 1641, and at once entered the service of Domine Bogardus. Aug. 13, 1642, he came to Rensselaerswyck and from that date till May 1, 1644, was employed at the patroon's house at wages of f100 a year. From May 1, 1644, to April 13, 1646, he served as a farm laborer on de Vlackte and also as a clerk, at a yearly salary of f200. He left the colony in 1646, with a testimonial of good conduct from Antony de Hooges.

Jan Teunisz, from Leyden, carpenter; sailed by den Coninck David at the end of July 1641, but does not appear in the colony till 1642. He left probably about 1646.

Jan Verbeeck, from Breda, [province of North Brabant], tailor; was to sail by den Coninck David with his wife, child and maid servant, but in the accounts of the colony is charged with passage of himself, wife and child only. His account begins in 1642; he probably spent the winter at the Manhatans. Oct. 22, 1648, he was indebted to the amount of f737:9:8, which he promised to pay promptly in five instalments on condition that the first year, 1649-50, he should be free from ground rent for his lot in the bijeenwoning (village). He failed to fulfil his agreement and accordingly is charged with an annual rent of f32 from 1649. His house stood in Greenbush and was in 1658 taken over by Jan Baptist van Rensselaer. April 30, 1648, the court of Rensselaerswyck granted the petition of Jan Verbeeck and Jan Michielsz for the exclusive right to exercise their trade as tailors with one helper [Jacob Teunisz], at wages of 36 stivers a day each for themselves and 30 stivers a day for the helper. Jan Verbeeck was appointed Gerechts persoon (member of the court) of Rensselaerswyck on Jan. 5, 1651, and took the oath on Jan. 12th.

Volckert Hansz, after 1651 usually referred to as Volckert Jansz, and still later as Volckert Jansz Douw. His name is first mentioned under date of April 27, 1642; in the harvest of 1647, he was employed on the Vlackte. From 1647 to 1649, he and Jan Thomasz are jointly charged with f32 a year for ground rent and the right to trade; from 1649 to 1652 Volckert Jansz is charged with f32 a year for his place aenden berch (on the hill) on which he built a house. From May 1, 1653, to May 1, 1658, Pieter Hartgers, Volckert Jansz and Jan Thomasz are charged jointly with an annual rent of f560 for a farm on Papscaene Island, formerly occupied by Juriaen Bestval. Volckert Jansz and Jan Thomas bought this farm in 1658, for 950 beavers or f7600; and Oct. 12, 1694, Volckert Jansz settled his account for one half of the tithes till 1688. Jan. 24, 1664, the council of Rensselaerswyck passed a resolution annulling the purchase of land from the Indians, at Schodac, made by Volckert Jansz and Jan Thomasz without the consent of the colony. When notice of this resolution was served on them, they produced a patent from Stuyvesant, dated Nov. 3, 1663. In 1650, Volckert Jansz accompanied Arent van Curler on an embassy to the Maquaes.

By den Houttuyn

*Sailed from the Texel in June 1642; arrived at New Amsterdam,
August 4, 1642*

Hendrick Andriesz (Driesz), from [Doesburch, province of Gelderland]; was the brother in law of Harry Albertsz and sailed with the latter on den Houttuyn, at the age of 21. He appears in the colony till 1651.

Juriaen Bestval (Bestvall, Bestivall, Westval, Westvael, Westvaelt, van Westvaele), from Luyderdorp [Leiderdorp, near Leyden]; came by den Houttuyn and drew wages in the colony from Aug. 13, 1642. In July 1644, he is referred to as servant of Michiel Jansz. Jan. 14, 1649, Juriaen Bestval and Jochem Kettelheym took over from Evert Pels the remaining term of the lease, till May 1, 1653, of the farm formerly occupied by Symon Walichsz; Oct. 8, 1651, Jochem Kettelheym was released from his obligations and Juriaen Bestval became solely responsible. This farm was on Papscaene Island and was leased from May 1, 1653, to May 1, 1658, by Pieter Hartgers, and in 1658 sold to Volckert Jansz and Jan Thomasz.

Johan Carstensz, from Barlt, [in the province of Schleswig-Holstein, Prussia]; came by den Houttuyn and drew wages in the colony from Aug. 13, 1642. In July 1644, he appears as servant of Michiel Jansz.

Jan Helmsz (Helms, Helmsen, Helmichsen, Helmes, Helmessen), from Barlt, [in the province of Schleswig-Holstein, Prussia]; also referred to as Jan Helmsen alias Jan de Bock; came by den Houttuyn and drew wages in the colony from Aug. 13, 1642. From about 1650 to 1658, he is charged with an annual rent of f445 for a farm at Bethlehem which he appears to have taken over from Jan Dircksz, from Bremen.

Claes Jansz, from Waelwijck, [about 14 miles west of Bois-le-Duc, in the province of North Brabant]; came by den Houttuyn in 1642 and was still in the colony in 1649.

Paulus Jansz, from Geertruydenbergh, [in the province of North Brabant]; came by den Houttuyn and appears in the accounts as jongen (boy) of Adriaen van der Donck, wages beginning Aug. 13, 1642.

Jochem Kettelheym (Kettelhuyn, Kettelheun, Kuttelheijm, Kuttelhuijn, Cuttelhuyn); came by den Houttuyn and served in the colony from Aug. 13, 1642, under Andries de Vos. From Sept. 20, 1646, to April 20, 1648, he was employed on de Vlakte, at wages of f120 a year. Jan. 14, 1649, Jochem Kettelheym and Juriaen Bestval took over from Evert Pels the lease of the farm formerly occupied by Symon Walichsz, till the expiration of said lease on May 1, 1653, at an annual rent of f560, but Oct. 8, 1651, Kettelheym was released from his obligations and Bestval became solely responsible. According to O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 1:451, Jochem Kettelheym came from Cremyn [Kremmin, near Stettin, Pomerania].

*Cornelis Lambertsz, from Doorn, [near Utrecht]; is given among those who were to sail with Domine Megapolensis on den Houttuyn in June 1642, but his name does not appear in the records of the colony. He probably remained at the Manhatans and soon thereafter died, as in the marriage records of the Reformed Dutch church of New York, under date of Sept. 4, 1644, is found the marriage of Wilhelm Bredenbent and Aeltje Braconie, widow of Corn. Lamberts.

Johannes Megapolensis, formerly minister at Schoorl and Bergen, [near Alkmaar, in the province of North Holland]; entered into a contract with Kiliaen van Rensselaer, April 6, 1642, to serve as preacher in the colony for the period of six years, at an annual salary of f1000 for the first three years and of f1200 for the last three years. He sailed with his wife and four children by den Houttuyn in June 1642 and served as pastor of the colony from Aug. 13, 1642, till the summer of 1649. For the entire period of his residence in the colony he appears to have lived in the grenen bosch (pine woods), on the east side of the river, and it is there, in his own house, that religious services were held till some time between 1646 and 1648, when the patroon's storehouse near Fort Orange was adapted to a church. The real name of Megapolensis was probably Grootstadt; Kieft, in a letter of Sept. 11, 1642, refers to him as doe grootstedius, and references are found in accounts kept by Jeremias van Rensselaer in 1656 to a surgeon by the name of Mr. johannes grootstadt who was not unlikely the son of Domine Megapolensis.

Juriae Pauwelsen (Pouwelsen, Pauwesz, Poulish), from Sleswyck [Schleswig]; came by den Houttuyn and began his service in the colony on Aug. 13, 1642. He is referred to as Jeuriacn Poulish Jongen (boy), and in July 1644, as the servant of Michiel Jansz. He does not appear in the accounts after 1644.

Evert Pels, from Statijn, or Steltijn [Stettin, Pomerania]; was engaged as brewer for the term of six years, June 5, 1642, and sailed the same year by den Houttuyn with his wife and servant. Feb. 28, 1647, he leased the farm formerly occupied by Symon Walichsz, on Papscaene Island for six years, at f560 a year, but after building a new house and barns transferred the lease to Juriae Bestval and Jochem Kettelheym, Jan. 14, 1649, and turned the property over on March 25, 1649. Nov. 18, 1649, he leased, jointly with Willem Fredericksz (Bout) the farm formerly occupied by Crijn Cornelisz, in Greenbush, for which he is charged in the accounts with an annual rent of f400, from May 1, 1649 till 1661 when he moved to the Esopus; the same day they also leased the saw- and grist-mill in Greenbush, formerly occupied by Jacob Jansz Flodder, for which he is charged with an annual rent of f125, from May 1, 1649, till May 1, 1658.

Abraham Staas (Staes, Staet, Staets), from Amsterdam, surgeon; entered into a contract with Kiliaen van Rensselaer, Feb. 1, 1642, to sail to the colony with his wife Trijntje Jochims and one servant, and to practice as surgeon for the period of six years from the date of his arrival, to the exclusion of all others. He sailed by den Houttuyn with one servant, but apparently without his wife. In the contract his age is given as 24; that of his wife as 19 years. Staas is credited in the accounts with various supplies furnished by him between 1642 and 1648, indicating that he was engaged in business besides practicing as a surgeon; also with f30 for salary as surgeon from Nov. 16, 1645, to Nov. 16, 1646; with f60 for salary as surgeon and work on de Vlakte till Nov. 1647; and with f20 for salary as surgeon till March 20, 1648. He is further credited with f58:6 for salary as Raetspersoon (councilor), from Feb. 5, 1643, to April 10, 1644, and with f400 for salary as Presidecrende (presiding officer of the council) from April 10, 1644, to April 10, 1648. Sept. 9, 1649, Abraham Staas obtained a lot in the byeenwooning (village), near the first creek, on the terms of the freemen. In 1658, he owned a yacht and is referred to as Capt. Staes.

Hans Vos, from Baeden [Baden, Germany]; was engaged for six years, three years at f90 a year and three years at f100 a year. He sailed by den Houttuyn and began his service in the colony on Aug. 13, 1642. Soon after his arrival he was appointed Gerechtsboode, or Steeboo, (court messenger), for which in the accounts he is credited with an annual salary of f40 from Oct. 12, 1642, to May 12, 1648. In addition to this salary, he is credited with wages from Nov. 18, 1644, to May 18, 1648, at f110 a year. Before Dec. 17, 1648, he entered into a contract to serve Pieter de Boer for four months, and Dec. 23, 1648, he was reengaged as court messenger, for four months, at a salary equal to f50 a year and board, upon condition that he work two or three days each week for the director at f1 a day and in the morning fetch water, chop wood and spade the garden; for work done for Pieter de Boer he was to receive pay according to contract and for work done for others as much as he could get. From Jan. 1, 1650, to April 1, 1650, Hans Vos served as court messenger on a salary of f20 a month, and one day's work a week for the patroon without further compensation.

Joris Borrelingen (Borlingen), Englishman, servant of Crijn Cornelisz; is charged with supplies in 1642 and 1643.

Willem Fredericksz, from Leyden, Vrij Timmerman (free carpenter); after 1651, commonly referred to as Willem Fredericksz Bout, or Boudt; is first charged with supplies in 1642. Between 1646 and 1648, he is credited with f80 "for making in the church a pulpit, the sounding board, a seat for the magistrates, one ditto for the deacons, a window with two lights, closing up a window and [building] therein a small closet, [making] a rail near the pulpit, with a corner seat and 9 benches." By the term "church" must be understood the patroon's storehouse, near Fort Orange, which according to de Hooges' petition for an increase of salary, dated March 27, 1648, had been turned into a church. Between 1648 and 1651, Willem Fredericksz is charged with f142:6 for passage of his wife and two children, as per account of Geertgen Mannix [Nannincks], showing that he must have married Geertje Nannincks shortly after the death of her third husband Claes Jansz Rust, the baker (cf. petition of Pieter Wolphertsz, guardian of children of Claes Jansz, Nov. 30, 1648, N.Y.Col.Mss, 4:422). Nov. 18, 1649, Willem Fredericksz and Evert Pels jointly leased the farm formerly occupied by Crijn Cornelisz and the mill formerly leased by Jacob Jansz Flodder. From 1650 to 1652 Willem Fredericksz is charged with an annual rent of f16 for a hofsteede (house lot) on which he had built a house.

Andries Herbertsz (Herbert, Herberts, Herpertsz), referred to as Andries Herbertsz alias Constapel, Andries Constapel and in one instance as de Constapel vande Vierblaes (the gunner of the vuurblaas, a kind of frigate, built of fir or spruce, formerly used in Sweden). He was apparently not engaged for a definite term of years, but employed at different times to do garden work, cut and haul lumber, build fences, or work at the grist-mill. Between 1659 and 1662 he furnished the colony with brick and tiles from the kiln conveyed to him by Pieter Meusz. June 23, 1662, he was severely wounded in a tavern brawl by Seger Cornelisz, whom, in self defense, he mortally wounded with a knife. Andries Herbertsz died before Oct. 12, 1662. His wife was Annetje Juriaens, sister of Volkertje Juriaens, the wife of Jan Fransz van Hoesen.

Albert Jansz, from Amsterdam, carpenter; is charged with supplies in 1642, and on Aug. 7, 1644, credited with 19½ days' wages at 16 stivers a day for work done at the house of Domine Megapolensis.

Claes Jansz, from Breda, [province of North Brabant]; is charged with supplies in 1642, and is referred to as a boy in the service of Adriaen van der Donck. After van der Donck's departure in 1646, he was for one year employed by Cornelis Segersz van Voorhout. He is perhaps the same person as Claes Jansz Smith, who in July 1647 importuned de Hooges at the Manhatans for settlement of his account and who sailed for Holland by de Prinses, which was wrecked in Sept. 1647.

Jacob Jansz, from Noordstrandt, or Norstrandt [Nordstrand, an island off the coast of Schleswig]; appears first in 1642, when supplies furnished to him are charged to Cornelis Hendricksz van Nes. With others, he took the oath of fealty, Nov. 28, 1651.

Jan Pooy (Jehan Poeij); was furnished with supplies in 1642 and 1643 and is referred to as Boetgesel van Rens'wyck, that is, sailor of the colony's yacht Rensselaerswyck.

Claes Teunisz, referred to as Claes Teunisz alias Uylenspiegel and as Claes Teunisz Uylenspiegel (the wag, or joker); is credited with two years' wages in van Curler's time and with wages earned on de Vlackte, from April 10, 1645, to the fall of 1646; also with wages of his partner Thomas de Engelsman; and with various amounts for sweeping a chimney, finding horses, etc. Dec. 17, 1648, he was prosecuted for driving his horse too fast. He took over the farm of Jan Andriesz, Dec. 21, 1649, and was ordered to vacate it Sept. 9, 1650, for failure to improve it satisfactorily.

Teunis Teunisz, from Loenen, [province of Utrecht]; referred to as Teunis de Metselaer (the mason); built a chimney in van der Donck's house perhaps as early as 1642. Jointly with Jan Gouw, he contracted to build a brick house for Jeremias van Rensselaer, Sept. 8, 1659.

Claes Tijssen [Mathijsz]; is charged with supplies in 1642 and some time before 1648 appears to have been in the service of Evert Pels. June 23, 1650, the court ordered Director van Slichtenhorst to pay f192 due to Claes Tijssen for wages earned on de Vlackte.

1643

Lucas Ellertsz (Luycas Elbertsen); appears but once in the records of the colony, under date of May 29, 1643, when his account is charged to Cornelis Teunisz, from Meerkerck. He was in New Amsterdam in June 1646 and in Beverwyck in 1661.

Jacob Jonasz; is charged under date of June 12, 1643, with 16 stivers and 4 pence for ¼ yard of duffel. No other reference to him is found in the records of the colony.

Wolf Nijssen (Wolphert Nys), from t'Stift, [bishopric of Utrecht]; bound himself, at the Manhatans, June 15, 1643, to serve Evert Pels and his wife in Rensselaerswyck for two years, at wages of f115 a year. After the expiration of his term of service, he was employed by de Hooges and others to sweep chimneys, cart hay, chop wood and do various other tasks. In 1646, or 1647, he was executed for a crime which is not named in the records.

Jan Barentsz Wemp, nicknamed Poest; appears to have been in the colony as early as 1643 and for a time to have served under Cornelis Teunisz, from Breuckelen. From April 10, 1645, to June 11, 1646, he had charge of the patroon's farm called de Vlackte and during that period is credited with wages at the rate of f300 a year, for the services of himself and his wife. He left de Vlackte June 11, 1646, on account of some sporlingh met de wilden (trouble with the Indians) and Aug. 13, 1646, agreed to take charge of the saw- and grist-mill on the fifth creek for the term of five years beginning July 25, 1646, at wages of f13 a month and f100 a year for board. March 20, 1647, with Andries Herbertsz, he took a lease of land south of Jan Dircksz, from Bremen, and east of Albert Andriesz, along the creek of Castle Island and the mill [Normans] kill, for six years, at an annual rent of f275 from Nov. 1, 1647. Andries Herbertsz, however, changed his plans and Jan Barentsz agreed to carry out the terms of the contract alone. He remained in possession of this farm till Nov. 1, 1654, when he took over the farm of Thomas Chambers, situated on the east side of the river on what later became known as the Poesten Kill. Jan Barentsz obtained a lot adjoining the stockade and north of Thomas Jansz, Feb. 1, 1652, the rent to begin at Easter 1653. In 1661, he owned a house which was leased by Jeremias van Rensselaer for the use of the schout, Gerard Swart. Jan Barentsz died between May 18 and June 28, 1663. His widow married Sweer Theunisz, from Velsen, [near Arnhem], who was engaged in Holland, Nov. 9, 1660, as a farm hand for Jan Barentsz.

1644

By het Wapen van Rensselaerswyck

Sailed from Amsterdam in September 1643; arrived at New Amsterdam in March 1644

Jacob Adriaensz, generally referred to as Jacob Adriaensz Rademaccker (wheelwright); probably the wheelwright from Hilversum, mentioned in the "Redress," of Sept. 5, 1643, as about to sail by het Wapen van Rensselaerswyck. He is charged in the accounts with rent for a small piece of land opposite the Mill Kill, seeded by him and Jacob Lambertsz in 1648 and also with rent, from 1650 to 1652, at f32 a year, for a house lot, north of Arent Andriesz, where he was to exercise his trade.

Claes Andriesz, from Hilversum, [in the Gooi, or Gooiland, province of North Holland]; hence also called Claes Andriesz Gojer; probably sailed on het Wapen van Rensselaerswyck, in Sept. 1643, and appears in March 1650 as servant of Jan Barentsz Wemp. March 26, 1650, he is sentenced for various misdemeanors.

Nicolaes Coorn; was commissioned by the patroon as commander and commis on Rensselaerssteyn, Aug. 26, 1643, and probably came by het Wapen van Rensselaerswyck. He succeeded Adriaen van der Donck as schout of the colony in the spring or summer of 1646 and apparently held that office till the arrival of Director van Slichtenhorst, March 22, 1648. In April 1648, in answer to a petition which has not been preserved, the council of the colony stated that his title was Officier Luijtenant and his salary f36 a month; also that he might style his tavern Stadts Herberg and build on site requested, but that consent could not be given to grant any one exclusive right to sell liquor. In 1648, he is several times ordered to render accounts of goods consigned to him by the late patroon and Jan. 27, 1649, he is summoned to appear before the court to prove that Hans Vos, the court messenger, is an informer, or else to retract abusive language used in the tavern respecting Hans Vos and the council. He seems to have left the colony in 1649. July 25, 1647, he gave a power of attorney to Claes Jansz Calff to receive property left him by his deceased mother Janneken Kassers, matron of the hospital at Steenberg, [province of North Brabant] (N.Y. Col.Mss, 2:160).

Jan Dircksz, from Bremen, [Germany]; was commissioned skipper of the colony's yacht Rensselaerswyck on Aug. 25, 1643, when he would seem to have been in Amsterdam, though he had been in New Amsterdam as early as Aug. 4, 1639. From Sept. 14, 1648, to stubble time 1649, he occupied a farm at Bethlehem, which March 1, 1650, was leased to Jan Helms, for f445 a year. In 1651 he was in Catskill and Feb. 20, 1659, he conveyed his farm there to Eldert Gerbertsz Cruyf, in exchange for a house in Beverwyck.

Jacob Lambertsz van Dorlandt; was prosecuted in April 1648 for wounding Paulus Jansz Noorman, and in Dec. 1648 for calling Jochem Kettelheym an informer. He is apparently the same person as Jacob Lambertsz Gojer (from Gooiland, province of North Holland), who was prosecuted in Jan. 1651 for insults offered to Director van Slichtenhorst, de Hooges and Hans Vos, in Greenbush in Dec. 1650, and must probably also be identified with Jacob schoenmaker (shoemaker), to whom Evert Pels paid f20 wages in 1649, and with the shoemaker from Hilversum, mentioned in the "Redress" of Sept. 5, 1643, as about to sail by het Wapen van Rensselaerswyck. Jacob Lambertsz, from Hilversom, about 20 years of age, testified in regard to the burning of a house at New Amsterdam, March 9, 1644 (N.Y.Col.Mss, 2:99).

Jan Gerritsz, carpenter; is credited, under date of 1646, with 1½ years' wages at f90 a year, from March 26, 1644, to Sept. 26, 1645; with wages at f16 a month at the mill on the fifth creek, from Sept. 26, 1645, to Aug. 26, 1646; and, jointly with Barent Pietersz, with sawing of 2089 boards, at 3 stivers a cut, the last item presumably according to agreement of Oct. 1645 with de Hooges. Oct. 11, 1646, Jan Gerritsz Timmerman and Baerent Pietersz entered into a new agreement with de Hooges whereby the first two men jointly took charge of the sawmill, and Jan Gerritsz alone of "both the mills" [sawmill and grist-mill?], at f125 a year for board and 3 stivers per cut for sawing, the contract to last till the end of Jan Gerritsz' term of service. Jan Gerritsz probably arrived on het Wapen van Rensselaerswyck and died before March 17, 1650, perhaps as early as Dec. 14, 1648.

Dirck Hendricksz, from Hilversum, [in Gooiland, province of North Holland]; also referred to as Dirck de Gojer; was probably one of the four men from Hilversum mentioned in the "Redress" of Sept. 5, 1643, as about to sail by het Wapen van Rensselaerswyck. June 8, 1649, he and Claes Andriesz, from Hilversum, were ordered to complete the term of service for which they had been engaged and June 14, 1649, Dirck Hendricksz was taken over by Christoffel Davids. About 1652 he was at Catskill.

Jan Huybertsz, tailor; is charged with f50 for board on het Wapen van Rensselaerswyck in 1643, and credited with f29 for a suit of clothes made for Pieter Wynkoop.

Claes Cornelisz van Voorhout, second son of Cornelis Segersz van Voorhout; also called Claes Segersz, to distinguish him from Claes Cornelisz, the brother of Gijsbert Cornelisz, op den Hoogenberch. He occupied a farm on Papscanee Island from 1648 to 1658.

Cornelis Cornelisz van Voorhout, eldest son of Cornelis Segersz van Voorhout; is charged from Jan. 31, 1652, to Jan. 31, 1658, with an annual rent of f100, apparently for six morgens of land in Greenbush, formerly occupied by Christoffel Davids, which were leased to Teunis Dircksz van Vechten, on Jan. 31, 1650, and would seem to have been occupied by Cornelis Cornelisz after that year. In Jan. 1651, he is summoned to appear before the court to answer various charges of assault and battery. This Cornelis Cornelisz is probably the same person as jonge Cornelis seegersen, and jonge kees, mentioned in various accounts in 1656 and 1657.

Cornelis Segersz (Zegersz) van Voorhout; in his contract with the patroon, Aug. 25, 1643, referred to as Cornelis Segertsen van egmont. Voorhout is a small place near Leyden; Egmont lies near Alkmaar. He sailed by het Wapen van Rensselaerswyck with his wife, Brechtje Jacobs, 45 years of age, and six children, Cornelis, 22; Claes, 20; Seger, 14; Lysbeth, 16; Jannetje, 10; and Neeltje, 8 years of age. On his arrival in the colony, he entered upon the farm formerly occupied by Brant Peelen, deceased, which was one of the two farms on Castle Island; in 1646, he took over from Adriaen van der Donck the other farm for the remaining three years of the lease, and thus came into possession of the entire island. In an undated will, recorded between 1643 and 1648, Cornelis Segersz and his wife declare that they possess nothing; that any property which they may acquire shall go to the five children who live with them; and that the sixth child, Lysbeth, who is married, and therefore does not assist them in the acquisition of property, shall receive as an acknowledgment one pound Flemish. At the time the will appears to have been drawn, Lysbeth was married to Gijsbert Cornelisz, from Weesp, the tavern keeper. Shortly after his death, in 1653 or 1654, she married François Boon.

Seger Cornelisz van Voorhout, third son of Cornelis Segersz van Voorhout and husband of Jannetje Teunis, daughter of Teunis Dircksz van Vechten. He died June 24, 1662, of a knife wound inflicted the day before at the tavern of Anthonis Jansz by Andries Herbertsz Constapel, whom he had severely wounded on the head with a piece of wood.

Abraham Clock; was a carpenter and perhaps also a mason by trade and is credited in the accounts with various amounts for work done between 1644 and 1646, notably on the house of Adriaen van der Donck on Castle Island, which burned down in Jan. 1646.

Gijsbert Cornelisz, from Weesp, [near Amsterdam]; commonly referred to as Gijsbert Cornelisz waert, or weert (tavern keeper). He appears at New Amsterdam as early as June 1639, and in 1646 is credited with wine and beer furnished at the departure of Arent van Curler, showing that he must have been in the colony of Rensselaerswyck in the fall of 1644. He is charged from 1647 to 1652 with f32 a year for right of the fur trade and with f40 a year for license to sell liquor. He married Lysbeth, the daughter of Cornelis Segersz van Voorhout, and died between Oct. 25, 1653, and Aug. 22, 1654. Aug. 24, 1654, Antony de Hooges gives a promissory note to François Boon, husband and guardian of Lysbeth Cornelis, formerly widow of Gijsbert Cornelis: Ouwerkerck, deceased, for wine and beer consumed at public leasings of farms, communion service, in household of patroon, etc. Ouwerkerck, or Oudekerk, is a small place on the river Amstel, a few miles west of Weesp.

Pieter Hartgers (Hartgars, Hartgras, Harties, Hartiens, Hertgers); signs his name Pieter hartgerts. He is credited in the accounts with a salary of f14 a month, from Nov. 1, 1644, to Feb. 1, 1648, and during this period, which closely corresponds to that of van Curler's absence, appears to have assisted de Hooges in the management of the colony. From 1647 to 1652, he is charged with f32 a year for ground rent and the right to trade, and as early as 1646 he seems to have had a brewery. May 4, 1649, he and de Hooges leased for three years a garden between Fort Orange and the patroon's hof, where formerly the patroon's trading house stood, and about the same time Pieter Hartgers agreed to pay an annual rent, beginning in 1653, of four beavers for a lot for his mother in law Annetjen Dom<sup>e</sup> [Annetje Jans, widow of Domine Bogardus] on which he built a house. From May 1, 1653, to May 1, 1658, Pieter Hartgers, Volckert Jansz and Jan Thomasz were joint lessees of a farm on Papscanee Island, formerly occupied by Juriaen Bestval. Pieter Hartgers was at Amsterdam Dec. 20, 1660, and made an agreement with Jan Baptist van Rensselaer, regarding the purchase of 30 pieces of duffel which were to be delivered to him on his return to Fort Orange.

Mathijs Jansz; is credited in the accounts with wages for baking at the house of the patroon and with beer furnished between 1644 and 1646. He died before Oct. 13, 1648.

Jan Thomasz; is first mentioned about 1644, and in 1646 is referred to as the former servant of Adriaen van der Donck. June 11, 1646, while de Hooges was at the Manhatans, he was engaged by Pieter Hartgers as farmer on de Vlackte, in place of Jan Barentsz Wemp, at yearly wages of f250, cloth for a suit, one pair of shoes and two shirts. March 25, 1649, Director van Slichtenhorst ended his contract. In 1648 he had a house built by Thomas Chambers and from 1653 to 1658 he, Pieter Hartgers and Volckert Jansz appear as lessees of the farm on Papscanee Island formerly occupied by Juriaen Bestval. He bought this farm, jointly with Volckert Jansz, in 1658 and continued to pay tithes till 1684, from which date till 1688 tithes were paid by his widow. With Volckert Jansz he obtained a patent for land at Schodac in 1663.

Adriaen Willemsz; was sentenced to banishment from the colony, Aug. 13, 1644, for having stolen some beaver skins from the house of Arent van Curler.

1645

Richard Briggom [Brigham?], Englishman; was employed by Antony de Hooges, from 1645 to 1647, in chopping wood, cooking, spading and similar work. In 1646 his wages are credited to Sander Leendertsz.

Jacob Jansz Stol; signs himself Jacob Jansz Hap; appears first in the accounts of the colony under date of 1645 and in that year furnished various colonists with shoes, stockings, shirts and other supplies. He acted as skipper between Rensselaerswyck and New Amsterdam in July 1649, and soon after succeeded Harry Albertsz, from London, as ferrymaster of the colony. Feb. 15, 1652, he accompanied Johannes Dyckman in serving on the authorities of the colony an extract from the resolutions of the director general and council of Jan. 29, 1651, and a reply to the request for restitution of the colony's cannon. In 1658, he lived at the Esopus where with Evert Pels he had bought land in 1654.

1646

Rutger Adriaensz, tailor, brother of Gijsbert Adriaensz, from Bunnick; apparently employed by Jan Michielsz. He does not appear in records of the colony after Oct. 1651.

Thomas Chambers (Chamber), carpenter; appears first in the accounts in 1646, in connection with building a kitchen and chimney at the house of Domine Megapolensis. Sept. 7, 1646, he entered into an agreement about the lease of the land between the Wynants and Poesten Kills, in the southern part of the present city of Troy, for the term of five years, from Nov. 1, 1647. He occupied this land till July 1654 and shortly after moved to the Esopus. Sept. 23, 1650, he was chosen to accompany Arent van Curler to the Maquaes to renew the former covenant of friendship. He was nicknamed Clabbordt, a corruption of the English term clapboard, and may have introduced into the colony the method of weatherboarding houses with clapboards, which is not practiced in Holland.

Barent Gerritsz; worked, apparently in 1646, for seven and a half months on the farm called de Vlackte.

Jacob Hevingh (Hevick); was employed on de Vlackte from the harvest of 1646 till May 1, 1647, and thereafter did a variety of work such as helping to erect a new barn, hauling lumber, carting hops, etc. From March 3, 1649, to 1655, he is charged with f20 a year for a house lot and garden opposite Castle Island. In Dec. 1649 he was prosecuted for stealing some boards. He owned a house and brewhouse which about 1655 were sold at public auction and after passing through several hands were bought on Feb. 19, 1655, by Adriaen Jansz, from Leyden.

Jan de Neger (the negro); is credited in 1646 with f35 advanced by him for clothes which he was to receive in the service of the patroon, and in 1646, or 1647, with f38 Voor dat hij hem heeft Lactten gebruijcken tot scherp Rechter, ter executie van Justitie, over den misdadiger Wolf Nijssen (for having consented to act as executioner to carry out the sentence upon the criminal, Wolf Nijssen). O'Callaghan, in his History of New Netherland, 1:320 and 441, refers to him as the "hangman" of the colony. The wording of the entry in the account clearly shows that no such office existed and that the execution of Wolf Nijssen was an exceptional case, in which the negro was induced to serve.

Jan Fransz van Hoesen (Hoesem); was apparently in the colony as early as 1646, and in 1648 helped to erect a new barn for Jan Barentsz Wemp. By resolution of April 1, 1650, a garden was assigned to him between the first and second creeks and Jan. 18, 1652, he was given the use of the place of Willem Juriaensz, the baker, on condition that he let said Willem stay in his house "as long as he lives, or opportunity offers." His wife was Volkertje Juriaens.

Thomas Higgins (Higgins, Higges, Heggens), referred to as Thomas Higgins alias Compeer, tomas Compeer engelsman and Kleyne Thomas alias Compeer; worked on de Vlackte in 1647, and about the same time appears to have been in the employ of Thomas Chambers. About 1650 he seems to have moved to Catskill. April 28, 1657, he entered into a contract for the use of two horses, for the period of six years. Perhaps he is the same as Thomas de Engelsman, who about 1646 is referred to as maet (partner) of Claes Teunisz Uylenspiegel.

Willem Leendertsz, referred to as Willem leenertsz geelgieter, and Willem de geelgieter (the brass founder); is credited with f150 for wages earned on de Vlackte, from July 1, 1647, to May 1, 1648, and charged with grain in 1649 and beer in 1654. He may have been in the colony as early as 1646.

Carsten Pietersz; came before 1646, being in that year referred to as the deceased maet (partner) of Jacob Hevick.

Jan Willemsz Schut (Schuth); was a cooper by trade and appears first in the accounts under date of 1646. He was to have sailed by den Harinck in Sept. 1637, but for some reason failed to go and Frans Altersz, the cooper, came in his stead. In 1657, appears at Beverwyck Willem Jansz Schut, alias Dommelaer (the dozer), who was probably a son of Jan Willemsz Schut.

1647

Harmen Bastiansz; appears first in the accounts of the colony in 1647, but was in New Netherland as early as Sept. 13, 1639, when with Evert Evertsz Bischoep and Sibout Claesz he leased a sawmill on Nooten Island, now Governor's Island. He was a carpenter and with Dirck Jansz [Croon], built a house in Beverwyck on the site of the present National Commercial Bank, which he seems to have occupied from 1650 to 1652 and which on Jan. 25, 1652, was transferred to the name of Dirck Jansz. Feb. 9, 1652, Director van Slichtenhorst promised him indemnity for any loss he might incur by proceeding with the building of his house contrary to the orders of Johannes Dyckman. Harmen Bastiaensz was in 1667 surveyor of Albany; Pearson and other writers refer to him as Harmen Bastiaensz Visser.

Thomas Coningh (Coninck, Cuningh, Keuningh); is credited with f14 for seven days' service on the occasion of the wedding of Antony de Hooges, in Oct. 1647, and appears among those who took the oath of fealty, Nov. 28, 1651. Feb. 19, 1655, he sold to Adriaen Jansz, from Leyden, a house, brewhouse, pigpen and fence, which he had acquired from Juriaen Teunisz on Feb. 1, 1655, and which formerly belonged to Jacob Hevick. March 18, 1649, Cornelis Segersz engaged a boy of Thomas Coningh to help him in the harvest. Thomas Coningh is doubtless the same person as tomas de Coninc, who married Marritjen Frans, from Beets, [province of Friesland], at New Amsterdam, Sept. 22, 1639.

Simon de Groot; April 10, 1647, Jan Michielsz is credited with f28, paid to Simon de Groot for work done at the farm called de Vlackte. He is probably the same person as Symon Symonsz Groot, who went to the Esopus in 1662.

Marten Harmensz; received a lot in the byeenwooning (village) and agreed not to trade with private traders, Jan. 12, 1651. He is perhaps the same person as Marten de metselaer (the mason), who is mentioned as early as May 25, 1647.

Claes Kalf [Claes Jansz Calff]; appears to have been in the colony about 1647, when de Hooges charges his boy Mathaeus with two pairs of shoes from Claes Kalf. He was a son in law of Brant Peelen.

1648

Jan Andriesz, from Dublin; testified Jan. 20, 1651, as to the killing of a cow and a horse of Thomas Chambers by the Indians in 1648 and 1649. He received a lease of a new farm, to be established north of de Steene hoeck, for the term of 6 years, beginning Sept. 1, 1649, but Dec. 21, 1649, the lease was transferred to Claes Tennisz. In 1656, he lived at Catskill and Feb. 20, 1659, a farm at Catskill, sold by him to Jan Dirksz, from Bremen, was conveyed by the latter to Eldert Gerbertsz Cruyf.

Gijsbert Cornelisz, from Breuckelen, [near Utrecht]; farmer on the farm called de Hoogeberch, hence frequently referred to as Gijsbert Cornelisz van den Hoogenberch, op den Hoogenberch, or aen den Berch. He is charged in the accounts of the colony with an annual rent of f300 from 1648 to 1653, and with an annual rent of f350 and tithes from May 1, 1653, to May 1, 1675.

Aert Jacobsz; occupied, apparently as early as 1648, a farm at Bethlehem which was destroyed by fire before May 1654. He then leased for 12 years a farm in Greenbush, north of Cornelis Hendricksz van Nes. About 1661 he moved to the Esopus.

Cornelis Jansz; is first mentioned in the court records under date of Sept. 9, 1648, in connection with the purchase of a musket belonging to the inventoried effects of the farm formerly used by Crijn Cornelisz. Aug. 2, 1649, Director van Slichtenhorst notified him and other skippers not to transport colonists out of the colony without his consent.

Evert Jansz, tailor; Oct. 13, 1648, the court of Rensselaerswyck granted Evert Jansz Cleermaecker (tailor), living on the island of Manhatans, permission to move to the colony and to exercise his trade, on condition that he build a house at his own expense. Nov. 7, 1651, he obtained a lot next to that of Abraham Pietersz, opposite the garden of Sander Leendertsz, being lot No. 2, on condition that he enter into a contract like other settlers and build a house at least two boards long. He was at New Amsterdam as early as Feb. 1643.

Jacob Jansz, from Stoutenburch, [near Amersfoort, in the province of Utrecht]; is mentioned in the court proceedings as farmer on de Vlackte under date of June 18, 1648, though Jan Thomasz' contract as farmer was not ended by van Slichtenhorst till March 25, 1649. May 5, 1649, he took over the lease of the farm on the terms granted to Arent van Curler, in Holland, Sept. 30, 1647, with property valued at f1426.

Paulus Jansz, referred to as Paulus Jansz Noorman and Poulus de Noorman; was wounded by Jacob Lambertsz van Dorlandt in 1648, and by Jacob Jansz Flodder in 1650.

Pieter Jansz, from Hoorn [province of North Holland]; also referred to as Pieter Jansz de Boer, and Pieter de Boer (the farmer); is first mentioned under date of Dec. 17, 1648, when Hans Vos is ordered to serve him for four months according to contract. He was still in Rensselaerswyck in 1666.

Jan Louwrensz, also referred to as Jan Louwrensz Appel; appears first in the colony under date of Oct. 12, 1648, as surety for Michiel Jansz. It is not unlikely that he was a relative of Adriaen Jansz, from Leyden, alias Appel.

Geertje Nannincks (Mannix, Nanninx); came with her son and little daughter by den Coninck David, in 1641. She was the widow of Tjerck Hendricksz and married, Dec. 28, 1641, at New Amsterdam, Abel Reddenhasen; July 21, 1646, also at New Amsterdam, Claes Jansz Rust; and about 1648, apparently in the colony of Rensselaerswyck, Willem Fredericksz [Bout]. She is charged in the accounts of the colony, under date of 1642, with f142:6 for board of herself and two children on den Coninck David, which amount is transferred to the account of her husband Willem Fredericksz between 1648 and 1651.

Evert Nolden (Noldingh); received permission to establish himself as a schoolmaster by resolution of the court of the colony of April 30, 1648. Nov. 16, 1651, he was prosecuted for having crushed Adriaen Dircksz' nose with a pair of fire tongs. He seems to have left the colony in 1660.

Brant Aertsz van Slichtenhorst, from Nykerck, [province of Gelderland]. According to O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 2:69, van Slichtenhorst was appointed director of the colony Nov. 10, 1646, and sailed with his family and servants for Virginia Sept. 26, 1647. The records of the colony show that he arrived March 22, 1648, and held the office of director till July 24, 1652, when he was succeeded by Jan Baptist van Rensselaer. Between June 29, 1651, and July 24, 1652, van Slichtenhorst was most of the time at the Manhatans and J. B. van Rensselaer acted in his stead, for the first two months apparently in conjunction with Capt. Slijter. April 4, 1650, de Hooges complained to the council that Director van Slichtenhorst had thus far rendered no accounts. The director replied that hy wel wat souwde ontfangen dan dat het Antonij de Hooges heeft opgesnapt (that he would have received something if Antonij de Hooges had not gobbled it up). Van Slichtenhorst was still in the colony in July 1655 and lived in Holland in 1660.

Pieter Teunisz, from Brunswijck, [Germany]; is first mentioned under date of March 28, 1648, as having taken farm implements, houses and cattle, formerly used by him and Crijn Cornelisz, with him to Catskill. In 1652 and 1653, Pieter Teunisz and Jan Dircksz, from Bremen, were summoned to appear before the court to settle their accounts.

Paulus Thomasz; testified Feb. 1, 1652, that he, Jan Dircksz, from Bremen, Pieter Teunisz, Compeer and others entered upon lands at Catskill on condition that they be free from taxes for ten years.

Hendrick Jansz Westerkamp (Westercamp); received permission on April 2, 1648, to seek a living in the colony by day labor or otherwise and soon seems to have established himself as a baker. In accordance with a resolution of April 1, 1650, he was granted the garden between the first and second creeks formerly occupied by Capitain [Willem Juriaensz, the baker]. Westerkamp died before Jan. 17, 1655. His widow's name was Femmetje Alberts.

1649

Jacob de Brouwer; received apparently in 1649, permission to build on a hofstee (lot), next to Mr. hogens [de Hooges], for which, from 1650 to 1652, he is charged with a rent of f16 a year.

Egbert Doysz (Dojesz); servant of Sander Leendertsz Glen, mentioned in the court records of the colony under dates of April 3, 1649, and March 22, 1652.

Thomas Fairfax; was employed by Christoffel Davids in 1649 and 1650 and is referred to as a mason and an Englishman.

Huybert, servant of Andries de Vos; was wounded by Poulijntje, in the brewery, in 1649. He may be the same as Huybert Jansz, who is mentioned in the court proceedings under date of Dec. 11, 1651.

Frans Jacobsz; testified in 1649, being then 17 years of age, as to a fight which took place at midnight Oct. 20, 1649, in Greenbush, before the house of Evert Pels. He may be the same as fransoijs jacobsen de bruijn, referred to in an account of 1656, or perhaps as Frans Jacobsz Coningh, who was in the colony in 1657.

Adriaen Jansz, from Leyden; also referred to as Adriaen Janssen van Leijden alias Appel; appears in the records of the colony as early as 1649. Feb. 19, 1655, he bought from Thomas Coningh a house, brewhouse, pigpen and fence which on Feb. 1, 1655, were acquired by Thomas Coningh from Juriaen Teunisz and which had formerly been in the possession of Jacob Hevick. He was a tavern keeper in 1656. From May 1, 1655 to May 1, 1657, he is charged with an annual rent of f24 for a garden, formerly used by Jacob Hendricksz.

Paulus Jansz, from Gorcum [Gorinchem, in the province of South Holland]; testified on Jan. 20, 1651, as to the killing of a horse of Thomas Chambers by the Indians in 1649.

Steven Jansz, master carpenter; moved from the Manhatans to the colony in July 1649 with his wife and daughter, and immediately entered into a contract at wages of f20 a month, which were paid to him for two years. Jan. 18, 1651, he acknowledged that he had tapped beer at his house without license from Director van Slichtenhorst. Feb. 1, 1652, he obtained permission to occupy a lot next to Hendrick Reur, the rent to begin in 1653.

Jacques Meulewels; testified on March 4, 1649, before the court of Rensselaerswyck, that the servant of Sander Leendertsz had gone into the woods with a loaf of bread and brought Indians with six packs of skins to his master's house. No other reference to Meulewels is found and it is doubtful whether he was a colonist.

Aert Otterspoor, also referred to as Aert aerntsz van Otterspoor; was at Bethlehem, in 1649, 1650 and 1651. He came probably from Otterspoor, in the province of Utrecht.

Tijs Pietersz; was ordered, July 31, 1649, to present himself within 24 hours at the house of Director van Slichtenhorst to receive orders where to go according to his contract. The same day, Broer Cornelis was notified not to harbor him.

Jacob Toenijs [Teunisz]; was employed by Jan Verbeeck, presumably as a tailor. Feb. 22, 1649, Director van Slichtenhorst attempted to arrest him in the greenen bos (pine woods), for abusive language to the director and assault on the director's son, but was prevented from doing so by Jacob Adriaensz Rademaecker and Jacob Adriaensz Wagenaer. Jacob Toenij is probably the same as Cobus de smijer (the tailor), who is referred to in 1657, and may also be the same as Jacob Toenisz, from Tuijl, in Gelderland who married Hilletje Toenis, at New Amsterdam, March 29, 1658.

Jan (Johan, Johannes) van Twiller; referred to by Jeremias van Rensselaer as Neeff Jan van Twiller (cousin Jan van Twiller). He was probably a younger brother of Wouter van Twiller, or perhaps, of Aert Goossens van Twiller, who on July 26, 1663, executed in the colony a power of attorney to Mr Peel van Hennekela, schout at Nieukerck, to demand of his brother in law Aert Jansz, shoemaker at Nieukerck, an accounting of the estate of his deceased father Goossen van Twiller and his mother Emmeke. Jan van Twiller was one of the Gecommitteerden (commissioners) in the colony in 1649, and at that time boarded with van Slichtenhorst. From July 24, 1652, to July 24, 1657, he held the office of raedts persoon (councilor), at an annual salary of f50. He probably left the colony in 1657.

Abraham Pietersz Vosburgh (Vosburch, Vosbergen, Vosberghen); was in the colony in August 1649, and from Easter 1651 is charged with f16 a year for a house lot, north of the patroon's house. Sept. 30, 1656, he and Hans Jansz, from Rotterdam, jointly leased a mill on the creek south of the farm occupied by Jan Barentz Wemp, for six years, at f100 a year.

Gerrit (Gerardus) van Wencom; was assaulted by a Mahikan Indian at Bethlehem, Dec. 8, 1649, and Sept. 23, 1650, was chosen to go with others on an embassy to the Maquaes. He was still in the colony in 1653.

1650

Pieter Bronck; was at New Amsterdam in 1643 and would seem to have been a relative of Jonas Bronck, who was probably a Dane. He is charged from 1650 to 1652 with an annual rent of four beavers for a lot in the *bijeenwoning*e (village), on which he received permission to build. Sept. 7, 1651, the court granted him permission to erect a tavern near his house, the director having withdrawn his request that according to instructions from the guardians of the young patroon but two taverns be allowed.

Dirck Jansz [Croon, from Amsterdam]; was a carpenter by trade and, apparently in 1650, built with Harmen Bastiaensz a house in Beverwyck, which was transferred to his name Jan. 25, 1652, on condition that he enter into a contract with the authorities of the colony and pay the patroon's dues. He is entered in the accounts as Dirck jansz timmerman, but is well identified with Dirck Jansz Croon, from Amsterdam, who in 1655 became one of the magistrates of Beverwyck.

Tijs Evertsz; testified on Jan. 12, 1651, as to the insolence of Jacob Lambertsz to Director van Slichtenhorst, Oct. 9, 1650, on the farm called de Hoogeberch.

Wilhelmus Grasmeeer, a son in law of Johannes Megapolensis; sailed from Holland shortly after April 16, 1650, and preached in the colony of Rensselaerswyck in 1650 and 1651. He returned to Holland in Nov. 1651. In the court proceedings of the colony, under date of Aug. 4, 1650, occurs what purports to be an extract from a letter from Wouter van Twiller to Gerrit Vastrick, asking him to enjoin Director van Slichtenhorst not to let Wilhelmus Grasmeeer preach in the colony, because he had been forbidden to preach by the Classis of Alckmaer. The passage was read by Gerrit Vastrick and written down by Antony de Hooges, but was afterwards found not to agree with a copy furnished by Vastrick. Aug. 15, 1650, Vastrick refused to have a certified copy made and the authenticity of the extract was questioned.

Laurens (Louwris) Jansz; lived with his wife Stijntje Pieters on 't goet [farm on the fifth creek?] of Adriaen Huybertsz, in Jan. 1650. The same year a garden was granted to him north of the large garden of Sander Leendertsz, according to resolution of the court, dated April 1, 1650.

Rem (Remmer) Jansz, from Jewerden [Jeveren, or Jever, in Oldenburg], smith; was at New Amsterdam as early as 1638, and in 1643 owned land on Long Island. Early in May 1650, he obtained from the authorities of Rensselaerswyck a lease of a garden adjoining the churchyard, and is referred to as being an Inwoonder int Fort Orangien (inhabitant of Fort Orange).

Lucas Pietersz [Koijemans]; mentioned in the court proceedings of Rensselaerswyck under date of Jan. 1650, and is called the brother of Barent Pietersz [Koijemans], who came in 1639.

Thomas Sandersz (Sanders, Sandersen), from Amsterdam; was an early resident of New Amsterdam and came to the colony about July 13, 1650, when the court granted "tomes Sanders . . . Smith, living at or near the Manhatans," permission to settle in the byeenwooning (village) to support himself by his trade. July 17, 1650, Saertje Cornelis, wife of Thomas Sandersz Smith, testified as to misdeeds of Willem Juriaensz, the baker. Thomas Sanders was a smith and occupied at the Manhatans some time before 1649 the mallesmits berch (crazy smith's hill), which may have derived its name from him (cf. N.Y. Col. Mss., 3:68; 4:235).

Jacob [Jansz] van Schermerhoorn; presumably from Schermerhorn, in the province of North Holland; was in Rensselaerswyck in 1650 and perhaps as early as 1648, Jan Barentsz Wemp being credited between those two dates with the price of 12 lb of nails, paid to labbatie and schermerhoorn.

Philip Pietersz Schuyler. According to O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 2:177, Philip Pietersz Schuyler came from Amsterdam to America in 1650, and married Dec. 22, 1650, Margareta van Slichtenhorst, daughter of the director of Rensselaerswyck. The earliest reference to him in the accounts of the colony is under date of 1652, when he is charged with a small amount for some old boards from the patroon's house. March 25, 1652, he testified that Dyckman had stated "that he [Schuyler] would not have his father in law long, and that he, Dyckman, had written information to that effect"; also that Dyckman had threatened to run him and Robert Vastrick through when, on New Year's day 1652, they tried to prevent the soldiers from beating the son of Director van Slichtenhorst. In the court proceedings, in 1652, the name is spelled Scheuler and Scheuller, in the accounts, after 1655, the usual spellings are Schuijler and Schuyler.

Willem Jansz Stol (Stoll), cooper; is charged from 1650 to 1652 with ground rent of f16 a year for a lot granted to him in May 20, 1650. He married the widow of Claes Hendricksz and moved to the Esopus in 1661.

Jannitgen Tuenisz [Jannetje Teunis]; sailed by den Coninck David and is charged in the accounts of the colony, under date of 1642, with f16:2 for her passage and money in hand paid by patroon. She married at the Manhatans Dec. 22, 1641, Dirck Jansz [Croon], from Amsterdam, and Nov. 6, 1642, was sued by van der Donck for not fulfilling her contract with the patroon. She probably came to the colony with Croon about 1650.

Gerrit Vastrick; was one of the Gecommitteerden (commissioners) of the colony in 1650, and on Aug. 15, 1650, was suspended from his office till he had cleared himself of the accusation of having given out a false statement regarding Domine Wilhelmus Grasmeeer. He was at New Amsterdam as early as July 16, 1644.

Jacob Waelingen, from Hoorn [province of North Holland]; was at New Amsterdam in Jan. 1639 and may have come to Rensselaerswyck at an early date, though his name does not occur till May 12, 1650, when he was about to leave the colony. Efforts were made to retain him by offering him a choice of several farms, but he declined to take any, stating that he had not been able to support his wife and children satisfactorily. Oct. 1, 1650, he received permission to move to the Manhatans. He obtained a patent for land near the Kil van Kol, Oct. 23, 1654, and died before Aug. 17, 1657, when his widow Trijntje Jacobs married Jacob Stoffelsz.

1651

Claes Cornelisz; mentioned in 1652 as the servant and brother of Gijsbert aende berch [Gijsbert Cornelisz, from Breuckelen].

Adriaen Dircksz, van Bil, [from 't Bildt, in Friesland?]. On the complaint of Thomas Chambers that he refused to stay with him and fulfil his contract of March 24, 1651, he was sentenced on Sept. 28, 1651, to two weeks' imprisonment and the payment of expenses incurred by Chambers in hiring another servant during his absence. At the request of friends, he was released on the seventh day on condition that he faithfully perform his service.

Reyer Elbertsz, from Breuckelen, [in the province of Utrecht]; appears with his wife Marritje Baerentsz in the records of the colony under date of Sept. 25, 1651, when they leased a small parcel of land between the third and fourth creeks for eight years, at f25 a year, the lease to run from Easter 1652. Jan. 25, 1652, the court granted him permission to make brick.

Gillis Fonda; about 1646, Pieter Hartgers advanced some money to Gillis, a boy in the service of Antony de Hooges, possibly Gillis Fonda; Oct. 19, 1651, the court gave Gillis Fonda permission to distil liquor in't greenen bos (Greenbush), in a house belonging to Evert Pels, next to the brewery, on condition that he enter into a contract as to the Gerechtigheijt vande Heeren Mrs. (dues to the patroon and codirectors). Gillis Fonda is at a later period commonly referred to as Gillis Douwes Fonda. To judge from his name, he must have been a Frisian.

Albert Gerritsz, carpenter; was at his request granted a lot north of the house of Laurens Jansz, Nov. 7, 1651, the rent to begin at Easter 1652.

Casper Jacobsz; obtained a lease of a hofstede (house lot), in 1651. He was apparently a day laborer.

Adriaen Jansz, schoolmaster; appears first under date of Nov. 23, 1651, when the court, upon his petition, granted him f50 towards the payment of his house rent. He came probably soon after Sept. 9, 1650, when the council of the colony, in response to a petition from the inhabitants for a competent schoolmaster, appointed Arent van Curler and Goossen Gerritsz trustees of a fund to be raised for the building of a school. He was still schoolmaster in Beverwyck in 1657, and may have been the same person as Adriaen Jansz Croon, who Aug. 20, 1660, was about to sail for Holland.

Claes Jansz, from Bockhoven, [near Bois-le-Duc, province of North Brabant]; also referred to as Claes de Braebander. In 1651 and 1652 he was summoned before the court for having, out of spite against Director van Slichtenhorst, caused his servant to haul wood for Hendrick Westerkamp and Lambert van Valckenburch, contrary to ordinances of Oct. 16, 1648, Nov. 23, 1651 and Dec. 18, 1651.

Jacob Simonsz Klomp; appears among those who took the oath of fealty to the patroon on Nov. 28, 1651. Feb. 1, 1652, he was granted a lot next to that of Steeven Jansz, the rent to begin at Easter 1653.

Jacob Luyersz (Luijersz); was in the colony before Oct. 19, 1651, being ordered on that day to fulfil the terms of his contract with Jochem, the baker. March 2, 1652, Claesje, the negro girl of Sander Leendertsz, testified that she had delivered some of the goods which she stole from her master to Jacob Luyersz, who promised to take her to the Manhatans and there get her a husband.

Adriaen Pietersz, from Alckmaer, [province of North Holland]; leased in 1651 a house, north of Fort Orange, which the authorities of the colony and Charles van Bruggen, commis of the fort, had been forced to allow an Indian, named den uijl (the owl) alias stickstigeri, to build, and which, being found a nuisance, was bought of said Indian by Mons'r Labatie with the consent of the court of Rensselaerswyck, Nov. 28, 1650.

Jan Baptist (Johan Baptista) van Rensselaer; was in the colony as early as June 29, 1651, and Oct. 18, 1651, at the earnest solicitation of the court consented to accept the office of Gerechts Persoon (member of the court), in place of Rutger Jacobsz, who had asked to be relieved of his duties. In the accounts he is credited with an annual salary of f1000 as director of the colony, from July 24, 1652, to Sept. 24, 1658, when he left for Holland, and also with f1083:7 for 13 months' salary, from June 29, 1651 to July 24, 1652, when van Slichtenhorst was most of the time at the Manhatans and van Rensselaer acted as director.

Hendrick Jansz Reur, from Munster, [Westphalia]; was appointed Gerechts Boode (court messenger), Aug. 18, 1651, at a salary of f100 per year, in addition to fees for summonses and arrests. Nov. 14, 1658, he complained that his salary was insufficient and the court fixed a rate of fees for serving summonses in the various districts of the colony. Feb. 1, 1652, he obtained permission to occupy a lot next to Juriaen Teunisz, the glazier, the rent to begin at Easter 1653. He died before Feb. 4, 1664, when his household effects were sold at auction.

Captain Slijter (Slijtter); is charged with f114 for 9½ weeks' board for himself and his son, at the house of Director van Slichtenhorst, by order of the codirectors of the colony, from June 27 to Sept. 2, 1651. During this period van Slichtenhorst was at the Manhatans and Capt. Slijter appears to have had the management of the colony in conjunction with Jan Baptist van Rensselaer. July 30, 1651, Capt. Slijter made an agreement with Gijsbert Cornelisz as to the tithes of the farm called de Hoogeberch.

Robbert Vastrick; is first mentioned under date of Jan. 11, 1652, when he became bail for Lucas, the brother in law of Jan Thomasz, and his partner Arijen. March 25, 1652, Philip Pietersz Schuyler and Robbert Vastrick testified as to Dyckman's threatening to run them through with his rapier when on New Year's day 1652 they tried to prevent soldiers from beating the son of Director van Slichtenhorst. He left the colony before Sept. 30, 1657.

Cornelis de Vries; his name occurs but once, under date of Sept. 28, 1651, when Willem Fredericksz asked that he be summoned before the court. He may have been an inhabitant of Fort Orange or a free trader and not a colonist.

Jochem Wesselsz, baker; petitioned, Sept. 28, 1651, for a place in the byeenwooning (village) to support himself by baking and was granted a hofstecde op de kil (house lot on [Rutten?] kill) at an annual payment of f32 for the right to bake and to trade. Jan. 26, 1652, he was ordered to remove within eight days the wood pile and pigsty from the lot of Jan van Hoesen and to refrain from molesting him or his family.

1652

Jan Bastiaensz van Gutsenhoven; the first reference to him in the records of the colony is under date of Feb. 8, 1652, when he testified to Dyckman's appearance in the patroon's court, accompanied by an armed posse. He was apparently engaged in business and in some way seems to have been related to Wouter van Twiller, or to the latter's wife, Maria Momma. He died in the colony between April 3/13, 1666 and July 6/16, 1667.

Gideon Schaets; was engaged as minister of the colony of Rensselaerswyck, May 8, 1652, at an annual salary of f800, for the period of three years from the date of his arrival in the colony (O'Callaghan, History of New Netherland, 2:567-68). In the accounts he is charged with f300, which he received before his departure at Amsterdam; and credited with one year's salary at f800, from July 24, 1652, to July 24, 1653; with two years' salary at f1000 a year, from July 24, 1653, when it was found that Domine Schaets could not well support his swaer huyshouden (expensive household) on f800; and with two years' salary at f1300 a year and house rent, from July 24, 1655, to July 24, 1657, when he became minister of Fort Orange and the village of Beverwyck. He continued as pastor of the Dutch church at Albany till his death, Feb. 27, 1694.

Gerard Swart (Gerret Swardt); entered into a contract to serve as schout, or prosecuting officer, of Rensselaerswyck, at an annual salary of f400, April 24, 1652, and succeeded Brant van Slichtenhorst in that capacity, July 24, 1652. He acted as schout of the colony till 1665, when the courts of Rensselaerswyck and Albany were consolidated and he became sheriff of Albany. According to his contract, Swart was to proceed to the colony with his wife, maid and servant, and to occupy "the house in which the former minister [Megapolensis] lived, standing in 't grenen bosch." The name of Swart's wife was Anthonia van Ryswyck.

Juriaen Teunisz, often referred to as Juriaen de Glasmaecker (the glazier); signs his name Jure Jan tunsen tappen and Jure Jan tunsen van tappen. Jan. 25, 1652, the court of Rensselaerswyck granted him a lot between Gijsbert Cornelisz, the tavern keeper, and the land of Thomas Jansz, the rent to begin at Easter 1652. He kept a tavern in 1659.

Lambert van Valckenburch; reference to him is found in the court proceedings of Rensselaerswyck under date of March 7, 1652, when Claes Jansz, from Bockhoven, is prosecuted for having his helper do some hauling for Lambert van Valckenburch, contrary to the ordinances of Oct. 16, 1648, Nov. 23, 1651, and Dec. 18, 1651. Lambert van Valckenburch was at New Amsterdam as early as Jan. 1644 and received a patent for land there, March 16, 1647. In 1652 he was probably an inhabitant of Fort Orange and not a colonist of Rensselaerswyck.

Pieter Winne (Winnen); also referred to as Pieter de Vlamingh (the Fleming); charged in the accounts with an annual rent of f275 and tithes from stubble time 1652 till May 1, 1655, for a farm, apparently situated at Bethlehem, which on April 10, 1655, was taken over by Eldert Gerbertsz Cruyf; also with two years' rent of a sawmill, at f150 a year; and with two years' hire of two horses for the mill at f60 a year. He made a will, June 1, 1677 (Notarial Papers, 2:11-13, Albany County clerk's office), in which it is stated that he was born in the city of Gent in Vlaenderen and his wife, Tannetie Adams, in the city of Lecuzwaerden in Vrieslandt.

Johan de Hulter; was a participant in the colony of Rensselaerswyck and sailed with his family and a number of free colonists by the Graft, in May 1653 (N.Y.Col.Mss, 11:78). March 7, 1654, he obtained a lease of a farm north of the fifth creek, for which he is charged an annual rent of f275 for four years. In the accounts he is also charged with f900 for the purchase of a tract of land which is not described, but which is probably the land conveyed to his wife by Jan Baptist van Rensselaer, Aug. 24, 1654, upon which she seems to have established a farm, a brickyard and a tile kiln, all of which were sold by her at auction on Nov. 7, 1655. Johan de Hulter was a member of the court of the colony in April 1655 and died before Aug. 7, 1658. Aug. 5, 1660, his widow Johanna, who was a daughter of Johannes de Laet, appears as the wife of Jeronimus Ebbingh.

1654

Eldert Gerbertsz Cruyf (Cruijff, Kruyf), from Hilversum, [in Gooiland, province of North Holland]; also referred to as Eldert de Goijer; is charged from 1654 to 1658 with an annual rent of f400 for [two?] sawmills; from May 1, 1655, to May 1, 1658, with an annual rent of f275 for a farm formerly occupied by Pieter Winne; and from 1658 to 1671, with an annual rent of f100 for a mill, apparently at Bethlehem. Feb. 20, 1659, Jan Dircksz, from Bremen, conveyed to him his farm at Catskill in exchange for a house in Beverwyck. A brother of Eldert Gerbertsz Cruyf, by name of Cornelis Gerbertsz Cruyf, was living at Hilversum in 1661.

Teunis Cornelisz Spitsenberch (Spitsenbergh, Spitsenbergen, Spitsbergh, Spitsberghen, van Spitsbergen); signs his name Teunis Cornelise spitsenberch. He and Barent Pietersz Koijemans are from Dec. 14, 1654, to Dec. 14, 1657, charged with an annual rent of f150 for a mill on the fifth creek, and from Aug. 1, 1657, to Aug. 1, 1658, with f100 for water rights of another mill on the same creek which they were authorized to build on Aug. 3, 1656. Teunis Cornelisz Spitsenberch appears as a member of the court of Rensselaerswyck in 1658, 1660, 1661, and 1664. In 1656 mention is made of a Catrijn jans spitbergen, who may have been his wife.

Jeremias van Rensselaer; sailed from Holland by de Gelderse Blom, Aug. 4, 1654; returned to Holland by den Beer, Oct. 28, 1655, and sailed the second time from Amsterdam by den Otter, shortly after June 14, 1656. He succeeded his brother, Jan Baptist van Rensselaer as director of the colony, Sept. 24, 1658, and held that office till his death in 1674. According to his own statement in a letter to his mother, he married Maria, daughter of Oloff Stevensz van Cortlant, July 12, 1662; in the records of the Reformed Dutch Church of New York, his marriage is entered under date of April 27, 1662.

1655

Pieter Adriaensz, referred to as Pieter Adriaensz alias Soogemackelyck (so easy), and as Pieter Macklick (easy); was one of the tavern keepers in Rensselaerswyck whom the director general and council in 1656 ordered to be arrested and sent to New Amsterdam for refusing to pay the excise.

Dirck van Hamel; succeeded Antony de Hooges as secretary of the colony in Oct. 1655, and served as such till his death on July 2, 1660. June 6, 1660, Jeremias van Rensselaer writes to his brother Jan Baptist van Rensselaer that van Hamel is unfit for the office of secretary and very fond of brandy; that last winter he was for two months unable to attend the meetings of the council; and that since the arrival of his wife he has been very ill, apparently the result of drinking. His wife was Sophia van Wyckersloot; shortly after van Hamel's death she married Anthony Toinel.

Trijntje Claes; mentioned as a servant girl of Jan Baptist van Rensselaer in 1656.

Teunis Jacobsz, from Hamersvelt, [near Amersfoort, province of Utrecht]; entered June 14, 1656, into a contract with Jeremias van Rensselaer, at Amsterdam, Holland, to sail by den Otter, and to do farm work for the term of four years from the date of his arrival in the colony, at f80 a year and board. He is described in the contract as being a boere knecht (farm laborer) and 20 years of age.

1657

Tjerck Claesz; charged in the accounts with f32 for hire of a horse from May 1, 1657, to May 1, 1658.

Frans Jacobsz Coningh (Koningh); charged, May 1, 1658, with f24 for one year's rent of a garden which he took over from Adriaen Jansz Appel.
